Sewell Avery Re-elected To Ward Directorship

Stockholders Back Directors

Montgomery Ward Shareholders Vote 'Full Confidence'

CHICAGO (AP)—Board Chairman Sewell Avery received a vote of "full confidence" from Montgomery Ward company shareholders yesterday after he began a widely watched legal battle against government control of the firm's Chicago plants.

Avery and the 12 other directors were re-elected at the jam-packed annual session of stockholders. The gathering, setting a record for attendance, echoed at times with cheers and laughter and heard some criticism and boos.

Developments occurred in rapid fire order in the case rooted in Avery's refusal to accede to orders from the War Labor board and President Roosevelt to extend an expired contract with a CIO union and his subsequent fight against federal seizure of the Ward properties here.

Company counsel opened a legal counter-attack in federal court. They contended the government's action in assuming control under a directive from the president was unconstitutional. They maintained the property was of non-war nature and argued that the war labor disputes act permits confiscation only of plants turning out war material. Attorney General Biddle replied that the president and the WLB had the power to enforce their orders.

A resolution for an investigation of the seizure was pushed through the house rules committee in Washington and was sent to the floor for consideration. Senator Byrd (D., Va.) introduced a similar proposal and declared "the American people are shocked by this unwarranted use of military power."

Avery told the shareholders the firm was "pro-labor and pro-union" but "not closed shop" and added: "We say with pride—and will fight for it as an essence of liberty—that you do not have to join a union to work at Ward's."

Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce and federal operating manager of Ward's local facilities, instructed soldiers patrolling the buildings to bar Avery and President Clement D. Ryan on grounds that they "have refused to cooperate with the government."

The shareholders crammed in a room in the Blackstone hotel for a session that engendered sober discussion, levity and fast repartee. The 250 seats were occupied. A balcony was filled. The walls were lined by standees.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Mississippi river, swollen to a stage which may equal a 99-year record at some places for the second time in a year, spilled over crumbling levees yesterday to flood new acres of Illinois and Missouri farm lands but with less disastrous results than in 1943.

Four main levees protecting Illinois banks of the river went out as the crest neared. Orders came from the army engineer's office to evacuate farm families from other areas threatened with inundation.

The flood is expected to crest at St. Louis at 38.9 feet, the same reading as last May. At that stage it exerts damaging pressure on every levee all the way down the river to Cairo, Ill.

Latest figures from the mid-western Red Cross office at St. Louis disclosed that floods along the Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois and other rivers have affected a total of 5,700 families in Missouri and Illinois and 6,527 families in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Army, Navy Bomb Scattered New Guinea Enemy Airdromes

Seek to Forestall Japanese Renewal Of Crippled Air Arm

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Saturday (AP)—American army and navy fliers, seeking to forestall any Japanese attempt to bolster the crippled Nipponese air arm on New Guinea, poured more than 300 tons of bombs on enemy airdromes from the western tip of the huge island to Rabaul and Kaviengi in the east.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that Mitchell bombers, with 78-millimeter guns spitting from their noses, ripped into the enemy's Jettan airdrome at Sorong, on the western end of New Guinea, while heavy bombers hammered Babo to the south.

Other bombing units unloaded 188 tons of bombs on the four airdromes in the Wewak area, 90 miles southeast from captured Aitape, and hit Rabaul on New Britain island in the Bismarck archipelago with 125 tons, concentrated on five airstrips. Kaviengi on New Ireland was also hit.

Only Rapopo airdrome on Rabaul offered heavy anti-aircraft fire. One American plane was lost out of a raiding force of 150.

General MacArthur announced the force which landed at Tanahmerah bay near Hollandia was the 24th division commanded by Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving. The outfit which made its beachhead 35 miles to the east at Humboldt bay was the 41st division under Maj. Gen. Horace Fuller.

Parts of the 32nd and 41st divisions made up the invasion force at Aitape, 150 miles to the southeast. The force was under the command of Brig. Gen. Jens Doe. The Hollandia campaign has been completed with the capture of all three airdromes there. Aitape likewise has been cleared of the enemy and allied planes are using the Tadjji airstrip.

Chinese Drive Japs From Strategic Pass

CHUNGKING, (AP)—Chinese defenders have driven the Japanese troops from strategic Hualao pass, gateway to Loyang, annihilating a large portion of them, the Chinese high command said Thursday night in announcing that successes both east and southeast of Loyang had eased threats to the city.

The pass again is entirely in Chinese hands, said the high command. Southeast of Loyang the Chinese last night claimed further advances and said the enemy suffered heavy losses. Fighting in this area, in which the bulk of the invading troops, estimated at more than 60,000, are engaged, shifted closer to Nihhsien, 20 miles southwest of Changchow, said the high command.

The first action by the Chinese air force in the present battle also was reported. Chinese planes attacked invaders between the pass and Jungyang, a Lunghai railway town further east.

Japanese forces driving southward east of the Peiping-Hankow railway, were forced to retreat after gaining 30 miles, the high command said. Japanese operations in this area are designated to protect their forces along and west of the railway.

Americans Blast France In Triple-Header Strike

Critics Urge Inquiry In Seizure of Plants

Constitutional Right Questioned in Session Of Rules Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—A double-barreled congressional investigation of the Montgomery Ward case was in prospect last night as angry critics of seizure of the firm's Chicago plants asked whether the government would now take over "hamburger stands" and whether Attorney General Biddle wants to be an "American Himmler."

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the senate judiciary committee, announcing he already had dispatched an investigator to Chicago, declared his committee was determined to "get to the bottom of this case."

Across the Capitol, a resolution for an inquiry was forced to the house floor by an angry coalition of Republicans and Democrats who squeezed it through a tumultuous session of the rules committee by one vote.

The resolution would create a special house committee of seven to investigate the seizure. The powerful rules committee virtually sets the pattern for floor consideration of legislation.

Angry words marked the committee's consideration of the resolution, offered by Representative Dewey (R-Ill.), who represents the district in which the big plant on the Chicago river is located.

