3rd Soviet Drive Begins

Marines Split New Britain Peninsula

Fall of Airfield Gives Troops Firm Foothold

Bomb-Ravaged Rabaul Now Only 170 Miles From Advancing Yanks

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Saturday (AP)—United States marines captured Talasea airdrome Wednesday and then wheeled north to occupy the township the following day, thus cutting in two the Willaumez peninsula of north New Britain which they invaded only last month.

Headquarters reported the victories today. The successes firmly implanted Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces more than 100 miles east of their Cape Gloucester holdings and within 170 miles of bomb-ravaged Rabaul.

No details were available concerning the final fight for the airstrip and town but a spokesman said enemy reaction, which had developed several hours after units of the First marine division gained its beachhead Monday, reached its peak of intensity Tuesday.

The leathernecks, who landed on the peninsula's west coast opposite Talasea, cleared a path through land mines and began a push across the five-mile-wide peninsula.

The occupation of Talasea trapped any Japanese caught on the northern tip of the narrow land strip which sticks up like a sore thumb from the northern coast.

In the invaded Admiralty islands to the north of the New Britain action, cavalrymen have pushed their steadily expanding lines three and a half miles northwest to capture Momote airdrome on Los Negros. Japanese planes strafed the sector without effect.

In still another action on the borders of the Bismarck sea, Americans moving west of Saidor toward Madang achieved steady progress. Japanese planes bombed these forces Tuesday night and early Wednesday but headquarters said the attacks were ineffectual.

No Japanese resistance was reported encountered by 32nd division units skirting Astrolabe bay west of Cape Rigny on the New Guinea coastal approaches to Madang. Three enemy bombers made the light ineffectual raid and ground batteries downed one.

RAF Hits France Again

LONDON (AP)—The Paris radio clicked off the air last night, indicating that RAF night bombers which Thursday night blasted a Nazi airplane factory near Marseilles, might have returned to deliver another blow at the German-dominated continent.

An air raid alarm sounded in Berlin yesterday for several hours but no bombs were dropped, a Stockholm dispatch said. The alert presumably was caused by reconnaissance planes as American Flying Fortresses and Liberators took a day off after setting an endurance mark for large-scale heavy bombing by hitting the German capital four days out of six.

Travelers arriving in Malmoe, Sweden, from Germany said fires were still seen burning in Berlin yesterday.

The heavy British Lancaster bombers winged through a bright "bomber's moon" Thursday night to hit Marignane in the wake of the American daylight pounding of Berlin. It was the RAF's third straight night heavy bomber operation without the loss of a plane.

The German-controlled Scandanavian telegraph bureau quoted both German and Swedish air pasesngers as saying that American bombers attacked Berlin from all directions on Wednesday.

Reds Will Get U. S. Warships

British Vessels Also Will Be Substituted For Italian Claims

WASHINGTON—American and British warships will be turned over to the Russian navy in satisfaction of Soviet wartime claims on the Italian fleet, informed reports said today and were apparently borne out by statements from President Roosevelt.

At the chief executive's press-radio conference, the gist of these reports—as related in an Associated Press dispatch—was read by a reporter who asked for comment.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that it was a matter of military strategy which ships were going where and perhaps he had better not say.

Along the same line, however, he told the newsmen emphatically that there was no conflict between what he has said and what Prime Minister Churchill has said about the Italian fleet.

The president first disclosed last Friday that Moscow had made a claim on the Italian navy since Marshal Badoglio's surrender was to Britain, the United States and Russia. He said it had been half-decided to transfer to the Red nevy about one-third of the Italian fleet or the equivalent.

In some quarters the president's remarks were interpreted to mean there was to be an immediate three-way split-up of the Italian fleet and some disquiet was stirred in Italy and Britain with the result that Prime Minister Churchill discussed the matter in commons Thursday.

As the situation now stands, The Associated Press learned here yesterday, the plan is to assign a dozen or more British and American warships to Russia while keeping the Italian fleet intact in the Mediterranean where it is now operating under allied direction.

Kaleidoscopic Politics—

Argentine Head Resigns

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Gen. Edelmiro J. Farrell, who had served for two weeks as acting president of Argentina, assumed the office of president yesterday upon the resignation of Gen. Pedro Pablo Ramirez.

Col. Gregorio Tauber, executive secretary of the presidency, announced the action which made Farrell the titular chief executive. This latest change in Argentina's kaleidoscopic political picture came after Ramirez—whose administration previously had broken relations with the axis—delegated his executive powers to Farrell two weeks ago on the ground that he was fatigued by the tasks of office.

Neither the text of Ramirez' resignation nor of the manifesto which explained the change to the public has been disclosed.

The supreme court, which received copies of both documents Thursday, met yesterday morning and decided to acknowledge their receipt and place them on file. This was interpreted to mean that the court intends to remain aloof from this latest change.

(At a press conference in Washington U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull said yesterday that the situation inside Argentina was in such a state of confusion at the moment that it defied intelligent or accurate comment.)

The effect of Ramirez' gesture on Argentina's foreign relations was variously interpreted here. One view is that the retiring president's decision strengthened the position of the Farrell regime in the international field since it disposed of questions raised by the circumstances surrounding the original delegation of power to Farrell by Ramirez.

On the other hand the original delegation of authority had the advantage of maintaining the continuity of the regime. This was recognized by the governments of Chile, Bolivia and Paraguay in announcing their intention to preserve diplomatic relations with the Farrell government.

(Formal diplomatic relationships with the Farrell government have been withheld by the United States and Britain pending classification of its purposes with respect to hemisphere defense and protection against axis agents.)

The supreme court had no constitutional precedent to do much else than acknowledge receipt of Ramirez' resignation. When Ramirez constituted his government he so notified the court which replied in a statement acknowledging that a military regime possessed the qualities of a de facto government.

Humorist Irvin Cobb Dies in New York After 3-Month Illness

NEW YORK (AP)—Irvin S. Cobb, one of America's best-known humorists, has voiced his last quip, written his last story.

The 67-year-old Paducah, Ky., author, actor and after-dinner died yesterday at the Hotel Sheraton. He had been ill for three months.

In a letter, left in the office of the Paducah Sun-Democrat with instructions that it be opened after his death, Cobb asked that his body be cremated and the ashes used to fertilize a tree to be planted in Paducah, where he began his newspaper career.

The letter said he wanted no mourning, no flowers and no funeral in the traditional form.

A friend of the family said here that the body would be cremated Monday and the ashes taken to Paducah.

Mrs. Cobb and a nurse were with him when he died. He is survived also by a daughter, Mrs. Elisabeth Cobb Rogers of New York.

Simplified Tax Returns Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman eGorge (D-Ga) of the senate finance committee predicted last night that an income tax simplification bill eliminating the filing of returns on incomes up to $5,000 will be passed and sent to the president within 60 days.

"This will affect some 30,000,000 taxpayers," he told a press conference.

He and Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee declared in a joint statement that every effort would be made to limit the new legislation to simplification of the individual income tax law—a theme which Treasury Secretary Morgenthau likewise stressed at a press conference a short time earlier.

"We wish to commend him for this suggestion and to express our complete personal approval," said the George-Doughton statement, which pointed out, however, that the final decision on that subject rested with the two committees.

Eire Refuses to Expel Nazi, Jap Diplomats

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The United States publicly accused Ireland last night of affording a base for axis spies endangering the approaching allied invasion of Europe, but the Irish government replied it was taking effective anti-espionage measures and refused an appeal to expel German and Japanese diplomats from the country.

