Al Smith Dies at 70 In New York

Death After Illness Ends Half Century In American Politics

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred Emmanuel Smith, the "happy warrior" of American politics, died yesterday. He was 70.

Dr. Raymond P. Sullivan, attributed Smith's death to lung congestion and heart disease. He had been in ill health since the death of his wife, Catherine, last May 4.

The prominent Catholic layman knew he was dying, "and was praying all the time," said the Rev. John Healy of St. Vincent Ferrer's church who was present when Smith died at 6:30 a. m. (EWT) in Rockefeller institute.

As plans went forward to have the body lie in state in St. Patrick's cathedral beginning 2 p. m. Friday and for a high requiem mass at 11 a. m. Saturday, tribute to the man known for his brown derby, cigar and jovial smile came from the nation's leaders in all walks of life.

President Roosevelt said in Washington: "The country loses a true patriot."

"Al Smith had qualities of heart and mind and soul which not only endeared him to those who came under the spell of his dynamic presence in personal association but also made him the idol of the multitude," the president said in part.

Born Dec. 30, 1873, in the shadow of the Brooklyn bridge, Smith entered politics at the age of 22 as a clerk and subpoena server for the commissioner of jurors.

Smith reached the apex of his political career in 1928 when at the Democratic national convention Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated him as the Democratic presidential standard bearer — giving him the nickname "happy warrior." Hoover defeated him carrying 40 states and splitting the Democratic "solid south."

In 1936 Smith broke with President Roosevelt, taking what he called "a walk," and supported Alf Landon for the presidency. Four years later, still hostile to the New Deal, he took the stump for Wendell L. Willkie.

During the past few years, Smith had not taken an active part in politics, devoting his time to managing the Empire State building and other enterprises.

French Charge Petain With High Treason; Open Prosecution

LONDON (AP)—The first official move to prosecute Marshal Henri Philippe Petain for high treason has been taken, the Paris radio announced yesterday.

Omitting Petain's title, the announcement said the Paris police were ordered by a judicial commission to investigate the activities "of a man named Philippe Petain, accused of treason and communication with the enemy."

Petain is in Germany where, the German radio announced, he serves as head of a German-created French "legal government."

Chinese Acknowledge Jap Invasion

CHUNGKING (AP)—Japanese invasion forces are less than six miles from Fochow, last large east China coast port held by the Chinese, the high command announced last night, acknowledging for the first time that the enemy had made a successful landing in Fukien province.

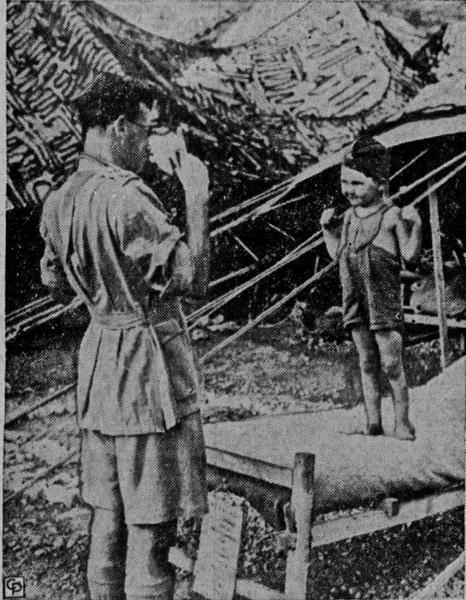

The new Japanese offensive in Fukien and the strong enemy drive in Kwangsi province toward Kweilin indicated here a Japanese plan to seize American air bases to deny any American force heading for the China coast the protection of land-based aerial support, as well as a general strengthening of Japanese defenses against any American move from the Pacific.

Austrians Revolt; Follow Allied Signal From Eisenhow

LONDON (AP)—Revolts have broken out in Vienna and elsewhere in Austria and casualties and arrests have been reported, the BBC said last night.

The report of an uprising in Austria, first country to be absorbed by Hitler, came two days after Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Moscow radio told the Austrians that "the time has come" for them to give positive and active proof of their willingness to disassociate themselves from their German masters.

Federal Jury Indicts Philadelphia Strikers

Flays Action of Union In Transportation Strife of August

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A federal grand jury, indicting 30 men in connection with Philadelphia's six-day transportation strike in August, observed yesterday that, "We have made a long step away from the company union which might, with the right motivation on both sides, have seemed the ideal method of relations in our industrial life."

The jury's report said that there had been strife between four different labor organizations among Philadelphia Transportation company employees, "but chiefly between members of the former employees union and the new transport workers union" (CIO).

"We are interested also to raise the question whether our country can safely afford to leave wide open the way for a great organization to develop in the United States a strong central power and government reaching its tentacles into every community of any size in the land and in its principles of action seemingly subversive of the principles first declared and later constituted in this city of Philadelphia the basis of the life and government of our great republic."

While the report stated that, "So far as there was flame or fire in the strike, the chief fuel thereof came from resentment over the upgrading of negroes to 'platform' positions," it added that "the great majority of the employees were not interested to strike on this basis."

Chicago Tribune Plans Post-War Newspaper

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Tribune is considering publishing one or two other newspapers after the war, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher, disclosed yesterday in a message outlining the newspaper's plans to reemploy war veterans and retain war replacements.

In a message to Tribune employees, Colonel McCormick said: "After the war we will make an even bigger and better Tribune and we may publish one or two other newspapers. When the war is over the Tribune will take care of those who have taken care of America as well as those who have taken care of the Tribune."

Aircraft Workers Strike—50,000 Idle

DETROIT (AP)—Maintenance workers whose strike made an estimated 50,000 Detroit area war plant employees idle yesterday adjourned a stormy mass meeting last night without taking any action to end the stoppage.

A plane bearing six representatives of the union who appeared before the national war labor board in Washington was grounded in Pittsburgh and another plane bringing three high officials of the United Automobile workers (CIO) from Atlantic City with back-to-work pleas also encountered delay.

Allies Hit 10 Japanese Freighters

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Thursday (AP)—

Allied planes sank or damaged 10 more Japanese freighters, pounded Japanese airfields and lashed at an important port in sweeps from the Philippines to Amboina, reported today by headquarters.

Heavy bombers ploughed through fairly heavy anti-aircraft fire to attack Makassar, major Japanese port on the southwest coast of Celebes. They started 17 sizeable fires among oil tanks and wharves during the assault Monday night and early Tuesday morning. No allied planes were lost.

Catalina patrol planes hit the largest ship of the bag in Amering bay, Celebes, during the same night. They left the 2,000-ton freighter burning and listing heavily.

The Cats also pounced on a cluster of smaller freighters and barges at Gorontalo, north-central Celebes, damaging three, sinking several barges and bombing land installations.

Meanwhile Sixth army troops on Morotai island, in the Halmaheras, mopped up enemy positions five miles north of the Pitoe airfield, now in American hands. Skirmishing at the headwaters of the Pilow river resulted in 29 enemy killed. The Japanese total now is 70 dead, and 12 captured in the virtually unopposed Morotai campaign.

U. S. Troops Battle 15 Miles From Bologna

ROME (AP)—American Fifth army troops in Italy have reached a point within 15 miles of Bologna in a drive slowed by mud and bitter Nazi resistance, allied headquarters announced yesterday.

Clearing skies allowed allied bombers to resume support of the northern Italy offensive and gave promise of better footing.

The British Eighth army on the Adriatic sector was still stalled on the banks of the flooded Piavice, across which the Germans are heavily entrenched. However, patrols crossed the stream and probed enemy positions.

of international United Automobile workers (CIO) officers that it be deferred pending a scheduled hearing with the WLB, closed nine factories and slowed down production in 15 others.

The strikers, included among the 38,000 members of the maintenance, construction and power-house council, UAW-CIO, voted Monday to quit work in 300 Detroit area war plants but were instructed to remain at work after the WLB advised UAW international officers it would "take no action under the duress of a strike threat."

Bricker Requests Sincere Campaign

Censures 'Evasion, Flippancy, Innuendo' In Wartime Politics

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, appealing for a "sincere, straightforward and truthful" political campaign, told a nationwide radio audience last night:

"Cynicism, innuendo, flippant remarks, evasion and synthetic humor have no part in this wartime campaign."

The Republican candidate for vice-president, speaking from Kiel auditorium, after attending the opening game of the world series, added in a text released by his campaign staff:

"Our sons are pressing the fight for freedom around the world. Many of them are suffering the agonies of death and disease. We owe it to them and to ourselves to conduct this campaign with the same devotion to duty and high spiritual purpose that they are showing on the field of battle."

The Ohio governor referred to the Sept. 23 speech of President Roosevelt for the first time with these words:

"It was a speech of evasion, of name-calling, of muddled humor. He tried to laugh off the confusion, incompetence, waste and bungling of the New Deal."

Bricker declared that "Nothing could do more to strengthen the faith of the American people in representative government now than a sincere, straightforward and truthful campaign."

Dewey to Campaign For Undecided Votes

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Indications that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey planned to direct large share of his presidential campaign appeals toward the so-called "independent" voters developed yesterday as the Republican nominee labored on an address scheduled for Charleston, W. Va., Saturday night.

