Allies Finish Campaign For Jap-Held Solomons

22,000 Japs Now Isolated

Military Blockade Has Troops Cut Off From Supply Base at Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Wednesday (AP)—American and New Zealand troops occupied the jungle-covered Green Islands Monday, completing the campaign for the Solomon Islands, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Japanese forces estimated at 22,000 dispersed through the Solomons "are now isolated from their sources of supply at Rabaul, New Britain," and face starvation and disease "from the military blockade which renders their position hopeless," MacArthur said in a communiqué.

The allied troops from Admiral William F. Halsey's south Pacific command, met only machinegun resistance as they landed, with air and naval surface craft protection, on the boomerang-shaped coral islands only 120 miles east of Rabaul, the enemy supply base which has been heavily hit by allied aircraft, and 40 miles northwest of Buka island.

With the northern end of the Solomons archipelago now in allied hands, and the central and southern islands already firmly held, the only alternative other than death by starvation for the 22,000 Japanese is surrender.

Allied forces holding the Green Islands, also called Nissan, can stop the Japanese from running supplies by sea to their isolated comrades who still cling to air and sea-battered points on Choiseul, Shortland, Bougainville and Buka Islands; Allied air superiority in this sector is unquestioned.

The landing was protected by warships as big as cruisers and apparently took the Japanese by surprise. The enemy's machinegun fire did no damage to the landing craft, a naval spokesman said.

The allies' grip on these northern islands and their bases to the south will permit troops to hunt out the enemy garrisons at their leisure.

Today's announcement of the landing on the group of five islands, which form an atoll 16 miles long by 14 miles wide with an interior lagoon, explains in part the reason for the mounting aerial offensive against enemy airfields at Rabaul and at Kavieng, New Ireland. Kavieng is 230 miles northwest of the Green islands.

The communiqué today reported another of the almost daily air raids on Rabaul. Planes from the Solomons air force struck Vunakanau, Tobera and Lakunai airfields with 171 tons of bombs, and hit Kavieng and Panapai airfields on New Ireland with 113 tons.

Tests Prove Chaplin Not Child's Father

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorneys for Charles Chaplin and Miss Jean Berry announced last night that blood tests had shown the 54-year-old movie producer was not the father of the four-month-old baby of his 23-year-old former protege.

In a surprise move, Chaplin, accompanied by his attorney entered a clinical laboratory where the three physicians were waiting to conduct the tests.

An hour later, Miss Berry and her baby, Carol Ann, appeared at the laboratory with Irwin.

The two attorneys said that shortly afterward, the three physicians emerged from a test room and submitted confidential reports to them.

"This vindicates Mr. Chaplin," said an attorney. "Naturally we're going to file a dismissal to Miss Berry's paternity suit as soon as we can."

Finn, Russian Negotiations Underway

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Direct peace negotiations between Finland and Russia appeared to be underway last night and Col. Gen. Eduard Dietl was reported to have urged Hitler to order evacuation of his troops in northern Finland.

A German source said there were indications that a number of transport officers, essential for a large-scale movement, had been assigned to Dietl's command. Col. Gen. Hans Juergen Stumpf of the air force has virtually abandoned his Finnish headquarters in favor of Oslo, Norway, it was said. He also was said to have ordered the withdrawal of fighters and bombers from the Rovaniemi and Kemi airfields to southern Norway.

In this connection it was recalled that approximately three weeks ago Finland's foreign minister, Sir Hendrik Ramsay, posed a hypothetical question to the American chargé d'affaires regarding the American attitude toward Finland in the event German troops were withdrawn.

The question might well have been prompted by knowledge on Ramsay's part that the Germans were considering evacuation—a move which would greatly simplify Finland's chances of quitting the war. One of the hurdles separating Finland from an agreement with Russia undoubtedly has been the presence of seven German divisions in northern Finland.

The Finnish legation here disclosed that Juhu Kusti Paasikivi, former Finnish cabinet minister, had conferred with the Russian minister to Sweden, Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, and expects to meet her again.

