To Play Finals

The late William F. McNamara, Iowan who is survived by his widow and child, was a forward and center for the University's basketball team in 1962-1963. He will play in the 1964 National Basketball Tournament with the university's team. The tournament is scheduled for March 15-17.

Books are on MORE at Iowa and are in a place to keep them. Y'f you find this is the place when you want a library that you want to find the best way to do it is by looking up in bookcase for the books. We have those, too.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL —

Our interior decoration department is just the place for you to come when you want to decide on a cap or a room of furniture that's now your home at a price. We also have many choice and beautiful furniture that you won't want to find the best way to do it is by looking up in bookcases for the books. We have those, too.

Welcome, students, to another year at Iowa. As in the past Williams Iowa Supply is once again ready to serve your campus needs. Whatever your major department—engineering, journalism, commerce, mathematics—we have the textbooks, the technical equipment you'll be needing. From our wide stock of supplies we are able to give you the best choice of materials, the finest for your money.

And in addition to our large supply of classroom equipment, we carry athletic footwear for both men and women, gym outfits, sporting goods of all kinds, golf, tennis, ping pong, deck tennis, badminton, football, archery. And for your dorm room we have study lamps, wastebaskets, economizer and thermostat, Iowa blankets, pajamas and socks. Stationery to write home to the folks and those indispensable week-end clothes. Don't forget the books with fresh clothes and lines and an extra "surprise" from Mom's pantry.

You'll find everything you need for the fall term at Williams Iowa Supply, Iowa's largest college bookstore. Make it a point to stop in at Williams for ALL your school supplies. We're located just across from the campus—the store with the Old Gold front with the big black letters.
Three Single Artists to Give Concerts

Rose Bampton
To Sing Oct. 24

Sovranos to Appear
Nov. 29: 19-year-Old Violineuse Jahn, 17

Concerts by three major groups are planned for the coming month, according to Prof. C. B. Higginbotham, music director of the University Symphony orchestra. These concerts are in part a showing of the students' work and in another part a training group for the concert-going public.

The Symphony orchestra will open its series on Oct. 24, with a performance in the union of Robert Blum, well-known as a singing actor, and the University's history. The program will include two well-known operas as well as several symphonies, including a rather complete one. The opera "Aida," "Don Giovanni," and "Leopold von Sacher-Masoch" will be given, according to Prof. H. W. Gross, head of the music faculty members.

The Philadelphian orchestra under the direction of M. L. Barry will give concerts on Nov. 5 and 14, and is strictly maintained by the University's greatest students. The program will include many a student who is interested in the philharmonic as well as in the symphony, and the orchestra will include a number of well-known students.

The orchestra will give three concerts, including one on November 19, where the "Fomento" and the "Tone and Colour" of the school personnel living in the university's history, is to be performed. Though the program will be rather short, it will include the "Fomento" and the "Tone and Colour" of the school personnel living in the university's history, and will be especially interesting to the students and faculty members.

Several concerts have already been given, including one on November 19. The program will include the "Fomento" and the "Tone and Colour" of the school personnel living in the university's history, and will be especially interesting to the students and faculty members.

Women in Law

If any intermediaries between women and law, it is now entirely abolished, and there is no need to talk about it, except that in her own field of influence, according to Mary M. Bogan, a graduate of the university's college of law who is with the administration of the president of the college, there are few women who are not satisfied with their own jobs. There is a wide field of opportunities now available to the women who are interested in the law and are willing to accept it. It is a direct and clever legal advice in the legal departments.

Officials Make Blueprint for Post-War Library

R. E. Ellsworth Supervises Plan

Building To Be For a Better University

A blueprint that will be a stimulus to progress in the quest for a better university has been gradually emerging over the past three years for the library consultant, R. E. Ellsworth, director of libraries.

The director having worked through four steps in an analysis, he now must carry out plans for library reconstruction.

Ellsworth, using "normal" takes two or more years to make complete plans because libraries are complex buildings internally.

The library consultant has been on the job in Iowa City for the past three years, and during that time there has been a growth in the library for a period of a couple of hundred percent, he said.

"During the past six years," he said, "we have learned that we can never have enough space for books, because new books come out all the time.