Ready to reply to any attacks President Roosevelt may make in a radio talk tonight, Dewey huddled with Elliott V. Bell, his chief assistant in speech-writing.

One close adviser, who preferred not to be quoted by name, said that barring unexpected developments, the governor probably would spend a major share of his efforts until Nov. 7 attempting to convince undecided voters in such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Minnesota, Massachusetts and others with large electoral totals that the time had arrived for a change in administration.

German Girls Marry Reds, Hope to Escape Allied War Reprisals

BERNE (AP)—German girls are paying high prices and risking the death penalty in order to marry Russian workers in Germany in hopes that such marriage will enable them to escape reprisals for Nazi activities if the Soviet armies enter their country, the Berne newspaper Nation, said yesterday.

The paper published an account from a correspondent in Weissensee, Germany, who said he had witnessed one of the secret weddings.

He related he was escorted into a house whose windows and door were barred with furniture. An orthodox priest, he said, quickly joined in marriage a girl of "good bourgeois family" to a Russian "half dead with hunger." The girl, he said, paid the priest 2,000 marks and 4,000 to her "husband."

American Tanks Charge Through Siegfried Breach

Reds 15 Miles From Belgrade

Yugoslav Capital May Fall in One More Day of Battle

LONDON, Thursday (AP)—The Red army, now joined with Marshal Tito's partisans in a campaign to drive the Germans out of Yugoslavia, gained Banatska Kraljevice, a railway town only 15 miles from the capital city of Belgrade yesterday in a 27-mile advance across open country to the northeast.

Belgrade appeared ready to fall soon, perhaps in a day, unless the Germans offer more resistance than they have put up so far against the new offensive on the capital from the north and east.

One hundred miles southeast of Belgrade other Red army forces racing to smash the rail network over which the Germans must escape from the Balkans, outflanked the three-way rail junction of Zajevar, capturing the town of Vratarnica nine miles to the south, and penetrated to within 40 miles of the important junction of Nis astride the main railway from Bulgaria and Greece.

Altogether the Russians overran 13 towns and railway stations in this area, including the town of Bor, center of the second largest copper deposit in Europe, and villages within ten miles of the Maidanpek goldfields.

In their race to cut the Nazis' rail escape lines the Russians at captured Vratarnica stood 45 miles east of the main Belgrade-Nis railway and 80 miles east of Kraljevo on the last rail line the Germans could take out of the lower Balkans.

Capture of Belgrade would add to Moscow's prestige in the Balkans and provide a tonic for Marshal Tito's partisans, who have fought the Germans at great odds, and militarily it would give the Russians control of one of the key points on the long trans-Balkan railroad.

The Berlin correspondent of the German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau said in a dispatch published in Stockholm that eight Russian divisions were taking part in the drive on Belgrade from the north and the east.

The Elks and Moose lodges of Iowa City contributed $1,000 each yesterday to the consolidated War and Community chest fund to help shoot the total to $5,724 in the second day of the drive.

Campaigns in the business district, residential district, university hospitals and university are underway.

Co-chairmen I. J. Barton and Dale Welt are asking donors to keep in mind that the drive embraces many agencies and contributions, both large and small will be needed to put Iowa City over its $42,108 goal.

Soviet Government Honors Allied Leaders

LONDON (AP)—The Moscow radio announced last night that the Soviet government had awarded the order of Suvorov, first class, to Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the United States Fifth army in Italy, and to Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British 21st army group on the western front.

The order is the highest army decoration given to any person outside the Soviet Union. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower also holds it.

In addition, it also was awarded yesterday to Lord Beaverbrook, British publisher and lord privy seal in the Churchill government, and to Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of production.

Roosevelt Asks AFM To Lift Musical Recordings Ban

Requests Compliance With War Labor Board Order Issued in June

WASHINGTON (AP)—After two years of trying, the government decided yesterday that it cannot make the American Federation of Musicians sing in harmony with the recording companies, so President Roosevelt asked the union, on a personal basis, to follow Washington's baton.

In a telegram to James Caesar Petrillo, the union's president, Mr. Roosevelt said it would be "your country's gain" if the union would comply with a war labor board order and drop its ban on making recordings. The WLB order was issued last June 15, and the union has ignored it.

In New York, Petrillo's office announced the federation leader had telegraphed the president that he had called a meeting of the union's international executive board to be held in Chicago Oct. 9, "at which time your request will be given careful consideration."

Petrillo told a senate committee in January, 1943, that if the president asked that the ban be lifted "the request would be granted."

Mr. Roosevelt's telegram said stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson had decided that the union's non-compliance with the WLB order "is not unduly impeding the war effort." For the government to act, he noted, the statute required a finding that a dispute does impede the war effort.

"But this non-compliance may encourage other instances of non-compliance which will impede the war effort," the telegram continued.

The ban originally was issued Aug. 1, 1942. It forbade members of the union to make recordings and Petrillo declared its purpose was to force more use of "live musicians."

Railroad Unions, Garment Workers To Support FDR

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt, on the eve of his second fourth-term campaign speech, yesterday pledged support for reelection by officers of a group of railroad unions and the international ladies garment workers (AFL).

The chief executive speaks tonight to party workers by radio from Washington.

Continuing a series of labor conferences begun last week, Mr. Roosevelt met with leaders of railroad brotherhoods and rail unions. Afterward, George Harrison, president of the brotherhood of railway clerks, said the union officials "assured the president that the railroad men are still for him and we are going to do the best we can to reelect him."

Nazis Announce Blueprint—Guerilla Warfare

LONDON (AP)—A Nazi blueprint for highly organized and fanatical guerrilla warfare to nullify any allied victory and make the civilian administration of conquered German territory almost impossible was outlined yesterday by Nazi officials.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, in a speech to German workers on the western front quoted on the Berlin radio by DNB, said the allies had launched an all-out offensive to win the war before winter, but that conditions now favor the German army, and in any event the Nazis were prepared to wage guerrilla warfare to the death.

Publisher Accuses Dies Committee

Objects to Pamphlet Distribution Inquiries, 'Gestapo Methods'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Dies committee was accused yesterday by the head of Press Research, Inc., of applying "Gestapo methods of intimidation to the press."

Nelson Poynter, publisher of the Washington research agency, made the accusation in a statement to reporters as the special house committee began inquiring into distribution of a pamphlet entitled "Special Report No. 1—Dewey," prepared by Poynter's organization.

Earlier, his managing editor, David Loth, had testified that Press Research, Inc., was not connected with or financed in any way by the national citizens political action committee or any political committee. Poynter said he was a member of the NCPAC.

The Dies committee had said it used the 95-page pamphlet as "source material." Loth presented to the Dies committee copies which he said were reprints by the Dies committee under a cover page caricaturing Governor Dewey thumbing a ride and saying "Going My Way?" to Uncle Sam astride a tank travelling in the opposite direction toward "Victory."

Referring to the Dies committee, some of whose members have been defeated for reelection, Poynter said "The congressional lame ducks are determined to smear and to try to destroy an organization that is dedicated to fight reaction such as the Dies committee so well symbolizes, with facts and research."

Seize New Nazi Guns

FLORENCE, France (AP)—Two of Hitler's newer weapons fell into American hands with the capture of the giant Nazi arsenal here—a 12-inch gun with a 25-foot barrel and a long new-barrelled 105, both types which Americans had not seen before on a battlefield.

French workers said that until the day they left the Germans boasted that the 25-footers would be used to blast the way for a German invasion of Britain.

Patton Storms Gate to Saar

Allies Blast Secondary Defenses North of Aachen

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF (AP)—Squadrons of American tanks which had been held back for two days while doughboys hacked a hole in the Siegfried line north of Aachen were sent charging through the breach yesterday to blast German secondary defenses and help clear the path of Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army to the Rhine.

Pouring into a gap two and a half miles wide in the vaulted westwall the Yanks last night were fighting through minefields, tank traps and hastily-built rifle pits more than two miles inside the border of Germany after having thrown back three weak enemy counterattacks in the early morning hours.

Lack Troops

Front dispatches said the Nazi commanders, for all their desperate need to halt the burgeoning allied drive at the heart of the industrial Rhineland, did not have enough first class troops to throw against Hodges' crack infantry divisions and tremendous reserves or armor.

More than 100 miles to the south in France Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army veterans fought hand-to-hand duels inside Ft. Driant a great rabbit warren of defenses guarding the vital city of Metz from the west bank of the Moselle river.

Guards Saar Basin

Metz, which never has been taken by storm in all its war-torn history, stands between Patton's forces and the Saar basin of Germany 30 miles to the east.

A 48-hour truce stilled the roar of cannon at Dunkerque, last channel port to which a German garrison clung, while 20,000 refugees streamed out of the town into the safe countryside.

By far, the most critical importance was attached to the First army's smash toward Cologne and Dusseldorf. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Germany's mobilization director, war reported by the German news agency DNB to have rushed to the west and implored the war-weary people to give the last ounce of effort.

Airforce Announces 11,000 Accident Casualties in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven thousand lives have been lost in 5,600 fatal air force accidents in the United States since Pearl Harbor.

