Allies Near Monastery Hill Top in Cassino

Germans Have Rocky Base of Hill To Back Them Up

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY AT CASSINO (AP)—Allied troops clawed their way up Monastery hill yesterday and late yesterday were less than 100 yards from the top, while at the base of the hill Cassino's southwest corner, still German-held, smoked and shuddered from the assaults of New Zealanders.

Allied tanks moved again into Cassino railroad station, south and east of the town. The station has changed hands many times in the course of the bloody two-months battle, but yesterday the fury of the attack and the methodical way it was moving forward seemed to indicate that the next trains to run into the station will be on allied schedule, not Hitler's.

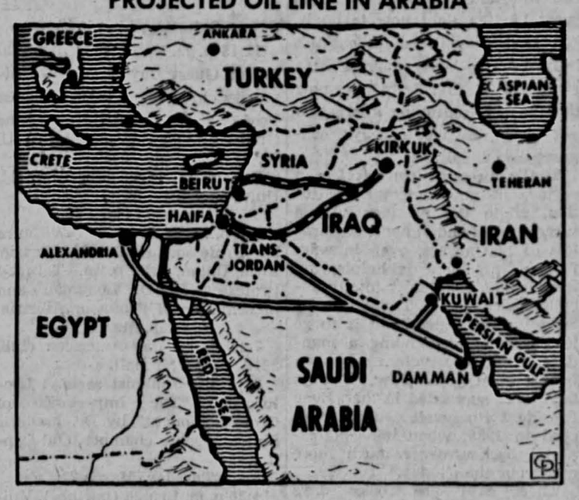
By evening, however, neither heat nor violent convulsions had shaken the Germans loose from their hold on the southwest corner of Cassino. There the Germans have the rocky base of Monastery hill to back them up, with its caves, tunnels and dugouts. There, too, long-prepared machine-gun nests cover highway 6 (the main road to Rome) and all its important intersections where it swings through the town.

There was a discernible feeling at allied headquarters in Naples that the Germans might not be routed soon from their toehold on the southwestern outskirts of Cassino, Associated Press Correspondent Joseph Morton reported. He said it had become increasingly evident that time now is working to the advantage of the enemy and that a complete conquest of the demolished town will come only after drawn-out house-to-house fighting.)

A small number of New Zealand tanks moved up the road to the town yesterday afternoon and bursts of their fire could be seen for a while. Then smoke drifted over them as the Germans opened up their self-propelled artillery and one tank received four direct hits.

Engineers have constructed a bridge across the Rapido on highway 6 about half a mile before it enters the town and have kept it intact for two days now despite the fact it is under direct observation of the enemy. Tanks moved over the bridge yesterday afternoon under the protection of smoke.

PROJECTED OIL LINE IN ARABIA



PROJECTED U. S. government 1,500 pipe line from Saudi Arabia to an undetermined Mediterranean port, under investigation by the senate, is shown on this map. It has been proposed to run lines either from Alexandria or Haifa across Saudi Arabia to the Persian gulf. Some have declared the $100,000,000 plan of great future importance to the naval oil reserves while others have opposed it. It has been pointed out by one observer that after spending millions to lay a line through the worst sort of desert, it still would be necessary to use tankers from Mediterranean ports. Considerable shipping time would be saved, however, it is believed.

America Will Not Recognize Badoglio

Hull Claims Russians Played Lone Hand In Accepting Regime

WASHINGTON, (AP)— The Soviet government played a lone hand in giving diplomatic recognition to Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Italian regime and the United States is not even considering similar action.

These points were made clear by Secretary of State Hull at a press conference yesterday at which he said:

1. The United States was not consulted by the Soviet government although about the time the Italian announcement was made last week this country did have some information as to what was going on.

2. The state department is now assembling all the facts and circumstances involved.

3. The allied advisory council on Italy (U. S. - Britain - Russia) normally would give attention to suchmatters as diplomatic recognition of the Badoglio government in the first instance. Here the secretary implied an opinion that Russia should have worked through the council although he did not specifically say so.

4. The question whether the United States should follow Russia's lead in recognizing the Badoglio regime is not arising.

The American policy is known to be based on commitments to give the Italian people full opportunity to choose their government as soon as the military situation will permit.

Finns Anxious About Effect Of F. R. Plea

HELSINKI (AP) — President Roosevelt's plea to Finland to quit the war made a deep impression in this country but the fact that the president issued his statement so late in the peace crisis caused nervousness among persons looking toward the future consequences of Finland's action.

(The Finnish reply to Russian armistice terms was delivered to the Russian legation in Stockholm yesterday and one diplomat described it as a "polite no." A Finnish legation official said he held little hope of peace.)

The most frequent question asked Americans here was, "Will the United States break with us?"

(In Washington Secretary of State Hull told reporters that any question of an American break wtih Finland was a question of the future. Future action will depend upon what Finland does to get out of what President Roosevelt called her "hateful partnership" with Germany.)

Foreign office spokesmen said the government naturally would have to give serious consideration to President Roosevelt's message but politically informed persons felt it was too late to have any effect.

Dies Committee Orders Investigation Of Winchell Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A feud between Walter Winchell, radio commentator and newspaper columnist, and members of congress who claim he is attempting to "smear" them, boiled to a climax yesterday as the Dies committee ordered an investigation of Winchell's broadcasts for the last two years.

Chairman Dies (D., Tex.) who has excoriated the commentator in several recent house speeches, announced that the committee on un-American activities has issued a subpoena for scripts and recordings of Winchell's programs for the last two years.

He added that a thorough investigation of Winchell's programs probably would require the appearance of about thirty witnesses, including officials of the Jergens company, Winchell's sponsor, and the Blue network, which carries his programs.

Whether Winchell himself will be subpoenaed, the Texan said, has not been decided.

At Miami beach, Winchell demanded "Why don't they subpoena Winchell?" when he was informed of the committee's action.

"I have repeatedly asked to be called before the committee, or any congressional group, to tell them things I am not permitted to say on the radio or in the newspapers."

President Catches Spirit of St. Pat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt was togged out yesterday in a green tweed suit, with a green carnation in the lapel.

He was wearing a green and white striped tie, too, in the spirit of St. Patrick's day and on his desk were numerous reminders of the occasion, including a flower bowl of shamrocks.

"In view of the color scheme today," a reporter inquired, "is there anything you can say about the Irish question?"

"Well," the chief executive responded, "sometimes when people talk about the Irish question, they think in terms of controversy. But the Irish in this country are not controversial at all."

David Filgas Set Free Of Murder Charge

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Handsome, curly-haired young David Filgas was set free of a murder charge in his girl friend's petting party death yesterday in a sensational court room scene.

To screams of women spectators and whistles and cries from boys and girls in the corridors, a jury of nine men and three women in Kent county circuit court returned a verdict of acquittal for the 16-year-old defendant.

Filgas, a Greenville high school student, was accused of killing pretty, 17-year-old Patricia Winters the night of last Dec. 10. The girl's body was found in a fire-swept automobile but the cause of death was never established.