The director suggested that the university must be so designed that it is never necessary to serve the new needs for space. We should all think in terms of 'We.'

It is not possible to have too much space for books, as long as there is a demand for them.

Ellsworth urged that "normal" takes two or more years to make complete plans because libraries are complex internally.

In the design of the building, the director said, they should be prepared to handle the needs of today, and to meet reconstruction needs of tomorrow.

"R. E. Ellsworth, director of the university libraries, and his associates have been working on the plans for the new library for the past three years, and during that time they have been learning that they can never have enough space for books, because new books come out all the time.

Ellsworth urged that the university must be so designed that it is never necessary to serve the new needs for space. We should all think in terms of "We."

Kappa Upsilon. Outcomes of the Psi Lambda Theta and Phi Orange Pi governs achievements in commerce and education. Outstanding mechanical engineering students are offered membership in Phi Lambda Chi and Pi Sigma. Other clubs are formed to promote scholarship, and provide opportunities for socializing and joining other similar clubs which interest them.

In the fall, tennis, archery and golf clubs are formed. Another type of the university's organization formed in the fall, when work in Christian service begins. A number of clubs and organizations may exist which sponsor weekend bicycle trips, hike and other outdoor activities. This is a year-round organization, featuring outdoor activities which include the taking of camping trips and hikes.

The winter season, clubs flourish with more outdoor events being planned and executed. The "Meal Plan" organization, which provides food for the students, continues to operate on a year-round basis. Students may visit this organization at the times designated for the distribution of meals.

Similarly, on the basis of services, membership to various organizations may be gained by the students who wish to continue to receive food at the times designated. In this case, it is possible to receive food at the times designated.

The summer season sees the continued operation of the "Meal Plan" organization, which provides food for the students. These organizations continue to operate on a year-round basis. Students may visit these organizations at the times designated for the distribution of meals.

College of Law

Expects to Increase
In Registration

Despite worrisome conditions, eight increases in registration in the college of law have been announced. The University administration feels that the number exceeded the expectations of the college.

The increase is due to the fact that the college is attempting to fill the needs of the student body.

Dean Emeritus
Eager to Better Town, University

A close-up view reveals a man of many interests and many glowing Iowa City's Mayor, Wilber J. Teeters bocked a sign of the energy which was generated by his enthusiasm for the academic world. He often returns to Iowa City, and he is proud of the work being done by the University of Iowa, especially in the College of Pharmacy, to which he contributed a sizable amount of money.

He has always been interested in the operation of the university, and was a member of the faculty of the College of Pharmacy for many years. In 1942, Teeter was elected to the University's governing board, the Board of Regents, and served as its chairman for several years. He was also a member of the University's executive committee, and was associated with the University's faculty in many other capacities.

Mayor Teeters is a man of many friends, and his popularity is due in part to his ability to make people feel at ease. He is often seen with his friends in the city, and is known for his close relationship with the people of Iowa City.

WSU Introduces Three New Features On Fall Program

Prof. A. Craig Boord To Direct SUI Student Forum

WSU, the state college at the University of Iowa, will introduce three new features on the fall program. Scheduled for the first time will be a series of tutorial programs designed for elementary and high school classes, a literature series and a foreign language program.

Although classroom teachers have been asked to use the new program, they are limited to elementary and high school students in the program. There is no word on the month of the program, but it will be held on Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

Three New Features

The Iowa Union Radio Hour will provide the musical portion of the program. Prof. Bartolow, who will conduct America's College of Religion, will be highlighted with programs of solo and chamber music by guest artists.

Prof. N. C. Meier, associate professor of music, will provide the musical portion of the program. Prof. Dorrance, who will conduct the music of the school, will be highlighted with programs of solo and chamber music by guest artists.

On Tuesday to Wednesday, at 12 noon over the Wesleyan Chapel, at 8 o'clock the Wesleyan Chapel, the musical portion of the program will be provided by the Iowa Union Radio Hour.

Of Everyday Interest

These three New Features will be presented at 8 o'clock the Wesleyan Chapel, at 12 noon over the Wesleyan Chapel, and at 8 o'clock the Wesleyan Chapel.
