FORESEE F. D. R. CABINET SHAKE-UP IN NEAR FUTURE

Francis Biddle Frances Perkins Henry L. Stimson

Robert Patterson James McGranery John G. Winant Charles Fahy Louis Johnson

WHITE HOUSE INTIMATES are predicting that President Roosevelt soon will shake up his cabinet to gain greater strength in his inner council for the final victory drive against Germany and Japan. Attorney General Francis Biddle, it is said, may leave the cabinet this month, presumably to take over a diplomatic post abroad. Solicitor General Charles Fahy and Biddle's special assistant, James P. McGranery, are mentioned as his possible successors. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, it is suggested, may become ambassador to the Court of St. James (Great Britain), succeeded by either Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson or Louis A. Johnson, former undersecretary and ex-national commander of the American Legion. Ambassador to Britain John G. Winant, it was also intimated, may return to take over the post of secretary of labor now held by Miss Frances Perkins, cabinet member since 1933, who may be given a social service post in the international post-war field.

Allies Develop 'Rocket' Plane; Ship Capable of High Speeds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cloaked in high secrecy for years, a new "rocket" plane has emerged from British-American engineering laboratories, capable of extreme speeds at high altitudes without using standard propellers. The disclosure was made yesterday in a joint statement by the U. S. army air forces and the RAF. The plane is powered with jet propulsion engines. No details were given. Jet propulsion is generally considered in aviation circles to be a series of short, sharp explosions on the rocket principle, hurling the plane forward. Aviation authorities have said that today's airplanes have just about reached their limits in speed at close to 500 miles an hour by use of propellers and that the jet propulsion or rocket principle is the next logical step to greater achievement. The Luftwaffe have been reported experimenting with rocket devices on planes to give them additional power on take-offs or higher speed in emergencies. Several hundred flights by the new British-American planes were made without a single mishap and quantity production is just around the corner, the allied air chiefs declared. Research work on the idea started 10 years ago in Great Britain under Group Captain Frank Whittle of the RAF and his preliminary engine ran successfully in 1937. The joint statement issued in Washington by Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, disclosed that the British air ministry placed its first order for a plane using jet propulsion engines with the Gloucester Aircraft company, Ltd. in 1939, the engines to be built by Power Jets, Ltd., in a special factory in England. Captain Whittle was loaned to this company.

"The first successful flight of this aircraft was in May, 1941," said the statement. "The pilot was the late Flight Lieut. P. G. Seyers, chief test pilot of Gloucester Aircraft company, and greatest credit should be given to Group Captain Whittle for the fine performance and for the genius and energy that made it possible."

New Charges Hurlled In Labor Controversy

Paper Claims Official 'Instructed' Marshall To Make Statements

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor weekly newspaper published by a group of railroad unions, asserted yesterday that the high personage widely reported to be Gen. George C. Marshall—who made the New Year's eve statement about the cost of steel and railroad strike threats acted on instructions from someone still higher in the administration. An editorial cartoon pictured James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, as saying to the president, "Listen, boss, I have another bright idea to cripple labor unions."

White House Stunts The headline over the publications news story of the incident was "strangest of propaganda stunts" staged by White House. William Green, AFL president, and others have attributed the statement to Marshall. The personage, who asked to remain anonymous, told newsmen that the strike threats had been put to propaganda use by Germany and had dimmed hopes of anti-Nazi revolts in occupied lands this winter.

Why Marshall?

"Why was General Marshall dragged into the rail wage controversy?" an editorial in Labor asked. "Surely the chief of staff has his hands full preparing for the approaching invasion of northern Europe. Why should the White House prompt this capable soldier to put on false whiskers and make an international 'incident' out of a dispute which could and should have been settled by the president of the United States in 24 hours on perfectly reasonable terms? "Was it because the American people were beginning to ask highly embarrassing questions about the taking over of the railroads? Did the White House desire to avoid giving straightforward answers to those questions, and hope to divert public attention from the main issue by launching the silly tale that the mere mention of a strike in the United States would prolong the conflict in Europe six months?"

Yugoslav Guerrillas Drive Through Nazis In Long Cetina Valley

Street Fighting Still Raging in Banjaluca, Partisan Radio Says

LONDON (AP)—Yugoslav partisans have driven the Germans out of the entire 60-mile long valley of the Cetina river, which flows into the Adriatic sea at Omis, 15 miles below the Nazi-held port of Split, the headquarters of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced yesterday.

Bitter Street Battles

The communique broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio said "bitter street battles" were continuing in Banja Luka, the Croatian base of the second German tank army. Fighting for the town of Novomesto in Slovenia also is continuing and the partisans declared they had killed 50 German soldiers who had tried to break through their encirclement.

The bulletin asserted that during December the guerrillas had slain more than 600 enemy soldiers in Macedonia, wounded several hundred others, and captured or destroyed large quantities of war material.

Train Derailed

An armored train on the main railway between Zagreb and Belgrade was derailed and the locomotive and seven cars destroyed, the communique said.

Scattered fighting at various points in Bosnia and Hercegovina also was described. A dispatch from Barcelona said recent arrivals from northeastern Italy had corroborated current reports of an unsuccessful revolt by 2,000 Italian soldiers against their German officers at Fiume Dec. 30. The travelers said the Italians had rebelled as they were being loaded into railroad cars routed to Yugoslavia to fight alongside the Germans, but that the outbreak had been quelled by Nazi reinforcements.

Grand Jury to Probe Controversial Letter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department yesterday announced a grand jury investigation of a letter which Presidential Adviser Harry L. Hopkins has decried as a forgery. The letter, bearing Hopkins name, predicts an international "incident" out of a dispute which could and should have been settled by the president of the United States in 24 hours on perfectly reasonable terms. The letter was made public by C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, Ohio, and critic of Willkie. Hopkins, in repudiating the letter, called for an investigation by the FBI. Assistant Attorney General Tom C. Clark, in announcing that the grand jury investigation will begin next week, probably Wednesday, said Sparks had refused to let G-men have the letter for examination.

Reds Capture Rokitno, Kill 3,000; Fifth Army Pushes Germans Back

Allies Smash Defense Of 'Siegfried Line'

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers (AP)—American and British infantry, plunging forward in a new offensive on a 10-mile front in the mountain maze before Cassino, advanced an average of a mile with the first momentum of their assault and are smashing into concrete pillbox defenses guarding the Germans' new Italian "Siegfried Line," headquarters announced yesterday.

All along the rugged front from Venafro to Rocca d'Evandro and astraddle the Via Casilina to Rome the Nazis fiercely resisted the attack which was launched in a cold, driving rain before Wednesday's daybreak.

American doughboys of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army bore the brunt of the assault north of the Via Casilina, while British infantry struck south of that main traffic artery to Cassino and the eternal city, 7 miles beyond.

"The Germans are fighting bitterly for every inch of ground in their customary style, but have been driven back at least a mile in most places," an allied spokesman said. The Nazis poured thousands of rounds of artillery and mortar shells into the advancing allies, and fire blazed from hundreds of enemy machine-gun nests.

An allied officer said the only way to reduce the Germans' concrete pillboxes—the first encountered by allied forces in Italy—was to charge them frontally and peg hand grenades into the gun holes, killing the crew. In some cases a single crew was found operating two or three machine-guns covering approaches to the heights.

