Allies Hit Nazi Anti-Invasion Rail Network

4,000 Warplanes Deliver Crushing Blows on Continent

LONDON, Friday, (AP)—The Nazis' anti-invasion transportation network was given its most devastating pounding of the war yesterday by 4,000 allied warplanes which dropped 7,000 tons of bombs and early today RAF night raiders carried the offensive into its 28th consecutive day with a new attack on the coast of northern France.

The seaside town of Folkestone, on England's channel shore, reverberated from the shock of the high explosives blasting targets in the darkness across the Strait of Dover.

The raid lasted only a short time, starting soon after a great force of heavy bombers roared across to the continent and appeared to be concentrated in the vicinity of the port of Boulogne. But while it lasted the ground around Folkestone trembled and windows and dishes rattled.

The daylight raids by American and British formations made up of all types of bombers and fighters mauled 19 different Nazi rail centers as well as other targets. The attackers encountered little fighter opposition and varying degrees of anti-aircraft fire.

The United States strategic air forces, announcing the results of assaults on 11 German-used railway yards in Belgium, France, Luxembourg and western Germany by the Eighth air force, reported 16 heavy bombers and 10 fighters failed to return.

Eighteen enemy planes were shot down in these operations, three by gunners aboard the bombers and 15 by the escorting fighters.

"Bombs were dropped in clear weather with generally satisfactory results," the communique said. "Enemy fighter opposition was weak."

In addition to the attacks by Fortresses and Liberators of the Eighth air force, other allied planes swept back and forth across France and the lowlands, pounding eight other vital rail centers and military installations along the invasion coast.

The widespread attacks against railroad centers certainly were the heaviest ever launched against the enemy's communications system and as reports of the day's operations continued to flow from air headquarters there were indications that this might prove to have been the biggest day of the war for aircraft based in Britain.

House Begins Debate On G. I. Bill of Rights

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A controversy over educational provisions of the "G. I. bill of rights" split the house into two groups yesterday, each accusing the other of seeking to impose bureaucratic control from Washington over state and private schools.

The first of probably four days of debate on the overall veterans' benefits measure found little in dispute except the provision for sending qualified veterans to school after the war and paying their tuition and subsistence.

However, there is a likelihood that before a vote on final passage, scheduled for Thursday, an attempt will be made to broaden unemployment compensation provisions.

Bricker Criticizes New Deal Farm Plan

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio last night condemned what he termed the New Deal's farm policy of "scarcity of production" and recommended reorganization of the department of agriculture.

"The New Deal agricultural program is dominated by the belief that the American farmer doesn't know his own business," Bricker asserted in a radio address prepared for delivery over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

20,000 Japs Killed In Past 3 1/2 Months

Official Estimate Lists All Enemy Casualties In Burma, India

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon (AP)—At least 20,000 Japanese have been killed in Burma and northeastern India in the past three and a half months, it was estimated at headquarters yesterday as allied ground troops advanced in most sectors under powerful air support.

An official estimate placed the number of enemy dead at 15,000 around Imphal and Kohima in India, on the Arakan front in lower Burma and in operations by allied air-borne forces in central Burma. This figure did not include more than 5,000 Japanese killed by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's troops in northern Burma up to March 29.

There has been no estimate of allied casualties in the effort to throw the Japanese out of India and to cut a supply road across northern Burma to China, but they are believed to have been much lighter than those suffered by the enemy.

Dispatches continued to indicate the Japanese were making their main effort in the Palel area, some 28 miles south of Imphal, though they are closer to the big allied base at other points. Allied forces were reported to have inflicted casualties on superior enemy units both northeast and southeast of Palel.

Maj. Richard Bong, Southwest Pacific Ace, Dislikes New Job as Gunnery Instructor

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Maj. Richard Bong thinks that fighter pilots could profit by more gunnery training, but Bong definitely does not like the idea of being the teacher.

But that's what has happened to him, he reported yesterday. The first army ace to break Eddie Rickenbacker's World War record of 26 aerial victories is—as matters stand now—through with combat flying why?

"I don't know," he told a press conference. "I guess maybe General Kenny thought I might get killed."

At any rate, he is back from the southwest Pacific where he got 27 confirmed aerial victories and eight probable to brush up on aerial gunnery teaching methods and go back to the southwest Pacific as an instructor. Maybe, someone suggested, after

Liberators Set Fires On Nip Base at Truk In Midday Raids

Planes From Solomons Oppose 20 Fighters To Press Attacks

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Friday (AP)—Liberator bombers from the Solomons set fires on Japan's naval base at Truk Wednesday and other bombers cratered the runway at Woleai in the western Carolines Tuesday, headquarters reported today.

The Liberators went over Truk shortly before noon Wednesday, pressing their attacks against a defense of 20 Japanese fighters. One Liberator was shot down.

At Woleai, 525 statute miles west of Truk, there were two attacks Tuesday, one at midday and the other at night. Twenty-eight tons of bombs were dropped in the midday attack and smoke from the resultant fires rose 2,000 feet.

