OWI to Film Education Picture on Iowa Campus

Begin Project Next Week

Plan to Distribute Movie in Allied, Neutral Countries

The office of war information will make a motion picture on American education, with the major part of the film produced on the University of Iowa campus. Production is scheduled to start early next week, according to an announcement by President Virgil M. Hancher.

The film, a project of the bureau of motion pictures, overseas branch, OWI, will be distributed in allied and neutral countries, and in liberated territory, probably under the title "Freedom to Learn."

Sheldon Dick, producer, and LeRoy Robbins, director, representing the government agency, have been on the campus planning the production and writing the script. A camera crew is on its way to Iowa City.

While most of the film will be photographed at the university, some scenes will be taken at Iowa State college in Ames, and elsewhere in the state. Locations are now being chosen, and actual filming will begin upon the arrival of the camera crew Monday or Tuesday.

When completed and edited the film will be thirty minutes in length. Part of the sound will be recorded on location here at the university. The speaking part of the sound track will be added later in the languages of the countries where the film is to be shown.

The picture will be built around normal university life. No professional actors will be used. University students and other Iowans used in off-campus scenes will make up the entire cast of the film.

As well as being a film on the American university, the picture will stress the relationship of the university to the people of its state. The objective is to show the part which education plays in the survival of democratic processes.

"The office of war information has elected to photograph the major part of the film at this university because its broad program enables the picture to cover many aspects of American education in one place," said President Hancher.

"The university appreciates the honor of being asked to participate in this government project, and will give full and friendly cooperation."

The basic engineering students are the only ones who are being transferred at this time, Colonel Zech stated, and other A. S. T. P. students are attending classes as usual.

The A. S. T. P. basics, who constitute a group of 275 men when they arrived several weeks ago to begin their training on the Iowa campus, are the second group of servicemen to leave Iowa City this week.

A group of army air corps pre-meteorology students totalling 148 have been leaving in small detachments since their graduation Saturday morning. The last group of pre-meteorologists will leave Iowa City this evening.

London Ablaze From Blitz By Germans

LONDON, Wednesday, (AP)—German raiders set sections of London ablaze just before midnight in a short, fierce attack that equaled in intensity any of those made on the capital during the February fire blitz.

At least two waves of enemy bombers swooped across the city and poured flaming phosphorus bombs, thousands of incendiaries and many high explosives on two of London's best known business and residential districts.

A children's hospital, two churches, apartments, business properties, warehouses and entire rows of smaller dwellings were hit. Rescue squads burrowed in the wreckage for hours afterward attempting to save a number of persons believed to have been buried in the collapsing structures.

Firemen battled for two hours before they brought under control a large blaze in a warehouse over an underground shelter in which 4,000 persons were sleeping. Wardens were prepared to evacuate them when the flames finally were controlled.

American soldiers and military police joined in extinguishing the incendiaries which showered onto houses, streets and parks. In one district the Americans were covered with feathers from pillows thrown out of a blazing warehouse.

Fires were started in one large building which had been taken over by American forces.

The raiders came over the east coast and several were intercepted by nightfighters. Eight were shot down—six over Britain and two others over Holland.

F. D. R. Assails German Use of Rome As Military Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt assailed yesterday German use of Rome as a "military center" and reaffirmed the intention of the allies to spare religious monuments if possible.

The text of the statement: "Everyone knows the Nazi record on religion. Both at home and abroad Hitler and his followers have waged a ruthless war against the churches of all faiths."

American Medium Bombers Attack Rome For 8th Time; Moderate Anti-Aircraft Fire

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples (AP)—Rome was attacked from the air yesterday for the eighth time in the war as American Marauder medium bombers, noted for their precision raiding methods, blasted the Prenestiana railway yards in the eastern part of the city.

The Marauders flew over the Eternal City in three waves, escorted by Spitfires, and lunged directly for the supply-choked freight yards where recent reconnaissance photos had shown large concentrations of rolling stock.

The first formation ran into opposition from a number of enemy fighters, but returning airmen said they had been able to carry out their mission and block the yards at both ends. Numerous hits

Finn Premier Says 'Reject' Russ Proposal

STOCKHOLM, Wednesday, (AP)—A recommendation that Finland reject Russia's "last chance" proposal for an armistice was laid before a secret session of the Finnish parliament by premier Edwin Linkomies, it was reliably reported today.

The premier was said to have informed the parliament frankly of Russia's position—substantially the same as it was when it first submitted armistice terms more than a week ago at Finland's request. He was said to have declared that, under the circumstances, the Soviet conditions were impossible to accept.

Parliament was also reportedly informed that Russia insisted that the decision be reached before the end of the week.

At 3 p. m. today (Finnish time) parliament again will meet behind closed doors for a session which it is confidently expected will determine whether Finland will continue its war against Russia alongside Germany or pull out.

Ford Motor Co. Employees Strike

DETROIT (AP)—A labor dispute halted production yesterday in the Ford Motor company's Rouge aircraft engine plant, scene last Wednesday of disorder that resulted in the discharge of ten employees and the suspension of ten others.

A company spokesman said afternoon shift employees left their jobs in advance of quitting time and blockaded plant gates, barring the 5,000 night shift workers who were due to report at 11:30 p. m.

Neither the company nor the United Automobile Workers (CIO), which has a collective bargaining contract covering Ford employees, offered any immediate explanation of the issues involved in yesterday's stoppage.

Both company and union issued statements condemning the action, however.

"There is only one conclusion the company can draw," a Ford spokesman said. "That is that Local 600 (the UAW's Ford local) is subject to the whim and selfish desires of the few irresponsible members."

Buenos Aires Couple Parents of Quints Born Last June 11

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Buenos Aires newspapers said yesterday quintuplets—three girls and two boys—were born in suburban Belgrano last June 11 and that word of the event had just gotten out.

The parents were identified as Senor and Senora Franco Diligenti, the father a business man in the Argentine capital and the mother a dark-haired attractive young Italian woman.

A feminine reporter who interviewed the mother said she saw the quints, all in robust health. The mother, Volotta, declined to disclose the name of the attending physician or to part with a photograph of the children, she said.

OPA Orders—Lower 'A' Gas Ration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "A" named Milwaukee, Wis., and Raleigh, N. Recalling that allied airmen have dropped counterfeit rationing books in Germany as part of the effort to undermine the enemy's economic structure, Polier said the black market in gasoline threatens to wreck America's own wartime economy.

