

Position Of Aircraft Industry

The aircraft industry illustrates perhaps more clearly than any other division of American business the tremendous economic dislocation caused by modern warfare, states the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in discussing the war and post-war position of the aircraft industry in the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, its monthly review of business and financial conditions in this country and abroad, published today.

"From a comparatively small but rapidly growing branch of manufacture before the war," The Survey continues, "it has mushroomed into a giant among industrial giants, absorbed large sections of other industries, and assumed a position from which readjustment to peacetime conditions will be one of the most critical reconversion problems."

"The war has made aircraft manufacturing the largest industry in the history of this or any other country. In four years the value of its annual production has expanded from $150 million to an estimated $20 billion, and the number of people it employs has increased from 70,000 to 2 million. With the supporting activities of essential services included, the employment total has been roughly estimated at 5 million. The industry today is more than five times as large as the automobile industry was in its years of greatest peacetime production. In making this comparison, it must of course be remembered not only that the automobile industry is producing much more than it ever did in times of peace but also that automobile producers are contributing greatly to the output of the aircraft industry itself.

"Under any conditions, the reconversion of an industry of such magnitude from wartime to peacetime operations would be a major task. In the aircraft industry, certain conditions exist that make the problem unique. The phenomenal rate of expansion during the war period is a reflection of the fact that the industry, despite its present enormous size, had no large established peacetime market. The pressure on production for the military market, moreover, has been so great that little time or attention has been available for post-war planning. The industry faces a future of which not even the broad outlines are clearly marked, and hence a reconversion problem that is perhaps more difficult to gauge than that of any other major American industry.

"The magnitude of the reconversion problem clearly depends on the size of the post-war market for aircraft. It is generally agreed that the demand will be a great deal larger than any experienced before the war; but how great the difference may be, and how long and how rapidly the post-war growth may continue, are questions

Stalin's Coy, Elusive Act Bores This Washington Writer

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON — I'm no political expert. And the international situation is another Tower of Babel to me. But—

From the corner in which I sit and write these words, it does seem to me that it may be time for the United States and England to take a different attitude toward Russia.

I think we are striving too hard to please. Certainly Russia is doing a magnificent job in this war. And such parlor conversations on "How can we stop Russia?" sound childish to me.

Opinion

On and Off Campus

QUESTION: HOW DO YOU THINK WE CAN AVOID A POST-WAR DEPRESSION?

Pvt. Hugh Martin of Nashua, N. H., stationed in A. S. T. P.: "Reasonable taxation to avoid excessive incomes, centralization of capital, assurance of sufficient occupational possibilities for returning servicemen and a rigid control of prices."

Pfc. Richard Porostovsky of Lorain, Ohio, stationed in A. S. T. P.: "Try to get us boys back into some kind of a job and not give them all to the women."

R. J. McMahon, A3 of Iowa City: "Complete the plans for the conversion of industry to producing for civilian needs now."

Donald Alvarado, A1 of Wilmington, Del.: "By stabilizing the prices now so they can't skyrocket. Also by planning for the conversion of industries and for the labor turnover."

Barbara Kroscher, A1 of Elmhurst, Ill.: "Put cash into bonds now to prevent needless spending which will eventually lead to inflation."

Florence Hoak, A4 of Des Moines: "To stop a post-war depression, beginning now there should be an even more extensive program to stop unnecessary spending; heavier taxes should be imposed and safer investments should be advised to stop speculation. I think the war debt should be paid now in taxes. War industries should be converted gradually to peace time occupations for the great employment problem after the war."

Janice Tatum, A3 of Nora Springs: "I think at least a minor depression is almost inevitable after the war because there is too much unnecessary spending now and not enough saving. People must be taught to spend more wisely. The matter of averting a depression stems from adequate education — something which the average American lacks to a certain extent. I also think there will be a great psychological depression in addition to an economic depression after the war."

Robert Holloway, 32 Lincoln street: "I do not think we can avoid an eventual post-war depression, but there will be no immediate one. It is common consensus of opinion there will be a boom, particularly in certain industries, such as clothing. Anything, especially electrical appliances, will boom after the war, and after this there will undoubtedly be a gigantic let-down."

Mrs. E. W. Lucas, secretary in the Student Publications office: "No, I certainly do not. Depressions always follow war, and if not right away it will finally come."

Rose Ericson, J3 of Monmouth, Ill.: "The only way is if the government will set up a definite criterion which will be understood by, and satisfactory to, everyone. The best way to do this is to find jobs for everyone and encourage spending."

Shirley Bush, A4 of Des Moines: "I think a war undoubtedly leaves a depression. After this war we will have to use all the resources of manpower, and this can be done only by increasing consumption over what it was in war days."

Lois Lilly, A2 of Davenport: "I think we will need international cooperation and a provision for demobilization. It should be taken care of by the national government instead of the individual districts or states."

that only the future can answer. Authorities within the industry appear generally inclined to take a rather conservative view of the early post-war prospects and to deplore the extravagant predictions that have been made in some quarters concerning the probable growth of air transportation.

"Such forecasts, they believe, are based too largely on the obvious superiority of air transport in the matter of speed and take too little account of the even more vital question of cost, which is the decisive limiting factor in the outlook for the future development of civil aviation. Only where air transport can offer owners, passengers and shippers a fair balance between the advantages of great speed and the higher cost of that speed can aircraft manufacturers anticipate large-scale demand.

Washington in Wartime— Arlington—Lone National Cemetery Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—There's a scrap going on here now between some residents of Arlington county and the war department that is far more than local importance. Residents are seeking to block the department's purchase of 90 acres to add to Arlington National cemetery to make room for 18,000 additional graves for service men and their wives.

There's no need to go deeply into the local situation. Arlington cemetery already is so crowded that priorities on plots are bitterly contested by high ranking military officials. According to one attorney representing Arlington county residents, the present rate of burial, which is nothing to what it will be as the war progresses, will use up the 90 additional acres, plus all available space now in the cemetery in seven years.

Rep. Howard W. Smith, Virginia Democrat who represents the district "just across the Potomac," says two-thirds of the area sought contains 328 family dwellings, including several apartment houses and one $125,000 school.