From noon Wednesday, when the clouds lifted, waves of American A-36 Invader dive-bombers roared low over the front at 300 miles an hour, strafing and bombing the enemy's emplacements and in some instances causing the Germans to scatter wildly.

Violent hand-to-hand fighting was in progress through the ruins of the village of San Vittore, six miles from Cassino, headquarters said, with American troops in possession of approximately half the place. Clark's men first probed into this nest of German resistance a week ago after having flattened it with artillery fire.

Ending a lengthy lull, the renewed drive toward Rome began after a night of torrential rain which bogged the front and multiplied the difficulties of the foot soldiers. The many mountain streams again were at flood level.

The British centered their attack at a point just west of Rocca d'Evandro, where the Garigliano river bends westward, and in their first rush bagged 47 Nazi prisoners, most of them youth of about 20.

Canadian forces on the Adriatic coast consolidated their positions on "point 59," an elevated strongpoint about three miles north of Ortona, from which they evicted the Germans Tuesday night in a stiff fight that cost the enemy many dead, 19 prisoners and all their weapons and equipment.

Germans Slay 1,000 Greeks; Guerrillas Win

CAIRO (AP)—Mass machine-gun slaughter of more than 1,000 Greek townspeople by the Germans was charged yesterday by the exiled Greek government in a statement that also told of new guerrilla successes against the Nazis, including one battle that cost the enemy 600 casualties.

The Greek announcement said that in the town of Kalavrita on the Peloponnese the Germans assembled all males over 12 years of age "to listen to a speech" and then cut them down with machine guns. Women and children of the town were concentrated in a school which was burned, it said.

The German soldiers then looted the town's houses and destroyed the ancient convents of Mega Spileon and Agia Lavra, mistreating 15 monks and throwing them into a ravine, the exiled government reported. In the northern Peloponnese, guerrillas were declared to have derailed a German supply train and blown up a bridge between Katerini and Ayios Demetrios.

RAF Outflights Nazis To Bombard Stettin, Vital Baltic Seaport

Mosquito Force Jabs At Berlin; Germans Down Few Bombers

LONDON (AP)—The RAF flouted the Germans out of position Wednesday night by sending a light force of Mosquito bombers to jab at ruined Berlin 15 minutes before the main force of giant Lancasters and Halifaxes arrived over the Baltic port of Stettin, 75 miles to the northeast, and slammed it with more than 1,000 tons of bombs.

Fall for Scheme

The air ministry disclosed that the Germans fell for the scheme, rushing their fighter packs to protect what is left of Berlin and leaving the route wide open for the heavy bombers to get through to Stettin. The city is one of the chief supply centers for German armies on the Leningrad and Finnish fronts.

The bombs, falling through a clear, moonlit sky, left broad areas of Stettin aflame. Tail gunners reported that en route home they could see the fires merging in a red glow visible a half-hour's flight away.

Berlin First

"Judging from what happened," said one RAF station commander, "the Germans have become so rattled that whenever our bombers approach, Berlin comes first and the rest of the country is a long, long way behind."

The air ministry itself said the Germans seemed hopelessly confused by the Mosquito stab at the capital since the route taken by the main force was such that at almost any point it could have been directed at Berlin.

"When we turned we could see a long line of fighter flares stretching 50 miles ahead, toward Berlin," one pilot reported. "There were no flares on our course to Stettin."

The German fighters came racing to Stettin just as the last bombs were dropped.

Film Actor Returns From Military Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Film Actor Frederic March, who returned yesterday from a 33,000-mile tour of military camps abroad, was prohibited by an army public relations officer from discussing with interviewers the opinions of soldiers concerning strikes on the home front. The officer, Capt. Fred Driver, was stationed at the press conference in USO-camp show headquarters to give army clearance to any statement March and Comedian Sammy Walsh made about their 14-weeks trip over five continents.

Russians Sweep 10 Miles Into Old Poland; Plunge Southward to Warsaw

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The Red army swept 10 miles into old Poland yesterday with the capture of Rokitno, killed 3,000 more of the enemy's retreating troops, and also plunged southward to within 39 miles of the Warsaw rail lifeline to the German Dnieper bend army.

Berlin intimated early today that part of Germany's huge Dnieper bend army, estimated at between 500,000 and 750,000, already was fighting for its life against a Soviet pincer movement by the Red armies of Generals Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev.

A Moscow communique last night announced the capture of Rokitno in a fanwise sweep by General Vatutin's army, which Berlin said numbered 750,000 men besides "the reserves that still are moving up."

But Berlin broadcasts said the Soviet army pushing toward central Poland mostly was "marking time." Axis commentators were far more concerned, it appeared, with the massive swing southward toward Rumania and southeastward into the Dnieper bend.

German broadcasts recorded by The Associated Press frankly said that General Vatutin's forces plunging beyond Belaya Tserkov toward the Cherkassy sector now were being aided by "a new major offensive" begun by General Konev's second Ukraine army inside the Dnieper bend.

A 65-mile gap separates the two Russian armies, and Berlin said the Germans in the upper part of the Dnieper bend now were being hit from both the east and west. Axis broadcasts also reflected alarm over the rapid Soviet progress toward the Warsaw-Odessa railway in the sector above Zhermerinka. Seizure of that rear supply artery might bring disaster to all the German forces in southern Russia.

A midnight Moscow bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor from a broadcast said "advancing Soviet units are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy" in describing the accelerated drives into old Poland and toward Rumania, and the wheeling movement back into the Dnieper bend.

Eighty-three German tanks, 81 guns, 200 mortars, 175 trucks and 180 cars were declared destroyed in the day's fighting, and 16 armored cars, 63 guns, 1,000 rifles, 120 machine-guns, and eight ammunition dumps were captured. "A considerable number of prisoners was taken" also, the communique said.

On the front above Nevel another Soviet army captured "advantageous positions" in its offensive north and west toward the Baltic states, and west of Propoisk on the White Russian front a raid by a Red army ski battalion resulted in the killing of many staff officers at the headquarters of a German infantry division, the bulletin said.

In taking Rokitno inside old Poland, the Russians under General Vatutin drove 17 miles along the Kiev-Warsaw railway from Olevsk, a town on the Russian side of the old frontier which fell Monday. The immediate Soviet goal in this thrust was Sarney, only 25 miles away. Sarney is a junction on the north-south Vilna-Rowne line.

Although Moscow dispatches on Monday had announced that Soviet spearheads were across the former frontier in the lower Pripiet marshes, this was the first time a communique mentioned a specific locality.

Administration Plans Lower Food Prices For Needy Families

W. F. A. Endorses New Stamp Measure; Bill Sent to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war food administration yesterday endorsed a food stamp plan to give low-income families food at cheaper prices, but only as a supplement to President Roosevelt's price stabilization program embracing subsidies to keep retail food costs down.

Assistant War Food Administrator Grover B. Hill told reporters yesterday that WFA believed it would be desirable to set up a stamp program along the general lines proposed in a bill by Senator Aiken (R-Vt.).

Adoption of such a plan, Hill remarked, "should not be regarded in any way as a substitute for the administration's price stabilization program. We believe it is clear that the program authorized by this bill would not prevent increases in food prices. On the other hand, it would at least partly compensate low-income families for recent or prospective price increases."

