YANK PLANES BOMB MANILA BAY

Yanks Seize Rhine Bridge

Skytroops, British Capture Crossing By Mystery Move

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF (AP)—American airborne troops in a dramatic coup seized the vital lower Rhine bridge at Nijmegen intact yesterday and British tanks raced over it and deep into Holland through enemy defenses guarding Nazi industrial might in the Ruhr valley.

(The Berlin radio said British troops fought on north to a junction with British airborne forces at Arnhem, and the German Transocean agency said the city was in flames.

Greeks Clear Rimini Of German Forces

Dash Last Nazi Hopes of Defending Po River Valley

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN RIMINI, Italy (AP)—Greek troops hoisted their flag on the main post-office of Rimini yesterday and the last German force of holding the Eighth army away from the Po valley lay crushed in the desolate ruins of this once-beautiful resort and port city.

Gen. Heiderich's paratroopers were pulling out of Rimini yesterday morning after Canadian forces had moved up west of the city with such speed and determination that the port, once the Adriatic anchor of the Gothic line, no longer was tenable.

The Greeks went quickly to work cleaning out the few snipers left behind.

Beyond Rimini and the Malechia river stretch some of Italy's finest roads and the powerful, mobile Eighth army was poised to exploit them.

The battle of Italy is not yet over, but it appeared yesterday to be entering its final phase, although there still was some heavy fighting in the hills to the west of here.

The Germans, with much of their transport lying in rusting heaps beside the highways, must fight for their lives to get a sizeable part of Marshal Albert Kesselring's army back into Germany.

Autumn rains slowed the allied offensive against the Gothic line yesterday after American forces punched a deep wedge into the heart of the enemy's defenses north of Florence.

The low-hanging clouds, however, were not able to prevent waves of British battle planes from sweeping in low and hammering Nazi gun emplacements and other fortifications in the path of British and Canadian troops executing flanking maneuvers against Rimini.

(A German radio commentator said allied use of planes and other battle equipment in the Rimini sector "reached an unprecedented climax in Italy. . . literally resembling an orgy.")

Second Ukraine Army Drives Near Pre-War Border of Hungary

Reds in Estonia Seize Kadrina; Approach Capital

LONDON (AP)—Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army drove to within 17 miles of the pre-war Hungarian border yesterday at a point only 138 miles southeast of Budapest, capital of the last big axis satellite.

Sweeping through 100 towns and villages in western Romania on a 50-mile front the Red army had reached the Hungarian plains in a downhill push to knock out Hungary.

Seize Kadrina
Simultaneously other powerful Soviet forces in the north under Marshal Leonid A. Govorov sped westward in a mile-an-hour advance on Tallinn, Estonian capital, and seized Kadrina, only 45 miles east of Tallinn.

The Leningrad troops under Govorov overran more than 300 towns and villages during the day. Govorov's northern wing, pushing on Tallinn from the east now has linked up with the southern wing advancing from the Tartu sector, the communique said, and the Germans have been cleared out of the 900-square-mile isthmus between Lake Peipus and the Baltic coast.

In southern Poland other Soviet troops extended their holdings near the Czech frontier, capturing a number of localities including Dukla. In Romania the Russians were attacking on a wide front, and both American and British bombers based in Italy and the Red air force were attacking strategic rail cities such as Debrecen not far ahead of the advancing ground troops.

Take Vinga
One Soviet column seized Vinga, 17 miles north of Timisoara, big communications city which was captured Tuesday.

Another column took Lipova, 18 miles east of Arad, while another group captured Ineu, 24 miles north of Lipova.

Moscow did not mention the embattled Warsaw sector, but Berlin indicated that Red army troops still were clinging to the west bank of the Vistula river after crossing from Praga.

Destroy 205 Jap Planes

Take Possible Toll Of 37 Warships; Damage Two Airfields

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Carrier planes of the Halsey-Mitscher Third fleet made the United States first aerial counterattack of the war on Manila bay area Wednesday. They destroyed 205 Japanese planes and sank 11 warships and probably sent 26 others to the bottom.

A floating drydock and two barges also probably were wiped out.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported collection of the first installment on the huge debt to be exacted from the Japanese in the northern Philippines in a special communique last night.

This severe damage was inflicted in a strongly defended area despite a big umbrella of planes the Japanese sent to intercept American aircraft from Vice Admiral March A. Mitscher's fleet carrier task force.

One hundred ten enemy aircraft were shot down in aerial dogfights and 85 more destroyed on historic Clark and Nichols airfields, Manila.

The shipping was caught at Cavite naval base in Manila bay. Admiral Nimitz reported that in addition to heavy damage inflicted on Japanese ships and planes "Much damage was done to military objectives adjacent to Clark field and Nichols field and to the field themselves.

No Ships Damaged
"Our losses in this superlative successful attack which apparently caught the enemy completely by surprise were 15 aircraft from which several of the flight personnel were recovered. There was no damage to our surface ships."

This powerful strike was taken as an indication that Halsey also is charged with protecting amphibious forces engaged in capturing southern Palau islands and that the Palau operations are progressing so well that it was safe to leave large forces there lightly protected from sea or air attack and to renew his bold thrust against the southern Philippines which he began Sept. 8.

Almost unbelievable is the Halsey-Mitscher perfect record of not a single ship lost or even damaged despite the fact many were within binocular view of the southern Philippines on earlier September raids and all were within striking distance of land-based Japanese aircraft on every one of these five destructive raids.

No Naval Opposition
Highly significant was the fact the Japanese have offered no naval opposition whatever, in nearly a month in which the Halsey-Mitscher force has swept the Philippines sea and the western Pacific.

The Japanese obviously have no naval force based in the Philippines capable of resisting the Americans and presumably still are nursing wounds inflicted in the Philippines sea battle June 19-20.

The speech communique followed close upon a regular one announcing that hard-pressed marines on Peleliu in the invaded Palau were virtually stalled by difficult terrain and tenacious enemy resistance on the west coast.

(William Ewing, Blue network war correspondent in a broadcast direct from the invasion scene last night said, however that conquest of "Bloody Nose" ridge in the Umurbrogol mountains would be accomplished within a few hours.)

On Peleliu
The entire east coast of Peleliu, including the island of Ngabad has been occupied by American forces, the navy announced last night.

Marines meanwhile have made minor gains in a northerly direction along the western ridge of Peleliu, in the face of stiff Japanese opposition. The marine attack was preceded by gunfire from navy ships and by bombing.

Mopping up operations on Angaur are continuing. Approximately 6,800 Japanese have been killed on Peleliu, another 850 on Angaur.

The German radio reported a new B-29 Superfortress raid Wednesday on Kyushu, southernmost of the main Japanese islands, where steel and shipbuilding installations have been hit before. There was no allied confirmation,

Loose Demolitions

As American parachute troops and gliderborne infantry dashed out on the bridge and jerked loose the enemy's demolition charges, the British Second army attacked simultaneously from the south, pouring out of shell-torn Nijmegen against the German defenders.

