Allied Planes' Error Kills Own Troops

Eaker Says Cassino Bombing Achieved Aim

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples (AP)—Allied bombers accidentally killed allied troops and failed to blast the Nazis out of Cassino in their great assault March 15, Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker conceded yesterday, but the Texas-born commander of allied Mediterranean air forces sharply insisted the operation "accomplished all that was expected of it by the air force commanders."

An unstated number of allied troops were killed at Venafro, 12 miles east of Cassino, when allied bombardiers mistook that town for the target, Eaker said, and other bombs fell wide of their mark near Cassino when they accidentally became dislodged from their racks. He did not say whether the latter caused any deaths among allied troops.

Indicating his belief that the outcome at Cassino should not be construed as a black eye for aerial bombardment, Eaker said it was not to be expected that such an attack could wipe out all resistance.

"Over a long and more sustained period a greater degree of devastation could have been caused in Cassino," he said, "but it probably would have had little bearing on the final result. The enemy forces in their cellars, deep dug-outs and underground passages would not have been affected."

The Cassino result, he asserted, only confirmed earlier lessons that heavy four-engine bombers would be better employed in attacking long-range strategic targets, such as the present campaign against the Balkans, than in close tactical support of ground forces, except in certain emergencies "such as at Salerno."

The air force commander, who discussed various aspects of the Cassino operation freely at a press conference, emphasized that his remarks should not be construed as a criticism of the ground forces or their commanders.

He pointed out, however, that there are some types of operations for which the air forces are not designed and to which they cannot be adapted.

"Under those conditions I want them to do whatever they can in support of the general battle, or to save the situation even though they may not be highly efficient in carrying out the task," Eaker said.

Eight Killed In Explosion

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—Forty minutes before the night shift was to have been replaced by a skeleton crew, an explosion early yesterday claimed eight lives at the Hastings naval ordnance depot—the second fatal explosion at the 48,000-acre plant within two and one-half months.

An estimated 100,000 pounds of high explosive depth charges and mines blew up in the mine-loading unit. The blast, besides knocking out heavy plate glass windows in Hastings 10 miles away, was felt 125 miles from the depot.

Capt. D. F. Patterson, commander of the depot, said all casualties were Nebraskans. Thirty-five workers were treated for minor injuries.

Jungle Troops Trap Japs on Imphal Road

Continue to Exert Pressure All Along Assam Front

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Allied jungle troops have ambushed Japanese units on roads north and south of Imphal inflicting losses on enemy forces which are continuing to exert pressure all along the Assam front north of that Indian base, an allied communique said yesterday.

The war bulletin from Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters did not give any specific information on the Japanese spearheads aimed at Dimapur. The Japanese were reported earlier to have thrust to within 80 miles of Dimapur, on the Bengal-Assam railway, an American army-operated lifeline into upper Burma.

Fail to Halt Supplies The Japanese threat has failed to halt the flow of supplies along the railway to allied troops. Should the Japanese block the railroad there still would be a highway and the rail route along the Brahmaputra river which already are moving much material.

That the fighting around Imphal was at close quarters was evidenced by the communique announcement that allied troops captured a Japanese general's sword and medals south of Imphal on the Tiddim road.

Chinese forces in northern Burma are continuing to drive the enemy southward in the upper Mogaung valley and are advancing on the village of Wakawng, the communique said.

Fall to Chinese Mihlogir Tawng and Maranga Tawng, tiny settlements a mile and a half east of the valley road, fell to the Chinese who also crossed a river southeast of Laban and eliminated a Japanese strong point at the confluence of two rivers about 45 miles north of Mogaung on the Myitkyina railway.

To the east, Burmese troops advancing on Myitkyina along the Sumprabun road reached the Tiang river. (This apparently is about 45 miles north of Myitkyina, chief Japanese base north of the Burma road.)

The communique said 24 Japanese planes were destroyed in an air attack against the Aungmye airfield in central Burma Tuesday. Heavy bombers hit Japanese headquarters and a transit camp at Nagorn Savarn in a Tuesday night attack which set blazes visible for 20 miles and blasted railway yards and jetties at Moulmein.

Japs Make Booby Traps of U. S. Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese are making booby traps of dead American soldiers by wiring explosives to the bodies of fallen doughboys, an army officer disclosed yesterday upon his return from the fighting in New Guinea.

Col. J. Sladen Bradley, Mt. Pleasant, N. C., a member of the general staff corps, reported that at Sador soldiers mopping up enemy positions found American dead with their rifles strapped to them and explosives attached to the bodies. (Apparently the rifles were to deceive advancing American troops into believing that the dead soldier had fallen in action and had not been touched by the enemy.)

Numerous wires and threads strung close to the ground where they would be tripped by a foot and attached to explosives also were encountered by troops in the Sador area, Bradley said.

Registrar Announces—

1944 Summer Session Schedule

Registration for the summer semester will take place between April 10 and 21, according to an announcement yesterday by Registrar Harry G. Barnes. Juniors, and seniors in liberal arts, commerce and education, and students in the graduate college will register in Iowa Union April 15 from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Freshmen, sophomores and unclassified students in liberal arts may obtain registration materials in the office of the registrar beginning April 10. Instructions for conferences with advisers are included.

Beginning April 24, the summer program, with some variations, will include a semester of 15 weeks made up of term one of seven weeks and term two of eight weeks. Students may register for the entire summer semester, for the seven-week term only, or for the eight-week term only. The eight-week term will be followed by the independent study unit, open to graduate students only, which will begin August 7 and end August 25.

Allied Air Power Takes Over in Italy

Hundreds of Bombers Strike Southeastern European Targets

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples (AP)—Out of the bitter stalemate on the blood-soaked Italian front allied air power is emerging with virtually complete responsibility for the "spring offensive" against the Nazis in southeastern Europe.

In sharp contrast to the way allied armies have been checkmated south of Rome after a succession of costly attacks, hundreds of American heavy bombers have ranged from southern Italy in the past seven days to strike four of the most vital and most heavily defended targets east of Germany's own border—Sofia, Budapest, Bucharest and Ploesti.

While artillery duels and patrol clashes continued yesterday to drain both the allies and the Germans of manpower along the trans-Appennine line without a glimmer of a decision in sight, the U. S. "air trucks" in a week dumped nearly 2,000 tons of explosives on enemy targets as far as 500 miles from the Italian battle fields and within 200 miles of Soviet armies advancing from the east.

In Wednesday's assault on the great oil refinery center of Ploesti, 30 miles north of the Rumanian capital of Bucharest, Flying Fortresses and Liberators and their fighter escort shot down more than 40 Nazi fighters. They destroyed 49 in the previous day's raid on Bucharest. American pilots commented on the reduced quality of German fighter pilots in the Balkans.

Ploesti's railway yards, choked with oil tank cars and other military supplies moving toward the Russian front, were showered with bombs, and adjacent oil refineries also were hit.