Fascist Journalist Killed in Allied Raid

Churchill Says Allies Will Isolate Eire

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced in common yesterday that the allies intend to "isolate southern Ireland from the outer world during the critical period which is now approaching" and declared that the virtual suspension of travel into Eire announced Sunday was but the first step in the carrying out of this policy.

The next steps were not disclosed, but Churchill's grave declaration, defining the Irish problem as being entirely one of security for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's troops and plans, implied an extension of restrictions to the border between northern and southern Ireland and perhaps even a semi-blockade of Eire.

In Washington Secretary of State Hull said that British measures to restrict Ireland's contacts with the rest of the British Isles were practical steps to safeguard the lives of American soldiers. He said that at the moment he had nothing to add on further steps which might be taken.

"We have for some time past taken a number of measures to minimize the dangers arising from the substantial disservice to the allied cause involved in the retention by Mr. De Valera's government."

Axis Agents Stay; Travel Suspended in Eire

ALL TRAVEL has been suspended between Ireland and Great Britain "for military reasons of paramount importance," as the U. S. and Britain move to isolate neutral Eire and protect united nations interests following Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's refusal to oust axis diplomatic agents, a step he said would violate his country's neutrality. Robert Brennan, minister to the U. S. from Eire, expressed in Washington that he believes the United States will not put pressure behind his request that De Valera abandon neutrality and expel German and Japanese diplomats.

British Cross Chindwin River

NEW DELHI (AP)—Another new front in north Burma exploded in the faces of the Japanese yesterday when British columns crossed the Chindwin river in some force above Tamanthi, 110 miles southwest of the Maing-kwan-walabum front where Chinese-American forces are mopping up in the Hukawng valley.

The hard-hitting British reported the Chindwin crossing made about 40 miles east of the Assam border, was much easier than similar action last year when Maj. Gen. Orde Charles Wingate led his raiders in their foray into the Burma jungles. The southeastern Asia command communique yesterday reported the columns were "well advanced" eastward after crossing the Chindwin, but did not indicate objectives of the new thrust.

Successful patrol penetration to two new sectors also indicated imminent further extension of the British-Chinese-American offensives which are harassing the Japanese on half a dozen separate fronts in Burma.

One patrol was reported in contact with the enemy along the main trail to Taro mountain 14 miles southeast of Taro, which is roughly 25 miles west of Maing-kwan.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Once every two hours the American flag is run up on a mast and a new ship joins the gigantic United States fleet.

He coupled it to an emphatic restatement of his opinion that manning so many ships and at the same time meeting army and industry manpower needs is too big a job for anything but a national service law.

Soviet Forces 21 Miles From Nikolaev Sea Port

MOSCOW, Wednesday (AP)—The Red army encircled "several Nazi divisions" in the southern Ukraine and has already killed 10,000 Germans and captured another 4,000 while other Soviet forces reached a point 21 miles from the Black sea port of Nikolaev and smashed across the Bug river in an area 60 miles from the Rumanian frontier, the Russians announced today.

Reds Encircle Nazi Divisions

More than 230 localities were declared captured by Soviet forces on three Ukrainian fronts, with the most important gains made in the southeast and north-central area.

The Soviet communique, and its midnight supplement, disclosed that several German divisions had been trapped by two arms of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian front forces and in their frantic efforts to break out had already lost thousands of dead and wounded.

"Our troops reached the Ingulets river from the west and cut off the road of retreat of a large enemy grouping," the communique said, "at the same time other of our formations, developing their offensive along the left bank of the Ingulets river, captured a district center of the Nikolaev region, Bolshaya Seideminukha, the populated places of Vasilevka and Pavlovka and thus closed a ring around the German divisions in the area of Bereznogovati-Sniger-evka."

"Desperate attempts of the enemy to break out of encirclement failed. Our troops are pressing in on the encircled German divisions and inflicting huge losses on them in manpower and material."

The Russians also captured Kiselevka, 21 miles east of Nikolaev and the railroad station of Chekhovichi, about 25 miles southeast of Nikolaev, it was announced.

The crossing of the Bug river was reported by the communique supplement which said one formation "crossed the Bug river south and north of the town of Galsin and created a threat of encirclement to the Germans." Galsin is about 50 miles southeast of Vinitsa.

Galsin, too, was captured and "hundreds of enemy dead were left on the approaches to the town and in the streets," the communique said.

In the south the Russians made a 19-mile advance in 24 hours, capturing the town of Shirokaya Balka on the west bank of the Dnieper river west of captured Kherson. Shirokaya Balka is 28 miles southeast of Nikolaev.

Air Attacks Destroy 52 Jap Planes

By LEONARD MILLIMAN Associated Press War Editor

Intensive allied air attacks reminiscent of the raids that knocked out Rabaul as a Japanese stronghold in the southwest Pacific have destroyed between 52 and 65 planes and churned the enemy air center at Wewak on New Guinea with nearly 500 tons of bombs in three days.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report today on the latest actions disclosed a steady decrease in the number of Japanese interceptors sent up from its five airbases and a proportionate increase in the tonnage of explosives dropped. This is the same pattern, intensified, developed at Rabaul.

That crumbling New Britain base again put up air opposition Sunday against raiding bombers and fighters from the Solomon Islands. Five Japanese planes were destroyed.

Marines holding Talasea, 170 miles from Rabaul, extended their holding on the north central coast of New Britain with a new landing 35 miles to the southwest. This is between Talasea and the marines' Cape Gloucester base.

Service Ballot Bill Passes Senate 47-31

WASHINGTON (AP)—A service ballot bill accentuating state rights and alternately described as an aid and a bar to voting by millions of uniformed Americans passed the senate 47 to 31 yesterday and moved toward the house for final congressional action.

The end product of weeks of debate in both houses and lengthy arguments in a conference committee, the measure gives state absentee ballots preferential standing and offers a short-form federal ballot only as a last resort with a state approval string attached for overseas troops.

Twenty-three Democrats, 24 Republicans voted for the compromise bill, with 24 Democrats, six Republicans and one progressive opposing passage.

Opponents gained half a dozen more votes than they had counted in their polls, including that of Majority Leader Barkley, who declared the measure was held together with more legal "adhesive tape" than he had ever seen before.

House acceptance of the bill, probably today, was conceded by virtually all factions. House Majority Leader McCormack predicted its adoption although stating he would vote against it.

At His Side . . .

I SEND myself to stand beside my soldier as long as he needs my help.

I would go, if I could, to be there with him.

I would cheer him when homesickness pulls him down.