The state department announced that the request for expulsion of the enemy officials, held to be leaders in the spy ring, was transmitted to Prime Minister de Valera at Dublin Feb., 21. The department made public the text of a note setting forth the spy accusations.

Issues Text of Reply

Simultaneously the Irish legation here issued the text of de Valera's reply rejecting the request and stating that "should American lives be lost it will not be through any indifference or neglect of its duty on the part of this state."

De Valera also said he had received the assurance of the American government that it "does not contemplate" using military measures—presumably invasion of Ireland—because of rejection of the reqeust that the Irish eject the enemy officials.

The American note, presented by Minister David Gray, had reminded the prime minister of the vast military preparations now underway in Britain and northern Ireland and declared it is "vital that information from which may be deduced their nature and direction should not reach the enemy."

'Lives . . . at Stake'

"Not only the success of the operation but the lives of thousands of United States soldiers are at stake."

Specific evidence of enemy espionage operations within Ireland were given in the assertions that (1) the German legation in Dublin, at least until recently, had possessed a radio sending set and (2) German planes had dropped into Ireland two parachutists equipped with radio sending apparatus.

While acknowledging Ireland's good faith in their efforts to maintain strict neutrality, the United States said it actually is impossible to determine "with certainty" the extent of the enemy's Irish-based espionage against American shipping and troops.

Immunity for Axis

It then cited the fact that German and Japanese diplomatic and consular officers in Dublin still enjoy their customary immunity and declared "axis representatives in every country use these special privileges and immunities as a cloak for espionage activities against the united nations."

The Irish government was specifically requested to force the recall to their homelands of the enemy officials and the American note expressed the hope that this would accomplish by a complete break in relations between Ireland and the axis.

Step Toward War

De Valera replied to this that forcing removal of diplomatic officials "is universally recognized as the first step toward war" and he added that the Irish government "could not entertain the American proposal without a complete betrayal of their democratic trust ... Irish neutrality represents the united will of their people and the parliament."

On the charge that the German minister had a radio transmitter, De Valera said he had been "debared from using it" for a long time and that for "some months" it had been in the custody of the Irish government.

U. S. Bombers Blast Rome Railroad Yards

Cause Heavy Damage; Nazis Say 2 Raiders Crashed in Flames

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples (AP)—Fighter escorted American medium bombers attacked railroad yards in Rome again yesterday and heavy damage was reported.

(The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said "a large number of houses were hit and it is feared casualties are high." The broadcast made the claim, unsupported in allied announcements, that two of the raiders crashed in flames near the outskirts of the city. The Swiss radio, meanwhile, quoted the German commander of Rome as saying that Rome was considered an open city and had no anti-aircraft guns.)

The Tiburtina yards in Rome's eastern suburbs were hit by Marauders escorted by American-piloted Spitfires and rolling stock and warehouses were declared blasted.

Thunderbolt-escorted Mitchells struck the Littorio yards on the northern limits of the city. The Littorio yards were bombed last Tuesday.

Photographs indicated that the main rail line from Rome to Florence, down which the Germans have been sending supplies to troops fighting the allied Fifth army, had been cut in two places by bombs from the Mitchells attacking the Littorio yards. Fifteen to 20 railway cars appeared to have been destroyed in the yards.

Crewmen returning from the Tuburtina yards attack expressed confidence heavy damage was done there.

Army, Navy Issue Political Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday approved a joint army-navy policy which would permit Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen or other members of the armed forces to become candidates for elective office, but would bar them from campaigning.

A regular army or navy man, such as MacArthur, could become a candidate, however, only if a nomination "is tendered without direct or indirect activity or solicitation on his part" while a member of the reserve on active duty, such as Stassen, could announce as a candidate without waiting on a nomination.

The new regulations, clarifying previous ones and bringing those of the army and navy into line for the first time, require release from active duty for any military man elected to public office.

They were made public at a news conference with the presidential comment that they were not new and were not directed at any one in particular.

20,000 Nazis Die in Retreat In Ukraine

14 German Divisions Flee Before Russians On 109-Mile Front

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—Moscow announced yesterday that the Red army had opened a third great offensive in the Ukraine and sent 14 Nazi divisions into such headlong retreat that they abandoned all their equipment—including 1,100 mired tanks and big guns—and lost 20,000 men killed.

The new offensive, heading south in the middle of the southern front, broke through on a 109-mile line, overran 300 populated places, including the pivotal stronghold of Uman and resulted in the capture of 2,500 Germans, the Russians said.

The announcement was first made by Premier Joseph Stalin in an order of the day and later information was given in the Moscow communique and its midnight supplement—all recorded by the Soviet monitor from broadcasts.

The latest Soviet report said 14 German divisions in flight included one artillery, six tank and seven infantry divisions.

"The true scale of the German defeat can be judged from the huge quantity of trophies captured by our troops," the late bulletin said. "Weapons, equipment and military supplies were strewn on the whole course of the road from the Gniloi Tikich river to the town of Uman. All the roads were packed with enemy tanks, self-propelled guns, armored troop carriers and trucks."

Five German "Adolph Hitler tank divisions" which "were intended to stop our offensive" were "compelled to abandon all their military and technical equipment and flee," said the Soviet communique.

This third offensive already has rolled forward from 25 to 44 miles in five days, Stalin announced, thus setting ablaze the entire Russian southern front along a curving battleline more than 500 miles long. It joined offensives already under way to the east above Nikolaev and Kherson and to the west in the region of Tarnopol.

The Germans were retreating on each of the three big fronts as the Red army mounted a supreme effort to throw them back into Rumania and Poland or cut them to pieces if they should elect to make a stand in the Ukraine.

The latest push directed by newly-promoted Marshal Ivan S. Konev, commander of the second Ukrainian front, was pushing south toward Bessarabia from the top of the German salient into the Dnieper bend.

Government Acts to Curb Import of Cane-Distilled Liquor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government yesterday put a severe kink in the last unhampered source of drinking liquor—the pipeline from the cane counries to the south.

A new curb on imports of rum, gin, cordials and whiskies distilled from cane is expected to slash imports from Cuba, for instance, by more than 50 percent.

In evident fear of a resumption of rum-running in the Caribbean, the war production board said the coast guard had been notified in advance, to be prepared to help with enforcement.

WPB gave out no figures on the actual curtailment to be effective by its order, which controls imports from Mexico, Cuba and other countries and limits both the production and imports of Puerto Rico, the Virgin islands and other United States territories and possessions.

It was explained that the action is designed to encourage Latin American countries to devote their molasses to production of industrial alcohol needed in the war rather than to beverages.

The WPB said "the fair way to tell the public about it" is to state that as much cane-distilled liquor will enter the country this year as in 1943.

The WPB order goes into effect March 15, just 16 days before the country elbow-benders taken another blow—new federal taxes ranging from 36 cents to 60 cents for every bottle of distilled spirits in the now-standard one-fifth gallon size.

The office of price administration said it had not yet decided whether the new tax would be added to the price of drinks sold over the bar. The betting, however, was that the tax would be passed on the highball drinkers and not absorbed by the tavern keepers.

Drinkers of the Mexican and Cuban fluids which are labelled gin, a designation in which the U. S. government does not concur, got the only break of the day. A new and lower ceiling price was imposed by OPA at the importers' level. Passed on to consumers, the cut would mean a price drop of about 15 cents a "fifth."