Air Marshal Sir John C. Slessor, deputy commander of the allied Mediterranean air forces, said the Ploesti fields and refineries were vital to the Germans "on anything like a long-term basis," and declared that the Nazis "could not possibly carry on without them."

U. S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Hull will make a full-dress speech on American foreign policy Sunday night, coupling a new reply to his critics with a discussion of current international political questions.

Designed to show how U. S. foreign policy operates, the speech will stand as Hull's answer to those who say that American diplomatic maneuvers, particularly in Europe, often are governed more by expediency than principle.

British Banker Resigns

LONDON (AP)—Black-hatted, bearded Montagu C. Norman resigned the governorship of the powerful bank of England yesterday on the advice of physicians, and directors went outside the immediate ranks to choose as his successor Baron Catto of Cairncatto, a Scotsman long prominent in the business life of the British empire, the United States and Russia.

The new governor is only seven years younger than 72-year-old Norman, who was serving his 24th term.

Army Reaches Full Strength; Fact Won't Change Draft Tempo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army has reached its full strength of 7,700,000 but that fact will not change the present rapid tempo of the draft, the office of war information announced last night.

Draft calls must continue levels sufficient to expand the navy, which will reach its peak strength of 3,600,000, including marine corps and coast guard, by Sept. 1.

Red Troops Close In for Kill; Advance 13-15 Miles in Mud Toward Odessa, Black Sea Port

83 Pledge Dewey Support

Shows Tangible Gain; Foresee Dewey, Warren Ticket

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey showed the first tangible gain yesterday from the withdrawal of Wendell L. Willkie from the GOP presidential nomination contest as talk in political circles increased of a Republican ticket composed of the New Yorker and Gov. Earl Warren of California.

The 42-year-old former racketeer prosecutor picked up a New York delegate who had been counted in Willkie's claimed column, thus raising his claimed support to 83 out of New York's 85 unpledged district delegates and his total to a minimum of 133 out of the 276 GOP delegates so far chosen. A total of 530 is necessary for a nomination.

The New Yorker who went over to Dewey's side was Roland B. Marvin, Onondaga (Syracuse) Republican county chairman, who said that in view of the vote in Wisconsin, giving Dewey a possible 48 out of the 24 delegates and Willkie none, he would "unreservedly" support Dewey. Two other New York delegates remained uncommitted.

Meanwhile those who predict a Dewey-Warren ticket were arguing this way: In view of the fact that the Republicans have demonstrated much strength in the midwest and the south is traditionally Democratic, the crucial election battlegrounds this year will be the east and the west. Warren comes from the west's most populous state, just as Dewey represents the biggest in the east.

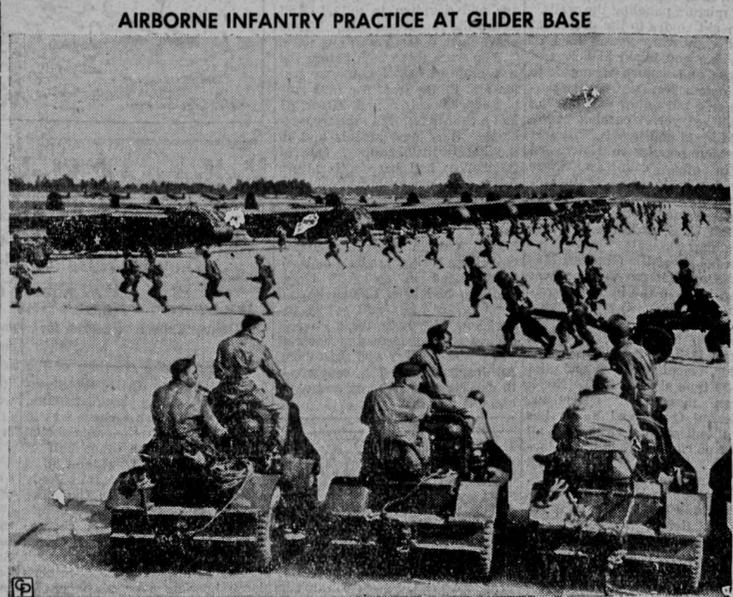

Moreover, it is argued, the addition of Warren to the ticket might be calculated to attract many voters who supported Willkie because of his international views. Warren had advocated an international police force to prevent future aggression.

He said in an interview at the 1943 governors' conference: "We have got to have a police force to maintain peace and the United States must be a part of it for our own security and the safety of the world."

250 Planes Strafe Town Of Hollandia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Friday (AP)—More than 250 allied planes, striking continuously for 50 minutes Wednesday, tore up the town and harbor of Hollandia with 320 tons of explosives and 250,000 rounds of ammunition—and that New Guinea air base of the Japanese was helpless to resist.

A 400-ton assault on the previous Sunday had cratered into uselessness the staging base's three airfields and wiped out the last of a fleet of 288 planes, leaving Hollandia ripe for the kill which Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

There was moderate anti-aircraft at first but it dwindled quickly.

Burning fuel and supply dumps sent up huge flames and towering clouds of smoke. A ship in the harbor was set afire. Returning fliers also told of the destruction of supply luggers and barges along the coastline.

On the day of the raid more than 100 Thunderbolts and Lightnings strafed islands and small shipping southeast to Aitape and Wewak.

U. S. Planes Bomb Pas-de-Calais Area

RAIDERS SUFFER NO LOSSES; NAZIS REPORT YUGOSLAV OPERATION

LONDON (AP)—American Liberator bombers, heavily packed with high-explosives for the short haul across the Strait of Dover, hurled 600 tons of bombs on the Pas-de-Calais area of France yesterday while the Germans broadcast reports that another American formation was over northern Yugoslavia.

It was the second successive day that Eighth air force heavy bombers have smashed at the German fortifications around the Pas-de-Calais, running the bomb total up to 1,200 tons, and was the third big operation in April for Britain-based American heavies.

Just as Wednesday, it was carried out without loss of a single bomber or escorting fighter. Crews reported they saw no German planes and were hardly ruffled by the meager amount of anti-aircraft fire. The Yugoslav operation, which the Germans reported took the bombers over the Marburg-Zagreb area almost to the Austrian border, probably originated from Italian bases of the Fifteenth air force.

The Germans also broadcast that single allied planes were over north Germany.

WAVES Enlistments Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Capt. Mildred H. McAfee, director of the women's naval reserve, said yesterday the rate of enlistments into the WAVES has been kept at a 1,000-a-week level for the past three months, possibly insuring the potential WAVE strength of 100,000 within a year.

Fuel Administrator Forecasts Tightened Restrictions on Use of Coal Next Winter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Restrictions on use of coal probably will have to be tightened still further next winter, Secretary Ickes forecast yesterday, because drafting of younger miners will increase the gap between production and needs.

