The Daily Iowan Salutes—

The navy, R. O. T. C., American Legion and V. F. W. units participating in the Armistice day ceremonies this morning.

These groups, among others taking part in the event, represent the active participants of this war and the veterans of the last war. They keep alive the memory of those who died and are dying for their country.

Perhaps at the observance of the next Armistice day, not only the end of World War I will be remembered, but also the victory of the allied nations in World War II will be observed.

Review of Eighth Baconian Lecture—

By George Deschweinitz

"Ten Years of Development" (1931-1941) in Speech and in Fine Arts" was the title of an address delivered by Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the combined departments of speech and dramatic art, at SU, at 7:45 last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The speaker, in the current series of Baconian lectures given by members of the university faculty. As is customary with lectures in this series, it was broadcast by WSUI, and Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college introduced the speaker.

Following the address a panel discussion, headed by Prof. Earl Harper, director of the school of fine arts, and including Prof. Franklin Knower of the speech department, Prof. C. R. Strother of the speech pathology department, Prof. Addison Alspach of the music department and Prof. Hunton Sellman of the dramatic art department raised questions, added to the information which Professor Mabie had given and gave their opinions concerning the probable directions which development in the two departments would take in the future.

SUI Is Leader: The State University of Iowa is a leader, among foreign as well as American universities, in its recognition of the acceptability at the graduate level of original creative work in the field of the fine arts, according to Professor Mabie.

The widening scope and deepening bite of General Patton's Third Army drive is beginning to warrant Berlin classification of the operation as a major offensive.

It covers an estimated 75-mile wide front in the Metz area as last reported with indications that eight or more divisions including at least two armored units, have been employed.

There also are signs in field reports that due to weather conditions and probably to a serious lack of air power the enemy may have been caught napping.

Patton has achieved substantial surprise to threaten the powerful Metz-Thionville redoubt with isolation so quickly, it must be largely due to enemy lack of information and to his own accurate knowledge of Nazi deployments on that front.

It still seems that the immediate purpose of the Third Army drive, now expanded to a triple-front attack, is to slash across enemy communication links with Metz and Thionville rather than to storm forward to the German front and the Saar.

The closing jaws of the trap are taking shape on the map both east of the Seille river crossings below Metz and in the wide and deep bridgehead beyond the Moselle to the northeast of Thionville.

Perhaps the most significant aspect of the Third Army offensive, however, is the evidence it gives of General Eisenhower's ability to make good his statement that there would be no winter let-up on any sector of the western front.

At the time he spoke two weeks ago there was much to suggest that British-Canadian forces and the American First Army to the north held priorities on ammunition, tank fuel and other items, essential in quantity for any such large scale operation as the Third Army has now launched.

If that is true, it seems clear that despite long communication lines and weather-bound roads to French coastal areas Patton has now been supplied sufficiently to resume the offensive on a broad front. Eisenhower's logistics problems so far as the left flank of his line in Germany and Holland is concerned will be completely solved when the Antwerp base gets into full action.

It would not very greatly lessen the supply difficulties of his troops farther south, however.

Opinion On and Off the Campus—

What Will Be Most Significant in Post-War Reconversion

Joyce Boehmler, A1 of Hampton: "I think the biggest thing will be our transportation system. We will be able to reach any part of the world in a comparatively short time and therefore, the world will be more united. Radio and television, too, will greatly affect and advance our present system of communications."

Adeline E. Belko, A4 of St. Louis: "I think we will have to be more united with other nations in order to cooperate with them in every possible way and to prevent further aggression. The increased speed of transportation, radio, and other improvements will help to bring this about."

Norma Ems, P2 of Savageton, Wyo.: "I'm going to get myself a helicopter so it won't take me two days to get home."

Patricia Paul, A4 of Sioux City: "After the war we will face unemployment with all the service men returning. It will be quite a change to see men once again in jobs taken over by women during the war. However, I think that most of the women now holding jobs will give them up in the post-war era."

Marjorie Waldorf, A4 of Peru, Ill.: "When the war is over all types of food will again be available. Persons will get to travel when and where they choose. Numerous new inventions will bring about a 'push button' system for our working day."

Ellen Myers, A3 of Cedar Rapids: "I think most of the changes will be in the field of science. Medicine, mechanical inventions and other scientific improvements will give great advantages to all classes of people. They will have more time for leisure and recreational activities."

Ruth Koch, A3 of Rock Island, Ill.: "Communication and travel will be so much improved and advanced that we will all have to become more or less world-citizens. Because of this we will have not only an active interest in our country but in all other countries as well."

Mrs. Don Carroll, 430 E. Bloomington, housewife: "For the great majority of people who are not affected by having members of their families lost, the reconversion to non-rationed commodities will be most significant."

Twyla Geffert, A3, Davenport: "Most people's lives will be changed after the war by having their husbands or members of their families back with them."

With the AEF—Haven of Peace

MONSCHAU, Germany, (AP)—The best behaved town in occupied Germany is this storybook town on the U.S. first army's front line southeast of Aachen.

One enters it over a hill road from which a wide sweep of German-held territory and the smoke and flames of burning buildings is visible. American outposts here look out over a no-man's-land.

But Monschau itself is the exact opposite of the shattered, charred, dead city of Aachen. This picturesque and enchanting town, snuggled deep in a rocky gorge, was evacuated relatively unscathed by the Wehrmacht. It seems to be a small, sheltered nook of the old peace-time Germany. The immediate impulse is to wander about quaint winding streets and gather a pocketful of picture postcards like a tourist.

