ITALIAN TOWN A RUBBLE HEAP AFTER NAZIS QUIT IT

AMERICAN ARMY medical corpsmen ride through what was a street in Loiana, Italy, after Germans are driven out of the town. Ruins show fierceness of the battle.

Yanks Take Two Leyte Airfields, Advance One Mile in Germany

Extend Front Toward Duren

Canadians Move To Clear Schelde Estuary

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—American troops struck swiftly last night following the unconditional surrender of Aachen, pushing approximately one mile eastward toward Duren, 24 miles away, from their positions in the Wurselen area four miles north of Aachen.

Thunderbolt fighter-bombers ranged ahead of the American attack, showering leaflets and explosives on towns along the highway that leads from Aachen through Duren to Cologne, 40 miles away.

To the northwest the Canadian First army, with British aid, advanced nine miles in the Dutch-Belgian border region in a drive to clear the Schelde estuary so the allies can use the great port of Antwerp.

American troops near the German border in the Netherlands advanced within 4,000 yards of an unidentified hub near the Meuse river, and th British consolidated their positions southeast of Venray in secondary actions in this important sector.

Elsewhere no significant progress was reported in the badly sodden front. Direct air support was cut by rain to a minimum.

The final surrender of Aachen, first large German city to fall into allied hands, was made by 800 Germans who violated Adolf Hitler's "fight-to-the-death" orders after being hammered into traps from which there was no escape from Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' saveagely attacking First army doughboys.

It was the first formal surrender of German arms on German soil in modern history. Last night the German homefolks still had not been told of it by their propaganda ministry.

Unofficial estimates of the bag of prisoners ranged upward to 10,000 since the Americans issued their unconditional surrender ultimatum to Aachen ten days ago. American casualties during the subsequent all-out asault and house-to-house rooting out of the stubborn Nazis were declared officially to be relatively light.

The German colonel, a professional soldier named Wilck, made a theatrical show of his capitulation, marching his men out in perfect order in their best uniforms and with highly polished boots.

Reds, Romanians Plunge Across Tisza, Cut Nazis' Escape

Russians Reach Goldap-Gumbinnen Road in East Prussia

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—Powerful Russian and Romanian columns plunged across Hungary's vital Tisza river defense line within 50 miles southeast of imperilled Budapest yesterday, and also cut Nazi escape lines by reaching the Danube 87 miles south of the Hungarian capital in an outflanking drive aimed at crossing into the western half of the tottering axis satellite nation.

Reach Highway

Berlin in a broadcast late last night meanwhile said the Russians had broken through to the Goldap-Gumbinnen highway, from 10 to 18 miles inside German East Prussia, and that the battles on that front "surpassed anything previously seen on the eastern front."

Axis radio commentators had said earlier that the Russians were at least 15 miles inside East Prussia, and had expanded their attacking front to 100 miles on the eastern and northeastern sides of East Prussia.

Tank-tipped Soviet spearheads were within 25 miles of Insterburg, rail and road junction only 50 miles east of Konigsberg, the capital. By hurling in fresh troops the Red army forced the Germans to retreat to unspecified "fortified positions" farther inside Germany, said one broadcast by Col. Ernst von Hammer.

Moscow Silent

Moscow, in telling of the race across Hungary's plains toward Budapest, still was silent on the five-day-old drive on East Prussia, but an Associated Press correspondent in the capital said that "When the news finally is released it is expected to be sensational."

A midnight Soviet bulletin said the Russians crossed the Tisza river by night, repulsing all German attempts to stop them, and broke into Csongrad, where an entire enemy regiment was wiped out.

Confirm Fall Of Tacloban

MacArthur Asserts Japs Show Signs Of Disorganization

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Sunday (AP)—American invasion forces on Leyte in the central Philippines, penetrating four miles inland along an 18 mile front, have captured two airfields, the capital city of Tacloban, the town of Dulag and won control of a strait leading to inland seas of the archipelago, headquarters announced today.

The airfields, first to fall into Yank hands as potential bases from which army planes can expand the air coverage now provided by carrier aircraft, were overrun near Tacloban and Dulag.

Today's communique, issued on the third day of invasion, suggested that the constant air and naval fire of the Americans plus the steady flow of reinforcements, are turning the estimated 20,000 Japanese on Leyte into bewildered, disorganized groups.

"The enemy is already showing signs of a lack of maneuverable cohesion in the face of the skillful attacks of our local commanders," said MacArthur of a foe he particularly wanted to get at because they were the Nipponese who tortured the Americans and Filipinos at Bataan.

As success on success was scored by the largest invasion army yet massed in the Pacific ocean areas, Gen. Douglas MacArthur solemnly warned the Japanese government and military leaders they would be held accountable for the tortures at Bataan in 1942 and for any repetitions against either soldiers or civilians.

The First cavalry division which overran Tacloban airfield the first day of fighting surged into Tacloban itself last night. The capture of Tacloban gave the Americans control of San Juanico strait between Leyte and the island of Samar.

Because of effective attacks by carrier planes of the Seventh fleet on enemy airfields in the Visayan and Palawan islands, the Japanese air efforts against shipping in Pedro bay were restricted to sporadic sneak attacks.

FDR Calls for Post-War 'Power'

Wants Delegated 'Authority to Act'

'We Work With Other Great Nations . . . Or Fight Them'

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—President Roosevelt called last night for a world organization with power to compel peace—by force, if necessary—and declared that America's representative in such an organization must be given congressional "authority to act."

"Put this proposition any way you will," he asserted, "it is bound to come out the same way; we either work with the other great nations, or we might some day have to fight them."

Winding up a day of campaigning in rain through New York crowds, the president spoke to the Foreign Policy association at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. His address was broadcast nationally.

The flags of united nations at his back, Roosevelt surveyed some 2,000 diners overflowing balconies and foyers and said:

"The people of the nation want their government to act, and not merely to talk, whenever and wherever there is a threat to world peace."

He backed the activities of his administration in the field of foreign affars and hammered at Republican criticism of them and at what he termed GOP "isolationists".

Tossing his head in emphasis, occasionally chortling when he referred to his Republican opposition, Roosevelt made several ad lib interpolations in his speech.

Applause interrupted the address 44 times, and it ran beyond the 45 minutes purchased for it on the radio by the Democratic national committee.

Regarding the administration's foreign policy, Roosevelt pledged post-war Germany would be shorn of every "single element of military power—or of potential military power" and "stern punishment" for war leaders responsible for the "agony of mankind."

He asserted, also that the administration had no unconstitutional secret commitments in foreign relations.

Triumvirate Assumes Control in Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Crowds in Guatemala's capital sacked the homes of former President Jorge Ubico and former chief of secret police Jose Bernabe Linares, as unrest continued yesterday after a 12-hour revolution in which more than 1,000 persons were wounded and the government of acting President Gen. Frederico Ponce overthrown.

The number slain was not immediately known.

Control of the government was in the hands of a triumvirate of two young officers and a civilian, leaders of youthful officers and university students who precipitated the revolution. There was no indication of a counter-revolutionary attempt.

Former President Ubico, who had been accused of continuing control of Guatemala through his successor, General Ponce, was reported already out of the country, en route to New Orleans.

Wallace Predicts Cut In Farm Income With GOP Victory

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Vice-President Wallace declared last night that farmers can expect their income to be cut in half "within a few years if a Republican administration is elected.

Wallace said in a prepared campaign speech that after the last war farm prices plummeted downward during the administration of President Harding because a Republican congress refused to provide price supports or stabilizing controls.

"I do not say that farm prices this time will fall as fast as in 1920 should Dewey be elected," Wallace added, "but I do predict that under a Republican administration the net farm income will be cut in half within a few years.

The vice-president accused Republicans in congress of consistently opposing farm aid legislation, and asserted the GOP "has worked unceasingly for two generations to split labor and agriculture."

Eighth Army Drives Into Eastern Po In Two Directions

ROME (AP) — Eighth army troops advanced into the eastern Po valley in two directions yesterday, capturing the coastal town of Cesenatico 18 miles below Ravenna in a drive up the Adriatic coast and making what was described as "considerable progress" northwestward along the Rimini-Bologna highway.