These are the basic facts in the local Arlington county ruckus, but there is much more to it than that. The real question is whether the (See WASHINGTON, page 5)

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — The recent Oscar hubbalooboo is dying down, so we might as well first under the wire with predictions for next year.

This year's honors were such a departure that next year things ought to fall back in line. Jennifer Jones and Paul Lukas got the nod for work done in 1943—not because a lot of people thought they should have had it in 1942. Next year it'll be Ingrid Bergman, and either Humphrey Bogart or Walter Pidgeon... because all are "ripe" for Oscars, just as Bette Davis was for her first one, won on a performance which didn't touch her role the year before when "It Happened One Night" swept the boards.

Jennifer won't be the first "unknown" to be honored for her first picture. Janet Gaynor came out of the extra ranks to win the first Oscar in 1928 with "Seventh Heaven" and two other performances.

Our own batting (guessing) average this year was .500. Picked Jennifer, Lukas, Paxinou but missed on Coburn, Mike Curtiz and "Casablanca," which I still don't believe was the year's best picture... I stubbornly stick to "Bernadette"

Now back to the stages where they're working for next year's Oscars—and paltry pittances: Hedy Lamarr and Paul Henreid, co-starring in "The Conspirators," weren't strangers when they met on the set. They'd known each other in Vienna... they're working on a Portuguese fishing village set which indicates why so few location trips are necessary nowadays. A cloud-swept cyclorama for backdrop trees and houses in perspective, a small lake agitated to simulate the ocean; and a painted coastline in the distance, with dabs of tinfoil shimmering to give the ocean life—these together with skillful lighting almost fool the eye as well as the lens . . . Mortar Board To Circulate Petition

A petition to be sent to United States congressmen will be circulated among the student body as part of a nationwide Mortar Board project. The petition was originated by the Mortar Board chapter of the State College of Washington and contains certain points which members of that chapter believe to be "expressive of the ideas of the American university students concerning the post-war world."

It is the hope of the originators that signatures to the petition from all 75 universities with Mortar Board chapters will be received by congressmen. Their objective is to enable congress to "realize the extent to which American youth are aware of the vital issues involved in planning the post-war world."

INFORMATION FIRST SERIES ENDS TODAY

EDNA HERBST, A2 of Newton, and Dorothea Grundy, A2 of Dysart, are completing their year's activities in connection with the Information First lecture series. Miss Herbst, who was re-appointed to the position for next year, has been chairman of Information First, and Miss Grundy has been in charge of publicity. Since last October, 24 outside speakers and faculty members have spoken at the meetings, which were held on successive Thursday afternoons in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Today's speaker, the final one of the year, is Albert Evans, managerial assistant of the midwestern area of the American Red Cross.

Allen Sigel to Play Weber's 'Concertino' At University Concert

Prof. C. B. Righter will direct the University Concert band in its third concert of the season Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Free tickets for the concert may be obtained at the Iowa Union desk, Whetstone's drug store and room 15, music studio building. Staff members may phone x8179 for tickets and they will be forwarded by campus mail.

The concert will include a group of ten modern and classical numbers. Clarinet soloist Allen Sigel, A2 of Ottumwa, will play "Concertino" (Weber) as a special number on the program. An ensemble of 11 band members will present "Royal Fireworks Music" (Handel) with band accompaniment. Members of the ensemble are Joyce Horton, A2 of Osceola, flute; Nelson Reeds, E1 of Iowa City, oboe; Robert Tyndall, A1 of Iowa City, bassoon; Richard Hills, A1 of Iowa City, and John Fatland, A1 of Colfax, clarinets.

International Exchange Needed for Best Use Of World's Resources

Even in the midst of war's destruction the idea of world economic interdependence continues to grow but cannot be realized by a continuation of selfish nationalism and economic warfare of the past decade, according to Prof. Paul R. Olson of the college of commerce. He maintains that a system of international exchange is indispensable to the most efficient use of the world's resources.

Diplomatic Prisoners Treated Royally, Taylor Henry Reports

TAYLOR HENRY, former chief of The Associated Press bureau in Vichy, France, landed in America just two weeks ago on the liner Gripsholm. He was taken prisoner while in France and sent to Germany until he obtained passage back to the United States in exchange for enemy prisoners. Henry spoke in Macbride auditorium last night at the last university lecture of the year on "The Reconstruction of Europe."

"Internment in a German hotel in the Black forest for several weeks made us official prisoners of war, but we were treated royally," reports Taylor Henry, chief of The Associated Press in Vichy before his capture by the enemy. Henry was with a group of American Red Cross workers, American Friends society, Mennonites and diplomats who were taken to Lourdes in the Pyrenees mountains in southern France and kept there from November until January.

2 Students to Enter North Central Debate

Mary Jane Neville, A3 of Emmetsburg, and Donald Ecroyd, A4 of Arkansas City, Kan., left today for Northwestern university where they will compete in the north central region meet of the inter-American affairs contest. More than 100 contestants were entered from the Universities of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin, writing manuscripts on "The Bases for Permanent Cooperation Among the American Republics." Miss Neville and Ecroyd were chosen as two of eight finalists. Winners of the regional contests will participate in the national contest to be held next month in Washington, D. C. Winners at the national contest will receive an award of $500 for study in Mexico during the summer of 1944.

Police Chief Says— Parents Themselves Delinquent

"Juvenile delinquency over our country is one of the most serious problems, with female cases more alarming in number than male," said Police Chief O. A. White yesterday at the Lions club luncheon meeting. Iowa City is comparatively lucky in having no war industries for it is in these areas that the problem is most serious, said the speaker. The service personnel is taken care of by men in charge and as a result few cases arise from this source, he added.

At present 86 cases are recorded for 1943, 12 less than the 1942 number. Chief White gave credit for this to Mrs. V. Gunette, police matron. Of the total number, 30 cases were repeated. This may be due, he said, to overconfidence of the force in trying to sell the idea of being good to boys and girls with bad tendencies.

These cases divided into categories include larceny, 31; destroying property, 8; car theft, 2; fights, 2; intoxicants, 2; incorrigibles, 17; sex offenses, 4. Only three girls' cases were brought to the attention of the court. Three boys were sent to Boy's Town and 13 were put on probation.