These Caroline raids from the south and southwest Pacific are integrated with other attacks on those same islands by bombers from the Marshall Islands.

Today's communique also told of bombing and strafing attacks by all types of planes Wednesday at Wewak and Hansa bay on New Guinea. Those are the sectors where Japanese garrisons trapped the reported concentrating.

On the southeastern end of that trap, headquarters said today that Australian forces moved near Cape Croisilles, 16 miles north of Alexishafen. The gap between those Aussies and the American Sixth army forces at Aitape is a little over 20 miles.

Yank Bombers Blast Japanese Positions From Wake to Truk

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Bombers of the Seventh army air force blasted Japanese positions from Wake island to Truk in the Carolines, 1,300 miles apart, and struck again into the Marshall Islands, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday in reporting aerial activity for May 8 and 9.

Resuming the raids on Truk, after skipping two days, Liberators hit airstrips and defenses with 49 tons of explosives Monday night. A possible his was scored on a Japanese ship near Moen island. Four enemy airborne planes refused to take on the raiders.

Wake island was attacked Tuesday night by Liberators but no details were given.

Witnesses Support River Development

WASHINGTON (AP)—A score of witnesses was paraded before a senate commerce subcommittee yesterday by Senator Clark (D-Mo) to support a proposed nine-foot channel development in the Missouri river from Sioux City to the mouth.

All expressed a desire to see the upper basin, which depends on irrigation, prosper but none would consent to an amendment to the house-passed rivers and harbors bill to give irrigation priority. They also insisted that developments on the stream should be managed by the army engineers.

Nazis Launch Attack On Long-Quiet Front

Both Moscow, Berlin Report Strong Assault Begins in Bessarabia

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The Germans launched a strong assault Thursday against the Soviet bridgehead northwest of Tiraspol on the long-quiet lower Dnestr river front in Bessarabia, both Moscow and Berlin announced, but the Russians said the attack was repulsed with heavy Nazi losses while the German command claimed the Soviet holdings were wiped out.

Eisenhower Reveals—G-5 Will Rule Reich

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN—The ranking American is Brig. Gen. Aulus C. Holmes, a Kansan who in peace was a diplomat and businessman, and who accompanied Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark on his daring pre-invasion submarine trip to north Africa. Later he was Eisenhower's chief of the military government section.

Chief of operations is Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, Washington, D. C., who was the first United States officer to enter Naples. Spokesmen said that in friendly countries, a civil affairs team of from 10 to 44 officers and men would enter a village, province or city accompanied by a representative of the government in exile.

In the case of France, it will be Gen. Charles De Gaulle's national committee of liberation. Agreements for the administration of liberated Norway, Belgium and the Netherlands are almost ready for signature.

First, pro-Nazis, collaborators, Vichyites and the like will be thrown out and trustworthy officials of the royal engineers.

Yanks Held By Japs May Get Supplies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hope that relief supplies may be sent to American prisoners held by Japan revived yesterday with Secretary of State Hull's disclosure that he had received a Japanese note about the distribution of stores piled up in Vladivostok.

Early last fall the Red Cross dispatched to the Russian port 1,500 tons of food and medicine for the 19,916 American war prisoners and 6,652 civilians in Japanese hands; but the Japanese made no move for forwarding the supplies.

Hull said the note, which came through Switzerland, sets certain conditions for the distribution of the supplies, which he said is now studying.

The Red Cross said the Russians agreed, when the shipment was sent, to allow a monthly allotment of 1,500 tons to pass through their hands and it is hoped that if Japan finally makes satisfactory arrangements for distribution, the supplies can be sent regularly.

War to Date Cost $178,500,000,000

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The war to date has cost this country, in direct expenditures, about $178,500,000,000 (billions). This amount covers spending for war activities since July 1, 1940.

Last month war spending averaged $294,000,000 (millions) a day. For the first eight business days of May, the rate was $319,000,000 (millions) a day.

Ward Official Freed Of Poster Charge

Government Drops Prosecution in Case Of Removal of Sign

CHICAGO (AP)—Paul D. Sowell, assistant to the operating manager of Montgomery Ward and company, was freed yesterday of a charge based on his removal of a government poster from a bulletin board in one of firm's buildings while they were under federal control.

United States commissioner Edwin K. Walker dismissed the case after Assistant District Attorney William Connor told him the government would drop prosecution.

Earlier, Frances Heisler, counsel for local 20 of the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees union, filed a petition in superior court asking that the concern pay $21,067 to the union for attorneys' fees and losses which he alleged resulted from an injunction, issued against the union during a recent strike.

Heisler maintained that the injunction, limiting the number of pickets at the plants to 42, deprived the strike of some of its effectiveness. CIO unionists went out April 12 but returned April 26 at request of President Roosevelt and the injunction was dissolved.

The union, winner of a collective bargaining election this week, awaited a reply from Sewell, Ward's chief executive officer, on its request for a meeting to discuss a new contract. The CIO was prepared to seek inclusion of a maintenance of membership clause, while Avery has stated he would oppose such a provision.

