Allies Swarm Across Broad Front on South Coast of France

French Report Patriot Uprisings, Sabotage

Claim Disorganization Of German Communication Lines

LONDON (AP)—Complete disorganization of Germany's communications throughout France was claimed by authoritative French sources yesterday as patriot forces struck with new intensity to assist the allied invasion in the south and the sledge-hammer blows in the west.

The independent French news agency reported from Bern that 10,000 French patriots were "advancing toward Vichy" and that hundreds more were joining them as they pushed ahead.

Move on Bordeaux

The agency said six other detachments of French forces of the interior were moving on Bordeaux. The dispatch did not say where the patriots were coming from or how they were armed.

Frontier reports to the London press said that Paris went wild with joy when news was received of the new allied landings, and that sporadic fighting between patriots and collaborationists broke out in the streets when crowds assembled singing the "Marseillaise."

A Madrid dispatch to the Daily Mail said that when Paris was quiet the sound of allied gunfire from the fighting in northern France could be heard distinctly.

This report said great bonfires were ablaze in the city's courtyards as German army archives and files of the Vichy ministry were burned to keep them from allied hands.

Vichy in Disorder
Leading collaborationists were said to be fleeing the city, and Vichy was pictured as a place of disorder. The collaborationist capital virtually was in a state of siege.

A French press service reported that French forces of the interior killed 800 Germans, wounded 300 and took 100 prisoners during the past 24 hours while seizing the towns of Breton, Serignan, Lannion and La Clarte, in Brittany.

The report said the delivery of equipment from factories working on German production had been halted by sabotage. It listed the Englebert works near Compiegne and the liquid air factory at Rheims as among the "many" whose output had been stopped.

Last night RAF Mosquitos again struck Berlin, hurling blockbusters on the battered Reich capital, without loss.

The fresh daylight attacks were aimed at quelling any attempts by the Germans to gather their depleted strength for support of their desperate ground forces back-tracking before victorious allied troops in France.

Fifth Army Fights Patrols at Pontedera
ROME, (AP)—A brisk engagement developed when Fifth army patrols made contact with German patrols three miles southeast of Pontedera Monday but in all other sectors the Italian land front was quiet except for artillery duels, allied headquarters said today.

German shelling of Florence almost ceased and the allied position there "continues to improve steadily," headquarters added.

Martin met with Rowe this morning, told him that he and the other leaders feel such a move to be "ill-timed." The implication was that the Republican leadership hopes to win control of the house at the November elections and any precedents set now might be embarrassing at some later date.

Rowe then said he would not go against the wishes of his colleagues. The Ohioan had said he thought the Republicans, with some help from the dissident southern Democrats, could take over the house.

Negro Troops Attack Former Prisoners
Body of Italian Found Hanging From Tree At Seattle Post

SEATTLE (AP)—Twenty-four Italians, members of a service unit at Ft. Lawton, were injured in an attack by Negro troops Monday night, the army's Seattle post of embarkation command, announced yesterday.

The body of one Italian was later found hanging from a nearby tree.

Former Prisoners
Ft. Lawton is a unit of the port of embarkation command and members of the Italian service unit, made up of former prisoners of war who pledged allegiance to the allied cause, were barracksed there.

The statement, which was the only information available last night, said the attack occurred about midnight Monday and lasted but a few minutes. The Negroes, who attacked with rocks, were not identified except that they were soldiers.

All of the injured Italians were taken to the hospital.

The statement did not say that the Italian found hanging, whose name was Guglielmo Olivanta, was hanged by the attacking party.

Possible Suicide
"A short time following the fight the body of one of the Italian soldiers was found hanging from a nearby tree. He was identified as Guglielmo Olivanta. A phase of the investigation will be to determine whether this could have been suicide.

"The post authorities placed the attacking soldiers under arrest and launched an immediate investigation. They promised disciplinary action and said no further information would be available until the investigation was complete.

"The Italian service unit has been at Ft. Lawton for several months and there has been no previous trouble or appearance of ill will on the part of military personnel at the post."

Senate Modifies Ban In Soldier Vote Bill
WASHINGTON (AP)—Spurred by a widespread outcry, the senate yesterday to modify the "political propaganda" ban and permit soldiers and sailors to pick their own newspapers, magazines and books, so long as they are generally circulated and the services can deliver them.

Red Troops Cross Polish Biebrza River

Plunge Through Nazi 15-Mile Defense Belt Guarding East Prussia

LONDON, Wednesday (AP)—Soviet field dispatches said last night that Red army troops had crossed the Biebrza river in northern Poland, striking through a 15-mile belt of axis defenses guarding imperilled East Prussia, while Moscow announced that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Fourth Ukraine army had killed or captured 172,360 Germans.

On the basis of Moscow accounts six Soviet armies have killed or captured a total of 781,886 Germans since the great summer offensive began June 23, and when three other armies presently engaged in shattering the Reich forces are heard from, the total is likely to exceed 1,000,000.

Bomber Swarms
Swarms of armored fighter-bombers covered the Russian surge toward East Prussia, spraying German positions at Grajewo, only two miles from the frontier in the attack along the Bialystok-Lyck railway.

