G. I. Joe Goes to School—

"G. I. Joe Goes to School" was the subject of an address to the seventh session of the conference of governing boards of state universities and allied institutions yesterday morning by Francis J. Brown, consultant on Education, Washington, D. C.

Brown pointed out that veterans "do not want a special course" and that the great majority wish only to be treated as other civilians and as speedily as possible to lose their "veteran's" status.

"Some will want to economize on time and will welcome intensive courses; others will be glad to return to the leisurely atmosphere of the average campus and enjoy the summer vacation."

Another caution offered by the speaker was that of maintaining the standards of higher education. He suggested that schools should evaluate their own offerings and determine honestly the fields in which they can offer effective work to veterans and not try to "be all things to all students."

Evaluation of Privileges "The need now is not more legislation for veterans; it is to work out carefully, thoughtfully, and cooperatively proper administrative procedures whereby the veteran may be able properly to evaluate which of the special privileges available to all will be of greatest value to him," he said.

Religious, Moral Problems He went on to say that there would be other problems of social adjustment, morale and religion. "Perhaps even more than all else," he said, "the school and college will have to relate its work and activities to those of all other agencies of the community. Also, it must enlist the assistance of the entire community in maintaining a school budget at a level essential to meet the numerically greater and qualitatively more difficult task essential to render maximum service."

In describing the G. I. bill of rights, Brown said that our nation "has by law provided unprecedented unemployment compensation, sickness and hospitalization benefits, loan and land provisions, post discharge pay, preferential employment rights and a program of education that is the most forward step this nation has ever taken in equalizing educational opportunity for some fifteen million veterans."

Back Tracks

1922 Major, a valuable Boston terrier, underwent a blood transfusion operation for swallowing the top of a perfume bottle. A French air dale donated the blood. Now the question has come up, is Major or isn't Major a pure blooded Boston terrier?

1926 Two little girls saw a stork hovering low over the roof of their home in Omaha, Neb. They called their father, but he couldn't come. He was inside the house, listening to the first cries of his newborn son.

1928 A child marriage, with the bride 2 1/2 years old and the groom a man of 3, was held at Horace Mann school last night. A juvenile Billy Sunday read the service.

1932 Even the best laid plans go wrong... even those of astronomers. The widely publicized Leonid meteoric sky show failed to materialize, to the bafflement of astronomers.

1934 Alice of Wonderland, age—82, died today. When this little old lady was ten, she inspired C. L. Dodgson to desert his mathematics to write of mad hatters and March hares.

1936 Franklin D. Roosevelt's philosophy, as explained by his wife: "Each day must be lived. Do what you think right or best. Decide what must be done and cease worrying."

1938 Three non-Aryan musketeers, Finkelstein, Licker and Goldstein, were set apart today by Mayor LaGuardia to guard prominent Nazi visitors in New York.

1940 SOUTH BEND: Iowa came, saw and conquered, with a 7 to 0 victory over the previously unbeatable Irish.

Interpreting the—

War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Paced by a two-army American attack at the Aachen breach in the German Siegfried line, the west front is roaring with aggressive action from Holland to the Swiss border.

The scope and fury of the expanding allied assault indicate that the expected winter break-through campaign is in progress although it has still to reach its maximum intensity in the critical north.

Field advice disclosing that the long unmentioned American Ninth army had gone into action failed to place it exactly but it apparently is striking astride the German-Dutch border between the American First army and the right wing of Montgomery's forces.

From the scene of the recent First army attack in Hurtgen forest to Roermond on the east bank of the Meuse it is substantially 40 miles air line. The apparent concentration of two full American armies on that narrow front fully justifies the assumption that a break-through effort is in progress there with Cologne or the Cologne valley west of the Rhine as the allied objective.

Anticipated British success in clearing the foe from the Meuse bulge will protect the Ninth army left flank. The advance of the Ninth army toward the Roer above its junction with the Meuse at Roermond should also help the British cross the river when they reach it to come to grips with Siegfried line defenses in Germany itself.