This enchantment—increased by the gay ignorance of children playing noisily in the streets—contrasts with the strained faces of middle-aged townspeople and the rumble of nearby battle.

All traces of the Nazis seem to have vanished. The town now is run by a military government detachment commanded by Capt. Robert A. Goetheus, a former Indianapolis lawyer. Credited by first army headquarters with an exceptionally well-run community, Goetheus says this is largely due to civilian cooperation.

"These people are tired of war," Goetheus said, "and would welcome peace at any price. Peace with American occupation seems to them to be much preferable to continued resistance. I believe they are not unhappy to see us here. No case of sabotage by an inhabitant has yet occurred."

The inhabitants are known to have foiled several attempts by Nazis to organize sabotage. When the Nazis at Aachen sent a former citizen of Monschau back to his hometown as a refugee with instructions to wreck its central telephone exchange, the hometown boy merely removed vital parts of the exchange and hid them, telling others where they could be found. When the Americans came, the equipment was restored.

Before evacuating Monschau, the Nazis also planned to destroy its fire-fighting equipment. Townspeople, hearing this, hid the community's fire engines in a cave. After the Americans arrived, they hauled it out again.

Capt. H. M. Tibbits, a former Chicago banker, attached to Goetheus' staff, pointed out that when the Yanks arrived they found 76,000 reichsmarks in the local bank, now under American control. Soon new deposits brought this up to 100,000.

Paul Mallon Discusses—

Evaporation of American Political Campaign

NEW YORK—Luckily the non-sense of American political campaigns generally evaporates as fast as the ballots themselves, which, once counted, lose their value and become waste paper. Only substance survives. Falseness cannot endure the calmer atmosphere of reasoning and acquire permanence.

In the closing of the campaign some hasty people on the radio, for instance, suggested Dewey or Roosevelt should be impeached for something or other which was not clear in the speakers excited minds. And at the other extreme I heard the all too-reasonable suggestion that now the election is over the losers should give in their viewpoints to the winners. "The issues are decided" and now "we must all work together." Neither course is likely to be followed this time. The frenzied few will quiet down gradually from impeachment thoughts as they come face to face with new developments. It is equally inevitable that the genuine faith of people in certain truths and ideals at the moment I am writing this, before election, is not going to be turned around for the espousal of opposite ideals after election. To think many people on either side are going to change like that is to assume they never really believed what they said. In this election certain social forces were brought into clash. Those same forces will in general believe on Wednesday what they thought on Tuesday and nothing in the world can make them change.

But there was a surviving substance developed during this campaign—a substance which could be as important to the future of the country and the world as the outcome of the election. Both sides promised the same things in great instances. This agreeable residue of the debate is what the country has the right to expect from the victor, indeed what it must insist upon. The mutual promises were basically these: Jobs. Dewey promised them to all and Roosevelt promised 60. (See MALLON, page 5)

More Than 80 Congressmen Will Leave Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some four score senators and house members—among them names that in years past have made headlines—will be missing from congress next year.

Those defeated, in the primaries and general election, and those who did not choose to run, will serve until the new congress, elected Tuesday, convenes January 3.

Members who then will depart from Capitol Hill include: Hamilton Fish, New York Republican house member, a pre-war non-interventionist; Martin Dies (D-Tex.), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities; and Senators Gerald P. Nye (R-N.D.) and John A. Sanaher (R-Conn.) whom vice-president elect Harry Truman had described as "isolationists."

Senators Bennett Champ Clark (D-Mo.); D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho); Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa); Rufus C. Holman, (R-Oregon); Robert P. Reynolds (D-N.C.); Elison D. Smith (D-S.C.); and Harrit W. Caraway (D-Ark.).

Day and Long had opposed the president's policies, both foreign and domestic. Dewey held the headlines last summer when he sponsored the resolution creating a special house committee to investigate the military seizure of Montgomery Ward's Chicago plant, on order of the president.

ELEANOR GOES A-SHOPPING

MAKING THE CHRISTMAS shopping season official, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appears at Arnold Constables' in New York and stops for a chat with Santa Claus, who, behind those whiskers, is Ed Nannery. The first lady looks over a selection of dolls and other toys no doubt with thoughts of her grandchildren in mind. (International)

Cheerier Outlook— For Christmas Shoppers

Iowa City stores which stocked Christmas merchandise last spring are noting layaways numbering above average. Although wartime restrictions of materials for toys have lessened Santa's load in the past few years, Mr. Claus won't have to hank his head when he climbs down the chimneys of youngsters this year.

It is true that the folks may not be able to buy new electric light Santa's way but they can buy tinsel and blown glass ornaments. Tricycles, scooters, roller skates, wagons and other heavy toys are "out" for the duration. Toys on hand are made from wood or cardboard, but they are sturdier and are put together better than last year.

Last year proud parents who bought Mary and Bill toys for Christmas saw them dumped into the ashcan, beyond repair, by New Year's. But Iowa City merchants aren't accepting "junk" this year.

While toys for junior will be higher priced, they are better constructed and will last longer. Iowa City toy dealers aren't stocking cardboard toys in any quantity. Besides the fact that they don't hold up, most of them are so complicated that it took one clerk four evenings to get one toy put together.