Cedar Rapids Man Accused of Sabotage

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Elmer Fred Schroeder, 30-year-old farm hand, yesterday was charged by the FBI and special agents of the Rock Island railroad with sabotage in connection with what they said was an attempt to derail a train.

Schroeder, who said his home was in Fairbank, but who has been working on a farm between here and Ely, waived preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner R. L. Whelan here yesterday. He was held on $2,500 bond.

Rock Island Agents D. P. Fagan and John Devin, who arrested him at the farm late Monday, said they thought Schroeder had placed a rail anchor on one rail of the Rock Island tracks south of here because he had become angered at a ticket agent in Cedar Rapids Sunday.

Chamberlin Traces Stalin's Rise to Power; Stresses Importance of Russia's Position

Comrade Stalin has concentrated in his hands an enormous power and I am not sure he knows how to use that power with sufficient caution," Lenin's prophetic description of Joseph Stalin was selected by William Henry Chamberlin in his discussion of "Stalin's World Game" at a university lecture last night as a summary of Russia's past and a glance into her future.

Chamberlin meticulously traced Stalin's rise to power beginning with his role as a professional revolutionary leader, his election as secretary of the central committee of the Communist party, and finally, upon Lenin's death, his assumption of complete power.

"This vindicates Mr. Chaplin," said an attorney. "Naturally we're going to file a dismissal to Miss Berry's paternity suit as soon as we can."

Reds Harass Retreating Foe

Nazis May Be Thrown Entirely From Russia Within Five Weeks

LONDON, Wednesday (AP)—The Russians in the north, moving down along two railroads and a highway, have hammered the Germans farther back toward the great communications center of Pskov, bombing and shelling the Nazi retreat lines choked with trucks, carts and infantry, Moscow announced today.

The Russians were pressing the Germans in five other sectors of the eastern front as well and were making gains so consistently they seemed to have an excellent chance of throwing the Nazis completely out of Russia in the remaining five weeks of winter.

Close in for Kill

Far south in the Ukraine the Russians were closing in on the kill on an estimated 50,000 German survivors of a force of perhaps 100,000 trapped by the Red Army. The Moscow midnight bulletin, recorded by the Soviet monitor from a broadcast, said 1,800 more Germans were killed, 60 of their tanks wrecked and as many as seven repeated German attacks to break the encircling ring outside were beaten back.

Leningrad front troops, striking down from Luga, killed over 1,400 Germans and captured 40 communities in one part of the drive for Pskov. One force reached the rail station of Serebyanka and a mile further the town of Kalutitsky, 16 miles south of Luga and 75 miles northeast of Pskov. Further east on the highway Gorodets, 35 miles south of Luga, was captured.

Enemy Infantry Rout

West of this area other Russian forces pushed down the Narva-Pskov railway along the east shore of Lake Peipus capturing several populated places. An enemy infantry regiment was routed and many prisoners and much material taken. The Russians in this area were last reported at Polna, 47 miles north of Pskov.

In one area of the northern front, the midnight communiqué said, Red army men straddled a highway, cutting off the enemy's retreat.

The Germans began to divert columns with difficulty along smaller roads, creating a big concentration of trucks, carts and infantry. Soviet artillerymen successfully fired on the road, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

Destroy 350 Trucks

"Our airmen struck blows on the German communications and destroyed 350 trucks and 80 carts with army supplies, 11 buses and wiped out about a battalion of enemy infantry."

Moscow dispatches said the Russians were particularly eager to reach Pskov by Feb. 23, the 26th anniversary of the Red army's official birthday.

Ransom for Rome

The present allied military government in Italy would refuse to estimate the value of Rome to the success of allied strategy, but once the city was worth 4,000 pounds—of pepper. When invading Goths conquered this ancient capital, they demanded a pepper ransom, for at that time, spices were more precious than rubies or gold.

