

Democracy—

3,000 Miles Away, Or in Iowa City?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following excerpts from a sermon by one of Iowa City's ministers serves to demonstrate an important and encouraging trend in American thinking.—S. McK.

... Brotherhood begins where we live or it does not begin at all. There are no debatable meanings in words, no sly evasions in interpretation, no alternatives or moral equivalents to the affirmation that all men are one as brothers under the Fatherhood of God. The finality of this concept leaves no room for subterfuge. Either we believe it and act upon it or we are not Christian. Jesus came teaching the Brotherhood of man—not the Brotherhood of some one superior race. Therefore the Christian church—Christian people and Christian ministers—have a moral obligation and an ethical duty to insist on the fundamentals of human unity and claim for every human being, regardless of race, class or circumstance, that respect and measure of equal justice and fair play that is due him as a member of the family of God.

But the question now arises—does a Christian church and Christian people and a Christian minister have a moral responsibility locally? The answer is obvious. . . . It's so easy and comfortable and cheap to shout and spout and wave flags about the problems of democracy 3000 miles away. It is another thing to consider some of the problems of democracy in one's own community. And I repeat that brotherhood begins where we are or it does not begin at all. Therefore I want to touch upon some phases of the problem in Iowa City from the Christian point of view.

I believe it is nearly two years ago now that attention was called to the fact that our Negro friends could not be served in most of the restaurants. The main reason was that some of the local restaurant men were a bit afraid that their "white clientele" would object, but most of the restaurant men if not all of them were willing to cooperate in an experiment for the sake of goodwill. I believe the results justify the statement . . . that there is very little if any appreciable difference in the attitude of "white clientele" to those restaurants that have opened their doors to our Negro brethren. This phase of the problem in Iowa City was not so well known until recently when it became acute. Up until a short time ago, until he was called away into service there was a young Negro man who could barber and had to take care of all Negroes in a dingy back-room of one of the downtown buildings. After he left one of the local barbers was good enough to help out in his "after hours"—it is becoming too much for him. Now, I am told, many of these Negro boys have to go to Cedar Rapids for a hair-cut!

Steel Strike Coming Up—Watch Out for Trouble!

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—If anything could have been worse than the coal strike settlement, it was the railroad settlement, but worse than both together is the steel strike trouble coming up.

Steel unionist Phil Murray already is pressuring the war labor board and the White House for another wage increase. This is a campaign year and he knows it. Unless he gets something, he practically says he will lose the CIO to John Lewis, and the White House would sooner lose the building and fixtures to Dewey than to allow that.

But how to do it? Up to now, old Doctor "Win-the-War" (who has replaced Doctor New Deal) has been getting around his own.

That that condition could exist in a city which is supposedly the heart and center of culture and liberal education for the entire state is amazing to say the least.

Attention has also been called to the fact that Negro girls cannot "try on" dresses in Iowa City shops—whether this is generally true I do not know. It is also pointed out that some of the refined, intelligent, Christian Negroes who come to our campus cannot be accommodated in decent quarters and are forced to find shelter in some places that are little more than shacks. . . . I do not wholly blame Iowa City business men—I believe I know the most of them too well for that. The answer to the problem goes deeper than that—it goes beyond them. It goes back to you—the people—you the clientele—you the white people who go into our restaurants and our barber shops and our dress shops. They'll be guided by what your attitudes are. Business and professional people are caught in a squeeze play of the great American caste system. As a churchman I want to be one of the first to admit that in too many instances this caste system has reached its hand into some areas of the Christian church itself—so our own skirts are not entirely clean. . . . I pray that God will give the colored people of the world a great capacity to absorb the insult, the injury and the injustice that has been heaped upon them. I hope and pray that God will give them a great capacity for patience and forbearance with their white brethren. I hope God will give them a great capacity for pity and understanding which they themselves have not received. Do I say this out of kindness and good-will? Yes, but something more—I say it out of fear—fear for our country—fear for the white race itself. I believe the only thing that can offset that fear is the sweeping tide of "the Word of the Lord" over the souls of these exploited peoples all over the earth—a deep religious sense of life—an ethic that grows out of the consciousness of God—so that when the white race is "weighed in the balance," the colored races of the world will put mercy and forgiveness on our side of the scale instead of revenge, judgment and retribution. I am simply asking my hearers to be understanding and help with a local problem—that is a national problem—that has strong future world implications. I repeat—either Brotherhood begins where we are or it does not begin at all. . . . J. W.