The war production board says that there will be a few toy soldiers and miniature automobiles and trucks made of zinc on the market this year. However, local dealers say that the supply is so small that only a fortunate few will be able to purchase such products.

Iowa City buyers feel that rumors to the effect that pre-war toys are beginning to come back are slightly exaggerated. There will be only a few reclaimed rubber balls and a few doll carriages with metal chassis. Doll carriage tires are made from "mud," the residue by-product of reclaimed rubber.

Train Tracks Plentiful - Although there will be no electric trains on the market, new tracks for electric railroad maintenance are plentiful. Toys with gears are as scarce as mother's nylnols.

When junior cries for big toys, mama and papa will be faced with a problem. A store that ordinarily had racks of bicycles, automobiles and gym sets are able to obtain only a few. Parents want the big articles and are willing to pay almost any price for them if they are well-constructed. Toy dealers don't have them to sell.

Taking the place of metal erector sets and tinkler toys are cardboard articles of the construction type. These cardboard toys are punched out and, when put together, form planes and battleships.

World War II seems to be leaving its mark on children's toys. One store features a bomb sight can drop pins on Germany and Japan. Cardboard and wooden planes, submarines and jeeps are sold for the amusement of young boys when they play soldier.

Wooden toys run to all sorts of pull affairs—animals, noise-makers and small weapons such as jeeps and battleships. Junior will find a wooden rocking horse to take the place of his metal automobile.

On the brighter side of the picture, the shopper will find dolls in abundant quantities. There are mama dolls, baby dolls and dolls dressed in the costumes of foreign nations. There also are plenty of teddy bears and stuffed toys.

Only Few With Real Hair - However, little sister is due for a disappointment if she is very particular. Only a few of them have real hair, the kind that can be combed and curled. Most of them have mohair or just plain yarn and string wound into curls.

Balls are stuffed with a kapok filler, really designed for floating instead of bouncing. Blackboards are numerous although slate ones are scarce.

Card games are hard to get because of the paper shortage and the shopper will find only a limited supply of checkers, dominos and dart games this year because brother in service overseas is getting his share.

With a real need for toys, manufacturers' ingenuity usually hits on something, and this season, finds a number of novelties on the market which should make Mary and Bill a little happier.

The will of John J. Knepp, who died Oct. 21, was admitted to probate in district court yesterday. Lloyd O. Knepp was appointed executor without bond.

Attorneys for the estate are Wilson, Clearman and Brant.

Record Player

The war has introduced new plastic doll dishes and a few unbreakable steel ones. One store has a wood and cardboard record player which a child can construct. Perhaps the mother or father who can't buy any kind of record player for himself will try his luck on that too.

Almost anything you can buy this year is limited in quantity. Consequently many people, remembering sad experiences of last year, are toy shopping early.

Handle that Cord with Care

DON'T play "tug-of-war" when disconnecting an appliance. Instead, grasp the plug firmly and pull. You'll save wear and tear on hard-to-get cords and reduce the possibility of future trouble. Other cord-care ideas are listed below.

- For Longer Cord Life:
 - ★ In using and storing cords do not kink or bend them sharply.
 - ★ If cord is permanently attached to the appliance, wrap it loosely on the supports.
 - ★ If cord is stored by itself loop it loosely over two round supports a few inches apart.
 - ★ Be sure to keep cords free from oil or grease.
 - ★ Repair cords immediately if they become frayed.

Hawkeyes Meet Wisconsin in 50-50 Battle Today

Iowa Hungry For Victory

Woodard, Stewart Out of Lineup; Jim Hansen to Start

Probable Starting Lineups

Iowa	Pos.	Wisconsin
Rose	LE	Mead
Winslow	LT	Meyer
Mohrbacher	LG	Collins
Fagerlin	C	Weiske
Benskin	RG	Davey
Kelso	RE	Laubenh'm'r

Hansen	FB	Cox

Time: 2 p. m.
Place: Camp Randall stadium, Madison.

Officials: William A. Blake (Iowa) referee; Ernie Vick (Michigan) umpire; Herb Steger (Michigan) field judge; Stuart Willson (Minnesota) head linesman.

Broadcasts: WSUI, Iowa City; WMT, Cedar Rapids; WHO, Des Moines; KRNT, Des Moines.

It will be a hungry Hawk with an eye for victory which will endeavor this afternoon to wrench a win out of the grip of the Wisconsin Badger before some 15 to 18,000 onlookers in Camp Randall stadium at Madison. Harry Stuhldreher's men possess a triumph over Northwestern while Iowa is winless in Big Ten competition.

Madigan's Youngsters
For the first time this year Slip Madigan's young team is an even choice with a conference foe. True, this might not be the case if it were not for the fact that the Badgers will definitely be minus their strongest tooth in the person of young Jug Girard, admittedly one of the west's better publicity agents, who is out of the battle with a seriously injured leg. Odd as it may seem, considering their poor record up to this juncture, the Hawks by triumphing have a chance to lift themselves out of the league cellar. Minnesota and Northwestern, present basement companions, face strong foes in Indiana and Purdue.

However, despite its none too brilliant performance Wisconsin still features some experienced performers with a good deal of ability. In place of Girard Stuhldreher will start either Johnny Fee, who did a fine job as a passer against Purdue after Girard's departure, or little man Jerry "Crick" Thompson who has been an adequate fullback. Hard-hitting T. A. Cox will be at full, and returned speedster Joe Campbell will be the other halfback. Iowa must use a net on veteran end Roger Laubenheimer who employs glue-covered fingers on passes.

