Congress Reconvenes; Awaits Roosevelt's Message Today

President to Broadcast at 8 Tonight; May Discuss Production Handicaps of Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress went through the motions of reconvening yesterday and then sat back to wait for a presidential message that at noon today will set the session really on its way through a maze of issues complicated by election-year considerations.

President Roosevelt has not recovered sufficiently from the gripe his physician ruled, to deliver his annual "State of the Union" speech in person and it will be read by clerks.

But the president added a note of significance to the arrangements by deciding to broadcast a boiled-down version to the nation at 8 p. m. central war time.

What the message will cover is a matter of speculation, some of it apparently wishful thinking. Possibilities that have been advanced include a home front review that will hit at war production handicaps through strikes,

Count Galeazzo Ciano Sentenced to Death For 'Treason' to Italy

17 Other Members Of Fascist Council Condemned in Trial

LONDON (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's playboy son-in-law and former Italian foreign minister, has been sentenced to death for "treason" to Italy and its deposed dictator, the Berlin radio announced last night.

Ciano and 17 other members of the Grand Fascist council were condemned in a two-day trial by an extraordinary tribunal of Mussolini's revamped Republican Fascist government for voting to oust Mussolini, the broadcast said, quoting a DNB dispatch from northern Italy.

Only five of those sentenced to death are in Fascist hands, among them 76-year-old Marshal Emilio De Bono, who commanded the expedition to Ethiopia. The others are Ciano, Carlo Pareschi, former minister of agriculture; Violivanni Marinelli, former head of the Fascist militia, and a man named Gotthard.

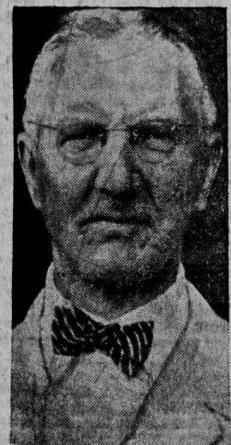

Ciano, whose last job in his father-in-law's government was as ambassador to the Vatican, was placed under arrest by Marshal Badoglio's government but later escaped. The Germans said they then captured him at the Swiss border.

A Swiss dispatch to the News Chronicle said Mussolini's illness prevented him from attending the trials. Ciano, the dispatch said, presented a "written formal defense which was intended rather for posterity than for the court."

A transcript broadcast from Berlin Jan. 7 said Ciano was "kept in a single cell scantily furnished with a bedstead, a table, a few chairs, a wash-stand and a cupboard."

The account said only a few visitors had been allowed to see him.

Peace Maker?

REPORTS that Adolf Hitler may replace Joachim von Ribbentrop with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as foreign minister has aroused speculation that the Nazi fuhrer may be seeking to soften the allies' peace terms. Schacht, famous financier and banker, is well known in London and New York financial circles. It is believed that he might even replace Hitler when Germany quits. (International)

Republican Senators Discuss New Leader

WASHINGTON (AP)—A change in the Republican organization in the senate will be discussed at a minority conference Thursday morning.

Since last November, when Senator McNary of Oregon was stricken with an illness which later necessitated a brain operation, the Republican senators have been without an active titular leader.

When McNary left his seat, he asked Senator White of Maine, the elected secretary of the Republican conference, to take over for a while. White declined yesterday to summon the conferees to discuss matters of general interest.

While it is considered unlikely that any decision will be made to strip McNary permanently of his authority, several stop-gap expedients are under consideration. One would involve creation of the offices of assistant leader of a minority whip. Senators Vandenberg of Michigan, Taft of Ohio and Bridges of New Hampshire are being talked of as stand-ins for the absent McNary.

There is no disagreement on the principle of providing financial help to servicemen and women as they are demobilized, although there are various proposed methods and amounts.

Allied Planes Bomb Capital Of Bulgaria

Yankee Flying Forts Lash Sofia; 5th Army Drives Ahead in Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers (AP)—American Flying Fortresses, operating from great new bases in southern Italy, struck a paralyzing blow at Nazi communications in the Bulgarian capital of Sofia yesterday while the allied Fifth army, its offensive supplemented by tanks, pushed toward the outskirts of Cassino, 70 miles from Rome, threatening that key German defense bastion.

A one-sentence communique announced the Sofia raid, flying only: "A heavy force of Flying Fortresses of the Fifteenth air force bombed Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, about noon yesterday." But headquarters also announced, for the first time, that the big American bombers have moved up to Italy, to positions vastly more favorable for attacking the Balkans and central and southern Europe than the former bases in Africa, 500 or miles farther from German targets.

Dispatches from Lynn Heinzelring, Associated Press correspondent with the Fifteenth air force, then were released, disclosing that the Fortresses and Liberators have been operating from Italy "for weeks and that on Sunday Fortresses, with Lightning cover, set off huge fires and explosions in Pola, Italian port at the tip of the Istrian peninsula.

No further details were available on the air attacks but on the ground the Fifth army, which burst through the German defenses to a depth of two more miles, threw tanks into action on the plain before Cassino as freezing weather hardened the ground.

The extent to which British and American armor could participate in the final assault on Cassino depended on how strongly German artillery was employed on heights on both sides of the Rome road, which runs along the Cassino plain.

The 29th Panzer division, which, with units of the Herman Goering division, was entrusted with the task of defending Cassino against the grinding Fifth army offensive, was taking a heavy mauling. Clark's advance units were nearly halfway through the six-mile zone of fortifications between the village of San Vittore and Cassino.

Freezing weather caused great discomfort to the infantry, but the hardened ground was welcomed by allied armored divisions, which had seen but little action since the Italian rainy season began a short time after Naples was captured. American infantry fighting from peak to peak northeast of Cassino had reached a point where it could look down into the streets of that key communications center. Both infantry and tanks were driving in on the bastion from the front.

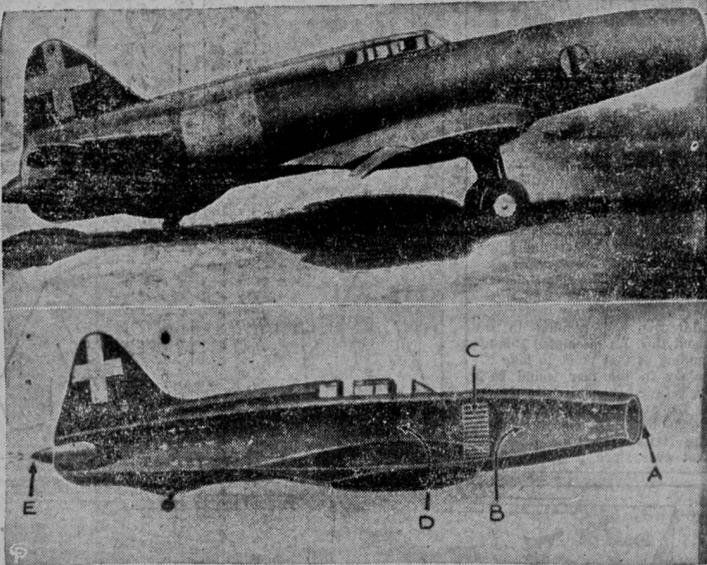

'Election of Republican President Would Shorten War by Months'—Rep. Halleck.

CHICAGO (AP)—Election of a Republican president next November will shorten the war "by months if not years" because it will guarantee America's military leaders home front support "they never have had before," Rep. Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, said last night in an address prepared for delivery to more than 200 GOP leaders.

"I believe with all my heart and mind that a Republican success next November will result in such an acceleration of our war effort abroad and at home that victory, the thing for which we all yearn, will be brought nearer to us by months if not by years."

