Gordon Gammack Reports—

'From the Battlefront'

ROME (AP)—In a move to trap large German forces in the Balkans and eastern Mediterranean, allied seaborne and airborne troops have landed in Albania and on the islands off Yugoslavia, the allied command announced yesterday.

The landings squeezed some 200,000 Germans in Hitler's crumbling Balkan flank between the Russians on the northeast and the allies on the coast. In the interior partisan forces hacked away at enemy units attempting to flee to the Reich over tortuous mountain passes.

At the same time allied warplanes and naval vessels continued their attacks against enemy transports attempting to evacuate German garrisons from the Aegean islands.

"British and United States forces are meeting with fierce German resistance," a German broadcast said.

Size of Force
The allied communiqué gave no indication of the size of units involved. Generally, in the past, Adriatic land force activities have been of a commando type, involving relatively small groups of troops.

The allied command said the German garrison at Himara, in Albania, had been destroyed, forcing the Germans to abandon use of the Albanian coastal road and take to the sea to supply other garrisons.

A report from Istanbul said Greek patriots had taken over the island of Samothrace, facing Kavala harbor, after the Bulgarians had evacuated it. The Turkish report also said the Germans had removed their garrisons from the islands of Paros and Naxos in the Cyclades, and had begun clearing out of the island of Lemnos, which was used as a submarine and air base.

Commission Rejects
Provision for Higher
Government Salaries

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa post-war rehabilitation commission yesterday adopted unanimously the reports of four committees and referred back to committee a fifth report on the ground that parts of it had no connection with the commission's purpose.

The report that hit a snag in the otherwise harmonious meeting was that of the professions committee. Objected to was a provision for higher salaries throughout local and state government in Iowa.

State Representative X. T. Prentiss of Mt. Ayr touched off the discussion when he declared that he opposed salary increases for legislators. He moved that that provision be stricken from the report, but the motion was defeated by a 9 to 4 vote.

After considerable discussion, L. C. Crawford of Iowa City, author of the report, moved to refer the matter back to the committee and this was approved by voice vote.

Thus, this and ten other committee reports remained to be acted upon today and tomorrow by the commission.

CIO President Asks
WLB to Break
Little Steel Formula

WASHINGTON (AP)—Philip Murray, CIO president, made a personal plea to the war labor board yesterday to toss out the little steel formula and grant a 17-cent hourly pay increase for steel workers, and he urged an annual guaranteed wage for mill hands to match "the security" of the corporations.

The WLB is without authority to break the little steel formula, and could only make a recommendation to the White House. Whether or not the case will reach the president in time for a decision before the election has been a matter of wide speculation.

Dewey Changes Tactics—

Flays Secretaries

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY TO ALBANY (AP)—The October phase of the presidential campaign was being notched up yesterday as Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sat back "between rounds" to survey the results of his 6,700 mile sortie to the Pacific coast and back.

While emphasizing that he will "not join my opponent in his descent to mud slinging," the New York governor has developed an obvious relish in his last few rear platform appearances for lambasting such New Deal figures as Secretaries Ikes and Perkins and Harry Hopkins.

Responding to the cheers of a crowd at Muncie, Ind., yesterday afternoon, Dewey said:

"Let me assure you," he continued, "there is a job in Washington which I would particularly like to do. I should like to start the best house cleaning job the government ever got. We'll start with Madam Perkins and we'll get a secretary of labor from the ranks of labor who knows labor's problems. Then we'll start with a good Republican congress writing these laws that have been passed in the last 12 years so that at least the lawyers can understand them."

Not knowing each other's problem, Mrs. Crutcher tried to rent Mrs. Brandes' residence. During the conversation their respective problems unfolded.

Mrs. Crutcher arranged for an apartment in Louisville for the Brandes. The Brandes home in Hastings now is occupied by the Crutchers.