Senate Finance Committee Approves 'G. I. Bill-of-Rights' by Unanimous Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wrapping up in its 46 pages every suggested benefit for veterans of the present war except a bonus, the $3,500,000,000 "G. I. bill-of-rights" measure was sped on its way yesterday toward overwhelming senate passage by a unanimous vote of its finance committee.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), one of the sponsors of a pending $30,000,000,000 adjusted compensation or bonus bill, told reporters he would seek finance committee hearings on that proposal after the omnibus measure had cleared congress.

Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga) estimated maximum benefits under the "G. I." bill at $3,000,000,000, exclusive of a $500,000,000 authorization for construction of additional hospital facilities to care for the wounded and disabled.

He estimated the cost of government-financed education at $1,000,000,000, based on a belief that from 7 to 10 percent of the men and women of the armed services will avail themselves of its benefits.

Principal benefits provided in the "G. I." bill, sponsored by the American Legion, are:

1. A year's educational or vocational training for any man or woman of the armed forces with six months service at a cost to the government up to $500 a year tuition, $50 a month subsistence and $25 a month for maintenance of a veteran's wife.

2. Unemployment compensation of $15 a week for a maximum of 52 weeks for a two-year period.

3. $500,000,000 for construction of additional hospital facilities.

4. Loans up to $1,000 for the purchase of homes, farms or small businesses, interest free for the first year, and carrying 3 percent annual interest thereafter.

Iowa-Born Internee Tells Nazi Horror Tale

Germans Rode Through Streets Shooting Pedestrians

JERSEY CITY, N. J., (AP)—Stories of a German horror that was visited upon occupied countries were related yesterday as the last of the 669 repatriates left the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm.

Blonde, 20-year-old, Iowa-born Alberta Erdtsieck told of Nazi gunners and riflemen racing through Dutch streets shooting people indiscriminately, and 25-year-old Harry Kirkpatrick of Pomona, Calif., told of the wholesale slaughter of Czechs and Jews after the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, Hitler's hangman in that country.

Miss Erdtsieck left the United States when she was four years old to live in Holland with her family. She said that in 1941, when the Dutch in Amsterdam staged a brief revolt against anti-Semitic Nazi rules, the Germans rode through the streets shooting pedestrians and hurling grenades. Back home, she wants to join the Women's Army Corps.

Kirkpatrick was a tutor in Prague, often teaching English to Jewish students. After the German occupation, some of his students would disappear overnight, he said, never to be heard from again. He said the Czechs told stories of Jews being massacred cruelly—by live steam baths, or by being used as guinea pigs in the testing of poison gas at the Skoda works in Pilsen.

When Heydrich was shot on May 27, 1942, the Germans killed 170 Czechs the first night, Kirkpatrick said. Then night after night, he said, the slaughter continued, until the casualties were in the thousands.

Several repatriated persons were bitter at having been sent back without their families.

Physically Fit Men Under 26 Must Be Drafted—F. D. R.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt, saying there are few men under 26 really indispensable to industry, indicated yesterday he is leaning toward the armed services' view that virtually all physically fit men under that age must be drafted.

He told his press-radio conference, however, that he still has the manpower question under study, expects to work on it all weekend and probably will have a statement on it early next week.

For the past 10 days there has been an intense behind-the-scenes tug-of-war between the armed services and production officials over the approximately 250,000 men under 26 who have occupational deferments.

Production officials have hoped to keep deferred some 40,000 to 50,000 who they contend are key men in industry and vitally needed to maintain production.

10 Filling Stations Accused of Black Marketing Gasoline

DES MOINES (AP)—Donald D. Holdoegel, enforcement attorney for the Des Moines office of price administration district, yesterday accused a Des Moines gasoline distributor and 10 operators or employes of as many filling stations of participating in "extensive gasoline black market operations."

Holdoegel said he had filed a 48-count OPA application for an order suspending the rights of the 11 persons to deal in rationed articles or commodities.

The order was filed with the chief hearing commissioner of the OPA regional office in Chicago.

Yanks Score Twin Triumph

Japs Turned Back From Islands; Hundreds Dead

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday (AP)—Capture of Lorengau airdrome on Manus island in the Admiralties and complete breakdown of the enemy's counteroffensive at Empress Augusta bay on Bougainville island in the Solomons were twin triumphs over the Japanese announced in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today .

Lorengau airstrip fell Thursday under a two-pronged attack from the north and west by dismounted troopers of the First cavalry division. American destroyers contributed their broadsides to the job of taking the field.

The Americans then pressed southward toward the town of Lorengau, eliminating strong enemy pillbox defenses with mortar and tank fire to reach a point only 600 yards from their objective.

Troops fighting here are contingents of the conquerors of Los Negros island to the east. They landed on Los Negros Feb. 29, captured Momote airdrome and subsequently won control of the island. Subjugation of Manus island will give the Americans virtual control of the whole Admiralty group, at the northern approach to the Bismarck sea.

The final rout of the Japanese on Bougainville was achieved through Tuesday night, when the enemy made a last desperate bid for victory which would have given him possession of Cannon ridge and allowed the Japanese artillery to dominate the beachhead and airfields on Empress Augusta bay.

The Japanese were turned back with tremendous losses after the all-night battle.

American losses in the fighting which started with Japanese artillery attacks and "feeler" assaults March 8, were light, the communique said.

Irvin S. Cobb Estate 'More Than $10,000'

NEW YORK (AP)—Irvin S. Cobb left an estate valued formally at "more than $10,000," according to his will filed yesterday in surrogate's court.

The Kentucky author, who died here last Friday, named his widow as chief beneficiary.

The will reiterated Cobb's request for a simple burial and omission of mourning by members of his family. It directed that a trust fund be set up for his sister, Mrs. Manie Cobb Howland of New York, who is to receive $1,200 a year during her lifetime.

Cobb's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Cobb Rogers of New York, is to receive $25,000 at the death of her mother and the balance of the income from a trust fund set up for Mrs. Cobb.

Devil Slaying Described by Spinster To Police

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—"I saw the devil in her eyes, and the Lord told me to fight it."

Police Capt. Leroy Sanderson thus quoted today a 64-year-old spinster's explanation of the death of her invalid mother, Mrs. Lucy Fairchild, 87, found beaten and garroted in her Huntington Park home.

"I first noticed the devil twinkling in her eyes about five days ago. My mother suffered a stroke which I thought was caused by the evil spirit entering her body.

"By repeating in a loud voice, 'you get out of here!' over and over again, I was able to chase the first spirit away. But two days ago she got a hard, shining light in her eye that seemed to mock me. I knew the devil had returned.

"A voice told me to beat it out of her, but that didn't work. I hit her with my shoe and tried to shake it out of her. Mother fell to the floor, and I put a string around her neck. I pulled and I pulled to get the devil. Then I saw mother was dead.

"I never thought that would kill her."

Five Correspondents Injured in Explosion

German Plane Blows Up Few Feet From Press Station

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, (AP)— Two 500-pound bombs from a raiding German plane exploded a few feet from press headquarters on the Anzio beachhead Friday, slightly injuring five correspondents.

They were Wick Fowler of the Dallas News, injured slightly on the neck and shoulders, William Strand of the Chicago Tribune, cuts and bruises left arm from falling plaster, Sgt. George "Slim" Aarons, of Nashua, N. H., Yank photographer whose hand and face were slightly lacerated, and George Tucker of the Associated Press who suffered an ankle injury and cuts and bruises. All were awarded the purple heart.