Backfield

For the Hawkeyes Slip Madigan will field a backfield which looks like a golf course—full of holes. Dick Woodard's leg injury may let him see little action if at all, while fullback Jim Hansen will be bothered by a bad knee, although he will start. Nelson Smith, the newly-discovered explosive on legs, will be at left halfback, and Bill Kersten will step over to right half. Herb Byers or Al McCord, neither one a challenger for the world's heavyweight title, will call the plays.

Game Captain

Don Winslow, who has been appointed game captain, will be at one tackle, although he is pretty well bruised, and it appears that Stan Mohrbacher will display his newly polished wares at one of the guards. Jack Kelso will provide hard blocking at one end and Forrest Masterson and Bill Benskin will share right tackle. Anyway, the whole affair is set up to let the scales tip either way. It is to be hoped that the Hawk will carry enough weight to throw the Badger off balance.

Great Lakes Faces Strong Third Airforce

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Great Lakes' once-beaten and once-tied Bluejackets try for their seventh victory of the season here today against a strong Third Airforce eleven from Charlotte, N. C., whose only set back in seven games was by undefeated Randolph Field.

The Bluejackets, priming all week to stop Charley Trippi, former Georgia star, and Bob Kennedy, ex-Washington State ace, will be outweighed about 11 pounds per man in the backfield. Coach Paul Brown, however, looks for the speed of his ball-carrying quartet of Jim Youel, Eddie Suenz, Chuck Avery and Jim Mello to offset the weight disadvantage.

Hoppe Regains Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Willie Hoppe of New York went into the lead again last night in the defense of his 3-cushion billiard championship against Welker Cochran of San Francisco.

In the sixth block of the 1,500-

AT LEFT TACKLE this afternoon for the Hawkeyes will be Bill Benskin, freshman who played for Lincoln high school of Des Moines in his prep days. Benskin has been an Iowa regular since the beginning of the season and has seen considerable service in the Big Ten games.

Fighting City High Eleven Goes Down To Wilson of Cedar Rapids, 12-0, in Finale

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

The "off again, on again" City high Little Hawks had one of their frequent off nights last night as they fell victim to the power of the Wilson Ramblers to the tune of 12 to 0.

It was apparent from the start that the Hawkllets had lost the fighting spirit that they showed last week in tying favored Burlington. Trying desperately to stem the powerful Rambler backs, the Hawkllets aided their own downfall with numerous penalties.

Three Opponents

The perpetrators of the Red and White defeat were three men in white: A fullback by the name of Farmer, halfback Birkicht and another halfback Tommy Gaines. It was the combination of Birkicht and Gaines on the ground and Farmer through the air, that spelled defeat for the Hawkllets.

The Ramblers scored early in the first quarter, in fact only seven minutes playing time had elapsed when Farmer pitched a 20-yard pass to Gaines who dashed for 15 more yards before he was finally stopped on the one-yard line. On the next play, Birkicht exploded through the center of the line and sailed into the end zone for the first Wilson touchdown. Birkicht's kick was wide.

Sangster

Wilson kicked off to Sangster who took the pigskin on his own 25 and made a spectacular run-back of 35 yards. It looked as though the Hawkllets were coming to life as Housel broke through for six on the first play, but three line smashes lost two yards and the Red and White were forced to kick as the quarter ended.

Wilson booted as the second quarter opened, Olson taking it on the City high 19. On the first play Washburn, on an end run, lateralled to Sangster who plowed to the 30 before he was brought down. But once again the fire of the attack died and the Hawkllets kicked out of danger.

Hawks Threaten

The Little Hawks threatened the Wilson goal only once, but penalties forced them back. Birkicht, trying to punt, fumbled and the Hawks recovered on the Rambler 25-yard line. Lacinia plowed for five to the 15. Housel hit center for four. Lacinia, in two smashes, reached the 6-yard line, but here the Little Hawks were penalized five for offside. Wilson took over on their own 11, ending the only serious threat the Little Hawks made all evening.

In the third quarter, Farmer and Birkicht took turns pitching as the Ramblers marched from 50 yards out in three pass plays to score. It was Farmer to Anderson on the ten and the speedster skirted down the sidelines without a hand laid on him as Wilson marked up its second counter.

point match Hoppe defeated the challenger, 55-29 in 49 innings. Hoppe scoring a high run of five, Cochran scoring no better than three.

Weatherman Will Determine Army Outcome

NEW YORK (AP)—Weather conditions became a prime factor in today's Notre Dame-Army football game in Yankee stadium following an all-day rain yesterday.

Both mentors have hinted broadly that aerial plays figure prominently in their strategy for the game in which the Irish hope to keep alive their habit of never having lost to both the Cadets and Navy in the same season. Army is trying to break a 13-year losing streak.

The gridiron in the stadium has been under cover. The canvas will not be removed until game time today, assuring firm footing for such fleet backs as Notre Dame's Bob Kelly and Army's Glenn Davis.

Both teams reached the area of combat yesterday without a single bonafide casualty. Bobby Dobbs, ailing fullback on the starting Army eleven, was declared in shape by the team physician but Lieut. Col. Earl Black, head coach, said Dean Sensenbaurer would start at that position.