Earlier, the senate agriculture committee made public a letter from Hill estimating the cost of the program as outlined in the Aiken bill at $3,000,000 a year if all eligible families participated.

Food subsidy programs now in operation and others contemplated would cost about $1,000,000,000 more.

Under the stamp plan, eligible consumers would receive stamps from the government entitling purchases of designated foods at cut rate prices. The government would redeem the stamps from food distributors. The plan was used before the war to encourage consumption of surplus foods by low-income groups.

The farm bloc is supporting the Aiken bill as a substitute for the government's food subsidy program. The measure, however, would prohibit subsidy payments and Hill, in his letter to the senate committee, declared this provision was not in accord with the president's stabilization program.

Lady Liquor Store 'Complete Success'

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—A liquor store for women only, possibly the first of its kind in the nation, proved itself "a complete success," to state beverage board officials in just two days, despite the usual "shopping around" proclivities of the feminine customers. J. B. Bransford, superintendent of the seven state liquor stores in this war-booming port, said the idea of a store exclusively for the feminine trade had been under consideration for several months.

RUSSIANS HIT HIGHROAD TO GERMAN CAPITAL

FIRST ALLIED STEPS on the road to Berlin have been taken by onrushing Soviet troops that have crossed the old Polish border and are heading toward Warsaw, capital of Poland. When Anglo-American forces, supported by troops of governments-in-exile, land in the west, the vise finally will start to close on the Nazis. Soviet forces are advancing toward Rumania, too.

Lend-Lease Playing Strategic Role In Russian Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday credited Lend-Lease equipment from the United States with playing a major role in the savage Red army offensive which is hurling the Germans out of Russia, and in the devastation of German war centers from the skies. It will be an equally big factor in the Anglo-American plunge into Europe in this year of "decisive actions," the president told congress in his 13th report on Lend-Lease since the program was started in March, 1941. In 33 months, to Dec. 1, 1943, Lend-Lease aid to the allies has totalled $18,608,000,000 the report shows, reaching its peak last August, and tapering off somewhat since.

Walter Lippmann Speaking—

In the Service of Freedom

Walter Lippmann holds an enviable position among ranking newspaper columnists. He is respected by almost every thoughtful American. His opinions are admittedly based on knowledge gathered through years of study and thought about many phases of national and world affairs. The following excerpts from a recent address by him are worthwhile reading, if for no other reason, because Lippmann is one of the wisest and most far-seeing men on the contemporary American scene.—S. McK.

... We were born in an age when for more than a century the essential rights of man, the principle of the supremacy of law over arbitrary force, had been acknowledged and established in a very large portion of the world. We were not born under the yoke of tyrants. We came naturally and as a matter of course into the inheritance of freedom within which, as free men, we had the power and right to shape our destiny

It is a poignant fact, and much the most significant fact with which we have to square ourselves, that we have seen great nations renounce freedom after they have won it. We have seen peoples in the profoundest doubt whether their historic freedom was in fact worth preserving, we have seen great nations apathetic, indifferent, unconcerned, as long as their own freedom was not directly and immediately assaulted.

Yet we have always said that freedom was indispensable to life itself; give us liberty, we repeat, or give us death. But here we are, members of a generation which had that freedom which our ancestors won for us, and we find that millions of men thought they preferred other things to freedom and many more millions were unable, unwilling, or unprepared to defend and preserve it. We must take this to heart, I submit, or we shall not have learned the hard lessons of our bitter experience.

The tyrants of our age were able to seize their power from the peoples themselves. Their tyrannies have been built upon the ruins of liberal democratic states, and they took their power from, and they were given their power by, nations which had already won the right to govern themselves.

This is the fact for which the disciples of freedom have to make themselves responsible and accountable to the judgment of posterity. Let us never for a moment forget it. Let us remember it now when we have come to the climax of this great struggle, when with infinite pain and trouble throughout the world men have at last learned again the infinite value of liberty and have risen in their might to recover it and to restore it.

As we remember it, let us realize that the destruction of tyrants can and in itself alone liberate men from oppression and from evil, but it does not make men truly free. Men who have been freed are not yet free men. They are only men who have been freed, men with the chance to be free, but only the chance

What in the last analysis is the cause why peoples, nominally free to govern themselves, have allowed themselves to be governed by creatures like Mussolini and Hitler? In the last analysis the cause is that they had not learned to govern themselves, did not know how to govern themselves, and had not the will

News Behind the News

Hitler's Strategy Has Nazis In Difficulty Again

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—It was Hitler's personal strategy again—his alone—which got the Nazi armies in Russia into their present precarious position.

An order was sent from Der Intuitive Fuehrer to the commander-in-chief of the southern armies weeks back to hold the advance positions at the southern end of the line around Krivoi Rog at all costs. The decision had to be Hitler's rather than his generals' because it was based largely on political considerations in defiance of soundest military strategy. If the Russians came close to Rumania, the Nazis could expect unrest or open revolts through the Balkans where suppressed oppositions would be drawn from their holes to battle again as the Russians approached.

North of that area he sought to protect the flank of his daring Krivoi Rog armies by a decisive counter-attack on Kiev. As previously told, he left buildings standing in Kiev and demolished little of the central portion of the city, so confident was he that he could recapture and occupy it through the winter. His counter-attack failed halfway to his goal, after six weeks of tremendous effort. Indeed, only two days ago the communiques showed the presence of large numbers of tanks in the area where he was still trying futilely to redeem his counter-attack.

The Reds, however, poured in upon his forces west of Kiev in the most decisive action since Stalingrad. Perhaps the size of the forces involved there has been over-estimated. Instead of having 22 divisions at that one spot, the Nazis may have little more than that strung out all the way from the Priepet marshes to the Dnieper tip in the Krivoi Rog area. The million-man Red army probably covers the same extensive area.

But as the collapse of one single misplaced board may cause an entire house to tumble, his Kiev sector defeat soon endangered the whole front, particularly the Krivoi Rog armies. The smartly led Reds did not try to push the Kiev counter-offensive straight back into Poland, but directed their main drive southwestward toward the rear of those southern Nazi armies to cut them off.

Tuesday, the southern commander-in-chief of the Nazi armies called a headquarters meeting of all his generals to ponder the danger into which Hitler's strategy had placed him. Behind him, he could see no good defensive position where he might dig in east of the Dniester river 200 miles back on the Rumania border (the Bug river not being suitable to strong defense). Unless he could get his armies back there before the Reds arrived from the north, he was lost—his lines all the way up from the Black sea being reported very thinly held.

Another grand Nazi retreat, therefore, seemed in the making, but it is doubtful that it could be accompanied by the same excuse as last time—a "shortening of the lines," to be held by fewer men. Today, after all the Nazi retreats of the past few months, their line is actually longer than when they started.

Hitler extracted himself from a similar desperate position after Stalingrad by sacrificing one of his armies whole in order that others might escape. It will be more difficult to buy himself off from retreat again even at such a high cost because he is not as strong as then, and even if he does, he will be back nearer the Rumanian borders, a position he feared most—so dangerous politically that he risked the entrapment now at hand and personally ordered his southern army to stay at its advance position.