Washington in Wartime—

Story Behind Jap Atrocities

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Behind all the right and righteous indignation at the Japanese war prisoner atrocities is one story that hasn't been fully told: why we were so long in hearing about them.

It has already been disclosed that Palmer Hoyt, until January 1 head of the Office of War Information's domestic news branch, had been trying to get this story out for a long time.

Hoyt is the two-fisted, scrappy publisher and editor of the Portland Oregonian, and the fact that he couldn't batter down the brick wall of news inamities indulged in by the war, navy, state and other departmental brass hats is nothing to his discredit.

The Philippine atrocity story was ready for publication for months. It was documented, authenticated, combed and culled over until there wasn't a chance in a million that it was just another of those propaganda yarns blown up to raise a warring people to fever pitch. One newspaper syndicate had the first-person story of one survivor set in type for weeks. The first-person story of another was offered for sale at least that long. Yet the army refused to let go.

In all fairness, let's examine their argument. The army contended to exploit the story would be to place in jeopardy every war prisoner the Japs hold. The Nips would, they said, use this as an excuse to practice fresh horrors.

Mr. Hoyt and his associates (and OWI Chief Elmer Davis backed them) contended that just the reverse would be true—that the indignation of the civilized world and the closer cementing of the allies would be too much for the Japanese and they would be forced to mend their ways. That was too much to hope for, but early indications are that the Hoyt corps guessed better than the army.

While Tokyo has publicly screamed that this is merely Occidental propaganda there are hints Tokyo neither knew nor would have condoned such wholesale slaughter—not for humanitarian reasons—merely because they would have feared the results. There is reason to believe Tokyo has approved atrocities just as uncivilized, but never when they were certain the retaliation would mean eventual retaliation in blood and tears.

To understand the Philippine situation one must realize the little war lords exercise complete power in their own particular theaters of operation. That doesn't absolve Tokyo, for the system itself emanates from there, but it does explain how Hoyt and those working with him argued that no amount of publicity on the unspeakable crimes in the Philippines could endanger those thousands still in Jap captivity. What probably really broke the "March of Death" story was Palmer Hoyt's resignation and the army's certainty that sooner or later he would get this story of enemy brutality into print whether they liked it or not.

Unborn Stars—Strange Group Of Hollywoodites

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's a strange new group of celebrities in Hollywood, men and women who are already hits though generally unknown, much in demand though you, the people, aren't yet asking for them. They're unborn stars, awaiting delivery to the screen.

Once upon a time a new star made a picture and instantly faced the public's verdict. The war boom, and other factors, changed that. Now pictures one and even two years old are still on the shelves, awaiting their turn as customers with jingling pockets keep the current production on screen for abnormally long runs, or newer films with topical themes show the timeless, "escapist" stories aside.

Robert Alda, to the fans, is an unborn star, but Hollywood already has given him a full schedule. His stardom will be official with the release—dimly in the future—"Rhapsody in Blue," the George Gershwin biography. The way things work in Hollywood now, one of his later films may reach the screen first.

"The Desert Song," revealing Dennis Morgan in the singing role he has wanted for years and Irene Manning in her first important vocalizing, is just hitting the theaters—more than a year after completion. Ella Raines, regarded as a "find," had finished three roles before her first, in the "Corvette" picture, was seen. Her "Phantom Lady" will secure her place—when you see it.

Paramount's new heart-throb is Arturo de Cordova, but the ladies can't start throbbing over Arturo until they see "Frenchman's Creek," which Director Mitchell Leisen finished last fall. Historical romance, it's a good-anytime (or bad, as the case may be) movie, so I doubt you'll be seeing it soon. C. B. DeMille's "Story of Dr. Wassell," a war subject, will get there first, revealing DeMille's new hope, Carol Thurston. Leisen's "Lady in the Dark," finished nearly eight months ago, will be getting around shortly. In it you'll glimpse Gail Russell, since started—but not yet seen—in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

Alexis Smith's prize role came in the "Mark Twain" film, but she has gone on to fame in other films while the author's biography, now more than a year old, awaits its turn to be viewed.

Priscilla Lane, who seems to have left the screen for marriage, will be back when "Arsenic and Old Lace," finished more than two years ago, is released eventually. This is held up pending the play's (See HOLLYWOOD, page 5)

Instructor in Italian To Broadcast Address On Benedetto Croce

Frederic S. Simoni, instructor in the Italian program of the army specialized training unit here, will discuss "Benedetto Croce, the Man and the Liberal" tonight at 8:30 on WSUI's program in honor of the 78th birthday of Croce, the great living Italian philosopher and historian who founded the school of expressionism in esthetic theory.