The convention is expected to be held in Chicago about June 25, approximately the same date as that in 1940 at Philadelphia—June 24. The national committee held a

PREDECESSOR OF NEW ALLIED JET-PROPELLED PLANE

A FORERUNNER OF THE JET-PROPELLED FIGHTER PLANE announced by Great Britain and the United States is the similar jet-driven, propellerless Caproni-Campini, pictured top. It was designed and built for the Italian air force by Secondo Campini in 1941-42 and was reported to be a success. Arrows in diagram indicate how the plane operates. Air enters the plane's nose (A) and is forced into an air expansion chamber (B). From the motor-driven compressor (C) the heated air is propelled backwards along the convergent tunnel (D). With its increased temperature and velocity, the air issues in a jet from the tail (E), propelling the plane forward at high speed.

Allies Raid Jap Bases

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea (AP)—Allied air squadrons roamed the skies from the Dutch Celebes far north of Australia to the Solomons to deliver heavy bomb loads on Japanese bases and barge supply routes, the high command announced yesterday.

Biggest smash was made in the Madang supply and airbase area on the northeast coast of New Guinea, where a total of 168 tons of explosives were laid on Madang itself, the protecting airfield at Alexishafen and Bogadjim, Madang's main southern defense outpost.

American Liberator heavy bombers soared 750 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia, to drop 25 tons on the important enemy base at Kendari, on the east coast of Celebes island. The unescorted bombers downed six and probably four more of 13 intercepting Zeros which waged a 35-minute running battle with the raiders. One American bomber was lost.

There was little change in the ground situation at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, where American marine patrols were operating extensively south of the airfield which was cleared of the enemy 10 days ago.

American casualties including wounded since the Cape Gloucester landing Dec. 26 are less than 15 percent of 2,000 counted Japanese dead, the spokesman said. United States naval units spread destruction among Japanese barges caught off the New Guinea coast, sinking or destroying 11 of the craft, seven of which were loaded with troops and supplies, in a night action off Gali point seven miles below Saidor.

Food Problem Contemplated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate may decide this week whether it wants the United States to take the lead in a joint effort with allied and neutral nations to furnish food to starving people in the Nazi-occupied countries of Europe.

Senator Gillette (D., Iowa) announced he expects to call up shortly for senate consideration a resolution recommending that the state department negotiate with Great Britain, Sweden and Switzerland toward "setting up of systematic and definite relief for all stricken and hungry countries where the need is now the most acute."

Statement About Late Glenn Frank Made Public by C. Nelson Sparks

CHICAGO (AP)—Nelson Sparks, who recently made public a letter he declared was written by Harry Hopkins, predicting the Republican nomination of Wendell Willkie in 1944, last night produced another statement—one he said was written by the late Glenn Frank.

Sparks, author of the book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," a criticism of the 1940 GOP presidential candidate, quoted the statement in an address prepared for the Republican national revival committee.

The former Akron, Ohio, mayor said he was "proud of the opportunity to contribute in my humble way whatever ammunition is available—first, toward the nullification of a self-appointed, internationally-minded trusteeship of the Republican party; second, to prove that this trusteeship, conceived and hatched in the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York, in 1936, and the New Deal party are not only of the same 'breed of cats' but they growl around together, 'under cover' . . .

Then he displayed the statement, which he said was signed by Frank on Sept. 11, 1940—four days before Frank was killed in an automobile accident in Wisconsin—and called attention to its mention of a New York meeting in 1936. Frank was a former president of the University of Wisconsin and at that time chairman of the Republican party's program committee.

Sparks quoted the statement as saying that: "Early in 1936, I responded, as much out of curiosity as anything else, to a peremptory summons to meet with a group of industrial and financial leaders in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York. . . .

"Among the men I faced were Thomas Lamont, Mr. Cochrane, also of the Morgan firm, and Alfred P. Sloan . . .

"They gave me definitely to understand that if they were unsuccessful in '36 (which they knew as well as I did that they would be) then, 'We will pick a candidate from the industrial east.' They did not attempt to conceal the fact that with the 1936 gesture they were ridding themselves of an obligation toward the cornbelt and clearing the way for a 1940 blitz."

Kill 8,000 Germans in Poland; Surge Toward Vital Railroad

LONDON (AP)—The Red army slashed two more German escape railways in the Dnieper bend yesterday, killed 8,000 surrounded Germans beyond captured Kirovograd, and plunged to within 21 miles of the vital Warsaw-Odessa railway in an effort to trap upwards of 500,000 Nazis in southern Russia.

Widening its hold in the eastern section of old Poland the powerful forces under Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin also captured two localities below imperilled Sarny, important rail junction 35 miles inside the former frontier.

A Moscow broadcast communique recorded by the Soviet monitor said another Red army led by Gen. Ivan S. Konev slaughtered the 8,000 Germans—the remnants of an original force of 50,000 or more—when it caught them in a pocket west and northwest of Kirovograd in the Dnieper bend.

The army under Konev was driving west and northwest to effect a junction with the southern arm of Vatutin's forces in an effort to trap a greater segment of Germany's Dnieper bend troops in the Smela-Kanew sectors. The two armies were reported less than 70 miles apart.

Dispatches said Russian spearheads already had reached the Bug river, which is much less of a natural barrier to the Russians than the wide Dnieper which they crossed last fall.

In line with the ambitious Russian effort to block the escape of Germany's Dnieper bend forces, Berlin reported that the Soviets had tried unsuccessfully to land on the Black sea coast between Odessa and the Dnieper river mouth. The Germans said the amphibious attempt failed.

There were rumors that Field Marshal Gen. Fritz Erich von Manstein had been ousted because of his failure to hold the Red avalanche. Von Manstein, conqueror of Sevastopol in 1942, was the man who futilely tried to break the Red army ring of encirclement at Stalingrad last winter when Field Marshal Gen. Friedrich von Paulus's sixth army of 330,000 men was killed or captured.

German propagandists, in the usual language employed to explain reverses, continued to stress the numerical superiority of the Russians who were said to be "attacking ruthlessly, throwing masses into the fray without considering the cost."

General Konev's troops, the Soviet bulletin said, surrounded the remnants of three routed German tank divisions, one motorized division and one infantry division in the sector northwest and west of Kirovograd.

Besides the 8,000 German dead left on the battlefield, Moscow said the Russians captured 90 tanks, 114 guns of various caliber, including 26 self-propelled guns, 124 mortars, 287 machine-guns and other equipment.

General Vatutin's army captured more than 66 places during the day.

Spreading into old Poland they took Berezn0, 22 miles southeast of Sarny, and 25 miles inside Poland. They also seized Ludvopol, 15 miles southeast of Berezn0, and 35 northeast of the important rail junction of Rovno (Rowne).

Channel Coast May Be Quit, Vichy Reports

LONDON Tuesday (AP)—Predicts of the French channel coast departments were reported by the Vichy radio today to have met in Paris to discuss "possible evacuation of the French channel coast, particularly the areas now subjected to heavy air attacks."

"Evacuation of the country districts of the Somme already has been ordered," it was announced. The Somme region is south and west of the Pas De Calais area, the so-called "rocket coast" which has been taking a terrific blasting from British and American planes.

Small formations of Typhoon and Mosquito bombers struck at the French coastal area again yesterday, while Germany appeared to have received another 12-hour respite in the allied heavy bomber offensive which has been halted since Friday.

Yesterday's forays were directed against military objectives with "good bombing results," it was announced. Four allied fighter-bombers failed to return but one Nazi Ju-88 was shot from the skies by a Typhoon fighter while patrolling over Belgium.

The News At a Glance

The plight of German forces clinging to a stretch of the Dnieper river in the Smela region, a short distance below Kiev, became grave yesterday as spearheads of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army swept south to cut one of the last two escape railways left to the Nazis.

The Germans made no apparent move to withdraw from the Smela trap. At least neither the German or Russian communique indicated a large-scale retreat was yet in progress as the first and second Ukrainian armies rapidly converged toward a point below Smela. Another German disaster on the scale of Stalingrad appeared in the making.

Last night's Moscow bulletin reported that the second Ukrainian army, pounding northward from Kirovograd toward Smela, already had trapped and killed more than 8,000 Germans—remnants of five Nazi divisions which previously had been routed and refused to surrender. This Russian force captured the railway station of Kamenka, only 18 miles southeast of Smela.