Only at the far northern end of the line have the Germans been able to present several strong points to delay the Russians. The promised Red drive to the Baltic is not likely to develop for some time until these strong points can be reduced.

to govern themselves. It is upon the weakness of the free peoples that the modern tyrants have built their power.

The downfall of the tyrants will not, therefore, make men capable of freedom. That remains to be achieved in the days to come. It will be achieved only if the terror and suffering of this tremendous ordeal have taught enough men that the future of freedom will not be assured on the battlefields nor in the council chambers. . . . What men make of that opportunity will be determined in the quiet places where men think and set the modes by which men think, in the schools, in the places of meditation and of worship, in the homes where children receive the forms of their conduct and their impulses, in the gatherings where men meet and discuss their affairs.

That is where it will be determined whether the liberties we are defending, and that we shall recover and restore, are to become the habit of men's lives, or to be merely an absence of restraint, an invitation to appetite, a license to be vain and greedy and foolish until new tyrants rise to rule peoples who have not learned how to rule themselves.

The tremendous experience of the wars and revolutions of our times have taught me. . . that as freedom is infinitely precious it is infinitely difficult. It has taught me never to despair at the difficulty and never to deny how immense is the difficulty. The cause of freedom, which is the short name for the whole struggle of man out of barbarism, is not cheap and it is not easy. That struggle began long ago. It will go on long after we are dead and have been forgotten. We can only serve it humbly, in the knowledge that our lives have meaning only in so far as we have served it at all.

Higher Education A la M-G-M

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—I'm pretty sure that there is actually no dear old Victoria college, but I'm positive it's the place to go when you're looking for some book-learning. It used to be a girls' school, but Red Skelton crashed the campus and opened the way for other admirers of Esther Williams, so there we were, standing around and gaping at higher education as M-G-M would have it.

Victoria college was having its big spring festival, by coincidence (maybe because Esther Williams is a swimming star) a water ballet. The campus swimming pool, just one size smaller than Lake Erie, had been transformed into a modest, in a mammoth way, outdoor theater. Just a simple student enterprise financed by the nickels and dimes of the campus girls with a half-million-dollar assist from M-G-M.

They had tall white columns dripping with pink lilies, and across the pool a platform dripping with "glamozons" in multi-colored showgirl finery, all dry. Then out of the floor came a couple of taffy-shining sea horses bearing our Miss Williams, dripping with white veils. Miss Williams then shed the veils, and stood like a water goddess in a white swimsuit studded with mirrors. She walked to the edge of the pool, dived in, and led a water chorus of flower-tipped ballet swimmers in a liquid dance.

That was all, with a few minor difficulties that took all day and part of the next, and might be going on yet for all I know. To photograph this scene in color—it's the grand finale of "Mr. Coed"—Director George Sidney was riding high, low and handsome on a moving (up, down, and back and forth) elevator platform.

The flowery water babes, water-logged, trod water awaiting their cues. Our Miss Williams, her mirrors shining, got ready to ride her sea horses.

"I've a splitting headache," she said. Her water hair-do was skintight, braided, stuck with pins holding her crown of waxen blossoms and white shells.

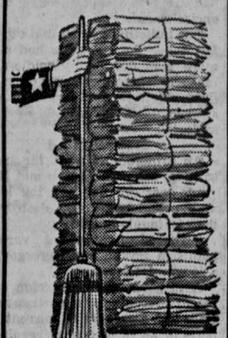

Sidney and camera zoomed forward over the water on their platform. Our Esther and sea-horses rose gracefully, Esther shed her veils, stood poised at the water's edge, dived, circled, and somebody yelled "Cut!"

So the whole thing—including the waiting—began again. Esther had two more mirror-studded swimsuits in reserve, no more.

"It's a great shot," said George Sidney, "even if we don't get it!"

Washington in Wartime

Boulware—Nation's Top Bottleneck Buster

By HOWARD FLEGGER

WASHINGTON—The way to break a bottleneck is to widen the neck of the bottle. The formula—not the words—comes from Lemuel R. Boulware, a strapping, plain-talking business executive who has taken on the nation's No. 1 bottleneck busting job without making any noise about it.

Boulware is the war production board's new operations chief, the man who has to get fighting equipment out in the time and quantity it's needed. Newspaper readers hardly know his name, but he's been widening the necks of production bottlenecks since early 1942, when he came to Washington from a top job with the Celotex corporation. Before that he bossed Carrier Air Conditioning corporation.

The thing in the bottleneck business is knowing who can make what, and seeing that he makes it. But the job isn't that simple. For example, one big war production job involves thousands of contractors, each making a vital part of the finished product. Boulware and his staff know the capacity and contract obligations of every plant involved.

Here's what causes a bottleneck: A manufacturer is asked for so many parts. He says he can't do it because of other contracts or something. Here's what happen to it: WPB men visit the plant, help it get started on part of the job, spread the rest to other plants as far as they can. When the worst comes—all production sewed up and still a lag in one item—WPB has its seldom-used authority to shunt

6 University of Iowa Graduates, Former Students Announce Weddings, Engagements

Word has been received of the recent engagements and marriages of six graduates and former students of the University of Iowa.

O'Bryon-Johnson
Before an altar banked with palms and lighted candelabra, Margaret Anne O'Bryon, daughter of Mrs. M. M. O'Bryon of Marshalltown, became the bride of Ens. Clarence Richard Johnson, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Johnson of Davenport. Chaplain R. J. Hawkins performed the single ring ceremony in the navy chapel in Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.

Ensign and Mrs. Johnson are graduates of Marshalltown high school. The former was graduated from Marshalltown junior college and the latter recently completed her sophomore year at the University of Iowa.

The couple will be at home in Washington, D. C.

Schmidt-Dillinger
In a candlelight service Marion Schmidt of Omaha, Nebr., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Schmidt of Avoca, became the bride of Lieut. John L. Dillinger, son of Mrs. John L. Dillinger, also of Avoca, Dec. 12 in the Congregational church of that town. The Rev. Iyan Bachtel officiated at the single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Dillinger is a graduate of business school in Des Moines and attended the University of Iowa. Prior to her marriage she was employed by the Inter-State Transit company in Omaha.

Lieutenant Dillinger is a graduate of the University of Iowa, receiving his M.D. degree in 1940. Later he was employed as an actuary in the department of statistics by the Metropolitan Insurance company of New York City. He is now serving with a Flying Fortress bombing group in Coral Gables, Fla., where the couple will reside.

Bonnell-Miller
In a candle light ceremony, Elizabeth Bonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Bonnell of Eldridge, became the bride of Corp. Marion R. Miller of Ft. Benning, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Miller of Anita, Dec. 24. The Rev. Clinton J. Frank performed the ceremony in the Bonnell home.

The bride is a graduate of Davenport high school and the University of Iowa.

She is at present teaching in Keokuk.

The bridegroom, a graduate of the Anita high school and the University of Iowa, is stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Corporal Miller has returned to Ft. Benning and Mrs. Miller to her position in Keokuk.

Morgan-Vandagriff
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Annette Louise Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alford Morgan of Mt. Pleasant, to J. Earl Vandagriff Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Vandagriff, also of Mt. Pleasant, Dec. 26, at the First Methodist church in Mt. Pleasant. The Rev. George Hunt read the wedding service.

Mrs. Vandagriff attended Iowa Wesleyan college and was affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She later took a special commercial course in Iowa City.

