Soviet Army Opens Long-Expected Drive

Red Troops Smash Nazi Lines at Vitebsk In White Russia*

LONDON, Saturday (AP)—The Red army crashed into German lines on two sides of the fortified city of Vitebsk in White Russia yesterday, opening the long-expected Soviet summer offensive, and early today Moscow announced that "enormous losses" had been inflicted on the enemy.

The westward onslaught, which the German radio said actually opened Thursday, third anniversary of the Nazis' declaration of war against Russia, was on a mighty scale with artillery and aircraft joining in hours of terrific bombardment before the infantry started forward "in the wake of a wall of fire, a supplement to the Russian communique stated.

The Red troops struck northwest and southeast of Vitebsk, near the center of the 2,000-mile long eastern front, and in the first day gained nearly 10 miles and liberated more than 150 localities.

In a series of broadcasts the Germans said there were at least four major areas of attack along a 240-mile front on both sides of the Vitebsk hinge position, and left no doubt that they regarded the Russian drive as the long-expected big offensive from the east.

The nightly Moscow communique, recorded in London by the Soviet monitor, announced that "during June 23 northwest and southeast of Vitebsk our troops, supported by massed blows from artillery and aviation, went over to the offensive against the German fascist troops."

The White Russian front, possibly the most important of any on the east so far as defense of the Nazi Reich itself is concerned, has been quiet since February, following a strong winter offensive which carried the Russians to, but not through, the defensive positions which the Nazis frankly call the "bolt" of their eastern door.

Jean Paquis, commentator on the Nazi-controlled Paris radio, said, "The Soviet high command timed the summer offensive to start on the third anniversary of the outbreak of the German-Russian war with the intention of setting its armies in motion on the road to Berlin."

The offensive fulfilled President Roosevelt's prediction of June 12, in which he said, "Germany has her back to the wall—in fact, three walls at once."

FDR Names Delegates To Monetary Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt named a bi-partisan delegation yesterday to represent the United States at the United Nations monetary and financial conference.

He reiterated, in a letter to Secretary Morgenthau made public yesterday by the treasury chief, that neither this nor any other government would be bound by decisions of the conference to be held at Bretton Woods, N. H., starting July 1.

The president's letter also said the American delegation would be expected to adhere closely to previously announced principles governing purposes for an $8,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund and a $10,000,000,000 world bank for reconstruction and development.

Only local fighting was reported in the Caen-Tilly area on the eastern end of the front.

British Close Gap In Kohima-Imphal Road

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND, Kandy, Ceylon (AP)—The Kohima-Imphal road has been cleared completely of enemy forces, a communique announced last night and allied vehicles already are using the highway in the previously surrounded Imphal plain, heretofore supplied and garrisoned by air transport.

There were evidences of still more Japanese withdrawals in the India theater, particularly in the Bishenpur area, where the communique said the enemy was laying mines and damaging the Silchar track.

The 10-mile gap in the Kohima-Imphal road was closed when British forces driving northward routed the enemy from roadblocks and met other British units driving southward from Kohima at milestone 109.

Jap Carrier Possibly Sunk; Yanks Hit Cherbourg Line

Port's Fall Appears Near

U. S. Troops Close In On City's Outer Rim Despite Resistance

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday (AP)—American troops broke through the German Cherbourg line on the southern outskirts of the city last night and also closed in swiftly from the east after capturing a key hill position near Tourlaville, a mile outside Cherbourg's third largest port.

Cherbourg's fall appeared to be near despite heavy resistance by thousands of German troops who have been ordered to die by their guns or be shot for cowardice.

Official dispatches trailed decisive field developments by hours and it was considered possible that the Yanks already had some patrols probing into the city's outer rim.

Yanks Rip Nazi Lines

A dispatch from Don Whitehead, Associated Press correspondent with the Yank assault forces, said a break-through of the Nazi lines occurred between Mont du Roc and Oeteville after American shock troops had been attacking the fortified Mont du Roc, which is two and one-half miles outside Cherbourg near Nouainville. Oeteville is two miles east of Nouainville and the site of one of the huge forts guarding Cherbourg.

Nazi lines were ripped open before 9:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. Central War time).

Other American troops before this break occurred had stormed and captured another fortified hilltop only one mile east of Cherbourg, and headquarters predicted Cherbourg's fall was near.

The 11:30 p. m. communique said "Pressure on the Cherbourg defenses is increasing," and indicated that American troops were fanning out swiftly over the entire Barleur promontory east of the port. "Patrols east of Cherbourg are finding little opposition in the sector between Cap Levy and St. Vaast," it said.

A statement issued earlier said: "The Cherbourg defenses are fairly formidable but a prolonged siege is unlikely."