It got through the committee on a 6 to 5 vote only after it had been amended to eliminate a special instruction that the investigators determine whether there is "authority in law" for the seizure and whether the opinion of Attorney General Biddle authorizing the action showed "adequate grounds" for his conclusions.

Representative Delaney (D-NY) raised a question in the rules committee whether it was not "unusual" to give consideration to a resolution introduced only yesterday, but Representative Smith (D-Va) retorted: "It's more unusual to go out and take someone's property."

WPB to Distribute Penicillin to Civilians Through Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nation-wide system for limited distribution of the "wonder drug" penicillin to civilians was announced yesterday by the War Production board.

Under the system, supplies will be channeled to more than 1,000 depot hospitals. Depot hospitals will be expected to recognize the requests of other hospitals in their areas and to furnish penicillin to the best of their ability when a need has been established.

Predict May 2-June 7—

Nazis Guess D-Day

LONDON, (AP)—Nazi invasion speculation hit a feverish tempo yesterday as Berlin dispatches said that German bombers attacked masses of invasion vessels in undisclosed harbors of western England Friday night and continental commentators began naming definite "invasion dates," one as early as next Tuesday.

A vast outpouring of speculation came from Nazi and neutral microphones, with guessing on the date of D-day ranging from May 2 to June 7 and with general prediction that the allied invasion from the west would be timed with colossal blows in the south and in the east.

From this island base itself history's greatest aerial offensive was growing in intensity and the air commanders were openly and officially referring to it as the "eve of invasion" offensive but everything possible was being done to keep the enemy guessing as to the exact date.

One Capt. Karl Henrik Falkman, a commentator unknown in London but described by the Swedish radio as a Swedish naval expert, broadcast one of the most detailed predictions on invasion yet aired from the continent, stating D-day would come between May 2 and May 17, and probably in broad daylight.

This commentator forecast that the main attack would take place across the channel, either between the Seine and Cherbourg or between Calais and the Scheldt river, whose mouth is near Antwerp, Belgium.

Reds Repulse Nazi Attack In Old Poland

LONDON, Saturday, (AP)—Red army troops killed 800 Germans and Hungarians in repulsing attacks southeast of Stanislawow in former Poland yesterday, and Soviet long-range aircraft touched off fires and explosions Thursday night in a mass attack on Lwow, 65 miles northwest of Stanislawow, a Moscow communique said early today in announcing "no substantial changes" on the land front.

The only reference to the Crimean front was a midnight supplement which said that a 1,000-ton tanker and a landing barge were sunk in the area of besieged Sevastopol by Russian naval planes.

A German communique said that fresh Russian attempts to break through with strong forces north of Iasi in Romania had been frustrated, that Soviet efforts to enlarge bridgeheads across the lower Dnestr to the east had been repulsed, and that local Red army thrusts at Sevastopol in the Crimea had collapsed.

Sevastopol has been under the fire of Red army guns now for two weeks.

Berlin also told of the repulse of Soviet troops in the east-central part of Poland around Kowel, 170 miles from Warsaw, and told of air attacks on rear-line supply points where the Russians have been reported mobilizing men and equipment for a new offensive.

Number of Sorties In Present Offensive Now Totals 2,800

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—The first triple-header American heavy bomber strike highlighted widespread attacks on German air bases and fortifications in France yesterday, and brought to approximately 2,800 the number of allied British-based sorties during the 14th straight day of the "eye-of-invasion" sky offensive.

The attacks, which cost the Americans four bombers and three fighters, followed up a 1,000-plane, 3,500-ton RAF night assault on the Nazi technical center of Friedrichshafen and other important targets.

Since Wednesday midnight the allies have been dropping an average rate of 6 1/2 tons of bombs per minute, night and day, on axis objectives, and the German radio late last night indicated the unprecedented assaults were entering the 15th day when it warned that allied planes were approaching north-west Germany.

Two fleets of Flying Fortresses, each about 250-strong roared out yesterday morning and hit the big Avord airdrome 130 miles south of Paris, and coastal fortifications in the Cherbourg area. About 500 Thunderbolt and Mustang fighters escorted one bomber formation to Avord, while the bulletin made no mention of escorts for the fleet which attacked the Cherbourg sector, 70 miles across the channel.

An abortive attack by German fighters on the formation that flew to Avord was broken off by the fighter escort. "This was the only encounter with the enemy during the day," a United States communique said.

In the afternoon a fleet of perhaps 250 Liberators crossed the 20-mile-wide Dover strait and pounded the Pas-de-Calais area. Thunderbolt fighters shepherded this formation over territory which may soon be the scene of bitter ground battles.

No planes were reported missing from the fighter-bomber operations.

Navy Reveals Guam, Ponape Bombings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Guam, former United States possession overrun by the Japanese in the Pacific, was bombed by the navy and despite the presence of Japanese planes on the ground, no attempt to offset the American attack was made.

Announcing the April 24 attack last night, the navy also said Ponape was attacked by army and navy planes April 26, later the same day re-attacked by the army and the following day again by the army.

No casualties were sustained by any United States force.

Yanks Lose Four Bombers

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—The first triple-header American heavy bomber strike highlighted widespread attacks on German air bases and fortifications in France yesterday, and brought to approximately 2,800 the number of allied British-based sorties during the 14th straight day of the "eye-of-invasion" sky offensive.

Kohima Defenders Win Jap Strongholds

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, (AP)—The powerfully reinforced defenders of Kohima, allied base in eastern India, have smashed into Japanese positions west of the mile-high town and captured a number of enemy strongpoints, it was announced yesterday.

Air forces of both sides joined actively in the fighting about Kohima, with allied planes holding a wide margin of superiority. Of one group of Japanese fighters and bombers that swept into the area, one was destroyed, four probably destroyed and eight damaged. Fighters and fighter-bombers of the RAF and the Indian air force punished enemy ground troops.