Croce was national minister of education in Italy before the fascist regime and was rescued with his family from Sorrento by a British motor launch last September.

Simoni became personally acquainted with Croce and was often a guest in his home in Naples during the two years, 1936 to 1938, Simoni was studying in Italy on a fellowship from the Institute of International Education of New York City. He received his degree, dotore in filosofia, from the University of Rome in 1938.

Puerto Rican Plantation Owner Stops Here As Part of Independent Good-Will Tour

Manuel de J. Canino Is Guest of Daughter, Mrs. Charles Rogler

Excited by his first sight of extensive snow, Manuel de J. Canino, plantation owner, writer and lecturer, arrived in Iowa City recently from Puerto Rico to present several talks as a part of his good-will tour through the Americas.

A guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Prof. and Mrs. Charles Rogler, Senior Canino left Puerto Rico with another daughter, Mrs. Raquel Ruiz, Feb. 13 on the Pan-American clipper. He arrived in Miami, Fla., the same day and made the trip to Iowa City by train.

With his daughter, Mrs. Rogler, a Spanish teacher at City high school, serving as translator Senior Canino explained that he is making the tour as an independent exponent of good will between Puerto Rico and her American neighbors.

"In the past few years," said the plantation owner, who is a former correspondent for "La Correspondencia," San Juan daily newspaper, "Puerto Rico has come to the fore among Pan-American nations. We are 100 percent Americans and there is a great hope that we can be admitted as a 49th state in the union."

The Puerto Ricans, he said, are all-out for the war effort. "Many of our boys are serving on the European front and were particularly active in the Italian campaign." The people of Puerto Rico buy bonds and wrap Red Cross bandages as enthusiastically as Americans do, he declared.

Senior Canino will present his first lecture in Spanish to the members of the City high school Spanish class today. He has also been scheduled to address the Pan-American league and other organizations on campus.

When asked how the university students impressed him, Senior Canino replied with true Latin American charm, "The American college girls are 'muy bonita' (very beautiful)."

Iowa Has Chance To Repeat History By Taking Notre Dame

The chance to remain unbeaten by a non-conference team this season and to become only the second team in Hawkeye history to defeat Notre Dame in basketball confronts the University of Iowa quintet in its game at South Bend Saturday evening.

Set for Northwestern Hawkeyes, with their sights set ahead on the vital Northwestern series which determines whether they will tie for the Big Ten title, will keep their basket eyes sharp and their team play deft.

Because of a permanent Notre Dame athletic board ruling against radio broadcasts of basketball games, the contest cannot be aired by WSUI which carried the six Big Ten road games, Iowa officials announced.

Coch "Pops" Harrison said his team is set to play its No. 1 type of basketball but the squad will not be keyed for the affair, what with the Northwestern games of March 3 and 4 coming up.

Iowa Has Advantage

Notre Dame cannot match Iowa's height average, but the Irish have a tall center in 6-4 Marko Todorovich and a fast high-scoring forward in Leo Klier. Its average is 47.7 points per game to opponents' 48.7. The Irish have a 9-8 season record, as compared with Iowa's 13-2, but gained prestige by giving Great Lakes its third defeat in 31 games last Saturday, snapping a 21-game Sallor winning streak.

Leave Today

Iowans will arrive in South Bend Saturday noon and will leave for home immediately after the game, with arrival in Iowa City set for Sunday morning. It was in 1932 that Iowa last played Notre Dame in basketball and the only win in seven games was scored in 1931 at Iowa City.

Clark has been succeeded as athletic director at the base here by Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman, USMCR, former coach at the University of Minnesota and head of the athletic department of the Iowa Pre-Flight school.

Heavyweights To Fight In 10-Round Bout

NEW YORK, (AP)—A pair of 4-F punchers—195-pound Tami Mauriello and 210-pound Joe Baksi—tangle tonight over the 10-round route in Madison Square Garden's first heavyweight brawl of the year.

Mauriello, a ranking challenger for Joe Louis' crown, is a 5-8 favorite, but Baksi backers are plentiful. The Bronx boy, beaten only twice as a heavyweight, is rated right behind Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins, who handed him the defeats.

Baksi, too, has dropped only two decisions in 43 contests since turning pro in 1940, Teddy Wink and Gus Dorazio besting him. The former coal miner from Kulpmont, Pa., is rated the better puncher, and Ring magazine places him No. 8 among the heavyweight challengers.

Baksi's punctured eardrum, and Mauriello's deformed heel, gave the fighters their 4-F status.