Japs Win Control Of Chinese Railway

CHUNGKING, Friday (AP)—The Japanese invaders of Honan province have won control of the entire length of the important Peiping-Hankow railway and in swift gains over a wide area have trapped several groups of Chinese troops, the Chinese command acknowledged today.

There was a spreading air of concern in China as the Japanese threatened Loyang from several directions. Possession of the city would strengthen their hold on the Peiping-Hankow railway. This line gives them good communication and transport from their northern base to the Yangtze river in central China.

Not since the Japanese drive on Hankow in 1938 have they made so serious a threat. Already about 60,000 square miles of rich Honan province has passed into Japanese control.

Spokesmen of War, Navy Departments Ask End of Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The war and navy departments called on the Foremen's Association of America last night to end a strike which has tied up munitions production at 13 plants in the Detroit area.

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Acting Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal declared the work stoppage is "endangering the lives" of soldiers and sailors.

Adequate Institutional Space Needed—

Children should sleep in the sunniest and driest rooms that are available, should be guarded against undue exposure, and given plenty of rest. Unless these opportunities are afforded, the child may be permanently crippled and any strenuous taxing of the heart will result in immediate death.

There are, in the United States, a mere handful of institutions devoted to the care of children with rheumatic fever. And these few have not received the support merited by the quality and character of their work. Indeed, the vast majority of the public is actually unaware of the critical situation.

A great many more hospitals and health centers are needed. The long lying-in period of nearly six months allows for a slow turnover of patients, and there must be hundreds of institutions to accommodate these cases. Since early recognition and care of the disease is of prime importance to the future health of the 500,000 fever victims, there must be adequate hospitals for their care.

The public must be shaken from their complacency and acknowledge this essential need if there is to be any widespread hope for the thousands of rheumatic fever sufferers. More and more hospitals are ever needed!

One of the greatest needs of America today is adequate institutional space for children with rheumatic fever—children who need the kind of medical attention and nursing care that are made available in sanatoriums like Irvington-on-the-Hudson in New York and the LaRabida sanatorium in Chicago.
According to Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of Hygeia, an estimated 500,000 children and another 500,000 adults in the United States have crippled hearts that represent a previous infection with rheumatic fever. Most of these cases begin in childhood between the fifth and fifteenth year, usually resulting from inadequate clothing, housing, food and sunshine.
Attacking insidiously, its first ravages are frequently unnoticed, are attributed to growing pains. Then progressively, and often irreparably, it damages the heart. There can be no orthopedic surgery to reconstruct the damaged tissues, and most of those affected by rheumatic fever die before they are 30 years old. For the rest, there is today only the hope that can be offered by good medical care under the best possible conditions.
The most essential need at present lies in early recognition of the disease and provision for prolonged care. Rheumatic chil-

Backers of Other Candidates Stand Firm Against Dewey

WASHINGTON — Backers of Ohio's Governor John Bricker, United States Chamber of Commerce President Eric Johnston and Lieut. Comdr. Harold Stassen of the navy for the Republican presidential nomination are standing their ground, although most of them now privately concede New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey will win the GOP plum in a romp.

It is an open secret on Capitol Hill that Dewey probably will be named to head the ticket on the first ballot, and certainly by the second.

Thus, with announcement that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is not a candidate, Bricker, Johnston and Stassen—in the eyes of their sponsors—are top-flight vice-presidential timber, and authoritative political sources believe one of them will be Dewey's running mate when the chips are down.

Led by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, backers of the Buckeye governor will wage a hard but futile fight and then gladly settle for the second place on the ticket. Republicans are said to feel that Bricker, from the middle west, would be certain to bring Ohio into their camp in November. They regard him as a sound, able citizen who would round out what they consider an "invincible" Dewey ticket.

Stassen, who resigned as Minnesota's governor to enter the navy, will be backed to the hilt by Senator Joseph Ball, his campaign manager. Stassen, who already has announced that he can be "drafted" for the presidency, is thought also willing to accept the vice-presidential nomination—particularly in the light of views on international cooperation and peace machinery expressed by Dewey in his speech last week in New York.

The real "dark horse," however, may well be suave, world-minded Eric Johnston, who has put his views more and more before the public as time for the convention approaches.
Johnston, a middle-of-the-road liberal, is a far westerner, from the state of Washington, who would weigh heavily on the Pacific coast in the voting.

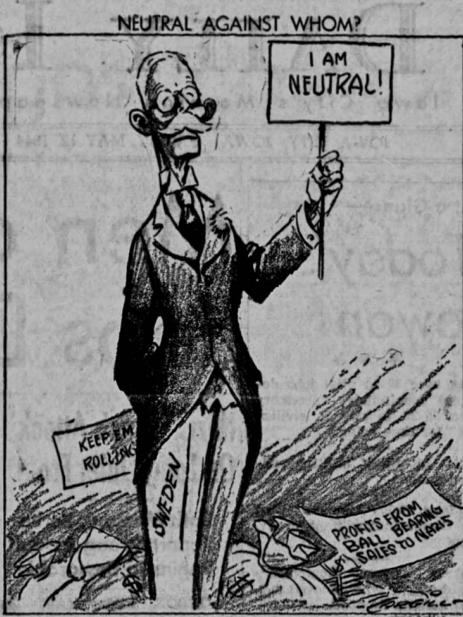

Death of Navy Secretary Frank Knox dealt a heavy blow to plans for the merger of the armed services into a single department of national defense.
Members of the house committee on post-war military policy revealed that Knox, just before his death, was ready to endorse the proposed merger in principle.