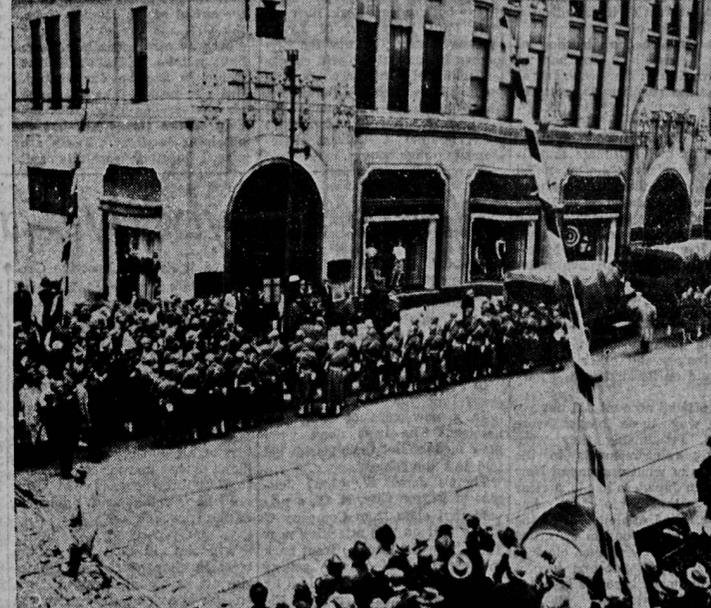

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's mixed forces were reported making steady progress in their drive toward the big Japanese base of Myitkyina in northern Burma, despite somewhat stiffer enemy resistance. Stilwell's troops now are within about 45 miles of Myitkyina both on the north and the west.

Gandhi's Condition Causes 'Anxiety'

LONDON (AP)—Concern was expressed last night for Mohandas K. Gandhi, who, according to an official statement issued in Bombay yesterday was "weak and causing some anxiety" after suffering an attack of fever.

The statement added that the 75-year-old Indian leader had "not recovered from his recent attack as was hoped," and Britons in close touch with Indian affairs admitted that his death in confinement might react unfavorably to the British, at least temporarily.

TROOPS CARRY OUT FDR ORDER ON WARD CO. SEIZURE

STEELHELMETED MILITARY POLICEMEN from Camp Skokie Valley, Ill., are shown as they arrived at the plant of Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago to take over the huge mail order house under orders of President Roosevelt. The army was called in when the company president, Sewell Avery, refused to turn over the plant to commerce department officials as designated by the government. The original presidential order had directed the firm to extend an expired contract with a C. I. O. union pending a determination whether it should continue to be regarded as the bargaining agency. A 12-day workhouse union strike had ended the day before U. S. marshals moved into the plant.

Women Politicos Get Party Conscious In 'Jackpot Year'

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Features Writer

WASHINGTON—This is jackpot year for women in politics. Republicans and Democrats are wooing women for their votes in a nation-wide courting probably unparalleled in the 20-odd years of woman suffrage.

And more women will work in politics—and harder—than ever before. They're digging in with spade work already.

Democrats deny that women have been mere figureheads in their recent campaigns, and proudly point out that women were on an equal basis with men on the platform committee in the last convention. However, Chairman Robert E. Hannegan says women will have to do a bigger job, even though Democrats like to say that women elected Roosevelt last time. Women now claim 50-50 representation in 18 state party organizations.

Republicans acknowledge that not so many women were active in the last two elections but believe they have the greatest activity among women workers this year that any party has ever had.

Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, of Chicago, president of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, says that working for the party is as important as working in war industries or for such agencies as the Red Cross. Republican women will share full responsibility with men in the conduct of the national convention because by a 1940 rule women comprise one half of the members on all committees.

Both parties agree that women must work in more precincts and make more speeches around home. As New York Democratic women put it, 1944 is the time for "practical politics." The Republicans say "Tell your neighbor." The Democrats urge "Ring a doorbell."

Both parties count on the women to get people out to register regardless of politics. They're willing to let the issues stand for themselves.

Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, Democrat, and Miss Marion E. Martin, Republican, assistant chairmen of their parties, say registration is the biggest preliminary task. "Women can and will do the tedious job," Mrs. Tillett said.

One of the registration schemes being used by Republicans is the old pyramid approach: "You get five voters registered and voting and let each of them get five."

Republicans have awarded war bonds to state groups and clubs showing the greatest percentage increase in membership.

Women are already canvassing blocks and have established information centers, organized "mail clubs" and rural committees. Republicans report interest is so high that women have come to meetings by cattle trucks to study the issues. The parties are placing more emphasis on qualified women, and two recent additions to headquarters staffs prove it. Each party has a woman in a national job always held by a man before.

Mrs. Dorothy McElroy Vre-denburgh, of Alabama and Mississippi, new secretary of the Democrats, recently has started duty in Democratic headquarters in Washington but will spend much time between now and July 19 in Chicago arranging for the convention.

Mrs. Clyde Corbin, of Ashland, Ky., has come to town as first female chairman of the Young Republican National Federation.

Republicans count 11 women out of 24 members on their convention arrangements committee. Democrats have eight out of 17.

Republicans claim two other firsts—both in New York. Last fall Mrs. Paul Taylor, of Lyons (Wayne county), became the first woman in the state to win county leadership of a major party; and President Roosevelt's first cousin, Mrs. George B. St. George (20 years a Republican), of Tuxedo Park, became Republican chairwoman of Orange county.

News Behind the News Grand Air Assault Designed Primarily To Crush Nazi Air Force

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON—This grand air assault on Europe is designed primarily to crush the German air force—first requisite to invasion by land.

Some say the campaign started 12 to 15 days ago, but it actually appeared first in February. Then the scale of attack was enlarged toward the point where, as many as 5,000 to 6,000 planes, could be used within a 24-hour period from United Kingdom airfields.

That top record was reached last weekend, but the use of 3,000 planes in attack within 24 hours has been a regular and practically continuous event for nine weeks, interrupted at periods by weather. You can measure the scope of this effort when you consider that the height of the German assault on England never mustered more than 500 planes.

Concentration on a specific type of target also developed about the same time. Each day's communications lately have revealed attacks centered upon airplane factories and airfields, with side attention occasionally to related plants, such as the ballbearing works at Berlin and Schweinfurt.