The war department made public these figures yesterday in a statement supplementing its earlier announcement that 17,500 planes had been "lost" in the United States during the same period. Of this total, the department said, only 11,000 were cracked up in wrecks while 4,000 were worn out in flight training and 2,500 were worn to the extent that they became fit only for ground training.

However, its figures on deaths and injuries show, the department said, that 95 of every 100 men who enter flight training will complete their training "without so much as a sprained ankle or a bump on the head."

Senator Proposes Freezing of Social Security Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R, Mich.) proposed yesterday the freezing of social security payroll taxes at present levels for a fourth year, raising the possibility of another controversy between the administration and congress.

He asserted that the social security reserve fund will reach an estimated six billion dollars on Jan. 1 and that collections at current levels will meet anticipated payments for the next five years without disturbing it.

MacArthur's Road Back—

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC (AP)—Few men ever wanted anything more than Douglas MacArthur wants to return to the Philippines. He has pledged that he would.

Fresh from Corregidor, MacArthur's first statement to the press said: "I shall return."

Two and one-half years have passed since then; now MacArthur has reached the straightaway on the road back. It has been a long road, through Port Moresby, Lae, Salamaua, Cape Gloucester, Saidor, Alitape, Hollandia, Sansapor and other way stations.

MacArthur came to Australia expecting to find an army, navy and air force assembled and ready to be led back. He found, instead of an army, two divisions of Americans; instead of an air force, a handful of planes; instead of a navy, a few destroyers and cruisers.

It must have been a great disappointment to this man whose only idea of war is to attack. Correspondents attached to his headquarters knew he was worried. The lights in his office frequently burned late. But outwardly he maintained an air of cheerful confidence. And, even with his limited forces he dealt the Japanese a series of staggering blows. They were blown that hurt—at Buna, Gona, Milne bay and the Bismarck sea.

MacArthur is a born leader and one of his marks of leadership has been to surround himself with the best men available.

If he couldn't get vast numbers of fighting men, he at least could get the best available officers and hope that the men would be there in time. Among the soldiers, who knew how few fighting men there really were, a phrase was tossed back and forth:

"Never have so few been commanded by so many."

As he worked with a minimum of men and materiel, MacArthur also developed his strategy, a plan that called for the isolation of comparatively large groups of Japanese while he whittled them down to his size.

He blocked off the garrisons at Buna and Gona, used his planes and PT boats to prevent their reinforcement and wiped the mud. He did the same thing at Lae and Finschhafen, Madang and Cape Gloucester. He never made a direct attack against a heavily fortified position, when he could begin to maneuver, after the Buna campaign.

He landed his troops in unfortified areas behind the Japanese lines and made the Japanese attack him, wiping them out as they came. He made them go hungry until in desperation they charged his positions en masse.

"All this," said General Wiloughby, "was a break for GI Joe, because it is the attacker who pays the cost and MacArthur made the Jap attack."

Ask any of his officers the one thing about MacArthur that impresses them most and the answer is always the same—his personal courage. It was that way in the Philippines and it has been that way since. Col. Legrande A. Diller, his public relations officer and former aide, tells of an experience on Corregidor.

"It was Dec. 29 and the headquarters topside were heavily bombed. For three hours the Japanese planes were over in continuous waves. No one knew at the time where the general was."

"When the raid was over, he came walking into headquarters and started telling Sutherland the number of planes, their tactics, the size bombs they used—the complete information needed on the bombing. He had been out in it all the time. The rest of us were just glad to be alive."

Few men ever wanted anything more than MacArthur wants to return to the Philippines. Why? The answer was penciled in his own handwriting more than two years ago, when Corregidor fell. He wrote:

"Corregidor needs no comment from me. It has sounded its own story at the mouth of its guns. It has scrooled its own epitaph on enemy tablets. But through the bloody haze of its last reverberating shot I shall always seem to see a vision of grim, gaunt, ghastly men, still unafraid."

Federal Aid for Rural Schools—

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said yesterday the federal government should provide financial aid where needed to bring country schools up to the educational level of city school systems, but that such aid should never involve government interference with local administration.

Speaking to a rural education conference at the White House, Mr. Roosevelt said, "Frankly, the chief problem of rural education is the problem of dollars and cents" and he added, the basic reason for the variance between rural schools and city schools hinges on the pay for instructors.

"It is not patriotism alone that has taken teachers out of the classrooms, Mr. Roosevelt continued. 'Most of them simply cannot afford to teach in rural schools.'"

The president said the gap between educational standards in the richer communities and those in poorer areas is greater now than it was a century ago. He said the gap must be closed "by raising the standards in the poorer communities."

Within one school year after Pearl Harbor, he stated, several thousand rural schools were closed for want of teachers.

"One of the leading farm papers," he asserted, "Recently reported that in one agricultural state of the midwest, nearly a third of the teachers in one-room schools are now persons holding only emergency licenses to teach, and nearly 800 schools face this coming school year without a teacher."

Mr. Roosevelt did not say what form federal financial aid should take but specified that it should go "only where it is needed—in communities where farming does not pay, where land values have depreciated through erosion or through flood or drought, where industries have moved away, where transport facilities are inadequate or where electricity is unavailable for power and light."

Stressing the need for universal education, Mr. Roosevelt said that under the selective service examinations four and one-half percent of all registrants were found to be

Forts, Liberators Hammer Munich Rail Yards, Brenner Pass

LONDON (AP)—Up to 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the United States 15th airforce hammered Munich railroad yards and the Brenner pass area yesterday while RAF heavy bombers dumped thousands of tons of explosives on German U-boat pens at Bergen, Norway.

The air ministry revealed that RAF Lancasters scored a direct hit with a 12,000-pound bomb on the German battleship Tirpitz anchored near Altenfjord, Norway.

The attack, made without loss, involved a roundtrip flight of more than 5,000 miles between bases in England and the straits in Russia near Archangel.

While allied heavy bombers were busy, Ninth airforce medians destroyed 10 enemy gun positions that had been holding up the United States warplanes, supporting the United States Third army near Luneville, knocked out one gun position, 35 locomotives and a viaduct.

The heavy bombers of the 15th airforce, flying from Italian bases, smashed points on the Brenner pass railroad and other Nazi communication routes into Italy.

The plunge to Bergen by RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes, a 1,300-mile round trip, caught the Germans by surprise. It followed the spectacular puncturing Tuesday of the seawall on Walcheren island, which the Germans had trapped 6,000 troops in floods.

Bricker Accuses PAC Of Buying Election

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio declared last night that "New Deal" leaders were unable to pass by "the millions of dollars collected" by the political action committee and saw in them an opportunity "to buy this election."

The Republican vice-presidential candidate asserted that "pressure, regimentation, threats and intimidation" were the instruments of Sidney Hillman, director of the PAC.

Norma Igenfritz, A1, Ottumwa: "To be a Powers model and to marry a millionaire."

Lorraine Carrington, A1, Carbondale, Ill.: "I want to be a successful dress designer."

Margaret Ellsworth, A1, Des Moines: "The height of my ambition is to sleep all day and stay up all night."

Nancy Gilson, A2, Kirkwood, Mo.: "My ambition is to be happy. I want to make the most of where I am at a particular time. It would help if I could make friends and keep them, 'coz I don't wanna walk alone."

Pvt. Francis Kruse, A. S. T. P., Berkeley, Calif.: "I want to be a good doctor. I'm taking pre-med in Iowa City now under the A. S. T. P. program. After the war I want to go to the University of California or Stanford to specialize in orthopedics."

Pvt. Stephen Zeluck, A. S. T. P., Philadelphia: "I intend to be a research director for a trade union. I want to get a Ph.D. in economics at Harvard, and then get a job in a trade union, preferably C.I.O."

Mary P. Mosely, G. Dallas, Tex.: "My highest ambition is to develop an original formula or theorem in math."

Norma Ansher, A3, Des Moines: "I've always wanted to run a comb through my hair and never have to wear pins in it."

Roddy Miller, A4, Oskaloosa: "I've always wanted to be a social worker."

Dorothy Keller, A3, Davenport: "I want to make a success of myself in my own mind and feel that the time I've spent in college will always be of some use to me."

Shirley Brown, A3, Chicago: "My highest ambition is to be satisfied with the world."

Paul Mallon Discusses —

Morgenthau Peace Proposal

WASHINGTON — The inner debate on the Morgenthau peace proposal has been advertised as a struggle of a harsh versus a soft peace, but it was hardly that.

The plan of the treasury secretary to deindustrialize Germany as well as demilitarize her was harsh enough, it is true. The purpose was to crush her completely so she could never rise again.

Light on Nazis But no one around the cabinet circle in which the fight revolved wanted to be particularly light on the Nazis. The plan was resisted by State Secretary Hull and War Secretary Stimson for another reason.

It was a reason good enough to warrant them fighting even the Roosevelt okey which Morgenthau secured before presenting the idea.

The fact is this nation may have gotten its war propaganda too much mixed up with its permanent peace hopes. The thought which has been constantly before us is that the Nazis must be exterminated and the German people held in check forever to keep the peace of the world.