The Russians already are endangering thousands of outflanked German troops fighting in the Suwalki triangle, a short distance above the Biebrza river sector. The Suwalki triangle, annexed to East Prussia from Poland in 1939, recently was invaded by Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army.

When German reserves, flung into battle in the Suwalki area and along the East Prussian-Lithuanian border farther north, slowed Cherniakhovsky, the Second White Russian army went over to the offensive now rolling dangerously close to the southern border of East Prussia on the fringe of the Masurian lakes—famous battleground in the First World War.

Invasion Imminent
The Soviet high command bulletin remained silent on this sector where Associated Press Moscow correspondent Daniel de Luce said an invasion of Germany was likely in the next 72 hours.

One hundred miles to the southwest another Red army, the First White Russian under Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, beat down German counterattacks east of Praga, industrial suburb of Warsaw. The Russians last were reported within 11 miles of the Polish capital.

In Estonia Russian troops in a three-mile advance west of Antsla, seized the rail station of Anne, only 14 miles from the key junction of Valga, and within 11 miles of the Tallinn-Riga railway which runs through Valga. The Russians captured 80 localities in their drive toward the Baltic sea.

Repulse Attacks
In the area of Raseiniai, Lithuanian town 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, German East Prussian railway, the Russians repulsed strong enemy infantry and tank attacks and inflicted heavy losses in men and material, the Soviet bulletin said.

A broadcast by the German news agency, Transocean, however, declared that Raseiniai, which the Russians captured Aug. 10, was reconquered by counter-attacking Germans Monday. The broadcast said that grenadiers of a Silesian infantry division and elite parachute troops killed or captured the entire Soviet garrison there.

Extend Firm Beachheads

German Opposition Light, Prisoners Show Demoralization

ROME (AP)—Thousands of allied troops, mainly Americans and French, swarmed on the south coast of France on a broad front between Marseille and Nice yesterday, seized and extended firm beachheads against inconsequential German opposition, and drove northward with the avowed intention of joining the allies in northwestern France.

An allied communique at 10:40 p. m., said American and French troops before dawn took the sentinel islands of Port Cros and Levant, ten miles off the coast, and seized Cap Negre, on the mainland due north of the islands and 28 miles east of Toulon.

Focal Point
The Germans said the focal point of the allied invasion was at St. Raphael, 30 miles northeast of the coast from Cap Negre, and also said there were landings west of Toulon and at Bormes, 25 miles east of that onetime naval base.

The official night statement said, "On the beaches of the mainland, where landings were successful against light opposition, the operation is proceeding satisfactorily," adding that, "substantial numbers of allied troops, together with guns, munitions and supplies, had been landed across the beaches of southern France by dark this evening."

German Demoralization
Word from the beaches indicated that German prisoners taken in sporadic, light fighting showed almost total demoralization, primarily as a result of the American breakthrough in northwestern France, which they realized meant that the fatherland's downfall was near.

Thousands of allied paratroopers and airborne troops landed well inland at 4:30 a. m., also against scanty opposition, following the important opening blow against the offshore islands.

800 Warships
Backed by more than 800 warships of all sorts—the greatest naval force ever assembled in the Mediterranean—the first seaborne troops went ashore in broad daylight at 7:30 a. m. (12:30 a. m., CWT).

"The army of France is in being again, fighting on its own soil," said a proclamation by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, the allied commander-in-chief.

The Germans apparently already had been forced to pull a large part of their troops northward to meet the threat of General Eisenhower, even though they themselves had been predicting the Mediterranean landings for more than a week.

Difficult Coast
The coast on which the allies landed is a difficult one, with rugged hills and cliffs rising abruptly from the sea but interspersed with beaches, some small, others extensive.

Once that coast bristled with big German guns and detection devices, designed to ward off just such landings as were made so easily. Three days of steady, concentrated aerial bombardment knocked out much of the defenses, and the final tremendous blasting in the three hours before the landings completed the job.

Warships of the United States, Britain, France, Canada, the Netherlands, Poland, Belgium and Greece participated.

'Incompatibility' Causes Hutton, Grant Rift
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cary Grant packed his luggage and departed yesterday from the big Brentwood mansion where he has lived with Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton since their marriage two years ago.

Incompatibility, nothing more or less, their mutual friends agreed, was responsible for the breaching of their marital relations.

The slim, blonde Barbara said they had decided to try a "friendly separation," and although she added there was no thought of a divorce immediately, a reconciliation seemed unlikely.

Allies Hammer Trapped Nazis

Narrow Escape Gap To Nine Miles

American Officer Says Germans 'Cease To Exist as Army'

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Wednesday (AP)—The Germans caught in the Normandy death trap were being hammered mercilessly today in the climactic battle for northwestern France and an American officer declared the enemy forces "have ceased to exist as an army."

Rain, which fell in sheets across the battlefield and sent the swarms of warplanes back to bases, was the only hope of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge, trying to extricate his forces through a shell-fraught gap below Falaise now narrowed to nine miles.

Close In
British and Canadians on the north and Americans on the west and south closed in on the pocket for the kill which will mean the greatest victory for allied arms in the west in this war.

Americans advancing four miles or more were seizing great stores of ammunition and equipment, and hundreds of prisoners were streaming back through the American lines.