Anti-Fascists Blast Churchill Support Of Victor Emanuele

Prime Minister Churchill's defense of the Victor Emmanuel-Badoglio government in his Feb. 22 speech to parliament immediately produced the expected reactions both from Italian anti-Fascists and from Badoglio.

The pronouncement drew bitter denunciation from anti-Fascist leaders. With only the Christian Democratic party dissenting, the committee of national liberation submitted to the allied control commission a statement expressing "surprise and sadness" at the speech, and denying that Italians were fighting for the king. The Socialist, Action and Communist parties scheduled a ten-minute token strike in Naples for March 4. The committee's note claimed that the present Italian regime was without "any substantial legitimacy" and asserted that the formation of a broadly based democratic government would "augment the fighting capacity of the Italian forces." The note was addressed to Prime Minister Churchill, Secretary of State Hull and Foreign Commissar Molotoff.

Carlo Sforza, speaking for the six parties comprising the committee for national liberation, charged that the prime minister's speech had caused "deepest dismay among millions of Italians." He denounced Churchill's position on three counts, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Naples dated Feb. 26:

1—Churchill's fear that a democratic government might oppose requests from the allies was termed "an unjustified attack on the loyalty of democratic Italians devoted to the allied cause, all the more so since our main reason for our opposition to the present Italian government is its inability to help America and Britain in their struggle."

2—Churchill's statement that representatives of the Italian parties were "anxious to attain power" Sforza called "unfair," recalling that Victor Emmanuel had asked him to become prime minister last November and that he had refused because he thought "the presence of the king would make a serious war effort impossible."

3—"Churchill was also wrongly informed when he stated a democratic government could have no 'valid authority over the armed forces.' In reality some of the youngest, ablest generals, who never got ahead because they were anti-Fascist, are with us and are the only ones who may gain the confidence and enthusiastic respect of our soldiers.

Adolfo Omodeo, rector of Naples university and another leader of the liberation committee, was reported by The Associated Press to have declared that Churchill had "abandoned Italy's anti-Fascist forces." Stating that Italy was not a conquered people but a friend, and should be represented at the peace conference by a government which was not dishonored, Omodeo continued: "If Churchill insists on preserving the Italian monarchy, Italy never will have peace: its population of 42,000,000 will never be calm in the new world order."

Badoglio was quick to follow up Churchill's statement with a suggestion that Italy (the present government) be accepted as a full ally and be permitted to exchange diplomats with the united nations. He echoed Churchill's assertions that the Italian army and air force were active, and pleaded for more arms and equipment.

The king, he made clear, had no intention of abdicating after the capture of Rome: "The king and government have very clearly decided to respect entirely what the Italian people will decide on this question. That means also Italians who are prisoners in many parts of the world. . . . Abdication of the king would bring with it a most difficult interruption in the legitimacy of the representation of the Italian people and all must be consulted."

The marshal's recently-acquired concern for the wishes of the Italian people did not prevent his lashing out at those who oppose him. An Associated Press dispatch from Naples reported that he was said to "have proposed that his opponents stop their attacks on his government and on King Vittorio Emanuele."

News Behind the News

Stettinius Trip Holds More Headlines Than White House Admits

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—The visit of State Under-Secretary Stettinius to London is being played down because Mr. Roosevelt said it would make no headlines.

The official story is that he is going over to get acclaimed at the British foreign office. But he is seeking more than a whiff of the climate in those hallowed halls, and if all the news about it were given out, there might be plenty of headlines.

* * *

There is no use pretending Anglo-American-Russian relations are in a settled state. Russian external policies, the Polish, French nationalist committee and Italian problems—all together representing practically the entire fundamental basis of world policy—are far from a common understanding.

* * *

In fact, collectively, they are in such a state that a sound contention could be made that there is no allied political policy today (as distinct from the military policy on which there seems to be unity.)

A disillusionment with Russia has developed in the state department here from Stettinius on down, excepting possibly only State Secretary Hull at the top. Observers from within have noticed that trend spreading apace with Russia's repeated steps to develop agreements with each individual nation in Europe (unilateral understandings) contrary to Hull's stand against separate alliances.

* * *

Nevertheless, Hull's friends classify him as more hopeful than most of the others that the Russians are merely representing alternatives to the world, first moving in one direction and then in the other, at one time pleasing us, and at another goading us. That these moves represent a threat and possibly a break is the more common view of other officials.

* * *

Why Mr. Roosevelt and the British are giving one third of the conquered Italian fleet to the Russians has not been thoroughly explained. No one has even hinted that we should get one-third of what the Russians conquer in this war to make matters even.

Only explanation offered here is that the Reds have sacrificed greatly—one of the highest officials saying privately the war would have ended in a stalemate, had not Russia wasted the German army. This seems to represent the official attitude.

* * *

The British, however, seem more resentful of Moscow diplomacy, if not frightened by it. If Mr. Stettinius can make any progress toward solution of this complex tri-partite relationship, he will not only get a headline, but a medal. For instance, if he could only get the Poles and Russians on speaking terms, he will have wrought a diplomatic miracle.

* * *

Furthermore, there does not appear to be even a joint understanding regarding the future of Germany. Mr. Churchill indicated to Parliament he favored partitioning that nation when he suggested Poland should be given compensating territory from Germany for whatever the Russians take away from her eastern frontier. No cheers were heard here about that.

On the Italian problem, most of our officials, talking unofficially, would like to get rid of both the king and Badoglio, and see a republic with a true legislative assembly representing all parties freely, established when we get to Rome, but what Stalin thinks about that may be something else again.

* * *

Thus, none of the recently developed attitudes of Moscow and London, except the Finnish peace offer, has found great favor here. In fact, it is doubtful that our own action in one particular, in bringing Argentina to her senses by a strong policy, found favor in London.

If we had followed the British, we would still be running away from that situation. There are also the matters of acquiring British bases and competitive viewpoints on trade relations in which the British obviously do not like the Hull policy.

Thus the agreements which have been made and so widely advertised (Moscow, Teheran, etc.) have fallen far short of a common political understanding. You need no secret information to see that. It is apparent behind the news daily.

Senate Republicans Look Ahead To November Elections

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The much-mourned death of Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon brings up another chapter in Republican politics which may have far-reaching effects within the party as well as in the coming national election.

It is an interesting chapter, too, for out of it may come a determination of just what trend the GOP will take in the upper chamber from here on. This will be decided shortly when McNary's successor as minority leader is named.

There are three possibilities: (1) Selection of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio . . . at this writing, I think this most likely. (2) Designation of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; (3) or the continuation in office of the present acting minority leader, Sen. Wallace H. White of Maine.

To appreciate these candidates it's necessary first to understand McNary and the technique he used in guiding the destinies of the party on the senate floor and in the all-important committees, where most political battles are at least blueprinted.

McNary was for the most part a mild-mannered man. I have never heard him take the floor to rave and rant over any piece of legislation. In a personal sense (as well as political) he was a conservative. Some young party liberals in the senate were impatient with him. They wanted a more vigorous prosecution of a more liberal legislative program, although there never was any question of McNary's parliamentary adroitness or his ability to hold his own against Democratic maneuvering.

It's likely that either Taft or Vandenberg would be acceptable to what the boys on the hill refer to as the party's "young Turks" in the Senate. Vandenberg was one when he was younger. And there has never been any doubt about Taft's vigor on the floor.