How the Americans got across to the north bank of the Waal Rhine to accomplish this daring feat was not immediately learned at supreme headquarters, but, their valor saved the allies from a time-consuming setback in the battle of Holland.

Now the battle has swung toward Arnhem, eight miles north, where the British Second army hopes to come to the relief of hard-pressed airborne units which are believed holding a bridge across the Neder Rhine, a second formidable watercourse in the Rhine delta.

If that crossing is secured they will have only the IJssel river to ford before they are out on Germany's northern plains north of the reputed Siegfried line terminal at Kleve. Arnhem is 15 miles northwest of Kleve.

The smoke of battle blended with the haze from the Ruhr's vast industries, and one dispatch from the United States First army said the Germans had begun dismantling factories west of the Rhine and shipping them off to central Germany.

Roosevelt Urges 'TVA' For Missouri Valley

Recommends Agency To Control River Basin Development

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mixed congressional reaction greeted a recommendation yesterday by President Roosevelt that an agency similar to the Tennessee Valley authority be set up for the Missouri river basin.

Senators Murray (D, Mont.) and Gillette (D, Iowa) already have introduced separate measures to create such a Missouri valley authority.

Senator Robertson (R, Wyo.) told a reporter he was against "such a federal setup" and instead favored "state control of waters in the respective states."

Asserting he always had favored "The TVA for the TVA area," Senator Wheeler (D, Mont.) said the "question of whether the type of legislation we want for the Missouri river basin would be identical with TVA must be studied in the light of all existing conditions surrounding the area."

President Roosevelt, in a message to congress, said that for years he had "advocated the establishment of separate authorities to deal with the development of certain river basins where several states were involved" and the general functions of the TVA might well serve as a pattern.

The house already has adopted and sent to the senate a bill embodying recommendations of the army engineers for a vast development of the Missouri river basin to provide for irrigation, navigation, flood control and other purposes.

New Yorker Denies Racketeer Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Irving Wexler, who operated as a big-time bootlegger during prohibition days under the alias Waxey Gordon, denied yesterday he was engaged in "racketeering" in the disposal of surplus government goods and said he had no connection with black market operations.

Wexler, described in testimony by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York as a "bum," told the senate war investigating committee that he actually had no income at all. Later, he acknowledged paying $150 monthly for a Brooklyn apartment and having an accountant prepare his 1943 income tax return.

Wexler said he had no connection with Consolidated Industries, Inc., and World Wide Mercantile corporation, two New York firms the committee is investigating in its inquiry into surplus property disposal. He testified, however, that he spent several hours daily at the World Wide offices, received numerous phone calls there and introduced a "few friends" to Albert T. Fahye, an official of the companies in connection with possible commodity sales.

Congress Adjourns Until After Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress began its second extended vacation of the year yesterday, adjourning after an eight-week session in which it passed a program designed to cushion the impact of the war's end on the nation's economy.

The principal legislative business of the closing day was unanimous passage in both houses of a resolution calling on all nations to adopt a policy of press freedom and free exchange of news, as a measure to bolster peace.

The lawmakers will return to the capitol Nov. 14, unless recalled sooner, to face a docket that may include such controversial matters as peacetime compulsory military training legislation.

Henry Wallace Urges Fourth Term

Declares Attack On Motives Of Nominees 'Absurd'

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, defeated for renomination at the Democratic national convention, declared last night that America must go forward "in the light of liberalism" and that he would vote for President Roosevelt's reelection.

He also urged the reelection of Senator Robert F. Wagner (D, NY) who he said had sponsored more vital labor legislation than any other man, but he made no reference to Senator Harry S. Truman (D, Mo), his successor as Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Wallace's address, his first of the campaign, was prepared for delivery before thousands of persons attending a Roosevelt rally in Madison Square garden under auspices of the independent voters committee of the arts and sciences for Roosevelt.

Wallace said liberals striving to blueprint the future gave first place in their hearts to "jobs for all, in health and security," closely followed by "the problem of the returned soldier."

"There will be much readjustment, of course," he said. "Five hundred thousand businesses have been closed since Pearl Harbor. An equal number of new businesses must be started as civilian demand and the backlog of civilian need swings this country from war to peace."

In one of his few direct references to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, Wallace said:

"It would be absurd to attack the motives of any man seeking national leadership. Certainly both Dewey and Roosevelt will do their level best if called upon to serve. Who can better provide for permanent peace and full employment—Dewey or Roosevelt?"

Resolution Urges News Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States congress, by unanimous vote, yesterday called for international compacts guaranteeing a free interchange of news among the nations of the world.

The senate and house, which had heard a number of members declare that an untrammelled flow of independent news would be a major factor in promoting world peace, adopted the resolution as their final legislative act before recessing until Nov. 14.

The resolution reads:

"Resolved that the congress of the United States expresses its belief in the world-wide right of interchange of news by news gatherings and distributing agencies, whether individual or associate, by any means without discrimination as to sources, distribution, rates or charges; and that this right should be protected by international compact."

The resolution was drawn up by a sub-committee of the senate foreign relations committee. It is based on drafts offered in the house by Representative Fulbright (D, Ark) and in the senate by Senator Taft (R, Ohio) and by Senator Connally (D, Tex), foreign relations committee chairman.

When the proposal first was advanced, members of both branches declared in speeches that it should be made a part of the permanent peace program.

Hull Predicts Hard Peace for Germany

Foresees Death For Top Men In Nazi Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Hull, tersely pointing up one aspect of a hard peace for Nazi Germany, said yesterday that a lot of Germans are going to be shot when the war is over.

Presumably his number one candidate for a firing squad is Hitler. At a news conference only a few days ago he said the fuhrer's name was certainly the foremost on the list of war criminals and that the names of the men around Hitler—evidently including Goering, Himmler and Goebbels—also are listed.

The problem remains of how to apprehend these people. If any of them escape to neutral countries, enormous allied pressure is expected to be brought on the neutrals to hand them over.

More than a year ago President Roosevelt urged neutrals to commit themselves against refuge for axis war criminals and allied diplomats have been seeking to get these assurances. Some commitments have been made, but with specific reference to Argentina, Hull has called some of the assurances unsatisfactory.

Court Orders Death For Fascist Official

ROME (AP)—Pietro Caruso, police chief in Rome during four months of German occupation, yesterday was sentenced to die by being shot in the back for his collaboration with the Nazis. It was the first war criminal trial in Italy.

The high court of justice condemned Roberto Occhetto, Caruso's secretary and co-defendant, to 30 years' imprisonment on the same charge.

Chicago Daily News Announces Intention To Support Dewey

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News, formerly published by Col. Frank Knox, secretary of the navy when he died April 28, announced last night it would support Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee for president, in the November election.

"Without mawkish sanctimony, this newspaper believes that the two-term tradition established by George Washington in a day even more critical than the present, is salutary and wholesome," the newspaper said in an editorial to be published today.