During this war, spices again become important since Japan is holding the far eastern spice islands, but the seasonings will never reach an extremely high rate of exchange, for our middle American neighbor countries now successfully produce pepper as well as nutmeg, allspice, capsicum, cardamom, ginger, mace and cinnamon.

Middle America Produces for U.S.

In 120 days of 1942, the Japs swallowed 94 percent of United States war-crops.

Before Pearl Harbor, the U. S. bought rubber, quinine, manila hemp, grass oils, rotentone insecticide, teakwood, and Roselle, a jute substitute, 4,000 miles across the Pacific from the Netherlands Indies and the far east. The remaining 6 percent, only about 1,000 miles away—or the distance from Chicago to New York—is produced in the western hemisphere's ten middle American republics, original source of rubber, cocoa, and quinine.

Able to protect ships that can do from four to 20 times as much productive work on a middle American run with less naval tonnage, the United States had begun expanding its policy of cooperation with middle America. Then, "in July, 1941," says Dr. Ross E. Moore in a recent bulletin of the department of agriculture, "this collaboration was given added impetus by legislative action and the appropriation of funds for cooperation with the other American republics to stimulate the production of agricultural commodities."

To supply urgent U. S. war needs, middle and North America set up general production stations in Nicaragua and El Salvador. In Costa Rica, Honduras, and Haiti.

DEAD LETTER DEPARTMENTWashington in Wartime*U. S. Congressmen Find Selves On the Firing Line

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Two things have happened in Washington recently which may have far-reaching effects on the political scene:

(1) The resignation of 41-year-old Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., to become a major on active duty with the Army.

(2) The appeal of four house members, headed by Rep. Lyle Boren, of Seminole, Okla., to the president to lift his ban against members of congress going into the armed services on leave of absence.

Senator Lodge's move deserves more than passing consideration. Although a Back Bay Boston Republican conservative by breeding, he was considered one of the most up-and-coming members of senate. He didn't have to run for office again until 1948. He was in the 29th seniority bracket in the upper chamber. He was a member of five important committees.

All this has tossed overboard to become a major on the firing line. If he ever comes back to the senate, he will have to start as just another freshman senator, subordinate perhaps, even to the man named by Gov. Leverett Saltonstall to succeed him, Sinclair Weeks, treasurer of the Republican national committee.

I have talked to Senator Lodge about his desire to get back into the army and I know how strongly he felt his military knowledge might be of more value to the nation than his votes and debates on the senate floor. Whether he's right or wrong hasn't anything to do with it. The fact that he and a good many others feel that way has.

OpinionOn and Off Campus

QUESTION: WHAT DO YOU THINK IS THE REASON FOR FRANK SINATRA'S SPECTACULAR RISE TO FAME?

Mary Kirby, A2 of Sioux Falls, S.D.: "Besides his haunting voice, he has hungry look about him that makes women want to mother him. This combination and his 'mike-appeal' have made him an over-night sensation, but I don't think he's here to stay. Some girls have agreed that a 'butch' haircut would be more becoming than his bow-tie."

Mrs. Stanley Robertson of Warm Springs, Ga., saleswoman: "I guess it's just that he has what all the women like. It's not what he sings but the way he sings it. He has a good voice, and as far as the screaming and moaning of his women audiences, this merely adds glamour and sensationalism to his popularity."

Dick Sherman, A3 of Des Moines: "As far as I can see, he possesses a great press agent and a certain 'hungry look' as some psychologists have explained it, that causes women to want to mother him. His voice isn't that good—just fair, in fact. It's obviously the feeling he puts into songs that 'sends' those howling females!"

Mary Dean Fowler, A4 of Miami, Fla. (psychology major): "Up to this point I haven't been able to understand it, unless it's some form of mass hypnosis. I think he's just ordinary as a vocalist. I would be interested to see him just to see what his attraction is."

Pvt. Jim Copland of Chicago, basic engineer in A. S. T. P.: "It must be because he brings out the maternal instinct in girls which develops in an emotional reaction, because, from a musical standpoint, his voice is just mediocre and wouldn't account for his sensational popularity."