SECOND ARMY BATTERS NAZI LINES

BRITISH AIR-BORNE FORCES, formerly completely cut off in the Arnhem area (A), have now been contacted by advance patrols from the British Second army battering to the rescue. Infantry and tank columns from the allied force have reopened the supply road between Eindhoven and Nijmegen (B), while additional troops have fanned out with Maeseyck (C) as an objective. United States troops, under the British Second army command, have captured a village (D) on the highway to Kleve in their latest thrust.

Helen G. Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The name of Helen Gahagan Douglas, Hollywood wife of Actor Melvyn Douglas and Democratic congressional nominee in the 14th California district, was injected into records of the Dies committee yesterday as it began public hearings in its investigations of the CIO political action committee.

A telegram from the actress, who spoke at the Democratic national convention in Chicago, was read by Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the committee, the only witness at yesterday's session.

The telegram, Stripling said, was sent by Miss Gahagan to Senator Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, and urged Pepper to "prevail upon Vail Pittman to run against" Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat. Pittman, brother of the late Senator Key Pittman, lost to McCarran in the Nevada senatorial primary.

Stripling said he would present evidence later showing that more than 80 percent of the 141 members of the national committee of the national citizens political action committee, successor to the PAC, "have had affiliations with the Communist party or its front organizations during the past ten years."

Yanks Fight to Regain
Ground Near Bologna

ROME (AP)—American troops, knocked from hard-won positions on the western spur of Monte la Fine south of Bologna by a German counterattack, fought last night to regain the ground as other allied forces made slight gains on the Italian battle front.

The Americans were driven from their positions on Monte la Fine Monday night, the allied command said. Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring used elements of three or more divisions, supported by a powerful artillery barrage, in the counter thrust.

Admit New Offensive
Against East Prussia
Reported by Germans

LONDON, Thursday (AP)—Breaking through the lake and river barrier to Riga, the Russians drove within 22 miles north of the Latvian capital yesterday and tightened their ring to 35 and 31 miles east and southeast, capturing more than 200 communities from the German defenders who were throwing in their last desperate reserves.

The Russians were silent on German accounts that credited them with a ten-mile penetration of Hungary from the Arad area of Romania, but early today a supplement to their regular communiqué supported German assertions that a new offensive was in the making against East Prussia.

Dislodge Germans

Southwest of Mariampole, in the Suwalki triangle area that Hitler annexed to East Prussia in 1939, Russian detachments dislodged the Germans from a front line of trenches and seized two fortified heights, then beat off three counterattacks with heavy losses to the enemy, the Soviet statement said.

The Reds announced also that an amphibious operation across five miles of sea resulted in capture of the Estonian island of Vormsi, which lies between the mainland and the bigger, more heavily fortified blockade island of Hiium (Dago). The small island of Muuhi and Osel remain to be taken before the Gulf of Riga is fully open to the Soviet fleet.

German Reports

The German radio said Russian forces had crossed the Hungarian border from western Romania in force and that the towns of Makó and Foldake, three and ten miles inside Hungary, "fell into enemy hands temporarily."