"In 1940, despite the courage Mr. Roosevelt had shown in seeking to arm the nation against the perils that surrounded it, despite the fact that Col. Frank Knox, our publisher, had been called to the cabinet, in the emergency, to serve as secretary of the navy, this newspaper was opposed to a third term."

"We supported Mr. Willkie, the Republican candidate. And we have not changed our mind. We were not for a third term. We are not for a fourth. Nor do we believe the American people desire a perpetual president."

In Campaign Speech—Bricker Attacks 'New Deal Court'

BALTIMORE (AP)—The United States supreme court was labelled a "New Deal court" by Gov. John W. Bricker last night in a speech declaring that the judiciary "must be absolutely free of political bias."

The Republican candidate for vice-president, warning that "a very grave danger" lay in "domination of the courts by one-man appointment," said that President Roosevelt had appointed 88 percent of the supreme court judges, 87 percent of the federal appeals court judges, and 56 percent of the federal district judges.

"These judicial appointments," he added in a prepared text released by his campaign staff, "have too often been made not because of the legal ability of the

"Finally a minority of the court has pointed out that the majority opinions have broken so many decisions that the law is in utter confusion and the lower courts are not given guidance for their judgments."

"At one time this new deal court even spoke of the president as a ruler rather than the servant of our people."

At a press conference he promised to expose details of the Pearl Harbor tragedy as quickly as possible "if it ever is in my power."

He contended "The facts are known by the administration if they come clean," and declared the full story obviously "is being withheld for political reasons."

Australian Minister Denies Foreknowledge Of Jap Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Owen Dixon, the Australian minister, said last night he had no pre-Pearl Harbor information that any Japanese task force was about to attack any territory of the United States or take any warlike measures against this country, and had never said so.

The minister made this statement when asked about an assertion in the house by Representative Church (R, Ill) that Sir Owen was the authority for claims that Australia gave this country warning of the approach of the Japanese task force for the Pearl Harbor attack.

Church, taking the floor after Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts entered denials from the war, navy and state departments that there was such a warning, also declared that if an investigation was made:

"I am sure you will find that Lieut. Comdr. A. D. Kramer, now a commander, got the last message which came in Saturday night, Dec. 6 at 8 a. m. Sunday, Dec. 7, and that he went to the state department at 9:15 and then to the White House, where he delivered the message and said:

"This looks like a sunrise attack on Pearl Harbor and a mid-night attack on the Philippines."

The commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, which investigated the disaster, reported that a last-minute warning was sent from Washington to Hawaii the morning of Dec. 7 but did not reach its destination in time.

Famous SUI Alumnus—

Bierring to Return to Campus

When the 1892 class of the college of medicine held its 50th anniversary reunion at the university's 1942 commencement, five members of that class received gold medals for attendance. As practicing physicians in Iowa, the five had much to talk over concerning their experiences in the medical profession.

Organized by Dr. Walter L. Bierring, now commissioner of health for the state of Iowa, the reunion brought back to the campus Dr. H. M. Huston of Ruthven, Dr. N. J. Lease of Crawfordsvle, Dr. J. W. Presnell of Scranton, Dr. Karl Vollmer of Davenport and Dr. Bierring, who makes his home in Des Moines.

Dr. Bierring, who is to deliver the Commencement address at Sunday's convocation for medical students and nurses who have completed their work, is well known for his work in the public health service. He has held both state and national positions with public health agencies.

Walter Lawrence Bierring was born in Davenport, July 15, 1868, of Danish parentage. Always an Iowa boy, he went to school in Davenport before entering the University of Iowa.

After receiving his medical degree at Iowa in the class of 1892, Bierring went abroad to study. He did graduate work at the University of Vienna for a year and studied at the University of Heidelberg and Ecole de Medecine of the Pasteur institute in Paris.

Dr. Bierring returned to the United States to teach pathology and bacteriology at the University of Iowa, holding that position until 1903. The same year he became professor of the theory and practice of medicine. Leaving the university faculty in 1910, Dr. Bierring taught courses in medical theory and practice at Drake university in Des Moines.

In 1914 Dr. Bierring began his work as a public health officer for the state of Iowa, becoming a member of the state board of medical examiners and later, president of the state board of health. Since 1933 he has been commissioner of public health in Iowa.

A member of several state and national medical organizations, Dr. Bierring has been president of the national board of medical examiners and president of the American Medical Association. He is an honorary member of the Royal College of Physicians in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Dewey Outlines Economy Program—

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Drastic revision of what he called "our repressive tax laws" was called for by Thomas E. Dewey last night as he outlined his program for a free American economy, gently guided by a benevolent government.

"We must have the kind of taxes that do not discourage, but encourage men to start new businesses," he declared, "and to expand old businesses."

The Republican presidential nominee, in a prepared speech broadcast over the nation, said present tax laws operate "to penalize incentive and to put a brake upon the kind of enterprise that makes job opportunities."

He depicted an economy in which government functions only to stimulate the efforts of private businessmen and farmers, thus providing jobs for all. But, he declared: "In any time there are not sufficient jobs in private employment to go around, then government can and must create additional job opportunities."

There was no amplification of this passage. At another point Dewey declared jobs for everyone cannot be found in government itself.

"If all of us should go to work for the government," he said, "then our present system would be no different from Communism or Fascism."

The New York governor declared "There are many means" to the end of promoting "widespread job opportunities in private enterprise," including the creation of foreign markets and the promotion of foreign trade.

"Government regulations which discourage and wear down producers in every field must be revised. The whole atmosphere of studied hostility toward our job producing machinery must be replaced."

In his third major speech of this week's campaign swing down the Pacific coast, the candidate told an audience in the Municipal auditorium that the New Deal has "failed utterly" to solve the problem of economic security and political freedom.

"Saturated as it is with the defeatist theory that America is past its prime," he said, "the New Deal can see only two possibilities for America—ever increasing regimentation as one alternative, and reaction as the other."

"It has sought to buy the favor of one group and then of another. It has pretended to be the generous uncle for each group, meanwhile playing one against the other for political profit."

"Not content to deal with major economic factors, or possibly because it was not competent to deal with them, it has sought to fasten upon the individual citizen the deadening hand of bureaucratic control."

Declaring government is committed to some degree of economic direction "whether we like it or not," Dewey said "certain government measures to influence broad economic conditions are both desirable and inevitable."

Government direction, however, he went on, "must be of a character consistent with the American system of opportunity for all."

"The temptation to be bureaucratic, to usurp power, to puff themselves up has proved irresistible to those who have swarmed to Washington under the New Deal," he said.

"In agriculture, in labor and in money," he said, "we are committed to some degree of government intervention in the free workings of our economic system. In many directions the free market which old time economists talked about is gone."

Asserting that the farmer "must be protected against extreme fluctuations of prices," Dewey said:

"We are committed to the proposition that the prices of major farm crops must be supported against the menace of disastrous collapse."

Should Rationing Stop at End of War in Europe?

Mrs. Tom Fleming, 505 Iowa avenue, housewife: "I'm in favor of rationing only as long as it helps our people and the world in general. People always have the desire to hoard any product that is scarce. Rationing helps keep prices down."