I would try to make him forget the horror he has witnessed.

I would take his worries on my shoulders and relieve his mind of fear for the welfare of those at home.

I would give him comforts, things not expected at the time and place, and precious on that account.

If my soldier were taken prisoner, I would see that he got extra foods, warm clothing and needed medicines.

If he were wounded, I would furnish my blood to save his life, and surgical dressings to bind his wounds.

I would be beside him in the hospital to give him comfort, and to make the hours less long.

If he were crippled, I would help him adjust himself to his new and smaller world, and were he discharged for disability I would seek to safeguard his interests and to see him and the family through any difficulty.

I am needed to do these things.

I CAN do them—for I am the Red Cross. By my generous gift to the Red Cross War Fund, I DO them all.

The fund—unprecedented in size to meet the unprecedented need—greatly needs my gift.

This is my share.

Reminiscence

Old-timers who can remember pitching wheat and picking peas in the long summer evenings of 1918, are going to have reminiscent twinges in the coming season.

The war manpower commission estimates U. S. farmers must recruit 3,400,000 additional workers before July.

Nation's business reports that industrial workers, who will go to the farms after the quitting whistle, must make up the great part of this army.

Time-Lag

Bombing of German industries now is clearly visible (and measurable) in military terms at battle fronts—after a time-lag which appeared to challenge the very theory of persistent bombing attack.

Returning military observers explain that, because of great German stockpiles, bombing results did not show at front during first four months.

New time-table indicates an expected lag of 10 to 15 weeks between destruction of raw material stores and the military impact at front.

Applying these new "lag-tables" military intelligence accurately clocks general enfeeblement and disintegration of Nazi military machine against final doom of coming 3-pronged invasion.

Washington in Wartime

Spring Comes to the Capital—But Not for Sightseeing

By HELEN ESSARY, Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Pay no attention to that bluster in the March wind. Spring is here—in Washington.

Get into a car. Your A sticker will take you down to where the Speedway used to be. And look the budding cherry trees over. They have forgotten there's a war and are as eager to bloom as if they had never been called Japanese.

You'll probably need a guide to lead you along the new roads, and help you defy the big signs that shout, just as you are about to turn in "Do Not Enter Here."

I used up a month's allotment of gas the other day trying to get near to Temporary L. Temporary L. is one of those strange Navy department buildings, squatting behind the Lincoln Memorial.

I zipped around the memorial thinking as I have so many times before what an exquisite thing America had built in honor of the Great Emancipator, when suddenly I realized I was going away from my destination—that elusive Temporary L.

Around and around the Memorial I went. And got no closer to where I wanted to go. Then I attacked the problem from another angle. I rode far down into Southwest—or is it Southeast?—and crept up on Temporary L from another direction. No luck! The road I most want to come upon some day is that one that spun out from the other side of the Arlington bridge. It was labeled Mt. Vernon highway. I took you past the dogwood and rewood and the river down to where George Washington used to live. As far as I know they've got Mt. Vernon tucked away in the Pentagon building. I can't find the place in this newer and duration-minded Washington.

You don't really want a loved one far away to be suffering too desperately. But—it is disconcerting to learn, just when you have been grieving your pretty heart away that the loved one is having about ten hundred times more fun in a place with an unpronounceable name than you are in the capital on the Potomac where you are at the moment waiting complete with new baby in a two-room apartment—with a candle in the window, as it were—waiting for the return of the wanderer.

There, for example, is the case of the young wife whose husband recently went to remote Turkey. The young wife had an excited request from the husband—the message came very swiftly by cloud relays probably—"Please send at once by diplomatic pouch in the clipper—my best tuxedo suit."

Everybody in Ankara, he explained, was wearing tuxedos out to dinner. And he had been so embarrassed because he had had to borrow a suit from a stranger. It was embarrassing. There were many parties being given. All the time, really.

All the formalities of social life were being observed in Ankara, the missing husband wrote. (This pleased the little wife enormously. Her cook had just left and the baby had simultaneously come down with the measles.)

As soon as one reached Ankara, one sent out cards and waited around a bit for invitations which came most promptly.

Of course, the husband added, there was a good deal of tripe to eat. If you weren't accustomed to tripe and you had suddenly to get accustomed to it at least six days a week you sort of got sick of the darned stuff.

But there was plenty of good wine and pretty women to dance with always. And contract bridge, and poker. "Humph!" thought the little wife as she shook the moth balls out of the tuxedo. "Is that so. Well, I suppose I ought to be glad he is still in one piece—maybe General Sherman was talking about wives when he spoke that way about war."

Another girl who was left behind having worried for sleepless hours about her poor Jimmy was off on that terrible Tarawa, had a cheerful letter from Jimmy yesterday saying, "Everything is swell here. We are just about to open an officers club. Then the fun will start."

$3,000,000 Drapes 'The Robe' Washington Report

Appointment of W. L. Clayton Shows How New Deal Has Changed

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—To judge by the swarms of people who are buying and reading "The Robe," quite a few of you will be interested in how the screen version is getting along.

Well, it's getting along, though it'll be late summer or autumn before Frank Ross, the young producer, puts Lloyd C. Douglas' novel of Christianity's beginnings before the camera.

For six months now, he has been doing the "treatment" and screenplay, the latter with Gena Kaus, Austrian-born novelist and biographer, and things are shaping up nicely.

"But everything has to be just right," says Ross, who is sincere and earnest. "In all my life I never expect again to have a property like this to film, and I feel a great responsibility about it."

Ross heard about "The Robe" when it was half-finished and went immediately to see the author. Douglas was impressed enough by his ideas for filming it that he insisted the movie rights go to Ross for $100,000.

Ross since has had offers of four times as much, and no wonder. For 10 months "The Robe" led the best-sellers, and now is selling some 65,000 copies a month.

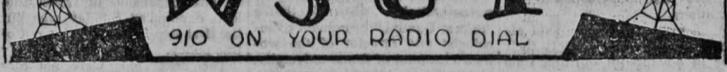

"The Robe" will be filmed in color, Mervyn LeRoy directing with a $3,000,000 budget. Part of it may be made in Mexico, the extra shortage here being what it is and huge crowds being required, but Ross hasn't decided about that yet.

He also hasn't decided whether to try for a cast of stars, or to use comparative unknowns, though he favors the latter because he believes they enhanced credibility of "The Song of Bernadette."