The interior secretary and war fuel administrator gave no hint of what restriction he has in mind in telling a press conference of this prospect. Officials have held out against coal rationing because it would present many difficulties since types of coal vary greatly in heat content.

Mine Strike Of 60,000 Breaking Up

LONDON (AP)—The Yorkshire mine strike of 60,000 workers appeared to be cracking last night under intense pressure of public opinion, determined government warnings and union appeals.

Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George said the situation was improved, with 60 percent of the Yorkshire pits working throughout the day. A slow but steady return of workers renewed hope a show-down might be averted.

The executive committee of the Yorkshire Mineworkers' association felt the strikers all would be back at work by the Easter holidays' end next Tuesday.

Lloyd George informed commons the latest of the coal field walkouts cut war production and cost the country an average of 385,000 tons of fuel the past four weeks. He declared emphatically "Strike action in time of war cannot be justified," and said work stoppages made heavy inroads in dwindling reserves and has stopped coal exports to neutral countries.

The British cabinet had assigned Labor Minister Ernest Bevin to deal with outlaw strike inciters under the wartime defense of the realm act before he and Lloyd George entered into conferences with the national executive committee of the Mineworkers' federation.

Skelton to Wed Again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard "Red" Skelton, radio and film funnyman, and Muriel Chase, honey-haired film actress and daughter of the late Charles E. Bredenhorn, Evansville, Ind., casket manufacturer, applied for a marriage license late yesterday.

The comedian told reporters they will be wed "in a couple of days," but that their plans are indefinite.

Each listed "30" under the application's age heading. It will be the second marriage for each. The actor's first wife, Edna Marie Skelton, obtained her final decree of divorce last Feb. 18. Wife No. 1, a former Kansas City theater usherette, continues to be Skelton's gag writer, however.

Advance 15 Miles in Day

Capture Karpovo, Railway Station 23 Miles North of Port

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The first Ukrainian Red army-tightened strangling nooses around two large German forces encircled at Tarnopol and near Skala yesterday and closed in for the kill while Russians of the third Ukrainian army splashed 13 to 15 miles through the mud toward Odessa in an operation designed to spring still another trap around that Black sea port.

The Russians announced they were closing on Odessa from the northeast, north and northwest, with the most notable gain the capture of Karpovo, railway station 23 miles northwest of the port. The victory was credited to a shrewd flanking blow at Nazis, who were counter-attacking in a vain effort to retake Razdelnaya vital rail junction 38 miles northwest of Odessa.

Razdelnaya fell only Wednesday. The Russians advanced 15 miles in yesterday's combat along the line that once was the Germans' main hope of escape but now is a Soviet pathway towards Odessa.

On the north the Russians thrust 13 miles down the rain-swollen Kuyalnik river to the head of the salty Kuyalnik lagoon that was a peacetime center for health-baths. Captured towns among more than 100 that fell on the Odessa front included Maryanovka, 21 miles north of Odessa, and Sverdlovo, 14 miles northeast.

In the twin cauldrons of Tarnopol and Skala on the north-west Ukraine front, the Russians told of events reminiscent of Korsun and Stalingrad: Germans madly dying in vain attempts to break out, and relief forces struggling to break in while senior Nazi officers fled by air from the constantly-constricting areas.

The Soviet midnight communique announced capture of Skala itself, 55 miles southeast of Tarnopol and 40 miles northeast of Czernowitz, and a series of other strong points within the defenses of the remnants of 15 Nazi divisions west and southwest of Skala. The action was described officially as a battle for annihilation of the trapped Germans.

At Tarnopol itself the Russians announced they beat off attacks by large German infantry and tank forces that tried vainly to break in from the outside to release their encircled comrades. The only result was a tightening of the loop and heavy losses to the Germans. Street fighting already has been in process in Tarnopol for days.

On the Odessa front, the Russians announced the capture of the railway station of Karpovo, 23 miles northwest of Odessa, in a drive from liberated Razdelnaya down the line that once was the Germans' main hope of supply or escape but that now is a Russian pathway toward Odessa. Eighteen miles northwest of Razdelnaya the Russians took Goroshilovo.

In all they announced the capture of more than 100 towns in the Odessa region.

Pageantry of British Ceremony Awes, Inspires Scribe

By HELEN ESSARY, Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—For the first time since the shock of Pearl Harbor I felt personally close to the war. The bitter struggle, its hopes and horrors became a reality to me in the drawing room of the British embassy. I saw and heard the stuff that allied heroes are made of.

The room itself was a million miles away from the fighting and the dying. Gold fringed branches in vases in the tall brocade-hung windows, caught the encouraging sunshine. Guests sat in attentive rows facing Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, who was standing. The spring hats of pretty ladies and the gold braid of uniformed men were reflected in the black mirrors paneling the walls.

At right angles to the guests sat six or eight very young men in navy blue and khaki and several old men and women strangers to Washington. Not far from the ambassador a tall fellow was holding a small red velvet cushion bound in gold braid and tassels. The sort of cushion popular in Hollywood and in other countries where pageantry quite properly pleases the people.

The ambassador was speaking to the slim U. S. officer who stood before him.

"On behalf of His Gracious Majesty King George VI," he was saying, "I have the honor to confer the Distinguished Flying Cross for outstanding achievement in combat on Lieut. Col. Ernest C. Young, U.S.A.A.F. group commander, executive officer and pilot of P-38 type aircraft in the North African theater of operations, Lieutenant Colonel Young has shown outstanding ability in all phases of combat flying and tactics. . . led his group of B-25 type bombers attacking Pratica De Mare. . . drove off five enemy bombers in repeated and aggressive attacks. . . made a record in number of enemy aircraft, boats and military installations destroyed and damaged."

The cushion bearer now walked slowly toward the ambassador and the aviator. On the cushion was a heavy silver cross tied with a square or striped ribbon. The ambassador fastened the cross by its ribbon on the shoulder of the aviator. The aviator bowed a little and moved reverently back to his place among his comrades in honor.

Down the proud list the ambassador read the story of valor and its reward. Telling in inadequate words of violent hours of boldness and resolution.

Now it was an aviation radioman, first class, United States Navy, Lionel Pelletier of Fall River, Mass., who was about to be decorated. "A member of a crew of a United States Navy aircraft which gallantly attempted to rescue the crew of a Royal Air Force Fortress which had come down in the sea. After drifting six days in a dinghy this aviator was rescued." Radioman Pelletier had fought the enemy, the sea and the wind. But when he came back to his chair with the new Distinguished Flying Medal on his blue blouse he was so nervous he could hardly bend his knees to sit down.

Discussing the need for industrial recreation, the booklet points out that "high speed production may consistently treat the worker as a mere cog in a machine. It may withhold praise for work well done. It tends to stifle an individual's creative instinct, his taste for being original."