Doris Wage, 44 of Cedar Rapids: "Of course not. England and Russia will be able to furnish supplies after they are through fighting all of Europe."

Franklin Bell, grocer, Iowa City: "Rationing helps to keep prices down. We will need rationing after the war to protect the little man. It will be some time before our country will regain its normal production. The small wage earner won't have a chance if rationing isn't continued for at least one year after the end of the European war."

Paul Mallon says—

We Won't Make Such Quick Work of Japan

WASHINGTON—The sure southern China and Burma, saying this should primarily be a British undertaking because they have the base from which to launch and supply it. Such a prospective campaign might have been expected from a change of commanders, but nothing leaking from Quebec has given it credence.

Now MacArthur is bent on conquest of the Philippines, which is a gigantic undertaking in itself, but the Japanese officials publicly are expecting on their radio a direct, earlier invasion of Japan itself.

We think commonly of MacArthur and Nimitz coming up from the south to take Japan, but there are several ways in, one from our Aleutian outposts in the north or from Russia.

Speculations that Russia will declare war on our side immediately after Germany has fallen are gaining wide publicity. But the Russians have only a guard force facing Manchukuo which might not wish to undertake a campaign in winter.

Also the bulk of the Red army will be nearly a third of the way around the globe in Germany at the end of the European war. Immediately available, even in Russia joined in, would only be bases, air and naval, from which we might operate.

So the plain inner facts indicate we will have to do the job ourselves. Churchill, with characteristic factual humor, insisted Britain would not be deprived of the honor of killing Japs, but he mentioned his fleet and air force before land troops.

The air force will be of greatest benefit because the fleet is reputed to be on a 1 to 5 ratio with us, a decided departure from the old 5-5 days in which our popular thinking is still grooved.

The known facts also seem to say clearly we do not intend to go chasing Japs all over east Asia. MacArthur's announced next jump into the Philippines (announced by Mr. Roosevelt) will be short, but the steps from there to the China bases, Formosa and the southern Japan islands will require another separate operation and should not await the conclusion of the Philippine seizure.

We can go any place within reach of our air force because what is left of the Jap force is subject to destruction by our superior power. But the jumps must be limited by our ability to gather necessary force and supplies.

My guess, therefore, is, (again with knowledge) that we are heading straight for Japan as well as the Philippines and Burma; that the reinforcements released from Europe will take a couple of months to get around to Asia; that Russia cannot be of much help before spring, but particularly this—the extinction of the bulk of the Jap army strewn through northern central and southern China must take at least a year from conclusion of the European hostilities, even if Jap power is definitely broken earlier by occupation of Japan.

LONDON (AP)—The British government, disclosing plans for the interim between Germany's defeat and the fall of Japan, announced last night that it would give special campaign pay for Britons serving in the Asiatic theater.

The allowance for operations against Japan will range from $1.40 a week for private to $15.40 weekly for top ranking officers.

Determining factors for discharges for men after Germany's fall will be age, length of service and usefulness in industry. For women the same considerations will prevail, plus that of marriage.

Pat Albin, typist at General Stores: "I don't think it should be because that will only be the end of the war in Europe and we will still have to fight Japan. I think we will have to feed the people of the war in Europe and we will be in a position to start letting up on rationing restrictions."

Mrs. J. J. Zeithamel, 322 S. Capitol, housewife: "I think rationing is a very good thing because it prevents people from hoarding. I don't think it should be stopped right away after the European war although some of the point requirements are getting pretty severe. It should be done gradually and not all at once."

Philip Paul, 41 of Ft. Madison: "No, I don't think so, because the war will not be completely over when the European war is ended. We still have a hard fight ahead of us with Japan."

Ralph Thomason, grocery clerk of 517 S. Madison street: "I don't think it should be. There's still a war to be fought with Japan. If people started buying up a lot of things there would be a shortage like there was in 1918."

Gerry Gunn, A2, Chicago Heights: "No, because at that time the demand for goods will still be greater than the supply. Until we find a more workable method we should continue rationing to make as equal a distribution as possible."

Mrs. I. L. Pollock, librarian, reserve library: "I think the decision should be left to the O. P. A. Rationing should be kept in effect as long as necessary for a wise distribution of food."

Guys From Brooklyn— and Elsewhere—

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE AEF IN FRANCE (AP)—Men of a heavy weapons company sat on a rainy hillside eating K-rations and trying to heat coffee.

No, they didn't know whether such-and-such a regiment was around the bend of the road. However, it should be having a very busy time if it were there, somebody opined absently. Why? Well, because the Germans also were there.

"Well, so long as you're going to stay a while," Lieut. Cornelius (Mickey) Grace of Brooklyn, company commander, said presently, "you might as well write about us."

"Okay—what's new around here?"

"Tell my wife I know all about my new son now. I just got letters giving the play-by-play."

"That ain't news, lieutenant," said Pfc. Walter Comstock of Cleveland, Ohio. "Everybody has babies."

"Well, what is news about this outfit?" the lieutenant asked.

"Too many Brooklyn guys," snapped Sgt. Simon Weisman, 32-year-old ex-lawyer from Minneapolis, chewing a chunk of K-ration cheese as he spoke.

"Who else is from Brooklyn?"

"Well, you asked for it," said Weisman wearily. "Line up men. Get your notebook out. I will introduce them slowly."

"These other two lieutenants are Leo Lamar, machinegun platoon leader, and Hyman Pergament, an 81-mm mortar platoon leader. That's three Brooklyn officers which should give you the germ of the idea."

Grins spread around the faces of the dirty soldiers grabbing their first rest in several days as the introductions continued.

"Reading from left to right, these are G. I.'s Pfc. William Gable, machinegunner who used to work in Brooklyn. The rest are privates who live in Brooklyn—if they ever get home again, which some of them are beginning to doubt. They are Alan Melville, Rosaria Spinelli and Louis Rivera, all machinegunners."

enough here's Solnagorsky, for instance, another private."

Just then a short, stocky, pug-nosed Irishman came stalking up. He had a Pfc's single stripe on his shirt.

"Oh, yes, if that's not news, here's Irish Bobby Brady, former featherweight fighter from Jersey City. He's fought all the champs. He's still fighting, too. Tell him about those four Germans the other day, Bobby."

"Aw, forget it," said Brady, legitimately embarrassed. "I just lost me head, that's all."

"No, now you tell him," insisted Weisman.

"Well, I see these mugs walking along the road and they comes up to some dead doughboys and they stand there laughing and pointing at them. You see, me captain had just been killed a little while before," explained Bobby, "so before I thought, I just lost me head and tied into them."

"All four of them he knocks down with his bare fists," said a grinning soldier nearby. "And it was all so quick we hardly saw it happen."

"Say, sergeant," interrupted the lieutenant, "if he wants news, tell him about your decorations and how you turned down a soft commission because you wanted to fight as an infantryman."

It was glib Weisman's turn to be embarrassed, but he recovered quickly.