The reasons for delinquency can be divided into neglect, lack of parental supervision and mental illness. The last is often caused by drunken parents or parents who leave for jobs and provide no care for the children, he said. "Not all cases come from south of the tracks," said the chief. "Not all boys are bad because of their environment—sometimes they feel partiality is being shown; sometimes they feel sorry for themselves and attract attention by violating the law."

Physical handicaps may be another cause, White pointed out. Neglect cases spring from the parents' interest in their own entertainment and children left in hands of others or in no one's care at all.

Chief White cited the case of a 16-year old boy who was committed to Eldora recently after 57 cases beginning in 1937. When left in his own care he occupied his time with bicycle thefts and police found in a barn loft 35 torn down bicycles, which were being reassembled for selling and re-painted to prevent recognition. When he concluded his exploits with the robbery of $170 from a fraternity house he was sent away. The speaker declared that the feeling that society has failed in this and instances like it, is the most unpleasant feeling in the world.

Lack of parental supervision is the most prevalent cause and he pointed out that seeing a delinquent child is evidence of a delinquent parent.

"We must keep ahead of the problem or we are going to fall by the wayside," said the speaker. "Correction is important but only two per cent of a policeman's work should be apprehensive while 98 per cent should be preventative," he said.

Child welfare organizations, Parent Teacher associations, service clubs and churches all are faced with the biggest problem of community life. Another important group is the one located in the workings of a community recreation center. "Ours is in good shape and it should be conducted with no seasonal layoff. My hat goes off to J. E. Frame for the success of the Paper Doll dry-night club."

Chief White reminded the members that the petition for a tax levy of one half mill to support recreational organization is now being circulated. If signed adequately, the question will be put to vote in the June election.

After about two months in the states and time at home, Henry says he's anxious to get back over there and get the first hand news of what will be the most dramatic event of World War II.

Bernetta Stafford Wed To Joseph N. Burns In Omaha Saturday

Bernetta Stafford of Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stafford, 1821 Muscatine avenue, became the bride of Chief Petty Officer Joseph N. Burns, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burns of Omaha, Saturday in Our Lady's chapel in Omaha.

Ens. Alberta Stafford, N. N. C., of Great Lakes, Ill., attended her sister as maid of honor, and Glenn Christensen of Omaha served as best man.

The bride was attired in a grey dressmaker suit, complemented with powder blue accessories. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of white Easter lilies, carnations and sweetpeas.

The maid of honor wore her regulation uniform of the navy nurse corps.

The bridegroom was associated in electrical business before entering military service. He has just returned from two years' duty in the south Pacific area.

A reception honoring the couple was held immediately after the wedding for friends and relatives in the home of the bridegroom's parents. The couple will visit the bride's parents before Mr. Burns returns for further service with the Seabees.

Alfred Noyes Writes First Juvenile Book; Signs Bookshop Copies

Alfred Noyes, British poet and author who spoke here Sunday night, has written his first book for children and autographed several copies of it at the Bookshop. "The Secret of Pooduck Island" is an imaginative tale about animals on an island off the coast of Maine. The title of the book is taken from the Indian place where the world comes to an end.

"I really didn't intend it for a juvenile book," Noyes said. "But the critics seem to like to recommend it to youngsters. I hope adults will enjoy the prose and poetry as much as the children."

Professor Describes 'Adolescent Spurt'

The "adolescent spurt" in growth begins for Iowa boys at about 13 years and for the average girl at about 10½ years, according to Prof. Howard Meredith of the child welfare research station.

The spurt may occur for boys between 12 and 17 years while girls vary from 9 to 14 years, with the peak at 12 years.

The average Iowa girl both begins and ends her adolescent growth about two years earlier than the average Iowa boy," Professor Meredith declares.

He points out that it does not follow that all girls reach adolescence before any boy does.

Last Information First Lecturer Talks Today

The last Information First lecture of the academic year will be presented in the senate chamber of Old Capitol this afternoon when Albert Evans, managerial assistant of the midwestern area of the American Red Cross, speaks on his experiences "With the Red Cross in China, Burma and India."

Evans, who has had 23 years of service with the Red Cross, will tell of his experiences with our fighting men in the far east. He was in close contact with the Flying Tigers during his work in China and India, and kept them supplied with ambulances and medical supplies.

The reaction of service men to the amount of help they receive from the home front will be described in his lecture, as will his experiences as a disaster relief administrator.

Youngest Hawkeye Team on Record to Have Pretty Fair Chance Says Coach Waddy Davis

Hughes, Bendorf Get Nod As Best Infielders; Ahrendsen Has Power

Great records have been made by the forerunners of the present University of Iowa baseball squad within the past eight seasons, as the Hawkeyes rank first in composite Big Ten standings with 709.

But even before the 1944 season opens next week, the current squad has made a Hawkeye record of being the youngest and least experienced of any ever to play here, without a single athlete who ever performed in an intercollegiate baseball game.

The doubtful honor of setting such a record, however, fails to worry the all-civilian Iowans or their optimistic and scrappy coach, "Waddy" Davis, now in his second season as head of Old Gold baseball.

"We should develop fairly well-balanced hitting. The infield will be OK, with the vital spots at second base and shortstop well-handled. Outfielders probably will have normal speed and I think the pitchers will hold up well. We ought to be a pretty fair freshman club," said Coach Davis.

Iowans greatly need outdoor work but cold weather and snow have kept them in the fieldhouse. And the Big Ten season is set to open April 7 with the first two successive games with Chicago.

Again, as in 1943, all ten league games must be played within a period of about three weeks because the semester ends April 22. The team closes April 29, with four of the six conference games occurring within six days. Only four contests will be played at home, placing an added burden upon green players who normally would perform better on familiar territory.

A quick outline of possible team personnel, the nine being picked from a 22-man squad:

Eight pitchers are present and about five of them probably have varsity stuff. They include Herb Preul, Fenton; Jack Spencer, Daventport; Wilmer Hokanson, Des Moines; Bob Gipple, Mt. Union; and Dick Ives, Diagonal. Ives is the only left-hander.