DES MOINES, (AP)—Steamboat Rock, the defending champion, eliminated Clutier 39-31 last night as district competition opened at three of the 16 tourney points in the Iowa state high school girls' basketball title race.

Clutier, the 1942 title-winner, missed 14 chances at the free throw line in the game which was played at New Providence.

At Hampton, meanwhile, Hansell, 1940 champion and a potent northeast district challenger, defeated Orchard 41 to 34 to mark up its 24th consecutive triumph.

At Lenox, Orient stretched its victory streak to 19 games with a 38-27 triumph over Tingley. In the remaining games last night, Swaledale trounced Marble Rock 40-22; Thayer edged past Lenox 21-17, and Zearing won from New Providence 43-32.

Wisconsin Forced Out Of Title Race; Will Try for 3rd Rank Tie

Starting Lineups Wisconsin Pos Minnesota Smith F Wright Dick F Baglien Patterson C P Sutton Johnson G Lehrman Selbo G M Sutton

Officials—Bill Haarlow, Chicago; Carl Johnson, Illinois. MADISON, Wis. (Special)—The University of Wisconsin basketball team closes its home schedule here on Friday night at the University field house when it faces the University of Minnesota in their second clash of the season. The Badgers won the game at Minneapolis by a score of 49 to 30.

Out of the championship race due to their overtime defeat last Saturday at the hands of Purdue, the Badgers still have a chance for a third place tie, but must whip the Gophers and then Chicago on March 4 to turn the trick. Judging from past performances, the Badgers should win over the Gophers, Minnesota having but one win in the Big Ten race while Wisconsin has a 7 and 3 record.

Coch Harold "Bud" Foster will stick to his regular lineup for the home finale with Des Smith and Don Dick at the forwards, high-scoring Ray Patterson at center, and Bill Johnson paired with Glen Selbo at the guards. The game will also mark the final appearance of Russ Wendland and Charles Tourek, two naval trainees, in Wisconsin uniforms.

The Gophers have plenty of scoring power as witnessed by the point gathering against Indiana last weekend but superior height and experience is in favor of the Badgers. In Bill Wright Minnesota has one of the best shots in the conference, while the Sutton boys and Lehman are always dangerous.

Ray Patterson continues to get the scoring pace for the University of Wisconsin basketball squad both in Big Ten and non-conference games, the slim center having amassed a total of 215 markers for the 17 games played thus far.

In the conference, Patterson is at present in sixth place, but has a good chance to overtake four of his rivals who have completed their Big Ten play and finish in the third spot. Ray has totaled 144 points in 10 conference games.

Following Ray is Des Smith, the Badgers' aggressive forward, who has a grand total of 157 for the 17 games and has piled up 101 in the conference race. Smith, like Patterson, has a good chance to finish higher in the Big Ten final standings.

The Badgers scoring for all games thus far is as follows:

	FG	FT	FTM	Pts.
Patterson	89	37	24	215
Smith	66	25	25	157
Dick	34	18	10	86

'Pepper' Marlin Back With St. Louis Cards

Manager Southworth Chuckles Approval 'Regardless of Age'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Pepper" Marlin, who is returning to his beloved St. Louis Cards, will be the "youngest old man on any baseball club in the major leagues," Manager Billy Southworth beamed yesterday.

Southworth said everyone, including John L. Martin himself, realized the famed "Wild Horse of the Osage" no longer could play regularly. "But a lot of guys are going to be fooled if they think 'Pepper' is creaking around on tired, doddering legs," he chuckled.

"Why just last season 'Pepper' was the fastest man on the Rochester club. He proved it in a race one day."

Pepper disclosed yesterday that he was going back to the Cardinals after a four-year absence. He left St. Louis in 1940 to manage the Rochester club in the International league.

He will go to training camp at Cairo, Ill., with the Cards March 15 and will be allowed to condition himself to be a utility man, the Cardinal manager said. "He is old enough to know what he needs."

"Pepper," who will be 40 years old next week, roamed the outfield and won fame as a base-stealer while playing with the Cards for 11 years.

"I'll use him for spot work," Southworth said, "and that is an important job in my book. I hope to play him occasionally and I'll use his big bat against left-handers. 'Pepper' will make a fine pinch-hitter as he wouldn't feel the pressure a younger player notices when called on in a pinch. I surely am happy to have him back."

Director J. E. Favored In Hialeah Race

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—With story-book colts installed as favorites, it's a good bet that the running of the $15,000 added Flamingo stakes at Hialeah park Saturday will write a romantic chapter in the annals of the big winter test for three-year-olds.