"Now, decorations are a dime a dozen and keep quiet about that other business, lieutenant. I've got a law practice to think about and nobody will ever want a crazy man defending him in court."

"Well, I guess that's that," sighed the lieutenant. "Come back some other time and we'll try to dope out some news."

Gordon Gammack to Give Information First Lecture

War Correspondent To Address Students

First of Series To Be Held Sept. 28 In Senate Chamber

Gordon Gammack, Des Moines Register and Tribune war correspondent who returned less than a month ago from France, will open the Information First lecture series Sept. 28, a week earlier than scheduled.

To fit in with Gammack's speaking schedule, the lecture will be held at 3 o'clock instead of 4 o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Slated to speak for a dinner meeting of combined Iowa City service clubs Thursday noon, Gammack yesterday telegraphed his acceptance of an invitation to appear on the Information First program.

A Harvard graduate, Gammack has been with the Register and Tribune for about ten years as a reporter and special assignment writer. One of the paper's top staff writers, he was sent overseas as a war correspondent in September, 1943.

In North Africa

With headquarters first in North Africa, Gammack reported the activities of United States troops in the Mediterranean area. Like his friend Ernie Pyle, he filled his dispatches with stories of the home boys, keeping readers informed about Iowa servicemen in the world's war zones.

Gammack went to Italy Oct. 22, where he was stationed for a time with Iowa veterans of the 34th division. Many of his reports to the people back home came from the Anzio beachhead.

From March, 1944, until just after the invasion, Gammack sent his dispatches from England. Shortly after D-day, he joined the invasion units in France and was with them when they broke through to Paris. He was in a jeep reported to have been the first American vehicle to enter Paris when the French capital was liberated. Attached to the Ninth airforce, Gammack had nothing but the highest praise for the work of that group.

Speaking before the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce soon after he returned to the United States, Gammack criticized the "overdrawn stories of the hardships of war correspondents."

Casualties

"Correspondents have had their share of casualties," he said, "and most of them have worked pretty hard, but for most of them—and this certainly goes for me—periods of real danger were not very frequent."

Gammack added that the really tough jobs are done by the correspondents who have to go up to the front every day. In a close-up description of Ernie Pyle, Gammack related that Pyle thought he was going to be killed in the invasion, but regardless of personal fear and danger he went to the front.

Some correspondents lived in houses, some in tents. Just before Gammack left France, he was housed with several other correspondents in a chateau formerly used by 250 German pilots. There they had real luxury, with showers, hot water and a sun-porch.

Wear Uniforms

"All correspondents wear army officers' uniforms, without insignia," he said. They are subject to military regulations and discipline. But he added that it would be deceiving newspaper readers to say that correspondents obeyed all the rules and regulations.

Correspondents around the airforce headquarters formed jeep loads for trips to various army units. They always tried to plan their trips so they could return to their base in time to cable in a story and have coffee before dark.

Gammack praised the communications system from the battle zones, saying that if he turned in a story at six o'clock, for example, usually it would be through the censors and in the hands of press wire by seven. From there it took the story no longer to reach America than a message sent by radio.

Dr. Barnett will fill the position vacated by Prof. George W. Martin, now on a leave of absence for a war position. He has been a plant pathologist, working with the emergency plant disease service of the United States Agricultural Research Administration.

Dr. Barnett received his doctor's degree at Michigan State college in 1937. He was a faculty member at New Mexico State college, leaving there to take the government post.

Professor Oberg who joined the Iowa faculty in 1937, is now engaged in special war research in Princeton, N. J. He has been associated with the army program at the university, serving as coordinator of the army air corps pre-meteorology program until its abandonment last March. The professor will return to his teaching duties next January.

Browns Beat Senators to Move Within Half Game of Tigers

Potter Hurls 17th Victory

St. Louisans Gather Five Runs in Fifth For 9 to 4 Triumph

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Browns moved to a half game behind the first place Detroit Tigers last night by defeating the Washington Senators 9 to 4.

Nelson Potter was credited with the victory, making his season's total 17 against 7 defeats. Emil Leonard was charged with the loss.

The biggest inning for both teams was the fifth when Washington got three runs and the Browns five. George Myatt stole second and went on to third when Red Hayworth threw wide to second. Stan Spence singled to score Myatt. Spence moved to third on a single by Gil Torres who stole second. Jake Powell doubled to score Spence and Torres.

In the Browns half of that inning George McQuinn doubled to start their drive.

Just before the game Roberto Ortiz, Washington rightfielder, and Brownie catcher Tom Turner traded blows in front of the stands.

University High Team Faces Marion Squad This Afternoon

This past week at U-high grid practice has been devoted mostly to scrimmage and pass defense. Coach Ross Wedemeyer said that he has had very good luck as far as accidents are concerned this season.

University high has a good chance of beating the strong Marion team in view of the showing last week in their game with Kalona in which they rolled up a final score of 32-12. Marion, it must be remembered, is a much better and stronger team than Kalona.

The game will be held on the practice field south of the University stadium and the opening kickoff is scheduled for 3:15 p. m. today.

Red Morris at the quarterback spot will be giving the signals which, as far as University high is concerned, will spell defeat for the Marion eleven. Craig Harper who made a very good showing last week is out to make some more touchdowns from his position at right halfback. Jim Williams, another boy who did a swell job in their opening game, will be at the left halfback spot. Steve Nusser, at the fullback position, will be in there doing the kicking and crossing-up the opponents.

Buckeyes Scrimmage
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Coach Carroll Widdoes put his Ohio State Buckeyes through their last pre-season scrimmage yesterday. The whites, combining first and second teams beating the third and fourth teams 40-0. Longest run was Dick Flanagan's 48-yard gallop through left guard.

MEL RESEMBLED A BATTING PRACTICE PITCHER WHEN HE JOINED THE YANKS THIS SUMMER

QUEEN HOPES TO DO WHAT BONHAM DID FOUR YEARS AGO WHEN HE CAME UP TO SPARK THE YANKS TO THE PENNANT

ball season just around the corner and the Seahawks already launched on a busy schedule, the sports staff of The Daily Iowan has agreed to 'stick out their necks' each and every Friday and predict the football games throughout the country. And here are the prognosticators—for service teams, Roy Luce; picking the eastern winners, Bob Krause; covering the midwest, Terry Tester; choosing in the south, Bob Brooks, and the prophet for the west coast, Mike Lorenzen.)

SERVICE TEAMS

Throughout the nation this fall the many service teams will catch and hold the spotlight of collegiate football. Big names in pro football, former all-Americans, and college greats will form some of the most potential and powerful teams in the history of the country.

Great Lakes-Purdue. Although Purdue's unbeaten record of a year ago ranks them high in the midwest, the Boilermakers will be fielding a team of 17-year-olds as will most civilian schools in the country. There is one outstanding veteran available from last year's unbeaten squad—speedy Boris Dimancheff, right halfback, who ranked 13th nationally a year ago in ball-carrying when he gained 569 yards in 110 attempts. Great Lakes is figured as one of the greatest teams in the midwest if not in the nation. Great Lakes over Purdue.