Most of the catching work will be handled by Jim Hansen, 200-pound freshman all-state fullback and catcher from Omaha, Neb., with occasional relief from Dick Woodard, all-state football fullback from Ft. Dodge.

Bill Anderson, West Branch, is at first, with Tom Pray, Ft. Dodge, and LeRoy Hayes, Rockford, Ill., as other candidates. No. 1 second baseman now is Marvin Bendorf, High Amana, with Howard Cerny, Amana, and Dave Danner, Iowa City, the football and basketball star, as hopefuls. Tom Hughes, Omaha, Neb., is a stand-out shortstop and leader for third base job is Jim Dunfrund, Strawberry Point, followed by Dick Lewis, Iowa City, and Bob Bell, Council Bluffs.

Probable centerfielder is Bob Gildea, Daventport; and Lowell Ahrendsen, Oxford Junction; and Dick Woodard may land other jobs. Pray and Danner are possibilities, as are several other players depending upon final results of infield competition.

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Connie Mack revealed yesterday that Bobo Newsom, already named as the Philadelphia Athletics' pitching choice to open the season against the Washington Senators, hasn't wired, phoned or written since training camp opened.

"Peculiar fellow," said Mr. Mack, "said he was going to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to get ready. Then he phones me before we came down here to send him some bats and balls to that place in South Carolina."

weather which has confined training routine almost entirely to indoor workouts.

Stepping off an eastbound train in swirling snow, Frick told newsmen "In my opinion, we will see pretty good competition notwithstanding the numerous problems to be encountered in connection with the war," and added "I sincerely hope the coming summer will see us past the crisis."

Frisch disclosed another left-handed pitcher was on his way here. He is William Hebert, formerly of the University of Colorado and recently honorably discharged from the marines.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Russ Lyon, a 28-year-old semi-pro from Atlanta, may solve the Cleveland Indians' "weak spot" behind the plate, if regular catcher Buddy Rosar stays on his war job, thinks the Tribe intelligence department.

Both manager Lou Boudreau and coach Burt Shotton reported Lyons' favorable showing as a hitter, and said "We'll just have to see how fast he can correct his catching faults in actual competition. We'll certainly give him every opportunity."

Jim McDonnell, a Wilkes-Barre rookie, is the only other catcher now in camp, other than coach George Suse.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Good news came in bunches yesterday for Cincinnati's Reds, despite snow and rain that thwarted a scheduled game with the Indianapolis Indians.

Elmer Riddle, only 20-game winner of last year, showed up bearing word he'd be with the team from 21 to 90 days.

Riddle said he passed his pre-induction army physical examination and that the army had suggested he become a paratrooper. If not called for service in 21 days, Riddle might be with the team until June 24, he added.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo.—Pitcher Al Hollingsworth, on the sick list with tonsillitis, and outfielder Frank Demaree, out with an injured back muscle, resumed spring training activities with the St. Louis Browns yesterday.

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The first-guessers' league, which has a working agreement with the second-guessers' league, already has picked Carl Hubbell to fill the vacancy as manager of the New York Giants when, or if, Mel Ott goes into the service.

The "if" is inserted because of free-lance opinions that Ott, due to faulty vision or stove-in legs or something, might not be acceptable for the armed forces, although we have noticed that when these self-appointed examining boards predict a ball player will be rejected because he is joined up with piano wire here and there or has housemaid's knee or London-bridge arches he invariably is snapped up by the official examiners, while some apparently healthy specimen is turned down because of some affliction he never knew existed.

Anyway, if Hubbell were selected in event of Ott's departure, it would be a popular move and it couldn't happen to a nicer guy. And, not so incidentally, it probably would mean that the fans again would see the old king of screwballs—and no disrespect meant—laboring on the mound.

Hubbell retired as an active player to run the Giant farm system this year, but he still was active enough to win four games, and lose four, last year, and probably has some more pitching in him. Winning pitching, at that, as a lot of the hitters this year never met a screwball before, and still think it refers only to a fellow who swallows goldfish or wears his necktie backwards.

The idea is that, seated on the bench in uniform, Hubbell would be unable to stand the sight of his team getting its ears pinned back on occasions such as happen to any team, and would get out there personally to do something about it.

Should Hubbell take over Ott's job, it would mark the transition of the manager's job from a roar to a whisper in the last dozen years, speaking from the standpoint of the pilots' personalities, John McGraw was a robust, assertive figure. Bill Terry was quieter, but outspoken on occasion. Ott is quieter yet in his self-effacing way. Hubbell would be the next thing to silence.

Which doesn't mean necessarily any deterioration in leadership. We've always maintained a manager isn't rated by the noise he makes. If he was, Connie Mack and Joe McCarthy would be bums, and Durocher would be the all-time tops.

Andersson To Visit America

STOCKHOLM—Arne Andersson, who is training to shave his 4:02.6 world's mile record down to four minutes, hopes to visit the United States next winter for indoor meets and stay over for the 1945 outdoor season.

"I want to have a good outdoor campaign in Sweden this summer," says Arne, but he admits his eyes are on 1945 because he feels it will be his best year.

Andersson believes Gunder Haegg will be as speedy as ever next summer. The friendly rivals probably will race in Sweden on June 30. They may also see action in international competition with Danish and Hungarian runners.

Haegg has just returned from a trip to Vaalaaalen, a winter resort, where he always trains. However, the former fireman who turned haberdasher, didn't take any serious workouts. He "just skied a little for exercise."

While there, Gunder helped save a tourist who had lost his way in the mountains during a snowstorm.

Though Andersson is more developed in the chest and shoulders than Haegg, Arne says he hasn't a chance to beat Haegg in races over 2,000 meters because "I'm too heavy." Andersson is seven pounds heavier than Haegg and two inches shorter.

Archer Decisions Zivic In 10-Round Bout

Newark Lad Takes Six Rounds Despite 7-5 Underdog Odds

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—Fred-die Archer of Newark took a decision last night over Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh in their 10-round match at Elizabeth armory. Archer weight 146½, Zivic 149½.

Archer's upset victory was well earned through a relentless attack that featured left hooks to the head and body. The Newarker was scored for six rounds on referee Paul Cavalieri's card, while Zivic was awarded the fourth and seventh with the sixth and ninth scored even.