The Americans apparently had already ringed the city completely by smashing through to the sea on both sides of Cherbourg.

As soon as the last two ridges near the Roule and Oeteville forts south and southwest of Cherbourg are taken the Americans are expected to break through in force to Cherbourg's heart.

French patriots wearing identifying armbands were aiding the liberating forces attacking in the woods and hedge rows on both sides of the Divette river valley south of the city. They ranged from teen-age youths to bearded veterans of World War I.

Only local fighting was reported in the Caen-Tilly area on the eastern end of the front.

The communique said that allied light naval forces sank one enemy armed trawler caught on a convoy escort mission south of Jersey island off the west coast of the peninsula. One of the German ships in the convoy was "left ablaze and damage was inflicted on the remainder by gunfire," the bulletin said.

Allied airmen despite restricting weather hammered Nazi bases and communications beyond the Normandy battlefield.

"Hour Is Serious" Captive Nazis said their officers manning positions behind the forward German wall were able to shoot down any faltering soldier, and had been ordered to do so by General von Schlieben, commander of the Cherbourg fortress.

Von Schlieben's order said: "A withdrawal is punishable by death. I empower every leader in every grade to shoot down on sight anyone who leaves his post because of cowardice. The hour is serious. Only willpower and readiness for fighting and heroism to the death can help."

Ninth Straight Night—

Nazi Rocket Bombs

LONDON (AP)—German rocket bombs exploded in south England last night for the ninth straight night, causing deaths and damage and underscoring a warning to parliament by Home Secretary Herbert S. Morrison that "It may be these attacks have not yet reached their peak."

Morrison yesterday gave parliamentary authoritative word that up to now the robot bombs are doing "little damage of national importance" and killing fewer people than did the Nazis' light air raids in February.

An implied threat that the flying bomb and other secret weapons of which German propaganda has hinted, would be used elsewhere came yesterday from Martin von Hallensleben, Nazi radio commentator.

"I think I am not mistaken in assuming," he said in a broadcast, "that certain improved weapons of war will not be used exclusively on the western front."

The Germans stepped up the robot attacks with darkness and Britons in increasing numbers sought public shelters.

Morrison said "substantial results" were achieved in combating the robots and at least three more were shot down by fighters this evening.

Patrolling fighters tailed the bombs on the coast and chased them inland. Some were exploded in mid-air.

German propagandists took the line that the robot is "our arm of retaliation number one" and would relieve the Nazi air force of strategic bombing and free it for western front tactical tasks.

Morrison's declaration indicated that while the bombs were causing civilian casualties and damage, they were not disrupting any important war activities nor sapping the Britishers' morale.

Germans Make Stand At Lake Trasimeno

Rains Give Nazis Breathing Spell To Strengthen Lines

ROME (AP)—German forces have halted their flight in central Italy and are making a bitter stand against the allied Eighth army on both sides of Lake Trasimeno, about 85 miles north and slightly west of Rome, field dispatches reported yesterday.

(A broadcast by CBS said the Nazis had counter-attacked strongly and recaptured the town of Chiusi nine miles southwest of Lake Trasimeno and 25 miles southwest of Perugia.)

Heavy rains early in the week gave the Germans a much-needed breathing spell in which to reorganize and strengthen their defenses at the center of the line, and it appeared they would not be thrown into retreat again until the Eighth army could gather itself and attack in force.

Stiff Resistance On the two wings the allied advance continued, though the Americans pushing up the west Italian coast and the French on their immediate inland flank encountered increasingly stiff resistance. Only in the Adriatic sector was the Nazis' flight unchecked.

There Eighth army troops crossed the Chienti river and reached the vicinity of Morrovalle and Montecosaro, less than 25 miles from the big port of Ancona.

Allied planes flew 2,300 sorties, attacking targets in northern Italy, Albania, Yugoslavia and in the battle area. Ten planes were lost and two enemy craft destroyed.

19 American Nations Recognize Bolivian Revolutionary Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Recognition of the Bolivian government of Maj. Gualberto Villarroel yesterday by 19 American nations including the United States, solved one of the western hemisphere's main political problems, leaving the question of Argentina on the pending list.

Diplomats hailed the joint action. Six months ago all the Republics except Argentina refused to recognize the revolutionary regime because of alleged Nazi influence in the coup which established it.

Recognition meant that in the opinion of the 18 foreign offices and the state department, the steps the Bolivian government has taken to eliminate Nazi-trained officials and oust Nazi agents were satisfactory proofs of Bolivia's intention to remain in the line-up for hemispheric security.

Admiral Nimitz Lists Damage to Nipponese In Philippine Action

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Japan's naval defeat in the Philippines sea vaulted to crushing proportions yesterday when it was disclosed officially that one of her biggest and newest aircraft carriers probably was sent to the bottom by a submarine.