Seahawks-Minnesota. The Seahawks will be rebounding from their setback at Michigan last week and will be out for revenge. The Gophers should bounce back from one of the weakest teams in Minnesota history. With an array of 13 lettermen back, they will present a team that should regain some of the lost Gopher prestige in the Big Ten. However, the Seahawks will be too tough for the victory starved Gophers and will win—but after a hard, colorful battle. Seahawks over Minnesota.

St. Mary's Pre-Flight-College of Pacific. The Airdevils will put another strong team on the field this year. With Lieut. Comdr. Patsy Clark of Detroit Lions fame as head coach, the Airdevils should go far, especially with the backing of a number of former college and pro stars in the lineup. The grand old man of football, Amos Alonzo Stagg will be fielding his 55th squad this year, but lack of candidates with experience will hamper the Pacific team. Mr. Stagg long ago proved what he could do with inexperienced material, but the power of the Airdevils will wilt Pacific. St. Mary's over College of Pacific.

March Field-San Diego Stars. Minus their coach of last season, Bo Molenda, the San Diego Stars will present a much weaker team

Yanks Crack Losing Streak To Win, 5-4

DETROIT (AP)—The New York Yankees cracked a five-game losing streak by beating the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in 10 innings yesterday, hanging the defeat onto Hal Newhouse, the American league's top pitcher, who worked the last three innings in relief.

A two-base smack by Frank Crosetti with two men out in the tenth scored Johnny Lindell from second with the winning run.

New York, trailing 1-0, scored three times off starter Frank Overmire in the seventh on two hits, two walks and an error, catcher Mike Garbark driving in two on a single with the bases loaded. Two errors by shortstop Joe Orenge helped New York to another run in the eighth off Newhouse.

Detroit tied it up with three in the eighth, Dick Wakefield's 10th homer accounting for two runs and helping to drive out Walf Dubiel, Yankee starting pitcher.

The Yankee victory, scored before a paid crowd of 27,065, cut the Tigers' lead to half a game.

THE SOUTH
Clemson-Presbyterian. Frank Haword has lined up a good squad which centers around Sid Tinsly, 165-pound tailback. It should be a breather for Clemson. Clemson over Presbyterian.

Richmond-Duke. With only one '43 letterman on his squad, Duke's coach, Frank Irwin, has a tough job on his hands this fall, but should have no trouble with Richmond. Duke over Richmond.

Texas A. and M.-Bryan AAF. Homer Morton's "Kiddie Korps" has grown up since last year and should defeat the flyers by a good score. Texas A. and M. over Bryan AAF.

Oklahoma A. and M.-North Texas State. With four lettermen back for the Aggies, Coach Jim Lookabaugh should have no trouble with this game. Oklahoma A. and M. over North Texas State.

Kentucky-Mississippi. The best game in the southland this weekend will be played at Lexington. Harry Mehre will field a young Ole Miss team this fall but should not be strong enough to defeat a tough Kentucky team. Neither team played ball in 1943, so the flip of the coin decides it. Kentucky over Mississippi.

THE MIDWEST

With Big Ten competition just getting underway this weekend, it's hard to tell just who will stand where when the smoke of the final gun clears away. Latest reports show Ohio State with one of the best teams in their history, and list Michigan as a potent contender for the title. Notre Dame will again air her strength to be one of the top teams in the country. But for this weekend:

Illinois-Indiana. The first clash between Western conference teams opposes two of the most evenly matched squads in the Big Ten. The Hoosiers have received a shot in the arm by the return of Hunchy Hoerschmeyer, but Coach Bo McMillin states that he

St. Louis Cardinals Cinch Eighth Pennant

Snap Prolonged Drop To Take Doubleheader From Boston, 5-4; 6-5

BOSTON (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals snapped out of their prolonged slump and clinched their third consecutive National league pennant yesterday by coming from behind twice to defeat the Boston Braves, 5-4 and 6-5 in 10 innings. South paw Harry Brecheen, who pitched a total of seven innings during his two relief assignments, drew credit for both victories.

Beaten in 15 of their last 20 starts, the Cards got off to a woeful start, for Mort Cooper was shelled from the mound after four innings. Whitey Kurovski, who celebrated his return to the lineup by homering in the fourth, decided the first game by doubling in the seventh and scoring on George Fallon's single.

The Braves gave Jim Robin a flying start in the nightcap, for Buck Etchison and Tommy Holmes belted rookie Ted Wilks for four-baggers in the first frame. Chuck Workman lashed Wilks for a homer in the fifth and the latter was behind, 4-3, when Fred Schmidt relieved him after the sixth inning.

The Cards were trailing, 5-3, in the ninth when Kurovski doubled and Walker Cooper homered while pinch-hitting for Schmidt. Ken O'Dea's two-bagger and Marty Marion's single produced the winning tally in the 10th.

The Cards clinched the easiest of their eight National league flags in yesterday's double-header.

is not yet in condition to play a full game. Illinois, with Eddie Bray in the backfield, may have a hard time. Illinois over Indiana.

Kansas-T. C. U. The Purple and White, with a few veterans to hold the line together, will have a naturally stronger team than the Jayhawk youngsters. Kansas, who finished the '43 season by trouncing Missouri, has a bunch of naval trainees but probably not enough strength. T. C. U. over Kansas.

Marquette-Michigan. The Wolverines, with a hard fought victory over the Seahawks already to their credit, will have little trouble defeating the Hilltoppers by a sizeable score. Michigan over Marquette.

Tulsa-North Texas Navy. Tulsa, good for a bowl game almost any year, is still rated high in the Missouri Valley conference, so why try to oppose the Hurricanes? Tulsa over North Texas Navy.

Arkansas-Missouri. With a veteran backfield and plenty of experience in the line, too, the Tigers are slated to go places this fall. Arkansas has plenty of weight, but a typical slow-moving Parker team. Missouri over Arkansas.

THE WEST

California-St. Mary's. California has a strong line together with a fleet backfield to make a fine combination in any one's language. The Gaels may lack some of last season's speed but it has better balance and a stronger line. This game will be close but the Golden Bear gets the nod. California over St. Mary's.

Southern California-U. C. L. A. The Trojans have, as usual, one of the stronger, if not the strongest, teams on the coast. They are out for the Coast conference title, and are aiming for the Rose Bowl with a fine combination of experience and balance. The Bruins may have a better team than last year, but do not have the strength to take this one. Southern California over U. C. L. A.

Washington-Wilamette. The Huskies have a powerful club and are slated for victory. With the loss of all but one of its '43 players the Oregon school doesn't stand much chance. This will be just a warm-up. Washington over Wilamette.

Ft. Warren-Colorado U. The soldiers have a strong team while the Bisons have a squad composed mainly of returning vets. A toss-up, but the choice is Ft. Warren over Colorado university.

Colorado college-Washburn. The Black and Gold go into action with a comparatively strong and large team, though most of its '43 squad has been transferred. The Kansas school does not seem to have much. Colorado college over Washburn.