Notre Dame's probable starting lineup had Nanzio Marino, 18-year-old freshman from Windbar, Pa., at left half. Until two weeks ago the job belonged to Achille Maggiori, a marine V-12 student who was transferred following the Illinois game.

Ed McKeever, Notre Dame coach, reiterated as he and his civilian footballers reached Bear Mountain, N. Y., that "we will throw that apple around tomorrow." Frank Danewicz and Joe Gasparella are the Irish hurlers.

The V-12 Notre Dame contingent will arrive at Bear Mountain this morning in time for mass and breakfast before coming to New York by bus.

Army went to the Knollwood country club in Westchester county for the night.

The Cadets, unbeaten this year and with 360 points scored in six games, haven't crossed Notre Dame's goal line since 1930. Their last triumph was in 1931 by a 12 to 0 score. The Irish were undefeated until last Saturday when Navy triumphed, 32 to 13.

The stadium's 72,000 seats have been sold out.

Main Bout at Omaha Ends in Knockout

OMAHA (AP)—The main bout on the Omaha fight card last night between Larry Watson, 171 pounds of Omaha and Lou Angelluci, 162 pounds, of Chicago, resulted in a first round knockout. But it was the referee Alex Fidler of Sioux City who hit the canvas, not the fighters.

Fidler had stepped in to break the fighters apart a cut appeared over Watson's eye, but he wasn't quick enough and a right hook by Angelluci caught him squarely. The bout was awarded to Angelluci on points.

Second Guess

Hawk Threatens Patched Up Badger
By TERRY TESTER

Today is the day. This afternoon in the Madison stadium a revived Hawkeye team will have a chance to show their eight Big Ten brothers, and the Badgers in particular, that Iowa is more than just a breather on their schedule and that the Hawks can and will constitute a threat in any man's language.

Wisconsin will be out two first string linemen, plus Jug Girard and the reserve quarterback for the contest, whereas Iowa will go into play without Dick Woodard and John Stewart.

Big Jim Hansen, the Hawk's reliable fullback, is still on the starting list to the delight of Iowa fans who count on him for constant and steady line-plunging such as he exhibited several times in the Nebraska game.

Middlewestern sports writers took up about evenly on the Hawk-Badger tangle with the only agreement seeming to be that the score will be low and each team will be limited to one touchdown, if that. One paper picks Iowa, 7 to 6 (evidently the Badgers can't add), while another spots Stuhldreher's boys in a 6 to 0 shutout.

Personally we think the Hawks will win. Maybe it's just a hunch—or you can call it woman's intuition—but they always seem to score their surprising upsets over the Badgers. (i.e. Homecoming two years ago when a 6 to 0 surprise win sent the students out to burn the corn monument.)

So we'll string along with Iowa—and, by the way, with a guy named Smith.

If you're missing the Seahawk game this afternoon (and you shouldn't—tune into KRNT, WMT or WSUI and listen for yourself. And, remember, we told you so.

And a footnote about the Seahawk game this afternoon:

According to the Des Moines Register there's an All-American on the Bunker Hill squad that the Seahawk scouts haven't been able to get a squirt at, even though they've followed the team closely for several weeks. It might provide a few fireworks, at least in the opening minutes.

Illini Steady on Eve Of Michigan Battle; Purdue Faces Wildcat

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Illinois and Michigan, still much in the running for the Big Ten football championship the Wolverines shared in 1943 with Purdue, collide in an expected touchdown duel here today before a crowd that may exceed 45,000 fans.

Illinois, with an explosive T formation offense that has produced an average of five touchdowns through seven games, comes here with its "breakaway" backs, Claude (Buddy) Young, Eddie Bray and Paul Patterson, thoroughly rested after an open date last week.

Michigan, whose smooth running attack has averaged 395 yards a game in its last three starts against Northwestern, Purdue and Pennsylvania, will be trying for its fifth straight win.

Each team has lost once this season in Big Ten competition and both have yet to play Ohio State's conference leaders. Oddly enough the Wolverines took a 20 to 0 thumping from an Indiana eleven that Illinois outscored, 25 to 18, and the Illini dropped a 35 to 19 decision to a Purdue club Michigan mauled, 49 to 14.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers, striving for their fourth Western conference triumph against one defeat, meet Northwestern's improving Wildcats before an expected crowd of 35,000 at Dyche stadium today.

The heavily-favored Boilermakers who need a victory to keep on the heels of undefeated Ohio State, will concentrate most of their attack in fullback Boris (Babe) Dimancheff, leading conference scorer with 48 points. The Wildcats hope to surprise Purdue with a new-found offensive threat halfback Hank Altetper, who sparked his mates to a 14-4 tie with Minnesota last week.

Iowa State

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Iowa State, fortified by six former University of Nebraska griders who are navy trainees station on the Ames campus, will be seeking its third Big Six conference football victory against the Nebraska Cornhuskers here today.

Victory-Bound Seahawks Set For Undeclared Bunker Hill

Probable Starting Lineups

Seahawks	Pos.	Bunker Hill
Phillips	LE	Evans
Schleich	LT	Perry
Kapter	LG	Morrill
Ramlow	C	Van Gunin
Pinter	RG	Obeck
W. Smith	RT	Maikkula
Horvath	RE	Dyckstra
Taylor	QB	Schwally
Sullivan	LH	Kutner
Samuel	RH	Dauphinee
Mertes	FB	Elder

Time: 2 p. m.
Place: Iowa stadium.
Officials: John Waldorf (Missouri) referee; Ira Carrithers (Illinois) umpire; Dwight Ream (Washington) field judge; Vic Young (Colorado) linesman.