(The carrier was one of the Shokaku class, probably a 28,000 ton, 815 foot long warship).

Nimitz Notes Scores The announcement of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, made in a communique, also listed the definite sinking of a destroyer. That made the score of the June 18-19 action:

Definitely sunk—A Hayataka-class carrier, a destroyer and three tankers. (5).

Probably sunk—A Shokaku class carrier. (1).

Damaged—A Hayataka-class carrier "left burning furiously"; a Zuikaku-class carrier, hit with three 1,000-pound bombs; a light carrier, hit by two aerial bombs; a Kongo-class battleship; a cruiser, two destroyers and two tankers. (9).

Jap Plane Losses

In addition, the Japanese lost more than 360 carrier planes.

Two United States carriers and a battleship sustained superficial damage and lost 70 planes.

The Shokaku class carrier was hit by three torpedoes Sunday, the first day of a victory scored largely by aircraft of task force 58, commanded by Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher.

WITH A CARRIER TASK FORCE OFF THE ANDAMAN ISLANDS, June 12 (Delayed)

(AP)—Fighters and bombers of the fast-expanding allied eastern fleet caught the Japanese completely by surprise early today and delivered a smashing blow at the enemy's installations at Port Blair, capital of the Andaman islands group in the Bay of Bengal and an outpost guardian of Japanese shipping lanes to Rangoon in Burma.

Attacking through a rain-storm, carrier-borne fighters first sent Japanese ground gunners scurrying for cover through a hail of machine-gun fire and then the bombers went in and pin-pointed their selected targets. No air opposition was encountered and only one allied plane failed to return to its deck.

Mass Murder

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, disclosing to an angry house of commons the official German report on the killing of 50 allied airmen after a prison camp break in Germany last March, yesterday rejected the Nazi explanation and branded the incident a mass murder. He pledged that Britain would track down and bring to justice the "four criminals" involved.

The killings were first revealed last month in a neutral Swiss report which told of 47 deaths. The official German report, raising the toll to 50, said that all were shot resisting arrest or trying to make a new break after their capture.

Significant Weakness In rejecting the German claims Eden said the most significant weakness in the German story was that "there were no wounded, as there would have been inevitably if the shootings had taken place during an attempt to resist capture."

"It is quite clear," Eden said, "that these officers were murdered."

Flatly rejecting the German report, the foreign secretary asserted that "the explanation now put forward by the German government is in fact the confession of an odious crime against the laws and conventions of war."

German Explanation The German explanation said that the mass escapes from the camp, near Dresden, endangered public security and forced adoption of stern counter-measures. Eden said the details as to when, where and how the men were killed still were not known, but by the clearest implication he placed the blame on the Gestapo on the basis of evidence supplied by prisoners since repatriated.

The victims included officers of several European nationalities and some British and Dominion fliers. No Americans were involved.

The Freedom to Inform—

A recent issue of The Daily Iowan carried an interview with a young man fresh home from the Italian campaign. No paid propagandist, and apparently no prejudiced observer, he told a pleasantly candid story. He had taken the trouble to learn Italian; he had lived and conversed with the people of Italy. What he had to report was noteworthy and convincing.

By a curious coincidence, another page of the same issue of The Iowan carried an abstract of an article by one Frederick C. Panton as it appears in Reader's Digest for July. Mr. Panton's liberated Italy is one startlingly different from that of the candid young man. "Children pulled at the legs of soldiers and yelled for food," says Mr. Panton. But the other observer, Sgt. Ray Palmer of Sioux City, says: "Upon arriving in an Italian town the youngsters would tug at our sleeves and query, 'Wanna eat, Joe?'"

The full-scale coordinated warfare where rail lines have been cut show severe blows to the enemy lines of supply and reinforcements. Moreover the underground is giving attention to telephone and telegraph lines, cutting off communications on which the Nazis depend for control.
The uprising is bound to have repercussions on Nazi garrisons elsewhere, one of the first results being a clamor by German security forces in France for reinforcements. These reinforcements presumably would come from elements stationed in Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and elsewhere—and would be countered immediately by protests from the Nazi security officers in those areas.
Eventually, this could force the Nazi conquerors to give up territory which they had hoped to hold at least until invading armies forced them out.

Second Inter-American Affairs Meet Ends Today

Post-War Relations With Latin Americas Discussed by Speakers

The second annual conference on Inter-American affairs continued its second-day sessions yesterday with two forums and speeches on education and economic relation of the United States and Latin American countries. The lectures and symposium were held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol where the other conference sessions will continue today, the final day of the meet.