Planned play programs, it is stated, may "narrow the gap between employer and employee, a gap opened first by the advent of the machine age."

It has been found that recreation tends to:

- 1. Lift the worker in his own self esteem—giving him greater confidence.
2. Give him a chance to excel individually and in groups.
3. Bring him praise from his fellow workers.
4. Provide him a chance at creative opportunity.
5. Offer him a refuge from the tedium of the day—a relief from the specialized routine which induces fatigue and boredom.
6. Provide him with an opportunity to intermingle with his fellow-workers on a common playground, where good-fellowship and friendliness prevail.
7. Encourage a greater understanding between employer and employee.
The benefits, however, aren't all on the side of the employee. Industry benefits because recreation "gives the employer an opportunity to encourage happier human relationships among employees—to weld the industrial personnel into a more cooperative industrial family."

Also it is a good business investment, which "bolsters morale, reduces absenteeism, promotes greater efficiency on the job, encourages safety and increases production."

Pvt. John Crawshaw of Bloomington, Ind., stationed in A.S.T.F.: "I think the Japanese war will undoubtedly last longer than the one with Germany, but I don't think it will last over one year or a year and a half. It seems to me we are talking back Japanese-held islands much faster than they conquered them."

Jeanne Sheets, AS of Iowa City: "I think it will take at least a year after we defeat Germany. Japan isn't just going to give up. We still have a war to wage against Japan."

Bernadine Briggs, AS of Council Bluffs: "I imagine it will take at least two years before Japan collapses. This depends on whether or not Russia helps us."

Olsen and Johnson Owe It All to a Goat, Oley Narrates on 'Ghost Catchers' Set

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"I think," said Ole Olsen, "I'll start a search for a goat."

He was on the sidelines of the set, where Eddie Cline, the director, was rehearsing pandemonium. Before the camera a chase was in progress, the participants being Chic Johnson (the other half of Olsen and), the front end of a horse supposed to contain Andy Devine, two dwarfs in the guise of bewhiskered gremlins, Gloria Jean, and assorted other characters.

Chic was attired in a classic Grecian robe, or maybe it wasn't classic at all, with a coal-miner's lamp burning over his forehead. Leo Carrillo, telephoning in the hall, was staring after the loony parade.

It seemed a fitting background for a story about a goat, this set of "The Ghost-Catchers."

"Chic and I," said Oley, "owe so much to this goat I think we'll have a nation-wide search—like Scarlett O'Hara, you know. It was classic at all, with a coal-miner's lamp burning over his forehead. Leo Carrillo, telephoning in the hall, was staring after the loony parade."

Incidentally, when the second reorganization comes or maybe before, Joseph Grew, former ambassador to Japan, one of the best informed men on oriental affairs, may be persuaded to head up the department's far eastern division. If he is persuaded, he will have one of the toughest jobs of all postwar planning: what to do with Japan when it's all over.

Off the cuff: Over in Girls Town (Arlington farms, officially) when in explicable things go wrong, they blame it on the "Fem-lins." One of the young women government workers explains: (See WASHINGTON, page 5)

State Department Shakeup Predicted In Near Future

By JACK STINETT

WASHINGTON—Your capital in wartime:

There's going to be a reorganization of the department of state. It may await the return of Undersecretary Edward R. Stettinius Jr., from his trip to England, or, announcement may come any minute.

As was predicted here some months ago, when it comes it will be through the efforts of Stettinius, who went to the congressional appropriations committees and told them that reorganization "is only about 80 percent complete" and that state is "undermanned to a point that is somewhat alarming to me, not only in respect to our ordinary functional activities, but in connection with our planning for the postwar period."

Stettinius made such an impression on the house appropriations committee that, with hardly a dissent, it okayed employment of nearly 600 additional workers at a cost of almost $2,000,000 a year. In view of the criticism recently levelled at the State department and the attitude of economy-minded members of congress, this was rather a remarkable response. Maybe it was because Stettinius not only made a strong demand but told the legislators he probably would be back in the fall for funds to hire around 600 more workers.

Incidentally, when the second reorganization comes or maybe before, Joseph Grew, former ambassador to Japan, one of the best informed men on oriental affairs, may be persuaded to head up the department's far eastern division. If he is persuaded, he will have one of the toughest jobs of all postwar planning: what to do with Japan when it's all over.

Aviation Advances

A striking illustration of the development of aviation since 1903, when the Wright brothers made their first successful flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., may be seen in the fact that the distance covered in this first hop was shorter than the wing-spread of the Douglas B-19, currently the world's largest bomber.

Opinion On and Off Campus

QUESTION: IF GERMANY IS DEFEATED FIRST, HOW LONG DO YOU THINK IT WILL BE BEFORE JAPAN COLLAPSES?

Alvin Hollingsworth, G of Montrose, Col.: "I think it will probably take at least two years because we haven't any way of getting at Japan. It will take almost a year to transfer our forces over there before we can get within striking distance."

Barbara Wright, AS of West Union: "I think it would take at least another six months. Japan will be able to stand more in general because of the way they live and take punishment."

Elizabeth Rice, AS of Cheshire, Conn.: "I believe the war with Japan will last two or three years beyond that of Germany because the American people don't realize the strength of the fortifications on the numerous Japanese-held islands throughout the Pacific. There are also the many Japanese-controlled provinces in China that need to be dealt with."

Pvt. John Crawshaw of Bloomington, Ind., stationed in A.S.T.F.: "I think the Japanese war will undoubtedly last longer than the one with Germany, but I don't think it will last over one year or a year and a half. It seems to me we are talking back Japanese-held islands much faster than they conquered them."

Jeanne Sheets, AS of Iowa City: "I think it will take at least a year after we defeat Germany. Japan isn't just going to give up. We still have a war to wage against Japan."

Bernadine Briggs, AS of Council Bluffs: "I imagine it will take at least two years before Japan collapses. This depends on whether or not Russia helps us."

SUI Baseball Team Opens Season Today

Face Chicago This Afternoon

Maroons Have Three Veterans of Last Year, No Outdoor Practice

A University of Iowa baseball team composed entirely of men who have had no previous collegiate experience at the diamond sport will face the University of Chicago Maroon nine in their season opener at 4:00 on the Iowa diamond this afternoon.

The Maroons will have the advantage of the services of three veterans of last year but will go into the game without benefit of outdoor practice due to unfavorable weather conditions.

The Hawkeyes have had three days of practice on the outdoor diamond this week and have had some time to perfect their batting eyes but both teams will suffer from a lack of outside practice especially in fielding.

Coach Davis was optimistic in his outlook for the game yesterday after watching a pick-up game between the varsity and scrub teams on Wednesday. He was especially complimentary of his infield which has shown particular aptitude all through early practice sessions.

Coach Davis will start Herb Preul on the mound for the Hawkeyes. Preul, a curve and fast ball artist, is rated as the No. 1 hurler for the Iowans with the possibility that Bob Gipple, Dick Ives or Wilmer Hoakanson will see duty in a relief role.