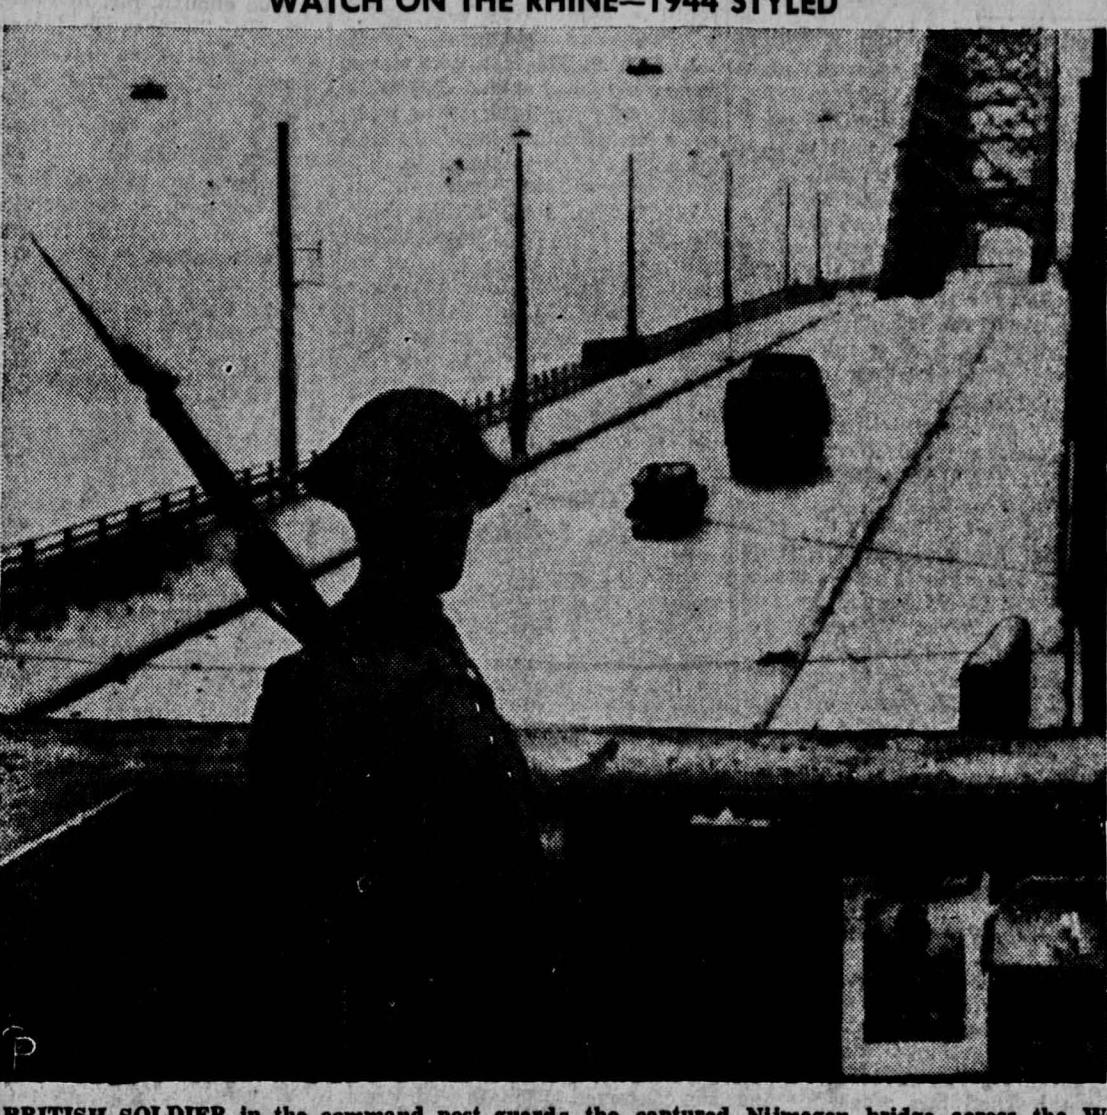

Only the narrow escape corridor leading west and southwest from Riga along the Gulf of Riga was being kept open by the Nazis, apparently regardless of losses.

End Heroic
8-Day StandThird Army Launches
Violent New Assault
On Metz Main Fort

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Thursday (AP)—The men of Arnhem—less than 2,000 out of an original force of 8,000—have come back to the comrades south of the Neder Rhine with a story of valor to take its place beside Britain's Dunkerque and Coventry.

Though the price was steep, headquarters refused to give this heroic, incredible stand of eight days and nights by the British First airborne division, the "Red Devils," the harsh label of defeat.

Instead staff officers pointed to the 12,000 to 15,000 estimated German dead heaped around the little foothold which the Red Devils had held against incessant bombardment and armored attack. They declared the almost superhuman holding had helped in the development of a new powerful eastward thrust now taking shape along the length of the Meuse river a few miles from the Dutch German frontier.