Canadians stormed to within a mile of pivotal Falaise, nine miles above where the Third American army is pounding north against fierce resistance in an attempt to close the trap.

Yanks Drive Forward
American forces at the west end of the corridor drove forward two to four miles, while British troops pressing down from the north stormed the German citadel of Vassy, and were threatening Conde-sur-Noireau.

Squeezed on all sides, the Germans were probing the south limits of the trap for a weak spot through which their thousands of confused soldiers might escape.

General Eisenhower declared the Germans were "taking a sound beating." Among 1,822 captives counted Tuesday were some who had been subsisting on moldy bread for four days. Others angrily denounced the officers who had brought them to this debacle.

Third Army
Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army fought to within eight miles of Falaise on the south and west to the action still raging in Argentan, five miles behind it. This hard-riding force had driven 250 miles in three weeks.

Other American forces put the stopper in a sector where German armor was reported probing allied lines by capturing La Ferthe-Macé, between Domfront and Argentan.

"In some places," said a British officer at forward headquarters, "the Germans are retreating so fast our troops are having difficulty maintaining contact, but there still is no sign of enemy panic."

He reported that von Kluge had issued another of his "fight-to-the-last-bullet" orders to rear guards trying to hold back the British and Canadian tide on the north.

As the German plight grew worse, speculation arose that the next German line of defense might be before Paris itself.

Urges U. S. To—

Demand Islands

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McKellar (D, Tenn) urged the United States yesterday to demand permanent possession of all islands necessary to the "future security" of the nation.

Applauded by Chairman Reynolds (D, NC) of the military committee and Senator Chandler (D, Ky), the Tennessee legislator offered a resolution advocating:

Three-Points

1. Possession by the United States of all islands in the possession of or mandated to Japan Dec. 5, 1941, including Formosa and the Ryukyu islands, which might help in the defense of the Panama canal.

2. Acquisition by the United States under post-war agreements of Bermuda and all islands in the West Indies "which are now the possessions of European nations."

3. Negotiation by the president of an agreement with the republic of Ecuador looking to acquisition of the Galapagos islands.

Expressing complete agreement with McKellar's resolution, which was referred to the foreign relations committee, Senator Chandler declared it was just as "foolish" to leave islands in the hands of allies unable to defend them as it is to leave them, with enemies.

Includes Bermuda
Reynolds said he would like to see the McKellar resolution broadened to include not only Bermuda, but Bimini and Nassau, off the coast of Florida, and Jamaica.

"We should not only take the islands which belong to the British there, but we should discuss the appraised value from what Great Britain owes us as a result of World War I and World War II," he said.

Similarly, Reynolds advocated acquisition of Curacao, just north of Venezuela, which he would deduct from "what the Dutch government will owe us for reconquering and redelivering to them the Dutch East Indies."

House Committee Urges Broader Programs For Unemployment to Ease Reconversion

WASHINGTON (AP)—To cushion the shock of reconversion from war to peacetime economy, the house postwar economic committee yesterday urged state governments to broaden their unemployment programs by widening coverage and increasing payments.

The committee, headed by Representative Colmer (D-Miss), filed its report as the house began debate on surplus property disposition, one of three subjects in the pending reconversion program that broke up congress' summer vacation.

It recommended immediate establishment of machinery to handle reconversion matters generally through a director of war mobilization and reconversion, appointed by the president.

In general the committee steered clear of the "states' rights" unemployment compensation fight that rocked the senate last week, although it indicated that it favored handling of the jobless pay program by the states.

Most war workers, the committee said, are covered by state unemployment compensation systems which will have reserves estimated at $6,000,000,000 by the end of this year.

"In general," it added, the funds "are adequate to pay the benefits provided by the plans but... in a few instances the individual state funds might not be sufficient to meet demands during the transitional period... if adequate protection is to be provided, there should be increases in the duration of benefits and in the weekly amounts in most states."

Harshbarger, Hall Named to Head New Committee

Dean Appoints Five Members

Advisory Staff Enlarges Activities Under New Program

Dean Harry K. Newburn of the college of liberal arts yesterday announced the appointment of a committee to head the advisory system of the new curriculum program which will go into effect at the university this fall.

The committee will have Prof. Everett W. Hall, head of the philosophy department, as chairman and Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department as executive secretary.

As executive secretary, Professor Harshbarger will direct the advisory program, make assignments of students to advisers, act as a clearing agent between the adviser of the student and personnel agencies, keep records of the faculty advisory staff, instruct new advisers and announce changes in advisory procedure and policy.

Other members of the committee, appointed by Dean Newburn for terms of one, two and three years, are: Prof. Grace Cochran of the romance language department, who will serve for one year; Prof. George W. Stewart head of the physics department, appointed for a two-year term, and Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department, who was chosen to serve for three years.

At the expiration of the appointive terms, members of the committee will be elected by the advisory staff, while the positions of chairman and executive secretary of the committee will remain appointive.

The purpose of the committee, according to Professor Harshbarger, is to coordinate the efforts of the advisory staff of the university in giving assistance to students. The committee, he said, will concern itself with problems of policy, its activity taking the form of leadership of adviser's meetings and discussions.