This will be the first of ten Big Ten conference games for the Hawkeyes, the concentrated season ending April 29 before any of the other league rivals have played more than four contests. Only four of Iowa's games are scheduled for the home diamond.

The game will be broadcast through the facilities of WSUI with Dick Yoakam at the microphone.

The lineups in their order at bat are as follows:

Iowa—Bob Gildea, cf; Bill Anderson, 1b; Tom Hughes, ss; Jim Dunfreund, 3b; Lowell Ahrendsen, lf; Dick Woodard, rf; Marvin Bendorf, 2b; Jin Hansen, c; Herb Preul, p.

Montreal Takes 2-0 Game Lead By Dropping Hawks, 3-1

CHICAGO (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens took a 2-0 lead in the Stanley cup hockey finals last night by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks, 3-1 before 16,003 spectators at Chicago stadium.

Maurice Richard, star Canadian left wing, registered all of his team's goals, connecting about midway in the second period to put Montreal ahead, then hitting twice in the final chapter.

Goalie Bill Durnan of the Canadiens, who played a sensational game in the nets, missed a shutout by one second. At 19:59 of the final period rookie Johnny Harms, just up from the Hershey, Pa. club of the American league, put one into the cage to give Chicago its only score.

The game was delayed almost 20 minutes after Richard's final goal at 15:33. Hawk players contended Elmer Lach of Montreal, who earned assists on top of Richard's markers, was holding Clint Smith on the scoring play. When officials refused to disallow the shot and impose a penalty on Lach, fans showered playing cards, newspapers and other articles on the ice. Play was resumed after Johnny Gottselig, veteran Hawk, appealed to the customers to cease their throwing.

The teams meet here again Sunday, then return to Montreal to finish the best of seven series.

Montreal won the first game on its home ice, 5 to 1, last Tuesday.

Sophomore Outfield To Determine Fate Of Evansville Team

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—If Evansville's Bob Coleman can find the right stuff to spike the Boston Braves' anemic punch he figures to improve the club's 1943 position in his first year as a big league manager.

Adding that wallop depends on the sophomore outfielders—Butch Nieman and Charley Workman—and a flock of new infield candidates.

Coleman knows that he can expect passable pitching from his big four of Al Javery, Jim Tobin, Nate Andrews and Charles (Red) Barrett who accounted for 57 wins on last year's sixth place outfit.

Pitching reinforcements are promising but few in number.

Tommy Holmes gives class to the outfield, but the Brooklyn lad has been accepted by the navy and is awaiting call. Coleman has faith in his two sophomore fly-chasers and has installed Nieman in center and Workman in right. Betspectacled Chet Clemens, out of baseball last year but a farm product, is another possibility.

At the moment Kerby Farrell is the first sacker, but Buck Etchison, a .294 hitter at Hartford, may get the call if he can live up to his average. Ben Geraghty, a Brooklyn flash fresh from Villanova in 1936, is the second baseman and Billy Wietelman is a fixture at short despite his weak hitting. Connie Ryan, a disappointment as a hitter last season, is getting another trial at third.

Phil Masi and Clyde Klutz will divide the catching much the same as last year. Big Stew Hofferth, standout receiver with Indianapolis in the American association last year and by Boston is not expected to report pending a service call.

Drake Relays
DES MOINES (AP)—Simpson college of Indiana will enter a relays squad in the annual Drake relays this year for the 35th consecutive year. M. E. (Bill) Easton, relays director announced yesterday.

Frank L. Casey, Simpson athletic director, told relays officials that though his squad would not be as large as usual this year, he felt his men deserved the competition and experience.

The Simpson Redmen weathered a snow storm April 10, 1910, to compete in the university and college division of the first Drake relays.

Giants Win 7-Inning Exhibition Game, 12-3 At Lakehurst Station

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—The New York Yankees, for a change, did not lose a game yesterday. They were not scheduled to play. They have a game booked with Connie Mack's unbeaten Athletics here today, however, and Hank Borowy and Lefty Johnny Johnson may share the mound duties for the world champions.

LAKEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—The New York Giants blasted their Jersey City farm hands all over the lot yesterday in winning a seven-inning exhibition game, 12 to 3, at the Lakehurst naval air station.

The 40-year-old veteran Louis Polli, Jersey Giants property who is being looked over by manager Mel Ott, was on the mound for the first three innings for New York, holding the Jersey club hitless. Ken Brondell, who pitched the last four innings for the New Yorkers, yielded three safe blows.

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—The National League Braves wound up their two week stay at handsome Choate school yesterday by defeating the school's baseball club 3 to 0 in a six inning exhibition game.

The Boston National leaguers used a team of reserves and swapped batteries with their opponents.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns held the Toledo Mudhens to but four hits yesterday, winning 5 to 1 the deciding game of a seven-game series with their American association farm club and closing their spring training.

Centerfielder Don Smith of Toledo made three of his team's four hits, all singles. Pitcher Jack Kramer faced 10 batters in three innings and yielded only one hit. Sig Jakucki pitched no-hit no-run ball for the last three.

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals held an early spring training drill yesterday on their last day in camp and packed to return home for Saturday's opening city-series game with the St. Louis Browns.

Manager Billy Southworth indicated his probable starting pitcher would be Al Jurisich, to be followed by Bud Eyerly and George Mungler. Southworth was enthusiastic over Harry Gumbert's nine-inning showing Wednesday in an intra-squad game.

Notre Dame Sets 22-Game Schedule

Jamaica Opens Empire Season

Indications Are That There Will Be High Betting

By FRITZ HOWELL
NEW YORK (AP)—The Empire state's racing season, which in 1943 pulled $284,635,711 through the pari mutuels — of which $19,050,692 found its way into the state treasury — gets under way tomorrow with a 25-day meeting at Jamaica.

Although the year's calendar calls for only 181 days of racing, as compared with 190 a year ago, indications are that there will be a big boost in betting.

Transportation problems have been eased, in that trains will be permitted to go direct to the tracks, although parking lots will again be closed. Last year the 3,523,554 paying customers had to walk as far as a mile and a half each way from regular transportation lines — but despite that handicap they hiked the wagering total about 60 percent over the $175,158,374 total of 1942.

The Jamaica meeting, which runs through May 6, lists eight stake races beginning with the traditional Paumonok on opening day. The first day's feature, a $7,500 added event for three-year-olds and up, is a six-furlong dash inaugurated in 1906. Last year it attracted such a large field that it was run in two sections, each with $7,500 added, and Apache and With Regards were the winners.

The Jamaica purses total $269,600, with $77,500 in stakes.

Another Jamaica feature is the $25,000 added Wood Memorial, scheduled April 22, which last year provided Count Fleet with the spring board from which he hopped to his sensational "six for six" string of victories which included the Kentucky derby, Preakness, Withers and Belmont.