A violent new assault on the main fort guarding Metz also was launched in northeastern France by the United States army and was successful in its initial stages, it was reported.

The British skytroopers made this impossible and a dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Robert C. Wilson, with the allies in Holland, said the corridor now appeared sufficiently protected to keep the estimated 100,000 Germans between it and the sea from breaking across to the Reich.

At least 1,200 wounded of the trapped airborne troops were left behind. How many of the remainder of the original force were killed and how many were captured was not known.

The official black-out on the withdrawal, it was explained, had been ordered to prevent the Germans from knowing that the allies had given up hope of making a junction in strength and to keep the enemy from interfering with the rescue operation so far as possible.

Even so the withdrawal was made under heavy fire.

Jap Column Nearing
Kungcheng Influences
Battle for Kweilin

CHUNGKING (AP)—The battle for Kweilin, strategic allied base in southern China, took another serious turn last night as a Japanese column approached Kungcheng, 47 miles southeast of the Kwangsi capital.

A continuation of the enemy drive in that area probably would result in the cutting of the Hunan-Kwangsi railway south of Kweilin and thus expose the city to a direct assault from the north.

The Chinese high command said fighting continued to rage along the railway about 40 miles northeast of Kweilin. The Japanese in that section have been reinforced steadily, but apparently they have not yet massed enough strength to push the Chinese further back.

North of Kweilin, the Chinese reported they had repulsed fresh enemy attempts to converge on the city along highways from the west and northeast. The high command said a large number of incendiary bombs had been dropped on Paoching, while southeast of the city the enemy had employed a "large quantity" of tear gas.

Interpreting the War News—

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The epic nine-day stand of the British "Red Devil" airborne troops at the Arnhem gateway to Germany is over; but its effect on the course and duration of the war in Europe is yet to be determined.

Allied announcement that survivors of the gallant force had been withdrawn south of the lower Rhine ends hope of a quick repetition in the Netherlands of a breakthrough similar to that in Normandy.

The eastern arm of the river still guards effectively the seaward flank of the Nazi Siegfried defense line. The short and open road to Berlin from the west across the Hanoverian plain still is barred.

But despite the failure of the bold effort to leap-frog across the Rhine delta and unhinge the Nazi defenses, much was accomplished.

The passage of the wider and more difficult Waal-Rhine was secured and strongly consolidated at Nijmegen salient has been widened to a broad corridor. The Maas has been crossed or reached on a wide front. And in western Holland thousands of Nazi troops are in grave danger of entrapment.

The Arnhem thrust has succeeded, too, in mounting a more ponderous threat of a decisive allied break-through in the north as Field Marshal Montgomery gains elbow room in the Eindhoven-Nijmegen corridor for new attacks.

That threat is putting pressure on available German reserves in the west. The peril to the Dutch lower gateway to Germany is still too grave to permit any shifting of Nazi forces to sectors farther south.

Yet the Nazi high command cannot be certain that General Eisenhower may not repeat now the tactics used in breaking out of the Normandy beachhead. Semi-official recapitulations of that battle indicate that the initial allied effort to burst from Normandy was in the Caen sector on the left flank. That was the short road to Paris or the Seine. The Germans concentrated armor and anti-tank equipment there and the British push stalled.

Then came the American drive on the right of line at St. Lo and the Avranches break-through by Patton's speeding Third Army columns.

Along the Nazi "west wall" and its outposts in France and Holland, there is no obvious opportunity for a similar allied shift of attack that promises equal results unless it is along the Moselle and southward to the Swiss frontier. Throughout the Red Devil stand at Arnhem there has been little more than patrol activity reported along the allied front south of the Dutch theater. That could be significant. It could imply preparations for a diversion, at least, to draw Nazis away from the Brabant gateway. It could mean that a new blow is shaping up somewhere along the American and French-held sectors.