But Taft has been referred to as the great compromiser. This doesn't mean that he gives ground, but that his technique is to cause enough furore to get the opposition in a dither and then slip in with a compromise that will at least make some headway for his party and his own program. Vandenberg, on the other hand, isn't inclined to compromise, once he gets his head set. Some observers think he might be a less clever manipulator on the senate floor, although some declare he can have the job if he wants it.

There is one other point to be considered, and it's an important one. Vandenberg is an avowed MacArthur - for - president man, while Taft is Bricker's No. 1 backer. The additional prestige either would gain by elevation to floor leader in the senate could have considerable effect on the party's convention decisions.

There has been no complaint against Senator White. New to the job and proceeding cautiously, he has worn well under the strain of several of the biggest legislative battles in the senate in months. He is, however, more in the McNary tradition than either of the other two.

Benny Goodman's Maid No Hero-Worshipper

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Benny Goodman, back on the lots, says it happened back in New York, one day when he was testing reeds for his clarinet. The Goodman maid, after listening to the same tentative tootlings during the better part of an afternoon, ventured: "Mrs. Goodman, your husband plays real nice—isn't it a shame he only knows one tune?"

Benny, a movie old-timer by now, is back for "Sweet and Low-Down," the musical comedy with Lynn Bari, Linda Darnell, Jack Oakie and others, including James Cardwell, oldest of "The Sullivans." Benny didn't know it, but this Cardwell at one time was his carnation caddy. When Goodman's band played Philadelphia, Sunday blue laws sent them across the river to Camden, N. J., for one-nighters, and around the Camden theater one of the youthful swing fans was Jimmy Cardwell. When he learned that Goodman needed a carnation—red—for his lapel, Jimmy traipsed the length of the town in vain. Finally found a white one, sprayed it with red ink, and presented it triumphantly. . . .

Pre-Meteorologists to Graduate From 'C' School This Morning

Graduation ceremonies for 148 graduating cadets of the army air corps pre-meteorology school will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in Macbride auditorium. The convocation services will be open to the public.

The third military convocation to be held this year, this morning's ceremony will see the completion of a training course by the first army unit to arrive in Iowa City. The "C" meteorologists, who will receive certificates indicating completion of their work here from President Virgil M. Hancher this morning, arrived in Iowa City in March, 1943.

Dr. Harry Barnes, university registrar, will deliver the convocation address.

At the graduation services, which will be presided over by Maj. Clyde W. Hubbard, commanding officer of the army air corps training detachment here, awards of special merit will be made to eight members of the graduating class by Col. Luke D. Zech, commandant of all army units stationed on the Iowa campus.

Awards for outstanding academic achievement will be presented to Pvt. William A. Boylan and Pvt. Paul D. Oyer. Pvt George E. Disher and Pvt. Frederick H. Smith will receive special awards for military bearing, and awards for athletic prowess will go to Pvt. Ernest C. Krauth and Pvt. James A. Hayes.

Merit awards for special services in extra-curricular activities will be presented to Pvt. Alan D. Cook and Pvt. Paul D. Oyer, for their work as members of the editorial staff of "Thunderhead," the pre-meteorology yearbook.

The Rev. Bonaventure Schwinn, O.S.B., of the school of religion, will act as chaplain for the service, and will give the invocation and benediction.

Music for the processional, recessional and "the Star Spangled Banner" will be furnished by the orchestra of the army specialized training unit.

Platform officials will be President Hancher, Dr. Barnes, Dean Harry K. Newburn, Prof. William D. Coder, coordinator of the army programs on the campus, Prof. E. N. Oberg, head of the meteorology school, Father Schwinn, Colonel Zech, Major Hubbard and Lieut. Frank J. Havlicek, adjutant.

Following the graduation ceremony, some of the pre-meteorology men will prepare to leave Iowa City this afternoon for re*classification centers where they* will be placed in other units of the army air corps.

SURGICAL DRESSINGS

A shipment of more than 40,000 bandages to be rolled has arrived and all university women who have signed up for the surgical dressing group under the "Double V" program are asked to give their services starting Monday.

Regular hours open will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 p. m. at city hall and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 3 to 5 p. m. in the river room of Iowa Union.

'Thunderhead,' Volume II, Ready

'C' Meteorologists Publish Yearbook Of Activities Here

Ready for distribution among the men of the graduating class of "C" meteorologists, is "Thunderhead," the yearbook published for members of the class.

"Thunderhead" was prepared for publication by a staff of pre-meteorology students, under the supervision of the public relations officer of their unit, Lieut. Frank J. Havlicek.

"Thunderhead" has been issued as a sequel to the first volume, put out by the "M" class of meteorologists, which carried the same name. The student editorial board consists of Pvt. Paul Oyer, Pvt. Alan Cook, Pvt. John Hanni and Pvt. Harley Higbie.

Pvt. Norman Beck served as business manager for the book, and Pvt. Frank Montgomery and Pvt. Robert Novak were its cartoonists.

Photographs of members of the pre-meteorology permanent party of commissioned and noncommissioned officers, of university civilian instructors, and of the eight platoons of men are included in the volume. Informal snapshots and photographs of individual activity groups are other features of "Thunderhead."

A sister publication to the two yearbooks issued by the school is still another "Thunderhead," the bi-weekly news publication of the school, also produced by the students. Private Cook served as editor of the newspaper, with the following students as members of his staff: Pvt. Paul D. Oyer, news editor, Pvt. Raymond M. Eastman, feature editor, Pvt. John Hanni, sports editor, Pvt. Frank Montgomery, art editor and Pvt. Norman Beck, business manager.

The paper, instituted last July with members of both the "C" and "B" classes of the staff, consisted of six pages, printed by a process which allowed the use of photographs and cartoons.

In the most recent yearbook, the pre-meteorologists refer sadly to the former members of their class who have been transferred from the unit, as "casualties" and "dear departed."

The university professors, under whose direction the boys pursued an academic course originally planned to fit them for advanced training as army air corps meteorologists, are termed by "Thunderhead" as those "For Whom the Boys Toiled." Another page of the yearbook is devoted to the cadet officers, called the "Law of the Commons."

Maj. Clyde W. Hubbard, commander of the unit, said in speaking of the yearbook, "In spite of difficulties the boys had in technical production of the yearbook they have put out an exceptionally fine publication and deserve commendation for their efforts."

The book, he added, was put out entirely by student initiative, during free hours, and was completely financed by the students.

Prof. Ruth Updegraff Will Be Interviewed On Radio This Morning

Prof. Ruth Updegraff, supervisor of the pre-school laboratories, will be a guest on the News about Children program over WSUI at 11:15 this morning.

Professor Updegraff has just returned from a trip to the west coast, where she visited a number of wartime child care centers. She will give her impressions of these centers, with emphasis on aspects of interest to parents and teachers. Donald Pelz, research assistant in the child welfare department, will conduct the interview.

SO METAL IS SCARCE—

ALL TIN CANS may not find their destined use in the war effort as part of a scrap drive, as is evidenced by the use to which members of the graduating class of the pre-meteorology school put five pieces of precious metal. Pvt. Frank Port (left) of Cleveland, Ohio, and Pvt. James R. Peterson of Canoga Park, Calif., are shown holding an athletic trophy won by their platoon (A-1) of which Port is platoon leader. The trophy is constructed entirely from tin cans, soldered together and burnished with steel wool until it rivals the best gold trophy ever awarded. Three sardine cans constitute the base and handles of the trophy, a milk can forms the stem of the cup and a large peach can forms the main body of the trophy. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the trophy is that the sardine and milk cans still hold their original contents, thus earning the cup the title of "The trophy we would most like to be alone with on a desert island, provided we had a can opener." The lettering on the cup, cut by Pvt. Franklin P. Montgomery with a pocket knife, reads: "56th AAFTTD Olympics, Jan. 10-15, 1944, won by Platoon A-1." Besides the hours of work put in on the trophy, it boasts the added investment value of 20 meat ration points, which make it practically invaluable to its owners.