After Jamaica launches the northern season, Pimlico and Narragansett will follow next Wednesday, and a few days later they'll be running in Kentucky and Illinois.

White Sox Defeat Chicago Cubs 4-1

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP)—The Chicago Sox defeated their rivals, the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1 yesterday in the first of an eight-game spring series. The contest was played for benefit of the local Red Cross chapter.

The Sox made 11 hits, with Hal Trosky getting a pair of doubles, and Tom Turner a single and a triple.

The Cubs were held to four singles, two off Thornton Lee, one each off Bill Dietrich and Orval Grove.

Don Yohe, a White Sox infielder, who played at Albany, N. Y., last season, yesterday was accepted for the navy after taking his induction examination at Indianapolis. He was one of the few infielders the Sox had in camp with professional baseball experience.

BOSTON (AP)—An ailing ankle will prevent Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student who holds the new world indoor mile track record, from competing in a special mile event at the Penn annual relay carnival April 29.

Dodds told friends of his inability to compete as he left Wednesday night for a speaking engagement in Erie, Pa.

41 Contests Booked For Michigan Teams

Ball Club Opens Season April 15 With Double Header

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Forty-one contests are booked for University of Michigan baseball, track, tennis and golf teams this spring with a 22-game baseball card providing a major share of the competition.

The ball club will open its season April 15 with a doubleheader at Oberlin and will not conclude activities until June 17. It is probable that Coach Ray Fisher will add two or three more games to the schedule as well, and then cross his fingers in the hope that the Wolverines are not rained out of more than half their games as was the case a year ago.

Ten of the baseball games are with Big Ten opponents—two each with Iowa, Ohio State, Illinois, Indiana and Purdue in that order. Four games with Notre Dame, four with Western Michigan, the two with Oberlin and single dates with Ft. Sheridan and Great Lakes also are included.

Wolverine golfers also will go into action April 15, facing the University of Detroit here. Seven other matches will be played before the conference championships are held May 27. Michigan has won the Big Ten golf crown two years in a row and Coach Ray Courtwright believes his current team will have a good chance of adding a third straight.

The track and tennis teams will make their bows April 29, the track squad at the Penn relays in Philadelphia and the netters against Chicago on the Maroon course. Both of these teams also will be pointing for conference meets on May 27, with the track team seeking to add the outdoor championship to the indoor title won during March with a record total of 75 1/2 points.

Michigan's athletic record so far this year includes a tie for the conference football championship and sole ownership of the Big Ten swimming, indoor track and wrestling titles. The record in duel competition shows 32 wins against 16 defeats for a .667 average. The only losing record has been in basketball, the only sport in which the Wolverines have competed this year without winning the conference championship.

the swelling has subsided, the injury still bothers him.

"I couldn't possibly get into condition for a mile at the Penn relays, much as I'd like to," friends quoted him as saying.

56 Men Out For Spring Football

MADISON, Wis.—Coach Harry Stuhldreher of the University of Wisconsin revealed yesterday that 56 hopefuls have reported for spring football practice, 33 of them from the navy V-12 training force on the campus and the remainder civilians. The Badgers, handicapped last week by snow and cold, have now gotten underway in good style and hope to have a most successful spring training program. The Badger coach has 10 members of last year's squad out thus far, seven of them "W" winners in the 1943 season.

Of the veteran material available are Lester Zych, James Kusa, and John Davey, all guards; Pat Weber and Roger Laubenhaimer, ends; Lawrence Heinz, halfback, and Robert Henry, center, all letter winners. The trio who were also on the squad last fall are Robert Fortune, tackle; John Jeffreys, halfback and Jordan Jung, halfback.

Coach Stuhldreher hopes to speed the assigning of the new men to positions best fitted very soon and then will split the squad into team units which they hope will soon be able to compete in game drills. The Badgers' coach was enthused with the workouts last spring and hoped that this year's drills would prove as profitable for the squad as last year.

Slip Madigan Leaves for Home In Oakland, Calif.

"Slip" Madigan, University of Iowa football coach, will leave for his home in Oakland, Calif. April 20 but will return for about a week in late May and will start the last six months of his contract July 1, Director E. G. Schroeder announced Thursday.

The coach has been here since March 6 after signing a contract to head Iowa football for eight months of 1944. He did not conduct spring practice because of the shortage of players and the fact that some of his athletes were members of the baseball squad.

Madigan will meet Director Schroeder in Chicago for the Big Ten coaches' and officials' meeting May 25-27 and probably will spend several days thereafter in Iowa City. Then he will go back to the Pacific coast to stay throughout June.

Definite dates and plans for the Hawkeye summer football practice will be announced by Coach Madigan before he leaves April 20. Under the new conference rule, drill can be held for an unlimited period but it must close one week before the opening of September work.

Sports Trail . . .

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Concerning a recent piece we hacked out concerning smart baseball teams, the smartness being judged by the past, present and future major league managers on the rosters, John J. Mahoney of St. Louis wonders if we didn't overlook the Cardinals of 1933.

As a guess we mentioned the Philadelphia Athletics of 1928 as possibly the smartest team by that standard, as, in addition to Connie Mack, the club had Ty Cobb, Mickey Cochrane, Eddie Collins, Jimmy Dykes and Tris Speaker, in addition to Eddie Rommel, who went wrong and became an umpire.

Mahoney points to the 1933 Cardinal roster which, in addition to Manager Gaborn listed the following managerial brain trust: Burleigh Grimes, Jimmy Wilson, Leo Durocher, Frankie Frisch, Rogers Hornsby and Bob O'Farrell. Frisch, incidentally, managed the team part of that year.

And as a clincher in the managerial sweepstakes Mahoney adds that two other men on that team—Pepper Martin and Jimmy Collins—became minor league managers.

We'll have to string along with Mr. Mahoney's bunch of quiz experts until someone comes along with a topper.

The order of finish in the recent Knoxville open golf tournament looked pretty familiar, at that, considering the number of top-flighters in the service. If Ben Hogan and Sam Snead had been up there near the top it would have been a reasonable facsimile of a peace-time finish.

Eight of the first 10 finishers are what might be called "name" players—guys you associate with tournament competition. They are Byron Nelson, Jug McSpaden, Tony Penna, Craig Wood, Johnny Bulla, Johnny Revolta, Jimmy Hines and Sam Byrd. Bob Hamilton, who finished in a third place tie with Penna, and Ed Furgol, an amateur who finished ninth, were the other two to crash the top bracket.

Incidentally, we think Gene Sarazen is right when he says that a star golfer's game will not suffer too much if he is in the service and the war doesn't last too long. It may take him a little while to regain his touch, but it will come back and, just as important, he will have the physical stamina to back up his game.