Enough of Goal This is enough of a goal to win this war, but not enough to prevent, the next one or win it if it comes to us.

How much more may be needed is evident behind the final reports on the Dumbarton Oaks deliberations before publication of the agreement. Our people, and presumably also Britain, wanted to prevent any of the big five united nations (France is eventually to come into the big four) which becomes involved in a war-threatening controversy from voting on whether to take action against an aggressor. They wanted an objective and judicial decision by uninterested parties, but Russia objected.

The mere fact that this controversy arose, bringing the extensive ramifications which have been aired in news accounts of the conference, points to the possibility that the future peace of the world does not rest alone on keeping Germany on her back—or Japan.

Who Can Say If there are now no ambitious men among the united nations, who can say when one will not arise? Who can say when national policies will not change? There may be far more post-war trouble from this possible source of internal dissension among present war friends, who will wind up this war with the power of the world, than from Germany and Japan, flat on their backs, and to be kept there by continuing our resolution to keep them there, as well as by any dismemberment formula.

Inner Reasons These are the real considerations, the inner reasons, behind the rejection of the Morgenthau formula and the trouble at Dumbarton. The crushing of Germany and Japan is one objective. The keeping of the future peace of the world is another.

It bespeaks the fact that many official authorities here are coming around to a broader and more realistic attitude. For a time some months back it looked as if the foresight of most of the cabinet toward the future world was limited to the present circumstances of the war and a lot of peace formula makers obviously have been merely falling for current propaganda, their own, and others, good and bad.

The maintenance of a realistic foreign policy thus will do more to keep the peace than anything that has been or can be done.

Where Fear Is Forgotten

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE AE FIN FRANCE, Sept. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Courage of an almost awesome nature has the habit of cropping up in strange places—right in the middle of what the thoughtless might call "cowardice" and when it comes it brings a flashing moment of heroism, a memory which never fades.

Water and steel fell around a little French stable, seemingly in about equal proportions. The rain brought wet misery and the mortars brought death but nobody moved to go inside where thick walls would have meant shelter.

"It's mines," said one shivering soldier, standing as if rooted in the muddy barnyard. "Mines and boobytraps. They're everywhere. It's probably alive with 'em inside. For that matter they're all around here. I tell you I'm afraid even to move." His voice rose several notes as he finished speaking.

Faces of nearby soldiers all told the same story. Tension happened a million times before, they broke into two groups. Four doughboys dropped their carbines and ran across the pasture—a pasture which they knew was planted heavily with other mines, a pasture which a moment before they did not dare to set foot on.

Two litter bearers ran toward the stable wall where a litter was dropped. They picked it up and ran after the four soldiers who by now had reached the still-screaming doughboy. They picked him up, laid him carefully on the litter and started back toward the stable.

Meanwhile the boy who said he was afraid even to move had sprinted recklessly down a little trail and came back with a medical officer.

The doctor bent over the litter. He did things quickly and then issued a low-voiced order. The litter bears started down the trail toward the nearest spot where they were likely to find an ambulance, with the medical officer walking alongside.

GRADUATE RECORD EXAMINATION
The graduate college, in cooperation with other leading universities and through the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching, is giving the graduate record examination for orientation at the beginning of graduate work. The examination will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 11 and 12, 8 a. m. to 12 M. in room 301, Physics building.

This shows the relative achievement of the student in eight of the principal fields of learning, which is exceedingly valuable to the student for self-analysis and self-guidance. It is used in educational guidance, recommendations and the awarding of graduate stipends and honors.

This examination is available to all registered graduate students who have not completed more than 15 semester hours of graduate credit and to juniors and seniors who plan to enter graduate work. It is a formal requirement for first year graduate students, now registered, who are or plan to become candidates for advanced degrees and those who hold graduate stipends.

The examination requires no preparation. It will take two half-days. Each student will receive a full report and explanation of his record. Each department will receive a profile of its registered students and a complete file will be kept in the offices of the dean of the graduate college and may be certified by the registrar to any institution to which the student may transfer.

The examination is free to graduate students now registered in the university and to any juniors or seniors who plan to enter this graduate college. All others must pay a nominal fee of $1.50 for the entire service.

Dr. Harry van Walt to Speak for 'Information First'

To Discuss Reconstruction

Believes Germans Preparing for Third World War

Dr. Harry P. van Walt, who speaks on "Your Part in Post-War Reconstruction" for Information First at 4 p. m. today, has been placed on Hitler's black list for the numerous lectures and books in which he has tried to warn the world of the Nazi doctrine which was to grow into world tragedy.

If plans for peace are to be effective, Dr. van Walt believes, the men who make that peace must know the German mentality and they must not make the mistake which was made in 1918.

If the peacemakers do underestimate the German mind, Dr. van Walt says, "the sons of the men now fighting our war abroad will be found fighting another one."

"The Germans are already preparing for the third world war," Dr. van Walt has told his audiences, "and there is ever increasing danger that a wave of emotion, inspired by the Germans themselves, may sweep the world."

The Dutch psychologist, traveler and commentator will be interviewed by Edna Herbst, A3 of Newton, at 3:15 p. m. today over WSUI. Ann Mercer, A4 of Iowa City, will introduce Dr. van Walt to the Information First audience this afternoon in the senate chamber.

A professional lecturer, Dr. van Walt is now speaking under the auspices of the National War fund. Hostesses for today's lecture will be Barbara Larmer, A4 of Muscatine; Peggy Wood, A2 of Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Irene Romanow, A2 of Gary, Ind.; Shirley Braucht, A4 of Joy, Ill.; Margaret Walk, A4 of Grafton, and Bernadine Mackoroksky, A3 of Kewanee, Ill.

Hostess chairman for the Information First series is Helen Kuttler, A3 of Davenport, Nancy Gilson, A2 of Kirkwood, Mo., and Phyllis Sharer, A2 of Montezuma, are members of the permanent hostess committee.

4 Additional Speakers Appointed for Quality Control Training Class

An increase in the enrollment to 81 persons from five states and the appointment of four more speakers were announced Wednesday for the University of Iowa's training course on quality control by statistical methods to be held from Oct. 11 to 19.

Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering said that 46 men have enrolled for the full course and 35 for a part of it. Additional registrants are expected. The course is tuition-free.

Edward M. Schrock, quality control engineer of the ordnance research and development center, Aberdeen, Md. proving ground; Russell Trombly, Hoover Ball and Bearing company, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Lieut. L. A. Davies, resident office supervisor, navy department, Chicago, and Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler of the university mathematics department are the four additional speakers.

4 Additional Speakers Appointed for Quality Control Training Class

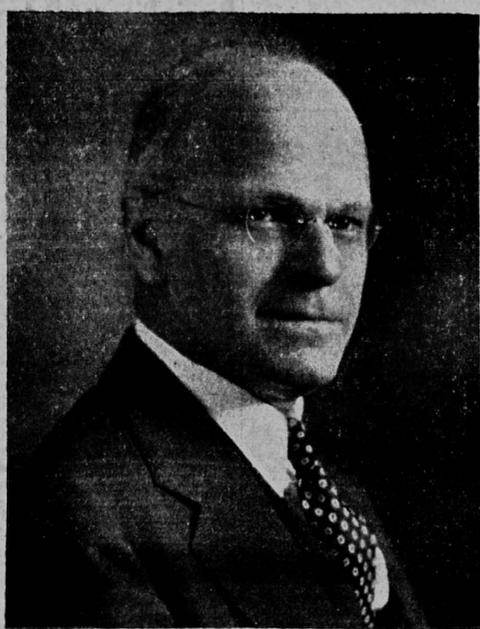

These speakers, along with Ralph Wareham of the General Electric company of Schenectady, N. Y. and Prof. Niles Barnard of the University of Nebraska, will appear before the executives' session Oct. 11. This session is for those persons who cannot attend the full course.

According to Dean Dawson, other representatives from industry will be engaged for other days of the course. He explained that scientific methods of statistical control are being used by such industries as aircraft, chemicals, clay products, drugs, glass, metal working, paper, plastics, radio equipment, rubber, small arms, surgical dressings, textiles and tools.

Prof. B. V. Crawford

B. V. Crawford, Next Baconian Lecturer, Reports Traveling 'Most Enjoyable Hobby'

By LOUISE JOHNSTON Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"Even when I was in high school I knew I wanted to teach English as my life's work," observed Prof. B. V. Crawford of the English department, who will give the fourth Baconian lecture tomorrow evening at 7:45 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

"I love to teach, and I've never seen the time when I wanted to do anything else in its stead," he declared.

Professor Crawford modified his last statement by saying, "Of course there was a short time when as a boy I wanted to be a railroad engineer, but it did not last. What did remain, was a passion for travel by rail."

Travel is Professor Crawford's most enjoyable hobby. He has traveled in England and Scotland as well as in virtually every state in the United States. Possessing a pictorial memory, he delights in remembering even slight turns in roads he has traveled. To him they are "as familiar as the corner of Iowa avenue." He has made the trip to New England many times and each time tried a different route. Several times he has gone by way of Canada.