The Savio river was reached on a four-mile front north of occupied Cesena, the highway junction 12 miles southeast of Forli and 50 miles southeast of Bologna.

British troops who drove into Cesena from the south ousted the Germans in street-to-street fighting, and only the western outskirts of the old fortress city remained to be cleared.

Himmler Reported Killed

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—The Sunday Chronicle, in a dispatch from its correspondent at Bucharest, Archibald Gibson, said today Heinrich Himmler, Nazi Gestapo chief, had been "reported" assassinated which driving through the streets of Budapest. The report lacked confirmation from any other source.

Servicemen Storm Strike-Bound Plant

Disperse Union Pickets At North-American In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A group of servicemen, aroused by a work stoppage which paralyzed the huge North American aviation company's bomber plant, stormed the plant entrances yesterday dispersing pickets and tearing up union placards.

Only a skeleton force of pickets was on duty because of the usual Saturday afternoon holiday. All but one left when the soldiers and sailors, who assembled earlier in downtown Kansas City, appeared.

Military police patrolled the street in jeeps but did not interfere.

No one was injured.

Earlier, the regional war labor board announced it had taken jurisdiction over the work stoppage which began Thursday when about 2,000 employes of the company's modification plant left their jobs after complaining that lessening of activity was causing transfer of some employes to the main plant. The employes said classifications and wage scales were lower at the main plant.

Chicago Tribune Calls 1943 Court Ruling Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chicago Tribune told the supreme court yesterday that a New York court's ruling that The Associated Press must change its membership by-laws violates the first amendment to the constitution prohibiting abridgement of freedom of the press.

In a brief filed in appeal from the lower court's ruling, the Tribune and Col. Robert R. McCormick, its publisher, said that by the effect of the ruling "The free press has been ordered what to publish and directed to whom to publish it."

The appeal is directed against a 2 to 1 decision by a special three-judge federal court of the southern district of New York in October of last year.

Navy Landing Craft Explosion Kills Five, Injures Over 100

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The navy anonunced last night that at least five men were killed and more than 100 injured, some critically, when a landing vessel was shattered yesterday by an explosion which set fire to three similar craft and spread to a dock.

Two hours after the blast, which occurred at Los Angeles harbor, the fire was still being battled by city firemen and coast guard and naval equipment.

Illinois Congressman Attacks 'Secrecy'

OMAHA (AP) — Congressman Everett M. Dirksen (R.-Ill.) declared here last night the New Deal is guilty of secrecy in international affairs "both at home and in London" of "consistently smearing congress" and of "setting up a sprawling bureaucracy with a monthly payroll of $650,000,000 for 3,200,000 persons."

"It is with full design that this administration seeks to impair the political integrity of the states through centralization of all government in the nations capitol,'" Dirksen said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Omaha Municipal auditorium.

Dirksen said "The secrecy in which the Roosevelt administration has conducted wartime international diplomacy" was "glaringly foreshadowed by the secrecy which still surrounds the story of Pearl Harbor, nearly three years old.

Death Toll in Ohio Blast Mounts to 83

Seven Investigations Fail to Reveal Cause of Fire

CLEVELAND (AP) — As the death toll in Cleveland's greatest fire soared to at least 83 last night, the cause of mysterious blasts which converted the East Ohio Gas company's liquid gas tanks into giant lethal flame throwers apparently was locked in smouldering ruins.

The number of fatalities mounted sharply from a late-day total of 72 as police reported finding eight bodies in one small structure near the plant and others beneath a nearby fallen wall.

Probing the disaster are the federal bureau of investigation, army and navy intelligence, police and fire officials, the gas company and Coroner Samuel R. Gerber.

Fire Chief James E. Granger said insurance adjusters had set the combined estimate of property damage, including plant properties, business establishments and homes, at $15,000,000.

The holocaust destroyed or damaged approximately 250 residences and an estimated 3,600 persons were made homeless.

Dewey Maps Final Mid-West Drive

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Obviously happy over the reception he received in Democratic Pittsburgh, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey spent a rainy Saturday completing plans for his final campaign push through the midwest.

The Republican presidential nominee, who leaves Monday on a swing through Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago, is expected to devote the closing week of his campaign to the east coast.

The executive mansion was tuned in for last night's broadcast by President Roosevelt before the Foreign Policy association in New York City.

Mrs. Willkie Requests End Of Conjecture

RUSHVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie made a fervent appeal yesterday that all conjecture be ended as to whether her husband would have supported the presidential candidacy of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York or President Roosevelt at the coming election.

Willkie, who was once a Democrat, received more votes than any other Republican nominee in history when he was the 1940 presidential standard bearer. Since his death Oct. 8, there has been much speculation as to the possible effect on the coming election if Willkie had formally announced his support for either presidential candidate.

"I am distressed," Mrs. Willkie said in a formal statement, "because many people are saying that they knew how Wendell Willkie intended to vote in the coming election.

"I am sure he had not made his decision.

"No one could speak for him while he was living; and I ask, out of respect for his memory, that no one should attempt to speak for him now."

Pearl Harbor 'Secret' Report Stirs Heated Political Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "secret" label attached to a navy court's report on Pearl Harbor added new heat last night to the political controversy over the disaster with Representative Maas (R.-Minn.) contending this was an "alibi for not giving it to the public."

Chairman Reynolds (D.-N.C.) of the senate military committee, a frequent critic of the administration, told reporters he saw no reason why it should be secret.

"There are too many secrets," Reynolds said. "It looks to me like it's time for the American people to know how Pearl Harbor happened. The Japanese certainly know and the only reason for keeping anything secret is to keep it from the enemy.

Representative Cole (R.-N. Y.) a member of the house naval affairs committee, commented that he did not see how it could have major security importance now unless there was information in it which would shake the morale of navy men and their confidence in their leaders.

Governor Warren Ill

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. J. B. Harris reported yesterday that Gov. Earl Warren, who has been ill with inflenza, had developed a kidney infection. Dr. Harris called in a specialist for consultation.

Dr. Harris said the governor's temperature was normal, but the influenza attack had weakened him, making him susceptible to the kidney infection. No other complications have developed, Dr. Harris said.

Bricker Says Credit For Social Legislation Due Neither Party

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Neither the Democratic nor the Republican party, Gov. John W. Bricker declared last night, can claim "exclusive credit" for the progress of social legislation.

Rather, the Republican candidate for vice-president said, the credit is due to "the faith and the charity of the American people."

"The New Deal," he added in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff, "would have us believe that until it came to power, no interest was ever shoyn in social legislation or the welfare of the common man."

The Ohio governor said:

"The New Deal cannot rightfully claim exclusive guardianship of the nation's social conscience. Recognition of social justice and humane consideration for the oppressed, the sick, the poor and the aged is an historical characteristic of the American people."

Lindbergh Flies In Pacific Combat, Downs Jap Plane

PASSAIC, N. J. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, New York to Paris solo-flight pioneer, flew on combat missions during his recent trip to the Pacific, the Passaic Herald-News said in a copyrighted article yesterday, and was also credited unofficially with the destruction of a Japanese plane.

Lindbergh's assignment by the war and navy departments as a civilian expert necessitated his presence at front bases, and on fighter planes which often ran into enemy action, the newspaper said.

16,774 Homecoming Emblems Sold—

Alpha Chi Omega Wins Badge Contest

By GLORIA WEISER
Daily Iowan Campus Editor

With a team full of vigor, a day full of the brightest Iowa sun and the band and plaid-clad Highlanders depicting the Iowa spirit, 17,000 fans were evidence of the success of the 33rd Homecoming at SUI.

A depleted corn monument built by men in the college of engineering and designed by Robert McMahon of Iowa City was the only significant mark of the defeat of the Hawkeyes by Purdue's Boilermakers.

Iowa City's streets were crowded with alumni returning to old friends, old stories of old days at Old Gold. Mum sales of the Y. W. C. A. were overwhelming and all orders were filled.

Burlington street and Iowa avenue bridges, fortunately toll-free, were populated from noon to 2 oclock when the starting gun was fired.

In the stadium surrounded by a scene that might easily have been painted on an easel, fans from Iowa and Purdue separated to their respective sides to cheer the gold and white and black and gold.