The Germans said Soviet advance units had passed Sarny, 35 miles inside pre-war Poland, and from Sweden came an unconfirmed report that Field Marshal Fritz von Manstein, conqueror of Sevastopol, had been relieved of command of the routed German forces in the Ukraine.

Cassino, important bastion on the enemy's defense line across Italy, appeared likely to fall any hour before the determined onslaught of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army. Front dispatches said American and British troops had fought nearly halfway through the six-mile web of fortifications guarding the communications center.

Allied tanks were on the Cassino plain, only a few miles south of the city, and the ground at last was frozen solidly enough for Clark to use his armor effectively. American troops occupied heights to the northeast from which they could see into Cassino's streets. Advance British units were southwest of the city, so that it was half-encircled.

The Berlin radio announced that Count Galeazzo Ciano, 40, son-in-law of Mussolini and former Italian foreign minister, had been sentenced to death on a charge of treason, along with 17 other members of the Fascist grand council who voted last July 25 to depose of Mussolini. Thirteen of those convicted were not on hand for the trial, having escaped from the Nazis when Italy collapsed.

1,000 Attend Services For Mrs. Hoover

NEW YORK (AP)—Funeral services attended by more than 1,000 persons were conducted for Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former president, in St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal church here yesterday. Burial was in Palo Alto, Calif.

Mrs. Hoover, who apparently had been in good health, died suddenly of a heart ailment Friday as she was preparing to go to dinner upon returning from a concert. Her husband was with her when she died.

Mr. Hoover and the couple's two sons, Herbert Jr. and Allan, sat with bowed heads during the services.

What About Our Ideals?

Politically, this war is really an international civil war—that is why fifth columnists and treason have played so large a part in it.

That is why some influential Americans, though they do not want to see German armies defeat American armies, nevertheless hope that authoritarian political principles will defeat democratic political principles.

Yet that is what this war is being fought about, and if democratic principles do not triumph this time, it will inevitably be fought again.

Mussolini, Hitler, Franco, were all supported by defenders of their own special interests, which were in conflict with the general interest.

These dictators were only the front men for the permanent anti-democratic influences who put them in places of power.

The men who dictate to the dictators, the men who made the dictators and who can unmake them and who will not mind sacrificing them to us if by so doing they can save themselves—these men are linked by common interests to the anti-democrats within the democracies, within our own frontiers.

It is through these linkages that they will first, and most directly, affect all our lives if they are allowed to remain in power, even before the day when they will try once more to destroy our democracy entirely.

Men who have endeavored to subject their own countrymen to tyranny will not scruple to join in a conspiracy to subject us, too. The effort, indeed, has already begun.

repairs, Captain Bell was given command of a destroyer, which was exactly what he wanted.

From that time until his recent relief he cruised the southwest Pacific, never out of danger and almost never free of fatigue.

His ship went months beyond the usual period of service without overhaul, and was kept going, at times, chiefly by will power and the guts of sailors.

Finally, Bell had the satisfaction of being on hand when our side began to win.

"Condition Red" is the story of all the things that happened—sometimes told in straight narrative, sometimes by quotations from the captain's diary (after a while, sailors were forbidden the luxury of diaries), sometimes in excerpts from the Fantail Gazette, the only daily published on a United States destroyer.

It is full of brilliant exploits, such as the salvage of the Verity at Guadalcanal, told modestly. And of intimate detail about sailors and their lives, their thoughts, their hell-raising. I have never read a naval officer as generous to the enlisted man, or as understanding. Such a man as Wesley H. Singletary, from Georgia, who single-handedly held together several raft-loads of shattered men, jumping into the water to kick sharks away, comes to life in Bell's narration. If I were a gob again, I'd go to hell for a commander like Bell.

Captain Bell was in the western Pacific, specifically in Philippine waters, when things boiled up with Japan. He served first on the Boise, and went through the heart-breaking period when that grand ship was kept out of action by hard luck. But when the Boise was returned to the west coast for

News Behind The News

Little Hope Seen For Gillette-Pepper Treaty Resolutions

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—A book lately demanding future senate approval of peace treaties by a simple one-vote majority rather than two-thirds, is now getting prominent display in book review sections (page 1, New York Times Book Reviews, Jan. 2).

The publication date may have been more than a coincidence as the Gillette-Pepper resolutions proposing such constitutional amendments are now to be taken up by senate committees.

The drive is doomed. It cannot succeed primarily because it requires two-thirds of the senate and three-fourths of the states to decide constitutionally to let a majority rule in foreign affairs. But it may be very useful in stirring up opposition to the senate and, in a way, putting all minorities on the defensive or good behavior. This is probably what it is for, to clear the way for whatever peace Mr. Roosevelt contemplates.

Even so, it may be unnecessary. No proof exists that treaty will be submitted to the senate. Indeed, one senator, after seeing Mr. Roosevelt some weeks back, is plainly hinting that the president will work for post-war through executive action. This might be done through military arrangement for indefinite occupations of enemy countries, such as for conquered portions of Italy. Years could pass before anything like a treaty evolved.

Agitation against the two-thirds rule could strengthen Mr. Roosevelt's hand popularly for just such a maneuver if he truly has it in mind.

Aside from these pressure phases a serious ethical question is raised as to whether longer and better peace treaties may come from half the senate or two-thirds. The agitators no doubt think that, as the Democratic convention dropped its two-thirds rule and kept the south from vetoing its presidential candidates (did it?), a so-called isolationist minority in this country should be similarly throttled.

They feel like the majorities which are defeated by senate filibustering occasionally, outraged that what they conceive to be the will of a majority should be defeated by a minority.

But what makes them think a majority is permanent? A popular majority was against this war, but is now grandly fighting it. A senate majority waved the bloody shirt after the Civil war. It made a peace, which all today will shun as unjust and consequently unenduring.

A popular pre-war majority believed the Versailles treaty unjust to Germany as wrought by French politicians, although it may now wonder if it was sufficiently harsh. Majorities change.

Even the supreme court changes its mind—frequently recently. If a majority can adopt this peace, a new majority with a change of administration can kill it. Would the peace not be more lasting if its righteousness was not alone evident to a majority but to an overwhelming number? Does it not need overwhelming popular approval more than a majority vote to endure? Should it not be contrived to get unity?

The difference between our democracy and those governments we are fighting is that our system protects minorities against majority enthusiasm on vital matters such as rights and foreign policy. I do not think the writers of the constitution wanted to let cliques defeat national purposes, but wanted to rein in majorities against their own folly.

Interpreting the War News

Russians Attempting To Turn Both Ends Of Bug River Defense

A climatic Russian effort to turn both ends of the Bug river defense line before German forces all but isolated in the Dnieper bend can reach it seems to be brewing.

Success would mean entrapment in Russia of anywhere up to a million Nazi troops. It would expose Rumania and the southeast flank of the Nazi defense front covering the Balkans and would go far to confirm the conclusions of gloomy German broadcasters that the decisive battle of the war in Europe is being fought now between the Pripet marshes and the Black sea.

From Berlin comes the first word of an indicated Russian move to couple a two-day drive from the south at Nikolaev anchorage of the lower Bug line with the many-pronged Red attacks to the north. Nazi bulletins told of a Russian amphibious assault beaten off at Ochakov, 40 miles southwest of Nikolaev at the mouth of the lake-like Dnieper-Bug estuary.

Moscow had nothing to say about this. An attempted Russian landing at that point to take Nikolaev in the rear would be a logical companion piece for a surge at the same objective across the frozen lower Dnieper, however. The Nazis have been expecting that ever since they abandoned their bridgehead opposite Kherson on the lower Dnieper.

Ochakov to the southwest and Kherson to the southeast lie about the same distance from Nikolaev, lower Bug metropolis. It is about 40 miles to the indicated Russian objective in each case.

