RAF Shatters Nazi Industrial Brunswick

Soviet Units Dash Westward Toward Old Polish Border

2,000 Tons of Bombs Dropped On Brunswick in 23 Minutes

LONDON (AP)—RAF blockbuster fleets, aided by Mosquito feints on Berlin and Magdeburg, shattered industrial Brunswick in central Germany Friday night with 2,000 long tons of bombs in 23 minutes, setting a record bomb concentration of 87 tons per minute.

In American weights, that equals more than a ton-and-a-half per second. The big bombers battled through skies aglow with Nazi fighters' flares and rocket shells to hammer the city—one of five prime targets of the massive American raids on Tuesday—producing Messerschmitts, artillery, motorcycles, tractors, and railway equipment.

United Mine Workers May Finally Get Back Into AFL Next Week

Reaffiliation Request Filed Since May; Due for Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis' united mine workers may finally get back into the American Federation of Labor next week. Such a development, of major labor significance and potential political importance, is widely expected in labor circles here.

One reason why favorable action is anticipated by many labor men is the dissatisfaction among railway union executives over White House handling of their wage case.

At least one railroad union head is reported to have voted against council acceptance of the UMW application when it was first considered last August. A 6-6 tie then sent it on to the AFL convention in Boston in October which, in turn, authorized the executive council to negotiate terms for reaffiliation.

Involved are jurisdictional problems arising from expansion of the UMW into chemical and other industries, bringing it into conflict with AFL unions in the same fields. Lewis, however, has contended all along that these problems could be settled under AFL machinery after reaffiliation.

Friends of the miners' chief, who is one of President Roosevelt's sharpest critics, have made no secret of the fact that they think politics has played a part in what they term the AFL's stalling over the application.

Their views got such wide circulation that Daniel Tobin, president of the AFL teamsters and a member of the AFL council, brought them into the open by a denial of political considerations, first in the teamster's magazine and again in a speech at the Boston convention. Tobin has been a close friend of Mr. Roosevelt and headed the labor division of the Democratic national committee in the 1940 campaign.

Railroads Ends Wage Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three railroad operating brotherhoods which had held out on signing a wage agreement entered into by the majority of other rail unions, formally notified the war department yesterday that "the wage dispute has been settled and that the strike vote has no further force or effect."

Notification of the action, which was announced Friday by the White House, was sent to Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commanding general of army service forces with jurisdiction over the operation of the roads after the carriers were taken over by the government.

Last Jap Defenses Falling; Allied Troops Nearing Sio Mission

Already, Aussies May Control Mission; Nips Apparently Pulling Out

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Sunday (AP)—Japanese defenders of Sio mission, last enemy base on northeast New Guinea's Huon peninsula, apparently are pulling out as best they can before the determined onslaught by Australian jungle veterans, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique indicated today.

Already, the Aussies may control the mission. Latest reports, covering fighting through Friday, placed the allied forces at the outskirts of Sio and MacArthur's spokesman indicated the enemy is fighting a rear-guard, delaying action.

The Japanese, trapped between the Australians and the American invasion forces at Saidor to the northwest, are trying to escape by barges moving up the coast at night and best indications are that no determined enemy stand will be made until the outer defenses of Madang, 100 miles farther up the coast, are reached.

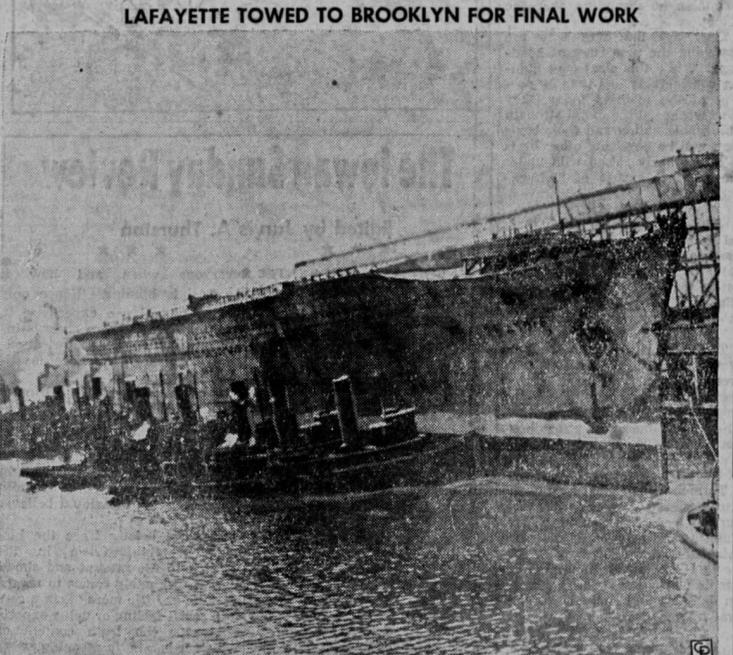

Paralleling the drive against Sio is the American marines' struggle to take strategic Hill 660 on the western tip of New Britain. The fall of this promontory, named for its altitude, is believed imminent. Marines, which landed with the invasion forces at Cape Gloucester Dec. 26, started to assault of Hill 660 last Tuesday and today's communique said that "fighting is intensified."