HOW ALLIES MAY DECIDE FUTURE STATUS OF GERMANY

WITH THE FUTURE STATUS OF GERMANY still in the discussion stage, France, now recognized as one of the "Big Four" planning the future of Europe, is expected by diplomatic sources to make an early bid for permanent annexation of most of the German Rhineland.

Opinion On and Off the Campus—

Should the Electoral College Be Abolished?

Ruth Olson, A2 of Iowa City: "Yes, on the whole, I don't think it shows how the people want an election to go. In this election the popular vote was close but the electoral vote was extremely large in favor of President Roosevelt."

Dorothy Edmondson, A1 of Columbus Junction: "I think it should be abolished. I favor this new plan whereby the popular votes of the states, which sometimes are close, will have more meaning to the outcome of the election."

Betty Denkman, A4 of Davenport: "Yes, under our present system it is possible for a candidate to receive the victory by popular vote but be defeated by the vote of the electoral college either because a member of the college did not vote the ticket or his district or because of the allocation of the votes."

Mildred Almstead, G of Hudson, N. Y.: "Yes, I do. I think it is an outmoded system that might result in a political tragedy such as the Hayes-Tilden contest. Hayes won the election by one electoral vote although Tilden had the largest number of popular votes."

Lois Heston, A4 of Fairfield: "Definitely. The present method doesn't give an accurate picture of the way the state votes. Deciding the election by popular vote would be a much fairer method."

Shirley Gordon, A2 of Lowell, Mass.: "Yes, definitely. The people should decide who they want for president. Their vote should be the final one, rather than the vote of the electoral college."

Nadyne Mathis, A2 of Iowa City: "I don't think the electoral college should be entirely abolished, but I think the electoral votes of the state should be divided. All the electoral votes should not go to the one person who receives the majority of popular votes in any given state."

Dorothy Greer, A3 of Aledo, Ill.: "No, I don't. If the electoral college were abolished it would mean they would go by popular vote and the states with the small populations would have their votes smothered by the states with large populations."

Lois Harkness, C3 of Davenport: "It certainly should. The electoral college is merely a holdover from the days when 'states rights' was the all-important thing."

Rina Feldman, A3 of New York City: "Since it's really not a fair representation of the popular vote and does not always express the 'people's choice,' I believe some other system could be devised which would be more in line with the principles of a democratic country."

Sarah Gibson, A1 of Marshalltown: "I am undecided. The electoral college gives the smaller states more of a chance in comparison with the larger states, but the fact that the electoral college may be contrary to the popular vote makes me hesitant in acclaiming this system."

Myron Lorenzen, A4 of Waterloo: "I am undecided. The electoral college gives the smaller states more of a chance in comparison with the larger states, but the fact that the electoral college may be contrary to the popular vote makes me hesitant in acclaiming this system."

Mud—Western Front Morale Wrecker—

By KENNETH L. DIXON ON THE WESTERN FRONT Nov. 7 (Delayed) (AP)—As with the old question about the chicken and the egg, you begin to wonder after a while whether the mud causes the front or the front causes the mud.

Driving eastward from Paris to the Third army front there are few signs of warfare along its smooth sweeping highway as you roll through Sezanne and St. Dizier.

think the mud would freeze, but it does not. Rain changes to sleet, snow and hail, but the mud remains—sticky, soggy, mushy and semi-fluid. A freezing, paralyzing wind cuts through heavy clothing, but it doesn't even crust the mud.

Only now and then do you notice mudwalls which mark erstwhile bivouac areas, even though it's raining or snowing most of the time.

Water runs up the road edges and courses down ruts. Anytime you step out of a vehicle you sink halfway to your knees.

By now they have been in the midst of mud so long, it's part of them. They are living in an unending world of mud from which, seemingly, there is no escape. It is on their clothes, in their shoes, on their hands, feet, faces, weapons and equipment.