Presiding at the morning session was Prof. Harold H. McCarty of the college of commerce. The address of welcome by Prof. E. T. Peterson acting dean of the college of education and director of the summer school session. Featured speaker on "Latin America and the Industrial Age" was Prof. J. Fred Rippey of the history department of the University of Chicago. The address was broadcast over station WSUI followed by a panel of questions.

Mason City Editor
W. Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe Gazette spoke at the Inter-American luncheon yesterday noon on "How important is South America?"

The afternoon session on education was led by Prof. Ernest Horn of the college of education. The main address was made by Harold E. Davis, director of the division of education and teacher aids, of the office of the coordinator of Inter-American affairs in Washington, who spoke on "School and Inter-American Cooperation."

Need Constant Contact
But political and cultural contacts at present are occasional, not constant, like economic relations, said Professor Rippey and in economic relations we hear much about exploitation. The policy of 50 or 60 men in charge of subsidiary companies in South America which are owned and controlled by United States concerns does much to determine the entire attitude of our country.

"We can't make friends with them by praising their music and dancing and then exploiting them in return. We must treat them as friends in matters that touch their everyday lives."

"Fair distribution of the benefits of technological and industrial advances," was set forth as the key problem in our relations with Latin America by Professor Rippey in the lecture at 10 a. m. yesterday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Planned Education
The United States has also taken steps in the direction of better-planned education for the Latin American countries and for the Spanish-speaking communities within our own country, Davis added. Texas, particularly, has been interested in this program, and Spanish is now taught in the elementary schools. This summer 15 Inter-American teaching training workshops are being conducted in Texas. "We must see that these programs now begun are permanent because the Americas need for each other is permanent," said Davis.

Latin America presents great possibilities, and with an area three times that of United States and only 125,000,000 people, the countries can have a great future. But to do this, concluded Davis, we must think in continental terms and take careful consideration to plan ways and means to carry out such a school program. The relations with Latin America depend upon the success of education programs—both adults and children must be taught to know and understand these neighbors of ours.

That this is being done is illustrated by the Inter-American conferences being held in over 100 colleges and universities this summer, he stated.

Afternoon Lecture
Harold E. Davis, in his address introducing the Friday afternoon session of the conference, set the evaluation of present Inter-American relations.

'A WELL EARNED REST'

MISS MABEL CHENSKY, maid in the housekeeping department at Westlawn nurses' home, relaxes in the chair presented her June 20 by the hospital administration in recognition of her 25 years of service. Miss Chensky, whose home is at 314 N. Governor street, began work June 9, 1917, in the old nurses' home on Gilbert street, and in the former University hospital, now known as East hall. She remembers when there were two private homes where Westlawn is now, and a large dump on the present hospital site across the river. As a child, Miss Chensky used to write her name on the huge quarry stones near the site of Westlawn. In 1926, she moved to the newly constructed nurses' home across the river, and has seen hundreds of student nurses come and go in her years of service. She remarked that the average age of the nursing students is considerably younger than those she has seen in past years.

ican educational opportunities as the purpose of his lecture. At present, he stated, approximately 5,000 Latin American students are attending colleges and universities in the United States, and almost an equal number are enrolled in secondary schools. In addition many students are receiving training here in the governmental departments such as agriculture, forestry and rural electrification.

The educational program is being stressed in Latin America, he continued, and the study of the English language is increasing rapidly. The South American countries have established institutes stressing the lives and culture of Americans and including the instruction of English.

They have also developed a teacher-training program to improve the plan of education in elementary and secondary teaching training levels, to develop teacher training programs and to develop and improve teaching methods.

The achievement of these goals requires study and planning based upon economic history and the material and human problems of Latin America, stated Professor Rippey. Good planning needs information, he said, and unenlightened planning is worse than none at all. If planning is not done efficiently, it is better to trust to providence, he concluded.

Anglo-Saxon countries have been extremely influential in the development of Latin America countries. After the war Germany, England and France will be concerned with rebuilding their own countries, and the United States will have the closest relations with Latin America.

That this is being done is illustrated by the Inter-American conferences being held in over 100 colleges and universities this summer, he stated.

Embassy Secretary Discusses Founding, Civilization of Brazil

By IRIS WILKEN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
A condensed history of South America's largest country—Brazil, was presented last night on the west approach to Old Capitol in an address by Dr. Renato de Mendonca of the Brazilian embassy in Mexico.

Dr. de Mendonca, introduced by Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, divided his lecture into the building of the nation and the characteristics of Brazilian civilization. From the 15th century when it was referred to as the "land of parrots" until today, Brazil has remained a land of vast untouched resources.

Melting Pot Civilization
Brazil took its place in the world with the development of the sugar industry and by 1600, 12 factories were exporting that product to European countries. Portuguese immigrants came to supervise the Indian workers, but when neither would work, slave labor was introduced into the colony and the three races were the basis of the melting pot of civilization characteristic of Brazil.