The Japanese have built up a powerful network of pillboxes and mortar positions around the crest of the hill and marines scrambling up the steep, dripping slopes are facing the "worst fighting in the world—worse than Guadalcanal" according to one Guadalcanal veteran. If the marines gain control of the hill they will command the entire Borgen bay defenses of the enemy on the east flank of the Cape Gloucester beachhead.

S. S. Carole Lombard Launched in California Honoring Film Star

WILMINGTON, Calif. (AP)—The liberty ship S. S. Carole Lombard, named for the late film star, glided smoothly into Los Cerros channel yesterday as Miss Lombard's husband, Capt. Clark Gable of the army air forces, stood stiffly at attention. Miss Lombard was killed two years ago today in a plane crash while returning from a nationwide bond selling tour.

Actress Irene Dunne, close friend of Miss Lombard, cracked the bottle on the ship's prow.

THE U. S. S. LAFAYETTE, formerly the French luxury liner Normandie, is pictured as it was towed into the Brooklyn yards of the Todd shipbuilding company for such final work as the United States navy may require. The ship, salvaged after burning and capsizing, is a naval transport.

Ration Tokens to Be Substituted For Stamp System Now in Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—Introduction of ration tokens throughout the country Feb. 27 will bring about a number of changes in the present method of paying the ration cost of processed foods, meats and fats. The office of price administration has prepared the following information to give consumers a better understanding of how the new system will work.

Q. Will OPA give each consumer a certain number of tokens when this new program begins, just as everybody was given a supply of ration stamps? A. No. The only tokens you will get are those your retailer gives you in change, beginning Feb. 27.

U. S., Britain May Decide Line Dispute

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet reply to Polish overtures toward negotiations for a complete settlement of differences between Poland and Russia is expected within a short time because the speed with which the Red army continued to push westward lends urgency to the question of Russian-Polish relations. The Polish proposal for examination of all outstanding questions with British and American mediation was already under study at the Kremlin, and affirmative answers appeared to hinge on whether Moscow would agree to deal with the exiled government it has previously criticized.

OPA Announces Gas Ration System

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of price administration announced yesterday that its new system of mailing gasoline ration coupons to motorists from central issuing stations in metropolitan centers will be extended throughout the country. Designed to eliminate thefts of coupons from local rationing boards, the plan has been in use experimentally in the District of Columbia since last July and later was extended to cities in Rhode Island.

SIXTH RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE within a month has been opened by Red army forces in the Mozyr sector of White Russia, as shown on this map. Prof. Fred Pownall Speaks in Chicago To Press Association

'Woman Reporters Have Good Chance For Post-War Jobs'

CHICAGO (AP)—Woman reporters who have replaced newspapermen now in the armed forces have a good chance to keep their jobs following the war, Fred Pownall, publisher of The Daily Iowan in Iowa City, Iowa, a representative of the Inland Daily Press association, said yesterday. Pownall, addressing a meeting of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, reported on a survey he made of 66 United States newspapers ranging from dailies under 50,000 circulation to those with circulations of 400,000.

"Four and one half percent of the publishers replying hope to retain all their present women employees who wish to continue," said Pownall. "A second group representing 19.7 percent feel that men do better on executive positions in the newsroom, on copydesks, on city hall, federal and police runs and on certain types of advertising accounts."

"The largest group, 48.4 percent feel that their first obligation is to their returning service men, but they believe any girl who wishes to continue and can deliver in competition with men should be retained."

He said 27.3 percent of the publishers say "they definitely prefer men of equal ability for the regular news staff and that after the war they expect to use women only for society, women's pages and features."

The third group predicted that "up to 25 percent of the news staffs may be made up of women when the war is over."

Nearly 11 percent of the 66 publishers "have apparently had disappointing experiences with women employees," Pownall said, "for they expect to replace all the women they have employed during the war emergency with men."

Partisans Drive South To Fiume

LONDON (AP)—The Yugoslav Partisans of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), driving south toward the German-held naval base of Fiume, were reported making headway yesterday in that strategic battle zone, while farther south swift-moving German motorized columns lunged within 45 miles of Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia.

Yesterday's Partisan communique gave no indication of how close to Fiume the patriots have advanced but noted "successful fighting" in the "area of Fiume" and in the Slovene coastal region. Tito's forces were reported Friday to be locked in heavy battle with the Germans around Novomesia, 48 miles northeast of Fiume.

Acknowledging a new German thrust toward Sarajevo after an advance down the Vrbas river valley from Tito's fallen mountain citadel at Jajce, the Yugoslav war bulletin reported fresh Partisan successes, including the capture of two towns in eastern Bosnia, Bijeljina and Janja, and Ivanjica in Serbia.

Scandinavian Efficiency in—

Norwegian Post-War Planning

The people of Scandinavia have a reputation for being planners. They are careful, thrifty, efficient—witness their system of cooperative marketing, a Danish scheme now being tried on a small scale in this country.

Recently, via an article in a London newspaper and reports from the Royal Norwegian Information service, came more evidence of this talent for looking ahead. The Norwegian government-in-exile has announced detailed plans for the post-war rehabilitation of Nazi-held Norway.