Instead, acting Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal came before the committee and voiced opposition of the navy to immediate legislation consolidating the armed services.
This has caused some members of the house to question whether Forrestal would exert any great influence on the powerful group of senior admirals who control the navy, or would give them a free hand. The movement to install Forrestal as Knox's successor is said to have the backing of the admirals.

With the army leading the fight to merge the armed service, President Roosevelt is faced with a problem of far-reaching importance. And this problem may have some bearing on selection of a successor to Knox.

Sending troops into the Chicago properties of Montgomery Ward and company is virtually certain to bring efforts in congress to restrict powers of the president when the second war powers act comes up for renewal.
This act, with its vast body of powers, must be renewed before Dec. 31 or it will go out of existence.

Therefore, sometime in the coming months administration leaders in congress must start in motion a bill to continue the act. When they do, senators and representatives on the chief executive's powers to take over properties.
Labor experts read into the short-lived rebellion of United Mine Workers leaders in Illinois a move on the part of Ray Edmondson, Illinois state U. M. W. president, to succeed John L. Lewis as national head of the union.
Edmondson had been Lewis' heir apparent for a long time, but apparently the "boss" felt his Illinois lieutenant was getting too big for his britches. So the U. M. W. executive board slashed Illinois' administrative funds.
Edmondson exploded and announced his resignation as state U. M. W. president.

News Behind the News Chester Bowles Glimpses New Post-War Horizons in Tax Readjustment

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON—Some men abroad, therefore, any credit the government are beginning to look toward a new horizon for post-war.

Chester Bowles, the OPA administrator, in a too-little-noticed speech at Yale, Monday, took a glimpse at it. He suggested modernized leadership by government for readjustment of tax and spending policies so taxes would be decreased (to encourage private spending) as national income falls and declining business appears, with increased taxation automatically whenever national income expands—thus to exert pressure for an even purchasing power among the people.

But he encountered some sun blindness when he set forth a three point post-war program: (1) Government support for high price and wage levels; (2) large volume of exports on credit for world reconstruction; and (3) a great shelf of truly non-political, useful public works, which backlog he called "the key" to the whole post-war sustenance proposition, to be used as business gets slack.

In this, he contradicts himself and uses the wrong key, as having exhibited the right one, as can be simply demonstrated.
High prices and wage levels, truly must be maintained and by firm democratic leadership (not specific fixing of prices and wages which cannot work in peace because it will create more black markets than you ever heard of, as Mr. Bowles seems to agree).

But, great government credit to the world and a backlog of public works do not fit in with this desire, or with his program on taxes. This government has no money. It will wind up this war probably $250,000,000,000 or much more in representatives on the chief executive's powers to take over properties.

Labor experts read into the short-lived rebellion of United Mine Workers leaders in Illinois a move on the part of Ray Edmondson, Illinois state U. M. W. president, to succeed John L. Lewis as national head of the union.
Edmondson had been Lewis' heir apparent for a long time, but apparently the "boss" felt his Illinois lieutenant was getting too big for his britches. So the U. M. W. executive board slashed Illinois' administrative funds.
Edmondson exploded and announced his resignation as state U. M. W. president.

Why do it that way, or even think of doing it that way? The government has no money, but the people have. Great reservoirs of cash are piled up in this country, enough to threaten inflation. Why not adjust government economic leadership toward the release of that money in times of stress and its contraction in times of plenty?

Why not adjust not only your tax policy, but all government policies (price and wage, bonuses, lending, necessary spending, agriculture, banking, even transportation) to national income, so as to encourage private spending as business slack develops and cut it off as business rises.
A steel union has just given out figures indicating its cash reserve is more than $3,500,000. How much do you think John Lewis has in his sock? CIO? AFL?
Add to these the reserves of all the corporations and the individuals in this country (stagnant money) and you will see that a revision of government policy away from its own political spending and toward an individual spending program might do the whole job, warding off inflation, sustaining the high price-wage level and the government debts, and perpetuating a sound economic level in a democratic way.

Butchers, Customers Happy About Smaller Number of Red Points

CHICAGO, (AP)—More than a week of ration-free meat eating has produced one certain fact—both butchers and customers are happy that they no longer need deal with points for most meat cuts.

On other possible effects of the OPA's action in removing all meat except beef steaks and beef roasts from rationing there is a difference of opinion as wide as that prevailing at a race track.
A nation-wide survey by The Associated Press regarding retail meat sales, plus checks with livestock producers and big packers here, evoked such divergent viewpoints as the following:
Meat sales have increased tremendously with "runs on canned meat by hoarders"—or, sales have declined because "housewives feel they now may buy at leisure."