The headquarters of the newly established advisory staff will be in the basement of Old Capitol. Donald R. Mallett, associate director in the office of student affairs, will devote full time work to the project. Helen Foelt, assistant director in the office of student affairs, will work part-time in the advisory office. Clerical and stenographic help will also be loaned by the office of student affairs.

Though the advisory program in itself is not new at the University of Iowa, the new advisory staff will work in a much broader field than previously. Establishment of the advisory office will make available to the advisors information from the various university services, thereby giving each advisor a complete record of the health, financial status, academic and home background and personal problems of the individual student.

The 'Palace Guard' Warriors

WITH AN AMERICAN BATTALION ON THE ITALIAN FRONT, Aug. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—The rest of the regiment doesn't go around needing the "palace guards" about their soft touch any more—not since the guards quit guarding and came to Rome the hard way.

This battalion used to be the standing guard with this regiment of a veteran division while on duty in the rear areas in Africa and Sicily and in the southern part of Italy.

"Get in the palace guards and see the war in the movies," was one of the usual cracks from the "outside" Joes, although General Eisenhower personally had ordered them to do this duty.

Their commander, Lieut. Col. Bruno Marchi, one-time football and basketball coach at Newton and Ft. Dodge high schools, originally thought the order was for commando work, and marched his men 25 miles in four hours and 40 minutes to take up the assignment—winning his unit the name of "March's flying cadets."

Finally sent to Anzio in March, the guards since have been fighting for all but seven of more than 120 days—and there's no longer any razzing.

In the drive from the beachhead to the Arno, the guards personally captured such German strongpoints as Lanuvie on the road to Rome, where the Germans were dug in eight to ten feet deep in solid rock emplacements. There the casualties were the heaviest the division had suffered in any one spot.

They then took Ceccina where the enemy had made a fierce, armored and infantry stand; and Castagneto, where they rounded up an entire German command post. For three hours after they took over, the guards were "welcoming" Nazi staff officers who came driving in, thinking the headquarters still was in German hands.

There have been awards of three distinguished service crosses, three silver stars and three bronze stars in the outfit. This is par for the course in any one battalion which has seen such gallant goings on as that turned in by Lieut. Beryl Newman, husky South Dakota ex-footballer who once played every position in the line for 60 minutes against Minnesota.

On the breakout from the beachhead, Lieutenant Newman got out in front with only a platoon. Two machineguns opened fire from a peaceful looking olive grove on a hillside. The platoon was pinned down, but he walked right into the fire, killing two of the Germans, wounding another pair and polishing off the guns. Then he called his unit to come up as he broke into a nearby house and captured 11 more Germans.

"He's the bravest guy I ever saw," said Capt. Hugh Jacob of Clinton, S. C. It was Jacob's company which took Lanuvie.

Then there's Lieut. John Garris of Leroy, Ala. He went out with a patrol on the beachhead one night and came back with 14 Germans. And count in Lieut. Orva Morris of Sparrow's Point, Md., who silenced three German machineguns with his carbine.

This is just about the most athletic-minded battalion in the Fifth army. Their basketball team, sparked by Sergt. Don Huckleberry of Purdue and Wayne Gaddis of Iowa and Don Sheldon, crack sniper from Webster City, Iowa, ran up a winning string of 33 in a row last winter. Sergt. Bob Lanse, a big, rangy right-hander who belongs to the Cleveland Indians, stars in the baseball outfit.

Senate Confirms Patton's Promotion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate yesterday confirmed the promotion of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. to the permanent rank of major general. The senate military affairs committee had withheld approval of the nomination since last October over a soldier-slapping incident, but endorsed it unanimously after disclosure of his new role. Reprimanded by Eisenhower, Patton publicly apologized to his troops.

Senator Chandler (D, Ky.) said the committee agreed Patton was "a great soldier" who had been "sufficiently disciplined."

Keyes Works At University On Indian Lore

Ancient Indian life in the Iowa region, details of which were unearthed after years of excavation and study of Indian mounds and habitation sites, now is being described and interpreted by Prof. Charles R. Keyes under terms of a University of Iowa appointment.

Professor Keyes, who retired on a pension for age from his faculty position at Cornell college in 1942, is serving as visiting professor of anthropology at the state university. This appointment is in line with the visiting research professorship plan set up by Dean Carl E. Seashore in the graduate college.

Part of Professor Keyes' research was subsidized by the university and he has assembled a valuable collection of materials which he has donated to the university and to the Iowa Historical society.

Under the present appointment, Professor Keyes will produce a monograph describing and interpreting his entire collection.

'I'd Like So Very Much To See My Mom'

AN AMERICAN BOMBER BASE, English Midlands (AP)—If the airforce boys in this neighborhood don't get a home leave before they are carried over to fight the Japanese, they are going to be pretty disappointed.

Stopping off here on my way back to India and China, I visited this Fortress base and told them I was recruiting for the India-China theater.

A lot of them, bored with being in one spot for so long, wanted to go to China, especially the ground crews and others not on combat duty.

They all know that before the peace comes, they will have to take a lick at the Japanese. They had heard some lurid stories about the Pacific war, most of them fairly true, others wild exaggerations. Their first dread of living in bamboo bashes, or huts, was quieted when they were told these huts were fairly rain proof and cool.