Secondary targets in the past few days have been rail communication and military installations along the northwestern coast, which are the final air requisites in preparation for invasion. (Such tactics lead the way to be ready for land assault every day.)

The individual air attacks upon specific areas have brought as many as 1500 planes into single-headed action. The results have not been specifically estimated except that unofficial guesses out of London calculate nearly 4,000 German planes destroyed since January 1, and 5,000 more indirectly destroyed from the bombing of the aircraft factories.

Also, War Secretary Stimson has mildly estimated 20 percent of the German air force now eliminated. Incidentally, the Germans have been practicing a policy of extreme conservation the last few weeks. They no longer send their planes unless an attack is aimed at an extremely important target. They are saving every ship they can for the invasion hour.

There is hardly a chance that we are being fooled as to the extent of the damage. True, the Germans are exceptionally clever at air camouflage, once built a fake bridge across the Rhine to deceive our airmen. But our people take extensive air photographs after raids, not only of the target hit, but of adjoining territory. These are pieced together carefully and

Ford Motor Company Still Family Affair As Grandson Trains

DETROIT (AP)—At 80, Henry Ford has prepared to pass control of his vast industrial empire to his 26-year-old grandson, Henry Ford II, assuring the future of the company as a strictly Ford family affair.

Henry Ford II recently was named executive vice-president of the Ford motor company, with authority second only to that of the elder Ford himself. Sources close to the Ford company say the move not only clearly defines the future control of the company, but assures a continuance of the formidable competitive battle that centered around the organization during the presidency of the late Edsel B. Ford.

It often has been said that the elder Ford, who founded his fabulous industrial organization two score years ago in an east side Detroit carpenter shop, was a man of contradictions; that he counseled patience and the avoidance of haste on the one hand but moved with lightning-like speed in emergencies.

An emergency fraught with potentialities faced the determined elder statesman of the automobile industry when his only son, Edsel, died last May.

Edsel had moved quickly. And Ford moved quickly. Edsel had been president of the company for a quarter of a century. All the plans for the future of the Ford enterprises centered around him. "We expected father to carry on for many years," young Henry Ford remarked recently.

The elder Ford took over again the presidency of the company; he reorganized its top personnel; he obtained the release from the navy of Henry Ford II to begin a course of intensive training for ultimate responsibility as head of the far-flung organization.

Young Ford, who had been a director of the company, was made a vice-president and given tasks designed to further his knowledge of merchandising. He studied business administration at Yale.

His studies in the operations of the gigantic company for which his grandfather is said to once have refused more than a billion dollars, are going forward without interruption.

Meanwhile the elder Ford—an idealist compelled suddenly to become realistic—is carrying on. The interim task is no mean one—a war production program that runs into billions of dollars; a program that runs contrary to the Ford philosophy but one to which he has contributed enormous effort and advanced many millions of dollars despite his lifelong hatred of war.

Ford believes that education and good neighbor policies and practices—a brotherhood of nations—some day will outmode war as a means of settling international disputes. He has thrown his facilities completely into the production of bomber planes, aircraft engines, aircraft engine superchargers, armor plate, V-8 tank engines, M-8 armored cars and a dozen other weapons of war because he believes that by so doing he can speed the day of peace.

The elder Ford is unperturbed by widespread speculation and changes among his company's top personnel. Suggestions that certain resignations may jeopardize the company's future recall identical comment at various times over the past four decades as personnel changes became necessary.

It first was heard when the famed Norval Hawkins resigned as sales manager in the early days; when Ford and the late John F. and Horace E. Dodge parted company; when Ford clashed with all the minority stockholders of his company in 1919 and bought them out; when he and the late James Couzens came to the parting of the ways and again when William S. Knud-

Capt. Ralph S. Phelan of Houston is another one who just got the silver star the other day, although the thing he did to earn it happened last November back up on Mount Rotundo.

What he did then isn't in the book. He simply tore his machine-gun off its mount, dropped down on one knee and fired from the hip, stopping a German counter-attack.

Anyhow, both Jim and Roy got the silver star.

There's James V. (Jim) Jenkins of Bryson City, N. C., a private first class from Company G whose platoon was attacking near Terrell on the Cassino front back in February. Men were getting cut down on both sides of him by small arms and mortar fire. Finally the Germans started heaving hand grenades.

One landed right between Jim and his platoon leader, and the latter didn't see it. So, instead of hitting the dirt, Jim made a dive for the grenade, grabbed it and

The first meeting of the university Student Christian council will be held Monday afternoon at 4:15 in the Y. M. C. A. rooms at Iowa Union. Leaders of the Protestant student groups and their ministers should see that their new representatives are present at this first meeting.

EDWARD VORBA
President

On and Off Campus—
At what age do you think an elementary school child should choose his own reading material?

Mrs. R. F. Glen, housewife: "I think a child should be guided for quite awhile so that he doesn't spend too much time reading comic books. When a child gets to be 10 or 11 years old he should be able to choose almost all of his material if he has been properly guided. I would let my child choose at that age unless there was a very definite reason why I shouldn't."

Kathryn Powell, A3 of Ottumwa: "I am a rural school teacher and I think they should have a limited choice as soon as they are in the first grade. As they become more mature and independent their choice should become less limited."

Evelyn Sutherland, secretary: "With quite a bit of guidance, they surely should choose their own reading material as soon as they desire to. As they grow older the amount of guidance should be reduced."

Mrs. Hazel Langenberg, housewife: "It depends upon the child because there is wide difference in the ability and behavior of children. I find a difference in my children. Some are more grown up than others, and the age they begin choosing their own reading material would depend upon their own individual maturity."

Mrs. Anna Linder, grandmother, 837 Otto street: "Of course it all depends on the child. They have very definite preferences for their reading material when three years old for stories they want read to them. At about five or six years of age they should begin reading for themselves."

Mrs. F. H. Jespersen, secretary: "I would say they should be able to choose their own reading material when they are about eight or nine years old or even before then. They should have guidance so that they read books that are fitted to their own age."