Edna Price, A2 of Jefferson: "I think he has become the sensation he is merely because the American public demands some personality on which to focus its attention along lighter veins. He's such a week looking man in stature that nothing but his radio voice could hold any appeal. He's a good singer, but without the publicity backing he's had—girls screaming and fainting—he would never have come to the top as he did."

Harry McCann, A1 of Milford, Conn.: "It certainly isn't his voice, because there are a lot better singers, so it must be the combination of his press agent plus an apparent appeal he seems to have for the American women. I know I can't see what it could be."

Hazel Stern, A1 of West Liberty:

"I think his voice has a definite emotional appeal to younger girls. He has a certain charm or personality with which he puts a song over. Other than that it's purely psychological. As for the actual music, I can't see where he's any better than average vocalists."

Speaker Hopes for Free Russia In Free World at War's End

William Chamberlin
Describes Changes
Since Revolution

CONSUMERS' CORNER

Hope that out of this war there will emerge a "free Russia out of a free world" was expressed yesterday afternoon by William Henry Chamberlin, authority on Russian affairs, in his lecture before the Information First audience.

Changes that have come about in Russia since the Bolshevik revolution were described by Chamberlin as pointing towards a greater degree of popular freedom in Russia, despite the fact that no actual return to capitalism is evident.

Chamberlin illustrated this theory by citing the outcome of the four basic challenges of the Russian revolution, against private property, religion, family, and national patriotism.

In the challenge to private property, he said, Bolshevik principles have had their greatest degree of success, for in Russia the state acts as "sort of huge economic octopus," with practically everyone serving as a state employee.

Equalized agriculture is prevalent, and though the trend now is away from equality in wages because of the desire of Stalin to encourage the development of skills, there is still no concession made to the instinct for individual ownership.

A most encouraging development in Russia, according to Chamberlin, has been the recent modification of the challenge made during the revolution to religion.

Originally, though the practice of religion in Russia was never definitely forbidden, the whole weight of Soviet propaganda was thrown against it, thereby producing a whole generation whose only religious training was that received in the home or at infrequent church assemblies.

Rejected by Marx as an "opium for the people," religion had its dark age in Russia, until last fall when Stalin permitted the restoration of the patriarch of the Orthodox church. With this relaxation of former rules, said Chamberlin, "the wave of anti-religious bigotry has passed its high point in Russia."

The third challenge, to the family, Chamberlin declared, was to be expected from the very nature of the Russian revolution, which was responsible for the cleavage of nearly all Russian families along age lines, the younger, more revolutionary members of families breaking with their elders on questions of politics and religion.

Emigres losing touch with members of their families who remained in Russia and the legislation which made divorce a simple matter constituted other causes for the disruption of the family as a basic institution, according to Chamberlin.

Only in the late 1930's did the swing back to conservative family living begin, continuing until now family stability is approved by the Soviet government.

"Women are still encouraged and expected to work outside the home, however," he said, "because not only is the work of women a tremendous asset to the Soviet union during the course of the war, but homemaking as a profession is not rewarding."

One of the biggest shifts that has taken place in Russia, continued Chamberlin, is the regard in which national patriotism is held. The international theme was previously stressed to the point where the word "patriot" was an abusive term, but the change, he stated, has been sweeping and spectacular, until now "Soviet patriot" has become an honorable appellation.

This reversion to nationalism, he continued, is interesting from the standpoint of schemes of world reconstruction. The recent move of the Russian government in granting autonomy to the sixteen republics is in itself an important step toward desired decentralization.

"We may hope," he concluded, "that out of this tremendous ordeal of the whole human race will come the effect that bit by bit the Russian people will get more real control of their own government."

Proceeds of W. R. A. Carnival Saturday Will Go to W. S. S. F.