Playing their last service contest of the season today, Iowa's Seahawks are expected to cut another notch in their belt of triumphs as they seek their third straight national service championship when they meet the Bunker Hill naval air station eleven, a team which has been undefeated in the last two seasons of play.

Unbeaten Blockbusters
While the Blockbusters will be seeking their seventh straight victory, the Seahawks will go one better as they will be shooting for their eighth straight victory after dropping the opener to Michigan 12-7.

Although the two teams' records might seem to be nearly identical, there is no comparison in the caliber of competition which the two teams have met. The Seahawks have defeated some of the top teams in the country, while the Blockbusters have compiled their record against a much lower grade of competition.

Seahawk Victims

Lieut. Comdr. Jack Meagher's representatives have left their mark on such teams as Minnesota, Olathe naval air station, Second Air Force, Purdue, Ft. Warren, Marquette, and most recently a strong Tulsa team.

Bunker Hill's string of victories show a 33-7 triumph over Western Michigan, 22-7 victory over Bowling Green university, and two wins each over Ottumwa, 14-13 and 14-0, and Camp Ellis, 34-0 and 32-0.

Playing their last game for the Seahawks today will be Bluejackets Vic Schleich and Bus Mertes, along with the five officers, Art Guepe, Jim Lalanne, Perry Schwartz, Jim Poole, and Ray George.

Captain for the Pre-Fighters in today's game here will be Alex Kapter, 1943 Northwestern captain and guard, who has been one of the big guns, along with George Strohmeier and Schleich, in holding the Seahawks' opponents to an average of 94.5 yards per game.

Backs

By way of contrast the ground gaining backs of the Iowa squad have averaged 304 yards in their eight contests, due chiefly to the smashing line technique of Mertes, the explosive running of Bob Sullivan and Don Samuel, and the able piloting of quarterback Dell Taylor.

Only shift in the Seahawk lineup, which has worked together and won together with all the spirit and fight of a college eleven, is the substitution of Dick Ramlow at center for the detached Strohmeier.

Top Strength

At top strength for their final contest of the year, the Blockbusters of Indiana will field a line which averages a trim 205 pounds. The line revolves around a pair of bulky guards, Lieut. Vic Obeck, former Chicago Cardinal player, and Norman Morrill, ex-Texas Christian star and a 60 minute player.

The right end spot in the Bunker Hill eleven will be capably handled by Lieut. Gene Dyckstra, former great at the University of Illinois.

An eleven which has pointed for this contest all season, the Blockbusters, who are coached by Lieut. Comdr. Len Watters, are sparked by a gifted collection of backs, whose ability and experience rates as at least equal to that of the Seahawks.

At the key left halfback spot is Lieut. Mal Kutner, a Texas All-American who played on the original 1942 Seahawk squad, while teaming with him at the other wing is Neil Dauphinee, a Chicagoan.

Former Pro

The fullback position will be efficiently manned by Lieut. Red Elder, former Kansas State and pro star, while the quarterbacking job will go to Vic Schwally, another Chicago boy who carried a regular job as a freshman last year on the Northwestern team.

With this array of stars playing for Bunker Hill the outcome of the game may be closer than is expected, but the Seahawk power which has been so prevalent in the last few contests makes the Pre-Fighters the choice to win.

this afternoon with Indiana installed as a favorite. Offensively the teams are expected to be on a par but the Gopher defense has been inconsistent this season.

Minnesota pins its hope on the performance of Bob Kasper, a new backfield luminary, who is expected to see a lot of action.

Army Will Attempt To Break Tradition

Never in History Have Both Services Beaten Notre Dame

NEW YORK (AP)—Army's perfect-record title contenders attempt to finish the one-two punch that Navy started and knock Notre Dame out of the 1944 national grid picture today in the No. 1 game of a busy Armistice day program.

Never in the history of the South Bend university have the two service teams been able to trip the fighting Irish in the same season but the Cadets are favored to complete the double this time on the scoring punch of backs like Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard and Co.

Tickets have been sold out since late summer for the customary 80,000 turnout at New York's one "big game" of the season.

With Notre Dame expected to take to the air, a free-scoring thriller may result in a shuffling of the top ranking teams. The Army was rated first in The Associated Press' latest poll and the Irish fifth.

Second-ranking Ohio State does not expect serious trouble from Pittsburgh at Columbus and Navy, the nation's No. 3 team, appeared to have too much power for Cornell at Baltimore.

Close behind the Army-ND clash comes the meeting of Illinois and Michigan in a Western conference scrap before 50,000 at Ann Arbor.

Bowl bids hinge on southern contests involving unbeaten Wake Forest and the Duke Blue Devils who upset Georgia Tech last week. That game will be played at Durham, N. C. Bill Alexander's Engineers have a home date at Atlanta against a Tulane eleven that appears much stronger than its record. Mississippi State risks its perfect slate against Auburn at Birmingham.

East-Penn takes on undermanned Columbia, Colgate and Holy Cross clash, Brown shoots at Yale's win streak, Princeton opens against Muhlenberg, Dartmouth and Penn State invades Philadelphia to play Temple.