Ernie Pyle, United Features syndicate columnist, escaped with a cut on the right cheek.

Ceilings came down and partitions inside the "Villa Virtue," Fifth army public relations headquarters, were ripped out by the blast.

"I told you this place wasn't safe," they roared at each other as they picked themselves up out of the rubble.

Doctors who treated the correspondents in the field hospital said none was seriously injured.

According to Corp. Wade Jones, correspondent for "Stars and Stripes," who was in the house at the time, the building also was hit by machinegun bullets and cannon shells from the raiders.

Pyle had just got out of bed to look out of a window when the ceiling came down and his steel bed was crushed under hundreds of pounds of bricks and heavy stones. Like the others, he was badly shaken, but only a little debris fell on him.

U. S. Planes Fly Over Alps, Bomb Vienna

LONDON (AP)—Italian-based U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators roared over the Alps yesterday to bomb military targets in Vienna as allied planes from Britain in continuous assaults blasted Nazi communications points in France and Holland.

Last night the Frankfurt radio station signed off suddenly in the middle of a program, usually an indication that RAF night bombers are over the continent.

In addition to the attack on Viennese targets medium bombers from allied fields in southern Italy bombed Cacena, a vital railroad junction in northern end of the peninsula.

The specific objectives chosen by the 15th airforce for its first blow directly at the ancient Hapsburg capital were not announced immediately by allied headquarters Naples, but were believed to have included railway facilities and port installations on the Danube.

The strong force of American big bombers up from the south, escorted by Thunderbolts and Lightnings, found the Austrian capital blanketed by an overcast through which a heavy anti-aircraft fire was poured. There was no German fighter opposition, however.

The Mediterranean air force also struck northward into Europe by night, hitting rail communications at Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, for the second night in a row, employing big RAF Halifax bombers for the first time from this theater.

Ways, Means Committee— Simplify Tax Statutes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Responding to a national outcry against the recent siege of decimal jitters, the house ways and means committee approved yesterday a far-reaching plan to simplify the tax statutes, relieving some 30,000,000 of the 50,000,000 taxpayers of the necessity of ever computing another income tax return.

Beginning next Jan. 1, if the bill is enacted, the present withholding system against wages and salaries will be revised to deduct the full tax liability for persons earning up to $5,000.

There will be no change in amounts held out of pay envelopes and salary checks this year, but the government itself will compute the taxes on 1944 income for those with wages and salaries under $5,000.

The victory tax is abolished, under the committee proposal, and broad changes are made in the normal rate to begin at 3 percent for single persons making over $500 and married persons earning over $1,000. Some 150,000 new taxpayers will be added.

However, Ways and Means Chairman Doughton said there would be no substantial change in the burden on any taxpayer, declaring "nobody will be hurt much or helped much" as to the actual amount of their taxes.

Some 9,000,000 now paying victory taxes but with earnings not sufficiently large to come under the present income levies will become regular income taxpayers, paying rates about equivalent to their present victory tax burdens, Doughton said.

Irish Parade

NEW YORK (AP)—Led by a chaplain wounded in the Makin island invasion, sons and daughters of Erin marched through the rain yesterday in the 116th annual parade in honor of St. Patrick.

Police estimated that there were 48,000 persons in the parade and that 200,000 spectators lined Fifth avenue to watch the three hour and 15-minute procession.

Russians Take Nazis' Dubno

Also Capture Village on Outskirts Of Zhmerinka

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—The Red army in southern Russia leaped forward from positions in old Poland yesterday to capture the German strongpoint of Dubno and a town 18 miles beyond while farther south it won towns only 11 miles from the pre-war Rumanian border and drew tighter its semi-circle around the Black sea port of Nikolaev, Moscow announced today.

The Russians also captured a village on the outskirts of the important rail junction of Zhmerinka, south of Vinnitsa, said the midnight Moscow communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhurkov's troops, long installed inside old Poland, brought the front still closer to Lwow, historic and strategic Polish rail city, now only 70 miles west of the Russian spearheads.

The new thrust, which won Dubno by crossing the Iva river and outflanking the town, also won Demidovka, 18 miles beyond. Demidovka is 70 miles from Lwow and 42 miles inside the old Polish frontier.

(The Germans were reported to have closed all factories in Lwow and to be evacuating the equipment to Cracow, said Stockholm dispatches quoted by Tass news agency. The Moscow broadcast was recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.)

Southeast of this fighting area Russian troops captured Klembovka, 11 miles north of the Dniester river, frontier of Rumania, and 12 miles from the former border town of Yampol, the communique said, and also Olshanka, an equal distance from the winding river.

Ankara dispatches said Rumanian civilians were fleeing the area, leaving only the military in possession. The Rumanians were said to have five divisions on the front.

In one area a retreating German infantry regiment was ambushed and over 800 killed before the survivors fled "in panic," the late Moscow bulletin said.

Hickenlooper Appears Sure of Uncontested GOP Nomination

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper appeared assured of an uncontested Republican nomination for United States senator last night, as only a short time remained until midnight deadline for the June 5 primary elections.

Rex J. Nelson, Council Bluffs barbecue stand operator, who had announced he would be a candidate against the governor, had not filed at a late hour.

At 8 p. m., 292 candidates had filed, 73 less than the 365 at closing time two years ago.

There was only one change in the congressional picture. A late filing by Harry B. Thompson of Muscatine, as a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination against Representative Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, gave four sitting Republican congressmen primary opposition. The other three congressmen against whom primary candidates previously filed are Representatives Henry O. Talle of Decorah, in the second district; Karl M. Le Compte of Corydon, in the fourth; and Fred C. Gilchrist of Laurens, in the sixth.

Loses Custody of Child

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joan Manners, former Hollywood actress, lost yesterday to John Langan a federal court suit for custody of her 11-year-old daughter Joan Langan.

Federal District Court Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, in concluding the latest round in a six-year legal battle over the child, commented that "the court cannot take responsibility of turning custody over to one whose mental operations appear so insecure."

UNWILLING SAINT PATRICK

Invasion Will Bring—

Flood of German Lies

When the allies invade western Europe an unprecedented campaign of lies, rumors, half-truths and intrigue already prepared, will be launched by expert German propagandists who will strive chiefly to undermine confidence and create disunity among the united nations and "set them at one another's throats," Sigrid Schultz, veteran foreign correspondent, warns.

"If the initial campaign fails to create disunity, or to produce feelers for a compromise peace . . . we may expect Hitler to make a thundering, spectacular speech, broadcast to the world . . . 'a last peace offer,'" writes Miss Schultz, authoress and newspaper woman who from 1925 until near the outbreak of war cautioned Americans in dispatches from Berlin of the dangers of Hitlerism.

Such traitorous Americans as William Joyce (Lord Haw-Haw), Colin Ross, Robert Best, Constance Drexel, and Jane Anderson will, when the invasion starts, play major roles in dissemination of the political and economic trickery expert Nazi propagandists have been preparing since 1940, says Miss Schultz, giving this outline of what to expect.

1—A deluge of stories about the horrors of the death ray and other secret weapons the Germans reportedly possess.

2—German claims that all invading forces were either repulsed by defense troops or wiped out when artificial beaches, heavily mined with a new type of explosive, were blown up.