In the 17th century, Dr. de Mendonca continued, the discovery of gold created a rush that stopped the sugar industry and lured farmers from their fields. Diamonds and emeralds distinguish the next era in the development of Brazil. Cotton followed precious stones, but one of the greatest ages for Brazil was that of rubber. Last in the stages of Brazilian economic development was symbolized by the coffee bean from which the country was called the land of dessert.

Brazil Becomes Republic
Dr. de Mendonca began the second part of his lecture with the year 1815 when Brazil was recognized as a kingdom under the regency of Portugal. In 1822 the country became a free nation and in 1889 was established as a republic.

Last night's lecturer described the Brazilian flag as what he believed to be the only philosophical flag in the world. Bearing the words, "Order" and "Progress," its stars represent not the states, but the position of the heavenly bodies at the time Brazil became a republic.

Today the role of his country is waging war against the axis. The extent to which this is being done can be revealed only when the vital materials that are being provided for this effort have established a bond between the United States and Brazil which "we, in Brazil, hope will last for many years—forever; a friendship uniting the two largest nations of North and South America," Dr. de Mendonca concluded.

20,512 See Athletics Lose

A's Chalk Up Lone Marker In Sixth Frame

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The New York Yankees banged out a 5 to 1 victory over the Athletics in the first of a four-game series as Herschel Martin sparked the visitors before 20,512.

Martin drove in the second and third runs with a single and fly while Stirnweiss made three hits, scored twice and rove in the final two tallies with a double.

Stirnweiss singled in the third scoring Dan Savage and Herschel Martin came through with a single to bring Stirnweiss home.

New York came back again in the seventh when Stirnweiss singled to center and went to third when Bud Metheny hit safely to right. Stirnweiss scored on Martin's long fly to center, then added two more when his double scored Rollie Hemsley and Oscar Grimes.

The A's chalked up their lone marker in the sixth frame when Dick Siebert singled, took second when Johnny Lindell let the ball past him. George Kell poked a Texas leaguer to right field for a two base hit to score Siebert.

Hawkeye Highlights

Gildea Learns from Ebner

IOWA CITY—Pvt. Bob Gildea, outfielder on Iowa's 1934 baseball team, is in a marine unit receiving bayonet instruction at San Diego from Pfc. Lyle Ebner, catcher of the 1933 Hawkeye nine, now an instructor at the marine base. And both marines are from Davenport, former team mates on the high school nine there.

Walter Enters Service

Another "P" winner of the 1934-35 sports season, Donald (Bucky) Walter, basketball forward, has become the 29th of the 44 different letter men to enter the armed forces. Walter, Iowa City man, is taking basic infantry training at Camp Roberts, Calif.

Double Drills for Hawks

Coach "Slip" Madigan will make up for the fact that his Iowa football players will have only three weeks of summer practice by giving them twice-daily drills most of the time. He expects that most of the young players will report in good physical condition because of summer labor jobs. Classes will open Sept. 4, therefore ending the double sessions.

Edge to Hawks in Past Games

No Iowa team has played Ohio State at Columbus since most of the 1934 squad were little boys 10 years ago, but Hawkeyes have the edge on the Buckeyes in games in the Ohio State stadium. It's four wins, three losses since grid relations started there in 1922... but the Bucks won the last game in 1934, 40-7. They meet again in the opener Oct. 7.

Madigan at Clinic in August

A day off from his coaching of Iowa football squad will be taken Aug. 19 by "Slip" Madigan. He is scheduled for 3 1/2 hours of lectures on football technique at the Iowa High School Athletic association's coaching clinic near Boone.

Brooklyn Dodgers Take Decision 2-0

Ed Head Wins Fourth in Row, Shutting Out Phillies

BROOKLYN (AP)—Ed Head won his fourth in a row when he shut out the Philadelphia Phillies with two hits here last night, the Brooklyn Dodgers taking the decision, 2 to 0. Both Philly blows were made by Charley Letchas, one of them being a scratch single in the third. The other was a double in the eighth.

Ken Raffensberger started for the Phillies and went along on even terms with Head until the fifth when a triple by Howie Schultz and a single by Bobby Bragan produced the first Brooklyn tally. In the eighth a pass to Bragan, Head's sacrifice and a single by Rosen brought in the second Dodger run. It was made off Dale Mathewson.

The triumph put the Dodgers into a fourth place tie with the Cincinnati Reds, who lost to the Chicago Cubs.

Boston Red Sox Lose to Washington Senators 7 to 1

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, given a severe jolt in Philadelphia earlier in the week when they lost four games out of five, took another bump yesterday as they lost to the Washington Senators, 7 to 1.