"The more you travel the more you realize what a wonderful place Iowa is," Professor Crawford asserted. The professor is a Iowan through and through. Born in eastern Iowa, near Clinton, he remembers vividly the days when steamboats plied the Mississippi and is greatly interested in the fact that they are back on the river now.

Professor Crawford teaches a course in American novel which is broadcast over WSUI Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 11 a. m. and is enthusiastic about radio as a means of teaching. "These radio courses are good work for the university to be doing. Someday I believe universities will give credit for them, and I would like to see Iowa be the first," he commented.

"We have very little difficulty in the course I am teaching. I have a considerate class and one of the most quiet I have ever seen. After class gets underway I forget entirely about its being broadcast," he continued.

Letters from all over the state come to Professor Crawford from his listening audience. One woman wrote in and asked the lecturer if he would please have the girls in the front row refrain from coughing. A card from a woman in Cedar Rapids listed all of the mispronunciations of Professor Crawford's first name that she had heard over the air. His name, Bartholomew, is often taken for Bartholomew and other given names by studio announcers.

Professor Crawford is married and has two daughters. The older, Elizabeth, and the younger, Rachel Ann.

John Wansik, E4 of Hartford, Conn., has been elected president of the Associated Students of Engineering.

Other officers include Robert Sulentic, E4 of Waterloo, vice-president; Charles Thompson, E4 of Walnut, treasurer, and Merle Homan, E4 of Parkersburg, secretary.

At a meeting Tuesday, Oct. 10, sketches for the corn monument will be presented.

Skills Class To Meet Tonight

The first class in English for foreign students in speaking, reading and writing, in connection with the communication skills program, will be held tonight from 7 to 8 o'clock in room 10, Schaeffer hall.

Each night Monday through Thursday the group will convene in room 14 under the direction of Dr. Shultz-Behrend and Prof. Gladys Lynch of the speech department.

All interested students may register by attending the first meeting tonight.

Triangle Club Begins Activities With Picnic

The Triangle club will have as its first activity of the year a picnic supper Tuesday at 6:30. Mrs. L. C. Crawford, general chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Maurice L. Albertson, Mrs. M. E. Barnes, Mrs. Paul C. Benedict, Mrs. A. W. Bennett, Mrs. William D. Berg, Mrs. W. M. Fowler, Mrs. Earl E. Harper, Mrs. W. R. Kern, Mrs. C. J. Japp, Mrs. Arthur O. Luff, Mrs. H. H. McCarty, Mrs. Kirk H. Porter, Mrs. Erling Thoen, Mrs. L. A. Van Dyke, Mrs. E. D. Warner and Mrs. Eric C. Wilson. Leo Cortimiglia, university student, will present musical numbers after the supper.

Members recently recommended by the membership committee are Prof. Lawrence A. Ware, Prof. Stanley Wawzonek, Carl E. Noble, Richard W. Tyler, Robert O. R. Martin, C. Berkeley McIntosh, Prof. Willis E. Brown and Prof. John C. Gerber. Reinstated members are Alexander Kern and Prof. C. J. Posey.

Clare Jean Conrad, Dr. Robert Intress Wed in Double Ring Ceremony Saturday

In a double ring ceremony, Clare Jean Conrad, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Warren J. Conrad of Keokuk, became the bride of Dr. Robert H. Intress, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Intress of Eldon, at 4 p. m. Saturday in the Westminster Presbyterian church at Keokuk. The bride's father officiated before an altar decorated with candelabra and white gladioli and asters.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. George A. Frank presented an interlude of nuptial organ selections. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

Attendants

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Schenk of Iowa City. Best man was Dr. Richard Schenk of Iowa City. Flower girl was Margaret Ann Yates of Keokuk, and Robert McCoy, also of Keokuk, was ring-bearer. Ushers included Lieut. Warren P. Conrad, Apprentice Seaman James Conrad, C. F. McCoy, R. N. Hoerner, Loren Camp and W. J. Fulton, all of Keokuk.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Leo V. Patterson of Wytheville, Va., was attired in a floor-length gown of white satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a V-neckline edged with an inset of net appliqued with pearls, and bridal point sleeves. She wore a floor-length veil and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Conrad chose a black crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and blue delphinium. The bridegroom's mother also wore a black crepe dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place in the home of the bride's parents. The couple then left for a wedding trip to Duluth, Minn., and for traveling, Mrs. Intress selected a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Keokuk high school and the University of Iowa. Prior to her marriage she taught school in Aledo, Ill., and is now teaching in Duluth, Minn.

Dr. Intress, a graduate of Eldon high school and the University of Iowa, received his M.D. degree from the university in September. The couple is residing in Duluth, where Dr. Intress will intern at St. Luke's hospital.

MISS SHEETS TO MARRY

MR. AND MRS. George Marsh Sheets, 1711 Muscatine avenue, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jeanne Frances, to Aviation Cadet Sidney Lee McDonough of the army air corps, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. McDonough of St. Louis, Mo. The ceremony will be performed Monday at 4 p. m. in the Trinity Episcopal church by the Rev. Fred W. Putnam. Miss Sheets was graduated from Iowa City high school and is a senior at the University of Iowa, where she is affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta Delta social sorority. Cadet McDonough was graduated from the army pre-meteorology school here and has completed training at the pre-flight school in San Antonio, Tex., and the gunnery school at Tyndall field, Fla.

Rose Bampton To Be Here Oct. 24

Soprano Received All Her Training In United States

Rose Bampton, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who will sing here Oct. 24, was one of the first singers to break the old unwritten law that no singer could hope for operatic success without European training.

Miss Bampton, who was born in Cleveland and spent most of her early years in Buffalo, is a completely American product, having received all her early training in this country.

Artist in Five Fields

Now she is one of the world's artists in five fields of music—opera, concert, oratorio, recording and radio. She has been acclaimed on the foremost stages of four continents. In the days when Miss Bampton made her debut, such an achievement was considered strictly in the realm of the impossible.

The basis of Rose Bampton's American training was the five years she spent as a scholarship pupil at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music. Her first important public appearance was in the summer of 1929 with an engagement by the New York Chautauqua Opera association. Later, she was a soloist at the Worcester festival, which in turn brought her an engagement with the Philadelphia Grand Opera company.

Philadelphia Company

She sang leading roles with the Philadelphia company for three seasons. Leopold Stokowski engaged her to sing with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra on several all-Wagnerian programs.

By this time, Miss Bampton had become a personality in opera and concert and in the spring of 1932, Stokowski selected her to sing the part of the Wood Dove for the American premiere of Schoenberg's "Gurrelieder" in Philadelphia and New York. The latter brought Miss Bampton to the stage of the Metropolitan Opera house for the first time.

A few months later she made her Metropolitan debut in "La Gioconda." Today, Rose Bampton is a Metropolitan standby in all three of the great operatic cycles, Italian, French and German. She has also sung with the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra under the direction of Toscanini, the Philadelphia Symphony

Democrats To Hold Rally

A Johnson county Democratic rally will be held at the Community building tonight at 8 p. m. in compliance with the request of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who asked that counties everywhere plan meetings for this night.

Those attending the rally will hear, as the main feature of the program, the president's speech which will be broadcast over a national hook-up at 9 p. m. The USO has loaned its loud speaker system for the occasion.

Johnson county Democratic candidates will be presented at the rally tonight.

In the radio-mixer party scheduled to follow Roosevelt's broadcast, the snack bar, lounge, and other facilities of the Community building will be available to guests.

Special guests will be: Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jackson, Judge and Mrs. J. James Gaffney, Marengo, Senator and Mrs. LeRoy Mercer, Representative and Mrs. Jack Swamer, Attorney and Mrs. William Hayek, Dr. and Mrs. Love, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Beranek, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pechman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack White, Mr. and Mrs. Nielson Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Koser, Mr. and Mrs. Lumir Jansa, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sulek.

Presiding at this meeting, to which the public is invited, will be Attorney Hayek. Committees announced are: registration, Mrs. Lyman White and Mrs. Fitzgerald; check room, Leona Amelon; hostesses, Mrs. J. A. Meade, Mrs. Carl Neuzil, Mrs. L. C. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. C. L. Woodburn and Mrs. Tom Farrell.

In charge of refreshments are Mrs. Joe Crumley, Mrs. D. E. Murphy, Mrs. John Zeithamer, Mrs. Fay Myers, Miss Catherine Kalene, Mrs. Beatrice Landersith and Mrs. John Parizek.

Band Rehearsal

The university marching band will hold its rehearsal this afternoon at 4:10 in the south music hall instead of the field west of the armory because of muddy grounds, according to Prof. C. B. Righter, director.

PLANNED PROGRESS

Each progressive step of the ROCK ISLAND LINES is part and parcel of the Program of Planned Progress inaugurated in 1937. Under this program is a solid foundation of fine railroading tradition reaching back 92 years... to 1852 when the ROCK ISLAND LINES were established.

Only upon such a foundation could such a Program be built.

With fine modern equipment and 8,000 miles of well-maintained right-of-way stretching through 14 middle western states, the war found this railroad system ready. It was equal to the kind of a wartime job which is justifying America's patronage and admiration.