The present OPA meat policy "can only be followed by severe meat shortages"—or, there is plenty of potential meat roaming the ranges and gobbling corn in feed lots, and this livestock will come to market later in the year.
Buying of pork has halted the steady expansion in cooler stocks of this meat—or, pork stocks are continuing to increase because heavy hog runs have more than balanced an expansion in pork sales.

You put down your money and you take your meat—maybe on the elation of retailers at the OPA move was this from Chattanooga—"biggest help to me is faster handling of customers, with two less countermen taking care of 10 percent more customers."

There was one dark spot on this idyllic scene of happy butchers and jovial customers. Some customers were having rationed beef ground into hamburger and then insisting it should be ration-free.
From both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts came reports that supplies of some meats—particularly beef, veal and lamb—still were well below potential demand.
A. F. Guckenber, executive secretary of the New York state food merchants association, asserted, "business has been brisk but no one is waiting in line to buy point-free meat. One reason is we haven't too much meat on hand."

Some similar opinions came from Miami, Los Angeles, Providence, San Francisco, Nashville, Albany, Charleston, New Orleans, Memphis, Buffalo, Boston, Detroit and a few other cities not located in the major meat producing area.
Spokesmen for large local packers said one reason many cities may not have sufficient meat is that it takes considerable time to move the product through to retail channels, and the sudden OPA action was entirely unexpected to processors.

These same packers added pork was the only meat in excessive supply, and there was not a surplus of all pork cuts. They said beef, veal and lamb stocks were not excessive. Prior to the OPA action, the American meat institute had suggested removing points on pork, except pork loins, but had made no mention of other meats.

There were good sales increases reported in many cities, however. Cleveland butchers said they experienced a "tremendous volume" over the first ration-free week end, with some stores closing on Monday. Des Moines had a "material increase" in sales of fresh pork, smoked pork and sausage. Milwaukee reported a "boom business," with veal sales recording the largest expansion.

In Indianapolis, wholesale dealers asserted the end of most rationing upped the demand for better cuts but hurt sales of cheaper cuts. South Bend reported a buying flurry but noted that "horse meat sales are still holding up."

A meat dealer in Idaho asserted, "meat business has been twice as good as usual. All the hoarders have been buying everything from the toe nails up. It's driving us nuts." But that was distinctly a minority report—few other spots in the country noted any hoarding.
Other cities which saw some sales increases include Philadelphia, Portland, Oregon, Denver, Chattanooga, Minneapolis, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Birmingham, Rochester, Kansas City and Louisville.
Summarizing the situation on a national basis, the big local packers stated sales were up from 10 to 15 percent. Most of the increase, they added, was in sausage meats.

A dour view of the OPA's action on the nation's future meat supply was taken by P. O. Wilson, secretary of the National Livestock Producers association, Chicago.
"This new rationing order," the OPA, Wilson said, "delays still further the date when extreme meat shortages will confront the consumers of the country. Government regulations have forced an over-supply for the moment which can only be followed by severe shortages."

Packers do not agree with Wilson. They say it is still profitable to raise hogs, and farmers are continuing to raise them.
They believe there is a heavy hog population back in the country and, in the words of one packer, "big breed pigs."

As for cattle—packers contend there is a very large number of cattle roaming western grass lands, which, barring drought, probably will be marketed about the end of August or in September. If there is a drought, they will be marketed earlier— at lighter weights, carrying less meat. Only in lamb supplies do the

Lieut. Carl A. Spaatz
Honors Liberator
Group in Britain
A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz honored a U. S. Liberator group here Tuesday for its part in the historic bombing of the Ploesti oil refineries, last Aug. 1.
Hundreds of airmen witnessed the ceremony, some lined up along the airfield's perimeter and others grouped beneath the wings of three Liberators.
Two of the scarred and weather beaten bombers, old Irish and old Blisite, participated in the first hazardous, low-level raid on Ploesti, which cost 59 of the 175 Liberators in the raiding force.
The commander of the U. S. strategic air forces pinned the royal blue citation ribbon on eight fliers who went on the raid, including Sergt. Marcus Decamp, Clearwater, Neb.
All soldiers who were members of the group at the time of the raid may wear the ribbon permanently. Those who joined the group later may wear it only while serving with it.
The war department citation said "the courage, skill, efficiency and heroic scorn for personal safety with which the personnel of this organization struck their devastating blow against our enemy exemplify the noblest qualities and finest traditions of our armed forces."

Partly responsible for the packers' optimistic outlook may be the extraordinary hog runs at mid-western livestock markets. Receipts have been so heavy that embargoes or marketing permit systems have had to be established, temporarily in recent weeks, at East St. Louis, Cleveland, Kansas City and Peoria.
Last week the number of hogs offered for sale in 12 midwestern livestock markets totaled 505,000 head against 360,200 head in the comparative week last year. On the first three days this week the total was 469,100 head against 298,900 head in the same days of 1943.
The coolers of most packers are still clogged with pork. Sales have increased, but not enough. Through meat circles, whispers are running that some packers are offering pork at less than ceiling prices for the first time in two years. Supply and demand, the old economic balance wheel, may again be coming back into play.
And, if so, the consumer will only have more pork—but he will have it at lower prices.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

King, Nimitz, Halsey Didn't Meet Just To Exchange Time of Day

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst
Linked with the recent west coast get-together of the American high naval triumvirate, King, Nimitz and Halsey, Tokio radio commentaries forecasting early action in the Pacific to break the recent relative calm seem soundly based. The three four-star admirals didn't assemble just to exchange felicitations over past victories. They had ways and means to new ones in mind that bode no good for Japan.