'Chairborne Army' Mispnomer—

WITH AMERICAN AIRBORNE TROOPS ON THE WILHELMINA CANAL, Holland, Sept. 21 (Delayed) (AP)—There aren't any chair-borne soldiers in this airborne army.

It is quiet here now but a few hours ago officers and men of this headquarters company repelled a German tank attack on a vital bridge over the Wilhelmina canal along the British Second Army's corridor.

An airborne general helped four men shove a disabled gun off the middle of a bridge.

A lieutenant colonel led a two-man battle against a tank. A captain took a squad of clerks along a canal and taught them how to use bazookas, while machine-guns bullets whizzed around them.

While German tanks shelled the town and dropped fire around an important bridge through the allied corridor, the headquarters soldiers kept traffic flowing across it with only temporary interruptions.

Wallace Calls for FDR's Reelection—

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice-President Wallace said last night America may be "compelled to go into a public works program before private industry is fully reconverted to peace" but warned that "We must never allow the days of Hoover to return."

In a radio address broadcast over station WFIL, Wallace called for the reelection of President Roosevelt who "has led us so magnificently through these days of war."

"We need planning for the peace," the vice-president said.

"We need leadership in the peace. Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin will be at the peace table and we need somebody to represent us. We need Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Turning again to post-war employment which he discussed earlier yesterday, Wallace said "if there is to be full employment in America after the war is over, we must produce and use 50 percent more in goods and services than we produced and used in 1940."

Recalling his statement at the Democratic national convention that "If the Democratic party is to survive it must continue without ceasing our fight for the liberal cause."

"We are against a soft labor market. We know that many people in America deserve a higher living standard. For those people we want not lower wages but better wages."

Earlier yesterday Wallace told thousands of shipyard workers "Unemployment will be with us more continuously than any other enemy" and urged voters to place self-preservation above political partisanship in electing the party they considered best able to provide post-war employment.

Addressing thousands of shipyard workers at the start of a tour which he said was sponsored by organizations interested in the reelection of President Roosevelt, Wallace said the Republican party seemed to think "the miracle of full production took only the green light of industry."

"Only careful, intelligent planning will solve the problems of the post-war era," he told shipyard workers yesterday afternoon at Deshon Park in nearby Chester.

"I don't know of any who stand more in fear of their post-war jobs than those in shipyards," he said earlier before thousands of Cramp's shipyard workers.

He added that, in his opinion, with President Roosevelt's "background, experience, heart and imagination, you will more likely get jobs under Roosevelt and the Democratic party than under the Republican party."

Time magazine, in its Oct. 2 issue reaching newsstands today, makes this unamplified statement:

"From an authoritative source, Time learned last week that as soon as Germany is defeated Russia will declare war on Japan."

Time editors would give no hint of the source.

Repairman Estimates 264,250 Man Hours Necessary to Recondition Cars in County

By ELLEN DAVIS
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

One Iowa City repairman has estimated that if the 17,618 cars registered in Johnson county were brought up to their peak in efficiency they would require an average of 15 man hours of labor per car. This would total 264,250 man hours of work.

There seems to be no answer to the repair problem; however, local dealers agree that while slow driving has worn the nation's cars, gas rationing has conserved rubber for which there is a crying need. Driving at unlimited speed would have sent most of the machines to the junk heap.

The automobile industry expects that by July 1, 1945, there will be a total of only 20,000,000 cars left in the United States. Of that total 9,000,000 will be automobiles more than 11 years old. As such they are considered dead or on their way to the junk pile.

This will leave a total of only 11,000,000 usable cars in the United States and no prospects for the building of new ones.

With this situation in mind, Mr. Motorist's car is irreplaceable.

When the manufacture of new cars begins, automobile men believe it will be a long time before the new machines are available to the pleasure driver. First choice will go to persons who need them most such as physicians and policemen. Thousands of sales people have been taken off the road because their automobiles are worn out or in need of repair.