Many of the men said they would like a little heat for a while. One hears the men here complain that they no longer make news in their home papers.

"Nobody cares about heavy bombing anymore," said one of them. "The guys over on the beach are getting all the glory." That means Normandy.

In the "old days," six months to a year ago, heavy losses resulted from bombing missions, but now most planes come home and casualties have been dropped.

Last year, combat crews had to finish a score or so of missions to get home leave. But the fighting was tough and few lived through it. Strangely enough, those who already have completed their "tour" and are awaiting transportation home, still get up at night and go through the briefings. The boys call them "sailors on leave."

Ground crews feel badly about not getting home. Some have been at this same field for 15 months. And combat crews finish their "home award tours" in three to four months. They're ready to carry their war on to the Pacific, but many would like "to see Mom first."

Clement J. Hess Receives Promotion

Second Lieut. Clement J. Hess, 22, son of Robert W. Hess, 515 S. Dodge street has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in his 15th airforce Liberator group. Lieutenant Hess, navigator in a Liberator bomber, is a veteran of more than 30 missions against German installations. He has participated in operations over many important enemy targets, such as Munich, Vienna and the Ploesti oil fields.

A graduate of St. Patrick's high school, Hess entered the airforces in May, 1942, and won his wings some months later. He is a qualified bombardier as well as navigator.

At Jefferson Barracks—

Pre-Induction Physicals at Army Post

By DEAN LIERLE JR. It was a hot night last Thursday evening when 17 men from Iowa City and vicinity gathered in the basement of the Johnson county court house, awaiting shipment to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Some were about to be inducted into the armed services, and others of us were to have our pre-induction physical examinations. While millions of men have undergone this same experience throughout the nation, it remains an "adventure" of great personal significance to each man as he takes his turn.

At 8 o'clock we boarded a bus for Burlington, from where we were to take the train to St. Louis. Although only 17 of us began the trip, the bus was well filled by the time it arrived in Burlington, owing to additional men picked up at Muscatine and other points on the way. In Burlington an antiquated and sooty railroad coach awaited us. It was not to be attached to the St. Louis-bound Rocket-Zephyr, however, until 1:45 a. m., which allowed us about two hours in Burlington. When we finally did get underway we discovered rather quickly that our coach was not designed for sleeping. Some spent the night playing cards, others were just generally hilarious and a few indulged in notes of song. When dawn broke we were traveling down the 80 miles of track adjacent to the Mississippi river. But it would take a travelogue to describe the beauty of that Mississippi sunrise.

Arrive at Nine We rocked into St. Louis at somewhere near 9 o'clock. We were met there by an army bus and four troop-carrying trucks. Jefferson barracks is approximately ten miles from St. Louis. For some that ride through St. Louis was their first glimpse of a great metropolitan area.

When the trucks and buses stopped, we found ourselves in front of the military police office at Jefferson barracks. Here we left our overnight kits and were segregated into groups according to whether we were going to be inducted or examined. We were then marched to the mess hall where we were served breakfast. The army assigned us to a barracks building and gave us bedclothing for the evening. When our bunks were made and our belongings were arranged a corporal took us to the main building of the reception center. There we waited our turn to fill out the medical questionnaires and be assigned order numbers. By the time this was completed, it was time for an early lunch. Neither the breakfast nor the lunch quite measured up to our expectations of army food, although the rest of the meals were excellent. Save for a few minutes spent in having blood tests taken, the afternoon passed leisurely. It was at that time that we had our first and only opportunity to see the camp, explore it to its limits, visit the post exchange and generally become acquainted with our settings. It was also our first opportunity to clean up after the night's dusty ride.

See Movies At 8:30 that evening we saw army motion pictures describing military action in the invasion of New Guinea. Several short subjects, also were presented. Although we had not returned to our barracks at the sound of taps at 9:30, it is safe to say that no one needed to be persuaded to go to bed early that evening. And Friday, by the way, was the hottest day of the year in St. Louis.

Reveille at Five Reveille was at 5 o'clock Saturday morning. An hour passed before we went to breakfast but it was worth the wait. Our breakfast consisted of melon, cereal, scrambled eggs, toast, jam and coffee. By 7 o'clock we had begun the main physical examination. There were long waits throughout the day, but in general the business was conducted very expeditiously. The entire process, including time out for lunch, took about eight hours, mainly because of the thoroughness of the examination.

Ready to Leave

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, we were told that the men from Iowa should go immediately to their barracks and get their belongings, as they would leave at that time. Partly because of the heat, and because it takes only two days for one to wish that he were home again, this news was received with great pleasure. We dined Saturday night at the services dining room in the St. Louis railroad station, where we enjoyed an excellent meal. Our train left at 5 o'clock, and it turned out that we were to go back in the same ancient car in which we had arrived, but we were on our way back home, and that was all that was important to us. The Iowa City contingent arrived from Burlington on the bus Sunday morning at 5 o'clock.

Just Beginning

For those of us who passed the physical tests, this was just the beginning. In 21 days we will return to Jefferson barracks, and we won't be coming back in two days. There will be a wait of perhaps five days down there, and then we will be shipped to permanent stations for our training. But this is war. I believe that we are all ready and willing to give what we can in the construction of a better world, even if we are apparently a little late for the main show.