Betty Berger, A2 of Ferris, Ill.: "I am a rural school teacher and I think children show preferences for their favorite books even when they must have them read for them. Their preferences should make up their leisure reading at the earliest possible time in order to develop their maximum interest in reading. The classroom required reading may be relied upon to broaden their interests and development."

Relieving the 34th Division—

Recently there has been agitation for introduction of a bill in congress that would relieve the 34th division from active combat. This division, a large proportion of its membership taken from Iowa and other midwest states, has been overseas for more than two years, many units in action for most of that time in north Africa, Sicily and Italy.

The army itself recently announced that it was working out a ratio plan of furloughs for men in the central and southwest Pacific. Many of these men also have been in combat areas for two years or more.

In the first World war, an entirely different type of warfare made it possible for men to be relieved after a short time at the front; they were sent to the rear for a rest before returning to the front-line trenches. But mobile warfare today makes such a system impractical. Men become more and more valuable with added experience.

Nevertheless, men still become weary. Wholesale killing is not a restful business, whether one is on the giving or receiving end.

These men in the Pacific and in Italy have taken about as much of it as they can be expected to take in one dose. If it is at all possible they should be relieved and given furloughs home. After sufficient rest they could then be reassigned either to combat or to work at home bases. In either case they ought certainly to do a better job after the rest.

Indians Still Prohibited Citizenship—

India, long a victim of British mismanagement, has now been dealt a resounding slap in the face by the United States. With the repeal of the Chinese Exclusion Acts, 390 million Indian nationals were at once marked with a stigma of inferiority.

Today, as a reward for their cooperation and heroic action in the war against Japan, the Chinese have been given the right to send 105 immigrants to our country annually—a definite advance over the old non-quota legislation of 1940. Yet the people of India, equally valiant warriors for the allied cause, are still prohibited citizenship and may enter the United States only as visitors.

Every country of course has the right to have such immigration laws as it sees fit. The Indian people do not deny this right, nor do they ask for any special privileges or treatment. What they do ask, however, is that the stigma placed upon them as a race be removed as it was so rightly done in the case of the Chinese. Surely if the motives which promoted the retraction of Chinese immigration laws were sound, then the same motives must apply to the Indian populace.

Passage of the proposed Indian immigration bill would be the logical solution to the problem. Such a measure would not only erase the mark of racial discrimination and intolerance, but would provide qualified nationals the same status as the Chinese—immigration and citizenship on a quota basis. Obviously the admission of 75 nationals of India per annum into the United States will create no economic or social problems. Indeed, the removal of the stigma of inferiority will afford a friendly atmosphere which will greatly facilitate trade relations and better international cooperation.

Now that we have lifted the bars for the Chinese, we can well afford to take the same steps in repealing Indian immigration laws.

How to Prove You're Not a Moron

NEW YORK (AP)—A moron under examination at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, just north of Chicago, was asked: "In what way are a fly and a tree the same or alike?"

"They both," he replied, "leave a spot where they were." And this was the brightest answer of all given to an hour's questioning by about 150 morons examined at the training station. The record of the 150 is told by Daniel H. Harris in the medical journal, "Hygia."

"You can't," he declares, "spot a moron just by looking at him. Most morons, look, dress and act like anyone else, at first glance. But inside their heads is a great loss of ordinary information."

Presidential Ticklers
The question, "Who was the last president before Franklin D. Roosevelt?" brings quite commonly the answer, Abraham Lincoln. George Washington also rates fairly high. Booker T. Washington and Huey P. Long draw a listing and Willie gets several mentions.

The inventor of the airplanes is likely to be Henry Ford, Lindbergh or Roosevelt. Occasionally Admiral Byrd gets the nod. One man said "The Wrong Brothers." Columbus scores double, as inventor of the airplane and discoverer of the north pole. Napoleon also discovered this moron north pole.

Will Rogers and Longfellow are likely to be named respectively as authors of Huckleberry Finn and Hamlet.

Daze in the Woods
"If you were lost in the woods in the daytime how would you go about finding your way out?"

Answer—"Go back the way I came or ask a policeman."

"What would you do if you were sitting in the movies and were the first person to discover a fire?"

Answer—"Holler fire," or "run out."

Mr. Harris does not tell the specific disposition of the classified morons but says:

Interpreting The— War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press War Analyst
Belated Tokio admission of allied landings in Dutch New Guinea to seize strategically important air fields found General MacArthur's air heavyweights striking at Sorong on the northwest tip of the big island.

They were better than half way over the remaining gap between Hollandia and southeastern Mindanao in the Philippines when they blasted Jemfan airdrome, 670 miles northwest of their indicated Hollandia take-off.

That may be the direction of the next allied leap-frog hop up the New Guinea causeway. In reviewing the surprising success of the now completed Hollandia operations that have trapped another 60,000 Japanese troops on New Guinea to their ultimate annihilation, Secretary Stimson noted that longer similar hops were to be expected. Occupation of Berau peninsula, New Guinea, would bring MacArthur's vanguard within less than 600 miles of Mindanao and less than 500 miles from the eastern portion of the Celebes island flanking the Strait of Makassar. Sorong lies on the western shore of the peninsula. The big planes sank ten troop laden barges and other craft in their raid on its airstrip and harbor.

The official account did not say which way those barges were moving. Presumably they were hurrying reinforcements to the garrisons of what remains of New Guinea in Japanese hands, a clear indication that Tokio expects immediate allied exploitation of the Hollandia operations in an effort to sweep all New Guinea clear of Nipponese resistance and turn it into a jump-off base for re-entry into the Philippines.

There are unofficial hints from MacArthur headquarters, however, that the next phase of combined central and southwestern Pacific operations worked out at MacArthur-Nimitz conferences will be directed northward rather than northwestward.

University Offers Summer Session in Hearing Conservation

Speech Clinic Courses Listed

Series of Lectures, Discussions Featured in Special Program

In response to the increasing demand for training in preparation for work in the federal rehabilitation program, public health agencies and public schools, a 1944 summer session program in hearing conservation is being offered at the University of Iowa.

The program, which includes a four-week training course in audiology and fitting of hearing aids, will feature a series of weekly lectures and discussions on speech and hearing rehabilitation led by outstanding authorities.