A carnival will be presented by the Women's Recreation association Saturday night from 7:30 to 11 o'clock, proceeds of which will go to the World Student Service fund. No charge will be made at the door but at each individual concession. Among the activities planned are a water ballet presented by Seals club, a floor show by the Tennis and Badminton

Hang Gloves Straight

Hang them straight, using clip clothespins, or slip a glove over each end of a wooden clothes hanger. Dry in a warm place.

Leather gloves can be washed successfully if they are of the washable type and have not been dry-cleaned. With the exception of doeskin and chamois, which should be squeezed in suds, wash gloves on the hands.

Work in a little extra soap on soiled fingertips and cuffs. Roll gloves off the hands, turning them inside out. Wash inside, rinse thoroughly and turn right side out. Pour out the excess water, shape and puff out fingers by blowing in them. Hang the gloves on a hanger and when they're almost dry, soften them by working them gently with the fingers.

Wash Wool Gloves

Wool gloves can be washed just as you wash wool sweaters. Draw an outline of the gloves on paper before you wash them. Squeeze rich, warm suds through and through. Avoid hard rubbing, for this tends to mat the wool.

Rinse well, and with an old turkish towel press out as much moisture as possible. If colors from embroidery or trimming tend to run, stuff a towel inside the gloves. Shape them to the drawn outline and allow them to dry away from excessive heat.

To restore the fluffiness to heavily napped gloves and mittens, brush them well with a medium-stiff brush when they are dry.

Iowa Meets League-Leaders For Conference Race Friday

Purdue Edges Iowa Slightly

Both Big Ten Teams Expect 'Hot Time' In Iowa Fieldhouse

Purdue's scat, scramble, and shoot attack, complete with under-basket acrobatics and sleight-of-hand passing, will be countered by a calculated University of Iowa basketball defense if the lessons now being mastered are effective here Friday evening.

The Hawkeyes, needing a win over the league-leaders to remain in the conference race, are being taught to use their height and mobility in tying up Purdue's three H's, Paul Hoffman, Charles Haag, and Dennis Horn.

Sets Terrific Pace

"Purdue sets a terrific pace and if they are hot in shooting they are hard to stop. For a team which averages only about six feet, they are good rebounders and they slash toward the basket, always trying for those quick flip-up short ones," Coach "Pops" Harrison said.

Harrison pointed out that Purdue has averaged 53.5 in winning seven of eight conference games, as compared with Iowa's 52.4; and on defense the Boilermakers, who harry the opposing shooters without mercy regardless of fouls, have held opponents to 38.4 average. Iowa's defense has allowed 43.3 points per game.

"We will have an offense ready for Purdue's best defense. The boys have much more poise and accuracy on the familiar home court and they have not let the defeats by Ohio State shake their confidence in themselves," Coach Harrison asserted.

Grafton Probably Lost

It's likely that Iowa will be without Jimmie Grafton, No. 1 reserve guard, for the Moline, Ill., freshman must report for army air corps service this weekend. Even if he does return for the game, he will not have had drill against Purdue's style.

Purdue, like Iowa, went unbeaten against four second division clubs. Boilermakers, however, defeated Ohio State at Columbus, 59-49, before losing their first conference game to the Buckeyes the following evening, 54-47. Iowa won seven straight then dropped both to Ohio State.

Seats Still Available For League Battle

Although all of the reserved seats have been sold for the Purdue-Iowa basketball game Friday in the fieldhouse, hundreds of unreserved seats will be available, Charles Galihier, business manager of athletics, has announced.

Great Lakes Drops DePauw In 54-35 Win

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP)—Great Lakes scored its 21st consecutive basketball victory last night and its second triumph over DePauw university this season by defeating the Tigers, 54 to 35.

The Tigers stayed within striking distance of the Bluejackets until within five minutes of the end of the game, but Great Lakes' early advantage was maintained all the way.

Paul Armstrong took scoring honors with 18 points, while Jack Coleman's brilliant rebound work for Great Lakes prevented DePauw from taking advantage of tip-ins shots.