If we remember rightly a fellow named Tommy Armour came out of the last war pretty much a physical wreck, and in the last 20 years he's won every major tournament open to a pro, including the U. S. open, British open, P. G. A., Western open and Canadian open. He might have been quite a golfer if it hadn't been for his war service.

"they're the girl friends of the Gremlins."

A few days before the income tax deadline, one of the treasury internal revenue workers confided that he could name (but wouldn't) three members of the U. S. supreme court who had applied to the department for aid in working out their returns. The payoff, in his opinion, was that if litigation results from the complicated returns, as it certainly will, it will be the supreme court that will have final say in interpreting the law.

By the way, some treasury officials think that the number of racketeering "experts" who got into the income tax return game this year might result in a national scandal. They hesitated to issue any warning in advance, because of the damage it might do to thousands of legitimate experts who were trying to help millions get in accurate returns on time.

us a goat as a gag. We didn't know where it came from, but we kept it in our dressing room. Couple of days later, Len sent us a bale of hay for the goat, and that went in the dressing room too.

"So along comes an agent looking for somebody to do a guest shot on Jack Oakie's radio show. He thinks the goat and the hay are so funny he signs us up. We play the show, and another agency signs us for a show of our own.

"So we take our act out, broadcasting as we go, and one stop we make is at Buckeye, Ariz., where they have what they call a hellzapoppin circus. We like that name, and we put it in our show and go on. . . . And now we're in Philadelphia and we run into N. T. G. (Nils T. Granlund). He sees the show and he says why doesn't he get the Shuberts to look at it, so they do, and pretty soon our little show turns into 'Hellzapoppin,' which has grossed $9,500,000 to date. That leads to 'Sons of Fun,' $4,000,000 to date, and to pictures, three so far and one more right after this.

"And all," he said, "because of a goat. I think we ought to find it and give it a home for life."

Just then one of the gremlins picked up a giant six-footer and held him up at arms length, but it seemed perfectly normal, natural, and right.

RED CROSS

If air raids or home-front disasters strike a community, the Canteen corps is on 24-hour call to provide emergency food. Its 95,000 members also give nutrition demonstrations in war factories, serve refreshments at induction centers, and, in some cases, at the request of commanding officers prepare food for army and navy men. With greater numbers of women filling war jobs, Canteen corps members often feed children in day nurseries and prepare school lunches.

Jury Awards $500 To Martha Isaacs

Martha A. Isaacs was awarded $500 yesterday after a jury considered her request for $5,000 personal damages from the Eastern Iowa Light and Power Co. The jury retired at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday and returned a verdict yesterday at 3:05 in the morning.

Miss Isaacs asked damages for injuries received when the automobile which she was driving Aug. 23 came in contact with a high voltage wire of the power company, causing a violent flash and throwing her car out of control and into a ditch.

She received injuries to her right leg and left hand and had a doctor bill of $75 and an automobile repair bill of $215.22.

The power company explained that the fallen line which came in contact with Miss Isaacs' car had been released from its pole when struck by lightning. They declared the casualty an "act of God."

Attorney for the plaintiff was D. C. Nolan. The Cook, MacLaughlin and Blair law firm of Davenport and the Ducher, Ries and Dutcher law firm of Iowa City represented the power company.

SUI Nurses Home To Have New Wing

A new wing will be added to Westlawn, university nurses' home, and will be financed by an allocation of $120,000 just approved by the federal works administration.

The allocation, announced by Congressman Thomas E. Martin yesterday, and confirmed by C. A. Anderson, regional director of the federal works administration, was made in response to an application filed several months ago by the Iowa state board of education.

President Virgil M. Hancher stated yesterday afternoon that the university wishes to cooperate with the federal government's program of obtaining additional nurses during the present emergency.

However present facilities were proved inadequate for the enlarged training program and the petition for a federal grant was made.

The estimated cost of the whole project has been set at $200,000, according to Congressman Martin.

Professor to Discuss 'Atlantic Charter'

"The Atlantic Charter" will be discussed by Prof. Vlastimil Kybal, instructor in the army specialized training unit stationed in Iowa City, tonight at 7 o'clock on station WSUI. This discussion will be based on the analysis of the Atlantic Charter written by Kybal and published by the University of California.

Professor Kybal came here from Czechoslovakia, where he was a professor of history at the University of Prague. He has served his country as minister to Rome, Madrid, Brazil and Mexico.

Enrollment in public high schools in the United States in 1944 is about one million below peak enrollment in 1940-1.

Raymond Ludwison, pastor of the First Christian church, "Father, Forgive Them, for They Know Not What They Do;" the Rev. Paul W. Somerville, pastor of the Nazarene church, "Today Shalt Thou Be With Me in Paradise;" the Rev. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the First Methodist church, "Woman, Behold Thy Son" . . . Paul Somerville Says Impatience Reason For Judas' Betrayal

Judas betrayed the Master and the world has never forgotten it. He gets the spotlight as history's most infamous character. We are too hard on him. We forget his consistency of loyalty to the Master before, only to remember one single act of his pathetic pilgrimage, his betrayal of his Lord.

That he became a follower of Christ, was chosen by the Master as a disciple and was trusted sufficiently to be made treasurer of the group is an indication he was a character of no small stature. Judas must have been a good follower for he was never suspected. Even at the last meal, when the Master said "One of you shall betray me," not one looked accusingly at Judas. Instead, all with a humility that did not always characterize them, looked into their own hearts and said, "Lord is it?"

Why then did Judas become a traitor? Much of the answer is found in his impatience. Judas had big plans as a follower of Christ. Here was the Messiah who was going to set his people free. He was going to enable his nation to reign supreme, to conquer as it had been conquered. At first his plans were being fulfilled. The multitudes thronged about him. He could sense the contagious spirit which was running among the people. It wouldn't be long now.

But then came disappointment. When the Master made his triumphant entry into Jerusalem, when things seemed ripe for a decisive blow, he did nothing more aggressive than weep over the city he should have captured. Now the crowds were beginning to leave and only the disciples were standing by. Judas became impatient. It was this impatience which drove him to the shabby bargain with the chief priests and sent him out with the 30 pieces of silver.