In 1944... still keeping ahead of its war job... ROCK ISLAND introduced a fleet of powerful, fast Diesel freight locomotives and a fleet of the latest type steam freight locomotives. Preliminary installations of radio communication between dispatcher, engineers and freight conductors were made. Centralized train control—the miracle of modern railroading—was proved and further developed.

ROCK ISLAND is continuing to move onward and upward... still planning. With the coming of peace, you will find ROCK ISLAND ready for that glorious era, too. As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND's sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS (AP)—One home run blast off the bat of George McQuinn which sailed over the right field stands gave the Browns, champions of the American league, a 2 to 1 victory over the Cardinals, kings of the National league, in the opening game of the first all-St. Louis World Series yesterday.

The blow, and a single by Gene Moore in the fourth inning, were the only hits off Mort Cooper, ace of the Cards' mound staff, and Blix Donnelly but they were enough to settle the issue as 32-year-old Denny Galehouse worked himself out of holes in the first three innings and then finally yielded a run in the ninth.

A crowd of 33,342 paying $149,268 and sitting in on perfect baseball weather after an early morning rain had threatened postponement of the first of the best four-out-of-seven series, saw the National leaguers hammer Galehouse for five hits in the first three innings, loading the bases with only one out in the third.

There was every evidence that it would be only a matter of time until the Redbirds crossed the plate but the Browns were the first to spike the home platter and once they had done so, Galehouse settled down and pitched hitless ball until the eighth frame.

With two out in the fourth, Moore lashed a single between first baseman Ray Sanders and second baseman Emil Verban. McQuinn, the next batter, picked out one of Cooper's fast pitches and sent the ball high over the right field stands. That was all for the Browns as Cooper blanked them through the next three frames before leaving the game for a pinch batter and turning the pitching chores over to Donnelly. Blix continued the white-washing through the final two innings.

Galehouse, a Sunday pitcher at the start of the season because of a war plant job in Akron, Ohio, and holder of an unimpressive season's record of nine victories and 10 defeats, seemed to gain confidence after McQuinn's blow had sent the Browns out in front. He set the Cards down in order in the fourth and fifth frames with the help of the only double play of the game in the fifth. He faced four men in each of the sixth and seventh innings, snuffing out a minor threat in the latter as Manager Billy Southworth sent in Augie Bergamo to bat for Emil Verban and Debs Garms for Mort Cooper.

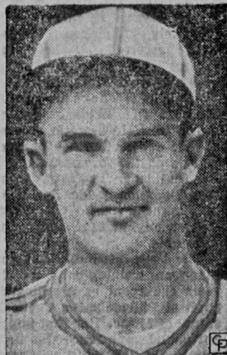

In the eighth he yielded a single to Whitey Kurovski and then finally gave up a run in the ninth as Slaty Marion drove the ball into centerfield for his second double. Marion moved up to third on Bergamo's infield out and scored after pinchbatter Ken O'Dea flied out to Mike Kreevich in center.

Mort Cooper and Blix Donnelly definitely had the better of the pitching argument as they turned in the ninth two-hitter in World Series history. It was the first time that a two-hit pitching job has ended in defeat. Cooper struck out four and gave three bases on balls while Donnelly added two more strikeout victims. Galehouse yielded seven hits, fanned five and walked four, one of them intentionally when the National leaguers loaded the bases in the third.

The Browns' victory made them co-favorites at 9 to 10 to take the series, the first all-St. Louis affair since the baseball classic was inaugurated in 1903. But the Cards were quoted as the 3 to 5 choice to take today's contest with Max Lanier, a southpaw, Billy Southworth's selection. Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns said he will start Nelson Potter, another veteran who racked up 19 victories as against seven defeats during the regular season.

Stan Musial, runner-up for the National league batting crown, made the first hit, a single through second with two out in the first inning but was left on base as Walker Cooper flied to center. In the second, with two down, Marion doubled along the left-field foul line. Verban lifted a single over second but Marion was held at third. Galehouse promptly ended the threat by fanning his pitching rival for the first of two times.

in the third. Johnny Hopp started the attack with a single to right. Ray Sanders drove the ball into right—a blow that seemed labeled for at least two bases but Moore knocked the ball down with a back-hand stab and made a quick throw to the infield. Hopp stopped at second. Musial laid down a sacrifice and Walker Cooper was passed intentionally to load the bases. Galehouse then fanned Whitey Kurovski, the husky Cardinal third baseman, who swung at a high fast pitch for the third strike. Dany Litwhiler, who left the game after seven innings to rest a sore knee, drove the ball at Mark Christman, who snuffed out the rally by stepping on third for the final out. That was the Cards' last big chance until the last inning.

Gloriously Happy— Browns Assured

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gloriously happy, the exultant St. Louis Browns yelled and screamed confidence in their ability to take their national league cousins, the Cardinals, in the World Series after defeating them 2 to 1 in the opener yesterday.

Their dressing room was steaming hot with the showers going full blast. The proud, grinning manager of the Browns, Luke Sewell, was supremely happy. So were his players.

They began yipping and yelling, with Milt Byrnes, an alternate left fielder, screaming:

"Just three more to go, boys. Just three more to go. We'll take 'em for sure."

Sewell laughed off the failure of the Brownies to get more than two hits.

"That's all right with me," he said with a smile. "We've got a lot of 'em coming to us. It isn't the hits that count in this game. It's the runs. We got them, didn't we?"

Sewell, stripping to his sandals and shorts, relaxed in a chair, and listened to the jabbering, happy players under the showers recalling every play of the game and enjoying it.

Sewell praised Denny Galehouse's pitching performance.

"It was a swell job, wasn't it?" he asked. "You can't beat that kind of a job. Hell, no."

"I'm starting Potter tomorrow. After that, I don't know. Tomorrow's the one we've got to take. One game at a time."

Zach Taylor, grizzled coach of the Browns, said he helped McQuinn propel the ball out of the park.

"When I saw that ball go," Taylor explained, "I grabbed a towel and began fanning it on the way up."

Galehouse, the victorious pitcher, said his control was perfect. When George (Whitey) Kurovski, the Cards' third baseman came up in the third with the bases loaded and only one out, Galehouse said he struck him out with a sizzling fast ball high over the outside corner after fooling Kurovski with curves.

There was no deep gloom in the Cardinal clubhouse. Manager Billy Southworth calmly drank a bottle of pop before fellow St. Louisian remarked "The Browns got pretty good mileage out of their two hits."

"We'll shoot Max Lanier at them tomorrow and we'll win this series," he said laconically. "The Cards have hit all season, against all kinds of pitching, and they will go right on hitting against the Browns. Power eventually will tell."

Morton Cooper, who lost the opener the same way he dropped the final game of the 1943 series to the Yanks 2-0, said he was "ready to go back in there tomorrow," if Southworth needed him.

"One pitch lost us the ball game—a high fast one to McQuinn," Cooper said, shaking his head. "I don't know how to win a ball game without any runs."

The other half of the brother battery, catcher Walker Cooper, was the cheerleader among the Cardinals, along with 40-year-old Pepper Martin.

"Don't give up the ship because of one lousy ball game," Cooper yelled. "Those Browns are still a Cinderella ball club, but it can't last forever."

Governor Bricker Cites Gutteridge as 'Smartest'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican vice presidential nominee who was a spectator at the opening of the World Series yesterday, said he thought Don Gutteridge, Browns second baseman, turned in the "smartest" play of the game.

Bricker's special train arrived in St. Louis "just by coincidence," he chuckled in time for him to see the game, which the Browns won, 2 to 1.

"It was a great ball game," exclaimed the governor, who was a catcher for the Ohio State team more than two decades ago.

Big Husky Fullback—

Wayne 'Bodgy' Lacina

Wayne Lacina

The big husky fellow with the number 26 on the back of his red and white uniform who has been leading the Little Hawk ground attack is Wayne "Bodgy" Lacina.

Fans shudder as big Wayne ducks his head and plows through tackle or smashes around end. Something generally gives when Bodgy hits the line and it's generally the opponents.

Bodgy is built as a backfield man should be with long legs and broad shoulders. Wayne stands an even 6 foot in his stocking feet and weighs 175 pounds soaking wet, which is rather light for a fullback.

Although this is Wayne's first year on the squad he has rapidly proved his worth as a human battering ram. Time and time again when the Hawklets needed a few yards for a first down, it was Lacina who plowed and smashed his way through for the necessary yardage.

Wayne went out for football when he was a freshman and sophomore but did not play any varsity ball. Last year, just when Bodgy thought he would get into action, he cut his hand on a saw so seriously that it kept him out of football for the rest of the season.

This year he is trying to cram two years of football into one, and he is doing a whale of a job of it.

From watching Bodgy hit the line you would think that football is his first love, but it isn't. He likes basketball best, and from the records it would appear that he is just as versatile in that sport as he is in football.

Wayne has played on the City high court squad for three years.

When he was a sophomore he played on the same team with Dave Danner and company. Wayne has high hopes of following in Danner's footsteps and to play basketball and football at Iowa. As Wayne is only 17 years old, he'll probably get the chance to go and show his wares for Slip Madigan and Pops Harrison.