Facilities for research and clinical training in hearing conservation and speech correction will be available. Offered also are a six-week speech clinic for school children and adults with speech and hearing problems and graduate courses leading to the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. This work may be done in either the department of speech or the department of psychology with concentration in hearing conservation or speech pathology.

Course in Audiology
The course in audiology and fitting of hearing aids will be offered from June 26 to July 22. It will include lectures, demonstrations and practice in audiometric testing and fitting of hearing aids, demonstrations and lectures on lip reading and speech correction for the deaf and hard of hearing and lectures on phonetics, psychophysiology of hearing and related subjects.

This course is open to anyone, regardless of academic background. Applicants who do not have standard academic or professional degrees must be recommended by sponsors of recognized professional or educational standing.

Students who have been admitted to the graduate college may register for the course for three semester hours of credit toward an M.A. or Ph.D. degree.

The course will be under the direction of Dr. Dean M. Lierle, head of the department of oral surgery and otolaryngology, and chairman of the committee on conservation of hearing of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology.

Registration will take place at the first meeting of the class. Tuition is $25.

Weekly Lectures
Students enrolled for this course may also attend the weekly lectures and discussions on speech and hearing rehabilitation. This series is designed to provide speech correction service for school children and adults. Scheduling of this summer speech clinic at the university has been announced by Director Wendell Johnson. The course will run from June 19 to July 28.

This series on speech and hearing rehabilitation will offer corrective instruction and will be available for those afflicted with stuttering, voice and articulation disorders and retarded speech. It will also give aid to those afflicted with hearing defects allied with hearing, cleft palate, spastic paralysis and other organic conditions.

Each week from June 23 to July 22 there will be a Friday afternoon lecture and a Saturday morning roundtable discussion open to students, faculty and the public. Lectures will include speech hygiene, hearing aids and related subjects.

Mental Hygiene Discussions
Discussions will cover principles of mental hygiene in speech and hearing rehabilitation, principles of lip reading, speech and hearing rehabilitation as a war and post-war problem and the fitting of hearing aids and training in their use.

In the graduate curriculum, students may earn the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees with concentration in hearing conservation or in speech pathology. These may be earned in either the department of speech or the department of psychology.

At the graduate level, the general speech pathology program will include such courses as anatomy of the ear and vocal organs, lip reading, voice and phonetics, acoustics and research in speech pathology.

Kathleen Lenore Bowling Becomes Bride Of Dr. Charles R. Fesenmeyer of Detroit

In a double ring ceremony, Kathleen Lenore Bowling, daughter of Mrs. J. A. Andrews of Centerville, became the bride of Dr. Charles R. Fesenmeyer of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Fesenmeyer of Riceville, yesterday at 5:30 in the Presbyterian church. The Rev. H. I. Jones officiated.

Preceding the ceremony, Keith Frankhauser of Iowa City, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, sang "Because" and "I Love You." Mrs. Thomas M. Muir, organist, played the traditional wedding marches. The church was decorated with bouquets of yellow and white snapdragons, palms and candelabra.

Attending the bride was Dorothy Bowen of Iowa City as maid of honor. Dr. Robert W. Lee of Des Moines, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, and Rex Harrington, also a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

Bride Wears White
The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of sheer white material, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, shirred bodice and short sleeves. She wore elbow-length gloves and her floor-length veil fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a bridal bouquet of white gladioli and snapdragons. The maid of honor selected a yellow net gown with a sweetheart neckline and full skirt. She also wore elbow length gloves and her shoulder length veil fell from a yellow ruffled headband. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet-peas and Johanna Hill roses with yellow streamers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Andrews wore a lettuce green crepe dress with British tan accessories. Her corsage was of talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother selected a powder blue ensemble with a corsage of pink roses.

Wedding Dinner
A wedding dinner in the Jefferson hotel for the immediate families of the couple followed the ceremony. A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the table.

The bride, a graduate of Centerville high school and junior college, received her degree from the school of nursing at the university in 1942. She is now a nursing supervisor at University hospital.

Dr. Fesenmeyer received his B.A. and M.D. degrees from the university, where he was affiliated with Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity. At present he is serving internship at Harper hospital in Detroit. The couple will be at home there at 92 Orchestra place.

Recent pre-nuptial courtesies from Mrs. Fesenmeyer included a dinner and miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Roy Brown in the home of her mother, Mrs. L. G. Walters, 329 Lee street.

Dog Licenses Must Be Taken Out By Monday

All dog licenses for 1944 must be taken out by Monday, May 1, announced Mayor W. J. Teeters yesterday.

The municipal code states that licenses must be purchased by everyone who owns a dog—an owner being defined as anyone who has harbored or cared for a dog over a period of three days.

Police Chief O. A. White, dog marshal, also announced that Monday notices will be posted as provided in the municipal code.

A regulation tag will be issued when each license is taken out, and unless a dog is wearing one of these tags, it is subject to impoundment. All dogs impounded are taken to the University hospital and will be held there three days. If, at the end of that time, the license fee and two dollars redemption fee have not been paid, the dogs will be used for experimental purposes, said Mayor Teeters.

The police department and the mayor's office report having received many complaints from property owners, victory gardeners and flower lovers with reference to dogs, chickens and other animals running at large.

Mayor Teeters warned that this law will be enforced and requested the cooperation of all owners in keeping their animals confined to their own property.

A fee of 25 cents and an additional 10 cents for each day held will be assessed on all fowls impounded.

Browns Meet Major Record

White Sox Bow Again, 3-1 as Jack Kramer Leads St. Louis Nine

CHICAGO (AP)—The St. Louis Browns tied a modern major league record yesterday when they defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1, for their ninth successive victory since the start of the season.

The Browns tied the record held jointly by the New York Giants of 1918 and the Brooklyn Dodgers of 1940.

By stopping the White Sox with a four-hit performance, Jack Kramer won his third triumph of the season and his second against the Chicago team. Kramer won a pitchers' duel from Bill Dietrich, who gave up seven hits in the eight innings he worked.