Mr. Vandagriff also attended Iowa Wesleyan college and was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He later attended the University of Iowa. The couple will live in Vancouver, Wash.

Carstensen-French
Elda Carstensen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Carstensen, was married to Robert French Dec. 1 in Linn Grove, Calif. The Rev. Milo Jumison officiated.

Mrs. French is a graduate of Linn Grove high school and the school of nursing at the University of Iowa, after which she was employed on the University hospital staff as X-ray technician. Mr. French was graduated from Ft. Wayne, Ind., high school and recently from the University of Iowa in the college of engineering. He is now employed by Douglas Aircraft in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. French will reside in Los Angeles.

Krogh-List
The marriage of Eleanor Jane Krogh to John J. List took place in St. John's church in Omaha, Nebr., Dec. 30. The Rev. Gene Malanay officiated.

The bride is a former student of the art department at the University of Iowa and is now serving with the WAVES. The bridegroom is chief aircraft communicator at Hayes Center, Nebr.

Mr. and Mrs. List are spending a two week honeymoon in the east.

Hawkeyes-Minnesota Clash in Big Ten Opener

Iowa Defends Perfect Score; Gophers Tough

Perfect record Iowa, its players primed to prove that they really have something to surprise the league, opens its conference basketball schedule this evening in the first of two successive games with Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Coach "Pops" Harrison yesterday took a 10-man squad to the northern city to meet a Gopher team which has won four of six non-conference games. Last-minute arrangements have been made for WSUI to broadcast both games, beginning at 8 p. m.

"If we played at Iowa City, I think we would win handily. But on the Minnesota court, where Iowa has lost eight of the last ten games, I don't know how the team will react," Coach Harrison said.

Iowa has played all of its four warm-up games at home, averaging 62 1/2 points to opponents' 29. Minnesota stayed at home for five of its games.

Hawks Taller
A definite height advantage will rest with Iowa, since only one of the Minnesotans is over 6 feet, whereas Iowans average 6-2. Minnesota also will miss a regular forward, Kenny Johnson, who is out with scarlet fever.

Dick Ives, the scoring leader who has averaged 23 1/2 points; and Dave Danner will operate at forwards. Coach Harrison believes that the Minnesota defense will have trouble clamping down on Ives and Danner simultaneously and that if one is stopped the other can score heavily.

Reserves Ready
Smooth-passing Jack Spencer and Ned Postels will be at guard posts, with Lloyd Herwig at center. Reserves Floyd Magnusson, Glen Kremer, Tom Hughes, Jimmie Grafter and Don Walter will be used as much as possible, especially since the team plays on consecutive nights. Formerly the conference games were on Saturday and Monday nights, permitting a longer rest period between contests.

Hialeah Opens 50-Day Meet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The familiar roar "they're off" will startle the Hialeahs in the infield today—and fashionable Hialeah park will have inaugurated a 50-day horse race meeting for which the odds are good.

Seventeen fast stoppers were entered for the opening day feature, the $5,000 added inaugural handicap, as owners of 1,500 thoroughbreds stabled in the Miami area moved quickly to cut in on the richest purses of the winter.

The six-furlong dash shaped up as a sparkling race, with the handicappers giving an advance edge to the blue-blooded Poacher and Jockey Eddie Arcaro.

Wolford farm's double threat of Signator and Adulator drew support also, while other pickers strung along with such horses as Cape Cod, Harvard Square, Roman Sox, Shiny Penny, Old Grad, Putt-there and K.Dorko.

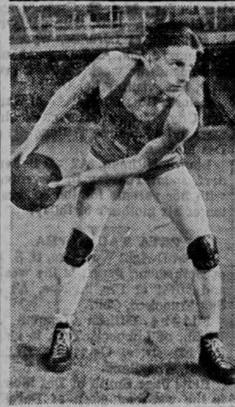

Seeking a fast start after nearly two years of inactivity, Hialeah offered no purse of less than $1,200 for today's eight-race card, and only three heats have a value that low.

The secondary feature, the seven furlong Ft. Dallas park for older horses, is down for $1,700. Fourteen promising youngsters will get their first action under fire in the first race, down the four-furlong nursery course straightaway.

City High to Face Franklin Away Tonight

Team Still Suffers From Flu Attack; Starting Line Uncertain

Still nursing a team of sick basketball players, Coach Fran Merten of City high will pit his cagers against Franklin high at Cedar Rapids tonight in a conference tilt.

Coach Merten's starting lineup is definitely on the unpredictable side, since his two regular forwards, Wayne Lacinia and Gene Matthes have both been on the sick list with the flu this week. While Lacinia will make the trip to Cedar Rapids, Matthes will not even go along.

The only sure positions in the entire lineup are Don Trumpp at one of the guard positions and Don Farnsworth at one of the forward posts. Bill Orr may start in the center position with "Moose" Mellicker, then shifting to guard. In this case either Bob Hein, Don Lay or Bob Hudson will take the other forward spot. The other possible lineup would see Kallous and Trumpp as guards, Mellicker as center, and Farnsworth and Hein as forwards.

Starting with an inexperienced team this fall, Coach Merten has worked the boys into a pretty good looking outfit, but he has been continually hampered by sickness among the members of the squad. Ever since the flu epidemic started, Merten's practices have found players on the sidelines with the flu.

Tonight's game is more or less of a tossup, since Franklin and City high are tied for third place in the Mississippi Valley conference league, both with a standing of 5-0.

In games to date the Little Hawks have triumphed over Washington, West Branch, and McKinley of Cedar Rapids while losing to Muscatine and Davenport. Franklin likewise lost to Davenport and conquered McKinley. In other games played they stopped Roosevelt but lost to Burlington.

Bobby Ruffin Passes Army Induction Test

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby Ruffin, 23-year-old Long Island lightweight, has passed his army induction test and is to report at Ft. Dix on Jan. 26. He will go through with his Jan. 14 scrap with Tippy Larkin in Madison Square Garden but it is doubtful if he will be able to keep his scheduled date with Bummy Davis in the same arena on Feb. 18.

Barley production last year was estimated at more than 426 million bushels.

Wolverines to Meet Wildcats on Home Floor This Evening

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Michigan's rapidly improving basketball team will be seeking tonight to begin its 1944 Big Ten season as it ended last year's campaign—with a victory over powerful Northwestern, currently regarded as one of the top threats for this year's conference title.

Coach Benny Oosterbaan has juggled his lineup with the result that only two of the five men who began the season as regulars will hold starting positions against the Wildcats. After this conference opener, to be played here at 7:30 p. m., Michigan on Saturday night will face Illinois here and in the Whiz Kids Jr., will meet another of the Big Ten favorites.

Oosterbaan's lineup for these two games will include Dave Strack and Tom King at forwards, Elroy Hirsch at center and Dop Lund and John Leddy at the guards. King, Hirsch and Leddy have won the assignments in recent weeks and the present Wolverine quintet looms as the best to represent the university in several years.

Turning this year to the fast break, Oosterbaan has molded a team with excellent speed and scoring punch. Strack and Lund were Michigan regulars a year ago. King is a marine trainee who was on Michigan State's freshman squad last season; Hirsch, football star who as a marine was transferred here from Wisconsin, was an outstanding high school basketball player, and Leddy is a former letterman from Stanford.