Naturally no intimation of the subject matter of their discussion was forthcoming. There are several deductions to be drawn from the current situation on the Pacific front, nevertheless, as obvious to the Japanese as to American or any other observers. And they all point to impending major naval operations to push the sea attack front closer to the foe; if possible to force him to risk his main fleet in action.

The inference of the west coast naval pow-wow is that the whole of American naval power in the Pacific is being readied for combined action of some sort. Halsey's ships and planes in the south presumably are available now that General MacArthur has secured his position in Dutch New Guinea to prepare for the amphibious stride in his march back to the Philippines.
That may take some time. There is work for the massive naval power assembled in the Pacific to do in the meantime to insure the success of MacArthur's return to the Philippines when the hour strikes for that. Falau, Truk and Guam are logical next naval targets and all are under softening-up air attack to warrant the conclusion that plans are made for their capture or isolation.

1,000 Liberty Ships May Be 'On Reserve'

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Under a plan being studied by maritime commission officials 1,000 liberty ships would be placed in a post-war reserve for use in case of another war.
Five hundred would be kept ready to man, fuel and sail. The machinery of the others would be packed in grease but they could be readied quickly.
The plan is regarded by the commission's post-war planning committee as a starting point toward disposition of the liberties, primarily war-useful vessels.
Another 1,000 liberties would have to be disposed of otherwise. That figure is based on 2,700 scheduled to have been put in service by the end of this year, and 500 or more to be lost or hopelessly damaged by the end of the war.
A considerable market for the 10-knot vessels is expected on trade routes which cannot support faster and more expensive ships.

Deferred From Draft
WASHINGTON, (AP)—The district board of appeals today granted a draft deferment to Clifford Kirby, 37, father of two sets of twins. Kirby said the board took his word that the doctor had predicted another set of twins for Mrs. Kirby in August.

Nurses Train for Duty

—By Ruth Cowan

geared up for what is ahead," said Lieut. Col. Danielson, highest ranking American woman in this theater of operations.
She is of medium height and slim. She wears her graying, brown hair in a soft bob. Her very blue eyes are friendly and direct. In manner she is approachable and she laughs easily. But there's an undercurrent of confident efficiency.
"Morale among the nurses over here is excellent," she said. "They are eager to get into action."
At American military hospitals throughout Britain pre-invasion training is being intensified. As part of this program "dry runs"—army term for practice—are being held.
She related how hospital units are called upon suddenly to handle a hospital train supposedly filled with wounded. Hospitals are faced with a supposed influx of blitz victims. Both for practice, and as a real service, patients have been evacuated by air from American hospitals in Ireland to England.
Lieutenant Colonel Danielson began her nurses' training at St. Peter's hospital in St. Peter, Minn., and had a year's post graduate study at the Mayo clinic in Rochester before joining the army nursing corps. From 1935 to 1936 she was chief nurse at the Sternberg general hospital in Honolulu and director of nurses in the Philippines and in China.

The conventional greeting from small-try in the many countries where American troops are stationed is: "Have you got any gum?"
But Pfc. Mary Lever of Columbia, S. C., a WAC driver based in London, is of the opinion that two English lads carried matters too far.
WACS in London are housed in a peer's former town mansion, and it has a magnificent mirror-lined bathroom and huge tub.
After a hard day's drive, Mary leisurely was taking a bath. She had soaped her face when she became aware that someone had entered the room.
She got the soap out of her eyes to see two small boys standing in the middle of the room.
"Hey," she began as one of them came up to the tub.
"Have you got any gum, lady?" he asked.
"No and you get the (censored) out of here," exploded Mary.
Capt. Vera Von Stein of Los Angeles, Calif., commanding officer of WACS at the headquarters of the U. S. Army 9th Airforce Bomber command, related that doctors on the base are a bit puzzled.
"Could that be developing from so much saluting?" wondered Capt. Von Stein.

The WAC assistant director, Francis Sue Cornick of Norfolk, Va., is now wearing a major's gold leaves. With them she joins the rank of Maj. Anna Wilson of Studio City, Calif., WAC director; and Maj. Mary "Fee Wee" Hallinan of Lowell, Mass., head of WAC's assigned to the 8th airforce.

Personnel Turnover In Hospitals Creates Wartime Problems

On a program given yesterday in observance of national hospital day, Harold Smith, assistant administrator of university hospitals, stated that wartime personnel turnover varies from 100 to 125 percent.