Five-hit pitching by Early Wynn and some grade-A slugging by Gilberto Torres and Stan Spence brought the Red Sox downfall. Torres and Spence each got three hits in five trips to the plate and each drove in a pair of runs. The Cuban included a double in his collection of blows.

Vic Johnson, Yank Terry and Eddie Lake all hurled for the losers with the latter, listed as the club's substitute shortstop, doing the best job. Lake allowed only three hits in four innings. Johnson was on the mound in the third when the Senators counted four times on four hits and Bobby Doerr's fumble.

Seahawks Play Tomorrow

Pre-Flighters Aim For 12th Straight Victory Sunday

An Iowa Pre-Flight school baseball team of which four regulars are batting over .400, with the lowest figure in the lineup a neat .355, will go after its 12th straight victory here Sunday at 2:30 o'clock with the Iowa State Navy as opposition.

Although his consecutive game hitting streak was snapped at 12 as he made only a six-inning appearance due to classroom examination schedules Wednesday, Dick Wakefield continued to rate the kingpin of the Seahawk attack with a .452. However, he may have a strong contender in the future in Charley Heck, the long-ball hitter from Findlay, Ohio, who has compiled a .462 mark which includes three doubles and a triple while appearing in only four games.

Another newcomer, who made his debut as a regular only last week, is George Rutenbar, the 19-year-old Detroit cadet who has fashioned a .421 average while taking part in four contests. The remaining .400 hitter is Bronislav Paszkowski, the Bluejacket catcher, who collected two for three against Schick hospital Stewart, 3b.

At the top of the .300 class are a pair of veterans who have been around since the opening game. Price Brookfield with a .395 and Don Aires with .375. Carlos Ratliff, who led the Mountain State league two years ago with a .375 at Welch City, is riding along on the same average with the Seahawks after three contests, while bringing up the rear with a measly .355 is Lou Rochell.

Rochell, the former Montreal shortstop who was ticketed to take over for the Dodgers this year, has been the key to the Seahawk defense since taking over three weeks ago. Making many sensational grabs along the way, the Staunton, Ill., cadet has handled 37 chances with only four errors—mostly committed on desperate throws after great stops.

Facing the Ames nine Sunday will be Keith Simon, 19-year-old Long Beach, Calif., youngster who broke in Wednesday by striking out the final two batters when he went in to relieve Bob Macholtz.

Finkbine Open

Because of the cooperation of the men at the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight it has been announced that the Finkbine golf course is ready for use for golfers Saturday and Sunday.

Players are asked to refrain from using holes four, five, six and seven during the week.

Chicago Cubs Top Cincinnati Team 3 to 1

Game Called At One A. M., End of 14th Inning

CINCINNATI (AP)—A bad first inning cost Clyde Shoun the ball game last night as the Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati 3 to 1.

First man up for the Cubs, Roy Hughes bounced a single over the pitcher's head. Phil Cavarretta, attempting to sacrifice, was safe. Lou Novikoff sacrificed both of them along and Bill Nicholson was passed, filling the bases. Don Johnson then smashed a double scoring Hughes and Cavarretta.

The Cubs got another run in the sixth on a double by Andy Pafko, a sacrifice and a long fly.

Hank Wyse, who allowed nine hits to Shoun's six, was touched for a run in the eighth as Gee Walker opened the inning with a double and came home on Frank McCormick's single.

Pre-Flight Cadet Wears Honor Ring

Dick Wakefield, the Iowa Pre-Flight school cadet who realized $51,000 for signing with the Detroit Tigers while a sophomore at Michigan and went on to take second in the American league batting race last year with .316, has received more than his share of big league honors for a 23-year-old youngster but his proudest possession is a minor league award. It's the Mangold Memorial award ring which he won by being voted the most valuable player in the Texas league while competing for Beaumont in 1942.

He left a string of Texas league records behind him when he moved up to the majors, including a .345 batting average, most runs driven in, and a single game mark of hitting three home runs and two double-oh three runs different pitchers.

Pirates Tie Cardinals

Game Called At One A. M., End of 14th Inning

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals battled through 14 innings, the last six scoreless, to a 5-5 tie last night. The game was called at the end of the 14th by the league rule ending night games at 1 a. m.

The Pirates tossed away a chance to end the deadlock in the 12th when Pete Coscarart singled and Jim Russell and Jack Barrett both were safe on attempted sacrifices. But Al Rubeling, Tommy O'Brien and Babe Dahlgren were easy putouts for Sylvester Donnelly, the Cardinals' fifth pitcher.

Ray Sanders rapped Preacher Roe, first of five Pirate hurlers, for a homer in the first inning.

Speakers Discuss Post-War Activities At County Meeting

DES MOINES (AP)—Postwar welfare activities and postwar financial problems were discussed by speakers yesterday at the county supervisors' sectional meeting of the Iowa County Officers association convention.

