Greek Leftist Forces Ordered to Leave City of Athens

Strikes, Battles Result in Enforcement Of Martial Law

ATHENS (AP)—An ultimatum to quit the Athens area was served on armed men of the leftist EAM (national liberation front) yesterday as the bullet-punctured Greek crisis mounted with a general strike and open battle in one section of the capital.

Violence spread after the bloody Sunday demonstration in which 21 persons were killed and 140 injured. Martial law and a curfew were imposed by Premier George Papandreu's British-supported government.

(The British radio in a broadcast recorded by OWI said the strike in Athens called by the left wing EAM party had spread to government employees.

General Resigns
(A Leopoldville broadcast reported by CBS said the Greek undersecretary of war, General Sarigiannis, had resigned as a result of EAM demonstrations in Athens Sunday).

The crisis was precipitated by EAM refusal to disarm and disband its militia, the Elass. The EAM insisted that the mountain brigade formed in exile under Papandreu's regime be demobilized simultaneously and charged it had right-wing tendencies.

A British communique last night reported a determined Elass attack was made on Anglo-Greek naval headquarters Sunday night and that an interpreter for the British had been shot to death outside the headquarters building.

Supports Government
British Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie in a proclamation declared "I reiterate that with the vast majority of Greeks I stand firmly behind the constitutional government, and shall aid them to the limit of my resources until the Greek state can be reestablished with lawful armed force behind it, and free elections held."

Greeks paraded before the British embassy with signs reading: "British soldiers: let us choose our own government." Outside the American embassy, crowds shouted "Long live Roosevelt."

EAM mourners, kneeling in the streets for a quarter-mile outside the packed Athens cathedral, prayed this morning for the dead of Sunday's demonstrations. After the prayers the people rose and cried, "Down with Papandreu!" and "Revenge!" Then the coffins were borne from the cathedral to constitution square where the demonstrators had been shot down by Athens police.

Reds Near Austrian Line

Pound Out Gains On 42-Mile Front, Reach Lake Balaton

LONDON, Tuesday (AP)—Storming over smashed strongpoints littered with enemy dead, the Red army in gains ranging up to 17 miles drew up last night on a 42-mile front in western Hungary before the flat, south shore of Lake Balaton, guarding the approaches to nearby Austria.

Early today a supplementary Soviet bulletin said Russian forces advancing up the west bank of the Danube were only 40 miles south of besieged Budapest.

In some sectors the Germans and Hungarians were in disorganized flight, Moscow declared.

60 Miles From Austria
At Nagybadony, the southwestern end of the lake front, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's racing columns were only 60 miles from the Austrian frontier—12 miles closer than on the previous day.

"The Germans are abandoning their military technique, their arms and military equipment," Moscow said of the fighting in this sector.

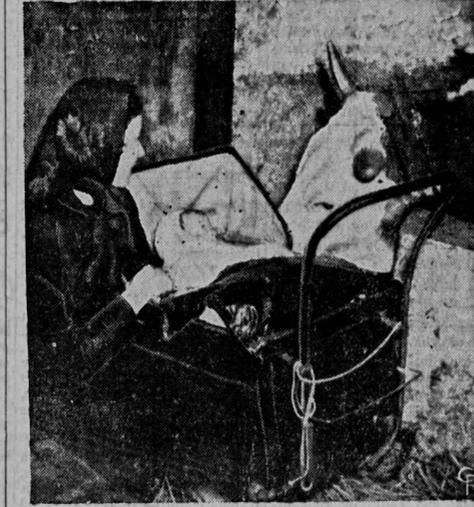

In northern Yugoslavia the Russians, operating jointly with Yugoslav troops, captured the Sava river stronghold of Mitrovica, 41 miles northwest of Belgrade, and seven other towns on an 18-mile front extending northward through Nestin on the south bank of the Danube.

Unrest in Vienna
There was no mention in the Moscow communique of the fighting northeast of Budapest nor at its southeastern gates, but as the Red army drew closer to the capital's back door and to the Austrian frontier European radios began to tell of unrest in Vienna.

The Paris radio said the Germans were evacuating industrial installations from both Vienna and Wiener Neustadt, an aircraft plant in the southwest. Austrian patriots have been battling the Gestapo in Vienna, Paris added.

From Stockholm came a report that Nazi governmental departments driven from Berlin to Vienna by allied air attacks last winter were being moved farther west.