3—Various attempts, once the Nazis are forced to concede success of initial landings, to make Americans believe that the British are holding back in the fighting, and to convince the English that U. S. forces are lagging. Also continued efforts to make Americans and British jittery and suspicious of Russia.

4—Preposterous claims of the wholesale crushing of allied troops by tons of earth and rocks released by the explosion of a new type of plastic mine which cannot be detected.

5—A flood of falsehoods, broadcast by renegade Americans and Englishmen, that allied air raids are destroying churches, hospitals, and slaughtering millions of civilians.

6—An appeal by neutral businessmen and industrialists to British and American colleagues to halt what will be termed the ruination of the world economic situation by aerial bombings.

7—And finally, as the situation grows progressively worse for the Nazis, a switch by Hitler and Goebbels to the internal dissention line with neutral countries being flooded with rumors about an imminent revolution in Germany.

Recipe for Friendship

Someone has said that the dog is the only creature maintained by man in return for nothing but love. The statement interests me because of its bearing on human relations.

Which is the dog we like best and most quickly? Why, of course, the one that runs up to us wagging its tail and asking for friendship. He has only to be good-humored and full of confidence and affection to make us prefer him to any whining or surly prize-winner of a dozen shows. A mongrel he may be, his coat shabby and his ears flapping in the breeze, but his heart has gone out to us, and, immediately, ours goes out to him.

I suspect that the art of making and keeping friends is almost as simple as that.—Channing Pollock.

News Behind the News

U. S. Will Remain Calm Over Irish Question, Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—Every time the Irish question gets hot, brickbats and shillalehs generally start to fly, but not this time—at least not as far as the United States is concerned.

This government belatedly made public a note it had delivered to Eire three weeks ago, apparently only to lend approving public pressure to the British position. Its actions were mild and from the first, State Secretary Hull hastened to make public assurances against invasion.

No deviation from these assurances seems possible in view of the position the United Nations have justly taken against Hitler for his invasions of neutral nations.

If there is any deeper motive (say a political one) than the public claim of General Eisenhower that the British closure of the Irish border is essential for military operations, all authorities here declaim it.

A common suspicion has been that London and Washington were attempting to crowd Eire into the war. That has been attempted on and off for two years without much success. There is no reason to extend greater success now.

The Irish are living with lights on at night, with plenty to eat and plenty of money derived from the war. Two-thirds of the food production of that almost wholly agricultural nation is being sold to Britain.

The ban on travel will eliminate their lucrative tourist business, but the ban significantly did not include commerce, and will not as long as the British need food.

At any rate these factors are enough to make Devalera's stand against involvement, very popular among his people, even if there were no other considerations.

Two years ago when an attempt was made to bring the Irish into full fight, Devalera made a rather convincing argument (at least it succeeded) that involvement would cause his cities to be bombed, his transportation facilities to be disrupted, his food storehouses destroyed. He convinced everyone then, he could better serve the allied cause out of the war.

His bases are not essential and perhaps not even important to the coming Eisenhower invasion of Europe. The map will show you Eire is farther from the French coast than your recollection of geography may have caused you to believe. Its southern shores have no good ports. (Ordinary trans-Atlantic ships never were able to get into them but landings had to be made from lighters.)

For these reasons this government has not had much real hope or expectation that pressure could draw Eire into the conflict, or that it was essential.

This latest move does, however, serve the purpose of making Devalera tighten up his restrictions on the Nazis in his midst. Mr. Hull has implied not much German spy activity has been noticeable in the past.

The Nazis could land parachutists who might get into England and take them off in small boats at night, but all official evidence here indicates Devalera has cooperated fully in restraining this Nazi activity.

The British must have an excellent counter espionage active there. Indeed, Hull said the pressure was being applied not so much for what spying has been allowed in the past as for the future.

Plain implication of all evidence, therefore, is that the misnamed second front invasion of Europe is nigh and Eisenhower is tightening up all the avenues and alleyways. Naturally the signs of when it will come are conflicting and must be kept that way.

Spring is the best time; March probably the best month, although the ground on Europe's shores will not be dry yet. Our preparations could have been completed by now in view of the time elapsing since Eisenhower started to work. Yet there are many authorities who confidently believe he is far from ready, because of the tremendous assault task presented by the Nazi defenses, and may never get sufficiently ready. Others still believe Germany cannot survive even without a second front and think it good military tactics for us to avoid that loss of life.

News on that subject, therefore, will be maintained in this confusing condition.

On and Off Campus

QUESTION: DO YOU THINK ARMY AND NAVY MEDICAL AND DENTAL STUDENTS SHOULD BE MOVED INTO BARRACKS?

Waunita Brennan, A2 of Des Moines: "No, there is too much equipment in use in the dormitories which would go to waste if the army and navy medical and dental students moved out."

Pfc. Edward Ahmann, M3 of Sioux City: "No, definitey not. It would interfere materially with studying conditions, as has been shown at other universities."

Sergt. Tom McGurn, meteorologist: "No, I don't think they should. In the first place, their hours are very irregular compared to other military students, and in the second place, the time spent in the hospital and dental laboratories necessitates irregular meal and study time."

Mary Ann Howell, A3 of Grinnell: "No, so much of their time is already regimented that it seems to me what little free time they have could be used to better advantage if they were not in barracks."

I. A. Van Dyke, director of University high school: "I think they should. I believe one of the chief reasons is that it would be much more economical. Also, they're in the army the same as other boys, and I see no reason why they should not live under similar circumstances to prepare them for military duty."

Sergt. Olaf Bolm, stationed in the army specialized training program: "Frankly, I don't think they should move into barracks. So far they have managed to work toward their goal without interferences caused by restrictions and regulations. I believe they could do better work keeping their own hours and living in the way to which they are accustomed."

Doris Stuck, secretary: "I don't see why they shouldn't. Living in barracks would make their life more military. It would be an ideal setup since they are in the armed services."

Pvt. Warren Holmgren, stationed in the army specialized training program: "No, I think it's entirely unnecessary. Moving would break up their routine, and they are doing all right at present."

Breach Between President, Congress Seems Near Closure

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It's too early to say with certainty, but it appears the breach between the president and congress is being closed.

The conciliatory way in which the president met the senate investigating committee's threat to cite his administrative assistant, Jonathan Daniels, for contempt for refusal to testify in the rural electrification administration investigation, is a most important straw in the wind.

If the dramatic split between Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley and the president and the positive way congress backed him up by over-riding the president's veto of the tax bill has cleared the air, it may be one of the most important things that has happened recently to our home front war effort.

Students of government here tell me the congressmen were as wrong in the Daniels case as they charged the president with being wrong in vetoing the tax bill. In one instance, it was claimed, the president was trying to dictate tax legislation, a constitutional prerogative of congress. In the second, congress was questioning the right of the president to remove an administrative appointee.

What is important isn't the charge involved in the REA case but that the president chose to ignore the implications behind the attitude of the senators. He told Daniels not only to go ahead and answer any questions asked him, but himself offered to discuss fully with the committee the allegation that Daniels, in conference with Harry Slattery, REA administrator, had requested the latter's resignation for purely political reasons.

If it is true, as some authorities on government say, that it's none of congresss' business if Daniels did, as long as he was acting on instructions from his chief, then the president was carrying mollification farther than he ever has before.