PICTURED ABOVE is the late Lieut. Victor Vargon, U. S. army air forces, 1942 University of Iowa swimming team captain who was killed recently in a plane crash in the middle east.

Casualty lists now have carried the names of five former University of Iowa letter-winning athletes, latest being Lieut. Victor Vargon of the army air forces, captain of the 1942 Hawkeye swimming team.

Vargon, from Kansas City, Kan., won the major letter as a fancy diver in 1940, 1941, and 1942. He was killed in a plane crash within recent weeks soon after arriving in the Middle East war theater.

The five Hawkeyes lost, three were swimming team members.

They include Lieut. Ray Walters, navy aviator missing in the South Pacific April 13, 1942; and Robert Jones, who died in a crash of a navy training plane in Florida, Feb. 8, 1942.

All of the Iowans were involved in plane crashes. Ens. Nile Kinick, all-American football player, died at sea June 2, 1943 in his navy fighter plane; and Lieut. Bush Lamb, army airman, was listed as missing in North Africa in November, 1942. Lamb, a football player and twice winner of the Big Ten javelin title, once was unofficially reported in a North African hospital, but no confirmation of this report has been received.

St. Mary's starting lineup is not definite, but the forward positions will probably be taken over by Tom Stahle, Jack Kennedy or Andy Chukalas. Starting center will be either Bart Toohey, who has been changed over from a guard, or Bill Hetrick. Kennedy, Chukalas, Diehl and Kasper looked especially good in scrimmage Tuesday night.

The Greyhounds, who hold a 49-29 early season victory over the Ramblers, were the winners of the Dubuque Diocesan tournament. Bob Russell, "63" veteran center, will start tonight at the pivot post for the Cedar Rapids five. Prof. R. E. Ellsworth Discusses Forming 'Friends of Libraries'

I would like to see every alumnus of this university aware of the importance of collecting significant historic materials of his own day as well as of the past," Prof. Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of libraries, said yesterday in discussing the proposed establishment of a campus Friends of the Libraries organization.

Such an organization is composed of alumni groups and other friends of the university who would be on the alert to find book collections for the university and also endowments which would contribute to obtaining collections.

One activity of the club would be the stimulation of individuals themselves in making collections which later could be donated to the university.

Another activity of the club would be a publication containing information about additions to the library, importance of books and various educational articles.

"Experience has shown that Friends of the Libraries organizations have become a very useful and helpful intellectual channel between the alumnus and his alma mater—the best examples of this are found at Yale, Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard," Professor Ellsworth said.

A meeting of faculty members was held a few weeks ago to name a local committee to plan and supervise these library organizations. Plans include the establishment of such committees in every small town in Iowa and every large city in the United States.

Professor Ellsworth took steps to organize a New York City committee when he was there last week. This committee will consist of friends and alumni of the University of Iowa who will watch for collections of books and money for the university.

For the last ten years these Friends of the Library organizations have been established at eastern universities, whose libraries have been greatly expanded and improved through their efforts.

Clothes Care Begins in Your Closet

Regularity Is Secret for Keeping Your Wardrobe Clean, Looking Like New

Your wardrobe needs constant care. Set aside at least one night a week and give it a thorough going over. What you can't or won't wear, hand down or give to some war-relief project.

A dirty closet is a detriment to your clothes. Keep the floor clean and the door shut against dust. Always hang your clothes on hangers, preferably wooden or covered ones. Overnight hanging makes those small wrinkles fall out. Constant pressing is hard on fabric, so if your closet is a tiny one, hang out your dress for tomorrow, tonight. Never hang knits or crochets—lay them flat in a drawer. A small metallic brush will give those moths and larvae the brush off!

Care for Your Hats
The trimmings on a hat are the first to show wear and new trimmings will do wonders. Have your hats cleaned and blocked whenever they show signs of losing their shape.