Should an outsider win, the upset will project the victor overnight into the Kentucky Derby picture.

Ella K. Bryson's Director J. E. is the advance choice. As a three-year-old here he has won two out of three, including last Saturday's Stagehand purse. A few weeks ago his stable refused a $75,000 offer for the colt from Fred Hooper.

In Grampa Image, so named because the chestnut charger has numerous markings resembling his illustrious grand-sire, Man O'War, former jockey Albert (Whitey) Abel and his wife have a candidate that licked serious illness to become a likely contender. The Abel entry has won four of six races at Hialeah.

Good Bid was acquired as a juvenile by Mrs. Dodge Sloane by the Brysons for $5,000. Last January H. E. Jacoby bought him from Bryson, who considered Director J. E. the better horse. Should he outrun the Director Bryson must review his opinion.

MAY NOT PLAY THIS WEEKEND

CADET GEORGE DALMAN, pictured above, was reported down with a cold this week and may not be able to play for the Seahawk cagers as they go against Loras in their last match of the season.

U-High Faces West Branch In Last Loop Tilt

Due to a recent back injury, pivot man Jack Shay will probably not be able to play the last Bluehawk game tonight on the home floor when they meet the West Branch Bears. Playing in his place at center will be "Fritz" LeGrande, who has substituted in that place quite regularly.

When the Blues met the Bears earlier this year they defeated them by a scant 32-30. Those West Branch cagers took the Cedar County championship a few weeks ago and represent a team that plays well, fast on the breaks as well as good shots. Moreover, their players unite to make a team standing for a team and not five men.

Last week the Rivermen traveled to Mt. Vernon, where they suffered their worst defeat of the year to the tune of 29-11. The cause of this was that the Blues met a team that had evidently drilled their members on defense. Because of this, the high point man for the Blues was high with only 4 points.

Playing with LeGrande tonight will be Capt. Don Wagner and Steve Nusser in the forward slots, and Bob Vander Zee with either Gus Kennedy or Jim Williams at guard.

A preliminary game will be played at seven.

Wildcats Will Battle To Better Chances Toward Double Spoils

CHICAGO, (AP)—The Chicago Stadium doubleheader basketball program tonight will have bearing on the Big Ten conference title race as well as the National Collegiate Athletic Association eastern division playoffs at New York next month.

Northwestern, with six wins and two losses in Big Ten play, meets Illinois in the first game, while Ohio State, already assured of at least a share of the conference crown with 10 victories and two defeats, faces DePaul in the after-piece.

A victory for Northwestern would add interest to the Wildcats' Saturday night engagement at Purdue in that the loser of the game would be counted out of championship contention. The Boilermakers, with a record of 8-2, would virtually clinch a share of the Big Ten title by whipping Northwestern, for the only other opponent they would have left to play would be Indiana, which has won only one conference game this season.

Representation of the fourth district in the NCAA is expected to be awarded to the winner of the DePaul-Ohio State game. The Chicago school, which has won 17 games in 20 starts, may be handicapped by limited use of George Mikan, 6 foot 9 inch center who has averaged 18 points a game. He is suffering from a badly sprained ankle.

Other games tonight send Minnesota to Wisconsin and Toledo to Great Lakes. The Badgers have three defeats and can share the runner-up spot by keeping their slate clean in their final two games. Minnesota, which is host to Chicago Saturday night, has won only once in eight starts.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—If you can stand another book review today we'd like to tell you about the 1944 edition of Cliff Bloodgood's Who's Who in Baseball, an 80-page effort that has no more plot than the Postal Guide but which nevertheless tells stories both poignant and sprightly.

The book text is endless columns of figures, the playing records of major league players deemed worthy of inclusion. The real stories, however, are not so much the names and figures in the book, but rather those that aren't.

Every year the natural process of evolution forces the dropping of names long familiar to fans to make room for the new blood, continually piped up from the minors to keep the game a game of youth. This year is no exception.

Lefty Gomez. His name and record had been in there so long it seemed as much a fixture as the copyright line. He's missing. And the once great Jimmy Fox, and Leo Durocher, and Red Rolfe, and Lloyd Waner and Bill Werber, and Freddy Fitzsimmons, and Dolph Camilli. All are gone, most of them for the first time in years with the possibility slim they will ever be back. Most of them have run out their string as players, although Lloyd Waner is going to try it again, and Leo Durocher might, under duress.