The tremendous turnover has created problems in the university, Smith said in a radio interview yesterday, and the difficulty is duplicated in units throughout the midwest. He said there has been a reduction of 25 percent in the number of doctors and 50 percent in the number of interns in training.

The number of student nurses has increased through the repeated appeals for nurses, but the total number of graduates has been reduced since the entry of these women into army and navy service.

Shortage of other help is also great. Smith said that in peacetime 125 to 150 students worked for their meals in the diet department, while there are only three persons now employed there.

He observed that the situation with regard to hospital supplies was favorable, as it is now possible to obtain articles which could not be purchased for some time after Pearl Harbor.

The eyes of the nation are focused here every day
People today want all the news, all the facts, all the details they can get . . . to help them understand the events that are reshaping the world . . . to help them do their part in winning the war. • That's why they're reaching so eagerly for their newspapers these days . . . and reading them more thoroughly than ever before. They know that nowhere else can they satisfy their hunger for news that's full and clear and graphic. And nowhere else can they get so quickly and completely the wartime regulations and instructions they must have to guide them in their homefront tasks. • This intensified interest in both the news and the advertisements in today's newspapers, attested again and again by exhaustive scientific studies, is what makes newspapers so effective a medium for the informative and helpful messages of wartime advertisers.

Chicago Cubs Break Losing Streak

Spill Phillies, Barrett, 5 to 3

CHICAGO, (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, aided by the seven-hit pitching of Eddie Hanyzewski, snapped a 13-game losing streak yesterday by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 3, for their first victory since the opening day of the season, more than three weeks ago.

It was also their first triumph under the direction of Charlie Grimm, who took over management of the club after Jimmy Wilson resigned.

The Cubs broke out with 11 hits off Kewpie Barrett and Chet Covington, the barrage including Bill Nicholson's first home run of the year in the seventh inning. Nick also collected a single to pace his team's attack.

Ron Northey's second homer and Elvin Adams' third accounted for the first two Philly runs.

SUI Holds Winning Pace in All Sports

A steady composite winning pace in all sports has been maintained by University of Iowa intercollegiate athletic teams over the past decade, for Hawkeye outfits have compiled a percentage of .557.

This look at the past ten years was taken by athletic officials after a wartime year in which the number of dual contests was the smallest in many seasons.

Best record was by the teams of 1935-36 which created a .638 mark on 53 wins, 30 losses, and 2 ties. Second highest was .585 in 1940-41 and third was .583 in 1934-35.

Only once in the period did Iowa teams fail to finish over the .500 mark. That was in 1937-38 when the percentage was .476.

Tobin, Braves Smack Pittsburgh for 18 Hits To Beat Bucs, 7-2

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Big Jim Tobin's "flutter ball" baffled Pittsburgh yesterday while his mates collected 18 hits off two Pirates pitchers to give the Braves a 7-2 victory and even their current series at one each.

The Braves drove Max Butcher to the showers in the eighth, and he was replaced by Long John Gee. White Tobin allowed the Pirates 10 hits, they never gave him much trouble.

Dodgers Down Cardinals, 2-1

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Curt Davis held the St. Louis Cardinals to eight scattered hits as the Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the league leaders 2-1 yesterday, to even the series.

Rookie Bill Hart played the hero's role, scoring the Dodgers' first run and batting in the other. He was the only Dodger to get two safeties.

Davis had a narrow escape in the ninth inning when Pepper Martin, attempting to score from first on Ray Sanders' double, was nailed at the plate to end the game.

ALL REGULAR RAZORS PERFECTLY

From the Side Lines

By Yoke

The other night, while working away down here on the sports desk, we struck up a conversation with Lieut. Irving L. Smith, commander of company I of the A. S. T. R. detachment here on the Iowa campus.

Lieutenant Smith was quite a basketball player in college and pro circles and has retained an earnest interest in sports.

Anyway, the conversation naturally got around to the manpower situation at S. U. I. and what could be done about it.

The question came up as to what use the A. S. T. R. candidates could be put. And it was contention that since the boys were only 17 or under, and not enlisted in the regular army they could enter contests for the State University of Iowa.

And to add further interest to the thing Lieutenant Smith said that there were quite a number of fellows there interested in sports, who had had previous experience. He talked in the realm of several who had been all-state football players, or some who had been track flashes in high school.

It all sounded so good that after this hee had been put in our ear, we couldn't help but talk it up.

The first person that we ran across that might have been interested was George Bresnahan. He said that he had been doing quite a bit of thinking about the idea himself. It seems that he is an instructor in the A. S. T. R. and has been watching the boys run, obviously enviously.

But the whole thing was cleared up today by the simple expedient of a phone call to the military department. Col. Schaub, executive officer there, reported that a special directive had just been sent out from the Washington headquarters saying that A. S. T. R. men could not enter into collegiate competition just as in the A. S. T. P.

So that takes care of that, and we all sit here with the envious look of the snipe hunter left holding the bag. (For want of a better simile).

Which brings to mind an addition to a previous column which reported on general feeling at a recent university publicity men's conference.