Some 4,000 fans saw the contest which drew a gross gate of $11,933, setting an all-time record for boxing shows in this city.

Despite a bruised left hand, the Pittsburgh battler stepped into the ring a 7 to 5 betting favorite.

Zivic, who was making his 200th start as a professional boxer, said after the battle that he was handicapped by the hand injury but he paid tribute to Archer as a good, strong boy, and "a tough guy to handle."

A. I. B. Womens Cage Team Scores 16-11 Win Over Boeing Five

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The top-seeded A. I. B. team of Des Moines found the Wichita, Kan., Boeing team a stubborn foe, but managed to take a 16-11 decision in the opening quarter-final game of the National Women's A. A. U. basketball tournament last night.

Although the Iowans never trailed after amassing a 7-0 lead, they couldn't build a safe advantage. Late in the contest the Boeings pulled to within three points of their favored opponents.

Marjorie Bolar of A. I. B. was high scorer with 7 points.

The Nashville, Tenn., Vultecs engineered an upset in eliminating the Little Rock, Ark., motor coaches, second-seeded team, 27-17 in their quarterfinal battle.

Women Wrestlers Take Mat Spotlight

DALLAS (AP)—The ladies of the mat are full-fledged athletes now and it is no longer any novelty to see a couple of gals mix it up in the ring, because women wrestlers are getting numerous enough so that most any city can have them for its weekly show.

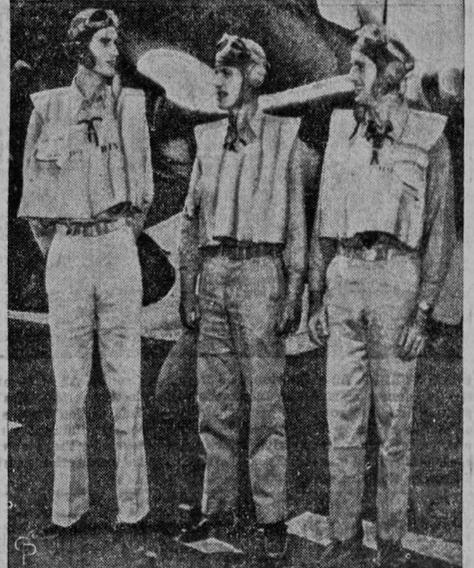

While the novelty was wearing off the feminine tuggers were developing science, color and toughness and today they can stand forth as wrestlers and not just pulchritude putting on a different kind of revue.

Karl Sarpolis, who knows all the ups and downs of wrestling, says the women have certain advantages over the hulking giants who depend upon strength and durability to keep them from an untimely end.

"Women," says Sarpolis, former wrestler and match-maker for Dallas mat interests, "are naturally more relaxed than men. They can take more spills."

Utah to Face St. John's Five

Playoffs in N. C. A. A. Tournament to Be Run for Red Cross

NEW YORK (AP)—Utah or St. John's will get the glory, but the Red Cross gets the gold.

That's the setup for Thursday night as Utah's stout-hearted, high-leaping Utes tangle with the Brooklyn boys in Madison Square Garden for the mythical national basketball championship before a crowd slated to exceed 18,000.

The Red Cross is expected to receive better than $30,000 from the fracas, just as it did a year ago when Wyoming nosed out St. John's in an overtime for the No. 1 spot.

Utah's scrappy squad, tagged as the "Cinderella" team, won the national collegiate crown Tuesday night by ending Dartmouth's 17-game winning streak with a 42-40 overtime victory. Utah got into the N. C. A. A. affair after being eliminated by Kentucky in the first round of the national invitational. The Utes replaced Arkansas in the western eliminations to become the first to participate in both big events the same year.

St. John's won the invitational for the second straight year through three upset victories, with Bowling Green, Kentucky and DePaul the victims. Thursday's classic pits the victors in the two country-wide tournaments against each other, with a clear-cut but unofficial championship at stake.

After watching Utah's sterling performance against Dartmouth, Coach Joe Lapchick of St. John's said:

"If we can hold Utah to 37 points, I think we can lick 'em. But it's going to take considerable holding. That Ferrin (forward Arnold Ferrin who scored 22 points) is a lot of basketball player. You can't make mistakes with him."

Three other newcomers figure in his plans, but two of them are classified 1-A—third baseman Grey Clarke from Milwaukee, the American association batting champion with a .361 mark, and Ed Lopat, a southpaw pitcher who won 19 games and lost 10 with

Little Rock, Ark., of the Southern association.

The third newcomer is outfielder John Dickshot, a 192-pound 4-F who hit .356 for Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league last year and drove in 95 runs.

From The Sidelines . . .

by Yoke

So I come out with the big column about baseball and spring and everything and what happens. Just look outside and then you will know how Waddy Davis must feel these days.

But Eric Wilson and the University of Iowa News service came out with the regular informative bulletin today that should throw some light on what is going to happen in baseball this year.

The squad should shape up about like this: with Jim Hansen at the backstop position and either Herb Preul or Jack Spencer getting the nod for the mound assignment; Bill Anderson will go in at first and will hold down an infield composed of Marvin Bendorf, second, Tom Hughes, shortstop, and Jim Dunfrund, at third.

Bob Gildea will go in at center-field, and Lowell Ahrendsen and Dick Woodard will have the right and left garden positions.

Hitting skill will be probably the most important idea to Waddy and he has lined up in his outer orchard Lowell Ahrendsen, definitely a power man with the bat and, although this is his first season with the Hawks, he has had a good deal of experience in the diamond game. Dick Woodard, also in the outfield should add punch in the pinches.

In the infield the little coach has named Anderson who, despite his 5-8 stature seems quite able to handle the throws from the other sacks. Bill has been in high school and Iowa athletics for quite a while now, winning a letter in basketball this season and all-state mention in that sport during his high school days. He was class valedictorian and . . . national champion on the baritone euphonium . . . shades of the gas house gang in St. Louis.

Hitting honors should go also to Jim Dunfrund at third, who is 4-F and a junior at the University. He is quite capable around the hot corner.