No. 1 problem tonight will be to stop Capt. Otto Graham of the Wildcats. In the finale of the 1943 season Michigan beat Northwestern here 53-41, but Graham broke loose for 19 points and for two successive years has been runner-up in the conference individual scoring race. With a better supporting cast this season, a similar performance by the Wildcat star could prove the game's deciding factor.

Michigan's record to date includes three wins and two defeats, both to Western Michigan. The second loss was by a 57-50 margin in overtime. Northwestern also was beaten by Michigan but without Graham in the lineup, and since then the Wildcats have demonstrated their true strength by routing both Notre Dame and Great Lakes.

Illinois, Saturday's opponent, has also beaten Great Lakes as well as a powerful Kentucky team. The Illini have lost to Michigan only once in the last 10 meetings, that by a 47-41 count in 1941.

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Peterson, the fellow who gave billiards a college education, now is giving the sport its basic training at the service camps, and he reports it is standing up well, which is a safe enough statement as you never can tell whether a billiard ball is standing up or lying down.

Peterson is sort of a Joe Kirkwood of the cushions, possessing an amazing assortment of trick shots which he demonstrates in free exhibitions for the service men. Since Pearl Harbor he estimates he has visited 430 camps and given 1,369 shows, and traveled about 95,000 miles to do it.

He's a chipper gent who looks far younger than his 64 years, despite the fact that if he got his noggins too close to a billiard table there might be a little confusion, leaving the idea he might be playing an extra ball. He's quite bald.

He's been poking cues at billiard balls for 45 years, and long ago developed the trick-shot technique which he prefers to straight match play. He makes every shot that is possible to make, and some that seem impossible. He gave up the idea of balancing three balls one on top of another, although he has done it. It took him an hour and three-quarters to get them to sit straight, and he thinks that's a waste of time.

The service men go for the exhibitions in a big way, he says, and he has played to as many as 2,000 at one showing.

"You're going to see a big change in the game after the war," he predicts. "That is, the game will boom. Do you know there are from 10 to 200 billiard and pocket billiard tables in every camp? That means a lot of boys are playing who never played before.

Bookies Give Jack 1 to 3 Rating Over Lulu Constantino

NEW YORK (AP)—Beau (The Jumping) Jack, the Upset Kid of 1943, makes his new year beak-busting bow in Madison Square Garden tonight against Lulu Constantino—and the smart money boys along Bash boulevard won't be too surprised if the appletart gets knocked over again.

And now, the gambling guys make him the 1 to 3 favorite over the curly-haired east side slugger for tonight's party.

Equipment at the camps has improved immensely in the past year, he points out. The first year he played on tables where the ball would hit the cushion and stop as if it had kissed flypaper, and at one camp, when he arrived for the show, a hostess led him to a room and pointed to various parts of a table scattered about.

"There it is," she said innocently. He blurted something about not being able to perform on equipment in such condition.

"Why, I thought you set it up yourself," she explained.

Peterson started his campaign to rid the sport of its pool room taint back in 1931, when he began giving exhibitions at colleges. He continued that crusade until Pearl Harbor, and in 1935 was rewarded by the formation of an intercollegiate billiard league, instituted by Porter Butts at Wisconsin in 1935.

He has played against the best of them in his 45 years in the business, and he considers Willie Hoppe tops in all-around play.

Badgers Looking For First Big Ten Win

Hard Weekend Ahead For Fighting Wisconsin With Wildcats, Illini

MADISON, Wis. (Special)—Wisconsin's hard-fighting basketball team, which lost to highly-touted Illinois, Big Ten cage crown defenders, in a terrific overtime court contest here Monday night, 46-43, has its hands plumb full again this weekend when it takes on the Illini for a second game Friday night and then meets Northwestern Saturday night.

Coach Harold "Bud" Foster and his Badgers travel to Champaign for the second cage tussle of the week with Illinois' Junior Whiz Kids, and then run smack into Capt. Otto Graham and his Wildcat pals in the Chicago stadium Saturday night in the first game of a double header. Mighty De Paul and the University of Chicago quintets meet in the second game.

The Badger basketball team came through the torrid contest with Illinois here last Monday night in good shape and on Tuesday and Wednesday held their only practices of the week in preparation for their invasion of the Illini and Wildcat camps. Coach Foster spent considerable time in the practices correcting mistakes revealed in the first game with the Junior Whiz Kids, and in polishing the Badger offense for an all-out, door-die attack on the two Big Ten rivals this weekend.

Coach Foster was not quite set on his starting lineup for the Illini game, but it will have Smith and Dick at the forwards, Patterson or O'Brien at the center post, and Johnson and Selbo or Wendland at the guards.

From The Sidelines . . .

by Yoke

Well, from here it looks like the boys from Iowa ought to go out there tonight and cover themselves with glory as they down Minnesota. The crystal ball department tells me that they haven't a chance of losing but the Gophers have always been a sort of jinx for the Hawks and usually anything can happen.

The Hawks are much taller, Ned Postels tells me, but he also said the Minnesota lads are fast and handle the ball well and might be able to work around the Iowa height.

Incidentally, watch Postels. In my estimation he is the man who holds the team together. Did you ever notice how he knows just when to slow down and get the boys together when the going is fast and rough? That's the test of a well polished player.

We're going to be on hand at the Minnesota field house tomorrow night to bring you the broadcast of the game from the floor side, so if you can't make it up to the game, (and who can these days) tune in WSUI. (That makes it so that you have to listen or else, doesn't it.)

While I was home for Christmas . . . "you can count on me" . . . I heard a good story about Pops Harrison.

It seems that Pops is one of four brothers who, when they were boys, were considered the neighborhood hellions. His brother Don grew up to become the Director of Athletics at the University of Pittsburgh and was in on the big blow with Jock Sutherland when that university de-emphasized athletics.

Anyway, Mrs. Harrison, his mother, likes to tell about the time when she was standing in the kitchen of their home setting the broken arm of one of the boys who had just fallen off the barn roof. The boy was in quite a bit of pain but not as much as she was when (as she tells it) Laurence, alias Pops, came in, held out his hand and said:

To get back to the basketball team itself, I was talking with someone today and they seemed to think that the Hawks had the Big Ten conference title right in the palm of its collective hand. However, Illinois has a team that is almost as good as their last year's juggernaut which moved down all opposition. Andy Phillips, Illini star of stars, is the only one of the Whiz Kids not to return and with that experience behind them may make the Iowa palm turn into an awfully hard fist to win out.

The boys do have the material to win the conference crown, so let's give them the support they need from the student body. Good Luck Iowa.

Wisconsin to Lose Two Naval Trainees; May Be in Next Game

MADISON, Wis.—When the University of Wisconsin basketball team meets Illinois at Champaign Friday night and Northwestern in the Chicago stadium Saturday night, it may be the last two appearances in Badger uniforms for two navy members of the Wisconsin squad, although one or both of the players might possibly still be on the campus and available for play against Wisconsin's next cage foe, Michigan, in a two-game home series here on Jan. 14 and 15. The two players are center Leland O'Brien, navy radio school student, and Bob Gallagher, navy flyer.

Jess Willard Demands Profits of Movie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jess Willard, former world heavyweight boxing champion, yesterday filed suit against the 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., demanding an accounting of profits from the use of movies made of his title fight with Jack Dempsey in Toledo, Ohio, July 4, 1919.