New names, some of which seemed destined to remain a long time until the draft intervened, appeared, and at least three players, who once before had been good enough to make Cincinnati Reds, Babe Dahlgren had been dropped, reappeared. Bloodgood's blue book but who they are Ray Mueller of the gien of the Philadelphia Phils, and Schoolboy Rowe, also of the Phils.

There are 41 players whose names are appearing for the first time, and already some of them are household words to the fans. There are Detroit's Dick Wakefield and the Yankees' Bill Johnson. There are the Cardinals' Lou Klein and Harry Walker, and Alpha Bragle and Harry Brecheen. And the Cubs' Harry Lowrey and the Reds' Steve Mesner.

These are just a few of the youngsters replacing the fading or faded stars. There are so many of them who, because of the war, jumped into regular spots and earned a right to be included that Bloodgood was on a spot of his own trying to figure out a way to care of the stars in the service. make room for them and still take

He solved this neatly by running just the major league totals of the players who were in the 1943 book but did not play last year because of service in the armed forces. There are 73 in that category.

Thirty-one of the players whose complete records appear have stars after their names indicating they either have gone into the service since the close of last season, or went in during the season. And many minus the stars have been called since the book went to press.

The baseball scene really is a moving picture nowadays.

'No One Religion Prevalent Among Servicemen'—Lampe

There is no one kind of religion prevalent among the men of our armed forces now, according to Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, who spoke yesterday to university women on "Religion When the Boys Come Home."

Instead, he said, the religious viewpoints of American men have been reasonably classified under the following types: a wistful, questioning type of religion; the all-out religious zeal, termed by some as fanatical; the disillusioned, embittered attitude toward religion, that amounts to almost a religion in itself, and the attitude toward religion which is entirely indifferent, so neutral that this type claims the smallest number of advocates.

These classifications represent the religious attitudes of our men as they are at present, not the ideals of religion as pictured by fighting men. In considering these ideals, Professor Lampe stated, the men have expressed preference for a religion that is at once simple, sympathetic and sincere.

The religious experiences which our men undergo at the front will constitute major factors in the development of a post-war religion of a religion of protection, security and comfort, said Professor Lampe.

"I hope a lot of the boys when they come home will have that kind of religion," he stated. Such a religion is often based on escape from real danger through religious means, or on obtaining strength sufficient to save oneself through the medium of prayer or religious meditation.

Such a religion, however, according to Dr. Lampe, carries at least two major dangers with it. The first is that men are prone to turn to God only in time of serious danger, a tendency which is all too prevalent in times of peace. The second danger involves the degeneration of such a religion into belief in magic and superstition as connected with religious articles and practices.

Evidence of need of a true religious creed that will fulfill all the requirements as set up by our men in the armed forces were quoted by Professor Lampe as existing in the Negro equalization problem and the prevalence of the golden-rule theory of religion, the fault of which lies in the fact that it places no emphasis whatever upon God.

The importance of the influence of women in bringing in the wholesome type of religion and using it to combat the possible cynicism which may be found in the post-war religious views of men returning from battle-fronts was stressed by Professor Lampe.

"The religion of the boys when they come home will depend far more than you realize on the religion of the girls who remain at home," he stated.

Summarizing his speech, Professor Lampe declared that in the long view, the effect that war has on one's religion is to intensify it, no matter what form it took to begin with. The cynics, he said, will become more cynical, as a rule, and the devout will become more devout as a result of their war experiences.

A. H. Knoll has been in federal service for nearly seven years, all told, four and a half of them on military status. He is a native of Dubuque, Iowa, and was educated in Iowa schools and colleges.

"Graduated from the University of Iowa with a medical degree in 1933, Major Knoll had previously taken premedical studies at the University of Dubuque. He interned at St. Mary's hospital, Detroit, then began his military career as a first lieutenant in the medical corps, serving as a camp surgeon for several civilian conservation corps camps in Kansas and Missouri. He received his commission Nov. 15, 1934.

Practice in Dubuque
"After two years of work with the CCC, he retired from active duty and entered private practice in Dubuque. While still in private practice he received his first promotion, being named a captain in the reserve in January, 1939. Later that same year he entered federal service again, as medical examiner for post office and civil service employees in Kansas City, Mo.

He remained in this post until April 15, 1941, when he was recalled to active duty with the army at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. Assigned to the 41st division at Ft. Lewis, Wash., he stayed with that unit until September, when he was transferred to the post surgeon's office at San Francisco.

"In December he was assigned to transport duty, and was to make his first voyage Dec. 8. However, the events of Dec. 7 caused an abrupt change in the schedule, and it was not until somewhat later that he began voyaging. From that month until February of last year he remained on transport, making eight trips to Alaska, Hawaii, Australia and the south Pacific.