Why? Many reasons are given but most logical seems to be (1) that the president considers mollification of congress vital to the public interest in prosecution of the war and is willing to go to great lengths right now to do it; (2) That for political reasons this is no time to have congress on a rampage; (3) that he realizes now that in any continuing altercation with congress, it's always congress that wins.

That's because congress is a permanent governmental institution, while the presidency is a succession of individuals. Regardless of his powers, even in wartime, a president is helpless in the face of an almost totally rebellious congress. The only alternative for a president is to go to the polls, demanding a mandate from the voters to keep congress in line. Few, if any, have ever succeeded in that. Even President Roosevelt couldn't succeed in 1938, when his congressional backers were much more numerous than today.

There still are rocky days ahead in the differences between congress and the president, but if the handling of the Daniels case is really an indication, the breach is narrowing.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The song you'll hear most in "Greenwich Villiage" is "Whispering." Vivian Blaine will sing it, it will be played several times, given symphonic elaborations, and a three-piano performance by as many pianists.

Ordinarily, a movie revival of an old tune gives it a new life with the humming, whistling, bathtub-singing fans. This time no such result is anticipated, for 24 years after publication "Whispering" has not yet faded from the list of popular perennials.

In digging up the song rights, the studio also dug up the composer, 51-year-old Johnny Schonberger, and the history of "Whispering," or "Johnny's Melody," which was the only name it had at first. Schonberger was a violinist when he wrote his melody; and in the ensuing years he regarded the fiddle as his bread-winner, but since the war he has virtually given it up—he's an expediter at Lookheed aircraft's plant, and makes music and composing his sidelines.

Johnny carried the tune around in his head for so many years he can't remember now, he says, just when he started humming it. But he took up the violin and began making money in and about Los Angeles playing with bands and one day fellow bandsmen heard him fiddling the tune he'd been humming all those years. They began improvising around it, and the customers liked it, demanded encores.

This was in 1919, when at Al Levy's cafe in Los Angeles he was billed as "Johnny Schonberger and his Big Six Orchestra." Johnny was followed there by Paul Whiteman, who picked up "Johnny's Melody" by popular request.

Vincent Rose ("Alvon" and other hits) heard Johnny playing it, suggested and helped with publication,—also, according to Johnny, suggested changes and brought in Dick Coburn, then Rose's vocalist, as collaborator.

So "Whispering" was born, to become one of the all-time wonders of the music business. It has sold more than 3,500,000 copies, and been a favorite with top bands through the years. Paul Whiteman, for one, has recorded at least four different versions of the song, and it still hits the air lanes with regularity.

Schonberger says he has made "plenty of money" from its lasting popularity, and its immediate commercial success enabled him to marry his girl, a singer named Marion Gilbert, install her at once in a mortgageless home of their own, buy her a car, and get a home for his mother besides.

Annual Short Course To Stress Instruction Of New Peace Officers

Special emphasis will be placed upon instruction of new officers when the university holds the eighth annual peace officers' short course July 10 to 15, according to Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law, director of the course.

Although the date has been set, formulation of the program of special classes, laboratories, lectures and panel discussions has not yet been definitely decided.

"Many law enforcement departments now have new replacements because men have entered the armed forces. These new men are eager to learn all techniques of their job and we will try to teach them everything possible in the short period," Professor Perkins said.

Advanced work will be available for the veterans of the police departments and the sheriffs' offices, and new developments will exceed those taught in the seven previous short courses.

The instruction staff, which will probably number more than 65, is to be drawn from the F. B. I., United States secret service, Iowa state department of public safety, the university, Iowa police departments, state guard, attorney general's office and county sheriffs' offices.

2,920 Persons Taking Correspondence Courses

Some 2,920 persons are enrolled in the university's correspondence courses, a greater number than in any recent year, according to Helen Williams director of correspondence study in the extension division.

Miss Williams states that approximately 200 courses are available and that many teachers have been able to renew their certificates because of their study by mail.

Large Enrollment Expected for Session For Beginning Freshmen

University officials expect a large enrollment in the special session for beginning freshmen June 12.

Students can earn 15 semester hours of credit in the colleges of liberal arts, engineering or pharmacy between June 12 and Sept. 2. A new freshman class will also enter the school of nursing June 12.

Registration for the beginning students in liberal arts, engineering and pharmacy is scheduled for June 9.

Girl Scouts Make Plans for April 13th Birthday Celebration

In spite of the fact that many Girl Scouts and Brownies have the measles, most troops have continued to meet and are making plans for the Girl Scout birthday celebration to be held in Iowa City April 13. Besides making these plans they are carrying on the usual work for badges and two troops have given parties.

After the girls in troop 1 made plans for the birthday celebration, they devoted their meeting Monday to discussing plans for a dance, "Prairie Prance," which they will give after the Lenten season.

Brownie troop 15 met Monday afternoon and listened to their assistant leader, Margaret Bolser, read "Raggedy Ann" stories, then drew pictures of Raggedy Ann and Andy.

Microphone Use

Mrs. Burdett Gainsfort, leader of troop 9 of University Elementary school, brought a microphone to their meeting Monday and explained correct and incorrect ways of using it.Troop 7, also of University Elementary school, was also present. Scouts in troop 7 are working on their second class badges.

Girl Scout troop 25 of St. Mary's finished knitting squares for the Red Cross afghan at their session Monday.

When they gathered Tuesday afternoon Brownies in troop 22 of Horace Mann wore nurses' caps and had a first aid lesson.

Troop 23 of St. Mary's school made a bookcase out of orange crates and crepe paper. Wednesday at their meeting they divided into two groups; one to make a scrapbook, and the other to take care of the books in the bookcase.

Girl Scout troop 13 of Roosevelt school gave a surprise party Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Griffin Jones, who will leave soon.

Cork Lapel Pins

The lapel pins that Brownies in troop 21 made at their meeting Wednesday, were made of cork. They used yarn for braided hair, art bone rings for earrings and made the faces with upholsterer's tacks and nail polish.

Longfellow Brownies in troop 16 made plans Wednesday for their part in the Girl Scout celebration. They are working on their afghan squares at home.

Horace Mann Girl Scout troop 5 met Thursday to work on badges. Some of the girls passed their music and dancing badges, while others worked on their health and safety badges.

Yesterday troop 8 of Henry Sabin school surprised their assistant leader, Ruth Olson, at a birthday party in the Girl Scout clubrooms. At their regular meeting Thursday they learned new songs and had a lesson in life-saving.

Colleges' Obligations To Veterans Discussed By Virgil Hancher

"The reluctance to grant credit for an achievement unless it was done within the academic boundaries of a university has deterred those outside the college borders from seeking to educate themselves," writes President Virgil M. Hancher in a recent article in the American Oxonian.

President Hancher declared that colleges, in their obligation to returning war veterans, must remove from their educational paths any routine obstacles to their advancement at maximum capacity. "Veterans' time should not be consumed by curricular requirements which are either incomprehensible on one hand or unnecessary on the other," added the university executive.

President Hancher continues that many veterans will have a maturity of outlook and a depth of knowledge which cannot be wholly ignored by the university. He believes it is the duty of the college to translate these into the equivalent of college work, thereby laying the groundwork for a revised attitude toward undergraduate and adult education.