All signs indicate that the army sports representatives there really took it on the chin. The good gentlemen of the university press took it upon themselves to needle the daylight out of them. While navy representatives, representing college participation sports ideas as presented in the V-12 and air corps programs, sat smilingly back, the army men sweated it out to questions from all sides.

"Just look how well the navy has done," seemed to be the call from all sides.

Every member of the team, however, can handle every weapon assigned to the civil affairs section, including tommy-guns.

Army Officer Given Citations For Bravery

Lieut. Ralph A. Thiessen, former university student, was recently awarded the distinguished flying cross and the silver star for "gallantry in action and extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight." Lieutenant Thiessen is now within one plane of becoming an "ace" and is due for return to the states.

The citation accompanying his silver star reads in part: "Leading a group of P-38's on a high altitude bomber mission over Greece Jan. 11, 1944, Lieutenant Thiessen's formation encountered solid overcast enroute to the target. Despite the fact that he was unable to see the bombers during most of the flight he led his group through the overcast without straying from the bombers. By his consistent aggressiveness and personal resourcefulness under fire, Lieutenant Thiessen has reflected great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

The citation presented with his distinguished flying cross reads in part: "While escorting medium bombardment aircraft over Italy Aug. 21, 1943, Lieutenant Thiessen's formation was suddenly attacked by 50 enemy fighters. "Completely disregarding personal safety he remained with two comrades whose planes had been damaged and protected them until enemy fighters had been dispersed. By his gallant deed which undoubtedly saved the lives of his comrades, Lieutenant Thiessen has upheld the highest traditions of the military service of the United States."

Feminine Voice Now Opens WSUI Daily

"Good morning everyone, this is radio station WSUI, Iowa City, on the campus of the State University of Iowa. This is Marion Patterson, relieving a man for duty in the armed forces." The voice belongs to "Pat" Patterson, A4 of Greenfield, the first girl in the history of WSUI to open the station every morning.

"Pat" rises each morning early and passes by rooms in which her fellow students still peacefully slumber. She goes downtown for an early morning date with a group of radio students who have formed the "Breakfast club." Members meet daily at 7:30 a. m. in a downtown restaurant to breakfast and exchange early morning witticisms.

After breakfast she begins posting continuity and traffic sheets at the station. She conducts auditions for "Morning Chapel," the first program on the air each morning.

"Tea-time Melodies," "Pat's" pride and joy, is the daily afternoon program of popular tunes which she announces with Dick Baxter, A4 of Mt. Pleasant.

She receives fan mail from her listeners, especially with reference to her program, "The Children's Hour," which is presented every afternoon at 5 o'clock. Recently she offered listeners a gift chart and as a result received 700 requests from youthful listeners.

In addition to announcing and writing, "Pat" also writes continuity for the station daily. She spends all her free time from early morning until after 9 o'clock, writing, announcing, and planning programs.

Some of the other programs she handles are: "Calendar of the Day", an ad-lib program concerning the programs and personalities of the day; "From Our Boys in Service", on which she interviews servicemen home on leave or furloughs and straight announcements.

She is majoring in radio speech, and aspires to continue her work in radio after her graduation. "Pat" Patterson, the girl behind the voice that bids "goodbye" each day after "Tea-time Melodies," is fittingly called a "radio girl."

GRANDMOTHER'S BOND WITH THE FUTURE -WAR BONDS

.. for your grandchildren, the best in the world!

ORDINARILY, age brings certain privileges. One of the greatest of them perhaps, is that of watching, from the sidelines, the growth and progress of our children's families.

Certainly one of the rewards of being a mother is becoming a grandmother—able to enjoy our sons' and daughters' children to the full, while leaving the responsibility for them in other hands.

The war, which has changed so many things, has changed this too. When the war took our sons—when it broke up our children's homes—it gave back to America's grandmothers responsibilities which we had passed on long ago. The privilege of growing older quietly has been denied the women of our generation while this war lasts.

For today, our grandchildren need our help.

And it is in our power to give them greater help, perhaps, than any grandparents ever gave before.

We can give this help by buying War Bonds and Stamps—for our children's children. And no other single thing that we can do will help so much, or in so many different ways.

War Bonds can help to bring fighting fathers back to their families next year—the year after—as soon as possible. War Bonds can provide those families now with aid in case of illness or emergency. War Bonds can help assure an education for a boy whose father comes back crippled—or does not come back at all. War Bonds can help to guarantee a busy, prosperous America for our sons when they return—an America in which our grandsons can find all the opportunities they need to lead the fullest, happiest lives in all the world.

The Grandmothers' War Bond League is simply a way of recognizing and uniting the grandmothers who are today buying War Bonds and Stamps for their grandchildren. Every one who buys a Bond or Stamp in a grandchild's name automatically becomes a member.

Join the Grandmothers' War Bond League today!

The Grandmothers' League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief-of-Staff. It is not a formal club. It is simply a roll of honor which grandmothers automatically belong to when they buy bonds, or start stamp albums, for their grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall urges every grandmother in America to help the fighting men today...and their children tomorrow, by joining the Grandmothers War Bond League.

WAR BONDS to Have and to Hold