Yanks Tighten Saar Lines

Drive Against Reich's River Defenses Along Maas, Roer

PARIS (AP)—The United States Third army lashing out along a 21-mile front drove forward yesterday more than two miles to within six and a half miles of the Saar basin's greatest industrial city of Saarbrucken, and battered it with eight-inch artillery.

The French cities of Forbach and Sarreguemines, screening this German city of 135,000 population five miles to the southwest and eight miles southeast, also were shelled as the lines tightened inside and around the vital basin and its war factories.

Drive on Saarbrucken
The 80th infantry division was driving on Saarbrucken from the southwest, the fifth division was little more than four miles from the Saar river eight miles to the west, and the sixth armored entered Diebling, five and a half miles from Sarrebuemines.

Beating off counterattacks by an enemy alerted at the rising menace to his coal mines and factories, the Third hurled more tanks and infantry into its expanding Saar river bridgehead at Saarlautern and fought deeper into the Siegfried line.

The United States First army pushed farther along the Aachen-Cologne superhighway to within 500 yards of the Roer river.

Clear Julich
Along the Roer river line, where the Germans have tanked the greater part of their tanks and a third of their infantry to protect the Ruhr, the United States Ninth army battled to drive the last desperate defenders from the west bank at the river fortress of Julich.

The British Second army to the northwest wiped out the enemy bridgehead on the west bank of the Maas river at Venlo, and drove the Germans back across the stream with their backs to the Reich.

Thus, the new week found United States infantry and armor across two of the Reich's river barriers—the Saar and the Inde at the edge of the Cologne plain—and driving hard against two others, the Maas and the Roer, in mounting battles opposite the Ruhr valley.

The German position on the Alsatian plain was deteriorating, and a front dispatch said resistance appeared broken southwest of Selstatt.

State Department Sees Shake-up

Assistant Secretaries Resign Positions

FDR Names Four Men to Aid Secretary Stettinius

WASHINGTON (AP)—Direction of the nation's foreign affairs, already under a new secretary of state, was put almost entirely in new hands yesterday by a sweeping top-level shake-up.

The resignations of three old-line officials were accepted with regret and President Roosevelt appointed the following men to aid Secretary Edward R. Stettinius:

Undersecretary—Joseph C. Grew, blue-blooded Bostonian, career diplomat and first-hand student of Japan, where he was ambassador for nine years prior to Pearl Harbor.

Cotton Merchant
Assistant secretary—William L. Clayton of Texas, who rose from an $8 a week stenographer's job to be the world's largest cotton merchant.

Assistant secretary—Archibald MacLeish, poet, soldier, and editor who is librarian of congress and once headed the office of facts and figures, forerunner of OWI.

Assistant secretary—Nelson Rockefeller, grandson of "John D." and now coordinator of inter-American affairs.

The appointments put heavy emphasis on economic affairs in foreign policy. The only experienced diplomatist in the list sent to the senate for confirmation is Grew.

To Handle Economies
Clayton, who formerly headed the cotton brokerage firm of Anderson, Clayton and company, Texas, was until recently surplus war property administrator, but served notice he would not take charge of the job of disposing of such property under a newly-enacted law, which he considered inadequate. In his state department post he will be in charge of economic affairs.

MacLeish will have charge of cultural and public relations. Rockefeller will oversee Latin-American relations, with an assignment also to integrate the work of his present office into the state department while terminating its strictly wartime activities "as war conditions permit."

Three Resign
The three assistant secretaries whose resignations were accepted are Adolf A. Berle Jr., 49, Breckinridge Long, 63, and G. Howland Shaw, 51.

The biggest surprise among the resignations was in the case of Berle.

These sweeping changes leave only one of former Secretary Cordell Hull's assistants in office. That is Dean Acheson who will have general responsibility for state department relations with congress and also will deal with international conferences.

The immediate reason behind the shakeup was said to be that Stettinius wanted to bring his own team into the state department.

Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement that Berle remains as head of the American delegation to the civil aviation conference in Chicago, "the proceedings of which he has conducted with skill and ability."

T. V. Soong Acting Premier Of China

CHUNGKING (AP)—Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, brother of Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek, assumed the duties of premier of China yesterday in a popular move apparently paving the way for a working agreement between the central government and the Communists of north China.

Soong's attitude toward the Communists is known to be moderate, and his accession to greater influence comes coincidentally with unconfirmed reports of an agreement in principle between the two parties to wage a common war against Japan.