"Veterans will resent and resist any duplication of work or any regulation which keeps them from moving forward at their greatest capacity. They will expect credit for work done elsewhere at the college level and will expect chances for self-directed study in courses only partly completed in the armed forces."

Advocating plans to grant certain credit to former servicemen, President Hancher states that a more general recognition of the fact that an education can be achieved outside of formal institutions is necessary.

Sales of Liquor Fall As War Bonds Rise

Increasing over 400 percent in February as compared to January, the sale of war bonds and stamps has gone up while liquor sales dropped at the Iowa City liquor store.

President Emeritus Discusses Federal Aid For Students, Research

Recent proposals advocating federal support of education, students, scientific research and libraries are finding much favor in a nation regimented for war, according to Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president emeritus of the university and now president of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching.

The former Iowa executive, in his report for the year quoted by The Associated Press, stated that drastic changes will be wrought in the traditionally free American universities and colleges if this legislation is passed.

"Whether for the human spirit the gain in added efficiency and simplified economy will outweigh the loss in individual initiative and freedom to make mistakes, only time can tell. The prime question is whether our intellectual future shall be immobilized as a planned efficiency or free," Dr. Jessup declared.

He also plans to make arrangements to bring 20 of the pictures owned by the Nebraska Art association to a special art exhibit on this campus during the summer.

Hampton Knocks Out West Waterloo Team As Field Narrows

DES MOINES (AP)—Franklin high of Cedar Rapids ended Numa's winning streak officially at 34 games last night as the boys' sub-state field narrowed down for tonight's final round battles.

The Thunderbolts clipped the previously unbeaten Miners, 29 to 21, in the opening contest at Ottumwa before a packed house.

Waverly gained the final round by defeating Hopkinton, class B rival, 44 to 34, at Cedar Falls after trailing, 18 to 15, at the halftime.

The Go-Hawks caught up with their rivals near the close of the third quarter, dropped the lead temporarily in the opening minutes of the final period, and then regained it when Eugene Bowdish flipped in three field goals and two free throws. Bowdish and Harley Platte set the pace for the winners with 15 points apiece.

Hull defeated Sioux Center, 44 to 36, in last night's opener at Laurens, while Harcourt crowded out Manning, 32 to 30, in the evening's curtain raiser at Creston.

The semi-finals session at Ottumwa reached a climax when Burlington, twice beaten by Ottumwa this season, turned on the Bulldogs and gave them a 38 to 34 beating.

At Cedar Falls, Hampton knocked Waterloo (West) out of the running by scoring a 36 to 33 victory.

Storm Lake beat Hornick, 28 to 23, in the nightcap at Laurens, and at Creston, Harlan won a lopsided 38 to 17 victory from the host team to bring the semi-finals round there to a close.

Uniformed Athletes

May Join Battlefront Olympics

WASHINGTON (AP) — When peace comes to the world the athletes in uniform may join in battlefront Olympics, an army plan of international service games to help heal the scars of war.

Although the proposal lacks official confirmation, the army is getting ready now for service games which may begin on the spot at war fronts and wind up with an international finals in some major allied capital like London.

The games may be dedicated to the young athletes of the world who lost their lives in battle.

10,000 Seats Set For Iowa State Basketball Tourney

Some 10,000 seats, more than for any contest since the use of the fieldhouse by the Navy Pre-Flight school, will be available in the University of Iowa structure for the state high school basketball final tournament next Friday and Saturday evenings.

Arrangements have been completed to erect a set of bleachers flanking the north side of the court. These seats will be a reserved section, and the south first balcony also will be reserved.

Charles Galiher, business manager of athletics, said yesterday that reserved seat season tickets have been selling well but he expects the demand to accelerate sharply the first of next week because the identity of the four competing teams then will be known.

The tournament schedule calls for the semi-final games to be played Friday evening, starting at 7:30 p. m. Losers of the semi-finals will fight for third place Saturday at 7:30 p. m. and the championship game will begin shortly after 8:45 p. m.

GOOD NEWS FOR BROWNS By Sords

From The Sidelines . . .

by Yoke

Rejoice! be gay, listen to the birds sing . . . spring is definitely here . . . in force enough to make the heart of every baseball fan happy. If you listen hard enough, the crack of bat on ball can be heard. And you're sure that the first base coach is hollerin' and signaling for the old double steal.

We got into a conversation the other night about the old days in Iowa baseball . . . the days when every year the team ranked right up in there in first or second place . . . the old days of 1942.

Anyway all you fans know that Iowa has long been the seat of fine baseball of a Big Ten variety. Well the talk was all about this sort of thing and someone there was saying that they remembered the times when Vogel was coach that he had a double steal play all worked out that he used most of the time. The set up would be made with a man on first and third, the coach would give the signal and both runners would go down. The opposition catcher would invariably flip that ball down to second only to find the runner from third cascading into his lap at the very next moment.

And then there's the age-old story about Waddy Davis, Hawkeye varsity baseball coach. It seems that there was a time when both Pops Harrison and Waddy were assistant coaches. Harrison was helping Vogel that year with the diamond squad.

It also seems that one day Waddy and Pops got into an altercation about something and they started to ridicule each other. Pops got in his two cents and then Waddy took over the floor.

"Why, any - - - - - - - fool can coach baseball, he drawled.

"All you gotta' do is roooll the ball out onto the field. Any - - - - - fool can coach baseball."

Well, to make matters worse one of the football players strolled into the office at that point and took up the hue and cry with Harrison, riding Waddy unmercifully.

Waddy finally won out and the whole thing was forgotten. But that spring the announcement came that Waddy was to be made head baseball coach. So the first afternoon of spring practice Pops got a bunch of the boys together and they stood at the top of the steps leading onto the fieldhouse floor and waited for Coach Davis to come out.

Then came the chorus of about 10 athletic voices booming.

"Any - - - - - fool can coach baseball. All you gotta' do is roooll the ball out onto the field.

Brooks Get First M. D.

Tom Warren, 23 Year Old Rookie Returns From Ranks

Training Camp Notes
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y.—Brooklyn has one of the first injured servicemen to return to professional baseball from active duty overseas in young Tom Warren, 23-year-old rookie from Tulsa, Okla.

Warren was at Casablanca and other points as a navy commando until he drew an honorable discharge because of an injury. Now sufficiently recovered to play ball again, after months in the hospital, he's here at Bear Mountain with the Dodgers.

As conservative a scout as Tom Greenwade of Willard, Mo., thinks he has a chance. One thing sure, Warren takes things seriously. To quote Leo Durocher "He'll bet you he can beat you at pitch, ping pong, throwing or hitting. And say listen, he is not kidding."

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—Jimmy Dykes, the man behind the cigar, was in high spiritis yesterday as his Chicago White Sox pitched camp.

The reclassification of big Hal Trosky to 4-F by his Cedar Rapids, Iowa, draft board was the main reason Dykes was chirping like the robins.

"He's the fellow to give us the long punch we've needed for several years," Dykes said. "If he is OK again we may be able to develop into a team which would be in the pennant race."

There is still some doubt, however, Trosky is fully recovered from the chronic migraine headaches which caused his retirement from Cleveland three years ago. The first baseman was purchased by the Sox from the Indians last fall.