'Leap Year Gambol' Offers SUI Women Chance at Courting

Sadie Hawkins day for the women in the hill country comes once a year, but for the University women, a chance occurs only once in four. University women are taking advantage of this fact with the "Leap Year Gambol" tonight.

In previous years there have been dances called the "Spinster's Spree" or the "Bachelor's Break" which fulfill, to a certain extent, the ideals embodied in the "Leap Year Gambol." This time, however, it's officially leap year.

Back in the days before the war when there were no uniforms on campus, the parties were actually reversed completely. The girls would make the date, send a corsage and then escort her beau to the dance. Couples could be seen arriving at the Union on tandem bicycles or by wheelbarrow, and often groups would arrive in a milk wagon, a moving van or a cleaner's truck.

The corsages the men wore were often unique. Lollipops or vegetables made attractive bouquets. Red-tipped cigarettes, pastel powder puffs or corncob pipes with cornflowers in them adorned the men's lapels. A corsage of garlic and chrysanthemums could be smelled for quite some distance.

The "Leap Year Gambol" will be held tonight in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 8 until 11 o'clock. Playing for the informal affair will be Maurie Bruckman and his band from Davenport.

The theme for the party, of course, will be leap year. The front of the dance programs will picture a coed, wearing the typical skirt and sweater, chasing a fellow. On the backdrop she succeeds in catching her man.

Tickets are still on sale at the main desk in Iowa Union. They are priced at $1.10 a couple.

Members of the university's central party committee who are planning the event are David Diggs, D4 of East Moline, Ill.; chairman; Nadine Greetan, C3 of Victor; Catherine Harmeier, A4 of Iowa City; Irving Wansik, E2 of West Hartford, Conn., and Jane Randolph, A2 of Marion, Ind., in charge of programs.

Seashore Model

CALL IT FASHION if you wish, as Diana Lewis models this attractive two-piece seashore creation. Figuratively speaking, though, it looks like a lovely piece of glamor. The gay floral print scattered on a white background complements Diana's golden hair and deep suntan. (International)

Museum Will Exhibit Prints by Emil Ganso, Former Faculty Member

Announcement has just been received that the Brooklyn museum is presenting from March 11, through May 21, retrospective prints by Emil Ganso, formerly on the staff of the art department. Ganso, who was one of the leading artists in the United States and who has an outstanding technique in print, died at the time of the art conference here in 1941.

The Brooklyn museum exhibition includes etchings and aquatints, lithographs, woodcuts, wood engravings, and silk-screen stencils. They are all mediums that Mr. Ganso taught to students here with great success.

A number of his paintings, drawings and prints are now owned in Iowa City by Dr. C. Van Epps, Maj. Mason Ladd, dean of the college of law now on leave of absence, Professor Longman, head of the art department, and others.

In 1917-18 few women were employed in shipyards; now 7 per cent of the shipyard workers are women.

Girl Scouts Postpone Birthday Celebration Until Next Month

Because of the measles epidemic, it is necessary for the local Girl Scouts to postpone their all-city celebration of their 32nd birthday of scouting until April 13. The week of March 12 is the annual date celebrated as Girl Scout anniversary week.

Girl Scouting in the United States was founded by Juliette Gordon Low in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Low became interested in the movement while in England. From the time she called a meeting of the first troop of girls in her home in Savannah until her death in January, 1927, Mrs. Low devoted her life to the movement. At the time of her death, she saw the movement grow from a handful of girls to a national organization of over 100,000. Since that time the organization has grown into a body of over 800,000 girls.

Records show that the first Girl Scout troops in Iowa City were organized in 1919 and the organization grew under the guidance of the Girl's council. In 1923 the local Girl Scout council received its first charter and employed its first director, Mrs. F. A. Kinney. Today the Iowa City local organization has over 400 registered Girl Scouts.

Girl Scouts' swimming classes which are scheduled to begin this morning will be postponed indefinitely because of measles.

Before the war, industries manufacturing electrical products employed the largest proportion of women.

Prof. Sidney Winter Edits Book Reviews In Accounting Review

The current issue of the Accounting Review, quarterly publication of the American Accounting association, contains a book review section edited by Prof. Sidney G. Winter of the college of commerce.

One of the features of the section is a review by Prof. Paul R. Olson, also of the college of commerce. Professor Olson reviews the revised edition of "Foreign Trade—Principles and Practices," by Huebner and Kramer, which presents a discussion of the entire general field of foreign trade.

Several graduates of the university also review books for the section. Herbert E. Miller, B.A. 1936, M.A. 1937, a member of the school of business administration at the University of Minnesota, reviews "How Corporations Conceal Profits" and "How to Understand Your Corporation's Finances." "The Elements of Statistics" is considered by C. F. Chizek, who was graduated in 1927, head of the accounting department at Notre Dame university. M. G. Dakin, B.S. 1932, J.D. 1935, now with the legal division of the securities and exchange commission, reviews "CPA Questions and Answers."

Professor Winter, who was president of the association in 1939, has served in the capacity of book editor since February, 1943.

Dried Foods May Have Important Post-War Role, SUI Pediatrician Says

Dried foods, now widely used in the war to conserve shipping space, may have an important post-war place among preserved foods for ordinary use of civilians, according to Prof. P. C. Jeans, head of pediatrics at University hospital.

War stimulated research has developed the best methods of drying foods to preserve their flavor and nutritional quality, said Professor Jeans. It is important to know the contents of these dried foods because it is necessary to retain these essentials to the greatest extent possible.

Big Ten Coaches Meet, Set New Schedules

Michigan State To Play Again

Iowa Pre-Flight, Gophers to Resume Competition This Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State, the only major midwestern school to drop football last season, is planning to resume the sport in 1944 if a satisfactory schedule can be arranged, Ralph Young, athletic director, yesterday told Big Ten coaches and directors at their annual winter meeting.

"Coach Charley Bachman and myself came to the meeting prospecting for a schedule of games, said Young, "if we find we can get some games, a procedure which naturally is difficult since we've been out of action for a year, we'll ask the Michigan State faculty men to resume intercollegiate football."

The Spartans would like to play schools using civilians and hope for renewal of their rivalries with Michigan, Purdue and Marquette.

Michigan State, typical of schools without navy units, has no football personnel on hand at the present but hopes to have enough men by next fall to follow the other midwestern schools and continue the sport.

Meanwhile, Big Ten officials gave approval for unlimited summer football practices, stipulating only that the drills must end one week before the start of regular fall practice. Last year a four-week summer practice term was adopted.

Several coaches expressed the opinion that unlimited drills were required to get new high school graduates into condition for the tough college grind.

A 10-game Big Ten football schedule for 1944 was adopted, high-lighted by resumption of competition between Minnesota and Iowa Pre-Flight and a one-year lapse in the 17-year-old rivalry between Northwestern and Ohio State. The game was dropped next fall in order for the Buckeyes to schedule Great Lakes on Oct. 21.