West-Purdue and Northwestern renew an ancient rivalry, Iowa seeks first conference win against Wisconsin, Minnesota entertains Indiana, Maryland treks out to Michigan State, Kansas and Kansas State fight for the state crown, Iowa State attempts to get back on the win path against Nebraska, and Oklahoma bids for the Big Six title against upstart Missouri.

MALLON
000,000. Indeed they both promised the method of furnishing them—free enterprise. Both promised against the Communist and Socialist way of furnishing them, (free enterprise clearly disavows Socialistic methods.) Both promised a high-wage, high-priced economy with fair employment practices and Mr. Roosevelt even defined his living wage as applying only to "a full work week" in rejection of previous trends toward less work. Both promised quick victory and a sound peace, and nearly agreed on how. They said they would continue existing military leadership for war, and would seek peace through the Jumbarton Oaks arrangement for a new League of Nations. On one league point only did they differ, and then not as much as advertised. The most fervid Roosevelt internationalists (the Ball-Davenport minority) said they wanted the American agent in the league council to vote for war only by constitutional means. And that is actually what Dewey insisted upon.

Behind these generalized agreements, there now lies of course, great prospects of change and sharp irreconcilable differences on both sides. On the Roosevelt side, or rather the inside, it became evident State Secretary Hull's health might eliminate his sound search for unity on foreign policy, and the administration's Economic Director James Byrnes definitely made arrangements to quit before election. If someone like Sumner Welles happened to get Hull's job, you can readily see how the measure of unity so far achieved would fade away. If the radicals took control of Byrnes' place, the change in domestic policies would be equally sharp. The changes through a new administration leadership by Dewey were more obvious and fully presented. No doubt the various self-seeking classes will be interpreting the general result for their own purposes by the time you read this, so it may be well to get the truth in first: A Roosevelt victory would not be a victory for the purposes of any of the minority groups which took leadership in seeking his election, because they do not control enough votes to accomplish such a result. Such a class victory was not promised. If Roosevelt is declared the winner, it will be solely because so many people were afraid of the war and thought he could conclude it sooner or better. A Dewey victory would reflect a demand for a change. Note—tomorrow I will factually analyze the foreign policy differences which are not fully set forth or stated with adequate clarity in the above terse generalizations.)

'Chili Chow' to Climax Hayride Party

A "chili chow" sponsored by the Lutheran Student association will climax a hayride party tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the First English Lutheran church. Lois Rutherford, A4 of Dodge, is in charge of arrangements for the chow; Jean Danson, A1 of Des Moines, hayride, and Anna Mee Riecke, A4 of Iowa City, program. Games, dancing and singing will precede the hayride.

GASTON MADRU, photographer in France during the German occupation, demonstrates the trick he used as he went about taking pictures of the Nazis without being discovered. Madru concealed his camera in a market basket on the front of his bike, the trigger attached to a black string running around to his hand. To conceal glitter from the sun on the lens, Madru filled the rest of the basket with bottles, all of which glittered distractingly. (International)

Operetta Dates Changed to Nov. 14, 15

Member of Cast Ordered to Report To Navy Nov. 16

Dates for "The Red Mill," (Victor Herbert) a musical play in two acts, have been changed to Nov. 14 and 15, according to Ansel C. Martin, director of vocal music at City high school.

Change of dates for the operetta, which was originally scheduled to be presented in City high school auditorium Nov. 16 and 17, was announced yesterday after LeRoy Vandenberg, who plays one of the leads, was notified to report Thursday morning for induction into the navy.

"The cast will speed up its rehearsal schedule so that the production may open Tuesday," Martin said.

The operetta is sponsored by the Iowa City high school music auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Robert Do Mott, president.

"The Red Mill" is the story of Con Kidder (Tom Dunnington) and Kid Connor (LeRoy Vandenberg), two Americans "doing" Holland who find themselves financially embarrassed and unable to pay their bill at the Red Mill Inn. Willem, the inn-keeper (Dick Beck) threatens to throw them out but Tina, his daughter, (Nancy Jones) intervenes on their behalf because they have promised to help her with her projected dramatic career.

Con and Kid are forced to work out their debt by acting as waiter and interpreter for Jan Van Borkem, burgomaster, (Joe Baker) at the wedding of his daughter, Gretchen, (Lillian Parizek) to the Governor of Zeeland (Duane Smith). However Gretchen is in love with Karl Von Damm, a poor sea captain (Paul Opstad) and is secretly encouraged by her aunt Bertha (Margaret Hiscock).

The musical comedy revolves around the planned elopement of Gretchen and Karl who turns out to be a missing heir and is allowed to marry the burgomaster's daughter.

Other members of the cast include: Franz, William Rodgers; Joshua Pennfeather, Jack Harris; Countess de la Fere, Ruth Husa; Flora, Joyce Johnson; Dora, Margaret Kemp; Lena, Betty Nolan; Anna, Carolyn Martin; Emma, Virginia Williamson; Martha, Beth Wilson; English girls, Beth Wilson, Janet Aiemer, Annette Braverman and Sue Funk; French boys, Dean Housel, Francis Spencer, Rex Parks and Jack Nelson.

Vocal and dramatic parts will be directed by Martin with William Gower, head of instrumental music at City high, in charge of orchestration. Gower will be assisted by Pearl West, Mrs. Dorothy Hillis and Mrs. Eunice Rundell.

The book and lyrics of "The Red Mill" are by Henry Blossom and music is by Herbert.