Marvin Bendorf, at the keystone sack says his greatest sports thrill was getting three hits and stealing four bases as his prep team won the district tourney. If this is any indication of his ability then we should see some of the old double steal for home that used to feature Hawkeye baseball in other years.

Biggest gun of the team so far is Jim Hansen, catcher, who not only ranked as an all-state selection for North high of Omaha, but is interested in playing professional ball after college. Jim is also 4-F because of a trick knee.

As we said Herb Pruel stands out for the mound staff but Waddy will also have the services of some seven other pitchers.

Familiar names to Iowa fans will be Jack Spencer, pillar of the Davenport high diamond squad, right hander, good control, and definitely one of the smartest athletes around these parts in a long time . . . and Dick Ives, the only lefty of the bunch. Ives pitched for the Diagonal high school team, has good control and should shape up well . . .

That just about takes care of the team. The schedule gets underway a week from Friday with the University of Chicago Maroons and we certainly will be able to tell more after we see them on the diamond. Here's hoping that we have something that will string along with the cage team to make this the biggest year for Hawkeye sports that we ever had.

Little Rock, Ark., of the Southern association.

The third newcomer is outfielder John Dickshot, a 192-pound 4-F who hit .356 for Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league last year and drove in 95 runs.

Need Future Officers In Merchant Marine

Future officers for the rapidly expanding merchant marine are urgently needed now. Iowa enlistments are below their quota and appointments in the merchant marine corps are open in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska, it was announced today.

Youths interested in an officer's career in the merchant marine must apply by letter to the supervisor, United States merchant marine cadet corps, Washington 25, D. C. Information, illustrated booklets and application forms will then be sent.

Applicants for appointments as cadet-midshipmen must be between 17½ and 23 years old, or up to 27 with college training. Physical requirements are high.

The training period, which lasts 18 months, includes six months of sea duty on convoy lanes and 9 months of training at the merchant marine academy at Kings Point, Long Island, N. Y.

Graduates of the academy receive commission as ensign in the naval reserve and maritime service. Engine cadet midshipmen receive licenses as third engineers, and deck cadets are licensed as third mates in the United States merchant marine.

'Ion Exchange Resins' Will Be Discussed By J. D. Urquhart

The Iowa section of the American Chemical Society will present J. D. Urquhart, technical representative of Resinous Products and Chemical Company, in room 300, chemistry building at 7:30 tomorrow night. His subject will be "Ion Exchange Resins."

Urquhart, a graduate of the University of Rochester, was engaged for several years in the laboratory development of ion exchange resins. He will review the field, indicate the general structure of the materials and discuss properties and applications of ion exchange resins.

Taylor Henry— No German Collapse

By LOUISE SCHROEDER Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"Invasion is the only way we can knock out Germany; and the sooner we get behind production and fight, the sooner the war will end," Taylor Henry, former chief of The Associated Press bureau in Vichy, said in a lecture last night in Macbride auditorium.

"Germany is a trapped gangster who won't admit he's licked, but we must slug him and knock him out before he destroys our civilization," Henry declared.

Henry as the will to fight, is still good. There is no possibility for collapse within the country as in 1918 unless a miracle occurs. The German people are war-weary and jittery, but they are not willing to quit for several reasons.

First of all, the people still feel respect for Hitler. They do not know of the extreme casualties the German army has suffered and the losses of materiel on the Russian front have not been exceedingly great in comparison.

Germany still dominates Europe in the minds of the people and the effect of heavy bombing has been to strengthen the morale. They can take a lot and the Germans know that production has not been hit hard by the bombs.

The most effective thing the allies have done is to cripple German transportation. The railroads, freight yards and harbors have been hit hard and the people do not have the fuel oil to utilize the motors which are still in good condition.

After 13 months as a prisoner in enemy territory, Henry reports that American prisoners were being treated well by the Germans. They are being as good to prisoners as they are to the 12 million slave laborers.

"Hitler will treat the slave laborers well as long as they keep up the standard of production," Henry declared. "The greatest problem is the fear of uprising of the workers after the German army collapses. At the present time, sabotage is not a serious threat."

In planning the continental invasion we must remember that the Germans will not be tricked. Their fortifications are well established, but they know that the Atlantic wall can be cracked, according to Henry. The military strategists have promised the people they need not worry, for the greatest fighting will come after the allied troops have broken through the enemy lines and have tried to establish their beachhead. It is then that the Germans hope for victory.

In France, the underground is ready to act in behalf of the allies. They have already disrupted lines of communication and made it difficult for the German army to maintain its unity.

The French need arms and ammunition and are turning to America for them. They have the men but are looking for us to be

Navy Pre-Flight Band To Play 'Rumba-Land'

"Rumba-Land," a medley by Robert Cray composed of "Para Vigo Me Voy," "African Lament," "Peanut Vendor," "Marie La-O," and "Mama Inez," will be featured on the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight band's weekly WSUI radio concert tonight at 8 o'clock under the direction of Chief Musician J. J. Courtney.

Other numbers to be heard include "Gate City" (Weldon); "Mardi Gras" from "Mississippi Suite" (Grove); "Le Caprice de Nanette" from "Petite Suite de Concert" (Taylor); "The Prima Dona" (Gould); "Two American Sketches" (Griselle) and "Honey Boys on Parade" (Cupero).

Norman Foerster To Write Monograph

Prof. Norman Foerster, director of the school of letters, has accepted an invitation to write a monograph entitled "The Humanities in Post-War State Universities," in connection with next year's sesquicentennial of the founding of the University of North Carolina.

Professor Foerster was on the faculty at North Carolina before coming to the University of Iowa.

Historical Society Elects New Members

Five persons were elected to membership in the Iowa State Historical society at the monthly meeting of the board of curators held yesterday.

New members are Dr. L. E. Bigger of Mt. Vernon, Esther Ruth Bowen of Ames; Mrs. James I. Hoag of Bloomfield; Mrs. Hal W. Schiltz of Woodward and Mrs. Robert M. Schwyhart of Iowa City.

nation wants to go on mushrooming Arlington into a vast national marble forest for men who have died in service, or whether we will take time out now to establish other national cemeteries where proper space and care can be given to the graves of honored dead.