The Minnesota-Seahawks game is slated for Sept. 23 at Minnesota and came somewhat as a surprise following the reported strained relations between the two schools after the Gophers last fall had protested the use of officers in the pre-flight lineup.

Athletic directors gave official approval of a recommendation by coaches for a program to expand football by forming varsity "B," 150-pound and freshmen elevens next fall, with all but the freshmen playing complete schedules.

The 1944 Big Ten golf and tennis championships were slated for "the Chicago area" May 27, and Northwestern announced it would be host for the second successive time to the N. C C. A. tennis tournament, June 26 through July 1.

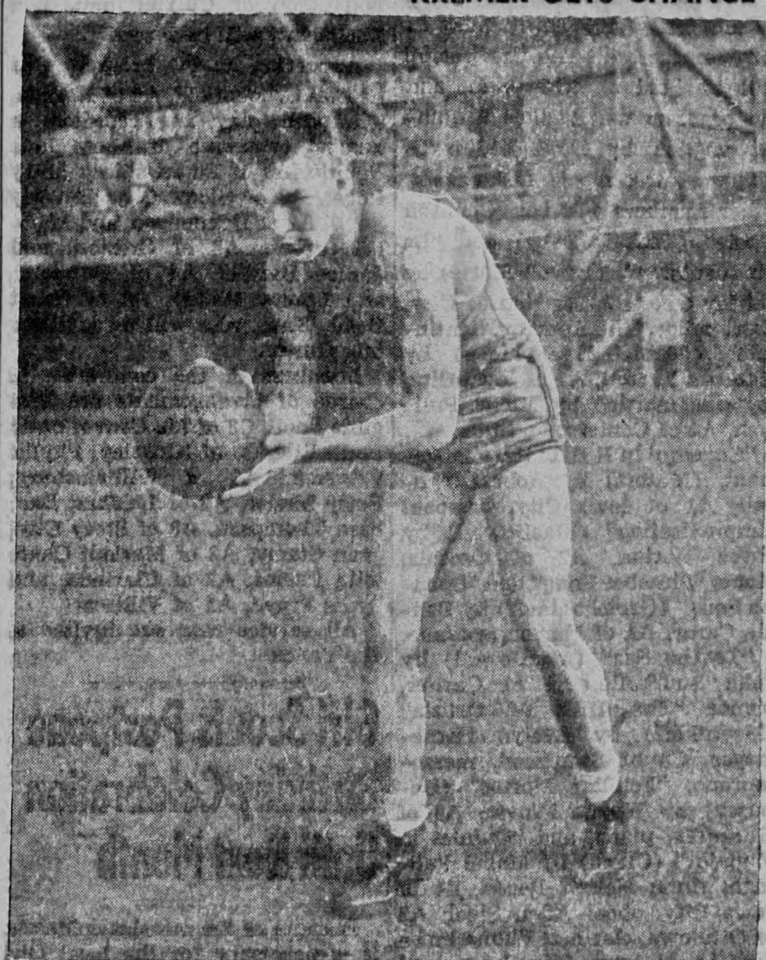
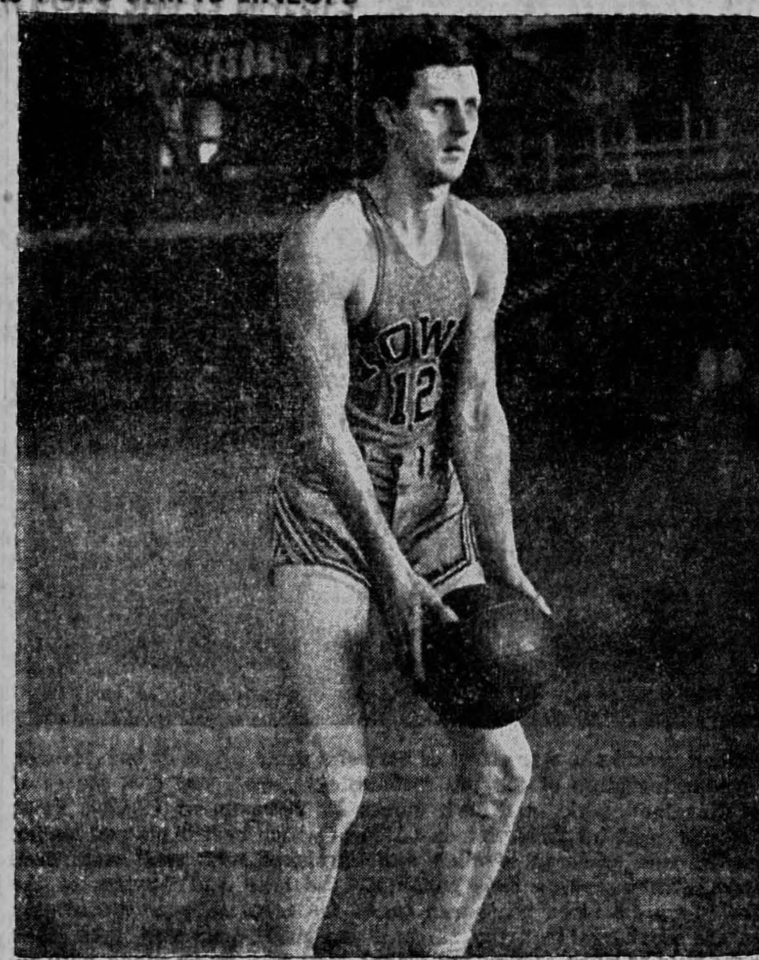
KREMER GETS CHANCE AS POPS SHIFTS LINEUPS





GLENN 'DOC' KREMER, Iowa basketeer, will possibly get his big chance in NCAA tournament play March 24-25 as reports came yesterday that Lloyd Herwig would not be able to attend the festivities. Ned Postels will be shifted into the pivot spot while Kremer will take over the Mankota, Minn., boy's duties at guard.

Montgomery Says He's Too Tired to Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Something new was added yesterday—another twist—to the already snarled lightweight fistic title situation.

It appears that Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, who won the NY-NJ-PA version of the crown just a week ago from Beau Jack, the Augusta, Ga., shoe-shine boy, is "too tired to defend his laurels for a while."

The script called for the Jack-Montgomery winner to meet Sammy Angott March 31 in a title scrap in Madison Square Garden. Sammy, until Wednesday night, held the NBA championship, but Mexican Juan Zurita took it away from him in a Hollywood 15-rounder.

But New York's boxing commission said yesterday it wanted the Angott-Montgomery fight to go on. Promoter Mike Jacobs said the same thing. Charley Jones, Angott's pilot, insisted. Frankie Thomas, handling Montgomery's affairs, however, said his boy wasn't feeling well, that he was very tired from training and making weight for three recent scraps and that he couldn't be ready for a date with Angott.

The commission, desiring a quick look at the ailing Montgomery, ordered him to appear Tuesday for a physical checkup.

Joe Barney, who has won the Utah state round robin bowling title four times in five years, was a left-handed semi-pro pitcher but learned to bowl right-handed.

Blue Triumphs Over Black

NEW HAVEN (AP)—During the past year Yale university athletic teams have dominated contests with Princeton. The Bulldog basketball team defeated the Tigers twice, while the Eli swimming, baseball, wrestling and football squads triumphed over the Nassaumen.

When Utah State decided against playing basketball this season, the players banded together, borrowed the college uniforms and competed as the Logan Collegians.

The only non-Utah player on Utah's cage team is Mas Tatsuno, 22-year-old Japanese - American, who transferred from San Francisco junior college.