'Prostitution Not Dead, But Serious Post-War Problem,' Says Official

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The nation's leading venereal disease fighters were told by a government official yesterday that "prostitution is not dead in this country—it is only dormant."

"And right there comes post-war problem No. 1 on the social protection front," declared Mark A. McCloskey, director of the office of community war service of the federal security agency, in an address before a national conference on venereal disease attended by representatives of various nations.

Appeals for stamping out promiscuous sexual relations as a means of getting at the heart of the venereal disease problem also were voiced by Dr. Richard A. Koch, venereal disease chief of San Francisco, and by the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., dean of St. Louis university school of medicine.

Dr. Koch took the view that "the promiscuous girl and not the (professional) prostitute" constituted the major problem now and would even more so after the war.

Father Schwitalla said the medical profession, in addition to warring against the infection of venereal disease, should also warn against the promiscuity that he said leads to it.

"If we are going to conquer venereal disease finally" he said, "we shall have to devise methods for discouraging promiscuity. What is there left that will restrain a man except the safeguard of religion."

Legion Commander Says Armistice Day Takes on New Aspect

By POLLY COEN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"Originally Armistice day was a gala day celebrating what we thought in 1918 was the war to end all wars. Now we are back in that conflict to finish what was unfinished, and Armistice day takes on a different aspect as we stand in silent reverence for those who have given their lives in both World wars," said American Legion Commander Frank Lee as he outlined this morning's parade and ceremonies.

The parade will form at Washington and Gilbert streets, march down Washington to Clinton and from there to Old Capitol where services are scheduled to begin at 10:45.

Navy, R. O. T. C. and V. F. W. will participate with the American Legion in the services. Legion Chaplain F. Johnson will offer the invocation. Commander Lee and Richard Nazette, president of the World War II veterans, will speak.

Taps will be sounded at 11 o'clock and will be followed by the traditional two minutes of silence and raising of the flag.

Iowa City's courthouse, City hall, banks, public library and the AAA office will be closed all day. However, department and grocery stores will be open. From 10 o'clock until 11:05 the flag at City hall will fly at half mast.

This year, many World War I allies will hold ceremonies celebrating the cessation of hostilities in 1918 between the allies and the Germans, while another generation pounds Germany again and another armistice is only a promise of the future.

England will observe two minutes' silence amid London robot damage in a special ceremony at the Cenotaph in White Hall, France for the first time since Nazi oppression will pause and pay dual honor to her war dead and to ours. Italy, under a new war government, is free to do the same. Gaitly of the occasion is replaced with the solemn drum roll and the paying of homage to American dead. Until the servicemen and women are home the legal holiday observed in 23 states and by governor's proclamation in the others is in reality a memorial, not the jubilant celebration once entailed in a preliminary peace.

Linn County Attorney Carl Hendrickson stated that the sentence was suspended pending good behavior and on condition that Hash pay for all doctor bills for injuries sustained by the girl.

Student Pleads Guilty Of Assault, Battery

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery, Robert Hash, A1 of Cedar Rapids, was sentenced last night to 30 days in the Linn county jail with sentence suspended pending good behavior. Hash was charged with assaulting an unidentified Cedar Rapids girl last weekend or early this week in Cedar Rapids.

Hash was arrested yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Pat Murphy and Cedar Rapids Deputy Sheriff Pete Whitmore in the general library in Macbride hall. At that time he was charged with assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury.

Linn County Attorney Carl Hendrickson stated that the sentence was suspended pending good behavior and on condition that Hash pay for all doctor bills for injuries sustained by the girl.

Formal Ball For Scouts Over 15 To Be Held

A formal ball for Boy Scouts who are more than 15 years old will be held soon for local Scouts and senior members of Cedar Rapids and Davenport. Final plans will be announced by Scout Executive Owen B. Thiel who will complete negotiations for a dance band.

Scouts attending the planning meeting were Tom Cady, Kenneth Reed and Mickey Thomas of the Explorer Scouts; Wayne Fliss, Franklin Knower and Bill McCreeby, all Air Scouts.

The first public coffee house was opened at Oxford, England, in 1650.

CUT OFF BY GERMANS in the Belmont sector of the western front, a "lost battalion" of United States infantry was supplied with D-rations, chocolate and halazone tablets, by 105 mm. Popular Vote For President Closest Since 1916

By The Associated Press

Although the Dewey-Roosevelt contest was the tightest presidential race since 1916 in popular vote, five states gave the president a larger plurality than they did in 1916.

The states where the president got a bigger preference over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey than he did over Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 GOP nominee, are Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, New York and Rhode Island.

Willkie carried Michigan by 6,926 votes. While the vote is not yet complete, indications are that the president won the state this year by about 30,000.

Here are the president's winning margins in the other four states in the two elections, based on unofficial or incomplete returns:

Illinois—over Willkie, 102,694; over Dewey 142,384.
Minnesota—over Willkie 37,922; over Dewey, 51,084.
New York—over Willkie, 224,440; over Dewey, 316,013.
Rhode Island—over Willkie, 42,908; over Dewey, 44,706.

With 8,211 precincts not reported, the president's popular vote margin over Dewey stood last night at 3,071,883. The count was Roosevelt 24,269,864; Dewey 21,197,981. Roosevelt carried 36 states with 432 electoral votes and Governor Dewey 12 states with 99 electoral votes.