FREDERICK, Md.—Connie Mack said yesterday that Bobo Newsom will pitch the Philadelphia Athletics' season opener against the Washington Senators, indicating there was nothing serious in Newsom's vague talk about going into business instead of playing baseball this season.

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Johnny Rucker, regular center fielder, and Bruce Sloan, rookie outfielder whose contract was acquired this week, arrived in the New York Giant training camp yesterday about the same time that catcher Ernie Lombardi informed manager Mel Ott he would arrive next week.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Showers forced the New York Yankees indoors yesterday and manager Joe McCarthy spent the time with the infield candidates while coach Art Fletcher knocked grounders to the outfielders.

Told that second baseman Joe Gordon passed his army physical in Oregon, McCarthy scowled a moment and then said "Of course, we will carry on."

CHICAGO—Third baseman Stan Hack, captain of the Chicago Cubs last year, has signed his 1944 contract, general manager Jim Gallagher said yesterday, but has decided to remain on his Oregon ranch and has formally applied for voluntary retirement.

No. 1 candidate for the job Hack has held for 12 seasons is Pete Elko of Nashville, Tenn.

At least 12 Cubs and possibly 17 will leave for their French Lick, Ind., training camp Sunday.

ST. LOUIS—The baseball team of the Fourth ferrying group of Memphis, which includes former Cardinal captain Jimmy Brown, will play exhibition games with the Cardinals at their spring training camp in Cairo, Ill., March 26 and April 2, it was announced yesterday.

Jack Decisions Bummy Davis

NEW YORK. (AP)—Beau Jack the bounding bootblack from Augusta, Ga., beat hard-punching Al "Bummy" Davis at his own game last night, battering the Brooklyn bad boy all over the Madison Square Garden ring to win a 10-round decision by a country mile. The Beau weighed 138 to Davis' 142½.

A crowd of 19,963 paid $132,823 to see the one-sided contest. It was the largest crowd and biggest gate for the Garden since heavyweight champion Joe Louis marched off to war.

After a fast and furious first round, in which Davis staggered the Beau with a series of lefts and rights, and appeared on his way to a repetition of his 63-second knockout over Bob Montgomery five weeks ago the fight was all Jack's.

Detroit Tigers Find Gem in 6-11 Hurler

Ralph Siewart Causes 'Pitching to Come From Second Floor' Effect

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers are doing things on a large scale this year with a 6-foot 11-inch batting practice pitcher, Ralph Siewert, the man who throws a baseball from the second story window.

Too tall for the army, the 20-year-old Siewert turned up a fortnight ago at tryout camp. He came from Mt. Clemens, Mich., where he had been a sky-scraping high school basketball center and a first baseman in baseball. The Tiger board of strategy took one look at the big boy's long and strong throwing arm and told him that from now on he was a pitcher.

Normally Siewert would be sent out for minor league experience, but the Tigers just couldn't imagine him folding his long legs under a bus seat. So the job of batting practice pitcher was revived for him. Thus, the Tiger bosses can watch his development closely and give him a chance at a regular job if he warrants it.

Curiously, the pitching mound at Detroit's Briggs stadium is considered the loftiest in the majors. Rival managers contended several years ago that it had been built up carefully to add to the stature of 6-foot 4-inch Schoolboy Rowe. In Tiger home games Siewert should have what might be called the "stratosphere pitch."

The 240-pound Siewert threw the equipment man into a panic when he ambled in for a uniform. The big boy finally was attired in a shirt once worn by "Bo-Bo" Newsom and a hand-me-down pair of trousers from Rowe. The club still is shopping for size 14 shoes.

Gehrig Still Lives In Sport Fans Mind

NEW YORK—Lou Gehrig still lives in the shadow of Babe Ruth.

All through his record-studded baseball career, which included 2,130 successive American league games with the Yankees in 14 years, the "Iron Horse" stood in the background of the Bambino.

Recently, AP Features asked the nation's sports editors to vote on the outstanding sports achievements. Ruth again overshadowed the immortal first baseman, finishing second to Bobby Jones. Gehrig was fifth, behind Jesse Owens and the 1914 Braves.

Gehrig's vote was really a tribute to a great player. He quit the national pastime in 1939 and has been dead since 1941. But the sports scribes, young and old, didn't forget the Bronx boy.

Tinker Claims He Put Kibosh On Spitball

ORLANDO, Fla.—Venerable Joe Tinker achieved baseball fame as a member of the immortal Tinker-Evans-Chance double play combination, but he says he's also the guy who brought about the ban on the spitball.

The 63-year-old former shortstop, now recovering from his second critical illness in the past seven years, relates that it was back in 1917 when he was manager of Columbus in the American association.

Indianapolis, which was fighting with Louisville for the pennant, came to town and had a couple of spitballers who put the Indian sign on Columbus' batters.

"I had a big pitcher named Jack McDonough," says Tinker, plucking an orange from a tree in the yard of his Lakeside home near here.

"I says to Jack, 'I tell you what you do, you go by a hardware store tonight and buy you a big file. Stick it in the side of your pants tomorrow and every time you get a new ball, take the file and rub it across the ball to make a dent in it and then see what you can do.'

"Well, Jack did what I told him except he stuck the file up in the ground in back of the pitcher's box, in plain sight.

"He struck out the first seven batters, the ball was breaking all over the place. It was hitting the catcher in the mask, the chest and the legs.

"Jack Hendricks, Indianapolis manager, came storming out to protest, and I said, "Well, you've been using spitballs and emories, I don't see why we can't use our file ball' "

The American association banned the spitball at the end of the season except for pitchers then using it, Joe continues, and the ban soon spread to the majors.

Tinker, who now lives in retirement here, played with the Chicago Cubs from 1902 to 1912, managed Cincinnati in 1913 and was manager of the Chicago Federal League club in 1914 and 1915. He was president and manager of Columbus from 1917 to 1920, then he came to Orlando and managed Orlando in the Florida State league until 1923, after which he ventured into real estate.

Gil Dodds Set For Bankers Mile Race

To Run With Wright, Herbert, Eisenhart In Defending Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Gil Dodds of Boston, the front man in the indoor mile this season, is one of five defending champions geared up for the eighth annual Chicago relays tonight in Chicago stadium.

Dodds, who developed his stride last summer by shadowing Sweden's Gunder Haegg around the cinder trails from coast to coast, will be seeking his seventh consecutive mile victory. The "flying parson" stepped a 4:07.3 mile in the Knights of Columbus meet last Saturday, clipping one-tenth of a second from the world's indoor competitive record.

Another world-record holder to enter the relays is Ens. Cornelius Warmerdam, who cruised down a special 150-foot runway a year ago and gazelled 15 feet 8½ inches in the pole vault. Warmerdam, an instructor in the preparatory flight school at Monmouth, Ill., college, will be in his first competition of the season, and again will have a 150-foot takeoff.

Other defending champions are Les Eisenhart, Columbus, Ohio, in the 1,000-yard race; James Herbert, Grand Street Boys' club, New York, in the 600-yard run, and Bob Wright, midshipman at Abbott hall, Chicago, in the hurdle series.

One of the feature events is the Olympic sprint series at 40, 50 and 55 yards which has attracted such national speed demons as Claude Young, sensational University of Illinois freshman who won the 60-yard dash in the Millrose games; Ed Conwell of New York university, National A.A.U. champion, and Herbert Hompson of the U. S. coast guard, New York A.C. champion.