Nikolaev itself lies on the east bank of the lower Bug. It is the southern transportation hub of the whole Dnieper bend. Lost to the Germans, it would leave their southern flank in the bend as much in jeopardy as their northern flank where two Ukrainian armies are converging toward an early junction at (See INTERPRETING page 5)

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood Writers Have a Hard Life

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Writers, even successful ones, do not lead an entirely golden life in the Hollywoods. They are, for one thing, frequently berated, and often for writing the most innocent words—like "storm" and "rain" and "wind."

There were unkind references to a writer named Jerry Cady the other day. The referents were actors, doing things Mr. Cady had put down in his script of "The Purple Heart." The scene was a bleak Chinese terrain, rocky, wild and muddy. It was where some American fliers, caught in a storm, had to bail out. Actor Sam Levine did it, his chute bellying around him in an artificial wind. Actor Don Barry took the small leap, landing with a splash in the mud. Actors Farley Granger and Marshall Thompson (whose "chute wasn't supposed to open) came out looking like mud-bathers, too. Mr. Cady had tossed off a line or so, in the script, about torrential rains, lightning, and wind. These were provided, also. The stage was a fine place to be during a siege of flu which already had a large number of Hollywoodians abed.

"Over there," said Don Barry, "under that rock, is where we keep the germs—flu, cold, pneumonia. And Milestone (Lewis, the director) says he and Cady planned this business down at La Jolla, on a beautiful, warm, sunny day."

But directors, unlike writers, have to be on the scene when words are translated into rain, wind, and mud. Director Milestone, heavily booted and bundled like the others, seemed to be particularly forgiven.

Property men and set decorators, like actors, frequently have cause to pour maledictions on the heads of screen scribes—although, secretly, they generally delight in the tasks imposed by the scripts. A writer can make a passing reference to how a set should look, its period, and so on, but art director and "props" have to make it come to life.

Not often, however, is a director so stumped by a writer's whim as the hero of this tale: The script called for a two-horse team to approach a bridge just wide enough to accommodate a single horse.

The director started a search through adjacent territory, finally reported back to his producer that no highway with such a bridge existed. He had even consulted, he said, a highway official who assured him there was no such bridge in California and, if there were, he'd like to know if it to correct the condition.

"So what," asked the literal-minded director, "shall I do?" "You might," said his producer, "forget the bridge and substitute another obstacle. Change the script. Make it a steep, sharp curve instead of a bridge."

"Oh," said the l.m.d., "I never thought of that!"

Felix Salmond, Abram Chasins to Give Concert

'Cellist, Pianist Will Perform

Chasins Is Composer, Radio Commentator, Salmond Is Soloist

The first of the semester's concert series will present Felix Salmond and Abram Chasins, 'cellist and pianist, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Performing a varied program, the artists will feature music by Grieg, Ravel, Franck, Chasins and Chopin. The musicians, rarely heard in concert tours, have spent most of their time in the east. Salmond has been on the faculty of the Juilliard Graduate school in New York since 1924. He has also been head of the 'cello department of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Chasins is also a member of the Curtis institute faculty and has done radio work as a music commentator. Well-known as a composer of modern music, he has studied composition with Rubin Goldmark.

Two of his compositions, "Nocturne" and "Humoresque," will be performed tomorrow night by the British 'cellist, Salmond. A familiar figure in musical circles, Chasins has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia and Boston orchestras.

Salmond has been soloist in several first performances of musical compositions. He was chosen by Sir Edward Elgar to be soloist at the first performance of the composer's "Cello Concerto" in 1919. He was also first to play Enesco's "Second Sonata" and "Symphonie Concertante."

The latter was played with the composer conducting the New York Philharmonic orchestra. The 'cellist, who has received favorable comments as an artist, will begin the concert tomorrow night with Grieg's "Sonata in A minor, opus 36," which was performed last semester by Prof. Philip G. Clapp and Prof. Hans Koelbel at a Wednesday evening broadcast. The artist will also play his own adaptation of Franck's "Sonata in A Major."

Chasins will perform two familiar Chopin numbers at the concert. They are "Impromptu, F sharp" and "Waltz Brillante, A flat." The pianist has studied with Ernest Hutcheson and Josef Hofmann. Chasins has transcribed numbers for two pianos in his composition work, two of which are Bach's "Passacaglia" and Strauss's "Blue Danube" and "Artist Life" waltzes.

Tickets for tomorrow night's concert are available at Iowa Union. University students may obtain tickets by presenting their student identification cards at the ticket desk in Iowa Union. A limited number of reserved seats will be available to the general public.

Philosophy Instructor Is Author of Articles in Physics Journal

Dr. Gustav Bergmann of the philosophy department is the author of two articles appearing in the October and December issues of The American Journal of Physics.

The articles, entitled "Outline of an Empiricist Philosophy of Physics" are an abstract of Dr. Bergmann's seminar in the philosophy of science, which he has taught several times in the past. The articles, according to Dr. Bergmann, reformulate the position of Bridgman of Harvard in the light of recent developments in logic and physics.

Dr. Bergmann and Dr. Kenneth Spence, head of the psychology department, are co-authors of an article appearing in the current issue of The Psychological Review, entitled "The Logic of Psycho-physical Measurement."

Ready for a CAREER in 28 WEEKS?

Yes, that is what has already happened and is happening to the students in our new accelerated wartime course at the Retail Bureau.

If, in January, you are completing your junior year in acceptable standing in liberal arts, business administration, or education, you can transfer to Pitt's Retail Bureau for your senior year and still receive a Bachelor's degree. You start on February 2, 1944, and 28 weeks later—in September—you are trained and ready for a job in the retail field. If you are a senior and are being graduated in January, you may take the 28-week course and be eligible for a Master in Letters degree in September. If you are an upper-classman and have successfully completed two years of college, you may take the 28-week course without receiving a degree.

You will be earning while you are learning, because you will have a steady income for the supervised work you do in the Pittsburgh stores as a part of your Bureau training. And your career will be well under way before you finish the course—a career with an unlimited future.

Other new semesters will start in June and in September under this wartime program. Send for Bureau Bulletin C and an application form.

Jeanne Kurtz Becomes Bride of Lieut. Frank Seydel in Double-Ring Ceremony in Presbyterian Church

Before an altar decorated with candelabra and baskets of white pompon chrysanthemums, Jeanne Kurtz, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Edwin Kurtz, 242 Ferson avenue, became the bride of Lieut. Frank Seydel Jr., son of Lieut. Col. Frank Seydel of Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the Presbyterian church. The Rev. Iton T. Jones officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Preceding the service, Mrs. Thomas Muir of Iowa City presented a half-hour interlude of organ selections, including "Ave Maria," "Oh Promise Me" (De-Kouen), "Liebestraum" (Liszt), "I Love Thee" (Grieg), and "Because" (D'Hardelot).

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Mary Ann Kurtz. Barbara Mezik of Iowa City was bridesmaid. Serving as best man was Lieut. George Wilhoite of Lawrenceville, Kan., Ushers were Lieut. Robert Gross of New York and Lieut. Dick Arnold of Cedar Rapids, Joe Bodine, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, and Edwin Kurtz Jr., brother of the bride.

Bride Wore White Velvet
Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor-length gown of transparent velvet, torso style, with a square neckline, fitted sleeves and a full skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and her only jewelry was a diamond lavelier which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day. The bridal bouquet was colonial, composed of gardenias and white narcissi with white satin streamers.

The maid of honor was attired in a gown of American beauty rose velvet, styled with three-quarter length sleeves and a full skirt. With it she wore a strand of pearls and a Juliet cap of the same material as her dress. Her colonial bouquet was of sweet peas and American beauty roses. Miss Mezik chose a rose velvet gown styled the same as the maid of honor's. She also wore a Juliet cap of matching material and pearls. Her colonial bouquet was of sweet peas and pink roses.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue silk street length dress with fuchsia accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage.

Reception in Union Clubrooms
Succeeding the ceremony, a reception was held in the clubrooms of Iowa Union. A white cake in the shape of a Maltese cross centered the table, which was decorated with roses and candelabra.