Shoes, like other clothes, should be rotated. Shoe trees are optional but if you use them, give the adjustable wooden ones a try. If shoes are wet, stuff crumpled newspaper into the shoes to absorb moisture. Like your furs, keep them away from direct heat to prevent cracking. It is a good idea to polish all leather shoes, for it replaces natural oils and prevents cracking. Brush up back and suede with a clean, dry sponge or steel wool after each wearing. If your favorite suede shoes begin to look shabby, send them to an expert repairer, who will convert them into leather.

Brush Suede Gloves
Never wash your suede gloves but give them the same brushing that you give your suede shoes. For that matter, never wash any of your gloves unless it is specifically stated that they are washable.

Lingerie and Stockings

Demand nightly care. Girdles need a good scrubbing twice a week. Always mend your underthings before washing them to keep the rips and tears at a minimum. To freshen that limp veiling on your favorite hat, detach the veil from the hat and press with a medium hot iron between sheets of wax paper.

Your furs are fragile and need constant care. After each wearing, give them a few stiff shakes. Never brush soft furs. Books and packages carried under your arm tend to break the hairs. A light sprinkle won't hurt your coat but try to keep it out of a heavy rain. After a shower brush your fur lightly with a soft, clean cloth and hang out in the room to dry. Keep them from direct heat as the pelts will dry out and crack. This spring give them a complete overhauling, for rips should be given immediate attention. Give your furs the same care you give the rest of your furs.

Attorney Explains Income Tax Form At Kiwanis Meeting

A step-by-step explanation of the income tax form was made yesterday at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting by Attorney Louis Shulman. Distributing the blanks to club members, he explained the new revenue act of 1943 and the victory tax which is a part of the calculations to be listed on the form filed in March.

Several changes have been made, including the repeal of the earned income credit; the military mustering-out pay, which is not taxable, and the telephone, railroad and stamp taxes which have been wiped out. However, organizations which are exempt are requested to file returns, particularly labor unions. Estimates are now made on the basis of the previous year. If a person figures within 80 percent, penalties are not applied.

Another change made through the Marshall Field provision states that if a person has losses for five consecutive years he cannot deduct them from his tax.

New Luggage Tax

New taxes have also been levied on luggage, luxuries, transportation and telephones. The telephone tax has been raised from 10 to 15 percent. In the first class mails, the increase has been from two to three cents an ounce and from six to eight cents on airmail. Social security will be retained at the same rate, according to the income tax blank.

In military situations, if a person were enlisted in the army in 1942 and 1943, he will be entitled to a refund. The laws state that if he were in the service and making more money in 1942, the refund will be given.

Medical Expenses Exempted

All contributions must be listed and should be given individually, Shulman said. Medical expenses, which include traveling expenses of a trip to regain health, can be deducted.

Through the tax form of a university faculty member, Shulman illustrated the amounts of the net income, victory tax, surtax and deductions on property, losses and library depreciations. Three-fourths of the forgiveness tax is forgiven, and one-fourth is to be paid.

Shulman said it is not necessary to list bond exemptions, but if they are filed for one year, they must be listed every year.

Men Drivers Less Safe

Women motorists are coming into their own, according to the December motor vehicle report of the Iowa department of public safety which showed that nearly 11 times as many men as women drivers were involved in auto accidents during the last month of 1943.

Listing the 1,499 accidents according to age groups responsible, the public safety department said that at least 586 of the motorists involved were between the ages of 25 and 44.

Nearly 12 times as many urban residents as farmers were wholly or partly responsible for the accidents.

Failure to yield the right of way led the list of 26 violations responsible for 886 of the accidents.

Speed was a factor in very few cases. Half of the total number of accidents occurred between rates of 6 to 30 miles an hour, with nearly an equal number in each of four divisions—6-10 m. p. h., 11-15 m. p. h., 16-20 m. p. h. and 21-30 m. p. h.

At least a dozen of the drivers were asleep at the wheel, while twice that number were blinded by the headlights of approaching vehicles.

Losing control of the car and running off the roadway into fixed objects was responsible for 108 accidents.