238 Courses—

SUI Conducts Mail Study

Study by mail, popular alike with such varied persons as school teachers in Iowa and service men an active duty in the South Pacific, will be conducted by the University of Iowa in 1944-45 with a total of 238 courses in 21 departments.

This has been announced by the extension division in a new bulletin which points out that such work is applicable to three groups of persons: those earning credit toward an Iowa degree, earning credit toward a degree at some other institution, and to fill special requirements for professional advancement, self-improvement, or preparation for special occupations.

Instruction is continuous throughout the year and students may begin courses at any time. The teaching is individual and personal and the effectiveness of such study has been recognized by education leaders for many years.

On the current schedule, the commerce college has the greatest number of courses, 43; followed by English, with 39; romance languages, with 27, and education, with 20.

Among the other departments offering from two to 16 courses are journalism, 16; mathematics and astronomy, 14; classical languages, 12; German, 11; history, 11; and political science, 10.

Many of the courses are offered to service men at reduced rates, through the United States Armed Forces institute.

Oddities

From the Land Of Make-Believe

By TED GILL HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bars do not a prison make, etc. . . . but the movies used paper towels to make a grove of palm trees . . . on make-believe islands in the Pacific.

Cameramen needed 1,800 palm trees of the New Guinea variety for the battle scene . . . so it took a crew of workmen 30 days to wrap that many eucalyptus trunks with paper towels . . . and paint them.

Then they spent another week hacking them to pieces . . . to make them look like they'd gone through a terrific bombing . . . It was easier to build the trees whole . . . then wreck 'em . . . than to make each piece by piece.

Two Sergeants Flee From Shower

Brothers Separated For Three Years Pass on Italian Road

WITH THE AEF IN ITALY, Aug. 5 (Delayed) (AP)—A pair of tough armored force sergeants who never quailed at the sounds of the front, lost their reputation for courage and beat a hasty, frightened retreat when their drums were blasted by a brand new sound the other day.

Sergt. Raymond Stryker of Washington, D. C., and a pal who prefers to remain unnamed had just reached their headquarters area. They headed immediately over to take their first shower in months, and they walked briskly into the shower tent before anyone could stop them.

For a moment, there was only dead silence inside. Then cries and blood-curdling screams shrilled through the headquarters area, and two sergeants came running out, their faces flaming red. They'd entered the shower tent while the headquarters WAC detachment was busily bathing.

Pvt. Stanley Wrona of Chicago, Ill., is an artilleryman in Italy. His brother, Sergt. Chester Wrona, is with an ack-ack outfit in Italy. They hadn't seen each other in three years although each knew the other was somewhere in the same theater.

The other day, Stan, driving a truck in a convoy along the road, met another truck and heard: "Hey, Stan, where are you going?" Stan stuck his head out of the truck window and got a quick flash of his brother going in the opposite direction. He only had time to holler, "Up front!—Where are you going?" But Chester disappeared in a dust cloud before he had time to answer.

Pvt. Clayton Eighney of Erie, Mich., drives a jeep for an 88th division reconnaissance squad. Nowadays, he drives at much less speed than previously.

His squad was sent up to reconnoiter a German command post the other day. The road was under intense shellfire, so Clayton kept the foot-fool on the floorboards all the way. The job done, he drove back down over the road more slowly.

The reason: He discovered five anti-tank mines his jeep had bounced over blithely on his way up.

When Staff Sergt. Steve Kasmay of Perth Amboy, N. J., gets mad, he forgets all about new-fangled gadgets and gets busy with his bare fists. Fighting all the way up hill, he and his platoon were pinned down by a German machinegunner.

Lightning Damages Lothrop Smith Home

Lightning struck a wire outside the Lothrop Smith home at 1011 N. Summit street, early last evening as a thunder shower hit Iowa City. The wire was ignited and followed on into the house to burn a bed and cause damage to a sewing machine and window sills.

The Iowa City fire department was called to put out the fire.

Browns Defeat Red Sox, 6-5

Split Series Of Four Tilts With Boston

BOSTON (AP)—The St. Louis Browns, paced by a grand slam bat by shortstop Vernon Stephens, defeated the Red Sox 6 to 5 yesterday and maintained their American league lead of six and a half games.

The victory also gave the Browns an even split in their four-game series with the Sox. Yank Terry sailed along nicely, apparently secure with a 5 to 0 lead, until the fifth when the Browns scored one run on Mark Christman's double scoring Gene Moore, who had singled.

But in the sixth the roof fell in on Terry. The Browns scored five runs on four hits and two passes and one of the hits should have been an out. Stephens' 14th home run cleared the bases.

Red Barrett replaced Terry to be greeted by a single by Moore who scored on Zarilla's double.

Chicago Cubs Take Abbreviated Finale From Phillies, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP)—After losing the first three games of the series, the Chicago Cubs captured an abbreviated finale, 4 to 1, from the Philadelphia Phils yesterday. The game was called after six innings because of rain.

Billy Nicholson's double, Andy Pafko's triple and pitcher Hi Vandenberg's second single were the hit items on a three-run fourth inning that gave Vandenberg his season's fifth win against three defeats. The Cubs found Al Gerheuser for 10 hits.