Norway's king, Haakon, and his ministers, acting with full legal and constitutional rights granted by the Norwegian parliament shortly before they left the country, have delegated a committee, headed by a minister of supply and reconstruction, to draw up plans for rehabilitating Norway when hostilities end. This committee has gathered detailed information (undoubtedly via the underground) about conditions inside Norway.

Experts in the trades and organizations which will play a vital part in reconstruction have been called to London to take part in the planning. Chairmen of the trade unions and employers' organizations, bankers, shipping and industrial experts are all contributing ideas and information.

Though Britain and the United States are training officers for the civil administration of occupied countries, existing or newly-organized county and district organizations and normal local business channels will be used as soon as possible. The Norwegians hope that at least the skeleton of their democratic machinery will remain.

Urgent needs in the first months of freedom will be food and clothing. Devastated areas will have to be cleared and the transport system repaired, with a view to military needs. A nuclear system of civil administration, which will probably work with the military, will be set up. Preparations for feeding the country have reached the point that certain British wholesale firms have already been handed lists of supplies to be sent to Norway immediately after hostilities cease.

The plans are worked out in such detail that amounts for each town and village are considered. Some supplies, especially at first, may be transported by plane. The coal and fuel industry in Britain has also been informed of Norway's needs and the quantities destined for the different Norwegian ports have been agreed upon.

With the finances at its disposal—derived mainly from the Norwegian merchant marine—the Norwegian government has built up stocks of materials like leather and heavy cloth, although a large part of these have been surrendered to American and British authorities to fill more urgent needs. Preliminary arrangements have been made with manufacturers so that when Norway's turn comes she will be given priorities on these badly-needed goods.

After Norway is fully liberated and civil government can again take over, the present government is expected to resign. The king will then appoint a new coalition government. This will be a period of strict economic regulation, for there will still be a shortage of supplies and transportation facilities. One of the most important jobs will be the restoration of Norway's fishing fleet, which will mean more food for Norway and the other newly-freed countries.

Negotiations are already in progress with shipyards in the United States, Britain and Canada to provide replacements for the heavy losses suffered by the merchant fleet in the battle of the Atlantic. Norway will demand that the relative strength of her pre-war merchant fleet be restored.

The third phase of Norwegian planning proposes a full general election when the country, in what is hoped will be something like normal conditions, will have the opportunity of deciding who shall guide it in the new era. Norway's plans are undoubtedly more detailed and comprehensive than those announced. But even in this sketchy outline, certain facts stand out:

1. The government-in-exile of Norway is not interested in perpetuating itself at the expense of its people. When the country is on its feet again, Norwegians will be allowed to choose their own form of post-war government.

2. The present government is wisely dealing with Norwegian industrialists and labor groups who are willing to risk possible punishment by the Nazis to plan for the future of their country. In this way undesirable quibbling elements will probably find themselves on the outside when peace comes.

The whole thing looks from here like another example of Scandinavian efficiency. —S.McK.

News Behind the News

Public Leadership Could Whip Juvenile Delinquency Problem

WASHINGTON—The Pepper sub-committee held loud hearings on juvenile delinquency some weeks back. Mayor LaGuardia fulminated. Nothing came of it. If anything does, you may be sure it will be an idea for spending money. That is the politicians' answer to every problem.

The mail reaction to some thoughts I ventured Dec. 2 suggests the solution may be wrought without the expenditure of a Morgenthau penny simply by some public leadership along the right path. This leadership well could be undertaken by LaGuardia, Senator Pepper, Mrs. Roosevelt and other major politicians already articulately involved.

The personal testimony in letters from school teachers, soldiers, mothers, fathers, would make a large sized volume, but it all boils down to a simple understanding of what has taken hold of us nationally. It shows the symptoms of the trouble, points to the cause and the cure.

Teachers wrote many specific case histories of their inability to handle the problem of an increasing number, but still a minority, of children. The large majority still come from sound homes where good mothers enforce discipline.

These probably are being better raised today than any children in our history. They do their work and conform to the customs of society.

But literally there are hundreds of thousands, if not millions of homes in which there is a degrading and degenerating absence of discipline—not due to economic reasons either, as the prim social thinkers and politicians contend, progress with shipyards in the United States, Britain and Canada to provide replacements for the heavy losses suffered by the merchant fleet in the battle of the Atlantic. Norway will demand that the relative strength of her pre-war merchant fleet be restored.

DIVINE-HUMAN ENCOUNTER.

By Emil Brunner, Philadelphia: Westminster Press. 207 pp. $2.50.

Reviewed by MEL PEET

The reassessment and reassertion of Biblical Christianity, as it was understood and elaborated in the Reformation of Luther and Calvin, is mainly directed, in its critical task, against the philosophical and religious tenets of classical antiquity, both as they affect the Church by its internal acceptance of them, and as they circumscribed, paralyzed, and isolated her in Renaissance humanism and its consequent development into modern culture. In this country, where the Church has been decimated and her premises obscured more than anywhere else, neo-protestant criticism has aimed at exposing the invalidity of the classical tenets which enfeeble her. In Europe, the Church has been numerically reduced but she has never been so apostate from her institutes of the Reformation, and therefore neo-protestantism has not had to reveal the fatality of Renaissance humanism to a deceived and ruined populace, but has rather been able to perceive and expose the deadly work of classical precepts in the core of the Church herself; that is, in the Word of God and in the faith of men.