Des Moines was named as the convention site for 1945 and the seven different groups of the association elected their officers in individual sectional meetings yesterday.

A backlog of potential old age assistance cases is building up in the state, King Palmer, member of the Iowa department of social welfare, told supervisors.

Palmer, speaking on "Postwar Relief for Iowa" said the backlog consists of persons who have left the old age assistance rolls and others who might have applied, but did not, because of greater employment.

He said that old age assistance recipients had not reached the anticipated peak of 60,000 before improving economic conditions had brought a decline to 51,326 in 1943.

Others discussing postwar welfare activity were Edward Cur, secretary of the Iowa bonus board and Ray E. Wakely, past president of the Iowa Welfare association and associate professor of economics and sociology at Iowa State college, Ames.

State Comptroller C. Fred Porter advised supervisors to arrange financing of postwar work now rather than wait until the war ends.

Wakely observed that a probable drop in Iowa's postwar population as compared with 1940 census figures will be part of the general welfare picture.

Curtis said that handling of veterans relief should be left to county soldiers relief commissioners "who understand the problems better." Pointing out that there would be more of such cases than after the last war, he predicted that all counties would have to hire at least one man for full time to handle the job.

Officers elected by the seven group associations are: Supervisors—Edward Refshauge, Cedar Falls, president; George W. Callenius, Granville, vice-president; and Frank Squires, Glidden, secretary.

Treasurers—H. J. Schmitz, Eldora, president; Anna M. Decker, Waterloo, vice-president; and Van W. Hammeraton, Sioux City, secretary.

Clerks—Arthur Axmeier, Cedar Rapids, president; Val L. Kiese, Dubuque, vice-president; and L. G. Grant, Jefferson, secretary.

Auditors—Bailey Barnes, Waterloo, president; Roy Johnson, Pocahontas, vice-president; and Fred C. Missal, Garner, secretary.

Recorders—Ralph L. Kimball, Independence, president; Pearl Roberts, Waterloo, vice-president; and Sina Kloster, Nevada, secretary.

Engineers—J. W. Wiersma, Grundy Center, president; Ray McMurray, Newton, vice-president; and Frank O. Leing, Des Moines, secretary.

Patriot Partisans—French Underground

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force (AP)—Large German armored, artillery and air forces have been diverted from the invasion front and are fighting the French underground in battles raging over a large part of the countryside, a special communique said yesterday.

Systematic disorganization of enemy transport has contributed directly to the success of allied operations in Normandy," said the second special war bulletin of Supreme Headquarters. It pictured resistance reaching full battle pitch as partisans harassed and impeded the Nazis.

In some sectors where the Germans attacked with heavy artillery, air and armored forces, the Maquis have been forced to give ground, but not without inflicting losses on the enemy, the communique said. In other areas, despite considerable Nazi forces sent against them, the partisans have held stubbornly to their positions. "In addition," the communique said, "numerous engagements are reported from the Pyrenees, the Vosges, Marne, Ardennes, Aisne and Cruse. Elements of several German divisions and a large number of local defense troops are estimated to have been contained inside France by the action of the resistance forces.

"Many cuts on the railways and numerous obstacles on roads have effectively hindered the passage of German reinforcements to the beachhead. In this way two armored divisions have been seriously delayed in southwest France.

"Railway cuts also were reported throughout the Rhone valley and in Brittany, the Loiret, Aisne and the area north of Paris."

The French press service here quoted authoritative French sources as stating that Gestapo Chief Gessler, in command of the southern French zone, had been executed by French patriots at Murat.

As this all-out underground offensive got underway, a reliable source at Supreme Headquarters stated that Gen. Charles de Gaulle head of the French Committee of National Liberation, suddenly had reversed his stand and permitted French representatives to serve as liaison officers and governors in liberated sections of France, under Supreme Headquarters control.

The agreement was said to have been brought about without any formal meeting between De Gaulle and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Ickes Announces Cut In Civilian Supply Of Premium Gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilians will get only 40 percent of the present supply of premium gasoline starting next month, Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes announced yesterday.

The reason: Tetraethyl lead, "one of the most important items in our arsenal," is being increasingly used for military purposes. Tetraethyl lead is used in 100-octane aviation gasoline as well as premium motor fuel.

Ickes said the total civilian gasoline supply will not be reduced because refineries will be permitted to make more regular gasoline to compensate for the limitation on the better quality product.

Democratic National Committee Proposes Third Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Democratic national committee Thursday announced plans proposing a merger with other anti-administration Democratic organizations to form a convention subsequent to the two major party conventions.

Robert O'Brien, secretary of the organization, said the convention, in the event President Roosevelt received the Democratic presidential nomination, would decide whether to endorse the Republican nominee or nominate an independent Democratic candidate for president.