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, (AP)—Somehow it seems like trying to paint the lily to laud Bill Dickey. The big guy needs no more eulogy than a million dollars. That is, his value to baseball, as an example to the youth of the nation and as an all-around man, is too apparent to need any polishing.

This isn't written because he is going into the navy, although that provides a good excuse. After all, he had nothing to say about his going into the service, and for going in deserves no more praise than a ribbon clerk or water meter reader. His number just came up, that's all. It is a tribute to the care he has taken of himself, though, that at 36, with 16 major league seasons behind him in the toughest job on the field, he is 1-A physically.

Dickey would be the last to bemoan the fate that is taking him from a career he never can resume, except in a field or front office executive capacity He'd just about run out his string as a player, regardless of the fact last year was one of his best years. One or two or three more years at the most might have been judged his life expectancy as an active player. It's the younger fellows just coming into their own as major leaguers who are hit the hardest.

The game has been good to the lanky Arkansan, just as he has been good for the game. A top-flight catcher and the first-stringer for 15 of his 16 years with the Yankees, he has drawn down good money. Just how much, we couldn't say, but he's been in the higher brackets as baseball players' salaries go, and it is reported that his wage for the season a couple of years ago was around $23,000.

On top of that, he's been with a winner or near winner all the time. The Yankees won the pennant nine times, finished second five times and third twice in the 16 years he was with them, and his world series cut for the winning seasons alone totaled slightly more than $50,000. We understand the frugal Bill socked this dough in the bank where it is sprouting.

But if Bill Dickey will miss baseball, he probably won't miss it any more than the fans will miss Bill Dickey. And the Yankees too, for that matter. He's one guy you liked to see out there, making his job seem easy. If you had to write a baseball epitapth for him you couldn't do much better than this:

He was a Yankee.

Alfred Noyes, British Writer, To Speak at Vesper Services

Poet Wrote 'Drake,' 'The Golden Hynde,' 'Beyond the Desert'

Dr. ALFRED NOYES

Alfred Noyes, British poet and author, will speak in Macbride auditorium March 26 at 8 p. m. under the auspices of the university board of vespers on "The Foundations of Belief."

Born and educated in England, Noyes began his literary career with the publication of poems in leading journals. The modern revival of interest in narrative poetry dates from the publication of his poem, "Drake," in the first part of the 20th century.

This success was followed by a serialization of "Tales of the Mermaid Tavern," a collection of stories of the Elizabethan company of Shakespeane, Ben Jonson, Christopher Marlowe, Thomas Nash and others.

Among the many volumes of verse published by Noyes are "The Golden Hynde," "The Elfin Artist," "Sherwood," "The Enchanted Island," "Beyond the Desert" and "The Torch Bearer."

He is also the author of a novel, "No Other Man," and a critical appraisal of English literature, "The Pageant of Letter." He has written a standard biography of Voltaire and a book on his Isle of Wight garden entitled, "Orchard's Bay."

Nazi bombardments of his home on the Isle of Wight brought Noyes and his family into temporary exile in Canada the latter part of the summer of 1940. He toured the Dominion for the national council of education prior to his appearances in the United States.

Noyes has taught at Princeton university in Princeton, N. J., and the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. From February to June, 1943, he was a visiting professor at the University of California at Berkeley.

Syracuse university in Syracuse, N. Y., conferred upon him the degree of Litt.D. He holds the degrees of doctor of letters from Yale university in New Haven, Conn., and doctor of laws from Glasgow university in Scotland.

Many of the British author's poems are written about American subjects. In writing an introduction to "The Avenue of the Allies," the late President Taft said, "the author is one of the great poets of this generation" in his treatment of war and peace.

Free tickets to the vesper services will be obtained at the main desk of Iowa Union by university students and faculty members beginning Tuesday. Any tickets left will be distributed to the general public Friday until Sunday.

Business in January Continues Up Trend

Rising trend in Iowa business, when considered on a year-to-year business, has continued, although January brought minor seasonal declines, declares Prof. George R. Davies of the college of commerce, in the current issue of the Iowa Business Digest.

Professor Davies said that gains are shown in practically all lines when figures of January, 1944, are compared with those of January, 1943.

"During the past 12 months, employment has advanced six percent, industrial payrolls 22 percent, and bank debits 29 percent. The trend of prices, however, is not conspicuously inflationary .The estimated cost of living in Iowa rose only two percent during the past year," Professor Davies reported.

In the Norman era, the Danes were the most powerful nation in Europe.

A. A. F. Will Recruit 17-Year-Olds Here Tuesday, Wednesday

An army airforces aviation cadet examining board from army recruiting headquarters in Des Moines will be at the Iowa City post office Tuesday and Wednesday, March 21 and 22, to conduct official examinations for 17-year-old men interested in being selected as future army aviation cadets.

The preliminary army airforces examinations, mental and physical, will be given promptly at 10 a. m.

Applications and information may be had from the aviation cadet examining board, Old Federal building; Des Moines, from any civil air patrol recruiting office or any Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

Modified physical requirements now permit men with visual acuity 20/30, correctible to 20/20 with glasses, to qualify for the army airforces reserve.

All 17-year-olds who successfully qualify and join are presented the silver wings of A. A. F. reservists. Army officials emphasize that such reservists cannot be called to active duty until they reach their 18th birthdays, and if in school at age 18, they may continue until the end of the current term providing such terms end within six months after they have reached 18.

The army aviaton cadet air crew training course covers 14 months and is valued at $30,000. It includes five months of study at a selected college followed by eight months of flight training, which leads to a commission in the airforces as a pilot, bombardier, or navigator, or appointment as a flight officer. Several months of transitional training usually follows receipt of wings.

If selected as a gunner, the candidate, after basic training, is sent direct to a special technical school.

Three on Match Not Bad Luck Says WPB

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war production board appealed to the public last night to pay no attention to the superstition that it's bad luck to light three cigarets from the same match.

Paper for making matches is scarce, the board said. Therefore, the more cigarets that can be ignited with one match, the better for the war effort.

The superstition, incidentally, is said to have originated in the trenches during the last war.

Some ABC stuff about E

E IS A VERY important letter in this war.

It's the name of the War Bonds you buy—"War Savings Bond Series E."

As you know, a Series E Bond will work for you for ten full years, piling up interest all that time, till finally you'll get four dollars back for every three you put up. Pretty nice.

The first job of the money you put into "E" is, of course, to help finance the war. But it also gives you a wonderful way to save money.

And when the war is over, that money you now put away can do another job, can help America swing over from war to peace.

There'll come a day when you'll bless these Bonds—when they may help you over a tough spot.

That's why you should make up your mind to hang on to every Bond you buy. You can, of course, cash in your Bonds any time, after you've held them for 60 days. You get all your money back, and, after one year, all your money plus interest.

But when you cash in a Bond, you end its life before its full job is done. You don't give it its chance to help you and the country in the years that lie ahead. You kill off its $4-for-every-$3 earning power.

All of which it's good to remember when you might be tempted to cash in some of your War Bonds. They are yours, to do what you want with.

But . . . it's ABC sense that . . .

They'll do the best job for you and for America if you let them reach the full flower of maturity!