Hostesses at the reception were Mrs. LeRoy Mercer, Mrs. Charles Ingersoll, Mrs. Kirk Porter, Mrs. Robert Glen, Mrs. Hal Dane, Mrs. George Gay, Mrs. Homer Cherrington, Patty Bates, Frances Glockler, Jean Tobias, Mary Balster and Connie Middleton.

After the reception the couple left for a short wedding trip. For her traveling costume the bride chose a teal blue suit with fuchsia and black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Mrs. Seydel was graduated from the University of Iowa with a B.A. degree in political science in December. She was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority and is a member of P.E.O.

Lieutenant Seydel was also graduated from the university in December, where he was affiliated with Theta Xi fraternity. He recently received his commission in the armored forces at Fort Knox, Ky., and is awaiting orders to a new station where the couple will live.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kurtz of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Scott and daughter Penelope of Cedar Falls, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Winders and daughter Betty of Marshalltown, Betty Peterson of Muscatine and Connie Dennison of Cedar Rapids.

Prof. V. Cioffari Talks To Humanist Society

Prof. Vincenzo Cioffari of the Romance languages department, director of Italian in army specialized training program, addressed the Humanist society last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

His talk was on "The Moral Structure of Dante's 'Paradiso.'" Following a general introduction on Dante's life and works, Professor Cioffari described the "Divine Comedy" with particular reference to the third part, "Paradiso."

Girl Scout Troop Tours Radio Station

Trips to places of civic interest, investiture services, plans for parties and games are all a part of the Girl Scout and Brownie picture this week.

Scouts in troop 9 of University elementary school are working for their second class community badge. Recently they visited WSUI radio station and yesterday they planned to visit the telephone company and police department.

The high school troop, troop 1, met yesterday to plan an ice skating party to be given Jan. 15. They also made plans for their social and business events for the rest of the year.

Troop 25 of St. Mary's school held an investiture service yesterday for seven new members.

Also meeting today will Brownie troop 20 of Lincoln school. They will learn new dances and games.

University Women Asked to Volunteer For Double-V Work

Those Who Signed For First Semester Need Not Re-Register

Additional registration for participation in the "Double V" program for wartime service will be held tomorrow from 8 to 5 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Iowa Union.

Every university woman, including graduates, is asked to participate again this semester in the activities to which she is particularly suited. Women who registered last semester need not register again unless they desire to participate in additional activities or change those for which they are at present registered.

Beginning freshmen and transfer students are especially urged to sign for volunteer service, which includes civilian defense office work, U. S. O. junior hostesses for the Saturday afternoon Union tea dances, recreation for servicemen through local churches and recreation leadership to guide activities at the Recreation center.

Especially needed are women to make surgical dressings for the Red Cross and hospital aides to help feed patients, carry trays, make empty beds, escort patients to and from clinics and similar jobs at the University hospital.

Registration will also be held for Y. W. C. A. This program includes two discussion groups, "The U. S. and You" and "So Your Boy's in Service;" work with children at University hospital and convalescent home; teaching Sunday school, and hostess work in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The latter consists of entertaining servicemen and taking charge of the newspapers and magazines in the "Y" rooms.

Plan Church Meeting

A family dinner will be part of the annual meeting of the First English Lutheran church which will be held at 6:30 p. m. Thursday with the Rev. Ralph M. Krueger presiding. Business reports will be given by officers of all the church organizations. Church members are urged to attend.

Law Graduates Located

Prof. Percy Bordwell, acting dean of the college of law, has announced that four students who completed their law courses in December are now situated in the following positions: J. R. Austin is located with the firm of Willkie, Owen, Otis, Farr, and Gallagher, in New York; Ted P. Lewis is with the United Light and Power company in Chicago, and Howard L. Johnson is with Shull and Marshall in Sioux City. Ralph M. Kauffman has been appointed county attorney in Jackson county.

B'nai B'rith Will Present Hebrew Music

Prof. A. W. Binder of the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York will present a lecture-recital, "The Jew and His Music," tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

Rabbi Gilbert Klaperman of the school of religion will introduce Professor Binder, who will discuss Jewish folksong, compare Hebrew and Christian liturgical music, and speak on the Renaissance of music in Palestine today.

Professor Binder, choirmaster of the Free Synagogue at Carnegie hall in New York, is regarded as one of the leading figures in the field of composition and interpretation of Hebrew music. His composition, "Holy Land Impressions," was played by the Detroit Symphony orchestra in 1932, and recordings of his music are frequently broadcast in Palestine as well as in this country.

The lecture will be illustrated both vocally and instrumentally by Professor Binder, whose appearance on this campus is sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel foundation.

Seahawks Blast Simpson, 63-25, for 9th

From The Sidelines . . .

Pre-Flighters Score Easily

Wilcoxon Stars For Navy; Second Team Continues to Tally

By WALLY STRINGHAM
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

The mighty Seahawks ran their victory streak to nine straight last night, in defeating a completely outclassed Simpson five 63 to 25. Behind the guns of Shirley and Wilcoxon, the cadets slammed the Simpson lads to a crushing defeat.

The first half was all cadet power, with the visitors making 8 points to the Seahawks' 25. At the beginning of the second half, it looked as though Simpson might make a game of it, but the cadets advantage in height and aggressiveness turned the game into a rout late in the second half.

Strum looked best for the losers, as he rang up a total of 7 points for the losing five. Simpson was unable to get any close in shots, due to the sticky defense the sailors were able to put up.

The rangy Seahawks got 29 field goals, while Simpson was held to 8. Even the cadet substitutes managed to score at will against the less fortunate quintet. The game looked much like a football game in spots. Winters of the Pre-Flighters went out of the encounter on fouls late in the second half. The sailors looked very good under the basket, for the Simpson boys were unable to control the ball off the bang boards.

Never in doubt as to how the final score would come out, the Seahawks were not forced to display all their strength. The game was a lopsided affair, with the best team coming out on the top side.

Navy Champs Meet Jan. 18

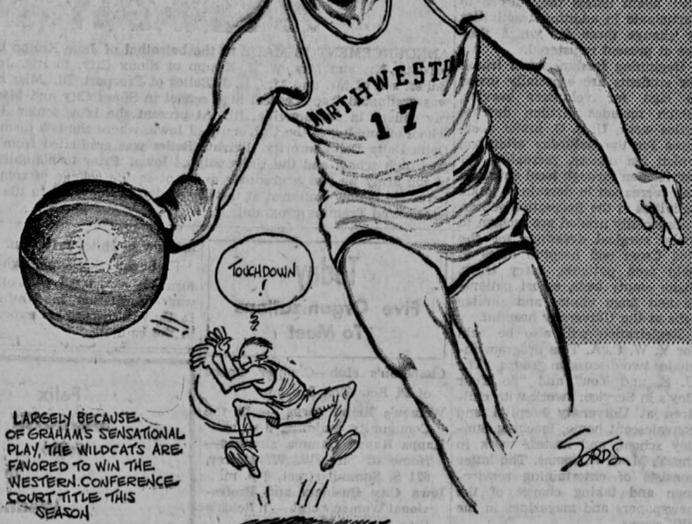

Sports program championships at the United States Navy Pre-Flight school, which are eagerly looked forward to each month by the aviation cadet regiment will begin on Jan. 18 when the semi-final round of basketball will be played. Finals in basketball and track will be held the evening of Jan. 20 with the entire cadet regiment in attendance. The evening of Jan. 25, semi-final rounds in boxing and wrestling will be held, while the finals will be presented before the regiment the evening of Jan. 27. The gymnastic team will give exhibitions at the finals.

Sports program championships are the culmination of the sports program of the Pre-Flight school and match the best cadets in the 12 companies on the station, once each month in a windup of the daily sports program.

Jug McSpaden Takes $12,500 L. A. Open; Plays 72 Holes in 278 for Course Record

Johnny Bulla, Atlanta, Holds 2nd; Dodson, Wood Tie for Third

By FRANK FRAWLEY
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tall, broad-shouldered Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia yesterday captured America's richest golf championship, the $12,500 Los Angeles open, with a 72-hole score of 278.