Wayne hasn't decided definitely on a profession as yet, but he is taking the right steps. Wayne is working after school and evenings in The Daily Iowan shop stereotyping.

Burma Road Wins Handicap

NEW YORK (AP)—With a big pull in the weights, Mrs. Esther Dupont Weil's Burma Road won the coveted Grand National steeplechase handicap and a purse of $13,450 by a nose at Belmont park yesterday.

Rouge Dragon was second, eight lengths in front topweighted Elkridge, the favorite. The winner covered the long grind of about three miles in 5:54 1/5 and paid $14.50 for two.

The race left the jumping championship wide open. Had Elkridge, unbeaten in four previous starts, won under 167 pounds, he would have taken clear claim to the title. Rouge Dragon carried 164 and Burma Road 136.

Dinner Party won the H. D. "Jim" Monroe memorial handicap and a purse of $2,500 at Rockingham park yesterday by a neck over Dense Path. No Wrinkles was third. Dinner Party paid $7.60.

Hawklets Still Hold Conference Cellar

The City high Little Hawks are still sharing with five other teams, one of the "honored" spots in the basement of the Mississippi Valley conference.

At present there are four undefeated teams in the conference and on the other side of the ledger there are five teams that haven't won a conference game. The Hawklets are one of the latter.

Come Saturday, however, the Little Hawks have a fair chance of getting into the win column, as they tangle with the Dubuque Rams who are also resting in the cellar.

Cyclones Drill in Rain

AMES (AP)Iowa State college needed at least one football workout this week, and Coach Mike Michalske didn't let a pouring rain stop it last night. He held a scrimmage on a field that was soggy from four days of rain.

Michalske singled out civilian Dana Omer, backfield man from Spirit Lake as the best freshman football prospect Iowa State has ever had.

Bernie Bierman Returns to Minnesota In Advisory Capacity to Gopher Eleven

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman, head football coach on leave from the university for duty with the marine corps will leave the service Oct. 15 and return to the school as coach "in an advisory capacity," he informed W. C. Coffey, university president yesterday.

Bierman informed Coffey he does not desire to go in as head coach as that would interfere with work already done by Dr. George Hauser with this year's team, but will "do all I can in an advisory capacity" to help.

Bierman is one of many officers being detached on an age basis when their seniority calls for promotion beyond a rank suited to the work they are doing. Bierman has been assigned to the marine physical training program and was head coach of the Iowa City pre-flight school in 1942. He was with the marines in the last war also.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Ed McKeever readjusted his Notre Dame backfield again yesterday, looked over the result with satisfaction and announced he probably would start yesterday's combination against Tulane Saturday. Nobody was surprised when it turned out to be the same foursome which opened at Pittsburgh last week.

Yesterday's workout consisted of a long defensive drill against Tulane plays and a heavy scrimmage for the linemen.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Showing great respect for the broken field running ability of Illinois' Eddie Bray, Buddy Young and Paul Patterson, Coach Cecil Isbell emphasized placement of punts away from receivers as his Purdue Boilermakers began tapering off yesterday for Saturday's Big Ten clash with the Illini.

End Frank Bauman and half-back Chalmers (Bumps) Elliott handled most of the booting. Purdue will leave for Champaign tomorrow night after light sessions today and tomorrow.

Bloomington, Ind. (AP)—Indiana university's football team drilled briefly yesterday in preparation for the next game with Nebraska Oct. 14. Mike Modak and Bob Meyer worked at quarterback and were being groomed as relief men for the veteran John Canaday. Modak showed no effects of the shoulder injury he suffered in the Michigan game last week. Assistant Coaches Paul Harrell and John Kovatch directed the practice.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Coach Ray Eliot ran his Illini gridiron through a light workout yesterday in preparation for the Purdue game here Saturday. The second team ran Boilermaker plays against the varsity.

Movies of the Illinois-Great Lakes game showed great blocking done by Bill Heiss of Aurora, new fullback candidate who will probably start against Purdue.

Seahawks Drill On Pass Defenses

Botting up the passing and running attack of Glenn Dobbs and Ray Evans, the big guns in the Superbomber air and land attack, will be the tough assignment the Seahawks face when they clash with the strong Second Airforce eleven in Lincoln, Neb., Saturday.

Dobbs, an All-American who played for Tulsa, rates as a passing threat which the Seahawks will have to stop. Last week against Colorado the Superbomber ace heaved 12 out of 12 into the mitts of his teammates, as the army eleven rolled up a 33-6 victory.

Chief threat on the ground is Evans, who until now has had little trouble smashing through the line. Led by these two stars the Second Airforce team is one of the best service units in the country and may upset the Seahawks' two year record as being the outstanding team in the service circuit.

Practice this week has found the Seahawks scrimmaging both new offensive plays to be used against the Superbombers and defensive plays worked out to stall the Airforce offensive attack.

Lieut. Daxie Moore, who scouted the Superbombers, declared them to have the greatest collection of material he has ever seen, a team not to be taken lightly by any means.

Maryland Futurity

Peteec Dee won the $5,000 added Maryland futurity yesterday at Laurel, by a nose over Gallorette with Sheltie third. The winner paid $17.40.

Masterson, Stewart Uncertain of Trip

With but one more practice remaining before his team leaves for its initial set-to with Ohio State, Coach Slip Madigan is holding a tuning fork to his ear. And, due to the off-key melody which has been played for the past week, Slip is listening to a very sour note. Today he received some more black-robed tidings.

Forrest Masterson, veteran and prospective center, and first-string quarterback Johnny Stewart may not be able to leave with the rest of their cohorts on Friday morning when the safari to Columbus gets underway.

It has been deemed advisable that Masterson, a civilian dental student, should not miss any of his classes. This means that the earliest time for his departure would be Friday night. Stewart, a naval dental trainee, is under the navy's 48-hour rule and it would be necessary for him to go at the same time. He had not yet received his pass last night.

38 Take Flying Lessons In Iowa City

Potential pilots at Iowa City municipal airport include everyone from chiropractor to garage mechanic, bookkeeper to bugler, teacher to college student. Thirty-eight persons now are taking flying lessons according to Paul B. Shaw, manager of Shaw Aircraft company.

Twenty-one of the flying students are enrolled in the university. Two instructors, supervised by Chief Pilot Shaw, are responsible for instructing flying students. They are John De Googh and Henry Schum.

The following Iowa Citizens now are taking regular flying lessons: Lowell Wenk, Eldon Miller, Dr. S. A. Neuman, Paul Chapman, Ted Conner, Bert Hoeltz and Haren Moore.

Seventeen university students are taking flying lessons, nine of whom are women. They are Martha Richardson, Laurette Niekamp, Paul Kennedy Jr., Lloyd Herwig, Charles Hindt, Bruce Patterson, Marilyn Carpenter, Donald Dysart, Sally Friedman, William Ludwig Jr., Jane Cretzmeier, Ellen Sangster, Benna Bartells, Janet Wilson, Russell Brown, Dorothy

Red Cross Nursing Class to Open

A Red Cross home nursing class will be organized next week, according to Mrs. I. A. Rankin, chairman of home nursing in Johnson county.

Care of the sick, how to avoid sickness and maintaining a healthy home will be included in the program.

The course will be covered in 12 two-hour sessions and the time will be arranged to suit the greatest number of persons.

Committee women are Mrs. I. A. Rankin, Mrs. E. D. Plass and Mrs. Ellis Crawford.

McGinnis, Juanita Wecksung and Darrell E. Newell.

Two persons in the armed services and stationed here are learning to fly during time off. They are John L. Johnson in the ASTP and Robert Haynes, bugler at the navy pre-flight school.

Out of town flying students include Charles Worrell, Russell Pederson and Alice Kintz all of the Ford garage at West Branch.

Two school teachers training for pilot's licenses are Joyce Holden and Erna Roberts.

Other out-of-town student flyers are Clem DeMuller, a farmer from Brooklyn; Doug Meyers and Worth Johnson, students from Marengo; Bruce Young, a student from North Liberty; Mr. Wilkey of West Liberty, and Richard Allen of Carbondale, Ill.

RUSSIANS DANCE FOR FFI GROUP

TWO RUSSIAN SOLDIERS, who had been forced by the Nazis to fight with the German Army, celebrate their escape by staging one of their native dances for members of the French Forces of the Interior at Belfort, France. The Russians slew 40 Nazi officers and non-coms and fled to the French side.

Club Secretary Fined $100

Vernon Stutzman, secretary of the Central Labor Union club, was fined $100 yesterday in police court for violation of a city ordinance prohibiting gambling on class B club permit premises. The county attorney will file state charges this week.

In a Monday night raid on the club, at 202 1/2 S. Dubuque street, police found 34 bottles of whiskey and rum, six slot machines and a number of baseball numbers.

George A. Deal Rites Saturday

Funeral services for George A. Deal, who died Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. in a local hospital, will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock in the chapel of the Oathout funeral home.

Mr. Deal, 1208 E. Burlington street, was born in Holmes county, Ohio, May 29, 1860, and lived in Johnson county since he was four years of age.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Nettie Burgess of Washington, D. C.; six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. His son, and wife preceded him in death.