Soong is regarded in Washington and London as possibly China's most capable diplomat and statesman.

Although Chiang Kai-Shek remains president of the executive Yuan and, therefore, actually the country's premier, it was felt that the appointment of Soong as his "right-hand man" would enable the commander-in-chief to concentrate more fully on his military tasks.

Soong is popular throughout the country, and his appointment will strengthen the central government immeasurably in the present critical military situation.

Another report said that the Communist leader, Gen. Chou En-Lai, had in his possession the draft of an agreement between the central government and the Communists, and that it awaited only the approval of other Communist leaders to become effective.

Airforces to Discontinue Training Women Pilots Visits Parents

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army airforces will pay a final tribute to its women pilots in ceremonies at Avenger field, Sweetwater, Tex., Dec. 7, and close out the WASP program.

The date marks the end of women airforce service pilots' training and the start of a two-week period during which those WASPs still on duty will be replaced by men.

Yanks, Japs lose One Destroyer Each In Ormoc Bay Battle

By The Associated Press
American destroyers, daringly sweeping into western Leyte island's Ormoc bay at night under Japanese aerial bombardment and shore fire, sank one enemy warship and damaged another, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today. A Yank destroyer was lost, probably when it ran into a floating mine, but most of the crewmen were rescued.

This naval action off the Japanese Ormoc base was disclosed soon after the United States navy reported its submarines, operating in enemy waters, added 20 additional Japanese vessels, including a light cruiser and a destroyer, to the great toll of enemy shipping sunk by submarines.

MacArthur's communique said the Yank destroyers pushed into Ormoc harbor to engage three enemy ships, probably destroyers. They sank one and damaged another, shot down six Nippon planes and probably destroyed two.

Despite continuing rains over Leyte battlefields American doughboys busily cleaned out Japanese mountain positions in the Limon and Dagami sectors. They captured a complete, undamaged field battery and 21 machine-guns.

Canadian Home Guard Battles Army, Civilians

OTTAWA (AP)—Troops of Canada's conscripted home army, now liable to be sent to fight abroad under the government's new policy, battled with regular service men and townspeople for three hours at Ft. Frances, Ontario, Saturday night in the first serious conscription crisis outbreak involving draftee troops, it was disclosed last night.

Six persons were injured, including high school girls and members of the draftee home army, originally conscripted for service only in the western hemisphere. Some participants were reported to have been armed.

Police at Ft. Frances, which is on the United States border 140 miles northwest of Duluth, Minn., declined to give details of the clash except to say that the situation was now in hand.

The outbreak followed a week of tension in connection with employment of the draftee troops on railroad work. Fighting involved veterans of the First World war and the present one, and servicemen home on leave from foreign theaters.

'Lover' of Totalitarian Countries Sentenced For Dodging Draft

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—John Bender, 27, Rankville, Pa., war worker whom FBI agents quoted as saying "I love Germany, Japan and Italy as much as any other country," was sentenced yesterday to seven and a half years in prison for draft violations.

"I have no love for this country or any other country, and it makes no difference to me who runs it," agents quoted him in court as he was convicted for failure to report for a physical examination, and for substituting "4-F" for "1-A" on his draft card.

Bender's brothers, Frank and Peter, are under five- and four-year sentences.

Trade Commission To Trace Causes Of Cigarette Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal trade commission is going to try its hand at finding out where the cigarettes have gone.

Chairman Wheeler (D, Mont.) of the senate interstate commerce committee requested the investigation. He announced yesterday the FTC had agreed to make it and to try to learn whether any breaking of laws had contributed to the smoke shortage.

Wheeler said he understood both the manufacture and the distribution of cigarettes would be covered in the inquiry, under the terms of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts.

Government agencies and trade sources have said more cigarettes are being manufactured than ever before, and that more are available for civilian purchase than in any year except 1943. Suggested explanations of the fact that they are scarce at the cigar counter have ranged from more smokers, through depletion of stocks by Christmas gift buying for servicemen overseas, to panic buying and hoarding.

The senate war investigating committee has agreed on a preliminary investigation, but has set no hearings yet.

Sent to Germany

PARIS (AP)—Genevieve De Gaulle, niece of the French leader, was detained by the Germans for possible use in an exchange during the occupation of France and finally was shipped to Germany, the "collaboration court" was told yesterday.