The Sox got only one man past second base, when Hal Trosky doubled in the second inning and scored on an infield out for the Sox' only run of the game.

Ten Derby Eligibles Set for Chesapeake Stakes, Pukka Gin Out

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ten Kentucky derby eligibles were named yesterday for today's $25,000-added Chesapeake stakes, final rich test for the bluegrass classic, but Pukka Gin was not among them—and he probably will not run in the derby.

Pukka Gin, the Col. C. V. Whitney colt who was the winterbook favorite for the derby, was to have been given a chance to improve his poor showing in last Saturday's Wood Memorial, but he began bleeding from the mouth after a workout this morning and was declared out of the Chesapeake. Trainer Andy Schuttlinger immediately said it was doubtful Pukka Gin would be shipped to Louisville.

The principal derby candidates named overnight for the Havre de Grace track stake, transplanted to Pimlico for the joint race meeting, were Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, Mrs. Ella K. Bryson's Director J. E., and Calumet Farm's Pensive.

DES MOINES (AP)—University and college track coaches last night voted to ignore an AAU decision barring a cadet, Bob Stuber of the Iowa Pre-Flight school, from participating in the Drake relays on the grounds that he is a former professional football player.

The decision of the coaches, reached after a lengthy session in which relay officials and state AAU officers participated, was promptly accepted by the relays committee composed of Des Moines business and sports leaders.

Reds Spill Pirates, 2-0, Behind Heusser's Seven-Hit Hurling

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati's Reds continued their low-scoring but winning ways yesterday by defeating Pittsburgh 2-0 behind Ed Heusser's seven-hit hurling, to move into a second place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

One of two Pirate errors helped the Reds' scoring in the second when Frank McCormick singled, advanced on Bob Elliott's wild throw and tallied on Eric Tipton's single. Came the fourth, and McCormick doubled, to cross pay dirt on Eddie Miller's single.

The Reds have scored five of their six victories on four runs or less.

Braves Star Hurlers In 2-1 Win Over Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Boston Braves continued to feature pitching yesterday as Nate Andrews went the route in an 11 inning 2 to 1 victory over the Phillies. He allowed seven hits.

The Phillies tied the score at 1-all with a ninth inning rally when Ford Mullen singled pinch-hitter Coaker Triplett across the plate.

A single by Connie Ryan, two sacrifice bunts that were thrown too late for force plays, and Butch Nieman's fly to left accounted for the winning run.

Easton who said the relays were conducted under rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association rather than those of the AAU, said the committee would be guided in its action by coaches of the 35 colleges and universities sending contestants to the carnival.

The principal figures in the controversy were athletes entered by the Iowa Naval Pre-Flight training school—Bob Stuber, former University of Missouri athlete and a backfield star last year with the Chicago Bears professional gridder, and Dick Wakefield, 1943 Detroit Tigers outfielder and one-time University of Michigan athlete.

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, said both were ineligible to compete under an AAU agreement with the army and the navy freezing the status of pre-war pro athletes.

Informed in Philadelphia of the stand taken by the Drake officials, Ferris declared that "if the AAU ruling is disregarded those amateurs who compete against professionals will, from then on, be considered professionals and disqualified in amateur meets."

Lt. Comdr. Harvey Harman, director of athletics at the pre-flight school, termed Ferris' ruling absurd in that Stuber, while a naval trainee at Marquette university, had competed in the Purdue relays March 25 against Wisconsin, Notre Dame and other mid-west schools, without any objection from the AAU.

In addition, Harman referred to Easton's declaration last February 10 that the relays were an "open meet," which Harman said meant that amateurs and professionals alike could compete.

A's Shatter 5-5 Tie in 16th

BOSTON (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics shattered a 5-5 deadlock in the 16th inning yesterday as "Woody" Wheaton singled with the bases loaded to drive home two runs for a 7-5 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Ed Busch opened the inning by singling off relief pitcher Clem Hausmann's leg and Irving Hall advanced him with a single to center. After Joe Berry went out on a third strike foul bunt, Jo Jo White walked to fill the bases and Wheaton contributed his game winning single, his first hit in eight trips to the plate during the afternoon.

From The Sidelines . . .

by Yoke

Well, at this writing, things are really poppin' on the home front. (Note other story on this page of Lt. Comdr. Harvey Harman's trip to Des Moines). It seems that the good commander is marshalling all of his forces for a frontal attack against the A. A. U.

And the gentleman in question has some very good reasons to back his contention. Note those concern Stuber's participation in the Purdue relays and Frank Ryan's recent winning in the Texas affair.

Now this is all well and good and those arguments will hold water in anyone's court. But it looks like the A. A. U. is putting up a strong argument to the contrary. They have flatly banned Stuber and Dick Wakefield, whom we mentioned as having been scratched at our last writing, and have said that anyone of an amateur standing who competes in the race will be considered a professional by the AAU from now on.

As in any test case, someone is going to get badly stepped on and I feel rather sure that it will be Harman. You can't buck the AAU and when your leaving your case at the hands of the 56 other coaches at the meet your liable to be crushed by the fickle finger of professional jealousy as well as a strong attempt at judging just what is best for the entire athletic picture.

If the ruling does go in favor of the navy coach it will set in motion a good deal of trouble for other tournament officials all over the U. S. I think Mr. Ferris means what he says, and I don't think Mr. Harman will be successful in the one man revolt of Iowa City.

There isn't any thing one can say gracefully concerning the Iowa season. What we had high hopes would be another fascinating cage season, has dwindled to a dismal matter of getting the rest of the games over with.

However, there is one light of hope in the thing. That must have been a rather interesting game Thursday against Western Michigan. When you take into consideration that both men pitched six hit ball and that Iowa was only unfortunate in not being able to group its hits better, then we find some balm for an open wound.

Someone said to me that it was a good game that Iowa played against Michigan when the score ended up 20-2. Yea, so was the Louis fight until he knocked Schmeling out in 1 and a fraction minutes of the first round.

Carty Spencer, the playing coach, certainly must have felt that he would have lots rather been the coach on the bench than the coach on the field.