He is a member of the Nazarene church. The Rev. Paul Somerville will conduct services Saturday and burial will be in Windham cemetery.

E. S. director and Charles Fiesler, chairman of the county selective service board will conduct the meeting.

The veteran information center will be used for directing veterans to proper sources of information on such subjects as insurance, employment, education and other matters which servicemen will want to know in relationship to their adjustments after they leave the armed forces.

Capt. Glenn Bowen Fights With 'Rainbow' Division in Italy

Fighting overseas for two and one-half years, Capt. Glenn R. Bowen, graduate of the University of Iowa and a resident of Iowa City, has participated in African and Italian campaigns with the famous "Rainbow" regiment. The regiment, part of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army, has been in actual combat more than 300 days and has been on the Gothic line in Italy almost constantly since landing at Paestum Sept. 21, 1943, 12 days after continental Europe was invaded for the first time.

The "Rainbow" regiment, the 168th, was part of the 42nd "Rainbow" division in World War I. The 168th landed at Algiers, northern Algeria, African D-day. Its second battalion led the attack and is officially credited with its capture.

Casualties Amounting to 168
Its first great battle in this campaign began Oct. 13, 1943, when its men crossed the Voltorno and took Caiazzo and two other towns. Ironically, the 168th suffered exactly 168 casualties in the second crossing of the Voltorno.

Often meeting foes of the past, including the Hermann Goering division and SS troops, the 168th was the first regiment of the Fifth army units to penetrate the Gustav line. Captain Bowen, with the regiment, debarked on the beachhead around Anzio. The commander, Col. Henry C. Hine, won the Silver Star for gallantry in action for having personally led the bitter hand-to-hand fight in which the 168th removed one of the last major obstacles before Rome.

Distinguished Division
A count taken in early September, 1944, showed men of the 168th had received eight Distinguished Service Crosses, 147 Silver Stars, 190 Bronze Stars and four Soldier's Medals and had, in the Italian campaign alone, received 3,024 Purple Hearts and clusters.

Captain Bowen received a law degree from the University of Iowa in 1939. In July, 1941, he reported to Ft. Lewis, Wash., to begin training for overseas duty, and he left with his regiment in October, 1942. Before entering service Captain Bowen served as police judge in the Iowa City court.

FIREMEN? GUESS AGAIN! RED CROSS WORKERS

TWO YEARS' EXPERIENCE make Iowa City firemen, W. A. Vorbrick, Ray Morgan and Adrian Rittenmeyer, masters of waterproofing Red Cross bandage shipments. This week firemen are packing 64,000 bandages which have been folded and prepared by volunteer workers. Luckily the first house is on the floor beneath the City hall court room where dressings are packed. Bandages are in for a water dacking before they reach wounded servicemen overseas. Sealed in waterproof bags, dressings are packed in cardboard boxes and sealed again with plastic waterproof tape. The double weather proofing is so effective that ships dump their white cargo overboard near port and let it float in, with no damage to bandages. If warehouse space is taken, the boxes are exposed to all types of weather with no harmful results.

Post-War Control of Germany Discussed By Prof. Kurt Schaefer in Lions Club Talk

"Germany will remain a sore spot in the international economic situation," stated Prof. Kurt Schaefer of the college of commerce when he spoke to Lions club yesterday noon at Reich's cafe. He discussed post-war control of Germany with reference to the Morgenthau plan and plans set forth by Sumner Welles in "Time for Decision."

The Morgenthau plan advocates the division of Germany and permanent destruction of industry to convert Germany to a purely agricultural country. Welles favors a temporary occupational division.

The major industries are in the west, according to Professor Schaefer, and the eastern part is mostly an agricultural region. In the south there is the industry of the Rhine valley. He raised the question of what will be done with the population of eastern Prussia and part of Silesia is taken away.

At present the population in Germany is 382 persons per square mile. With the post-war population influx from Czechoslovakia into the Reich, Professor Schaefer estimated that there will be 530 persons per square mile. This is a startling contrast to the United States' average of 45.

If Germany were changed to a completely agricultural nation, a million persons would leave the country or die, Professor Schaefer commented. In past years their agricultural program has been subsidized and they have had heavy protection. Without this protection which enabled farmers to operate, there arises the question of how the population would be fed.

Most of the land is owned by peasants, according to Professor Schaefer. Of the three million farms in Germany, 8,500 of them are less than five acres. A large percentage of these lands are forests.

Professor Schaefer stated that the criteria of the problem is not the harshness with which we should treat Germany, but what we should do to Germany in the interests of international peace. There exists an inability to obtain an agreement between Russia, England and the United States. Russia with German resources would be strong enough to defeat the western powers. Conversely, if Russia and the western powers share Germany Russia "won't take it."

Methodist Program Will Feature Poet

Lois Grant Palches, author of "Chiaroscuro" and "Makeup," will present a program of her poetry and dramatic readings at the Methodist church at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

"Chiaroscuro" is serious verse and humor. Both of these books are in the third printing.

In addition she has written for leading magazines and newspapers, including "Good Housekeeping," "Voguecraft," "The Detroit News," "Driftwind," "The Rotarian," "Yankee," "The Span," "Rob Wagner's Script," "The Providence Journal," "The Writer," "The Peace Digest" and "Zion's Herald."

Mrs. Palches, who appears under the management of the Open Forum Speakers bureau of Boston, Mass., recently completed appearances at New England clubs.

The Boston Author's club, Rhode Island Woman's club, New England Conference of State Federations, Wellesley Institute of Social Progress, St. Mark's church (New York), and the Boston University of Theology are among those places at which she recently has spoken.

Mrs. Palches is a graduate of Cornell college, and will present her program there during the week. She will be the house guest of the Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Dunnington while in Iowa City.

Sunday's program which is sponsored by the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church, is open to the public.

Photographer to Give Lecture on Amana

Thomas Cox of Des Moines will present an illustrated lecture, Tuesday, Oct. 17 at 7:45 in studio E of the Engineering building for the members of the Iowa Mountaineers and the public.

For 18 consecutive weekends, Cox traveled from Des Moines to Amana to film these pictures. The 3,000 feet of colored film is a complete illustration of the colonists of Amana.

Sergt. M. J. Gerber Marries British Girl In Ceremony Abroad

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mary Lemon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lemon of Moston, Manchester, England, to Technical Sergeant Martin J. Gerber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gerber, 431 N. Van Buren street. The ceremony was performed Sept. 9 at 3 p. m. in St. Dunstan's church in Moston, by the Rev. Father Hershey officiating.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Sergt. Robert Prenderville of New York City.

The bride was attired in a gown of white tulle, designed princess style. Her fingertip-length veil was held in place with an orange blossom headpiece, and her only jewelry was a gold cross and chain, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried an ivory prayer book.

A reception for friends and relatives was held after the ceremony in the Conservative club in Moston, and later the couple left on a wedding trip in England.

The bride is now employed in a war plant under direction of the air ministry.

Sergeant Gerber was graduated from St. Mary's high school and attended the University of Iowa before entering the service with the local national guard unit in 1941. He has been stationed in England since January, 1942, with the chemical war service dispensary.

Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Eaton

Edith Bowe, Lieut. Robert Eaton Wed In Trinity Episcopal Church Wednesday

Before an altar banked with palms, gladioli and lighted candles, Edith Bowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bowe of Davenport, became the bride of Lieut. Robert C. Eaton, son of Mrs. O. C. Eaton, 1 1/2 S. Dubuque street, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Trinity Episcopal church. The Rev. Fred W. Putnam read the vows of the single ring ceremony.

Preceding the service, Richard Crowder presented an organ recital including "The Lord's Prayer" and "Meditation." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Carol Simpson of Clinton. Donald M. Phillips, student in the college of dentistry, served as best man. Ushers were Dr. Richard A. Young of Des Moines, and Lieut. (j. g.) Charles E. Gray of Iowa City.

Floor-Length Gown
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white nylon, fashioned with a high neckline edged with seed pearls, bridal point sleeves, and a full skirt which extended into a junior train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a Dutch cap of lace, and her bridal bouquet was a white orchid.

The matron of honor selected a floor-length gown of yellow net, designed with a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves, and a full skirt. She wore a shoulder-length veil and carried white and yellow pompons.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Eaton chose a navy blue dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress, complemented with black accessories. Each had a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Three-Tiered Cake
Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in Hotel Jefferson. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by mixed flowers. Hostesses were Arline Smith, Amie Yeakel and Lorain Bell, students in the school of nursing.

The couple left on a short wedding trip, and for traveling the bride wore a green gabardine suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride was graduated from Chariton high school and the University of Iowa school of nursing.

Testing Mica Sheets

Mica's special insulating qualities are mighty important in communications equipment. No equivalent exists, so war's huge demands caused a critical shortage.

Bell Telephone Laboratories' scientists were assigned the task of somehow finding more mica. They found it — in the very considerable amounts of raw mica which visual inspection had rejected. By developing electrical apparatus to test the two most important electrical properties, they increased the usable amount of mica by half and so stretched current supplies of mica to fill all military needs.

In many such ways the Bell System is serving the nation, constantly meeting the needs of our fighting forces for dependable communications.