Henri Chamberlain, one of 12 defendants accused of aiding the German Gestapo, claimed he unsuccessfully sought her release.

Court Refuses To Dismiss Dorsey Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A prosecution motion for a dismissal of the assault charges against the Tommy Dorseys and their friend, Allen Smiley, was denied yesterday.

Deputy District Attorney Edwin Myers told the court that he was moving for dismissal on the grounds that there was not proper evidence to proceed with the trial.

Myers' move came after a short recess which was preceded by a defense surprise.

Antonio Icaza, a Panamanian sailor who has testified he saw the fight between Bandleader Dorsey and Jon Hall, was suddenly asked by the defense:

"Have you ever been convicted of a felony?"

"You have no right to interfere in my personal affairs," shouted Icaza.

He was instructed to answer the question. Shouting even louder, the Panamanian said, "No!"

"Have you ever served a term in prison?"

Icaza again shouted, "No!"

With two answers—"I was confused" and "I don't remember"—Icaza resisted defense efforts all day long to prove he wasn't even in Dorsey's apartment when the famous combat occurred Aug. 5.

In cross-examination Isaac Pacht, by referring to a deposition taken in connection with the civil action, asked Icaza:

"Didn't you in your deposition testify that you never during the Hall-Dorsey-Smiley fight were inside the apartment?"

"No sir, I was confused when the deposition was taken; I was sick," said Icaza. "I have read only 15 of the 209 pages in the deposition and I didn't sign it."

Supreme Court Settles Overtime Pay Cases

Declares Compensation Due in Some Cases For Awaiting Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court held yesterday that, in some cases at least, employees are entitled to overtime pay for waiting idle until some work turns up.

The court, however, declined to lay down a flat rule that such payment is mandatory under the fair labor standards act. The circumstances govern in each individual case, the opinions on two separate cases said, and it is up to trial courts to determine the facts. In one case, involving private firemen at an Armour and company soap factory in Chicago, the lower courts held that exclusive of time spent sleeping and eating the employees were entitled to overtime pay for time spent as fire guards at night. They remained on the company's property at night after completing a regular 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. shift as firemen.

During the night the men were restricted to the company's fire hall. They answered any fire alarms and made temporary repairs to fire fighting equipment. This work amounted to less than a half hour a week. The remainder of the time, outside of the sleeping and eating was largely spent in recreation.

De Mille Protests—'Political Tribute'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cecil B. De Mille, movie and radio producer, said in a statement yesterday that he will give up his weekly radio program "rather than pay one single dollar in political tribute which acknowledges that I am no longer a free man."

The American federation of radio artists assessed its members $1 to oppose proposition 12 on the November California ballot. The proposition, which was defeated, was described on the ballot as being the "right of employment, free from interference because an employer does or does not belong to a labor organization."

The director has another week—the deadline is one hour before his coast-to-coast show goes on the air—to pay the assessment. De Mille's statement said he believes no organization should have the right to "usurp the rights of an American voter and arbitrarily make up his mind for him that he must support or oppose any proposition on the ballot... I might afford to lose one dollar, but I cannot afford to lose my rights as an American citizen, or my respect for myself as such.

"Therefore, I could not pay the one dollar assessment to AFRA although I am a union man and a supporter of and believer in unions... surely a situation is unsound that denies the individual the right to work unless he contributes financially to the support of political views to which he may be opposed."

De Mille is said to receive $5,000 a week for his work on the radio show.

Miss Kellems Renews Censorship Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Miss Vivien Kellems said yesterday she knew how her correspondence with a German count in Argentina fell into the hands of a newspaper columnist and a congressman.

But the Westport, Conn., war plant operator refused to give any further information on the source of the "leak" at a public hearing before a senate committee investigating wartime censorship.

Instead, she asked the senators to hear her views on the "leak" behind closed doors. The committee, headed by Senator McKellar (D, Tenn.), recessed without a decision on the request.

The postoffice subcommittee is seeking to determine how excerpts from the correspondence between Miss Kellems and Count Frederic Karl von Zedlitz came into the possession of Drew Pearson, a columnist and Representative Coffee (D, Wash.). Coffee read the excerpts in a house speech, and Miss Kellems promptly charged that mail and censorship privacy had been violated.

The People's Revolution—

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace last night declared "the liberal Democrats know that the people's revolution is on the march," while "reactionary Republicans know that something is happening but can't quite figure out what it is."