National Anthem

Press boxes were alive with radio commentators, newspaper reporters and news photographers. The national anthem and flag raising opened the afternoon fanfare and the band directed by Prof. C. B. Righter and the Highlanders under the direction of Major W. L. Adamson made their first game appearance with coordination and color showing much pre-game rehearsal.

Band and Highlanders made a feature appearance at the half. Under Director Righter the band formed an "I," a heart, club, diamond and spade with band members responding instantaneously to instruction as they played marching songs and the Iowa Fight song. A final "HAIL" was spelled out to Purdue stands before the formation dispersed.

Badge Sales

Homecoming this year, as in every other year, was financed by the sorority houses on campus selling Homecoming badges. This year the 16,774 badges were sold during the five-day sale on Iowa City streets. The final results showed Alpha Chi Omega leading with a total of 6,030 badges sold.

This was an increase over last year's winning house, Alpha Xi Delta, who won with 5,017 badges sold. Other winners of this year's contest were Kappa Kappa Gamma, holding second place with 5,700 badges sold; Pi Beta Phi, 2,097 and Delta Gamma last with 2,137. These individual sales for the teams outsold teams since 1940 acording to Homecoming Chairman Louis C. Zopf.

In reference to the sales, he said "The girls had a big job and they did it well, and the Homecoming committee is always proud of the work that these sororities do. The sorority houses have supported Homecoming events for the past 20 years."

MacArthur's Return—

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON
(Representing the combined American Press)

WITH GENERAL MacARTHUR IN THE PHILIPPINES (AP)—The Americans and Filipinos who died so gallantly in the dark days of 1942 will sleep easier tonight, for here on Leyte we are fighting the Japanese division which did the "dirty work" on Bataan.

Before going ashore from the cruiser Nashville a few hours behind the assault waves of American forces, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told me:

"I am particularly anxious to get at the division which is on Leyte. It's the 15th, the outfit that did the dirty work at Bataan. They've been living off the fat of the land for more than two years and I believe they'll be a little softer now.

"But soft or not, we'll get them."

Talking informally aboard the cruiser over a chocolate soda, MacArthur said tough fighting may lie ahead before the Philippines are freed of the enemy, but he left no doubt that the Leyte operation seals the fate of the Japanese on that island. He indicated no time will be lost in following up advantages gained in the present move and that American losses will not be heavy.

Throughout the voyage, the sunbronzed MacArthur, returning at last to gain his revenge for Bataan and Corregidor, scorned precautions, as usual, for his personal safety. He was asked if he wanted a lifebelt.

"No, thank you," he replied. "I have too much faith in this ship for that."

Despite the compliment to a ship he considers one of the most efficient in the United States navy, military men closest to the general expressed belief that his disregard of personal danger stemmed from an implicit belief that it is his destiny to liberate the Philippines and that nothing can happen to prevent it.

"We have achieved complete surprise in the fullest military sense," MacArthur said during the informal discussion. "The Japs expected an attack in Mindanao or the northern Philippines. Their best divisions have been concentrated in Mindanao and their reinforcements have been sent there.

"Our air strikes were made there and Admiral Halsey's strikes were to the north. There are about 225,000 enemy combat troops in the Philippines. Our Leyte landing will cut them in two. We will have losses, but they will not be large."

The trip to the Philippines was uneventful. MacArthur was completely relaxed. His plans had been made. With him was a skeleton staff and his offices were set up in a cabin.

Miles beyond us was an unbroken stream of aircraft carriers and other warships.

Even as the hour of landing drew near MacArthur was unruffled. He slept well, ate a hearty breakfast, then went briefly on deck smoking his familiar corncob pipe.

Then he napped for about an hour. About 15 minutes before the scheduled landing at 10 a. m. the cruiser moved in toward the beach.

The general then went to the bridge. We could see shells from battleships exploding in the hills behind the prospective beachheads. At 9:58 the first waves of landing craft hit the shore ahead of schedule.

Ten minutes later word was flashed back that the troops were 500 yards inland and advancing through open country without opposition.

Satisfied that everything was going according to schedule, MacArthur went to his cabin for an early luncheon preparatory to going ashore.

With him in the landing barge were Filipino President Sergio Osmena; Brig. Gen. Carlos Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines; Lieut. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, American chief of staff who left the Philippines in 1942 with MacArthur, and Lieut. Gen. George Kenney, commander of the Far East airforces.

A bright sun was shining.

MacArthur sat upright at the stern; with Sutherland, Osmena, Kenney and Romulo standing just below him.

As he sat down, the general remarked to Sutherland with a broad smile: "Well, believe it or not, we're here."

Looking Ahead in Washington—

WASHINGTON (AP)—The inside story of efforts to win recognition from President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill for the De Gaulle government of France shows an unusual split—between the political leaders of the United States and Britain on the one hand and their foreign office advisers on the other.

The permanent staff of the British foreign office long has sought full diplomatic recognition for the De Gaulle group as a provisional government.

The United States state department until recently shared and, in fact, helped mold the president's views toward France. It felt De Gaulle should not be placed in a position that would prejudice the French people's choice on accepting or rejecting him after their liberation.

Several weeks ago, however, the state department decided De Gaulle had fulfilled the qualifications for a provisional government by displaying no desire for centralized personal power.

This put the state department and the British foreign office on the same side of the issue. It came up at the Quebec conference, and—contrary to London dispatches—the fact is that Churchill advised Roosevelt that recognition then would be premature.

The outlook: increased pressure in favor of recognition.

Ration prospects—on the basis of preliminary OPA decisions, virtually all October ration point values for meats, dairy products and processed foods will be continued through November. Only one or two minor adjustments are scheduled.

However, OPA is reserving final decisions until the last minute. Meat supply is declining, and some point hikes by December at the latest are indicated. The butter shortage continues acute in many parts of the country, but the current 20-point value is expected to stick.

Farm surplus—the commodity credit corporation (CCC) is pushing plans to sell surplus commodities, suc has wheat and cotton, in the world market but is guarding carefully against offering any of our surpluses at prices below the world level.

Agriculture department officials recognized that if this nation should cut below the world price it would result in disastrous retaliation, throwing all world markets into chaos.

Cotton notes—CCC told a recent cotton industry advisory committee conference that any plans for cotton export subsidiaries should call for maintaining, not depressing, the world price of cotton.

Farm-minded congressmen have decided that problems of the cotton industry (widely split itself on what to do) must be solved soon for the sake of general agricultural prosperity. They have called a week-long conference here, starting Dec. 4.

Those congressmen contend southern farmers will stop producing lint and compete with other sections in grains and other items unless their situation is relieved speedily.

The Daily Iowan Salutes—

Coach Slip Madigan and his squad of 33 players for the magnificent game played yesterday against Purdue. Even though the team is the youngest in the history of the university athletic department, the fight and spirit shown against Purdue yesterday typified the "Iowa Fights" tradition.

The carefully planned maneuvers and skillful play proved that these Iowa youngsters "have the spirit — displayed five years ago spirit —displayed five years ago by the famed Iowa Iron Men.

The Theater at the University of Iowa—

A LABORATORY FOR LIVING

"They do the whole shebang!" is the comment of dramatic art instructors regarding student activity in the state University of Iowa theater.

In the speech and dramatic art department, students are provided the opportunity to learn theater acting, directing and scenery design and building from "the ground up." Practical study at the University theater has paved the way for university graduates to excellent positions throughout the nation in the field of dramatic arts.

Play Production

One of the first courses offered students in dramatic arts is play production. All phases of theater work are included in this course. Students delve into acting, producing, designing and costume making. From this class are chosen the stage, building and lighting crews for the community and experimental series of plays presented here. Try-outs for parts in University theater productions are granted on the basis of acting ability and experience.

Build Scenery

Overvoting most of their free hours to work on stage and building crews, dramatic arts students build almost the entire amount of scenery required in plays here. Scenery for some of the plays is designed by advanced students.

Each production provides experience for a student stage manager, whose task it is to coordinate the backstage activities in time for the curtain.