Iowa's Foe In NCAA Tilts Still Mystery

Not knowing the identity of their first opponent, University of Iowa basketball players continue to work on their own offense in preparation for the NCAA western play-off tournament.

"The tournament committee has promised to let us know well in advance as to the pairings for the Friday night games March 24 but we don't know just when to expect this information," said Coach "Pops" Harrison.

Might Meet Cyclones

Iowa's opponent in the semi-final round at Kansas City, Mo. might be Iowa State, with a 12-4 record; George Pepperdine college of Los Angeles, a school of 300 students which has a 20-12 mark; or University of Arkansas, co-champion of the Southwest conference which has won 16 of 23 games.

To help in the scrimmages, Tom Pray of Ft. Dodge, second all-state end last fall who also played basketball, has joined the squad as a center. The Hawkeyes are short-handed because several of the squad members have not been able to report, because of pressure of studies.

Herwig May Be Replaced

Ned Postels, regular guard, is being worked at center so he can replace Lloyd Herwig if necessary. When he is at the pivot post, Glen Kremer, who played in 12 games, takes over his guard position opposite Jack Spencer.

Hawkeyes now are getting rested after their hard regular season of 18 games and more strenuous workouts are planned for next week, Coach Harrison said. The team will drill on some revisions of attack.

Dan Howley Died Yesterday

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Daniel P. Howley, 58, Boston Red Sox scout and former manager of the St. Louis Browns and Cincinnati Reds, died yesterday of a heart attack in his home. He also formerly managed and owned the Toronto team of the International league.

Howley managed the Browns for three years, 1927-1929 and the Cincinnati club for three years, 1930-32.

He broke into league ball as a catcher with Indianapolis in 1906 and played with several minor league clubs before he entered the majors, playing with the Philadelphia nationals and the Cleveland Indians.

He succeeded George Sisler as manager of the St. Louis Browns in 1927. The Browns finished seventh, third and fourth under him. Then he succeeded Jack Hendricks at Cincinnati.

Howley apparently had been in excellent health as late as Thursday when he appeared at the Red Sox headquarters to confer with general manager Eddie Collins and other members of the staff.

He leaves his widow and two sisters.

'It's the Players That Make The Coach,' Says Pops Harrison

Praises Cage Kids At Luncheon Address Before Masonic Group

"I feel it's the boys that make the coach and not the coach that makes the boys," said Lawrence (Pops) Harrison, university basketball coach, speaking to the Masons at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

Harrison spoke highly of the team, a record breaking team in spite of its "youngest squad" status in the Big Ten conference.

The coach acknowledged that the world during these times tends to ask why athletics continue. He cited remarks of a Great Lakes officer who related Casablanca experiences where it was necessary for boys to be so full of stamina that they might go back in and fight again and again. In the Great Lakes hospital some of the boys with nerves shattered by bombardment are now having sports privileges.

The commandant said, "That is the reason the navy is definitely committed to a full program of sports. It feels college would let them down if they threw the program out the window."

Great Lakes Stadium

He said that within the next two weeks the sacred parade grounds at Great Lakes will be turned into a stadium with a 25,000 seat capacity where all teams desiring navy competition may come.

"Basketball this year is what the Great Lakes would like to have it," said Harrison. Although the team was the youngest in the Western conference, with an average age of 18, he stressed the fact that the boys were trained in the principles stipulated by the government.

"Not a kid in the entire squad had any previous training on a freshman or varsity team," he said.

If some persons are critical of this year's work, he suggested that they be reminded of the problems confronting coaches, trainers and boys who play on courts each game with no assistance from servicemen personnel. The question of how hard the boys should be worked was important because it was necessary that overwork be avoided to prevent fatigue and breakdown in squad coordination.

Coach-Team Understanding

"At the start of the season we had an understanding," said Pops in his best shower-room voice. "We agreed that if we had a problem, the boys were free to say, 'Coach, don't you think it would be a good idea to do it this way?' "

He said this happened frequently during the season. During the Purdue game even Pops' warning about a guard change was unheeded with success by a decision of the boys.

"They operated all year by abiding by their own judgment on the court, and a spirit of unity prevailed," he said

He gave as an example a record Ives achieved which might have been accomplished by Dave Danner who sat on the bench cheering lustily that Ives might accomplish the record-breaking feat.

"Any honor that is passed around certainly goes to those kids, for they deserve it," Pops concluded.

Gil Dodds to Face All Star Field In K of C Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Gil Dodds, who punishes himself with a 1:58 half-mile while winning mile runs, comes up for a double dose of the treatment tonight when he competes in both the mile and the 1,000-yard run in the Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden.

Victorious in all his five mile starts this winter, Dodds will attempt to duplicate the efforts of Glenn Cunningham who in 1935 established a world mark for the shorter distance at 2:10.1 and an hour later won the mile in 4:14.8.

Dodds will run the mile first and have a rest of an hour and 15 minutes between the two races.

In the longer event he will be opposed by Bill Hulse, holder of the American outdoor record at 4:06; Don Burnham of Dartmouth and Rudy Simms of New York university.

The Boston pastor's rivals in the 1,000 will be Les Eisenhart, Ohio school teacher and national indoor king at the distance and Al Daily, IC-4A champion, among others.

Michigan's 22-Man Squad Tops Entries

Big Ten Indoor Meet To Feature Wolverines Stars Defending Titles

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan's squad of 22 men last night topped a list of 179 athletes entered for today's annual Big Ten indoor track championships.

Qualifying preliminaries in the 440, 880, the 60-yard dash and the low and high hurdles will be held this afternoon in the University of Chicago fieldhouse. The championship program is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. (CWT).

Only three defending champions are back, two from Michigan's Wolverines who are an overwhelming choice to beat out Illinois for the team title. Defending their crowns will be Bob Ufer, the 440-yard Big Ten and American record-holder, and Miller Ross Hume. The other defending titlist is pole vaulter Johnny Schmidt of Ohio State.

Ufer and Schmidt are favored to retain their championships, but Ross Hume will draw strong competition from his twin brother, Bob, who has turned in the best mile time of the season.

Illinois' sensational freshman, Buddy Young, is expected to win the 60-yard dash, the 70-yard low hurdles and the broad jump, and possibly may be the only record-breaker of the meet with a new mark in the broad jump. He also may equal Jesse Owen's :06.1 time in the dash, the Big Ten as well as the world's record.

Other outstanding entries are Elmer Swanson, Michigan, high hurdler; Armin Baumann of Minnesota, who has high jumped 6 feet 2 inches; Knight Webster of Wisconsin, whose 9:59.9 two-mile is the Big Ten best for the season; Bill Haynes of Purdue, with a 1:58.8 in the half mile; and shot-puttre Nelson Klaus, also of Purdue, with a toss of 47 feet 6¼ inches.

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The announcement by Hal Wagner, a 2-B defense worker, that he will work the weekend shift behind the plate for the Philadelphia Athletics in their home and near-by road games this year may solve a problem for other major league clubs which have players in defense work who are uncertain as to just what to do.

It won't affect many, chiefly because ball players scatter like a handful of marbles after a season ends and very few stay in the cities in which their clubs operate, and unless the war worker is employed in the same town in which he plays, it just wouldn't work. However, there might be a few who could double up under the Wagner plan.

Last year Larry French had more or less the same idea. He had joined the naval reserve and was stationed in Brooklyn, and figured he could pitch for the Dodgers in their weekend home games, incidentally giving any wages he received for such chores to charity. It was just an idea, though. He asked the navy, and the navy said no.