Passenger cars were the most often involved vehicles, while trucks, with less than one-sixth of the number of passenger cars, were second.

Defective brakes, tire punctures and blowouts were responsible for 33 accidents, while poor weather conditions and night time driving were much less to blame. More than half the accidents were on clear days—the greatest number occurring between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Contrary to the old weekend superstition, Friday led in number of accidents with Saturday second. Sunday was next to last on the list.

Senate Votes to Raise Disabled Pensions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted yesterday to raise from $60 to $75 a month the pensions of disabled and aged veterans of the war with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection and the China Relief expedition.

The bill went back to the house for actions on amendments before it can be relayed to the White House.

The cost of the increase was estimated at $24,349,000 for the first year. The pensions go to veterans either totally disabled or 65 years of age or over. Their average age is 69.

The proposed scale corresponds to pension rates for veterans of the Union army in the Civil War.

Being 'Humanized'

THEY ARE beginning a campaign in Germany to "humanize" Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief and protector of the Reich. The idea, it seems, is to groom Himmler for Hitler's job. To start the campaign, according to Stockholm newspaper, 4,000,000 picture postcards of Himmler, showing him in smiling poses, are to be distributed. The newspaper adds that Hermann Goering still is the "crown prince" in Germany but seriously believe he would succeed Hitler should something happen to him.

Retail Prices Same

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retail prices of women's and children's outer wear garments this spring are certainly sufficient to inspire sincere and abundant respect for one William Henry Chamberlin.

But above all else, I'm impressed by his overwhelming capacity for milk chocolate. He explains his passion for that delicacy by announcing that he lacks all the social habits—alcohol, tobacco and coffee—so consequently indulges freely in that "vice," calmly asserting that he's confident he consumes his own weight in milk chocolate every year.

That enthusiasm has resulted in peculiar situations in his travels abroad. In Russia, for example, where—and you have Chamberlin's word for it—the milk chocolate is extremely foul, he was granted a special license by the foreign office permitting him to import the American variety.

This unusual act was undoubtedly prompted by Chamberlin's oft-expressed fear as to his state of mind if he were denied his daily quota of chocolate. He traces the inspiration for his writing and lecturing to that source and "trembles to think what would

William Chamberlin Insists He Consumes His Own Weight in Milk Chocolate Each Year

'Only Vice' Says Well-Known Author In Interview

By DORIS CAMPBELL
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

William Henry Chamberlin, amiable, sparkling, witty milk chocolate addict, is certainly not the sort of individual one envies when he sees that name appearing again and again as the author of innumerable books included on a suggested outside reading list for such courses as far eastern politics.

He is still amazed at the tremendous flood of mail which that article created. "My writing on a world crisis produces an aching void, but this treatise struck a respondent chord in hundreds of readers—few chocolate shorts," Chamberlin said in recounting the letters which he received.

Outstanding among these was a flamboyant note penned by an irate Pennsylvanian who accused him of alone, and single-handedly causing the present chocolate shortage.

Chamberlin describes his fondness for the creamy delight in "Confessions of a Chocolate-Eater," an autobiographical article which appeared in the July, 1943, issue of Atlantic Monthly.

"There is never a year

when all types of farming are unprofitable; and never a year

when all types pay."

You can say that about the departments of Swift & Company as well as about the business of farming.

We diversify our operations, just as some farmers diversify theirs, to make an over-all profit more likely—even though some products may not be profitable in any one year.

So, over a period of years, there has never been a year when some departments did not make money and some lose. For example, the less favorable earnings of our fresh meat departments during 1943 were offset by improved earnings in the non-meat departments.

Diversification and Research

Planning and research are necessary in farming and in our business if we are to get the most out of diversification. Farm planning must include:

1. As large a proportion of profitable crops as possible,
2. Protection of soil fertility, and
3. Sufficient volume of work to allow efficient use of labor, power and machinery.

Our planning is similar—just substitute a few terms such as products for crops and you have it.