Costume Room

Elephant heads, an Elizabethan neck ruff or a Civil War uniform are only a few of the spectacles which greet a theater visitor in the costume room. Students begin the study of costume preparation with pattern making, followed by cutting, fitting and sewing. The theater costume department rents few costumes, with the exception of military dress. Available at the theater is an elaborate wardrobe of the Elizabethan era.

For many years the university has placed emphasis upon the experimental production of new plays. Wide recognition has come to the University theater's policy of producing original manuscripts.

Exeprimental Plays

This work is organized as a graduate seminar in the department of speech and dramatic art. and is part of the work of the school of fine arts and the graduate college. It is organized in the interest of playwrights who are in an "apprenticeship period" of development. This experimental series is organized to permit them to revise and rewrite imperfect manuscripts under the conditions of a producing theater and to test plays before an audience. New plays which utilize materials from the life of the west are given preference when plays are chosen for production.

STATE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA THEATER, eight years old this fall, is one of the many "laboratories for living" throughout the campus. Students gain practical experience here in acting, scenery design, and construction as well as writing a costume pre paration experience.

Theater Seminar

Advanced students only are admitted to the experimental theater seminar. Playwrights must submit one or more original long plays. The experimental theater presentations are made privately before audiences which are especially interested in this creative and experimental work.

Experimental theater audiences are members of the "First Nighters" club, composed of those who, by making application, declare their sincere interest in the experimental theater project. After each performance "First Nighters" write a criticism of the play for the writer's benefit.

Another phase of practical study stressed for the graduate college students is the writing, designing or directing of plays in place of a written thesis for a master of arts degree. Iowa university is one of the few in the nation employing this practice.

The university theater, eight years old this year, boasts a unique revolving stage. The stage, resting on a series of cement pilings built into the ground, revolves on wheels around a track supported by the piles. Because of the fact that the cement piling is not supported by the floor of the building, the stage may be revolved practically noiselessly at a comparatively high rate of speed. A five horse-power motor generates power to move the six-ton stage forward or backward at various speeds. This system is extremely effective, and as many as five different stage settings may be built on the stage simultaneously for the same production.

Linnebach Slide

When one stage setting is used, a huge semi-circle backdrop is employed where various background effects are achieved by means of reflection from a Linnebach slide. This slide, curved to fit on a projector, reflects any desired background onto the immense cyclorama. The projector is placed on a bridge over the stage between the audience and the stage.

Scenery

The quantities of scenery used in productions in the community and experimental play series are indexed according to size, location and when last used.

The projection room, lighting controls and organ loft are built across the back of the auditorium. All lighting and sound con rol is operated by students under faculty supervision. The auditorium, built in a semi-circle, seats 480.

Graduate Positions

Students graduated from the department of speech and dramatic arts here procure positions as directors in high school, college and comunity theaters as well as actors throughout the United States. Lemuel Ayres, university graduate, designed the stage settings for the well-known "Oklahoma!" "Angel Street" and "Bloomer Girl," a Broadway production soon to be presented.

Opinion On and Off the Campus—

HOW WILL THE SOUTH VOTE?

J. H. Ruhl, investment banker, Davenport: "I'm afraid it will vote Democratic—true to its tradition."

Jan Livingstone, A1, Fargo, N. D.: "They always have voted Democratic, but I think the Republicans will be stronger this year because of the fourth term issue."

Bob Gilliam, G, Dubuque: "They will stay Democratic because Roosevelt has established so many army camps there which help make the south prosperous."

Jim Glynn, A1, Kansas City, Mo.: "Strictly Democratic, I say somewhat reluctantly."

O. E. Shacklett, traveling salesman, 730 Walnut street: "I think the South will vote 50-50. The old die-hards will vote the Democratic ticket, but I don't think the uncertain votes of soldiers and migratory war workers will be much influenced by the 'Solid South's' stand."

A. W. Ullrich, 1603 Jackson avenue: "I think the South will be solid again this year. They won't break with tradition."

Mary Ellen Pinnell, A4, Ottumwa: "I think the South will remain Democratic because I think the New Dealers are still too solid in the southern states."

Eleanor Strawman, A4, Anamosa: "I think the greater part of the solid south will remain true to the Democratic party and vote for Roosevelt. The South always has been Democratic and should continue to be so in this election."

Ruth Lauterbach, A4, Sac City: "The South will go Democratic excluding Texas."

Cleo West, 220 North Dodge street: "The majority of states will go Democratic."

Albert Bulls, C2, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.: "They will vote Democratic again this year. They favor Roosevelt and his administration because he has done much to help the farmers and poor people in that section of the country. Also three-fourths of the southern state governors are Democratic."

Janet McTavish, A3, Estherville: "They will vote Democratic. They always have since the Civil war and this year of all years, they will not change."

Lucille Jesperson, Iowa City, secretarial work: "I'll be very much surprised if they vote any way but Democratic."

L. A. Ware, Iowa City, College of Engineering: "I'll vote the way it's always voted. It takes a lot to jar them out of their usual way."

Mary Lamb, A2, Des Moines: "I think the South will vote Democratic. It may not be as solid as in past years but the South is still behind the Democratic party and ticket."

Jean Johanson, A1, Rolfe: "I think the South will go Democratic despite some dissension in Texas."

Leonard Kraushaar, ASTP, Long Island: "This year the South will again vote Democratic. There has been a lot of internal strife among the southern Democrats in the past year, but it seems as though their difficulties have been ironed out and the South will be 'solid' again."

Kiki Cullman, Cedar Rapids: "Texas is Democratic but they might go Republican. South will vote the straight Democratic ticket."

E. G. Branker, West Palm Beach, Fla.: "The South will vote the straight Democratic ticket. The poor people will never be able to forget what Roosevelt has done for them. They stand firm and there will be no backing down."

The Daily Iowan Sunday Book Review

In spite of the horrible pun in the title, "Having Wonderful Crime," another high tension mystery by Craig Rice, is one of the most exciting murder stories of recent months.

It's always consoling for mystery fans to remember, when accused of low literary tastes, that some of the best known figures in American life and letters have been addicted to the detective story. Coming to mind, among others, is Woodrow Wilson, whose national influence converted many to his favorite type of fiction, and Alexander Woolcott, who was a murder-mystery champion for years. It seems to me that no excuse is necessary, particularly in view of the fact that many so-called thrillers are more clearly and better written than some of the romantic novels that gain momentary public favor.

Apearing within the plot of this bok are the traditional Rice trio—beautiful Helene Justus, her likeable husband, Jake, and John J. Malone, sleuth and criminal lawyer par excellence. Malone is sumoned to New York by Helene to help her discover why Jake has suddenly taken to locking himself in his room. Arriving on the scene just in time to find Helene and Jake mixed up with an incoherent bridegrom, Malone stays to discover and solve a few murders.

Divulging the details of a mystery is like sneaking chocolates from the bottom layer of the box, so I won't spoil the story for you. Among the elements included are a sadistic murderer who decapitates corpses so he can transfer their heads to other bodies, a supposedly murdered bride who writes happy notes to her New York friends from Niagara Falls, a groom who periodically disappears for long periods of time and is usually found riding the Staten Island ferry. Of course, there's the usual trusty New York plain clothes men, O'Brien and Birnbaum, the dense cop Schultz, and Arthur Pederson, head of the homicide squad. Just for good measure, the author has mixed in a crooked escort bureau, an embezzling family lawyer, and a few thousand dollars worth of diamonds. Through the combination of these factors, a reader who expects almost anything to happen will not be disappointed.

With the eery Hallowe'en season almost around the corner, a quiet evening with "Having Wonderful Crime" will probably scare you speechless — but it's certainly fun!

J. Louis Reynolds Denounces Accusation Of GOP Chairman

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—J. Louis Reynolds, vice-president of Reynolds metals company last night replied to a statement by Republican National Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr. by saying that "Mr. Brownell is skating on thin ice when he attempts to attribute my support of Mr. Roosevelt to favors received."

Reynolds, who is manager of the Virginia state committee of 100 for the re-election of President Roosevelt, and Andrew J. Higgins, New Orleans shipbuilder, Friday were referred to by Brownell as a "couple of economic royalists" who support the New Deal.