Camp Stoneman
"A year ago he was assigned to Camp Stoneman for temporary duty while this building was being made over from a private to an army installation.

"Meanwhile, he had received another promotion in August, 1942, replacing his twin brothers with the gold oak leaf. When the hospital reopened in June he was named chief of medical services."

Major Knoll lives at 324 Larkin street, San Francisco, with his wife, the former Mabel Phillips of Kansas City.

In 1915 he married Victoria Oostendorp in Wilton Junction. They lived in Minnesota and also in Muscatine county before moving to Iowa City 16 years ago.

Besides his wife, Mr. White is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Allen of Petersburg, Va., and one brother, Earl White of Lexington, Va.

Funeral arrangements were as yet incomplete last night for Lovett R. White, 54, of 311 South Madison street, who died yesterday morning from a heart attack suffered while covering his cream route.

A son of Emory A. and Emma Blanche White, he was born June 10, 1889, in Rockbridge county Va.

University Graduate Is Medical Chief In California Hospital

From "Hospital Highlights," the paper of the army station hospital at San Francisco, Calif., comes this item concerning a former student of the University of Iowa: "Chief of medical service at the station hospital, Maj. Opinion

On and Off Campus

QUESTION: DO YOU THINK THAT A CERTAIN PERCENTAGE OF ONE'S INCOME SHOULD BE DRAFTED FOR THE PURCHASE OF WAR BONDS?

Prudence Hamilton, A3 of Iowa City: "If the public will not of their own accord save in proportion to their income for the purchase of war bonds, the government must take the alternative and draft the income of the people for these bonds. It is either save now to spend later, or spend now and a depression later. To save the people of the United States from the latter, the government must force us to buy bonds now. I do hope, though, that we will not have to come to the point of drafting income. If we do, I believe the government is within its rights."

Jim Lightner, E4 of Cedar Rapids: "If it is necessary to have a compulsory system of buying war bonds, then it is the only reasonable thing to do. After all, men are being drafted to give their lives. However, I do think it would be a poor method."

Mrs. Walter Hanson, housewife of Cedar Rapids: "It would seem only fair to draft 10 percent of everyone's income, since 10 percent of employed people are already practically all drafted by their voluntary subscription."

Clair Thomas, E4 of Lorimer: "Absolutely not—if we are going to have a democracy, we can not be forced into buying war bonds. If people are forced to purchase war bonds they might not be able to meet their obligations. Therefore, I think that the system should remain as it is, on a purely voluntary basis."

Elaine Bonnell, A1 of Eldridge: "No, absolutely not. I believe that the majority of the people are buying 10 percent and 10 percent deducted from the lower brackets income does not leave much to live on. Buying according to one's means is the only solution."

Mickey Marshall, A1 of Kansas City, Mo.: "No, I don't think that people should be drafted to buy war bonds, because many people have expenses which are as important and vital to the winning of the war as the purchase of war bonds. However, those who can afford war bonds should buy as many as they can and should sacrifice as much as they can."

Marjorie Zimmer, A2 of Tama: "Yes or no. People are buying what they can—also, it would depend a lot on if they did not buy bonds, then by all means they should be drafted to buy."

Robert Yetter's department store: "I would say with all the taxes that people have to pay now, I would not be in favor of drafting people's income. If they want to buy them voluntarily, that is fine."

Mail to Italy Restricted Service Resumed

Restricted mail service to a few provinces of Italy, Sardinia and Sicily has been resumed after an order by the postmaster general. The limited mail service which goes into effect immediately will be open to letters of two or less ounces and to postcards, provided they are addressed to civilians in Sicily, Sardinia and provinces of Bari, Brindisi, Catanzaro, Cosenza, Lecce, Matera, Potenza, Reggio, Calabria, Salerno and Taranto on the Italian mainland.

Because only personal messages will be carried, financial, commercial and other business mail with checks, drafts, securities or currency will not be accepted. The treasury department has, however, issued a general license, No. 32A, which authorizes special remittances for living expenses to any Sicilian individual by any individual in the United States if the transaction is made through a domestic bank.

Air-mail and parcel post services and registration, insurance and money orders will not be available, but this does not affect mail to prisoners of war.

RED CROSS

Mrs. Philip Ketelsen and Mrs. Arthur Winters, Presbyterian church; Mrs. Sudhindra Bose and Mrs. Lester Marris Dyke of the Unitarian church and the ten ministers' wives.