Ross is a one-time housebuilder who first came into pictures as an actor. "I was paid by Paramount for a while, but never acted in anything, for which I'm glad. I went back east to build more houses." But he had married Jean Arthur during his stay here in 1931, and his work in the east was fine while Jean was working on Broadway.

"Then pictures took her west again," he says, "and I couldn't ask her to give them up and be just a home body, so I came west to build houses here."

Milton Bren, then a producer, persuaded him to try films behind the camera, and the two of them introduced John Steinbeck to pictures with "Of Mice and Men." Ross since has produced "The Divil and Miss Jones" and "A Lady Takes a Chance," both starring his wife, and collaborated on the screenplay of her "The More the Merrier," which ought to mean that he's a very versatile fellow. He is.

Washington Report

Appointment of W. L. Clayton Shows How New Deal Has Changed

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The appointment of William L. Clayton as surplus property administrator is more evidence of how much the New Deal has changed and how far the administration is going in its efforts to win the confidence of business.

The administrator of surplus property will have the biggest single selling job this world has ever seen. Under his direction, the government will dispose of not only its unneeded surplus arms, ammunition, jeeps, trucks and the thousand-and-one trappings of modern war, but also plants, lands, foodstuffs, ships and planes.

All and of this must be done without dumping on either world or local markets in such a way that it will upset the economic system or retard its return to normalcy.

To have appointed to this job not only an anti-New Dealer, but a man who has been out-spoken in criticism of New Deal policies from the first, even to the extent of joining forces with the Liberty league in 1938, would have been unthinkable a few years ago. But that's just what has happened.

Although Clayton has been around Washington since 1940, when he severed relations with his vast cotton company to become a right hand man to Jesse Jones, with the title of deputy administrator of the federal loan agency, he had not been conspicuous until his elevation to this biggest of the postwar tasks.

"Will" Clayton has one of those life stories that the success writers love to dawdle over.

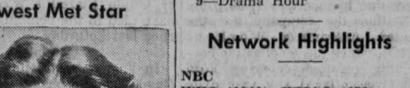

He was born on a Mississippi cotton farm and had to leave school at the eighth grade. His schooling after that consisted of mastering stenography, working for a cotton broker. He did well enough to launch out on his own at 24 and start what was to become the world's largest cotton company. What the big oil, banking and industrial empires of the east were to their respective fields, the Anderson, Clayton Cotton company became to the realm of cotton.

Those operations naturally gave him knowledge of world trade perhaps greater than any man who has come into the government, for cotton is bought and sold the world over.

They also have brought him some enemies, but it's safe to say not many who have stayed enemies long after meeting him. Mr. Clayton, tall, handsome, with thinning white hair parted in the middle, has an affable, magnetic personality that makes friends and begets loyalty.

Just how much Jesse Jones had to do with getting his fellow Houstonian to come to Washington in the first place isn't certain but it is believed considerable. His appointment to organize the great task before SWPA is proof that regardless of disagreements with New Deal economic and social programs, he has earned the entire confidence of the administration.

Student Editors To Be Elected

Positions on Hawkeye, Frivol, The Daily Iowan To Be Filled March 29

Editors and business managers of Frivol and Hawkeye, and editor of The Daily Iowan are to be elected March 29, according to a statement made by the board of trustees of Student Publications, Inc. Hawkeye positions are open to students who will be juniors during the first semester next fall or during the summer semester.

The editor of Hawkeye assumes complete charge of editorial work, while advertising, circulation and general policies are directed by the business manager.

Previous experience on Frivol and a good scholastic standing are the requirements for positions on that publication.

Qualification for editorship of The Daily Iowan includes experience on the paper and executive ability. The editor is responsible for each daily issue of the paper, appointing his staff and determining the paper's editorial policy for the year in which he serves.

Applications must be filed with Lote M. Randall, secretary of the board, in room N-1, East hall, before March 22.

Applications must be in writing and must present proof of good scholastic standing. The board of publications, which interviews applicants, consists of five students and four faculty members. It is in charge of electing persons to fill these positions, and student members of this board are elected in a campus election each spring.

Present members of the board are Prof. Wilbur Schramm, director of the school of journalism; Prof. A. Craig Baird of the speech department; Prof. Kirk H. Porter of the political science department; and Prof. Paul R. Olson of the college of commerce.

Student members include Jack Moyers, M2 of Guthrie Center; Don Otlitie, M1 of Manchester; Jeanne Franklin, A4 of El Reno, Okla.; Sarah Bailey, A4 of Des Moines, and Charles Swisher, L2 of Waterloo.

Prof. Fred M. Pownall, director of publications, is publisher of Hawkeye, The Daily Iowan and Frivol.

Dr. Jane Washburn, Dr. Thomas McMullen Wed in Des Moines

In the University Church of Christ in Des Moines, Dr. Jane Washburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Washburn of Des Moines, became the bride of Dr. Thomas McMullen of Tarkio, Mo., March 4. The Rev. M. O. Sansbury officiated.

Dorothy Kammueiler of Des Moines served as maid of honor and William L. Washburn, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Elmer Sweaney and Fred Potter.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown, fashioned on princess lines. Her only jewelry was a bracelet belonging to her great-grandmother. She carried a handkerchief made by her great grandmother for her aunt's wedding, and a shower bouquet of white roses and sweetpeas.

The maid of honor was attired in a turquoise silk jersey and carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas.

A reception for 100 guests was held after the ceremony in the church parlors, after which the couple left for a brief wedding trip.

The bridegroom recently completed internship in the University hospital and was commissioned a first lieutenant. He will report to Walla Walla, Washington. The bride will resume her duties on the University hospital staff.

Pythian Sisters Name Delegates, Alternates

A Pythian Sisters school of instruction will be held Monday afternoon and evening in the K. of P. hall under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor LaVien of Dixon, district deputy grand chief.

Also announced at a meeting of Athens Temple No. 81 Monday evening were the delegates to the state and district meeting. For the forthcoming state conference Mrs. J. W. Figg was chosen first delegate, Mrs. Ernest W. Ruby, second, and Mrs. Jacob Miller, third delegate. Their respective alternates will be Mrs. William Harper, Mrs. William Wiese and Mrs. Mary Tucker.

First delegate to the district convention will be Mrs. John Kaena. Mrs. Earl Calta was named alternate first delegate.

Licensed to Wed
R. Nelson Miller, clerk of district court, issued a marriage license yesterday to Paul Peyton, 21, of Troy Mills and Betty Biggs, 18, of Cedar Rapids.

Tau Gamma Separates From U. W. A.