Seahawks Leave for Minnesota With 'All Confidence in World'

With all the confidence in the world that the Minnesota contest will not be a repeat of what happened at Michigan last Saturday, the Seahawks football team, 36 strong, left for the Gopher camp today to tangle with the Minnesota eleven tomorrow afternoon.

Although the Seahawks made a lot of first game mistakes last week, Lieut. Comdr. Jack Meagher feels certain that his charges will perform Saturday as a well-organized and well-balanced team.

The Seahawks have undergone heavy drills all week in an attempt to get into top condition for the coming tussle. It is expected that some new players will break into the opening lineup for the Seahawks against Minnesota, as Meagher has tried to pick the strongest combination possible.

Beaten in the last two years of play with the Seahawks, the Gophers of Minnesota seem to stand a better chance for victory this year than they have in previous years. Minnesota will take the field with 13 returning lettermen tomorrow and may prove to be like the Minnesota teams of old.

The fact that the Seahawks are using only cadets in their games with college teams this year will also give Minnesota an advantage that they did not have in former years.

Cadet interest at pre-flight school seems to be running higher than ever with new posters prophesying death for the Minnesota eleven. Since the Seahawks were not able to "Mash Michigan" successfully, they have decided to "Mangle Minnesota."

At the Union dance tonight, featuring Glen Gray, the cadets will have something of a pep meeting, with Maestro Gray cooperating by playing some victory songs.

Cross-Country Squad Drills

Starting with an inexperienced cross-country squad, Coach George Bresnahan has been holding daily workouts and believes the men will be ready for time trials in about two weeks.

Candidates who have reported to date are: Cletus R. Burke, Cascade; Donald Bloom, Logan; William D. Cohen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Gerald W. Eckhardt, Davenport; Charles Freund, Davenport; Clinton H. Morphew, Mason City; Jack Murray, Sheldon; Albert L. Slater, Ft. Madison; Robert Swamy, Mason City; Charles Thomas, Rochester, N. Y.; John A. Tornquist, Davenport; Robert Vander Wilt, Rock Rapids; William J. Wilken, Sioux City, and Arnold Zaruba, Oxford Junction.

With only Murray, Slater and Vanderwilt returning from last year's squad, Bresnahan will have a comparatively green group of runners, but he believes that other schools will have to meet the same situation.

The schedule is not yet completed, but negotiations are underway for meets with Cornell naval radio school, Wisconsin and Minnesota, besides the Big Ten championship meet at Chicago.

Hawkeyes Continue Intensive Drilling

Kersten, Swisher Take Turn at Hurling Passes at Practice

Although the middle of the week was "Bloody Wednesday" as far as Iowa's football squad was concerned, yesterday could hardly be classified as "Deep Breath Thursday". There was no visible let-up as Coach Slip Madigan again led his men through an afternoon of intensive drilling.

A now familiar theme was once more repeated as Madigan had the team going through a rigidly detailed passing drill. In keeping with his statement of last week-end the coach had two players working on the firing end in order to build up the reserve strength that may prove to be a life-line when the Hawkeyes open their schedule.

With the present No. 1 pitcher, Johnny Stewart, absent for the day both Bill Kersten and Paul Swisher stepped into his shoes. It appears that Swisher, a newcomer, is likely to be an important part in the Madigan assembly line. Kersten has been given considerable praise because of his running ability.

Both of the above backfield men did about as much catching as they did throwing, while Russ McLaughlin was also on the receiving end. The tentative first and second teams participated in this part of the workout.

While the first two units were thus engaged at one end of the field the third and fourth stringers were battling each other in a hammer and tongs scrimmage. This gory struggle was featured by a 101-yard touchdown scamper by Neal Casey, who easily outdistanced his pursuers.

This afternoon will feature a game scrimmage between regulars and reserves. The immediate starting line-up shows Ken Rose and Russ McLaughlin at the wings; Don Winslow and Bill Benksin at tackle; Stan Mohrbacher and Bob Ireland at the guards and Bob Carlson at the pivot. None of this eleven are resting easy, however, as there is only a microscopic difference between the first and second teams.

Missionary to Ethiopia Visits in Iowa City

By PAT MOORHEAD
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

In June of 1940 the English bombed an airfield in Addis Ababa, capital city of Italian-occupied Ethiopia. Convinced that someone in the city must have furnished inside information to the British, the Italian police decided upon Dr. D. C. Henry, a United Presbyterian missionary, as a convenient suspect. Circumstantial evidence consisted of the fact that Dr. Henry possessed a radio transmission set.

So as to make the arrest appear official, the police tortured a native boy, who had been a pupil in Dr. Henry's school, until "something snapped," the boy told Mrs. Henry afterwards, "and I just wanted to die. They brought me papers to sign and I thought if I signed them they would kill me." The lad, who had been beaten, stretched and forced to lie in ice water all one night, signed the papers without knowing or caring what they said.

Head of Spy Ring

The papers stated that Dr. Henry was head of a British and native spy ring.

On the basis of this evidence Dr. Henry and his 16-year-old son were thrown in a prison in

DR. AND MRS. D. C. HENRY, missionaries in Ethiopia since 1922, are guests this week of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Laughead, 465 Grand avenue. They arrived in the United States in October, 1943, via a returning American military transport plane, and have been touring the country since then giving talks on their experiences in Ethiopia. They plan to return there within the next few months to continue their work.

Addis Ababa and held there for almost seven months.

"You think we suffered," said Mrs. Henry, "but we didn't suffer anything like our natives did." And yet all through the persecution the churches grew. When the American missionaries were driven from their missions in the west there was one church with about 200 members. When they returned with the British there were 11 churches with almost 2,000 members.

Dr. Henry was kept in a bare cell, with no windows or furnishings of any kind—no chairs, bed, or even blankets—for two weeks. After that time Mrs. Henry was permitted to bring clean clothes, hot food, blankets and books to the prison, but she was not allowed to see her husband for two and one-half months. At last she tried to cable the American ambassador but the cable was not sent.

Husband, Son Pardoned

"I guess it kind of stirred them up," she said, "because finally the general told me that they had decided to pardon my husband and son."

"We always wondered how they could pardon a man when they hadn't tried and convicted him," laughed the missionary, "but that is what they did. That was just a month before the British came in, and I think they realized the jig was up."

"We don't say anything against the Italian people," remarked Mrs. Henry, "it's just that terrible government they have. My husband says the only thing he wishes for Mussolini is a good hard cement floor for him to sleep on!"

"I can certainly appreciate how the liberated people in Europe are feeling," said Mrs. Henry. "Everybody in Addis Ababa went just wild with happiness when the British came in." Dr. and Mrs. Henry spent 10 months after the arrival of the British helping the soldiers; 600 of them were cared for in mission hospitals, under British doctors and nurses.