Thus Emil Brunner, in "The Divine-Human Encounter," attacks the application of the intellectualistic concept of antithesis between objectivity and subjectivity to the dialectic unity of Word and faith which founds the true Church. Brunner considers the philosophical postulate that truth is object, and acceptance of truth is subject to be a "disastrous misunderstanding which affects the entire content of Christian doctrine, operates fatally in the practice of the Church, most severely impairing the proclamation of the Word and faith among the fellowship."

The Biblical concept of truth, falsified by this antithesis, is according to Brunner properly perceived through understanding the act of personal correspondence between God and man in love and faith. This act is the divine-human encounter in which man, with complete trust, obeys God's demand for complete submission and love, and God bestows his unconditional forgiveness, love, and strengthening grace upon sinful man. Christ is the historical revelation and embodiment of this extension of God's forgiving love and grace to men who have used their original freedom of self-determination to revolt against God. Thus it is through Christ, in the act of personal correspondence with God, that man allows his egotistic "I" to be dethroned, he recognizes his innate evil, he repents of it, and depends upon God to forgive him and remove it. This act is the essence of true faith and it happens climactically in prayer.

The lack of such a living faith in individuals who accept the Gospel results in their believing that faith consists in accepting, as truth, the Bible as Word of God, sacraments as God's grace, baptism as remission of sin, confession as repentance, etc. The institutional Church is therefore the expression of this objectivization. The counterpart of this objectivization is, partially, a reaction against it, though the history of the Church seems to substantiate claims that either objectivity or subjectivity is a reaction against the other. At any rate, just as objectivism strives for that which is fixed, secure, authoritative, and disposable, so subjectivism urges toward freedom and spontaneity. Objectivism clings to the historical givenness of the revelation, to the Word of truth given, spoken, and written once for all. Subjectivism, contrariwise, insists that nothing is fixed, or divinely given, but that only the free, ruling Spirit of God, enlightening everyone when and how it pleases, is binding. Hence only the individual can experience it, and that which he receives is incommunicable. The historical expression of it is, therefore, mysticism, Pietism, etc.

Thus it is shown by Brunner that objectivism is the stultification and calcification of a dead (i.e., impersonal) faith, and that subjectivism is the freeing of an egotistic urge for freedom in which the significance of faith other than the individual believer is dissipated.

Brunner briefly traces the history of Subjectivism in the Church to the present and shows how it ultimately comes to regard religion as little more "than a certain social feeling or value experience, for the truth content of which it is wholly meaningless to ask." This resolution of subjectivism and the tendency since the last war to remember the Reformation concept of faith seem to indicate, for Brunner, the end of subjectivism. The Bible has again been made the center for orientation and the Church as recipient and proclaimer of the Word of God has been seriously re-conceived. But Brunner takes pains to point out that when the Church

When you see captured newsreels of enemy production—utilizing the millions of slave laborers from conquered countries—it's hard to figure the war will be over in two or three months. When you grasp the fact that, while the Nazis lost some 30 divisions at Stalingrad, they replaced these with 60 new ones, "better armed and better equipped," you're not so prone to figure on that bright new post-war auto for the near future.

War Workers Seeing Important Movie

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—A movie that tells more than a million words about the status of our war is now being shown to war workers, and ought to be shown to the public. It would be an effective antidote to that false optimism of which officialdom so often complains and would greatly assist the armchair strategists to break away from that innocent alluring siren, Pollyanna.

This movie is "War Department Report," a 45-minute document which delves, unemotionally, into what the department considers the true picture of things. It does not discount successes so far attained, either in Europe or Asia, but it does give a compelling view of the colossal job ahead in both theaters.

Characterized as "not propaganda and not a pep talk," the film represents a departure from precedent in that, for the first time in its history, the war department is making such a report on military situation. It is hard to understand why it should have been restricted to war workers, but it is possible that good showmanship—getting it talked about first and creating a demand—could be the motive. If so, we're gladly biting.

Prof. Thornton Opens Lecture Series Tonight

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department will present the first of three lectures on the six Christian pillars of peace at the Sunday night vesper service of the First Congregational church tonight at 8:15.

These six statements of political proposals of the peace to come were drawn up by a commission established by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America under the chairmanship of Dr. John Foster Dulles. Dr. Dulles was an adviser to President Wilson at the peace conference in Paris, a member of the supreme economic council, the first American member of the reparations commission, and financial adviser to several foreign governments.

The pillars, drawn up by leaders of the Protestant churches, were endorsed last summer by Christian leaders from 14 nations as those which the people of all nations should accept and seek to have accepted by their governments.

The two points which Professor Thornton will discuss this evening are that the peace must provide the political framework for a continued collaboration of the united nations and of neutral and enemy nations, and that the peace must make provision for bringing within the scope of international authority those governments which have widespread international repercussions.