Tau Gamma, town women's organization, is now an independent group, as a result of a recent conference of Tau Gamma and University Women's association cabinet members.

Since 1935, Tau Gamma, then known as the Town Girls' club, has been a branch activity of the U. W. A. The first meeting was held March 11, 1935. Unaffiliated students were divided into four sectional groups, each with its own set of officers. This was an attempt to follow a plan originated by the University of Illinois. The next year, the club became Town Coeds, and finding the geographical arrangement unsatisfactory, grouped the girls according to interest.

Three types of meetings were held at the Iowa Union, social, literary and business.

In 1938, the meeting place was Currier hall. The next year the group became a local chapter. It adopted the Greek name in 1940 and became a national organization for unaffiliated town women.

The Alpha chapter is at the University of Iowa and the Beta chapter is at Oklahoma A. and M., in Stillwater, Okla. Other chapters are found throughout the country.

In the last few years, Tau Gamma meetings have been held in the north conference room of

University Schedules Five Demonstrations Of Teaching Films

Visual instruction conferences at Burlington, Muscatine, Davenport, Clinton and Dubuque next week have been scheduled by the university to demonstrate the value of educational films and slides as classroom aids.

These conferences, planned for the first time by the university, will be open to administrators, teachers and parents.

Prof. E. T. Peterson, acting dean of the college of education, Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, director of the extension division, and John R. Hedges, acting director of the bureau of visual instruction, will represent the university on the six-member team of speakers and demonstrators.

The Iowa Union, but this semester they are held in the social room of the women's gymnasium.

Tau Gamma's new independence means that Tau Gamma will be self supporting and no longer a part of the U. W. A., although it will continue to send representatives to U. W. A. meetings.

Officers of Tau Gamma include Barbara Meade, A3 of Mason City, president; June Turner, J3 of New York City, vice-president; Betty Kinkead, A2 of Chariton, treasurer; Katherin Kruse, A3 of Lisbon, secretary; Rita Meade, C4 of Mason City, program chairman; Betty Kessler, A1 of Iowa City, membership chairman; Noreen Healy, A2 of Iowa City, publicity chairman; and Gail Mosley, A3 of Anamosa, social chairman.

Lorna J. McCleary, Claire Patterson Jr. Married March 3

Before a fireplace blanked with spring flowers and white candelabra, Lorna Jean McCleary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner McCleary of Adel, became the bride of Claire Cameron Patterson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Cameron Patterson of Des Moines, March 3 in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Arthur V. Long of the Methodist church performed the double ring ceremony.

Attending the couple were Patricia Patterson, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and Alvin Hollingshead of Iowa City as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an ivory satin gown with a tulle veil. Her bouquet was of sweetpeas and white roses.

The maid of honor wore a yellow tulle taffeta gown and carried a colonial bouquet.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Patterson were graduated from Grinnell college in 1943. The couple will reside in Iowa City, where Mrs. Patterson will resume her work in the pathology department of the University medical laboratory and Mr. Patterson will continue as assistant in the department of chemistry at the University of Iowa.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CHICAGO—Harry Grabiner, vice-president of the Chicago White Sox, said yesterday that catcher Mike Tresh, who only a week ago announced his intention of remaining on his Detroit war job, had secured his release from the job and planned to play ball until he entered military service.

Tresh and 29 team mates will leave tonight for French Lick Springs, Ind., for spring training. Grabiner said both pitcher Lee "Buck" Ross and infielder Tony Cuccinello have been classified 4-F.

CHICAGO—Manager Jimmy Wilson surveyed the Chicago Cubs' manpower situation yesterday and announced he was thoroughly satisfied with 1944 prospects.

"We need steady hitting and more even pitching this year," Wilson declared.

The Cubs head for French Lick Springs, Ind., on their second wartime spring training junket Sunday night.

PITTSBURGH—Stan Musial has been reclassified 1-A by his draft board, but he expects to play a few games for the Cardinals this spring before being inducted.

"I don't think I'll be in there for a couple of months," the 1943 National league batting champion, who was voted the league's most valuable player, said last night.

"I plan to leave Saturday for Cairo, Ill., for the opening of the Cards' spring training camp. I haven't received any orders to report for a physical examination, either," he said.

The husky outfielder is married and the father of a three-year-old son. He had been working in a Donora steel mill during the winter months.

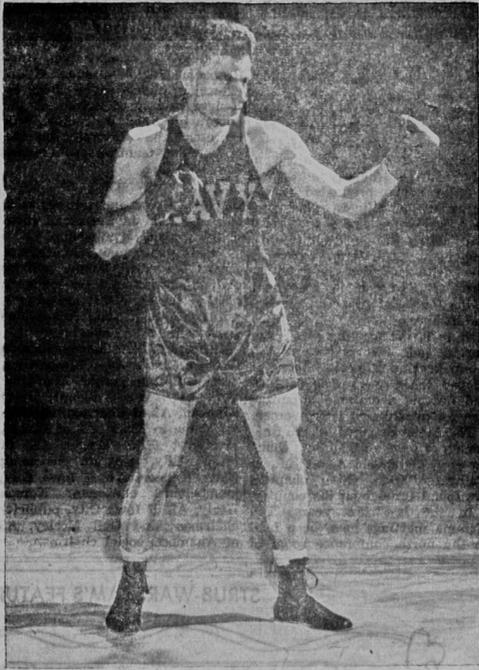

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—With the signing of Johnny Kerr and Napoleon Reyes, infielders, and Charley Mead, outfielder, late yesterday the Giants' holdouts have been reduced to ten, not counting pitcher Johnny Wittig whose status will remain uncertain until after he takes his pre-induction examination in Baltimore on March 28.

FREDERICK, Md.—Connie Mack heard the first good news of the Philadelphia Athletics' training season yesterday, when pitcher Russ Christopher indulged in some hard throwing and announced that he will stay on his farm in California, and Eugene (Homesick) Huck, recently obtained from the Pirates, has not signed.

PHILADELPHIA—The Philadelphia Blue Jays announced yesterday that they have signed 20 players in addition to manager Fred Fitzsimmons and coaches Merv Shea and Chuck Klein, and that 11 others are unsigned.

Notable among the unsigned are outfielder Ron Northey and first baseman Jimmy Wasdell, both of

Navy, Wisconsin Boxers Clash In Return Bout Here Saturday

The Seahawk varsity boxing team will be out for revenge plus glory Saturday night when it tackles the University of Wisconsin's national intercollegiate ring champions in the fieldhouse here.