"If I had to hire, on a business basis, a man to negotiate a deal with Mr. Churchill or Mr. Stalin would I pick Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey?

"Certainly I would not select 'a great prosecutor' for this type of job when I had available the greatest salesman America has ever produced."

Truman Asks Support For FDR in Congress

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Asking congressional support for President Roosevelt, Senator Harry S. Truman told a Democratic meeting here yesterday, "We can't take a chance on a congress of Nyes and Tafts."

He added that "many of such are not interested in the welfare of their country as a whole, but in their own ends." The Democratic vice-presidential candidate spoke at a luncheon before leaving with Senator James E. Murray and others for a look at nearby copper mines. He planned stops today at Mobridge and Aberdeen, S. D., en route to Minneapolis where he expects to arrive late tonight.

The reference to the "Nyes and Tafts"—Senators Nye (R., N.D.) and Taft (R., Ohio)—was not elaborated in the course of his 10-minute impromptu speech.

Student Democratic Party Organizes

Republicans to Meet In Schaeffer Hall Monday Night

Organization of the student Democratic party Thursday night marked the first step in the campaigns of campus political parties previous to the presidential straw vote Nov. 6.

A Republican meeting in room 7, Schaeffer hall, at 8 p. m. Monday will be the opening step in that party's bid for the student vote under the leadership of Bob Ray, G of Iowa City, Republican party chairman.

Age is no restriction in the campus poll to determine the student choice for president, vice-president and senator from the state of Iowa. Any student enrolled in the university is eligible to vote by presenting his student identification card at the polling place in Iowa Union the day before the national election.

R. Bruce Hughes, Democratic student chairman, announced the names of Democratic central committee members named Thursday night to head the party's campus campaign. Tom Wuriu, A4 of Iowa City, has been chosen as assistant Democratic party chairman.

Central committee members elected at the first party meeting are Delbert Donahoo, A4 of Moravia; Jeanne Wilson, A4 of Des Moines; Jean Trowbridge, A3 of Stuart; Wally Stringham, A4 of Estherville; Dick Yoakum, A4 of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Jean Collier, A2 of Freeport, Ill.

Ellen Davis, A3 of Cedar Rapids, was named publicity chairman for the Democratic party. Other members of the commitee will be announced later from the group attending the initial party meeting.

Enthusiasm of the Democratic workers at Thursday's organizational meeting indicated a hard-fought race to determine S. U. I.'s choice for the nation's highest office. Other committees are yet to be chosen to include other students interested in working in the campus Democratic campaign.

Students interested in working on the Democratic party campaign for the Nov. 6 straw vote who did not sign up at the first party meeting, contact R. Bruce Hughes, party chairman, at 4192 or 9976.

Eye Tension Eased With

Rose Bampton

Soprano to Appear Here Oct. 24

Rose Bampton, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan opera association, who will sing a concert engagement here Tuesday in Iowa Union at 8 p. m., still gets cold chills remembering the ordeal she lived through summer before last in South America when she was suddenly informed that she had been scheduled to sing an opera completely unknown to her, in just 10 days.

Ten days may sound like a lot of time, but even the best actors find four weeks not too long a time to learn the lines of a new play. And opera is something else. Most opera singers like to take from six months to a year to prepare a new role.

But ten days was all that Miss Bampton had and she did it. In the haste of signing her contract for this South American engagement she had failed to notice that she was agreeing to present a new role. Only after she had appeared in several programs did she notice that she was billed for this unknown role on a sign in front of the theater.

Her agents were at a loss and the management was even more upset. Miss Bampton, however, realized there was nothing to do but get ready and she did. "Ariadne auf Naxos," the new opera, was one of the hits of her first South American tour.

HAWKEYES BOW TO PURDUE 26-7

Plug in First Half to Lead Favored Boilermakers by 7-6

Spurred on by the traditional grandeur of Homecoming and the invincible spirit of their coach, Slip Madigan, the Iowa grid youngsters amazed spectators with a 7-6 halftime score, then slipped back to anonymity and lost to the heavily favored Purdue eleven, 26-7.

With Bill Kersten providing the punch, game captain Forrest Masterson opening up holes in the line—ragged or otherwise—and the whole team fighting gamely, the Iowans kept the Boilermakers from an opening drive at the goal line and initiated one of their own when they took over for the first time in the game.

Gaining the ball on their own 19, the Hawks started a march scoreward with Kersten at the helm and Jim Hansen and Dick Woodard carrying the ball for consistent gains to the 20-yard line, where, after Woodard's throw to Russ McLaughlin missed, Purdue took over on downs.

Still in Purdue territory, Ed Cody fumbled and the ever-ready Kersten fell on the ball on the 37-yard line. Again the Hawks started for the end zone, but, trying for a first down, Woodard fumbled the ball on a bad pass from center and lost 10 yards. The Hawks punted int the end zone with only a half minute left in the quarter.

One play into the second period Boris Dimancheff resurrected the Statue of Liberty play and raced to the Iowa 40. A short run by Elliott and then Ed Cody, former Boston college star, plunged over tackle into the clear and tore 52 yards to score standing. Stan Dubicki's conversion failed and the score was Purdue 6; Iowa 0.

But not for long. The Hawkeyes were determined and they drove steadily each time they got their hands on the ball.

Then Ed Cody fumbled on his own 25-yard line. When the pile of football sluggers was untangled, Stan Mohrbacher was on top of the pigskin and the Hawks were ready to go again. This time the machine didn't fail. On two identical plays Woodard completed passes to McLaughlin to put Iowa first on the 14 and then immediately on the 6. Kersten climbed over the line to the 2. It was up to Jim Hansen on the next play and he plunged heavily through right guard to clear the goal line.

As his benchmates toed the sidelines in excitement, quarterback John Stewart booted the point which put the underdog Iowans ahead 7-6 when the teams went to the dressing rooms at halftime.

The second half was a different story. The Boilermakers took command from Rose's kickoff and never lost it for a moment as the Hawkeyes tried valiantly to regain their first half prowess. Ed Cody burrowed through tackle for another score on the lucky seventh play of the period and Tom Hughes trotted on the field but failed the conversion.

After all-too-brief possession of the pigskin, Iowa punted and the Boilermakers started another touchdown march. Though constantly penalized Purdue drove for a series of first downs and, with the ball on the 6, Dimancheff took it over for the second goal of the quarter. Dubicki's kick was good, and the score was 19-7.

Again in the fourth quarter, Purdue carried the ball within scoring range and Dimancheff swiveled over for the final touchdown of the game. And again Dubicki sent a good boot between the uprights.

But these Hawkeye youngsters had to prove they weren't through yet. With minutes remaining in the game Kersten shoved the ball to his own 37-yard line. Then Woodard shot a long pass to Kersten on the Purdue 20 and with 35 seconds left the Hawks desperately duplicated the play in an attempt to reach pay dirt. Woodard, mobbed before he had a chance to get the ball away, tossed a wild throw McLaughlin's way as the horn ended Iowa's 33rd Homecoming celebration.

The temperature in the healthy human adult body averages from 98.4 to 98.6 degrees fahrenheit.

After the War—

No Tears

Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Although the wise boys would have liked to see it that way there was definitely no crepe hanging in the Iowa locker room following yesterday's wonderful-for-a-while football game with Purdue's blasting Boilermakers.

In fact, for a ball club which, at half time, probably had visions of engineering one of the biggest pocket-hitting upsets of this wacky gridiron season, Slip Madigan's men were remarkably spry and chipper.

Slip himself, always with the big grin, sounded the keynote of the proceedings when he said whimsically: "Well, we played very well against two or three teams this afternoon." He added: "Iowa got very tired in that second half and we didn't have the reserves." And, on an optimistic note: "Well, we're improving every game." Madigan gave the general impression that it probably is not too good a policy to try to play 11 comparative youngsters against 33 not-so-young, heavy huskies.

Among team members the general consensus seemed to be that the toughest nut in the Boilermaker was Boston college's gift to Purdue. They were speaking, in somewhat awed tones, of block-built, 200-pound Ed Cody, who literally tunnelled for two touchdowns.