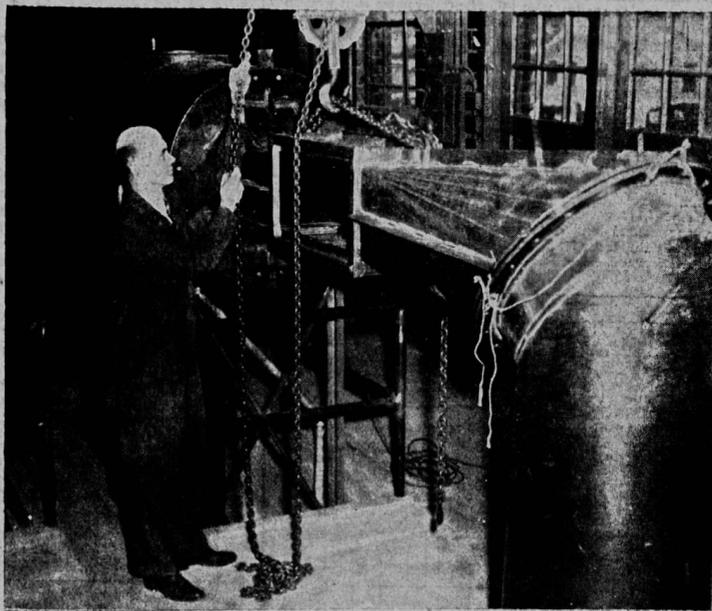

Even Christ was tempted to be impatient in bringing God's kingdom to power by spectacular methods. Surely if he would make of the stones bread and give to the starving people, they would eat and become his followers. He could float down from the temple. This would amaze the people and they would follow in curiosity. The country was ripe for revolution and Christ realized that at the lifting of his finger a thousand men would bring their swords.

But Christ overcame the temptation to be impatient. This was man's way to bring a kingdom into power. He would take God's way. It would take time but he was willing to wait for its fulfillment in the surrender of the human heart. He would take the way of the cross.

Judas is a memorable example of what impatience does. It be-

University Financed— Four-Ton Water Tunnel Being Constructed

—For Naval Testing

The promise of a fascinating assignment for any reporter lies in the chance to investigate a project soon to be classed as a "military secret." And the new water tunnel, financed by the university but scheduled soon to go under governmental lock and key, is the stuff of which good features are made.

Now being developed in the university hydraulics laboratory, this four-ton structure is the underwater counterpart of the much-publicized wind tunnel used to test plane design.

Relatively new in the testing-tunnel business, this tunnel will be employed to measure the effect on various underwater bodies of changing speeds and pressures.

The tunnel makes use of an ingenious method — that of holding the object still while the water flows past it. This produces the same effect as if the object itself were speeding through the water, a process which would be impossible to observe or control accurately enough for testing purposes.

Designed and operated by Prof. John S. McNow, who was imported to the university from San Diego, Calif., especially for the project, the tunnel rears its eleven-foot-high structure up from the basement of the laboratory through the first floor. It appears to the casual observer as a huge steel tube, bent into the shape of a giant rectangle, standing on one of its long sides.

Pumped by a two-foot bronze propeller, water circulates continuously through the tunnel, passing through one section where the walls are glass instead of steel. The object to be tested is fastened in this section of the tunnel, where the effect of the swiftly-moving water on the object can be observed and photographed through the glass.

In this way, the design of underwater bodies important in naval warfare may be studied and improved. Most mountain climbers are familiar with the simple physics principle that is involved in the testing work done in the tunnel. Mountaineers know that high on the slopes where air pressure is lower, water will boil at much lower temperatures than under ordinary pressures.

In the same way a low pressure area caused by the rapid speed of an object moving through the water will cause the surrounding water to boil, even though it may be cold. This violent boiling of the water, which may deflect the course of a similar object when in motion, can be observed accurately and photographed through the glass walls of the test section.

Thus the most important controls to be maintained in the tunnel are those over pressure and water speed. Almost any desired pressure may be maintained from 15 pounds per square inch down to such a low pressure that conditions closely approach those of an absolute vacuum.

USO Easter Dance Planned Tomorrow

An Easter dance will be held in the main ballroom of the Community building tomorrow night from 7:30 until 10:30. The junior hostess group for this dance will be headed by Marian MacEwen. Senior hostesses for the weekend at USO will be members of the garden department of the Iowa City Woman's club with Mrs. C. C. Erb acting as chairman. The USO headquarters will be decorated with appropriate Easter decorations.

At 8 o'clock a floor show will be presented by members of the Scottish Highlanders, University organization. The regular weekly entertainment will also be available for servicemen in Iowa City.

By CATHY COVERT Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The water streamed past the object being tested. This problem was solved by the installation of a set of "louvres," appearing to the uninitiated like a sort of curved Venetian blind set up in the corner of the rectangle. When the water strikes these louvres, it is deflected smoothly around the corner.

These louvres are installed in three corners of the rectangle; in the fourth corner is the pump, two feet in diameter. The size of the tunnel gradually increases from the two-foot diameter until it reaches a maximum diameter of three feet just above the test section. At this point the whole tunnel is quickly but smoothly constricted to a diameter of one foot as if squeezed by a giant hand. It is here that a model of the object to be tested is fastened.

The tunnel is equipped with two interchangeable test sections, one called a "closed throat" section, used to test models of stationary objects such as bridge piers; and another section used to test stationary models corresponding to moving bodies, called an "open throat" section.

The open throat section contains a body of still water through which shoots a jet of rapidly-moving water — lunging in the midst of the jet of moving water is the model of the object to be tested.

Most of the work concerning the testing of under-water bodies is done in this open throat section.

When the two heavy testing sections are interchanged, they must be lifted in and out of place by means of a two-ton chain hoist, traveling on a beam above the tunnel.

The entire tunnel, parts of which were originally designed by Professor McNow, was constructed by the Hawkeye Boiler Machine and Welding company of Davenport, a firm that has done much similar construction work for the university.

"They've done as fine a job in the fabrication of this tunnel as could be desired," is the verdict of Professor McNow and of Prof. Hunter Rouse, in charge of the entire hydraulics laboratory in which the tunnel is housed.

Other work in the laboratory is already being done under contract for the David Taylor Model basin, a navy research station in Washington, D. C., and it is probably that the initial experiments to be conducted in this tunnel will also be for the navy.

At present there are five similar tunnels in the country; three are now in constant use for testing ship propellers.

Prof. Hans Koebel To Be 'Cello Soloist In Orchestra Concert

Prof. Hans Koebel of the music department will appear as 'cello soloist with the University Symphony orchestra in its sixth concert of the season Wednesday. As a principal feature of the concert Professor Koebel will play "Concerto in B Minor, opus 104" (Antonin Dvorak).

"The concerto is a great favorite with the public, but it is rarely heard because of the difficulty for the solo performer," Director Philip G. Clapp, head of the music department, explains. Dvorak wrote the concerto in the winter of 1894-95 when he was in New York on his second visit to this country.

The concerto will occupy the position usually taken by a symphony on the University orchestra concert program next week. "Although a conventional title is used for the work, it is really a symphony in which the cello solo has the prominent part," says Professor Clapp.

"Prelude, Scherzo and Passacaglia" (Wendell Otey) will be given its second Iowa City performance in the concert. It was first presented in the 1940 summer fine arts festival by the summer session orchestra. The composer played the piano obbligato part, which will be performed Wednesday night by Norma Cross, graduate assistant in the music department. Otey is now a member of the California State Teachers college faculty in San Francisco.