Jan. 23, Prof. Troyer S. Anderson of the history department will discuss the third and fourth pillars, and Prof. Claude J. Lapp of the physics department will conclude the series Jan. 30.

The discussions are open to the general public.

SMOOTH SKATING AHEAD

GLIDING ALONG WITH the greatest of ease is Kathleen (Cocky) Hanson, A1 of Cedar Rapids, who poses with Cpl. Eddie Antonitis, A. S. T. P. language and area student. Cocky is wearing a skating costume of blue velvet which contrasts beautifully with her flaming red hair. The jacket is torso style and she accents it with a white dickey collar. The skirt is full and circular. She adds long blue tights for warmth and white rabbit fur mittens to complete the ensemble.

La la la-la, la la la-la... that's the river—or on City park pond, or over at Melrose skating with the rest of the Iowa coeds. You've seen some tricky togs too, for instance:

PEGGY MARVEL, C3 of Webster City, in her maroon gabardine sheelined snow-suit. The long jacket is fitted at the waist with a double draw buckle on each side and a zipper up the front. Two patch pockets provide added trim. The ski-pants are full for freedom in action and have elastic on the bottom to keep out the winter winds. Peggy's jacket has a detachable hood that's fleece-lined and decorated with white bunny fur. She wears matching bunny fur mittens and white shoe-skates to complete her ensemble.

DOTTY BONN, A2 of Highland Park, Ill., is the blond you see doing all those fancy figures on the river these days. She's wearing a red wool box-jacket with big patch pockets and big red buttons.

TERRY ANN TESTER, A4 of Iowa City, just sticks to black and white, and wisely so. Her wool jacket is short and fitted, fastens with a zipper and has white wind-breaker lining for warmth. Her ski-pants are also black wool, and she teams the outfit with a white wool sweater, white mittens and headscarf.

MARGE BROWN, U of San Antonio, Tex., finds our Iowa winters fun when she's warmly dressed in her wool skating togs. The jacket, which is bright red, is long and fitted and buttons up the front. A hand-warmer pocket decorates each side. Marge wears ski-pants of blue for contrast, cut with the smart lines of an officer's uniform. She adds a red billed ski-cap, furry red earmuffs and fur-lined mittens for more accent. It seems that red, white and blue is THE color combination for the Iowa coed on ice this winter, but whatever the color, we do know she's dressing warmly, yet looking winsome. If you don't believe it, grab your skates and come down by the river, or over to City park or Melrose just any of these chilly afternoons.

tons which fasten it up the front. Her ski-pants are of navy blue gabardine. She has white figure skates. Dotty's headscarf is of red wool to match her jacket and it's trimmed with white fringe. The finishing touch is provided by her huge "goalie" mittens of white leather.

Plaid Ensemble
Gliding along is CATHERINE HARMEIER, A4 of Iowa City, in a circular skating skirt of dark maroon and green plaid on a buff-colored background. Her jacket is also buff-colored and quilted. For accessories she wears a green ski-cap to match the tones of her skirt, and long green gauntlet gloves.

A familiar figure on City park pond is FERN HARRIS, A3 of Newton, who wears a navy blue ski-suit. The jacket has an inset belt and zips up the front. Clever flowers embroidered down the front in colorful yarn add gaiety. The trousers are also of navy blue wool and zip up the legs. For accessories, Fern chooses gray fur mittens which match the navy blue hood on her packet, also trimmed in gray fur.

MARJORIE STOUT, A4 of Casper, Wyo., looks cute and capable as she dips and twirls at Melrose in a two-piece skating outfit that's as clever as anything we've seen on ice. The skirt is green plaid with three kickpleats in front and three in back to allow for plenty of action. Marge's jacket is of wool in the same shade of green as the plaid of her skirt. The lapels are of matching plaid. Flaps of the two patch pockets on the hip of the jacket are also plaid. A white scarf, white fur mittens and white shoeskates complete the costume.

A second Sonia Henie is JEAN MOLLIS, A2 of Muscatine, who sports a heavy white Norwegian sweater with blue reindeer prancing across the front. Something new in action-accessories is her close fitting cap, which comes down over her ears and ties under her chin, and matches the sweater. To complete the three-piece effect Jean adds reindeer mittens—a three-piece combination right out of the movies! Jean's ski-trousers are of navy blue to go with the blue sweater design and she wears white figure skates.

Cutting a Neat Figure
BETTY LEW SCHMIDT, A2 of Freeport, Ill., cuts a "neat figure" while figure-skating these days, for she chooses a bright blue and white Norwegian sweater over which she wears a white gabardine jerkin which zips up the front. Her ski pants are also of bright blue gabardine. She adds wrist gauntlets to keep out the wind and snow, a practical fashion accessory for the Iowa coed who goes in for cold weather sports, and blue and white yarn mittens.

We hear some little gals are black and blue these days, but TERRY ANN TESTER, A4 of Iowa City, just sticks to black and white, and wisely so. Her wool jacket is short and fitted, fastens with a zipper and has white wind-breaker lining for warmth. Her ski-pants are also black wool, and she teams the outfit with a white wool sweater, white mittens and headscarf.