Actually, it was something like taking a roll call in the senate, complete with a dissenting vote rather frequent on some points.

Bill Kersten: "Cody was the toughest, but they were all good."

Captain Masterson: "Cody was the best, and we were too tired. They ran over me a lot." The last may have been true, but the inference was far from correct. The big Forrest was a bigger reason for the thrilling first half hour.

Jack Kelso: "Cody was the toughest."

Johnny Stewart, accompanied by a large-proportioned growl: "None of 'em were tough, but Cody hit the hardest."

Paul Fagerlind: "That Cody sure is tough, but they weren't half as good as Illinois."

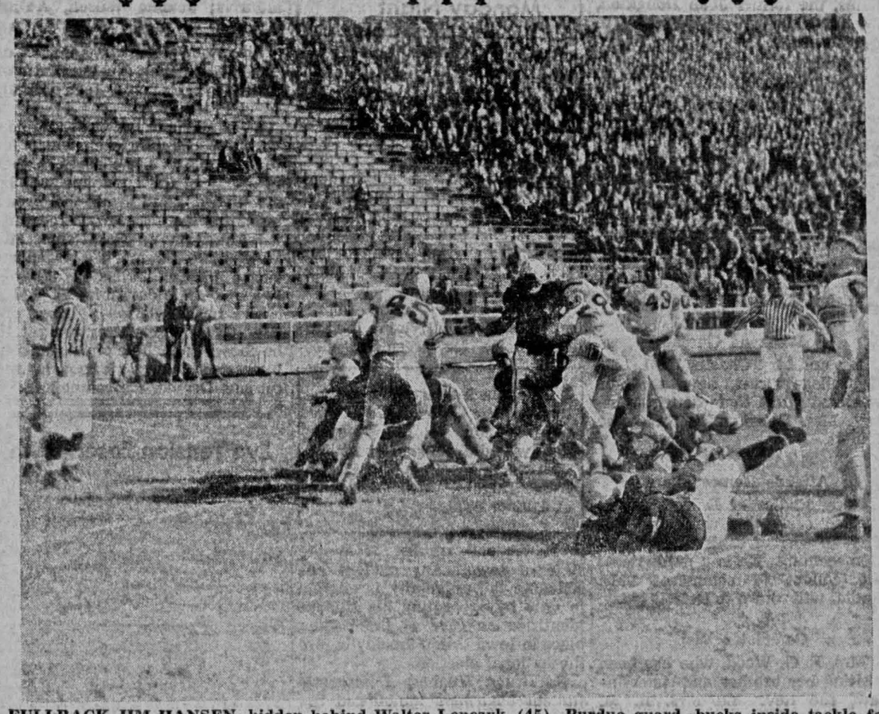
The only dissenting vote came after a bit of hunting. The veteran Stan Mohrbacher was found sitting on a rubbing table while trainer Doyle Allsup worked over a beautifully colored Mohrbacher knee. Stan had kind words for Boris Dimancheff, the Rushin Russian. "Dimancheff was almost too fast to tackle," he said, with a shake of the head.

"That first half was good," drawled Doyle.

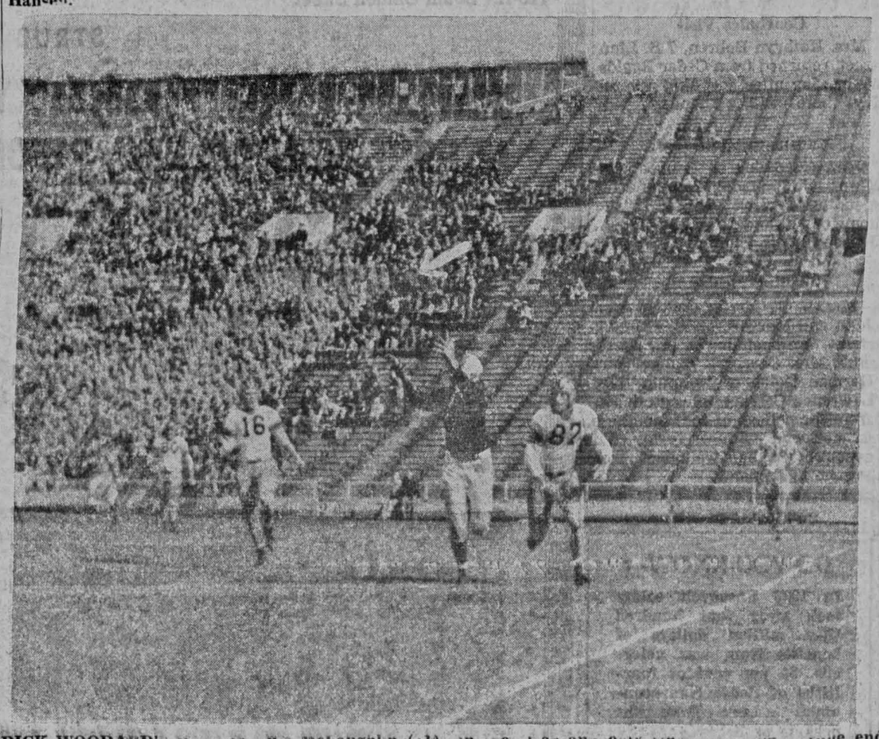
Over in one corner a dejected and worn Don Winslow was slowly peeling off his togs. Quietly: "We just didn't play good ball after the first half."

Dick Woodard was his commanding self. With some disparagement he grunted: "Hell, they were a lot better than Illinois. If they'd run our ends, they'd have looked just as fast, too."

All in all there was a feeling that enemy coaches are no longer going to have fits of laughter when they see that the Hawkeyes are next on their schedule. In the dressing room there was a good, quiet spirit that succeeding Saturdays will be more pleasant. Hunchy and the Hooslers beware!



FULLBACK JIM HANSEN, hidden behind Walter Lenczyk (45), Purdue guard, bucks inside tackle for the Hawkeye touchdown at the end of the first half against the Boilermakers yesterday. The hole was opened by Stan Mohrbacher (63), standing, and Clarry Cross (60), on his knees behind Lenczyk and Hansen.



DICK WOODARD'S pass to Russ McLaughlin (11), in the clear and only steps from the Purdue end zone, was just a trifle too long and went incomplete, ending Iowa's first threat midway through the opening quarter of yesterday's game with the Boilermakers. McLaughlin outdistanced Boris Dimancheff (87) and Bill Canfield (16), Purdue backs, but was not able to reach the ball.

Time: 2 p. m.
Place: Iowa Stadium
Officials: Parke Carroll (Kansas City) referee; M. G. Volz (Nebraska) umpire; Jack North (Highland Park) field judge; Vic Young (Colorado) linesman.
Broadcast: WSUI, Iowa City.

Iowa's Seahawks, No. 5 team in the nation, will attempt to climb another rung of the ladder of success today when they meet the Ft. Warren army eleven here at Iowa stadium at 2 p. m.

Rated generally as a breather for the Seahawks, the Ft. Warren team is, according to Seahawk mentor Lieut. Comdr. Jack Meagher, a team not to be taken lightly. Meagher points only to the record of the Broncos ,who have won four out of five this season, for confirmation of this statement.

Bronco Record

Outstanding spot in the Ft. Warren record is their 21-20 triumph over the Brookiyn Tigers of the professional league, while their 56-0 conquest of Idaho, their 33-13 victory over Colorado college, and their 7-6 close one over Colorado shows them to be a team which can score.

The only black mark on the Ft. Warren record is the close 14-5 loss they suffered at the hands of the powerful Superbombers.

After being thrown for a 12-7 loss at Michigan in the first game of the season, the Seahawks have met and conquered the best of competition with victories over Minnesota, Olathe Naval air station, Second Airforce and Purdue.

Showing improvement every week, the Seahawks don't intend to let the Broncos mar their record.

Lineup Changes

At least two changes will appear in the opening lineup today over that which took the Boilermakers into camp last week. Carl Copp, 19-year-old product from Dayton, Ohio, will start at right tackle to enable Warren Smith to spell Vic Schleich at left tackle.

Expected to replace Fred Kuhlman who was advanced to primary training early last week, is John Frampton, former Notre Dome freshman who will go in at right guard. A last minute change of mind by Meagher may put Joe Quinn of Hobart college in the spot.