Finishing the last 18-hole round on the Wilshire country club course with a blistering 66, McSpaden established a new low 72-hole score for the championship on this course. The best previously was the 281 in 1933 by Craig Wood, national champion for the duration.

Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, the Los Angeles open winner in 1941, finished in second place with a 281. He took a par 71 for his final round after starting it in a 54-hole first place tie with Leonard Dodson of La Jolla, Calif. Dodson wound up in a tie at 283 with Craig Wood and Byron Nelson of Toledo.

Dodson played in a threesome with McSpaden and Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, and the pace was too stiff for him. The veteran Willie Hunter of Santa Monica, Calif., finished with 284, followed by Dutra with 285.

McSpaden's five-under-par performance yesterday was one of the two best rounds of the championship. Sammy Byrd of Detroit also bagged a 66 in the first round.

Jug had six birdies and one bogey in fashioning his sensational card. His magically efficient putter never failed him, and only an out-of-bounds shot on the 419-yard 12th hole where he required a five, marred his shotmaking.

Cool under pressure all day, he sank a 20-foot putt on the seventh for a birdie two, but for the most part his approaches were laid right up to the cup.

The new champion has won four of his last six tournaments, among them the All-American at Chicago. He picked up $4,375 in war bonds as first prize money yesterday.

His card for the final round:
Par out 454 344 344—35
McSpaden out 354 344 243—32
Par in 344 354 544—36-71
McSpaden in 345 244 444—34-66

National Pro Football Owners to Confer With Elmer Layden

CHICAGO (AP)—National football league club owners will meet with Commissioner Elmer Layden Wednesday and Thursday to mull over player prospects for the 1944 season and to hatch ideas about post-war expansion of the professional sport.

Layden yesterday made it emphatic that the main purpose of this huddle was to chart plans for next fall when the league will expand to its pre-war size of 10 teams. Cleveland will be reactivated and the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh combine will separate.

There will be talk of new franchises. San Francisco, Los Angeles and Buffalo, N. Y., have formally applied and Baltimore has dispatched feelers. It is questionable, however, if any definite action will be taken, or if any representatives of the groups seeking the franchises will attend.

Last June a franchise was granted to Ted Collins of the radio for operation in Boston, and his attorney, William Shea, is expected to report on the prospects of fielding a team in 1944. If Boston is ready to go, the league probably will welcome it. It is likely that the other applications may be tabled until April when club owners and coaches convene in an eastern city yet to be named for the annual draft of collegians and 1944 schedule making.

Layden exudes optimism for 1944. He believes there will be enough players to go around, and then some, and there even are indications that the team player limit may be increased from 28 to the pre-war quota of 33. Popular stars, such as Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears, now an ensign in the merchant marine, will be missing, but the commissioner vows "new ones will come along."

"The fans make their own heroes," he said. "They'll get just as many thrills as ever. They thrive on action—the league will give it to them."

Hawkeyes Tied For Lead in Conference; With Six Straight

Next Big 10 Tilt With Illinois Here; Play Augustana Saturday

Victories over Minnesota anchored the University of Iowa basketball team in a tie for first place in the Big Ten race, a spot which they will occupy at least until the Illinois series here Jan. 21 and 22.

The Iowans, winners of six straight games, step outside the league for their final non-conference game Saturday against Augustana college of Rock Island, Ill., here.

"The boys were jittery part of the time and missed a lot of shots, but they showed skill and courage in staving off Minnesota's late rally in the first game and in coming from behind at the beginning of the second half in the Saturday game," Coach "Pops" Harrison said.

Coach Praises Men
He said that the team play was good and that the rebound and defensive work of Jack Spencer and Ned Postels was outstanding. The coach also praised the all-around play of Lloyd Herwig, center.

"Dave Danner settled down in the second half of each game and scored five baskets which the Gophers were giving Dick Ives close attention," the coach declared. Danner made 2 points in the series.

Iowans displayed their physical stamina when Ives, Danner, Herwig and Spencer played full-time in the games on successive nights. They swept over Minnesota, 23-10, in the second half of the second game, actually looking stronger instead of tiring.

Ives' Average Cut
Although Ives was held to 16 points in the two games, he ran his season's total to 110, an average of 18 1/3 per game. Danner is second with 84, for a 14-point average and Herwig is third with 40.

For all games, the team has 323 points, an average of 54 5/6 per game, while opponents have 179, averaging 29 5/6.

Coach Bresnahan Meets Track Team

All University Men Urged to Attend First '44 Meeting

First meeting of university men interested in competing on the track team has been set for Wednesday at 4 p. m. in the offices in the field house basement, Coach George Bresnahan has announced.

He stresses the fact that all men are welcome to report, regardless of high school track experience. Suitable practice times will be arranged.

Several athletes who were members of the Hawkeye cross country team which placed third in the Big Ten meet last fall are ready to begin indoor workouts.

These include Albert Slater of Ft. Madison, Sydney Maiden of Council Bluffs, Robert Vander Wilt of Rock Rapids, and Jack Murray of Sheldon.

Among the other candidates will be Aubrey Devine Jr., son of Iowa's all-American quarterback of 1921 who also was a pole vaulter on the track team. Young Devine will compete in the broad jump and pole vault.

Mel Ott May Revamp Titles

NEW YORK (AP)—War and its man-power demands has added to the major league careers of numerous veterans but it is unlikely that any of them, with the exception of Mel Ott, will do much revamping of the record books.

Ott, now boss of the New York Giants, will be starting his 18th season under the big top when the umpires call play ball in April and already owns the National league marks for runs batted in and homers.

The one-time boy wonder's home run total is 463, as compared with the 714 pounded out by Babe Ruth.

Two other players still active, Paul Waner of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, equal Ott's 18 years in the majors but none approach the 25 years put in by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Americans or Rhody Wallace who spent his quarter century at Cleveland and St. Louis.

Waner has played the most games of any of the active veterans, 2,456, but is almost four full seasons from the 3,033 played by Cobb.

The Dodger outfielder also leads

Other long-time veterans in the big time are Dick Bartell of the Giants, who will be starting his 17th season; Mel Harder of Cleveland, who will be going through his 16th spring training grind as will Bill Dickey and Rollie Hemsley, a pair of New York Yankee catchers.

REFLECTIONS ON THE IOWA MINNESOTA SERIES:

As I watched the games between the Gophers and the Hawks at Minneapolis two things stood out: (1) The Hawks really do have the stuff to pull that conference title in and lay it right on the field house doorstep. Although the play against Minnesota was quite ragged at times and the boys overstepped themselves a time or two the team did show that it had the fight to come through in the pinches and win. (2) The boys also give it out just as well as they can take it. When the play gets really rough in the second stanza of the second game the Hawk turned around and for a while were dishing out just as much pushing and fast rushing as the Minnesota lads.

Personally, I can think of no two people I would less rather meet on a dark basketball court than Jack Spencer and Dave Danner. Both have the happy ability of being able to throw their weight around at just the right time and in the right place. It's not that the boys want to play rough, but they have the ability to play rough if someone else wants to start it.

Minnesota sure had Iowa's kid doped out right when it came to the offensive end of the game. At the first encounter opened the boys dropped back for one of the long plays only to find that the Gopher was there waiting for the play to materialize.

And there's Dick Ives tragedy. Telling about how Dick Ives, the Dribbling and Dashing Demon from Diagonal, couldn't turn around on the court without having two Minnesota boys stare him in the face and say, "Well, when do you think you're going?" The held him to eight tallies per game which is some going when you're batting in the Ives' (y) league. Minnesota sure had some fine shots following the 1944 Big Ten Champs.

DEPARTMENT OF LITTLE KNOWN FACTS: Carl Nordly, head of the basketball coaching staff at the University of Minnesota, and Hon. Nordly, head basketball coach of the Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks, are brothers. The Seahawks played against Minnesota at Minneapolis before Christmas.