MARGE BROWN, U of San Antonio, Tex., finds our Iowa winters fun when she's warmly dressed in her wool skating togs. The jacket, which is bright red,

Woman Engineer Will Speak Tuesday to Engineers Institute

From young lady of leisure to prominent woman engineer is the story of Edith Clarke, who is to be the speaker before the joint meeting of the Iowa section of the university student chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the electrical engineering auditorium.

Miss Clarke, one of the few woman engineers in the United States belonging to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, is unusual in her field, since rarely does a woman gain the prominence she has attained in industry.

G. E. Specialist
She holds a position as specialist in problems of power transmission systems at the General Electric company's central station department in Schenectady.

Her work involves the various and frequent problems relating to the satisfactory operation of a power system as a whole. It is the job of Miss Clarke and her colleagues to determine whether changes in, or additions to, power systems will give the required performance with the assurance that the voltage will exceed at no point that for which the system is designed.

Most of Miss Clarke's work is done through the medium of her thorough knowledge of mathematics and electrical engineering. She has made intensive studies in arranging information in graphs to minimize work.

Holds 2 Patents
Listed in "Leading Women of America," "American Women," and "Who's Who in New York," Miss Clarke holds two patents, one on a transmission line calculator, the other on a saturated synchronous condenser, and is the author of numerous books and papers in her field.

When Miss Clarke decided to go to Vassar, she had previous little liking for subjects taught in school. Her decision brought a sudden end to a proposed life of leisure.

However at graduation, having specialized in science and mathematics, Edith Clarke was both an honor roll student and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity.

Before receiving her M.S. degree, she was employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company in New York, working for six years as assistant to the research engineer, and then as head of calculations for the transmission and protection departments.

When she received her master's degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1919, she was the first woman ever to earn a degree in electrical engineering from that institution.

Armed with that degree, Edith Clark accomplished something that has never been done by anyone else before or since—she crashed the gates of the General Electric company as an electrical engineer without having gone through the company's famous "test" course first. With the exception of a year's leave of absence, during which she served as professor of physics at the Constantinople Women's college in Turkey, Miss Clarke has been with General Electric ever since.

Hawkeyes Chalk Up Seventh Win, 56-30

Dick Ives Paces Iowa Scoring

Center Leads Augies; Hawkeyes Play Illini Here Next Weekend

By WALLY STRINGHAM
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

The Iowa Hawkeyes chalked up their seventh straight victory last night, defeating a scrappy Augustana college team 56 to 30. Dick Ives, the Diagonal flash, was high point man with 17 points to his credit. Fjellman looked best for the losers, as he hit the basket for 11 points.

Augustana started the game in strong spurts, as they held the Hawks to 10 points for the first 10 minutes. The game was freely sprinkled with fouls, as both teams fought gamely for the ball. A total of 27 fouls was tallied by both teams. Postels left the game via the foul route.

The Hawks' fast break and sharp shooting was too much for the game lads from Rock Island. Augustana looked very good under the basket—plenty of height and aggressiveness.

Even the Iowa reserves seemed to be able to score at will against Augustana, but lacked the polish of the more experienced five. Iowa remains the only Big Ten team to keep a clean slate in games so far this season. The Iowa cage team found it hard to hit from the free throw lane, but made up for it in their superior floor game.

Iowa would have undoubtedly found the going very tough against a conference team, judging by the way they played last night, but by next weekend should shape up. "Pops" Harrison thought the game was sloppy, and expects the boys to show up much better next weekend.

Second Half Counts
They do all right in the first half—but University of Iowa basketball players usually become even more efficient point-makers in the second period, an analysis of the six victories has shown.

The second half point margin was better than that of the first period in four of the six games. In only one game did the Hawkeyes trail at the half and then they overcame the 5-point deficit and outscored opponents, Minnesota, by 13 points in the final period.

Clinton Downs St. Mary's in Walkaway

Falling before a team they had defeated previously, the St. Mary's Ramblers suffered their worst defeat of the season Friday night at the hands of a strong St. Mary's team of Clinton 42-15.

Leading at the end of the first quarter 8-3 and at the half 16-11, the Clinton five began pulling away and were never in danger throughout the rest of the game.

The Ramblers were really suffering an off night and managed to connect for only 4 field goals all night, 3 coming in the first half and one in the second.

The scoring was pretty evenly divided among the home team with Jacobs taking scoring honors with 4 field goals and 3 free throws for 11 points. Wolfe was second for Clinton connecting for 7 points.

The Ramblers high point man was Tom Stable who made 2 baskets and 3 charity tosses for 7 points. Herick and Kasper played the best ball for the visitors with Kasper being especially good on rebounds during the second half.

This was the fourth loss for the Ramblers, but out of the 10 games they have played to date, they have won six which gives them a .600 average. Of the remaining five games on the schedule only the game with Sharon, —an 19, is to be played at home.

Boilermakers Stifle Minnesota Five, 43-17

Undermanned Gophers Hand Purdue Cagers 4th Straight Victory

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers bagged their fourth straight Western conference triumph last night by stifling an under-manned Minnesota quintet, 43 to 17.