Celebration Held

The first celebration was the dedication of a statue in honor of 6,000 Ethiopians who died by Italian pistols and automatic rifles during a three-day period of terror in Addis Ababa when Italian soldiers took reprisal for the attempted assassination of Graziani, the first Italian governor in Ethiopia.

"Lots of people say they don't believe these stories of German and Japanese brutality, but I do. I've seen it happen."

"Haile Sellasie is a very fine, wise ruler," asserted Mrs. Henry. "We know him and his wife very well and think a lot of them."

"The Ethiopian ruler is very much interested in education," reported the returned missionary, "and the first thing he wanted to do when he regained his throne in May, 1941, was to reorganize their school system. There was no native education in Ethiopia for the entire five years of Italian occupation."

Amish Replace Buttons With Hooks, Eyes, Dr. Marcus Bach Says in Rotary Talk

"Old order Amish folk did away with buttons during the Thirty Years war because buttons reminded them of the German militarists. They use hooks and eyes," said Dr. Marcus Bach, assistant to the director of the school of religion. He addressed Rotary club yesterday noon at Hotel Jefferson.

Doctor Bach, who has done extensive research on little known religious groups, presented excerpts from the life and customs of the old order Amish who live at Wellman and Kalona and a sect of Hutterites who live near Yankton, S. D.

"These Amish are the conservative wing of the Mennonite movement," according to Dr. Bach. "Their heart is in the church, and they reconcile everything they do to the Scriptures. Their custom of wearing beards springs from a portion of Leviticus which warns against shaving corners." One former Amishman Dr. Bach talked with confided that he broke away from the sect and shaved his beard in order to install a telephone, for a telephone is considered too worldly an instrument for them to use.

"It's a beautiful sight to be in Kalona or Wellman on a Sunday morning and watch the people going to church," he said. "There is no church building, so they meet in a different member's home each Sunday. They build big houses to accommodate all the worshipers and big stables for their horses. If you attend one of these services you will be met at the door by the host, who wants to know if you understand German, for part of the service is in that language."

They sing plaintive, slow tunes which sometimes have 17 verses. An old man starts every line, for they use no instrument to obtain the beginning tone.

Women sit in one part of the room with their daughters, and men and their sons sit on the other side," he commented. "The minister doesn't prepare his sermon until about five minutes before starting time so that he will speak as the spirit moves him. He will go from Genesis to Revelation in an hour and 15 minutes, after which two other ministers will testify to what he said in his sermon.

There will be 110 people packed into the room, sitting on benches with no backs, and they sometimes fall asleep. But they wake up before the sermon is finished, and the minister can give them something to remember."

"What impressed me the most," he continued, "was the profound triumphant way in which he delivered the sermon."

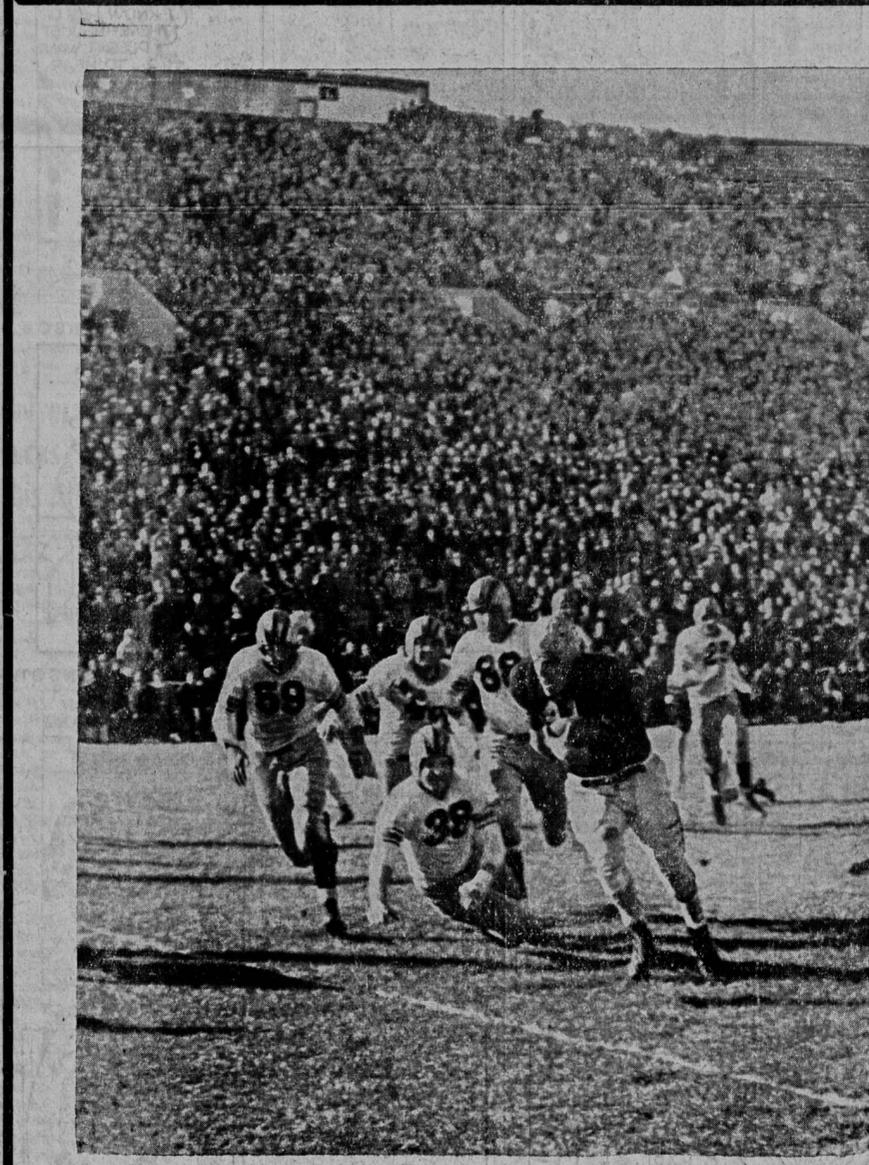

After the service the Amish read prayers from an old book and sing songs which have been handed down in the oral tradition for 300 years. The love feast, which consists of bread and butter, coffee, pickles and jam, is served at a long table at which the men sit down first.

Dr. Bach ate at the first serving, and was asked to partake a second time. He noticed that they used the same table service for each "shift." Seeing his troubled look, one woman tried to ease the situation by wiping out the cup with her handkerchief.

Dr. Bach also told the Rotarians about a group of 180 Hutterites in South Dakota who live in communes. Their communistic way of life is supervised by seven stern-faced elders and an overseer. There are five communes in the United States and 30 in Canada.

"The men farm 3,000 acres of land which yield only 17 bushels of corn per acre," he said. "Their mode of dress is drab. The only bright things in the picture are red enameled milking stools, each of which is inscribed with the name of the housewife to whom it belongs.

They have 55 cents spending money a month. Their greatest aim is to purchase more land so that their children may carry on the tradition."

Action as above will be repeated many times throughout the season. Be sure you are on hand to see the thrilling plays by the 1944 Madigan coached eleven.