That is all the more probable since everywhere else along the front southward to the Swiss Alps American and French troops are pushing forward. Only the British-Canadian army group center in Holland, poised to strike anew at the Arnhem-Emmerich gateway to northern Germany, and a narrow and long dormant sector south of the Hurtgen forest are inactive. The Germans have been hoarding manpower, mobile field troops, as well as air power against the day when a full scale allied attack would fall in the west. It remains to be seen within days or even hours, however, whether they have succeeded in massing adequate reserves at the right places.

Everything is cold mud, and pretty soon you begin to see it mirrored in their eyes. Mud becomes the most overpowering single factor on the front.

Association Elects Ohio State Head as President

Opposes Compulsory Military Training

Urges Expansion Of ROTC Program If Necessary

L. L. Rummell of Ohio State university was named president of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions yesterday at its concluding session.

Other officers elected by unanimous vote of the association were: Vice-presidents, Richard Plock of the Iowa board of education, Burlington, Iowa, and Mrs. J. Louis Smith of the board of supervisors, Louisiana State university; secretary-treasurer, Judge Ora L. Wildermuth of the board of trustees at the University of Indiana; executive committee, John F. Brown, board of trustees of Rhode Island State college; Joe W. McBride, member of the board of regents at the University of Oklahoma, and Alfred B. Conable Jr., member of the board of regents at the University of Michigan.

At the conclusion of the governing board meeting, the following resolutions were adopted.

1. Resolved: The Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions expresses its sincere appreciation to its officers, particularly President R. W. DeVoe and Secretary Ora L. Wildermuth, for their continued interest and service in furthering the program of this organization through the past year.

2. Resolved: The Association extends to the University of Iowa and to the Iowa state board of education its thanks for their hospitality and courtesies during this convention.

3. Resolved: That it is the sense of this association that: We do not believe one year of compulsory continuous military training, "for which there can be no substitute," as is presently contemplated by military authorities, will preserve the peace of the world or contribute the maximum in national defense.

However, if the national policy of the United States in post-war years demands that we enter into a program of compulsory military training, we urge that the program of compulsory military training as now followed in land grant colleges, and the R. O. T. C. in universities and colleges be continued and expanded as an integral part of such military training.

4. Resolved: That it is the sense of this association that: Such federal aid as is now given in the specialized area of vocational education shall be limited to classes not above high school level, and further no provision shall be included in such appropriation for research and/or extension which might duplicate the activities of land grant colleges and experiment stations.

5. Resolved, further that it is the consensus of this association that: Notwithstanding this need of federal aid in providing specialized training in vocational education and agriculture and in replacing physical facilities as many have been lost by emergencies of war, this association is firm in its conviction that general education is a function reserved to the states and that any invasion by the federal government in the field of education and policies in primary, secondary or higher educational institutions is in violation of the spirit of our dual form of government and is fraught with the dangers that beset centralized governments the world over.

Special Late Permits To Be Granted

Special late permissions will be granted to university women to attend out-of-town plays, concerts and dances featuring name bands, it was announced last night by L. Louise Smith, A3 of Elkader, member of the central judiciary committee, at a meeting of judiciary chairmen from dormitories, sororities and town blocs.

The privilege will not constitute one of the other late permissions to which every woman student is entitled. To get the late permission a woman must petition the central judiciary board at least one day before she plans to be out of town. She must state in her petition how she will travel and at what time she expects to return. Each day a member of the board will review the petitions. The next day the woman may call at the office of student affairs to pick up a "goldenrod" slip saying that permission has been granted. This blank is taken to the housemother or householder and is to be turned in with her weekly report.

Helen Herrald, C4 of Webster City, who represents town women on the central committee, announced that a meeting of all town women will be held Monday evening in room 221A, Schaeffer hall, to elect someone to take her place on the central committee. The new officer will serve the last semester of this year and the first semester of next.