The victory was even more convincing than Purdue's 51-to-38 triumph over the Gophers Friday night. Ward Lambert's charge to a took command at the outset and picked up momentum throughout, racing into a 21-to-10 lead at half-time.

Charlie Haag, sophomore guard, assumed the scoring responsibilities for Purdue when the visitors stymied high-scoring Bill Lodge to a single field goal. Haag's 16 points was high for contest.

Purdue's defense, slightly spotty Friday night, was the highlight of last night's tilt. The Boilermakers clamped the lid on, allowing the Gophers only four buckets from the field and nine from the charity stripe.

Wisconsin Takes 2nd Win Over Michigan in 2 Days, 50-41

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's basketball team last night handed Michigan its second defeat in 24 hours, downing the Wolverines 42 to 31 with a determined second half spurt before a season-record crowd of 10,500.

The Badgers, who triumphed in the first game of their series Friday night, got away slowly in the decisive second period after leaving the floor at the intermission on the short end of a 19-18 count. They muffed numerous chances on faulty passing, but after breaking a 23-23 tie gradually pulled away.

Midway through the second half, with Ohio holding a 63-24 edge, the Buck substitutes were sent in, but the Hoosiers were barely able to hold their own against the second stringers.

Bluehawks Squeeze Out 45-36 Triumph

University high Bluehawks trounced a hard-fighting Monticello team Friday night 45-36, tightening their hold on second place in the Eastern Iowa conference. The Blue's scoring attack was led by Capt. Wagner with 16 points, followed closely by Steve Nussner with 15 points.

The game was a close one with doubt as to the winner until four minutes into the fourth quarter. At the end of the third quarter the score was 30-28. The Blues counted heavily on free throws and raised the score to a comfortable lead of 38-30. After that both teams exchanged baskets until the game ended.

Last week the Rivermen were tied in the conference with the Panthers, but Friday night's victory nosed them out leaving U-high with undisputed second place. The Tipton Tiger team so far has been undefeated leaving them high at first place.

Albert Evans To Be Speaker For Red Cross

Supplied Ambulances, Medical Equipment For 'Flying Tigers'

Albert Evans, who has returned to the United States after 18 months' Red Cross service in China, will speak at the annual meeting of the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross, which will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Community building.

Each 1943 contributor is a member of Red Cross and is urged to attend the meeting. Officers for 1944 will be chosen, and 25 new members will be elected to the board of directors.

Another highlight of the program will be a talk by D. D. Night, general field director for the Red Cross midwestern area.

Evans, who has been assistant manager of the midwestern area for 23 years, has also held positions with the disaster relief division of the Red Cross and has been on special assignments and speaking engagements.

In China and India Evans was acting director of China Relief for the American Red Cross. His principal task was to arrange medical supplies and equipment shipments through the Chinese Red Cross, Chinese National health administration and the Chinese army medical service.

Through his efforts as an American Red Cross representative, he was in close contact with the Flying Tigers, supplying them with ambulances and medical supplies. He did a similar service for the malaria commission, comprised of United States public health service officials on the Burma road and General Joseph Stillwell's staff in Burma and China. He was closely associated with Dr. Gordon Seagrave of "Burma Surgeon" fame, who is now a colonel in the medical corps of the army, and his staff in Burma and Assam.

The Red Cross canteen unit will serve coffee and doughnuts at a social hour after the meeting. Pictures of Red Cross activities, a map showing the number of contacts made by the home service division, a Red Cross kit and a prisoner of war package like those distributed by the Red Cross to American servicemen who are war prisoners, will be displayed.

In charge of arrangements are Mrs. Erling Thoen, chairman; Mrs. M. E. Taylor, and W. E. Starr.

The nominating committee is comprised of Irving Webber, Henrietta Safely, Mrs. William Spear, Mayor Wilber J. Teeters and Mrs. H. L. Beyne.

About 750 old records were turned in yesterday by Iowa City boys and girls as entrance fee to a special movie held as part of the record salvage drive.

More than 150 youngsters paid the admission of four records, which means that three more kits of recordings can be sent to servicemen overseas and in hospitals.

The records ranged from the old Edison type to four brand new ones bought by one boy so he could attend the "free" movie.

The drive, sponsored by the Roy L. Chopek post of the American legion will continue until Jan. 31. Anyone having old records is asked to turn them in at Spencer's Harmony hall.

1944 Report Shows—

Delinquency Increasing —More Girls, More Cases

A large increase in delinquency problems, particularly those of girls, was indicated in the report of Mrs. Mabel R. Evans, Johnson county probation officer. Delinquency cases are those of juveniles committing more than one offense a year as distinguished from one-offense juvenile cases.

In 1943 there were 86 delinquency cases, 19 girls and 67 boys; in 1942, 78 cases, 72 boys and 6 girls; and in 1941, 63 cases, 58 boys and 5 girls.

One of the causes for the increased delinquency is the big demand for workers, says Mrs. Evans. Teenage girls are now working in public eating houses any hour of the day or night and contacting situations detrimental to their morals. Parents are largely to blame, she says, as are tavern and restaurant owners.

Mrs. Evans said that boys and girls are not asked their ages when they apply for positions, and they do not have school permits. Hiring such workers is breaking the child labor laws.