This will leave a total of only 11,000,000 usable cars in the United States and no prospects for the building of new ones.

The demand for repair parts and replacements is growing daily, according to local supply companies. The need for service, however, apparently will be greater than the need for new parts.

One bright spot in the rather gloom car situation is that the local service industry can absorb about as many more men in the postwar period as it now is employing. It will be a long time before companies can be converted to peacetime work, and before the production line in automobile factories function smoothly.

Women Golfers Plan Luncheon, Tourney At Country Club

A special meeting of the Women Golfers association of the Iowa City country club will be held tomorrow, when members will participate in the field events in the morning, to be followed by a luncheon at 12:30. Election of officers will be held during the business session, and the afternoon's program will feature the presentation of awards for tournaments during the summer. Mrs. Roscoe E. Taylor will be in charge of prize presentations. Members should call the club house (6160) for luncheon reservations by tonight.

Christian Fellowship To Be Vesper Topic

David Shipley, associate professor in the school of religion, will speak at the vesper meeting of the Roger Williams fellowship at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Since this Sunday is World Communion day, Shipley will emphasize the significance of Christian world fellowship. World Communion Sunday will be observed in Protestant churches all over the world, as well as those in the United States.

The 9:30 a. m. Bible class, which also meets at the Roger Williams house, has completed plans for the breakfast club which will meet for the first time this Sunday.

Water cisterns built by the ancient Romans are used for modern apartment buildings in Philippeville, Algeria.

FIVE YEARS AGO when the Germans were bawling their boast about "Sailing Against England," the British Tommies had a ditty about their own in which they promised to "Hang Our Wash on the Siegfried Line." Well, the Nazi sea-borne invasion of England never came off but this British Royal Air Forceman is actually hanging wash on a rope between tank barriers of the Siegfried Line. (International)

Directory—

Alphabet Of Aches

Smith with a "y" or an "i"? That's what the people compiling the university directory have been wondering. The staff in the university publications office realizes you're tired of writing when you come to the last card on registration materials but if your name is only half there or if your address is there and no telephone number—what to do?

Reading illegible hand writing takes a certain amount of aspirins any time but these names are alphabetized, checked and rechecked while the personnel tear their hair and exclaim, "They sent a change in address but no change in telephone number!"

If you want to know your favorite professor's telephone number it's in the directory, as are pre-flight base numbers, those of men in the army specialized training program and house numbers of all housing units and organizations for men and women.

If you want to see your name in print correctly Nov. 1, either send any change in address or telephone number to the publications office or come to W-9 East hall and make the correction yourself. This will assure you of all the phone calls you are entitled to and your mail will not contain "Insufficient address" notes or be dropped at the wrong house.

Your name will be there just exactly the way you put it on your card. Is it correct, can it be read, are you from Brooklyn, Iowa, or Brooklyn, N. Y.? Write it correctly and it will appear in the directory that way.

Public Library Lends Book Collections To Public Schools

Books of interest to students up through sixth grade are now available one day a week in the libraries at Longfellow and Horace Mann schools.

Betty Utterback, from the city library will spend one day a week at each school for the rest of the year. The students have cards and may borrow books for two weeks at a time. Last year the weekly average of books checked out was between seven and eight hundred.

The school library is nearly a duplicate of the children's department of the city library, but moving books to the schools makes it possible for the children to avoid the traffic through the business section on the way to the library. Children from St. Patrick's and St. Mary's who are within the district will continue to use the public library. For Lincoln and Roosevelt pupils, teachers select books and take them to the schools where they are available to the students.