Michigan, Dartmouth, NYU Share Penn Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Michigan, Dartmouth and New York University shared major honors yesterday in the first day's competition of the 50th annual Penn relay track extravaganza before 5,000 at Franklin field.

Michigan's Big Ten champions romped to a 100-yard triumph in the distance medley. Dartmouth, second to Michigan in the distance medley, snared the sprint medley title in which the Ann Arbor youths did not compete. New York university successfully defended its quarter-mile crown.

No records were threatened because of a track made heavy by several days rain, but despite this, the Michigan quartet of Willis Glas, Bob Ufer and the Hume twins—Ross and Bob—cut more than three seconds off last year's time in taking the distance medley in 10:20.1. Notre Dame won the event in 1943 in 10:23.2.

Cleveland Indians Tilt Detroit Tigers, 2-1; Harder Wins Again

DETROIT (AP)—Mel Harder, 34-year-old curve-baller whose goal is 200 American league pitching victories, racked up another yesterday by spacing 10 hits to give the Cleveland Indians a 2 to 1 decision over the Detroit Tigers. Cleveland thus ended a four-game losing streak.

Paul Trout yielded six hits while going down to his second 2 to 1 defeat of the season. Russ Peters doubled in the first and third innings and each time was driven home by Mike Rocco. Trout tripled and scored Detroit's run in the third.

Helena Marie Costolo Weds Paul G. Ipsen In Church Ceremony

Before an altar decorated with bouquets of pink and white snapdragons, Helena Marie Costolo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Costolo, route 4, became the bride of Paul G. Ipsen, Monday at 9 a. m. in St. Mary's church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Carl Meinberg performed the single ring ceremony.

Zita Ann Fuhrmann presented organ selections and the soloist was William Machovec.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Ipsen, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride chose a princess style gown of white satin for her wedding, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves.

Her gathered skirt extended into a junior train and her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of white lilies and lilies of the valley.

Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and her bouquet was of pink roses and white snapdragons.

Rose Satin Gown The matron of honor was attired in a gown of rose brocaded satin, princess style.

She wore a shoulder-length veil of pink net which was held in place by a tiara of roses, and carried a bouquet of pink and white snapdragons.

Mrs. Costolo selected a navy blue sheer ensemble with a corsage of pink roses for her daughter's wedding.

A breakfast in the home of the bride's parents honored the couple after the ceremony, and a reception was held at 1 p. m. in the Pine room of Reich's cafe.

The bride was graduated from Cosgrove high school and attended Brown's college of commerce here. Prior to her marriage she served as secretary to the USO director.

Mr. Ipsen, a graduate of St. Patrick's high school, attended Iowa State college at Ames and is now engaged in dairy farming. The couple will reside on a farm on route five.

Formal Graduation Dance Tonight at 8

The formal graduation dance of battalion 2B of the Navy Pre-flight school will take place tonight from 8 until 11 o'clock in the main lounge of Iowa union.

In charge of the affair will be Cadet W. V. Dunn, chairman; Cadets B. S. Leavell, F. E. Evans, R. D. Horan, K. W. Hobbs, H. R. Emerson and E. J. Smith Jr.

Chaperons will be Lieut. and Mrs. R. T. Antil, Ens. and Mrs. H. J. Cavan and Ens. and Mrs. J. H. Farmer.

Summer Management Course Offered Again

Output increased 550% because one man was able to do the work of five who could see. One company saved over $20,000 with a re-designed carton for packing cereal boxes.

The idea of attaching advertising cardboard back to a floor tile sample increased output by 188%.

These are just some of the more outstanding examples of improvement in production and methods developed by representatives of industrial firms in last summer's management course, according to Prof. Ralph M. Barnes of the college of engineering, director of the course.

Classes on production planning, plant layout, and motion and time study are expected to produce equally profitable results in this year's course. The course, with enrollment limited, will run from June 12 to 30. Twelve visiting industrial experts will be members of the staff of instructors.

James J. Moran, 78, Retired Farmer, Dies

James J. Moran, 78, retired farmer of Cosgrove, died at the home of his niece, Mrs. George Hamon, near Iowa City early yesterday morning. Mr. Moran had been an invalid for the past three years. He was a member of St. Peter's church of Cosgrove.

He was born in Trenton, N. J., on Jan. 11, 1866, the son of John and Anna Moran. He came to Iowa as a child and has lived in Johnson county ever since.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter's church in Cosgrove. The body will remain at the Hohenschuh mortuary until the time of the service.

He is survived by his two sisters, Mrs. Mary Rohret of Cosgrove and Mrs. Anna Norris of Iowa City; one brother, John, of Parnell; three nieces and two nephews.

investment banker and a Democrat, has been undersecretary since 1940 and is familiar with the navy department's administrative problems. For the time being Forrestal will continue as acting secretary.

Knox, who was sworn in July 11, 1940, was possibly the cabinet's most travelled member during the war. His constant desire, he explained, was to see the navy's ships and shore stations and especially to let the men in distant outposts know by his presence that they were not forgotten.

A year ago he was at Espiritu Santo, a south Pacific fleet base, when the Japanese bombed that island, and also was at Guadalcanal during a bombing attack. His last formal message to the fleet probably summed up his philosophy for fighting men, of whom he always counted himself one. Written on the occasion of Navy day, last October, it declared:

"Seek out the enemy—and destroy him! Today, tomorrow and tomorrow we must attack." Funeral services for Knox will be held Monday in the Mt. Pleasant Congregational church at 1 p. m. They will be conducted by Dr. Fred S. Buschmeyer, assisted by Navy Chaplain S. W. Salis-

FDR Views Death As 'Heavy Loss'

President Roosevelt said last night the death of Secretary of the Navy Knox is a "heavy loss to us and to me especially who had come to lean on him increasingly. He has done much for his country; he has helped greatly in our defense and in making victory certain."

Admiral Ernest J. King, navy commander in chief, using the terse navy phrase that confers the highest praise, said: "Well done, Frank Knox." The navy, he added, should dedicate itself "to what surely would have been his last order—carry on."