Willard contends that in 1941 the studio used the film in "The Great American Broadcast" without notification or payment to him of the one-third interest he claims in it.

Prof. Harold McCarty Speaks to League

"Europe is the center of the land hemisphere, while Australia and South America are only important areas in the water hemisphere," Prof. Harold H. McCarty of the college of commerce told members of the Pan American league at a noon luncheon in Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

The fact that Australia and South America have been extremely isolated—that fact that they have become the very "ends of the earth" in the air age—has a direct bearing on the coolness of Argentina, Chile and other South American countries toward the United States, Prof. McCarty believes.

He pointed out that in terms of east-west direction, all of South America lies between the United States and Europe—even though it isn't oriented toward North America.

The climatic factor is an important one. Our relations are best with tropical countries because the best interchange of products are between the United States and tropical countries since southern South America is temperate like the United States.

Professor McCarty said that the topographic factors are the great Andes barrier which isolates the west coast, the Panama canal which separates the two continents, the tropical plains, the low highlands of the east and the differences in soil and living conditions of the peoples of the different regions.

U-High Cagers Face West Liberty Tonight

The U-High Blues, with a record of two games won and one lost, face the West Liberty five here tonight. West Liberty has also won two and dropped one game.

In the games played thus far this year the Blues were strong on the offense with an average of 51 1/3 points per game. However, their defense has put them on the top of the list of allowed points to opponents with an average of 34 2/3 points given opposing offense.

West Liberty thus far has garnered 29 2/3 points a game and allowed opponents 28 1/3.

For a time it was feared that the Blues' guard Wayne Emmons would be unable to play this game, as his semester ends that same day and he would be ineligible. Authorities decided, however, that he would be able to play this last game, and he will go in at the defensive slot.

The Blues lost their only game of the season Dec. 17 when they played Tipton in a close battle. The Tigers gained a lead early in the match and the Blues tried vainly to catch them for the remainder of the encounter.

U-high won her first two games on the home floor, with a 53-32 triumph over Marion and a 58-26 rout of Roosevelt.

Blue Cross Adds Benefits, Eliminates Waiting Periods

The Blue Cross hospital care plan at the University of Iowa has been considered a 75 percent group and enrolled faculty members and employees will be entitled to 30 days hospitalization per year instead of 21, according to a letter received by W. H. Cobb, business manager of the university, from Hospital Service, Inc., of Iowa.

Waiting periods in maternity, tonsils and adenoids cases have been waived, making it possible for subscribers to receive benefits immediately, the letter states.

Regularly, it is not possible for a person to receive coverage for maternity care until her standard or comprehensive contract has been in effect at least nine consecutive months.

In connection with tonsils and adenoids cases there is ordinarily a limitation on the comprehensive contract stating that subscribers may not receive this type of benefit until after ten months of continuous membership. However, because a greater number of university employees signed up for membership, these benefits became available the first of the year.

Under the family contract, in which a great many staff members and employees of the university are enrolled, each member of the family, including children between the ages of 90 days and 18 years, has a right to 30 days' hospitalization during 1944 and each ensuing year of continued contract.

A subscriber who enters the military service may have his hospital service plan contract continued on an inactive status during the period of his active military service, during which time no subscription fees will be payable.

His contract may be revived and placed in full effect within 60 days after he leaves the service by resuming payment from the date of the revival. The wife of a subscriber who goes into the service may continue the contract by applying to the offices of Hospital Service, Inc., of Iowa.

Prof. M. E. Barnes Says Disease to Be Post-War Problem

"The outbreak of a communicable disease in any part of the world will be of direct and immediate importance to citizens of the United States in the postwar world," according to Prof. Milford E. Barnes, head of the department of hygiene and preventative medicine and the university health department.

"The protection from disease offered by distance and travel time will be eliminated in the postwar world. The infected person who can quickly transmit disease will be carried by plane in rapid flight from nation to nation," he continued.

"It is obvious that our existing methods of blocking the transfer of disease will be impotent to cope with problems of this extent and magnitude. Development of public health administrations to meet this situation will be imperative," he said.

He pointed out that air lines declare that no spot on earth is more than 60 hours flying time from the local airport. When air services are organized after the war, it will be possible for persons who are in the incubation period of serious diseases to come to the United States from anywhere in the world before the diseases show themselves.

Among the communicable diseases which could be spread in this way are influenza, acute anterior polio, the pneumonias, bubonic and pneumonic plague, Asiatic cholera, bacillary dysentery, scarlet fever and meningitis.

Lions' President Is Chief Speaker At Joint Meeting

The Iowa City war price and ration board was honored as a service organization at the first of a series of joint meetings of Lions club members, Rotarians and Kiwanians in Hotel Jefferson yesterday noon.

C. Woody Thompson of the Rotary club presided at the luncheon and introduced the guests, Hal Dane and Lieut. Col. Emery Wells of the Kiwanis club; Howard Young, Rotarian, and H. M. Konshok, Des Moines ration representative.

The seven ration board members honored at the meeting were R. J. Phelps, chairman; K. M. Dunlop, R. M. Work, and Ray McCann of the price board; James Records and Will Anderson of the gasoline board, and Henry Willenbrock of the fuel oil panel. Special commendation was given to Secretary Waldo Geiger of the price board.

Principal speaker for the occasion was Harold Saunders, Lions club president. He dedicated his remarks to the unsung heroes of World War II, who in spite of their meritorious work, receive little recognition. The spectacular performances receive the most comment, he said, just as in football, where the backfield gets the publicity while the guard and tackle do the real work.

"The ration program was needed to make materials go around and to insure a steady flow of necessary supplies," Saunders declared. "Equality of sacrifice is vital, for the basic needs of the population must be taken care of."

Saunders pointed out that rationing has been a success in that we have sacrificed only luxuries. "Let's keep in mind that these agencies are new and experimental and are not made up purely of high-salaried employees. Over two-thirds of all people engaged in ration board operations are voluntary workers," he said.

Vest-Pocket Castle, Built by Screen Star, Will Be Exhibited in Methodist Church

The doll house of Colleen Moore, former screen star, will be exhibited between 1:30 and 10 p. m., Jan. 12-22, in the recreation hall of the First Methodist church. Miss Moore has spent nine years assembling this $435,000 miniature castle. It is shown only for charity.

COLLEEN MOORE

The doll house, which is 12 feet high, is built perfectly to scale in all details. It includes 11 rooms and the Aladdin's garden. The house is equipped with running water and electricity. Floors are inlaid with gold and silver. In the library are miniature books, handwritten by famous authors, and the world's smallest Bible.

Special features of the castle are a chandelier of emeralds, diamonds and pearls, with light bulbs the size of a grain of wheat; and a marble-and-gold bathroom with running water; a working radio set three inches high, and an organ which plays.

Persons wishing to give extra time to inspection of the castle may attend a preview showing Jan. 11 from 8 to 10 p. m. Dr. L. L. Dunnington and Mrs. L. G. Lawyer, members of the executive society of the Women's Society of Christian churches of the First Methodist church and members of the official church board will be hosts and hostesses at the preview.