Fellowship Plans 'Escapist' Party

MARINE KEEPS A PROMISE

IN 1942 Marine Sgt. Merton F. Taylor, center, of Potsdam, N.Y., vowed that four of his comrades who were killed on Guadalcanal while fighting by his side would someday receive proper burial. He placed his fallen buddies in foxholes, covered the makeshift graves with stones and twigs and fashioned crude crosses of bayonets and sticks. Two years later he returned to Guadalcanal and is shown above pointing the graves out to Lt. John L. Stewart, left, of Floral Park, L.I., and Pfc. Anthony J. Pincirocco of East Cambridge, Mass. Military burials were arranged in the Army, Navy and Marine cemetery on the island. (International)

Jaujard, right, director of national museums in France, here examine the Bayeux tapestry which depicts invasion of England by William the Conqueror in 1066. (International)

Watch Your Step—

Don't Be a Dagwood

—Bus Drivers Dilemma

In this war year of 1944 one doesn't wait for dad to bring the car home. There probably wouldn't be enough gas in the tank to take you across the river. Instead you board a city bus and thank your lucky stars that it goes past your corner every 15 minutes.

Half of the drivers were with the company before the war, Negus stated. Arthur Pickering, who was with the company in 1915 when street cars were in use, has the longest service record. It was in 1930 that the company changed over to bus operation.

Rotation System. A rotation system is used whereby each driver has his turn at the longer runs. Buses, to serve the public effectively, have to be run on schedule. A driver who patiently waits for someone dashing madly down the street to catch the bus loses seconds, which count up to minutes, when he could be at the next corner.

Among the drivers' pet peeves are persons who have to fumble around to obtain the right change and those who insist on prolonged goodbyes just as they board the bus.

In order to keep the bus on schedule and therefore get people on time:

Bus Drivers' Suggestions

1. Be on the corner when the bus arrives. The Dagwood type is frowned upon by bus drivers.

2. Have your change ready. Don't test the driver's sense of humor by asking him to change a $5 bill.

3. Sit down. Chatting with friends while depending on the law of gravity to support you can result in a hard seat on the floor or an unexpected seat in a stranger's lap as the bus rounds the corner.

Do You Read News After You Hear It Over the Radio?

That radio as a news medium is not likely to supplant the newspaper, is indicated by a poll of a representative cross section of Iowans.

To find out what happens in this day of radio news broadcasts, Iowans were asked by field reporters for the Iowa Poll, "After you have heard a news item on the radio, do you like to read more about it in the newspaper, or do you skip the news you have heard?"

The responses to this question were:

Read details in the newspaper ... Total City Town Farm newspaper ... 71% 75% 69% Skip the article ... 27 27 27 Don't know ... 8 1 8 4

Men and women divided quite evenly with a few more men reading details in the newspaper, and a few more women having no opinion.

First Killing Frost—

When Will It Hit?

By GEORGE MATHER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Would you like to know when the first killing frost will come this year? Would you like to know whether or not you will have a corn crop? Or when you should pick the tomatoes in your garden before they turn black? Or how many days of leisure you have left to enjoy before you will have to rake up and burn the dead leaves cluttering up your lawn?

Of course no one knows just when Iowa City will have its first killing frost this year, except perhaps the swami with his crystal ball. But a look at records of weather reports of the past 50 years will give you a pretty good idea as to when we can expect that first killing frost.

Iowa City has had such a frost as early as Sept. 18; this happened in 1916 and 1924. But in 1931 the first destructive frost did not come until Nov. 6. The chances of our having a killing frost immediately is only one out of 10.

The most probable time for the first frost is between Oct. 10 and Oct. 14, inclusive.

Since 1893 the first killing frost in Iowa City has fallen on one of those five days in 25 percent of the 51 years. The median date is Oct. 12; in 50 percent of the 51 years the first killing frost has fallen before that date and 50 percent after Oct. 12.

These estimates are based on observations made at the climatological station operated by the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research in University Heights. The following table shows on what date Iowa City suffered its first killing frost for the years 1893 to 1943, inclusive. The column to the right gives the chances out of 100 of the first heavy frost occurring before that date.