The game ended the Phillies' 1944 chores in Chicago, giving them a record of eight victories and three defeats here.

Bill Zuber Pitches Win Over White Sox

Yankees Mark Up Another Triumph Over Chicago, 3 to 1

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Zuber, who hadn't started a ball game since July 22 when he defeated the Chicago White Sox, hurled the New York Yankees to another victory over Jimmy Dykes' Pale Hose yesterday, 3 to 1.

He allowed only three hits, Wally Moses opening the first with a double and scoring the White Sox's only run after an infield out and Guy Curtright's outfield fly. Ralph Hodgins got the two other blows, both singles.

Frank Crossetti homered for the winners in the second, his first of the year.

Byron Nelson, McSpaden Top Tourney

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP)—This may be getting slightly monotonous, but Byron Nelson, the Toledo, Ohio, shotmaker, and his buddy, Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia, ran one-two yesterday in the 36-hole qualifying trials of the 1944 national P. G. A. golf championship.

Nelson, the tournament favorite, was in the last threesome to finish and he took the Manito course to pieces with a 69 to win medal honors with a two-round total of 138, six under par. His score yesterday was the same as Monday—36 on the front nine and 38 on the backstretch. It gave him a two-stroke bulge over McSpaden, who had finished earlier with two 70s for a 140.

A somewhat dejected little fellow in the locker room was Harry Cooper of Minneapolis.

He three-putted himself completely out of the tournament—on the 18th hole of his round yesterday.

Reds Defeat Giants; Pittsburgh, Indians, Athletics Win Games

CINCINNATI, (AP)—Tommy De La Cruz pitched and won his last game for the Cincinnati Reds last night, defeating the New York Giants, 6 to 3.

The 29-year old Cuban is to leave Saturday for Miami, Fla., where he said he would enlist in one of the armed services.

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates made it nine in a row by defeating the Boston Braves, 7-5, here last night, sweeping a series of five games.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Ken Keltner's single in the 12th inning gave Cleveland a 1-0 win over Washington last night, breaking up a pitching duel between Al Smith and Dutch Leonard.

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Hal Newhouser joined his teammate Dizzy Trout, as a 19-game winner yesterday when the Detroit Tigers defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-2, in 11 innings, squaring their series.

All-Stars Lose Navy Players

CHICAGO (AP)—Seven players selected on the College All-Star football squad which meets the Chicago Bears at Dyche stadium Aug. 30 have been ruled out of the contest by the ninth naval district.

All seven are in the naval service and, according to Rear Admiral Arthur S. Carpenter, district commander, cannot play because of a navy department directive which bans participation of navy personnel in any event requiring an absence from the station for 48 hours, or more.

The All-Stars began practicing last Saturday. Navy players affected were Bill Daley, former Michigan and Minnesota star, Bill Godwin of Georgia, Meredith Cushing of Cornell, Alex Kaylor of Northwestern, Vic Schleich of Nebraska, and Jim White and Ziggy Czarowski of Notre Dame.

Unbeaten Devil Diver Takes Whitney Stake

NEW YORK (AP)—Devil Diver, the handicap star of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, demonstrated yesterday he is in fine fettle for Saturday's $50,000 Saratoga handicap by winning the $16,800 Whitney stake for his fifth straight triumph.

Unbeaten this year, the five-year-old son of St. Germans, a 1 to 4 favorite, withstood a rousing stretch challenge from the Boone Hall stable's Princequillo to win by half a length before 18,405 at the Saratoga-at-Beimont meeting. Townsend Martin's Bolingbroke, last year's winner, was third. Devil Diver was timed in 2:02 for the mile and one quarter test under the Saratoga-at-Beimont meeting. Townsend Martin's Bolingbroke, last year's winner, was third. Devil Diver was timed in 2:02 for the mile and one quarter test under the Saratoga-at-Beimont meeting.

Samuel Feinberg's Ariel Flight, the longest shot in the field, won the Westmont purse at Garden state park by two lengths over Max Wexler's Plucky Raider. The Christiana stables' Megogo was third. Ariel Flight went the mile and one sixteenth in 1:44 and paid $17.40. Walker Gullatt's Navy won the

Behrens Advances To Court Semi-Finals

CHICAGO, (AP)—Herbert (Buddy) Behrens, national boys' champion from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., yesterday waded into the semi-final rounds of three divisions in the third annual metropolitan tennis tournament for boys and girls at River Forest, Ill.

Buddy trimmed Don Seiffert of Chicago, 6-1, 7-5, in the junior bracket; downed Bob Creed of Hinsdale, Ill., 6-2, 6-1, in the under 16 division; and teamed with Ken Deimling Jr., of River Forest, in the junior doubles to eliminate John Wenrich and Grant Holden of Chicago, 6-2, 6-2.

Doris Jensen of Des Moines, gained a first round victory over Estella Klein of Chicago, 6-0, 6-0, in the girls under 18 class, and scored two triumphs in the under 15 division, registering a 6-1, default win over Betty Hanse of Chicago and a 6-0, 6-1 conquest of Sylvia Gregory of Hinsdale, Ill., in second and third round matches.