That women in sorority houses must get permission from the office of student affairs to be out of town for more than two days was announced to the sorority chairmen by Marilyn Nesper, A4 of Toledo, Ohio, sorority representative on the central committee.

When Demand exceeds Supply

The fairest way we know to ration travel is to tell the American people the truth, and let them divide the supply fairly between them—as they always have when there is less than enough to go around.

Today, on some routes, there is a very real shortage. Gas, tire and a very real manpower shortage restrict us from giving all the service we would like to give.

Bus travel is a weapon. Use it economically as you conserve food, paper, rubber and tin. When our service is not up to our peacetime standards, please remember we are carrying 2 1/2 times as many passengers as we do in normal times.

If you must travel, we are here to serve you. See, or telephone our agent for the least crowded schedules and days. Know before you go.

When traveling, be sure to get identification stickers on your baggage. We supply them free.

POPEYE

Yale Dean Emeritus To Speak Nov. 26 At Vesper Service

Charles Reynolds Brown, dean emeritus of the divinity school at Yale university, will speak at the first university vesper service of the school year Sunday, Nov. 26, at 8 p. m. in Macbride auditorium. The university board on vespers announced that his subject will be "Well Balanced Lives."

Dr. Brown, an alumnus of the university, is recognized as one of the outstanding ministers of America. In a poll which was taken 20 years ago, he was listed among the five best ministers in America.

One of the unusual characteristics of Dr. Brown as a vesper speaker is his "reading" of Scripture. Although he holds a Bible in his hands, he never refers to it, because he has memorized all of its familiar passages.

During his student days at the University of Iowa, Dr. Brown intended to become a lawyer. After graduating from the university he worked as a stenographer with law firms in the tri-cities and with an insurance company in Des Moines in order to gather funds for his future education. During this period, he decided to enter the ministry. He took his theological course in Boston where he came under the influence of the greatest ministers of that time, Phillips Brooks and George A. Gordon. After holding brief pastorates in Cincinnati and Boston, he became pastor of the First Congregational church in Oakland, Calif., where he remained for nearly 20 years. He then became dean of the divinity school of Yale university. Although he was appointed dean emeritus a few years ago, he still preaches from some college or prominent pulpit every Sunday. His appearance at the University of Iowa is in connection with an appointment at the Chicago Evening club.

During his stay in Iowa City, Dr. Brown will be the guest of Prof. and Mrs. M. Willard Lampe.

PROF. A. CRAIG BAIRD of the speech department opened the speaking program at the luncheon for conference participants. Virginia Jackson, A4 of Marion, acted as toastmistress in presenting student after-dinner speakers. Bob Ray, seated at the right, was general manager for the speech conference.

SHAKING HANDS after the forensic luncheon, Gordon Hostettler, debate director from Coe college, and Velma Martin, A4 of Laurens, discussed their opposing political views. Hostettler, formerly of the staff of the University of Iowa speech department, coached Coe representatives at the conference.

Scouts Plan Paper Drive

Scoutmasters and commissioners of Johnson county Boy Scouts scheduled the next scrap paper drive, a winter camp, the annual roll call, and a Boy Scout election and Citizens' day at a meeting Wednesday night.

Scouts will collect scrap paper in a drive Friday, Nov. 24. Starting Dec. 26, a four-day winter camp for Boy Scouts will be held at the scout reservation.

Neighborhood commissioners will conduct the roll call Nov. 27, to inspect troops to determine how many new scouts have not yet officially registered. Scouts will be in charge of the Iowa City administration for a day during Boy Scout week next February. Because 1945 marks the 35th anniversary of the national scout council, celebration will extend from Feb. 8 to 22.

Boy Scouts will be named to various administrative offices in an election for all troops. They will be aided by adult city officials in their duties for a day.

Eight St. Patrick's Students to Participate in Quiz Program

Eight students at St. Patrick's Catholic high school have been chosen to participate in the quiz program on Catholic authors and their books, to be held at 11:20 this morning at the school, in observance of National Book week.