Former Students—Serving the Nation

The air medal was recently awarded to Maj. Charles A. Hulse, of the army air corps, for "exceptionally meritorious conduct" while serving with the sixth air force in Guatemala. Major Hulse received his M.D. degree from the University of Iowa in 1939. Learning of an imminent diphtheria epidemic on a British war ship, a thousand miles off the Pacific coast, he obtained serum from a distant hospital. Hulse secured it in a rubber life raft in the bomb bay of a Liberator bomber and flew it to the ship in time to check the epidemic. He is a member of the medical fraternities—Alpha Omega Alpha and Nu Sigma Nu, as well as Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Tudor, Rochester road, have received word that their son, Pfc. Robert W. Tudor of the marine air corps, has arrived safely overseas. Private Tudor, an aviation machinist's mate, received his training at the naval air base, Norman, Okla., and until recently was stationed at Miramar, San Diego, Calif.

Lieut. Darrell Johnson, who was graduated from the college of dentistry here in 1942, has been assigned to a cruiser and will leave the Great Lakes naval training base, where he has been stationed, the 24th. He is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Hertz, 627 S. Governor street, and recently spent a four-day leave here.

Upon completion of the eight weeks officer training course at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Helen Forrest Lauterer of Iowa City was recently commissioned a second lieutenant in the Women's Army corps.

31 County Assessors Meet for Instruction; Begin Work Monday

Assembled in the office of the county auditor yesterday morning were 31 Johnson county assessors who met for the annual school of instruction. Three new men from Tiffin, Hills and Swisher were among the assessors to receive final instructions and materials for their work, which will begin Monday.

Meeting with the board of review the first Monday in April will be all county assessors except the one who covers Iowa City, who will be here the first Monday in May.

Beginning Monday the officials will assess personal property throughout their districts. Assessments on real estate will be limited to new buildings.

Opinion On and Off Campus

QUESTION: WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE CURRENT WAR MOVIES?

Mary Ellen Coast, secretary: "I think the musical comedies are more amusing. People go to shows to be entertained, but these war pictures don't do much to help morale. The war pictures are pretty tripe."

Marjorie Pohl, university employee: "They're sort of monotonous. Sometimes they present very intelligent information if they're not biased."

Gertrude Shideler, secretary: "I think a lot of it may be propaganda. There are too many war pictures today."

Jean Holt, A1 of Highland Park, Ill.: "I think they're very stirring, and they make us realize what the war's like. They tend to be depressing, but educational. I'd much rather go to a light comedy."

Kenneth Smith, A2 of Moline, Ill.: "I think some of them are O.K., but too many of them are built on the same idea of Dec. 7 and Bataan. I have seen movies where they have used the same calendar for Dec. 7. Most of them are melodramatic."

Mrs. Charles Smith, clerk: "I think they are all right, but there are so many of them. It needs to be put in front of the public what the service boys go through. The pictures are rather exciting."

Jane Cummings, A1 of Decorah: "Some of them, I think, have too much propaganda or are too dramatic. I enjoy seeing them although I know they're not all true."

Bob Arzberger, A1 of Davenport: "Such shows as 'Guadalcanal Dairy' are very impressive. They bring home the truth of what our boys have to endure. There are a lot of pictures that still tend to exaggerate the realities of war such as winning battles and always coming out on top. Such shows as 'Thousands Cheer' are very good."

Dick Baxter, A3 of Mt. Pleasant: "I think on the whole they've done a splendid job of informing the home front what the men on the battlefronts are sacrificing. Judging from what the boys back from the battle zones say, the action of the movies aren't over-played. I can't see that the standard of acting or production has lowered as some people insist it has."

SECOND SEMESTER TUITION DUE

All students enrolled for the semester which began Jan. 3 must pay tuition in full at the treasurer's office before Saturday noon, Jan. 8.

Those who fail to pay their tuition before that date are subject to the payment of a late registration fine which is automatically assessed. The fine is $2 for the first day and $1 for each additional day of delay.

The treasurer's office is open from 8 a. m. to 12 M. and 1 to 5 p. m. today, and until noon Saturday.

Professor to Present His Lecture-Recital On Jewish Music

Prof. A. W. Binder of the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York will present a lecture-recital, "The Jew and His Music," Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

The lecture will consist of a general introduction to Jewish music, a comparison of Jewish and Christian liturgical music, Jewish folksongs and Renaissance of Jewish music in Palestine today.

Professor Binder, choirmaster of the Free Synagogue at Carnegie hall in New York, is regarded as one of the leading figures in the field of composition and interpretation of Jewish music.

His musical composition, "Hachalutism," was premiered under his own direction in Jerusalem and Tel-Aviv in 1931, and played that same year by the Manhattan Symphony orchestra. The Palestine broadcasting company frequently broadcasts his chamber music and songs as do radio stations in this country.

Professor Binder's illustrated lecture on this campus is sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel foundation.

Abram Chasins, Felix Salmond To Appear in Concert Jan. 12

Compositions by Abram Chasins will be featured as part of the program of the Salmond-Chasins concert Wednesday, Jan. 12, at 8 p. m. in Iowa Union. Felix Salmond, cellist, and Chasins, pianist, composer and musical analyst, will also play music by Grieg, Ravel, Chopin and Franck.

Tickets will be available at Iowa Union beginning Monday. Students registered in the university may obtain tickets by presenting their student identification cards at the ticket desk in Iowa Union, and a limited number of reserved seats will be available to the general public.

The concert program includes: "Sonata in A Minor, Opus 36" (Grieg), by both artists, "Piece in the Form of a Habenera" (Ravel), "Nocturne" and "Humoresque" (Chopin) by Salmond, "Impromptu, F sharp" and "Waltz Brillante, A flat" (Chopin) by Chasins, and "Sonata in A Major" (Franck), by both artists.

Grieg's "Sonata in A Minor, Opus 36" was performed by Prof. Philip G. Clapp and Prof. Hans Koebel of the music department at a Grieg anniversary broadcast over WSUI last semester.

Chasins has composed chiefly for piano and is particularly interested in oriental harmony. Among his compositions are "Concerto in F Minor" and "The Parade," which have been performed by symphony orchestras in both the United States and Europe.

Salmond is recognized as one of the greatest living masters of the 'cello, and is also credited with the recent interest in the violoncello as a solo instrument.

Jacob Kaufman Asks Divorce for Cruelty

Jacob E. Kaufman of Iowa City petitioned district court yesterday for a divorce from Mrs. Elizabeth Kaufman on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married Dec. 21, 1942, in Knoxville, Tenn.

High School Display Stresses War Design

War design will be emphasized as a class of entry in the state high school art exhibition to be held March 26 to April 9, Prof. Edna Patzig of the art department has announced.

"Although most of the pieces made by high school students for the war effort have been put to immediate use and many are not available for the exhibition, it is hoped that entries will show the adaptability of the art department in meeting vital needs," Professor Patzig said.

In last year's exhibition 441 pupils from 34 schools entered 654 pieces of work. Because persons cannot travel to the university for a regular art conference, a radio broadcast will be held April 1, with art educators and critics as speakers.

The war design entries will include posters on sale of bonds and stamps, scrap collections, food conservation, victory gardens, Red Cross, charts, diagrams, decorative wall maps and war cartoons.

Other classes of entry are drawing, painting, design, applied design, sculpture, civic art and pictorial photography.