Four periods of intercession will be held today, beginning with a 15-minute period of organ music by Mrs. C. B. Richter.

The first period of prayer, which will be held from 10:00 until 10:45, will have Mrs. Robert Schwyhart as leader, with Mrs. David Shipley reading "The Story of the Day." Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, will close the period with a meditation on the theme "The Fellowship of a Missionary Purpose."

These projects are as follows: "Christian Literature," presented by Mrs. Ralph Krueger; "Union Christian Colleges of the Orient," given by Mrs. E. D. Montgomery; "Migrants and Sharecroppers," explained by Mrs. H. L. Bailey, and "Indians in Government Schools," presented by Mrs. T. R. Baker.

From noon until 12:30, a sacrificial luncheon will be held. Each person attending is asked to bring her own sack lunch. Coffee will be served by the women of the Baptist church. A brief business session which will follow the luncheon will be in charge of Mrs. Elmer E. Dierks, chairman, and Mrs. T. O. Norman, secretary.

The afternoon period of intercession will begin at 12:30. Mrs. Fred Putnam and Mrs. James E. Waery will conduct a form of candlelighting service, carried out on the theme of participation of world nations in religion.

Civilians to Consume More Frozen Foods In Next Five Months

Several ration reminders have been released through the local office.

Farmers may continue to sell pork from home-slaughtered hogs without a license or permit and deliver any quantity of the meat to persons not living on the farm until March 17, according to the office of war information. However, farmers are required to collect ration stamps for pork which they deliver.

Civilians in the United States will have more frozen vegetables during the next five months as a result of an expected all-time record high production, the war food administration has announced. Usually available in frozen form are snap beans, corn kernels, peas, spinach, asparagus, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower and corn on the cob. United States civilians will have slightly less rice in 1944 than during recent years and less canned milk than during 1943, although the amount of canned milk available will be in approximate proportion to civilian purchases under rationing which began in June, 1943.

The WFA also announced that the 1944 program for agricultural conservation practices has been planned, to guide six million farm families in getting maximum production from their land. Emphasis will be placed on the application of lime and phosphate, which give the soil greater "fire power," immediately boosting production at low cost.

If present acreage of cultivated land is well managed, United States farmers will not have to plow up grasslands as they did in the last war, according to N. E. Dodd, chief of the agricultural adjustment agency.

Fewer package wrappings will be available for retail shoppers this year, according to the war production board. Shortage of wood pulp for paper-making will not permit a normal supply. There will be enough bags for assorted groceries if housewives save these bags and return them to stores for re-use. WPB also advised that the shopping bag with handles should be used many times to substitute for individual package wrappings.

powder, razor blades, caustic substances for opening clogged plumbing drains and disinfectants should be labeled and put in a safe place.

Prof. M. E. Barnes Warns of Dangers In Children's Homes

Emphasizing the home dangers of unguarded young children, Prof. M. E. Barnes, head of the hygiene and preventive medicine department, warns all parents to make a careful inventory of dangerous items in their homes and see that all such substances are removed and kept in a safe place.

Listing the outstanding causes of accidental deaths among young children, Dr. Barnes stated that most deaths occur from scalding, drinking kerosene, eating lye, defective water heaters which throw off carbon monoxide fumes, playing with matches, clothing ignited from open gas stoves, and explosive bursts of flame from kitchen stoves started with kerosene.

Dr. Barnes also called attention to fatal yard accidents to young children, such as drowning in stock watering tanks, kicks from horses, injury by car in garage and clothing ignited by bonfires.

PAID OFF AT PARAMUSHIRO!

Associated Press correspondent Norman Bell volunteered for a war reporting assignment immediately after Pearl Harbor. From Nov. 17, 1942 when he joined the United States fleet at Honolulu to June 4, 1943, he slept ashore but three nights, reporting the Pacific war during its first dark days.

Then Bell was assigned to the North Pacific where he ranged those icy waters for months on end alert for the big story he knew some day was sure to break.

It did and Norman Bell alone was on the job. In the space of a few days, Bell became the first United Nations correspondent to fly with U.S. Navy raiders over the Japanese homeland, bombing Paramushiro Island and the only war reporter to accompany a United States task force shelling Paramushiro for the first time.

Thus, Bell's initiative and persistence were rewarded and readers of this and hundreds of other AP newspapers were given exclusively some of the best eye-witness stories to come out of this war.

Firsthand stories by Norman Bell and scores of ace AP reporters at the fighting fronts the world over appear in this newspaper.

- ★ Drain immediately after washing is done, rinse tub and remove lint and soap with soft cloth.