Officers Playing

Not only will Meagher have the cadet squad to rely upon, but he will also have five officers, all of whom looked good in the two other service contests to date.

Art Guepe and Jim Poole were particularly outstanding, while Perry Schwartz, Ray George, Noble Doss and Jim Lalanne did a good job in their respective positions.

Leading the play of the Ft. Warren eleven will be Roger Stephens, former University of Iowa freshman football player. A stocky halfback, who rated as Iowa's best passer a year ago, Stephens has the best rushing average of any Bronco, with over nine yards per try.

Fast Backs

Other backs who will need watching are: Clarence Stroh, halfback from Illinois Wesleyan, Ken Jastrow, speedy St. Thomas college contribution, and Clifford Long, Baker university.

Facing the Seahawks in the line will be former Iowa end Dick Brecunier, Ted Konetsky, a tackle and former Pittsburgh star, and Mitchell Olenski, ex-all Southeastern conference tackle from Alabama.

Hoosiers Encounter Trouble Squelching Northwestern, 14-7

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Expending all their power in the first half, Indiana's Hoosiers had trouble squelching a stubborn Northwestern team 14 to 7 in a slip-shod Western conference football game yesterday.

Achieving their first triumph over the Wildcats since 1929, the favored Hoosiers struck for touchdowns in each of the first two periods, but became dispirited after Northwestern punched over a third-quarter touchdown on two pass plays that covered 66 yards.

Although Bob (Hunchy) Hoernschemeyer, Indiana's star passer, connected on 10 of 19 tosses, only one pitch figured in the scoring—a behind-the-line screen pass to halfback Abe Addams, who romped 32 yards for the second Hoosier touchdown.

Indiana dominated play in the opening period, drawing first blood when fullback George Sundheim blasted across from the one-yard stripe to cap a 33-yard march.

Irish Smash Badgers 28-13

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The running of Bob Kelly and Elmer Angsman kept Notre Dame in the unbeaten class yesterday with a 28-13 victory over Wisconsin, but for the crowd of 40,000 it was Earl (Jug) Girard and a plucky Badger forward wall that stole the show.

The Ramblers, off with their customary explosion of speed in the first minute of play, saw those Wisconsin forwards stop them cold through two quarters, outplay their vaunted defense, and then pave the way to two touchdowns—the first scored against the Irish this year.

Girard, playing every minute of the game, tossed two passes for the Badgers' touchdowns, and placekicked one extra point.

Bucks Rally in Fourth To Defeat Bluejackets

Les Horvath Paces Triple Scoring Attack In Fourth Quarter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Those somewhat terrific Bucks from Ohio State bounced off the ropes in the fourth quarter yesterday to ram over three touchdowns and hand the Great Lakes naval training station a 23 to 6 defeat before a tremendous outpouring of 73,477 fans.

It was Ohio State's fourth straight victory and the first setback of the season for the Bluejackets, who were coached by Lieut. Paul E. Brown, head coach at Ohio for three years.

After dominating the game in the first half, the Bucks sagged in the third quarter to let the Bluejackets tie the count six-all and when the final period started Ohio State to all intents and purpose was well on its way to fade out.

Then came the deluge. The Bucks, seeming to get their second wind, all but ran the Bluejackets out of the park.

Leslie Horvath, 167 pounds of football dynamite who had been pretty well held in check most of the afternoon, suddenly caught fire.

Starting from his own 33, he whipped a 24-yard pass to Jack Dugger and then reeled off 34 more yards by himself to give Ohio a first down on the Great Lakes 5. And it was Horvath who finally scored the touchdown from the one-yard stripe.

That was all the Bucks needed. Fighting desperately with passes, Great Lakes dusted off the old statue of liberty play and Dick Jackson, reserve Ohio State end, swiped the ball out of Jim Youel's hand at the Bluejacket 40 and ran back to the 19 before he was brought down from behind. Just four plays later Ollie Cline scored from the 6.

The rapidly tiring Youel still didnt give up on his passes, but Buck linemen were all over him and Great Lakes gave up the ball on downs on its 25. Horvath went into action again and the clock showed just one second to go when he battered over from the 2.

Pelican state is the popular name for Louisiana.

Special Stamp Will Commemorate Movie Anniversary

A special three-cent stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of motion pictures has been issued by the postoffice department. The first stamp will be sold by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker at a war activities committee luncheon in New York Oct. 31. After that date postoffices throughout the country will receive shipments of the stamps.

This is the first official recognition of a 50th anniversary made by the postoffice department. Special delivery size, the motion picture commemorative stamp shows a group of servicemen and women viewing a 16 mm. film overseas.

Postmaster General Walker said in a letter to the motion picture war activities chairman that "the department decided upon this recognition of motion pictures because of their splendid contribution to the war effort, both from a technical and a morale standpoint."

Representatives of the motion picture industry work with army pictorial service to supply free entertainment to troops all over the world.

Junior Red Cross Membership Drive Opens Nov. 1

To again enroll Johnson county 100 percent in Junior Red Cross membership is the goal of the Nov. 1 membership drive, according to Mrs. J. P. Cady, chairman of the junior committee.

The school group, not the individual pupil, is the unit of enrollment in the national organization. For elementary schools the enrollment fee is 50 cents for each classroom. Payment entitles every member of the class to sign the roll. For secondary schools the fee is one dollar for each group of 100 pupils or less.

With the program under way in the city schools, various groups are making articles to be sent to the St. Louis office to be distributed throughout the area it serv-

Georgia Tech Upsets Navy Middies, 17-15

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Powerful Navy floored a lighter Georgia Tech team here three times yesterday, but each time the stubborn Engineers fought back gamely and came through with a hair-raising 17-15 victory. The lead changed hands six times.

A 20-yard field goal by Allen Bowen, freshman tailback, supplied the margin after the Middies had gone out front with a safety, 15-14.

The Middies lost no time getting started as Bobby Jenkins, former University of Alabama star, ran 83 yards with the opening kickoff. Vitor Finos' extra point try was wide.

The Engineers, with Frank Broyles throwing strikes to Phil Tinsley, soon retaliated. Broyles scored and A. Bowen made it 7-6 with a placement.

After a 70 yard Navy march stalled on the 5, Leon Bramlett, end, dropped Williams in the end zone for a safety, giving Navy the lead again, 15-14.

Tech then came back 45 yards to a first down on the Navy nine, where two plays failed and A. Bowen stepped in to decide the issue with his field goal.

ices. The Girl Reserves have made 200 tray favors. They are red construction paper V's on a wire stick. Around the stem are blue and white bow streamers. The favors stand on a white cardboard square. The favors were presented by the group to the Junior Red Cross committee.

Junior highs are making gaily colored covers for Christmas carols typed by senior high students at City high. By Nov. 1 the various groups from the public and parochial schools will have completed 100 carnival caps, 200 Christmas carols, and 500 party napkins to be sent to the district office for redistribution to various government hospitals.

144 Wedding Rings Taken From Store

Two men walked into a local jewelry store about 8:45 last night. One of them was about 50, short and stocky and wearing a green overcoat the other about 35, of average heighth and wearing a brown hat. The store was rather crowded at the time.

When the two men left, two trays of about 144 plain gold wedding rings which had been sitting on the counter were gone. The rings were valued at between $300 and $900.

Local and state police are looking for the two men.

Memorial Service For 41 War Dead To Be Held Oct. 29

The first county memorial service honoring 41 Johnson county war dead will be held Sunday, Oct. 29, in the Legion rooms in the Comunity building, according to Frank Lee, commander of the Iowa City American Legion post.

The ritual will be for the immediate families and friends of the gold star servicemen and women and for members of the legion and the auxiliary.

Memorial services will be held monthly in honor of all those who have given their lives. Held on the last Sunday of each month, the service will be for casualties occurring within that month.

Services will be at 4 o'clock and doors will be closed at that time.