The finalists are: seniors, Lonice Sorenson and Harriet Leoney; juniors, Jean Ford and Marie Montgomery; sophomores, Annabelle Rogers and Catherine Welter; freshmen, Janet Greer and Carmilla Schnobelen. Chester Fisher will be the quiz professor and Gwendolyn Michel, the announcer.

The finalists were chosen on the basis of tests given to all the students of the high school.

Members of Faculty Will Take Part in Methodist Vespers

"East Carolina College" or "College of Our Dreams" is the subject of the panel discussion at the 4:30 p. m. Sunday vesper service at the Methodist church.

The discussion will center around the improvements needed to make college what students want it to be. Included will be everything from curriculum, extra-curricular activities, rules, grades and student government to professors who use their own text books for lecture material.

Those taking part in the discussion are Prof. E. W. Hall of the philosophy department, Dean C. Woody Thompson, director of student affairs, Don Davis, El of Washington, Margaret Smyth, G of Ft. Dodge, and Carolyn Anderson, A2 of Flover.

Christmas Seal Sale Chairman Announces Complete Committee for County Campaign

Harold W. Vestermark, chairman of the Johnson county Christmas seal sale which will open Nov. 27, has announced the complete committee which will assist the Johnson county Tuberculosis association in the campaign to raise funds for the fight against tuberculosis.

Dr. George C. Albright will serve as county president. Other officers are Mrs. Frank T. Mahan, vice-president; Mrs. Sadie Seagrave, secretary, and William J. Parizek, treasurer.

Chairmen include: Mrs. Philip D. Ketelsen, mail sale; Mrs. Mildred Kessler, rural sale; Robert Ballantyne, publicity; Mrs. A. H. Harmer, booth; George Heather, bangle day; Virginia Jackson, radio; Frank J. Snider, rural education; Charlette Jeffrey, city education; and Robert F. Ray, speakers' bureau.

Chairmen for surrounding communities are Mrs. Sadie Seagrave, Oakdale; A. F. Droll, Hills; Mrs. Mary Herdliska, Tiffin; C. J. Koss, Swisher; Mary S. Reynolds, Oxford.

Mrs. Joe Kaspar, Morse; Mrs. Frances Wolfe, Lone Tree; Mary Wolfe, North Liberty; E. T. Sals, Kalona, and Mrs. Mildred Kessler, Solon.

Committee members will check mailing lists, fold sheets of seals and prepare them for mailing and address civic organizations on the work of the association. One group of women will sell seals from booths to be set up in business areas next month.

"Three leading functions of a tuberculosis association are education, case-finding and rehabilitation," according to a statement issued by Dr. Albright yesterday.

Christmas seals are the sole support of this three-way program which goes quietly forward in Johnson county in a ceaseless fight against disease and for health."

Correcting a common belief that the Christmas seal drive is sponsored by the Red Cross instead of the Tuberculosis association, Vestermark said yesterday that the Red Cross carried out the first Christmas seal drive in America in 1907. "Three years later the Red Cross formed a Christmas seal partnership with the National Tuberculosis association," he continued.

In 1920 it was agreed that the national, state and county associations should assume sole sponsorship of the sale.

Ninety-five cents out of every seal sale dollar remains in Iowa to fight tuberculosis. Five cents goes to the national association.

Don't Overload Your Washer

OVERLOADING a washer reduces its efficiency—is hard on the motor and mechanism — results in poorly washed clothes. By avoiding that mistake and following the suggestions listed below you'll obtain better as well as longer service from your washer.

- Don't Waste Electricity
- Check These Washer Tips:
- ★ Don't run washer longer than necessary. 7 to 12 minutes per tubful is usually sufficient.
- ★ Be careful when putting metallic objects or buttons through the wringer.
- ★ Rinse and dry the tub, flush clear water through the hose after each washing.
- ★ Follow manufacturer's instructions for oiling and greasing.