The Hawks might easily get the new name of the "Yo-Yo Boys". Dick Ives and Lloyd Herwig have yo-yo's that they carry with them on trips to while away the hours. The competition in Minneapolis hotel room was something terrific. So far Ives has the edge on Herwig who is only up to "baby in the cradle," but the aforementioned promises that by the next trip time he will have perfected the "over the falls" which is considered by authority in yo-yo-ing to be one of the most difficult maneuvers. I'll bring you more reports on the progress of the "Yo-Yo boys" later in the season.

Sewanee's 1899 twelve-man football team traveled over 3,000 miles to win five "away" games in six days.

Council Hears Report of State Milk Inspector

As a result of a recent restaurant survey in Iowa City by health officials, a request for an ordinance adoption of the United States Food Standards for Iowa City eating establishments was presented to the council last night.

J. R. Jenning, milk sanitation inspector of the state health department, explained the inspection report made Dec. 14 of 25 out of the 41 eating establishments here. Jenning, R. W. Hart, army sanitation engineer; J. W. Peterson of the department of agriculture; Paul Reed, city physician, and C. J. Schindler, city health inspector, made the survey.

Of the 25 inspections, using a possible rating of 100, only one place attained an 84 score, and the lowest was 15. The average was 50.49 percent. Jenning explained that a community such as Iowa City of 16,000 residents, with 6,000 university students and additional army and navy trainees, should comply with food laws and their maintenance.

"With proper diligence and co-operation, 90 percent could be attained, and Iowa City could be used as an example of good health legislation," said Jenning. "Chances are that places with less than 50 percent are unsafe for public patronage."

Six Recommendations made by the health officials were:

1. Establish a full time city-county health department with all sanitation activities under the public health engineer.
2. Adoption and enforcement of the 1943 edition of the federal public health service eating and drinking establishments ordinance and code.
3. Establishment of a food handlers' training course for employees.
4. Routine bacteriological tests of utensils.
5. Keeping a record of inspections and publishing the restaurants' ratings.
6. Taking precautions concerning product sources.

Official Health Seminars

Jenning also announced a three-day school in Des Moines, March 8-10, for all health department officials. The school will include a seminar for bacteria effects and growth study, epidemics, food handling, rodent and cockroach riddance, food poisons and sanitation. The mayor assured Jenning that City Inspector Schindler would attend the seminar.

Report of the ordinance committee concerning the adoption of the food ordinance for Iowa City will be made later.

Airport Election Requested

L. C. Crawford, president of the city planning committee, submitted the signatures of 461 Iowa Citizens who favor an election to determine whether the city should adopt a commission plan of airport operation under state law. The mayor and council will set a date for the election, and polling places will be selected.

Judge Continues Trial Of W. F. McCracken

The trial of William Ford McCracken, accused of gaining $5,000 by cheating by false pretenses, will be continued at 10 a. m. Feb. 4, according to a court order issued yesterday by Judge Harold D. Evans.

Judge Evans made the order after James Pontrola and George Radcliffe, bail bond sureties of the defendant, appeared in district court yesterday morning with their counsel, Frank J. Mangolin, and asked the court to continue the hearing.

Columbia and Yale first met on the gridiron in 1871. Yale leads in victories, 17 to 4.

INTERPRETING—

The second Ukrainian army which took Kirovograd is now within 20 miles or less of Novo Ukraina, controlling central Bug crossings. Capture of that rail hub would virtually close the trap on Nazi forces routed from their last central Dnieper foothold southeast of Kiev, cutting them off from escape across the Bug. The only other escape route is the Cherkasi-Vapujarka connection and the first Ukrainian army at Buki was within artillery range of that line Sunday, and only 70 miles west of the second army spearhead aimed at Novo Ukraina.

A successful drive at Nikolaevo from the south to match these dangerous stabs from the north is to be expected if ice on the lower Dnieper is thick enough to carry heavy equipment. The reported amphibious attempt at Ochakov, backdoor to Nikolaevo, looks like the beginning of such an operation, whether as a diversion or an encirclement movement. It cannot be questioned that simultaneous Russian capture of Nikolaevo and Novo Ukraina would snap shut the Dnieper bend trap and spell military disaster for the Nazi army on a scale far surpassing either Stalingrad or Tunisia.

Cost of Living Rises

The cost of living has risen only three and one-half percent in 1943 compared with nine percent in 1942 and ten percent in 1941, according to Waldo F. Geiger, chairman of the Iowa City war price and ration board.

Tests Are Uncertain Indication of Syphilis, Hygiene Head Says

Diet May Be Cause Of Positive Reaction To Serologic Tests

"By blind assumption that positive tests afford conclusive evidence of syphilis, during recent years thousands of persons have been needlessly refused marriage licenses, rejected for military service, refused employment in industry or tortured mentally with the belief that they have the disease," according to Dr. Milford E. Barnes, head of the department of hygiene and preventive medicine.

Dr. Barnes points out in his article, "Serologic Reaction in Non-Syphilitic Individuals," which was published in the journal of the Iowa State Medical society, that although positive tests provide invaluable presumptive evidence of syphilis, other evidence is necessary. The diagnosis should not be based solely upon the tests, unless several methods of testing are used and unless, in a series of tests, these agree in being persistently and strongly positive, the article declares.

When the tests provide the only reason to suspect syphilis, the article recommends a simple procedure to ascertain whether some other cause may be responsible. The person tested is put on a meat-free, milk-free, abundant liquid diet, including fresh vegetables and fruit juices. After three or four days of this restricted diet the blood tests are repeated.

Numerous instances are recorded in which the reacting substance disappears from the blood under this treatment and the person's serology thereafter is negative.

"In those instances in which the serologic reactions can be caused to disappear when dietary factors are changed, it appears to be reasonably certain that whatever is the causative factor in these individuals, it is not active syphilis. Reactions due to active syphilis are not affected by the restricted diet," the authors state.

Dr. Barnes and his co-workers emphasize the fact that it is as much the responsibility of the physician to rule out syphilis as to rule it in.

Working with Dr. Barnes in the preparation of the article were Dr. Irving Borts, director of the state hygiene laboratory; Dr. Chester I. Miller, director of student health, and M. Pearl Spanswick, chief serologist of the state bacteriological laboratory. Further studies along the same line are now in progress in the university's laboratory.

Nazi War Prisoners Include Iowa Citizen

The war department yesterday announced the names of three Iowans who are being held as German prisoners of war. Among them is Second Lieut. John K. Anderson of Iowa City. Staff Sgt. Edward C. Burlingham, Walnut, and Sgt. Vernon A. Miner, Central City, were also announced as being prisoners.

Lieutenant Anderson is the son of Mrs. Marguerite Anderson, 720 E. Burlington street. He left Iowa City to begin his training in the army airforce Jan. 5, 1942. His training was received at Sheppard field, Tex., Wichita Falls, Kan., and Lubbock field, Tex., where he received his wings.

Lieutenant Anderson, a flying fortress pilot, received his fortress training in Salina, Kan., and was sent from there to England. He was on his 12th mission when he was captured.

The army airforce air medal and the oak leaf cluster have been awarded to Lieutenant Anderson for his bomber missions.

Jack Frost Is Theme Of 'Winterlude' Party

A Jack Frost theme in blue and silver will be featured at the "Winterlude" Saturday night in the main lounge of Iowa Union, as Paul Arthur's Count 11 band plays from 8 until 11 for the first semi-formal all-university dance of the new semester.

The backdrop and programs both will show Jack Frost at work. The blue programs will have a silver picture of Jack Frost painting a design on a window.

Tickets, $1.10 a couple, are on sale at the Union desk. Students who are planning the party include Margaret Browning, A2 of Iowa City, chairman; Eileen Schenken, A2 of Marion; Mildred Buoy, A3 of Council Grove, Kan., and Irving Wansik, E2 of West Hartford, Conn.