Colorful, Exciting—

Homecoming Attire

—Weather Cooperates

By DOROTHY SNOOK
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

With thoughts of last year's Homecoming, the Iowa coed breathed a sign of relief yesterday morning and glady put her rainy day paraphernalia back in the closet. Out instead came her exciting and colorful suit, dress, slacks or jeans, together with the traditional pumps, or the comfy saddles, moccasins or loafers which she had selected for the day-of-football days—Homecoming.

The reds, green and yellows of the plaid shirts, jackets and coats were complimented by golden chysanthemums, and a Homecoming badge adorned a lapel of each suit.

Watching the array of pigskin talent yesterday in a truly eye-catching classic red suit was Rosemary Ritter, A1 of Newton. The red wool trimming of her white coat of fur fabric matched the red wool of her suit. To complete her outfit, Rosemary chose red casuals.

Marjorie Peterson, A2 of Ellsworth, wore a three-piece green herringbone tweed suit as she watched the highly-rated Boilermakers clash with the young Hawkeyes. With her man-tailored suit, Marj wore white shirtwaist blouse. The coat was of box style. Brown leather spectator pumps and a brown saddle bag to match completed her ensemble.

The all-around comfortable favorite, a blouse and skirt was worn by Joyce Tisher, A1 of Council Bluffs. Her red skirt, pleated all around, and white silk jersey blouse with a round drawstring neckline, was set off by a navy blue wool vest.

Definitely competing for attention with the bright plaids of the Highlanders were the plaid tailored slacks worn by Mavis Spevacek, A1 of Cicero, Ill. Red, green, black and blue were woven against a background of white wool. Her shirtwaist blouse with long sleeves was made of black wool jersey, and to top her selection Mavis wore a white fur fabric coat with red wool trimming. Cherished saddle shoes added the final touch.

In a light wool yellow suit, Bettye Neal, A2 of Pierre, S. D., watched the Big Ten battle. The long jacket of Bettye's suit was styled with tree-quarter length sleeves, round neckline and buttons down the front. The skirt was distinguished with three pleats in front and back. A dark brown Chesterfield coat of box style was worn over the suit and a yelow scarf, comfortable mocassins and yellow sox completed her choice.

Marcella Warner, A2 of Davenport, selected a very mannish ensemble of gray gabardine as her stadium favorite yesterday. The three-piece suit consisted of the skirt with kick pleat in front and back, a plain tailored jacket and a vest with a red, green and yellow plaid back. Red loafers along with the bright plaid of the vest added a colorful touch to the outfit.

A blue wool costume suit was chosen by Margaret Ryan, A2 of East Moline, Ill., Margie's jacket was fashioned with rounded lapels and three blue buttons fastening it down the front. With her suit, she wore a white round-neck blouse, dark brown leather spectators and a dark brown gabardine coat of box style.

Cheering the Hawkeyes on yesterday in a brown and blue plaid tailored suit was Jen Lieberknecht, A1 of Letts. The skirt was styled with a box pleat in front and back with several smaller pleats on each side. Jen selected a white shirtwaist blouse and brown leather pumps to complete her outfit.

Lee Gardner, A3 of Newton, added her bit of color to the Homecoming crowd yesterday in a yellow wool tailored suit. The skirt was designed with one box pleat in front and back. With it Lee wore a brown and yellow plaid sweater and added a light grey box coat as a final touch.

Truly outstanding in a red gabardine, severely tailored three piece suit was Kay Peterson, A of Red Oak. Kay's skirt was plai in back and had one inverted plea in front. Her top coat was ful length. With her suit, Kay chos a black jersey blouse fashione with a plain high round neck, lon sleeves and buttons down th back. Black suede pumps an black accessories completed he ensemble.

Louise Hilfman, A3 of Bettendorf, selected a black shepherd check suit. The skirt was designed with an inverted pleat in front and back, and her long boxy jacket was designed with a high round neck with jacket buttons to the neckline. Louise included black calf pumps as accessories.

Thus attired, Iowa coeds definitely added color and excitement to an ideal Homecoming day.

Mrs. Ruth E. Johnson Weds James Canny

Word has been received of the marriage of Mrs. Ruth E. Johnson to James Canny. Both are former Iowa Citians. The ceremony took place Oct. 4 at 2 p. m. in the Bethel Lutheran church in Fresno, Calif. The Rev. E. A. Pedersen officiated.

The bride was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Everett E. Sterner, and Corp. Everett Sterner served as best man.

Mrs. Canny was attired in a green gabardine suit, complimented with brown accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias and roses.

The couple will reside in Vallejo, Calif., where Mr. Canny is employed in the navy yards.

Civil Air Patrol

The Civil Air Patrol will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the armory, acording to Lieut. Ernest Larew. The work will consist of one hour of drill and one hour of class.

Neighborhood Groups Of Women Voters To Have Discussions

Neighborhood groups of the League of Women Voters will meet next week for discussion of timely government problems. Any Iowa City women interested in meeting for these informal discussions are welcome.

The southeast group will meet in the home of Mrs. C. E. Cousins, 1030 E. College street, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30. Topic of the discussion will be "The G. I. Bill of Rights." Mrs. Cousins will be in charge, with Mrs. Lyman White reporting on the bill.

Mrs. H. M. Korns, 615 Templin road, will be hostess to members of the west section, who will consider problems of demobilization and reconversion. Mrs. Elmer Hill will present a report and Mrs. Korns will lead the discussion. The group will meet Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

Women on the north side of town will discuss "Cartels" under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Rissey at 2 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. William M. Hale will hostess to the group in her home, 814 N. Linn street.

The old Spanish mission at Santa Barbara, Calif., has been in use continuously since its founding.

Flying Furniture, Disappearing Scenery Typical of Play, 'The Skin of Our Teeth'

Furniture flying into the air and bits of scenery suddenly disappearing are typical of the play "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder, first play of the community series to be presented Oct. 23 through Oct. 28 in the University theater.

Prof. A. S. Gillette of the dramatic arts department is serving as art director for the play, and he admits that this play requires the most unusual scenery of any he has worked with. Instead of making backdrops as solid and as realistic as possible which is the usual case, Mr. Gillette and his student assistants must concentrate on perfecting scenery which will collapse at just the right moment in the exact spot scheduled.

Stage Setting

Settings for the stage must be fitted even down to three-quarters of an inch or the entire set-up would be thrown off. During one situation in the third act of the play there are six members of the stage crew who have simultaneous cues to move various parts of the scenery. This is further complicated by the fact that they are unable to see the stage from their positions backstage. Therefore, perfect timing is of prime importance.

Piano wire of high tensile strength is used to hoist the fragments of scenery into the air. Some pieces of scenery are set up on running rollers, some are on wagon stages and others just fly through the air. Many of the backdrops operate on hinges to permit easy mobility. Trick rigging is used.

Lantern Slides

Lantern slides which will be projected on the cyclorama showing scenes of Atlantic City, the glacier, and the bombed-out ruins of a city (Excelsior, N. J.). Sound effects include music, thunder and lightning.

The play opens with a newscaster bringing to the audience the latest news of the world .It is a timely play. The end is concerned with the building of a new and better world after a devastating war, but the play is a diverse one as it also deals with the ice age and Noah's ark.

Second Act

The second act opens with the newscaster announcing that the "ancient and honorable order of mammals, subdivision—humans—is celebrating its 600,000th convention on the boardwalk at Atlantic City." In this scene it is assumed that the audience is in the ocean.

In a highly unorthodox manner, characters in the play enter and exit through the audience and sometimes speak to them, even about the play. This play, "The Skin of Our Teeth," truly symbolizes the antithesis of ordinary plays.

Former Reichstag Member to Speak

Gerhart Seger, former member of the German Reichstag, now an American citizen, will speak on "What to Do With Germany" Monday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the chemistry building.

Besides editing a German language paper in the United States, Seger is also a consultant to the war department and a worker in the office of strategic services.

Dixieland Rhythmaires To Play at USO

Ray Long and his Dixieland Rhythmaires will be featured at the cadet dance from 5 to 7 o'clock at the USO tonight at which the Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Delta Pi sororities will be the special guests. All Homecoming guests in Iowa City are invited.

Leo Cortimiglia will preside at the piano for an afternoon jam sesion in the lounge room after the feature movie, "Fangs of the Wild Wind" at 1:30.