New Britain purse at Narragansett park by eight lengths over Star Whiz. Chance Yen was third. Navy, an odds-on 2 to 5 choice, ran the mile and one sixteenth in 1:45 3/5 and paid $2.80.

Hawks Hold Second Drill

In a torrent of rain the Iowa Hawkeyes went through their second spirited practice session of the 1944 season at the practice field yesterday.

The afternoon drill featured 40-yard sprints to determine the speed of the boys. Glen Hope, freshman center, Bob Liddy, letterman, and Jack Kelso, freshman end, registered the fastest times.

The rest of the drill was devoted to running dummy plays, passing, kicking and the calling of signals. With the first two days of practice tucked away, Coach Slip Madigan thinks Iowa has a chance to pull a few surprises this fall. He feels that Iowa has a wealth of talent in that most of the boys are tall, husky and well-built. Madigan calls the situation "encouraging."

Outstanding the second day of practice were Dick Woodard, freshman from Ft. Dodge; Kenneth Simms, freshman from Washington, D. C., and Don Camery, freshman from Harlan. All three of these boys were picked for all-state teams last year.

Interpreting—The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Pinched now between allied forces in Normandy and in the French Riviera, Hitler's clutch on all France from the English channel to the Mediterranean and west of the Seine and the Rhone rivers is in process of being torn loose.

There were intimations that a sweeping German retreat in the west to shorten defense lines and conserve dwindling reserves might already have begun, thus accounting for the surprising lack of opposition to the allies in the south when the first waves hit the beaches.

Official Word Lacking
Official word as to just where General Wilson, allied commander in the Mediterranean theater, had sent in his French, American and British landing forces was lacking for hours. Nazi reports placed the scene of operation between Toulon and Nice with its center of gravity along a 30-mile strip of coast between St. Raphael and Cap Dramont.

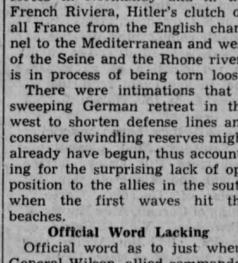

That would cover the better landing sites on the French Riviera coast, at best a difficult region for a major invasion effort. Beaches are narrow and backed by sharply rising mountains. Even enemy token resistance probably would have proved costly in allied casualties. That makes it all the more significant that there was no organized effort to beat back the invasion drive and that residents of the region reported the Germans had been pulling out for days, taking heavy portable guns with them.

Call for Uprising
General Wilson, joining the French leader, General De Gaulle in his call for a general French uprising against the foe, said his purpose was to form a junction with General Eisenhower's allied armies and sweep the Germans out of all France. Despite the obvious physical difficulties confronting his troops behind the Riviera beaches, there are certain other definite advantages in the allied selection of that theater for the stroke rather than farther westward in the Rhone delta.

For one, the invasion of the French Riviera is certain to have an immediate impact on the German defensive deployment in Italy. It is only in Italy that troops could be found to bar the road from southeastern France into the Italian plains in rear of the Gothic defense line above the Arno. And there is every evidence that General Alexander, allied field commander in Italy, is shifting his forces for a new smash at the Gothic line.

Paper Doll Has New Wardrobe For Fall

Pastel blue, ivory and chocolate are the new colors for the fall "wardrobe" of the "Paper Doll," night club at the recreation center, in the Community building.

Junior council members of the "Paper Doll" have spent many leisure hours at the club this summer painting their main dance hall and making plans for further redecoration.

The top portion of the large room has been painted a dark "chocolate" color which tends to make the ceiling look lower. The lower half of the room is painted ivory with window sills, doors and moldings a pastel blue.

Scheduled for future developments as soon as manpower and materials are available will be redecoration of the "bar" which now boasts etchings of paper dolls in keeping with the club theme.

The entire floor will be renovated as soon as final touches have been made on the walls.

Pfc. Roy E. O'Leary Awarded Combat Infantryman Badge

Pfc. Roy E. O'Leary, son of Mrs. Claude Standfield, 901 N. Dodge street, recently received the combat infantryman badge for actual participation in combat against the enemy on the Fifth army front in Italy.

The 26-year-old soldier serves in an anti-tank company of the 34th "Red Bull" infantry division. He has been overseas more than 30 months, sailing from the states in January, 1942, with the 34th division, the first AEF of World War II.

Private O'Leary is a graduate of Iowa City high school.

These Little Pigs Went to Market

Never have so many hogs gone to market the first part of the year as in 1944. There have often been days when large numbers of hogs went unsold at the markets, due to a shortage of help. This has meant extra marketing costs to hog producers.

Meat packers have also carried over from day to day larger numbers of hogs than usual. One week-end, Swift & Company held over more than 150,000 live hogs, which could not be slaughtered that week. Such carry-overs mean additional expense to packers because of shrinkage, feed costs, cripple and death losses, etc.

In 1943, all meat packing plants operating under federal inspection slaughtered:

- 63,431,000 hogs
- 23,363,000 lambs
- 11,727,000 cattle
- 5,209,000 calves

This is more livestock than has been slaughtered under federal inspection in any one year heretofore. But during the first six months of 1944, there were slaughtered approximately:

- 39 per cent more hogs
- 51 per cent more calves
- 24 per cent more cattle
- 5 per cent more lambs

than in the same months of 1943.