The Badgers' record of 24 straight victories is the target of the Seahawk sluggers. The last dual match which the Wisconsin team lost was to Louisiana State university in mid-season, 1940.

The Pre-Flighters, coached by Lieut. Dominic Napolitano, former Notre Dame ring coach, won't need any pep talk before the battle. Every man is keyed to avenge the 4½-3½ defeat suffered at Madison last month.

Seahawk personnel is practically the same except in the heavier weights. It includes Augie Szokolics, South Bend, Ind., and John Geary, of Milwaukee who beat their Wisconsin opponents at 145 and 165 pounds, respectively.

Giuseppe Cignale of Patterson, whom are asking more money than their contracts call for.

Infielder Glen (Rip) Russell wrote that he will stay on his farm in California, and Eugene (Homesick) Huck, recently obtained from the Pirates, has not signed.

Gophers Start Spring Practice

Dave McMillan, Coach To Have Services Of Butz Lehman

MINNEAPOLIS—A familiar crack of bat meeting ball will resound throughout the University of Minnesota fieldhouse this week when Coach Dave MacMillan starts spring baseball practice in preparation for the coming season.

Coach MacMillan, starting his third year as head man of the varsity diamond forces, seems well pleased with the number and caliber of candidates who have signified their intentions of trying out for the team. The genial Scot has just completed a busy season as assistant to Dr. Nordly in basketball and does not hesitate to promise a representative Minnesota team this year in the great American game.

According to the head coach little is known about prospects of opposing schools this year. He is satisfied, however, that no one has any better material to work with than he will have for early season drills.

"I'm not predicting a conference title or even guessing the kind of season we'll have at this time," he said the other day, "but I will say that knowing some of the men from past experience and also from the spirit and determination several have shown in other fields of sport we'll be in there pitching all the way."

First call for candidates was answered by 23 men with several more informing the coach that they intended to report shortly after the start of the new quarter.

Leading the list of prospects for the Gopher nine are Gene Kelly and Arnold (Butz) Lehman. Both men have just completed a busy season as members of the basketball squad and are the only returning lettermen, around whom Coach MacMillan can build his starting nine.

Kelly was the first choice pitcher last spring and no doubt will assume the leading role again this season. Lehman, last year's first string shortstop, will be out to retain his position on the left side of the infield. Both men are good hitters, Kelly leading the team last year at the plate.

Other players who on preseason dope should be factors in the coming campaign are Bob Graiziger and Bob McCabe as catchers and Bob Carley at first base. All three were members of Larry Armstrong's hockey team. At second base, Wayne (Red) Williams of football fame, promises anyone a fight for the starting assignment.

Allan Rusterholz and Bob Bucholz are experienced men trying for outfield berths along with Tom Dolan, a highly rated American Legion player of the past few years. Howie Peterson, a V12 student from Willmar, will be out for third base position, a spot he has played for the past seven years as a member of Legion teams and for his home town nine. Bob Snyder and Bob Berglund will be out to assist Kelly with the pitching duties. The latter was a member of the squad a year ago.

A schedule of 14 games has definitely been arranged with eight of the contests against conference foes. A few nonconference games are pending. The present schedule:

April 18—St. Olaf here
April 21-22—Iowa here
April 28-29—Iowa State here
May 2—St. Olaf there
May 5-6—Wisconsin here
May 12-13—Illinois here
May 19-20—Chicago there
May 26-27—Iowa State here

Bob Feller Sees Action Aboard Carrier

ABOARD A UNITED STATES BATTLESHIP IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC (Delayed) (AP)—Bob Feller, the Van Meter, Iowa, farm boy who won fame as the Cleveland Indians' pitching ace, saw his first fighting action in the carrier task force strike on Saipan, but was deeply chagrined because he didn't get a chance personally to pitch some hard, fast ones at the Japanese.

Feller's battle station on this ship is at the director post for a 40-millimeter anti-aircraft mount.

During the 11-hour Jap aerial attack on our ships off Saipan, almost every gun crew on the ship got at least one chance to open fire on enemy planes. But none came in the line of fire of Feller's 40 millimeters.

"Our boys were pretty disappointed," said Feller.

Bob is a chief specialist. His primary assignment on the ship, of course, is a fighting one, manning his gun station. He stands a regular watch turn of four hours on and eight hours off—and more when Jap planes are around.

He works at his secondary assignment, as an athletic and physical conditioning director, whenever there's an opportunity.

"When we're at sea like this, we don't get much chance for more than a little muscle-jerking calisthenics once in a while," Bob said.

Bob is one of the most popular men aboard this battleship. The chiefs, many of them veterans of 15 and 20 years service, accept him as one of them, because Feller does his job willingly and effectively. Navy chiefs are pretty hard to please.

Bob's work as physical director actually is extra duty. He also puts in a great deal of time on workouts of his own, determined to keep in condition to resume his pitching career as soon as victory is won.

Bob is concerned by lack of opportunity to pitch and keep his arm in trim. He has pitched only a few times in more than two years now.

Marse Joe, Yankee, Ready for Tough Year

Champ's Manager Says He'll Stick to 25-Man Limit if He Can

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—No matter what happens this wartime season, Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees is ready for it.

Shying clear of all predictions about the future of baseball or the fate of the world champions in the American league, Marse Joe's general attitude can be summed up in "we'll do our best."

Asked how many players he would consider a minimum for big league clubs, McCarthy said, "we'll try to keep up the 25-man limit as long as possible. I hope that will be all season but if we have to cut down we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

McCarthy is letting the professional worriers keep track of the absentees and is going about his job of trying to make another pennant winner out of a mixture of 1943 holdovers and various ascertained talent from the farm system.

Atlantic City in March is not St. Petersburg and training headquarters on South Carolina avenue is more than a little bit north of South Carolina but McCarthy and the players are tickled pink to be here or anywhere playing baseball.

This year's combination around second base may be a brand new one. Joe Gordon is on the indefinite list and Frank Crosetti isn't signed. Oscar Grimes plays second and so does George Stinewiss who came up from Newark in that position before moving to short last spring.

Don Savage, who gets first call at third base, also can play all around the horn. Some fancy experimenting may be in order.

Hawkeye's 1944 Football Schedule Set

The eight games now scheduled may stand as the University of Iowa's complete 1944 football schedule, although Coach "Slip" Madigan has not yet decided whether to book a warm-up game to precede the Big Ten opener at Ohio State.