Clerk Grants Licenses

Frank Seydel Jr., 20, and Jeanette Kurtz, 21, both of Iowa City, and Lawrence Bowman, 26, of Tiffin, and Ruth Anne McLaughlin, 20, of Cedar Rapids, were granted marriage licenses yesterday by R. Neilson Miller, clerk of district court.

COLONEL ZECH APPROVES ARMY SHOW PLANS

PLANS FOR THE PRODUCTION OF "Sound Off," the army show to be produced Jan. 22 and 23 are discussed by Col. Luke D. Zech, commanding officer of the army specialized training unit, as he buys the first ticket to the show from business manager Pfc. Blake Flint. Lieut. John C. Luecke is special service officer in charge of "Sound Off." Left to right are pictured Pfc. Flint, Lieutenant Luecke and Colonel Zech.

Tickets Go on Sale For A. S. T. P. Show, 'Sound Off,' Today

Tickets will go on sale today for "Sound Off," the variety show which will be presented in the University theater Jan. 22 and 23 by the army specialized training program.

Civilian tickets, which will be sold at $1.00, will be handled through Bremer's and Racine's, and civilian students of the university may obtain their tickets at Iowa Union between 4 and 8 p. m. at the reduced rate of 65c. Tickets will be available at the same price to service men, who will obtain them through their company orderly rooms.

There will be four performances of "Sound Off," a matinee and an evening performance each day of production.

Proceeds from the ticket sale will go into the A. S. T. P. regimental fund, which will be used in the athletic and recreational welfare programs of the army.

Approximately 85 men, representative of the various A. S. T. P. companies, will participate in the production. Ten university women will have parts in the show. The A. S. T. P. orchestra and chorus will be featured, as will several comedy skits and musical numbers.

Trial Begins in Suit Of Evans vs. Upmier

Trial of the $10,508.70 damage suit of Ray Evans of Coralville against Harry Upmier of Solon began at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in district court with Judge Harold D. Evans presiding. The plaintiff is suing because of injuries received when he fell from a horse rented from Upmier June 3, 1942.

Attorney for Ray Evans is Edward L. O'Connor. Representing Upmier are the Miller, Huebner and Miller law firm of Des Moines and the Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher law firm of Iowa City.

Jurors for the trial are G. W. Moeller, Bessie Kriel, Alfred Elster, John Evans, Fred Eastland, Catharine Pugh, J. H. Brown, Valda Schmidt, Anna Belle Lechtenberg, Mrs. Lester Campbell, Lewis Weno and Pearl Reynolds.

Co-Chairmen Named For Trade Committee

B. E. Vandecar, manager of the Sears Roebuck store in Iowa City, and Arthur A. Aune, promotion manager of Strub's department store, were renamed co-chairmen of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce retail trade commission for 1944 by John A. Nash, newly-elected president.

This will be the third consecutive one-year term for both men as co-chairmen of the division. Vandecar is also first vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Prof. L. Charles Raiford, 71, Dies After 25 Years at University

Prof. L. Charles Raiford, 71, of 814 N. Linn street, died at Mercy hospital at 10:30 Saturday night after a short illness. As professor of organic chemistry, Professor Raiford had been at the University of Iowa 25 years, having come here in 1918.

Professor Raiford was born Aug. 2, 1872, in Southampton County, Va. He attended Brown university and received his Ph.D. degree there in 1900. In 1904 he received his M.A. degree from the University of Chicago, and in 1909 his Ph.D. degree from the same university.

Before coming to the University of Iowa he served on the teaching staffs at Clemson college, Mississippi Agricultural college, University of Chicago and University of Wyoming. He was visiting professor at Western university in 1930 and at the University of Nebraska in 1932. He headed the organic chemistry division at the University of Iowa until 1942 when he reached the age of 70. Professor Raiford continued his services as professor of organic chemistry until the time of his illness.

He was a fellow of the American association for advancement of science, a member of the American Institute of Chemists, American Association of University Professors, Oklahoma academy of science, Sigma Xi, Alpha Chi Sigma, Phi Lambda Upsilon, Phi Delta Chi, the Research and Triangle clubs, and held the offices of president and secretary of Phi Beta Kappa. In the American Chemical society he served as national chairman of the organic division in 1937, as local chairman and secretary, and was chosen councilor a number of times.

Professor Raiford was author of "Laboratory Course in Color Chemistry," a member of the board of editors of the Journal of Organic Chemistry since 1936, and contributed many articles to scientific journals. He represented the chemistry department on the library board for many years.

Funeral services for Professor Raiford will be held at the Beckman funeral home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, will officiate. Honorary pallbearers will be Prof. Edward Bartow, Prof. Perry A. Bond, Prof. George H. Coleman, Prof. Jacob Cornog, Homer R. Dill, Prof. George Glockler, Prof. Hubert L. Olin, Prof. Henry A. Mattill, and Prof. J. Hubert Scott.

Professor Raiford is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mark Hagerman of Towanda, Pa.

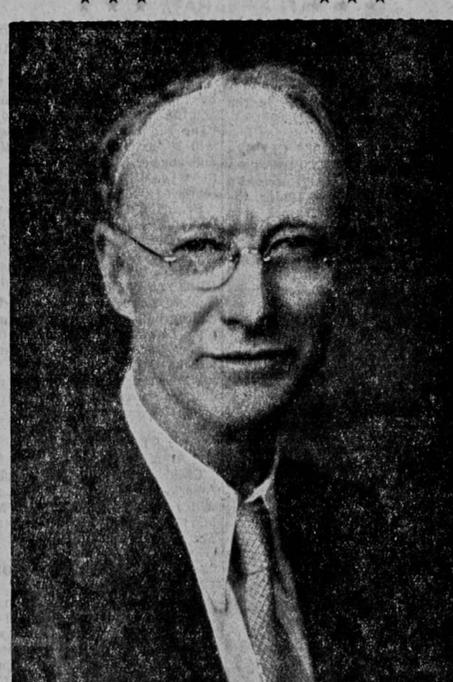

War Bond Quota For Johnson County Is 53c a Person

Johnson county's quota for the Fourth War Loan drive has been set at $1,756,000, which is $107,000 less than in the third campaign. The present quota represents only 53 cents a person.

Walter J. Barrow, postmaster, announced yesterday that the treasury department will distribute special stickers for the drive through postoffices. The stickers which will read "We Bought Extra Bonds—Fourth War Loan," will be given to bond purchasers.

Installed as President

W. T. Hageboeck will be installed as president of the Kiwanis club at a noon meeting in Hotel Jefferson today. Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger will become vice-president for 1944.

PROF. L. CHARLES RAIFORD, 71, died at Mercy hospital Saturday night. He served as head of the organic chemistry division of the chemistry department from 1918 until 1943, and since last year has been professor of organic chemistry. Funeral service will take place at the Beckman funeral home at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Owner Must Return Unused Gas Coupons Before Selling Vehicle

The new plan of the office of price administration to assure the return of gasoline ration coupons for all new and used automobiles and trucks which are sold is now in effect, according to Waldo F. Geiger, chairman of the Iowa City war price and ration board.

Persons buying new or used cars from dealers or private individuals must obtain a duplicate receipt to be eligible for a gasoline ration book. The owner of a vehicle must return to the board unused ration coupons issued for the vehicle he intends to sell. The coupons should be returned by the owner in person or by airmail. After the board receives the coupons, a "receipt for surrender of gasoline rations" will be issued in duplicate.

Both receipts and the tire inspection record are to be given by the seller to the person buying the car or truck. Automobile dealers are to obtain duplicate receipts for each car they put on sale as well as private individuals who sell their cars.

Each dealer must report no later than today his inventory of Dec. 31 to the war price and ration board, room 206, Iowa State Bank and Trust building. The board will send him a receipt, in duplicate, for each car reported. The buyer is to give the original copy to the state motor vehicle registrar when applying for a new registration certificate.

The duplicate of the receipt and the tire inspection record must be given to the board by the buyer when he applies for a new gasoline ration, or the board cannot issue a new ration book.