The National hockey league, a progressive organization, permitted such part-time appearances by players in defense work this year. Detroit, Montreal and Toronto, and maybe some others, had men on their rosters who waited for the team to come home before they played, and the idea apparently worked out satisfactorily.

The hockey league rules are a little more elastic than those of baseball. That is, they can be changed more quickly to meet emergencies, without the ponderous machinery that must be set in motion to change baseball rules.

The hockey clubs wanted to put as good teams as possible on the ice, and if some of the good players were in a position to play only at home, they were allowed to play only at home. Theoretically, under this system, a club could have two different teams, one for home games and one for road games, but it never would reach that point.

We haven't heard Commissioner Landis' reaction to the Wagner act yet, but we imagine that there is nothing to keep a baseball club from using a part-time player as long as the club kept within the player limit.

And this year, with the clubs lucky to get enough men to reach the limit, any team probably would welcome ta part-time player of major league bility. It would work out particularly well in the case of pitchers, who ordinarily work only once every four or five days anyway, and in the case of old gaffers with dyspeptic arms, once a week.

Anyway, under present conditions the idea is sound and a player-shy team which might be just an open-date on the road might make a satisfactory showing for the home fans who, after all, are the ones who pay the freight.

Dizzy Trout Listed As 4-F Yesterday

DETROIT (AP)—Pitcher Paul (Dizzy) Trout, 20-game winner for the Detroit Tigers last season, was rejected for army service yesterday and placed in 4-F by his selective service board here.

Trout said he first was accepted for limited service but later was rejected because his ears and eyes were below army standards. He is 28 years old, married and the father of two children.

Trout said he would return at once to Detroit's spring camp at Evansville, Ind., where earlier this week he received notice to report for a pre-induction examination.

Red Cross Begins SUI, Rural Drives

With a grand total of $10,582.36 reported in the 1944 Red Cross war fund campaign, Jack T. Johnson, chairman of the war fund committee, announces the starting of the rural and university drives for attainment of the $36,500 Johnson county goal.

Residential campaign results to date approximate $7,000, with still more returns to be reported, according to Mrs. I. A. Rankin, chairman of the Iowa City residential drive.

Mrs. Rankin went on to say that Mrs. Margaret Hayes, captain in the southeast district of Iowa City was the first to have list completed. She turned in figures on her section of the city the first day of the drive. Mrs. C. K. Leimbach reported her results the first day with the exception of one worker.

"Contributions have been coming in at the rate of nearly $3,000 per day, and we are confident Iowa Citians will do their utmost in helping reach the $36,500 quota," Johnson said.

Meat Demonstration

A demonstration on methods of cooking meat will be presented to food preparation classes in the home economics department by Frances M. Hettler, regional home economist and member of the national live stock and meat board Thursday afternoon in Macbride hall.

Cornell Archeologist Ends Lecture Series

"The Mississippi archaeological pattern stands in almost complete contrast with the woodland pattern, described in previous lectures, as there are very few similarities between these two cultures," said Prof. Charles R. Keyes of Cornell college last night in the last of a series of six archaeological lectures given in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The origins of the Mississippi are southern while those of the woodland are northrn. Originally, all the cultures must have come from the north, from Asia by way of the Bering straits, Professor Keyes explained. People migrating from Asia settled in Central and South America and built up cultures based on native American agriculture, which they developed to an amazing degree. Increase in population, power and also curiosity prompted a return migration that took them to the Mississippi valley.

The Mississippi culture is found in all southern states and in most of the northern states. Three of the five main archaeological cultures found in Iowa are Mississippian, he said.

Professor Keyes concluded the lecture with illustrations of implements and mound sites from various states.

STATE of IOWA

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the production of food is as essential to the sustaining of our armed forces, our allies, and victory in battle as the production of armaments, and

WHEREAS, the increased number of the armed forces and the increased vitality of our war effort needed to speed the day of victory demands greater food production, and

WHEREAS, our efforts on the home front in the production of food of all kinds, not alone for the armed forces and the war effort but in order to sustain high morale and health at home, is more essential now than ever before, and

WHEREAS, the State of Iowa has established outstanding records in the past through tremendous individual effort and organized cooperation and activity in all fields of food production that will stimulate us to even greater efforts this year as additional contribution to victory, and

WHEREAS, our state, through direction of our Extension Service and the organization and direction of local cooperation in every township in our state is already organized for more efficient production this year,

THEREFORE, I, B. B. Hickenlooper, Governor, do hereby proclaim the week of March 6 to 11 inclusive, as

FOOD FRONT ALERT WEEK

During this week the final plans and programs for food production in all its phases will be established. The organization machinery in all of the divisions of our state will be activated and local, district and state groups will begin to function as a coordinated unit.

I call upon all citizens to lend every cooperation, locally, for the establishment of these programs for 1944, and urge the continued cooperation and continued efforts of all citizens to make this program and the food production resulting therefrom, the greatest that we have ever undertaken or accomplished. It is a patriotic duty for all citizens to contribute every possible effort to the success of this program this year and with such contribution we can exceed all former records.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Iowa to be affixed thereto.

Done at the Capitol, in the City of Des Moines, on this Twenty-fifth Day of February in the Year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred Forty-four.

Joseph Braverman Funeral Rites Held Yesterday Afternoon

Funeral service for Joseph Braverman, 56, Iowa City grocer and library board member who died early yesterday morning, were held at his home, 419 E. Washington street, at 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

In failing health since last fall, Mr. Braverman contracted pneumonia and had been confined to bed just a few days.

Born in Russia on Christmas day of 1888, Mr. Braverman taught school in Russia two years before he came to America in 1911. Settling in Iowa City four months after his arrival in this country, he taught in the Hebrew school in Iowa City, later opening his own store, which he operated for 22 years.

He was chairman of the United Jewish campaign and the Hebrew school as well as being a member of the Community chest board.

His survivors include his wife and two daughters, Naomi and Betty; three brothers, Aaron, David and Eli, all of Iowa City, and one sister, Mrs. Julius Kunik of Washington, Iowa.

RED CROSS

The American Red Cross has a large force of expert staff members engaged in training water safety instructors in the techniques of functional swimming useful in wartime. The men are trained to instruct their comrades in the armed forces. Instruction is given at home and abroad. Within the United States and insular possessions, civilians subject to military call, are also trained.

Learn something about your War Bonds

from this fellow!

THE BEST THING a bulldog does is HANG ON! Once he gets hold of something, it's mighty hard to make him let go!

And that's the lesson about War Bonds you can learn from him. Once you get hold of a War Bond, HANG ON TO IT for the full ten years of its life

There are at least two very good reasons why you should do this. One is a patriotic reason ... the other a personal reason.

You buy War Bonds because you know Uncle Sam needs money to fight this war. And you want to put some of your money into the fight. But ... if you don't hang on to those War Bonds, your money isn't going to stay in the battle.

Another reason you Buy War Bonds is because you want to set aside some money for your family's future and yours. No one knows just what's going to happen after the War. But the man with a fistful of War Bonds knows he'll have a roof over his head and 3 square meals a day no matter what happens!

War Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 in 10 years. But, if you don't hang on to your Bonds for the full ten years, you don't get the full face value, and ... you won't have that money coming in later on when you may need it a lot worse than you need it today.

So buy War Bonds ... more and more War Bonds. And then keep them. You will find that War Bonds are very good things to have ... and to hold!