If another contest is arranged, it will be with a non-conference opponent at Iowa City Sept. 30. The card of eight major games opens Oct. 7 as Iowa plays Ohio State at Columbus in the first Hawkeye-Buckeye football game in ten seasons.

Half of the games are set for Iowa stadium. These are Purdue Oct. 21, Nebraska Nov. 4, Minnesota Nov. 18, and Iowa Seahawks Nov. 25. Homecoming will be either the Purdue or the Minnesota game.

Here is the schedule to date: Oct. 7—Ohio State at Columbus Oct. 14—Illinois at Champaign Oct. 21—Purdue at Iowa City Oct. 28—Indiana at Bloomington Nov. 4—Nebraska at Iowa City Nov. 11—Wisconsin at Madison Nov. 18—Minnesota at Iowa City Nov. 25—Iowa Seahawks at Iowa City

KIMBERLY, Idaho, (AP)—Jean Parsons, Idaho's only woman high school basketball coach this season, broke better than even in her first season. After her Kimberly boys lost eight of their first 11 games, they swept the last half dozen for a 9-8 record.

SHAPE OF SKI TRACKS FORETELLS DANGER
SALT LAKE CITY, (AP)—Supervisor F. C. Koziol of the Wasatch National forest explains how a skier can tell whether a certain slope is safe from slides.

"If your ski tracks retain their shapes, it's an indication of comparative safety," he says. "If the snow rolls in after you to partially obliterate the tracks, it's a sign of dangerous slide or avalanche conditions."

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—We never met Billy Southworth Jr., except in a proxy sort of way. That is, through his dad, as you couldn't be around the St. Louis Cardinal manager even a little without being aware of his tremendous pride in his handsome son and getting the feeling you actually knew him.

And you wondered a little how Billy Sr. could keep an even keel and skillfully pilot his team to a pennant last summer, as somehow the giving of a signal for a squeeze play or sending in a pinch hitter seems unimportant when you know your boy at that very moment might be piloting his Flying Fortress on one of those raids over Europe that so often brought the curt announcement that "four of our planes failed to return."

But he did, so there must be a lot of the kid in the old man, and vice-versa, and when Billy Sr. talked of his son at all it was to say how the boy was major league baseball material, or to tell how the kid's letters were all about that game, with little about the bigger game he was playing.

Billy Jr., a major, returned to this country not long ago after completing 25 missions. He's probably back over there or on his way back now. Anyway, he returned, a ribboned hero, and during his brief stay inadvertently got himself signed to a movie contract in a most unusual way.

He literally bowed and smiled his way into it.

Bob Hoey, sports editor of the Columbus, Ohio, State Journal and a close friend of the Southworths, tells how it happened. Billy Jr., he relates, visited his Columbus home during his leave of absence before reporting to the Santa Monica, Calif., redistribution station No. 3.

His friends were duly impressed by the lad, an in-flesh version of flicker heroes with his casual grace and handsome features. He should be in pictures, they insisted, and one of them gave Billy a letter of introduction to the chief publicist of a major movie company.

In due time young Billy reported to Santa Monica, and on his first leave from the station he headed for the Hollywood Legion stadium. He liked boxing matches, and besides he might see some movie stars there.

He was a little flabbergasted when he was recognized for the ring he was and called into the ring for an introduction. He took the punishment bravely, bowing and smiling graciously.

Seated nearby was Hunt Stromberg, a famed producer. He took one look at the stalwart flier, and that was enough. From that moment on Billy Jr. was in the movies, whether he knew it or not. Stromberg sought him out, and they talked contract. The length of the contract was easy. When it would start, not so easy.

"When you return," said Stromberg.

The eyes of the two men met. Each knew the other was thinking of one word—"if" which neither would pronounce. It's a tough war.

Lug Thy Neighbor Ride Sharing Stretches Precious Gasoline

"Lug thy neighbor!" can well be the motto of all drivers in these wartime share-the-ride days. Office of price administration announced that only car pools meeting definite standards of satisfactory loading will be allowed to recover mileage lost through cuts in the value of gasoline rations.

Although gasoline is still a critically short material, every possible measure to stretch the supply available to civilians must be applied with redoubled vigor in the coming months.

Because 80 percent of the nation's war workers drive to and from their war jobs by automobile, as well as a large percentage of businessmen and laborers in non-defense positions, effective car pools among these workers are one of the most important means of gasoline conservation that have been found.

A plant-wide car-sharing operation for which restoration of mileage is requested must show an average of three and one-half persons for each automobile going to and from the main shift.

In various cities plans have been put into operation whereby city employees ride to and from jobs in city automobiles allowed only certain mileage.

Although it may be somewhat difficult for Iowa citizens to get that definite number of three and one-half persons in to-and-from the job automobiles, it is easy to crowd five and six into "Lizzie". Pick up your next door neighbor tomorrow morning, or that man who waits for the bus every morning on your corner, and you'll be obeying the first commandment of wartime rules.

utilization will be eligible for positions as training officers, placement officers, occupational analysts and employee counselors, according to the civil service announcement.

Duty will be with various agencies in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and North or South Dakota. Salaries range from $2,433 to $7,128 a year, with two to eight years of responsible experience as a requisite.

Applications should be filed with the civil service director in the postoffice building.

Positions are now open for civilian war service in the fields of compliance and investigation as investigators, compliance examiners, rent inspectors, tire examiners and office of defense transportation examiner.

English Authoress Will Speak On 'United Women of Future'

Mrs. Rose Hildebrand To Talk This Week For Information First

The Information First speaker this week is Rose Hildebrand, English authoress who accompanied her young son to America to insure his safety from Nazi blitzes, and has since remained here as a familiar figure in American radio, doing her bit toward helping England in the war by facilitating better understanding among the people of the two allied nations.

Mrs. Hildebrand presents two programs over radio station WBBM each week, in which she gives word pictures of our fellow fighters.

One of her programs is based on letters she receives from her friends and relatives who still remain in England, describing the life they live under war conditions, and the mutual adaptations made between the British people and American soldiers.

Her husband works with food distribution in England, and other members of her family serve in the men's and women's branches of the British armed services.

Mrs. Hildebrand has traveled in Africa, Italy, Ireland, Turkey, Germany, Poland, in fact, all over several continents. Though she reports that she has not had the opportunity to see much of the United States as yet, she has delivered lectures in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and New York, and on several occasions has spoken to large gatherings as a representative of the women of England.

Her lecture at Information First will be on the topic "United Women Face the Future." Her observance of British and American allied womanhood has given her a background of understanding for the subject.