He said the convention, to be held in a southern city not yet chosen, would be called "within a week or two" after the close of the Democratic convention in Chicago, which opens July 19.

Member of Rangers Sees 29 Months Of Overseas Service

Wearing four stars signifying participation in four major military engagements, Sergt. Wendell Buringrud of the American Rangers, returned to his home at Northwood after 29 months of overseas service.

Sergeant Buringrud has been in the service since February, 1941, when he left Iowa City with an Iowa national guard company. At that time he was a sophomore at the university where he was majoring in economics.

Sergeant Buringrud received the medal of the Order of the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in combat in Italy when he was struck by shrapnel. His service included the north African campaign, the campaigns in Tunisia and Sicily and the invasion of Italy.

He arrived in New York June 9 from north Africa where he was in a hospital for several weeks receiving treatment for malaria. He was also in a hospital two months last fall when he was sent back from the Italian front in September following his injury in the front line.

As a member of the American Rangers, he was with the British Commandos in the Dieppe raid. The Rangers were formed into a special unit from the American troops who were in training in England and have since borne the brunt of many dangerous missions on the various fronts.

He will report at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., July 9 for reassignment. Medical Discharge Donald Newcomb has received a medical discharge from the navy air corps and has returned to his home in Mt. Sterling, Newcomb, who joined the navy air force after graduating from the university, was flying a plane near a Kentucky airport last January when engine trouble developed. In landing he received injuries which kept him hospitalized until he was granted a discharge a few days ago.

Receives Transfer Sergt. J. M. Hoyt has completed his training with the army air corps at Coe college in Cedar Rapids and has been transferred to Santa Ana, Calif., for pre-flight instruction. He is a former university student. Before his transfer to pilot training, he was a gunner.

Army Physio-Therapist Lieut. Dorothy Schmidt will arrive in Iowa City today from Chicago. Lieutenant Schmidt is a physio-therapist in the army nurse corps having received her commission more than a year ago upon completion of physio-therapy courses at the University of Iowa. While in Iowa City she will visit her brother, Cadet Donald Kerwick who is taking WTS training in the navy air corps.

Lieutenant Schmidt's husband, Corp. Roger Schmidt, is stationed in Panama with the army medical corps. He attended the university prior to his induction into the army.

Given Leave James Pinnio, apprentice seaman, is visiting friends in Iowa City this week. A former student at the university, he has completed boot training at Great Lakes, Ill. After his leave, he will be transferred to Norman, Okla. for training in an A. O. M. school.

Red Cross Stations Preserve Contacts With Home for American Servicemen

Servicemen returning to their homes in Johnson county from duty overseas or in the United States often go to the Red Cross for help in adjusting to civilian life, according to Red Cross officials here.

During May this year, 44 returning servicemen received such help through chapter headquarters in Iowa City. This service is one of the most vital of all duties assumed by the Red Cross as the problems facing a soldier or sailor who has been accustomed to the routine life of the service are many.

On the other hand, the Red Cross preserves the link with home for American servicemen overseas or at other stations.

Speed is the keynote in handling servicemen's messages and requests, and each request is treated as urgent, according to Red Cross officials.

24-Hour Service "Our home service department is virtually on 24-hour duty, as important messages must be acted upon immediately, regardless of time or inconveniences," Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, executive secretary, stated. "That may mean a long drive over muddy roads into the country or perhaps half a dozen telephone calls at midnight."

Characterized as "the link between home front and fighting front," Red Cross home service is a means of emergency contact between servicemen and their families, according to Mrs. Mathes. Red Cross home service offers a constant channel of communication between a soldier and his family. In time of serious illness or in other extreme emergencies, the soldier or his family can send messages through the Red Cross regardless of the distance separating them.

Illustrating the importance of the program of the Johnson county Red Cross home service to military men, Mrs. Mathes asserted that the majority of requests handled by local home service workers concern investigation of family conditions for reporting to military officials regarding the need for emergency furloughs.

Furlough Requests "The Red Cross acts only as a fact-finding agency at the request of commanding officers. The date is reported without recommendation, and the service authorities make their own final decisions. Other communications and reports handled by the Johnson county Red Cross home service include: providing medical officers with social histories needed to determine treatment of patients, reporting on home conditions to assist commanding officers in decisions regarding furloughs and extensions, and assisting with communications between servicemen and families when normal means of communication are not available or have failed.

"These procedures may sound rather cut and dried," said Mrs. Mathes, "but the contrary is true." "Each report submitted concerns the happiness and welfare of a serviceman and his family. The comfort a fighting man and his family get through knowing that they are never farther from each other than the nearest Red Cross representative is a great boost to morale."