Many young boys are getting big wages, and to them schools seem to offer no opportunities. One 16-year-old offender was making $97 a month.

One 12-year-old boy is working after school until 8 p. m. When Mrs. Evans spoke to his parents, they said it was better to have him working than running around the streets.

Many young girls are coming to Iowa City to work in cafes, restaurants and taverns. They are living in unsupervised homes where there is no one to take a responsibility for the hours they keep.

"They're bound to get into difficulties," says Mrs. Evans. Fifty-six delinquents, 39 boys and 17 girls, were also listed in the report. Of these offenders 19 were brought before Mrs. Evans for stealing; 17, incorrigible; 8, destroying property; 2, window peeping; 2, fighting; 4, sex offense; 4, runaways; 8, truancy; 2, driving a car without permission; 1, forgery; 2, intoxication, and 5, neglect.

City Attorneys To Supervise Scouts' Rule

Kings for a day! Iowa City Boy Scouts are looking forward to Feb. 12—the day when they take over the "official chairs" of the city.

Just as for any city election, there will be political parties, conventions, nominations, elections, and finally, the actual running of the city itself.

Iowa City attorneys, under the direction of Arthur Leff, president of the Johnson County Bar association, will speak to the Scouts at the regular meetings tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and will explain the city administration and elections to the youths.

After the discussions, each Scout will choose the political party to which he wishes to belong, and each will register at that time.

Party conventions, for both the Progressives and the Citizens, will be held Monday, Jan. 24, and a candidate from each party will be nominated for each office. Attorneys who spoke at the different meetings will advise the Scouts in drawing up their party platforms.

The big election day will be Monday, Feb. 7. Each troop will have ballots and regular election boards.

Besides holding office on Saturday, Feb. 12, the Boy Scout city council will meet Monday night, Feb. 14.

Troop meeting speakers, places of conventions, and confederation with the city officials will be in charge of the camping and activities committee.

"The object of the program," according to Owen B. Thiel, executive of the Iowa River valley council, "is to inform Scouts as to the administration of the city government." Other cities have sponsored projects such as this, but this is Iowa City's first trial.

"THE CONSULTANTS KNOW WHERE TO GO"

Hello, gee, it's nice to be back and the Happiest of '44 to all of you. Perhaps after you start breakin' your New Year's resolutions and have gasped at the name-changing line at the Registrar's office you'll have time to remember those post-holiday musts.

MUST—Remember to strangle that cadet who calls me Margie when my name is Gertrude.

MUST—Hand in assignments only two days late.

MUST remember its leap year and do more USO exercising, if I want to keep the marriage 'poll' free from 'vault'.

MUST—Remember to borrow a snow plow and boots to make it to my class each day—these Iowa flurries—oh me.

Think how good those plaid wool shirts would feel on these cold mornings. You can get them at BREMERS in pretty bright plaids as well as soft plain colors of blue and tan. They are so nice and warm for skating too. Both the girls and fellows wear them. Real harmonizing and priced at $5.00 and $7.50.

"Mad about Music" . . . sure Kimmie (Barbara Kimmel, Pi Phi) is since she and Bob Severson (Count Eleven) chained their pins not so long ago.

DOMBY'S are featuring those alligator pumps that every girl needs in her wardrobe. For campus wear they have brown loafers and with long-wearing composition soles too. You know they're just the thing for walking, icy or fair weather. DOMBY'S BOOT SHOP.

Another Phi Beta Pi pin has journeyed to its original owner. Jan McTavish, Alpha Delta Pi, returned hers. Who's the lucky guy now, Jan?

Sunday night supper, and where shall we go? Why not try the CAPITOL CAFE to find just what is best for evening appetites. They serve regular dinners or sandwiches. Enough to satisfy that hunger and still fit the pocketbook.

The Rosie Kruse and Dick Saar romance that was so topsy turvy unpredictable is now moving ahead smoothly. . . . A week ago Monday she agreed to keep his A.T.O. pin safe and sound for him while he's in the army. . . .

Daily, clothes show you're ready but rough. Really pressing isn't always quite enough. When you find you've lost your old appeal.

With guys whose hearts you used to steal then remember DAVIS CLEANERS takes the dirt and steam dresses, skirts and sweaters. —Be alert DAVIS CLEANERS.

After the holidays are over Christmas cash means a real Christmas present for your continuing winter wearing. Buy one of the strictly-for-winter dresses at THREE SISTERS. Style to show and a price you won't regret—Try and buy at THREE SISTERS.

'Twas last Saturday night and Nor Niklason, Alpha Delta Phi, came home wearing the Psi Omega pin of Parker Nickolisen.

Fellow, you can't go wrong on the gift for her at HAUSER'S JEWELRY STORE. They have those unique heart compacts in silver. The miniature heart on the front is the ideal place for engraving. A gift that will be cherished by any girl.

What are these RUMORS we've been hearing about Mary Kirby and Dave Danner??? Isn't that sort of rushing things, Dave. . . . Speaking of rushing, John Scalon, Sigma Chi, has the boys pop-eyed over his obvious interest in pretty Rachel Updegraff, Pi Phi pledge.