Mrs. Hildebrand has recently joined the staff of the executive office of the Blue Cross, a national hospitalization insurance plan which is in operation on the campus of the University of Iowa. This work is in addition to her regular radio broadcasts.

She has written three books, the fourth of which was never issued because of a German bomb which wrecked the publishing house where the proofs of her book were waiting to be read.

In her lecture, Mrs. Hildebrand will discuss the possibilities of close cooperation between the women of our two allied nations, both during and after the war.

She will be interviewed over radio station WSUI at 3:15 tomorrow afternoon, and will deliver her Information First lecture at 4 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

After her lecture, Mrs. Hildebrand will answer the questions of the audience on British-American war conditions and cooperation.

Volunteers Needed To Make Dressings To Meet New Quota

Volunteer workers are urgently needed in the Red Cross rooms on the second floor of City hall to make 60,000 surgical dressings, the new quota for Johnson county, according to Mrs. H. D. Price, surgical dressings chairman.

The rooms, which have been closed since Christmas, are now open from 9 a. m. until 12 M. and from 1 p. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

University women as well as town women are asked to volunteer their services. Instructors will teach beginners how to make the dressings. Workers are to wear long or short-sleeved washable cotton dresses and cotton kerchiefs large enough to cover their hair completely. They are not to wear fingernail polish.

Historical Booklet Sent to Members

A booklet edited by Ethyl Martin, superintendent of the Iowa State Historical society, has been published by the society to send to all members, all public and college libraries in the state, and approximately 60 out-of-state libraries.

The booklet is revised every two years and includes a list of 1,250 members of the society, its historical publications, the board of curators and the administrative staff.

In order to make state historical writings accessible to the general public, the society has designated Iowa libraries as official depositories. Institutions outside of the state serve as exchange depositories and a complete list of these depositories is printed in the 114 page booklet.

'BEWARE OF THE IDES OF MARCH'

LONG AFTER MIDNIGHT local citizens have been racking their brains over piles of paper, trying to figure just how much money they owe Uncle Sam. One such person, pictured above, is T. A. Tennyson, 115 S. Lucas street, who is shown trying to puzzle out just what to deduct and which items should be added to the difficult report. Until the small hours of the morning lights have been burning in the offices of Iowa City attorneys, figuring returns for tax payers long after the dawn town store lights have been out. Persons who still need help figuring their federal income tax returns may go to the internal revenue offices on the second floor of the postoffice between 9 o'clock this morning and midnight.

RED CROSS At the close of the last fiscal year the American Red Cross motor corps numbered 26,604 members, all trained in standard and advanced first-aid and in motor mechanics. Their duty is to drive ambulances and other mobile equipment, to cooperate with the armed forces and in an emergency with civilian defense authorities.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

To remove grease, oil spots and stains from fabrics which cannot be washed, apply a dry-cleaning solvent as soon as possible. Place the material wrong side up on an absorbent pad and sponge with a soft, lintless cloth dipped in the solvent. Oil and grease present in other stains will likewise yield to this treatment.

Immediate attention will solve many removal problems. A fresh stain may often be washed out with cold to lukewarm water but stains that have been allowed to stand may require a remover so strong that it will injure the fabric.

Home Cleaning Dangerous Home dry-cleaning can be extremely dangerous. Just rubbing a garment which is soaked with inflammable cleaner may cause it to burst into flames. Fumes from other solvents may cause nausea, faintness or headache. If you dry-clean at home, do the work outdoors and use only a non-inflammable fluid. To do a good job, use plenty of cleaner—approximately as much solvent as you would use water if the article were washable.

Sopstuds or the heat of an iron may set a stain permanently. Give your dry-cleaner or your home stain-removal technique a chance at the stain before washing or pressing the garment.

The way in which a stain remover is applied is important in the final results. If the stain is to be sponged with the remover, use light brushing strokes. Do not rub the remover into the fabric; rubbing may cause a light or worn-looking spot. Work from the outside of the stain to the center. Rinse with water, if this is necessary with the remover you are using, in the same way. "Feather out" the moisture into the fabric around the stained portion so there will be no definite edge when the material dries. Blow lightly on the spot to dry it quickly, and then pat with a dry cloth.

Ammonia for Iodine Use a diluted solution of ammonia on iodine stains. Ammonia

Bohumil Meka Ordered To Vacate Riggs Farm

Bohumil Meka was ordered to move from the R. N. Riggs property yesterday after it was decided in district court that he had been staying on the rented land after refusing to pay rent to Riggs and not moving off by March 1, as stated in the lease.

Riggs filed a complaint earlier in the year against Meka for not paying his rent, but when Meka refused to move March 1, court action was taken.

The Dutcher, Ries and Dutcher law firm represented Riggs.

and iodine unite to form a colorless compound which will rise from the fabric. Acids, with the exception of nitric acid, do not produce real stains on fabrics; they change or destroy the color. If the color is merely changed, it may be restored by treating with a mild alkali. Rinse first in cold water several times, then apply the reagent. Holding the dampened stain over an open bottle of strong ammonia water or putting a few drops of dilute ammonia water on the stain may do the trick.

Better test the color first, as ammonia changes some colors—and you don't want a cure that is worse than the disease. Baking-soda sprinkled on both sides of the stain and moistened with water may help. With either treatment rinse the material well with cool water.

Use Cold Water Cold water is the first resort in stain removal if the stained fabric does not water spot—(test an inconspicuous place to find out)—and if the stain does not contain oil or grease. Place a clean pad under the stain, with the stain face down. Sponge with a damp cloth using light brushing strokes, working from the outside of the stain to the center.

To avoid a water ring spread the moisture into the cloth around the stain. If the garment or furnishing is washable and due for a trip to the wash tub, dunk all of it in the cold water and rub the stained spot. Successful stain removal requires study, but it is not difficult to learn.

The C.P.A.

Every farm, city and town business should keep books. Swift & Company would have to whether it wanted to or not. It must make accurate reports to its 60,000 shareholders, must know whether it is making or losing money. And then, at the end of the year the company must make accurate statements of the year's results to the United States Government for income tax returns as well as for other purposes.

Persons not connected with the management of Swift & Company go over its books and check the accuracy of the figures from which Swift & Company's financial reports and income tax returns are prepared. These outside persons are Certified Public Accountants. They are licensed by the state, which certifies them as accounting and auditing experts.

It is in this way that the accuracy of figures published by Swift & Company is verified to all those interested in knowing the facts about the meat packing business as conducted by this company.