There are 53,000 graves in Arlington now. The land the war department wishes to purchase would bring the total to 71,000. But according to Representative Smith, there will be 26,000,000 eligible for burial under existing regulations. That doesn't mean, of course, there are likely to be one-fourth that number of requests, but if there were only one hundredth, Arlington again would be forced to seek hundreds of new acres.

As in the last war, thousands of our boys will be buried overseas; thousands already have been. Many families will want their loved ones buried in home cemeteries, but Arlington can't go on forever as our only national cemetery for service men.

Several suggestions have been made. One is that another cemetery be established on the Manassas, Va., battlefield, where the government already owns several thousand acres. The government owns a dozen other memorials, where area and beauty of the landscape would provide ideal burial sites for national heroes.

Another suggestion is that a number of populous states join hands with the federal government in establishing national shrines within their own borders, making graves more accessible to resident families.

It occurs to me that Gen. Douglas MacArthur would not have survived as long as he has as a potential presidential candidate if it had not been for the imagination and perseverance of one man, Senator Arthur Vandenberg.

The able and resourceful senator from Michigan first thought up MacArthur as a man for the White House. Then kept plugging away at selling him to the country. The MacArthur boom is a tribute to Senator Vandenberg's skill and tenacity.

Yes, General MacArthur is a first rate fellow. But he's a long way off and has been a long way off for a long, long time.

Patrick J. Hurley, just back on the crest of the diplomatic wave from a special mission to the middle east, had a little family talk while he was in Arabia with King Ibn Saud.

"How many children have you?" asked the ruler of the country of the desert shieks. "I have four," replied the handsome Pat proudly. "Three daughters and —"

"Ah, three daughters!" exclaimed the king, sympathetically. "Three daughters! That is very sad. I have 14 sons!"

"Excellent! And how tall is the tallest one?"

"He is six feet and two inches," replied the king.

"Indeed," said the former United States secretary of war. "I have a son, one son, myself. He is the tallest student at West Point. He stands six feet four and one-half inches. I believe quality is more important than quantity, your majesty!"

Screenplay of "The Robe" is being written in unorthodox fashion. Producer Frank Ross and Austrian novelist Gina Kaus has story conferences, Miss Kaus goes home and writes out a scene—in German—then it is translated back to English for Ross' approval . . .

'I' CLUB GIVES $533 TO KINNICK FUND

ERIC WILSON, university news service head, presents Junior Chamber of Commerce representatives with a $533 check on behalf of the "I" club, honorary university athletic association, for the Nile Kinnick scholarship fund. The Kinnick fund, sponsored by state-wide chapters of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and inaugurated by the Iowa City chapter, will provide a $250 scholarship to one boy each year to the University of Iowa. The boy to be chosen must show qualities as similar as possible to those of Nile Kinnick, navy ensign and Iowa All-American killed in action in the south Pacific June, 1943. The Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to achieve a goal of $50,000, the interest of which will pay the $250 scholarship. Left to right are Ray Bywater; Ed Breeze, chairman of the Kinnick scholarship fund committee; Lloyd Harrington; Jack White; Dean Jones, and Wilson.

Naturalist-Color Photographer Lectures

Fred Kent Lent First Camera to Alfred Bailey, Taught Him to Use It

"The Four Corners, meeting place of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah, will be on the 'must list' for travelers after the war," declared Alfred Bailey, director of the Colorado museum of natural history at Denver, who presented an illustrated lecture in the chemistry auditorium last night.

Depicting the arid but beautiful country of the Four Corners, the film sequence included views of the Arches national monument, the Goose Necks of the San Juan, Mesa Verde national park, the famous Ship Rock, de Chelly national monument and the picturesque Monument valley with its Navajo Indians.

A graduate of Iowa City high school and the University of Iowa, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in museum work, Alfred Bailey, noted naturalist and photographer, is best known for his color photographic work and his articles on natural history covering museum expeditions on four continents.

While on the field museum expedition to Abyssinia and the Egyptian Sudan, Bailey was entertained on several occasions by Haile Selassie, former emperor of Ethiopia. Bailey and his party traveled 2,000 miles on muleback through the Abyssinian plateau; the journey could be made now in three hours by plane.

Bailey was also a member of a biological survey bureau expedition to the Hawaiian islands in 1919 and for two years was Alaskan representative for that bureau. A leader of the Colorado museum to Arctic Alaska and Siberia, he went by dog team over a winter trail, a distance of about 750 miles, to study the birds of Iowa City; Marjorie Staltz, Elaine Fletcher and Patricia Joy, all of Ottumwa, and Bonny Wick of LeMars.

The extension division of the university awards certificates to the high schools winning first and second places in the final contests.

Four-year scholarships in the colleges of liberal arts, engineering and commerce are awarded by the university to six of the members of the high school debating teams appearing in the final championship debates and to the winners of first place in high school extempore speaking and first place in high school original oratory.

Operators Must Apply For 'I' Gas Coupons In Person by April 15

Commercial truck operators are to call for their second quarter "I" coupons by April 15 at the Johnson county war price and ration board, according to R. J. Phelps, chairman of the board.

Operators should bring their certificate of war necessity with them and appear at the board in person, Phelps stated.

Failure to call for second quarter ration at this time warrants notification of such action to the office of defense transportation.

Christmas Seal Sale Chairman Will Be Harold Vestermark

Harold W. Vestermark was named chairman of the 1944 Christmas Seal sale in Johnson county and county representative to the Iowa Tuberculosis association meeting in Des Moines Thursday and Friday at a recent meeting of the Johnson County Tuberculosis association.

Dr. George C. Albright was re-elected president of the county organization. Other officers are Mrs. Frank T. Mahan, vice-president; Mrs. Sadie Seagrave, secretary, and William J. Parizek, treasurer.

Members of the program and budget committee, appointed by Dr. Albright, are Dr. Chester I. Miller, chairman, F. J. Snider, Margaret Cannon, Laura Chennell, Mildred Johnson and Mrs. H. M. Schuppert.

Education and publicity committee members are F. J. Snider, chairman; Fred L. Jones, R. W. Anderson, Dalma Chesmore, Margaret Cannon and Mildred Johnson.

H. M. Schuppert, presenting the 1943 Christmas Seal sale committee's report, said the total receipts were $7,302.84. Parizek reported a $4,800.48 balance on hand.

The Johnson County Tuberculosis association's contribution to the state tuberculosis rehabilitation program was $50, and 10 percent of the county's gross seal income was given to the Oakdale sanatorium for educational therapy, library books and radio equipment for patients.

It was decided that the Johnson county board of supervisors, the state department of health and the county Tuberculosis association would arrange for a second Johnson county nurse and that the county organization would provide transportation for her.

"Throw It Away"

Many persons have asked the office of price administration what they should do with the cover of ration book 1 after the expiration of shoe stamp 18 April 30.

OPA replies: "Throw it away."

Announces Engagement

MR. AND MRS. CARL F. MCLACHLAN, 920 S. Van Buren street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Evelyn, to Ens. Robert L. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wilson of Lombard, Ill. Miss McLachlan was graduated from the University of Iowa, where she was a member of Tau Gamma sorority; Eta Sigma Phi, honorary Latin fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society. She is now employed at Continental-Illinois Trust & Savings bank in Chicago. Ensign Wilson attended Navy Pre-Flight school in Iowa City and recently received his commission at Pensacola, Fla. He will be stationed at Pensacola as flight instructor.

'Spring Debut' Dance In Union Will Feature Hawkeye Beauties

The "Spring Debut" of the Hawkeye Beauty court will be held April 8 in the main lounge of Iowa Union from 8 until 11 p. m. Paul Arthur's Count 11 band will play for the semi-formal dance, the last all-university party of the year.

The motif of the backdrop and dance programs will feature a gold oval picture frame with a gray background and a figure suggesting the spring season.

Tickets for the dance will go on sale April 3 at the main desk of Iowa Union. They will be priced at $1.20 a couple.

Planning the party are Jane Randolph, A2 of Marion, Ind., chairman; Winifred Johnson, A2 of Chicago; Louise Hilfman, A2 of Bettendorf, and Howard Cerny, A2 of Amana. All are members of the university's central party committee.

Hick Hawks to Hold Square Dance in Gym

The Hick Hawks will close their meetings for the year by presenting a square dance with orchestra, at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the Women's gymnasium.

One set of dancers will give a demonstration in costume. The public, all students and service men are invited to attend.

Palm Sunday Vespers To Be Held

The second Iowa City presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ" (Dubois) will be given at the Palm Sunday vesper program at 4 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Prof. Herold Stark will direct a 115-voice chorus and the University Symphony orchestra in the Lenten music.

Members of the combined Iowa City church choirs and the University chorus will present the first public performance of "Missa Brevis" (Kemble Stout), a short mass written in the modern idiom. Soloists in the Lenten cantata will be Gladys Noteboom, A4 of Orange City, soprano; Thomas Muir, instructor in the music department, tenor; and Edward Maule, D2 of Keota, baritone. The "Seven Last Words of Christ" was sung last year by a similar group, and it is being repeated this year by popular request, according to Professor Stark.

"Missa Brevis" was composed by Kemble Stout, a former student in the music department who is teaching at University high school.

OPA to Regulate Photographic Sales

New office of price administration regulations covering all sales of used photographic equipment to consumers, whether by dealers or by individuals, will go into effect April 5.

Although the prices of cameras and accessories have been covered by the OPA general maximum price regulations, which prohibit higher prices than those of March, 1942, some sellers have obtained prices of black market proportions, according to OPA.

It is estimated that the 1944 soy bean crop in the United States will be about 242,500,000 bushels.

"Ahead of Schedule"

An AAF Report on the Aviation Cadet Program

Thanks to the young men of America, the AAF is seizing air supremacy in every theatre, faster than we ever planned or even dared to hope.

Thanks to youth's eagerness to serve, the AAF has grown in a remarkably short time from a mere handful of men into the largest, most powerful air force in the world.

Thanks to the fitness and alertness of these young men, they have learned their job so quickly that we have been able to throw our great airplane production into effective combat quicker than we believed possible. Due to their daring and skill we are destroying the enemy with less loss to our own forces than we anticipated.

All air crew men must have the irresistible desire to fly. Every such flying man in the AAF is there on his own initiative . . . in response to our invitation to fly and fight with "The Greatest Team in the World." Hundreds of thousands have thronged to our Aviation Cadet Examining Boards in response to this appeal. Thousands are continuing to volunteer . . . for active duty . . . and for the 17-year-old Air Corps Enlisted Reserve.

Our gratitude to the young men of America, and to their parents, friends and associates . . . is without bounds. We should like to welcome on our team any qualified young man who wishes to join. But there are other considerations . . . a balanced attack must be maintained.

Since last July the Selective Service process had not yielded enough men for all phases of the military program. Other branches of the army urgently need men for currently pending operations.

The AAF is ahead of schedule. It has sufficient men in training and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve to meet its present schedule for combat crews. It must therefore balance this activity with immediate over-all needs.

As General Marshall has announced, the AAF has returned to their former commands some 36,000 men who had recently volunteered for air crew training from the ground and service forces. Moreover, until further notice, the AAF will not take any men into active duty from civilian life for air crew training. Also, further enrollment in the 17-year-old Air Corps Enlisted Reserve has been temporarily suspended.

The future of America depends upon the fitness of our young men. All of the armed services need young men who are physically fit, mentally alert and well educated for the exacting demands of modern war.

The AAF urges every man approaching military age to prepare himself physically and mentally for his possible contribution to the defeat of our enemies and for his responsibilities in the post-war world.

We suggest, among other things, the physical training and other preparatory courses of the High School Victory Corps which are recommended for the various armed services, and the physical and pre-aviation training given to CAP Cadets by the nation-wide organization of the Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary of the Army Air Forces.

The AAF current training program will, of course, continue. All men now enrolled in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve will start their training after they become 18 as originally planned. And we will soon again take young men of 17 into the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve.

Meanwhile, in recognition of the overwhelming public support given the AAF, we shall continue to report developments—so that when we invite further active enrollment on our flying team, the nation will be familiar with our activities and the vital nature of our needs.