In a speech prepared for delivery at dinner honoring Marshall Field, publisher of the Chicago Sun, on the paper's third anniversary, Wallace said the "reactionary Republican runs around shrieking alarm, hoping in his wild panic to gain some measure of security for himself, his wealth, and the wealth of his children."

"Many of these people are no more vicious than a chicken flopping around on the ground with its head cut off," he said. "They don't discern the trend of the times. They are blinded by passion and fear."

"Of course, there is another group that is subject to stronger condemnation than those poor frightened people of great wealth. This second group discerns the signs of the times clearly enough but goes ahead and says cold-

bloodedly, 'I am going to make all the money I can. Why not? After me the deluge.' This kind of man oftentimes eases his conscience by giving large sums of money to charities.

Nevertheless, from a Christian point of view he is subject to condemnation because he fails to use his influence to make the inevitable revolution beneficent, striving instead for short-lived power in the old-fashioned way."

Wallace said post-war wage cutting could reduce America's national income by $30,000,000,000 annually and could by reducing consumption cause such unemployment as to make the annual interest on our national debt "almost impossible to pay."

"enlightened plans for the employment of 60,000,000 people can produce a situation where the annual charge on the national debt can be carried almost as easily as in the twenties. The only truly unbalanced budget is labor not at work."

First Pension Bill for Widows—

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first pension bill for World War I widows and orphans ever to reach the floor of the senate passed that branch of congress yesterday without debate.

Authorizing benefits ranging up to $74 monthly, and estimated to cost $37,000,000 in its first year of operation, the bill previously had passed the house but must return there for action on extensive amendments.

Limited to widows and children of veterans of the First World war, the bill provides a basic rate of $35 monthly for widows, and $45 for a widow with one child. The house fixed a rate of $30 for a childless widow, and $38 for a widow with one child.

The senate approved benefit scale allows $5 for each additional child. In the case of orphans, benefits would start at $18 and range up to $36 for three orphans of the same veteran, plus $4 for each additional orphan.

Bombing's Like Football—

ROME, Nov. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—A group of eager young men whose leader had convinced them that bombing "is just like football—you have to practice all week to play on Saturday"—chalked up an unprecedented record of 93.5 percent accuracy in placing their missiles on German targets in October. Now it is shooting to better that mark.

The sharpshooters comprise the veteran 321st bomb group of the U. S. 12th airforce, flying B-25 Mitchell medium bombers, and they're commanded by 34-year-old Col. Richard H. Smith of Bellemeade Park, Nashville, Tenn.

Smith's fliers believe that 93.5 percent figure probably establishes them as the most accurate precision bombing group in the world. So far their claim is unchallenged.

The report said: "A 90 percent bombing accuracy record is something which was hardly thought possible six or seven months ago. The outstanding group in the theater during February, March and April was bombing in the 60s. This accuracy then was considered so remarkable that the group received a presidential citation for it."

It remained for Capt. Melvin A. Anderson of Seattle, Wash., a former reporter for the Seattle Times and now group bombardier, to tell the group's success secret:

"We've just got to hand it to the old man," he said. "Colonel Smith gets the guys all steamed up. Our main job for months has been on German bridges and the Germans are not dumb. They know that when we miss a bridge the first time, we probably will keep coming back until we bust it."

"That's been the colonel's best training plea. The guys have convinced themselves through him that they must practice so they won't have to keep going back to the same target."

Bombing accuracy is calculated on the basis of an imaginary circle with a 600 foot radius. Its center is the heart of the objective. An airforce announcement explains: "When bombers of a large formation all place their loads within this area the score is 100."

Quiet Pessimism in Business Ranks

WASHINGTON.—There is no use trying to deny that much of business swallowed its hopes hard last election day.

A quiet pessimism in those ranks has been evident since then. One nationally known corporation head expressed a widespread viewpoint when he said:

"We have accumulated reserves and if Dewey had won we would have spent these in expectation of post-war expansion; now we will save them for taxes and eventualities which may be imposed upon us."

Openly the big record-making companies (CBS and RCA) threw up their hands and granted Petrillo of the musicians union a bounty up to five cents each on the sale of every record for no good reason except that the government had failed to bring Petrillo to terms in a long strike.

The musicians do not need the money and Petrillo has only promised he will expend it to further the appreciation of music. The public, of course, will pay it, as usual.

A wave of strikes and greatly increased wage demands are expected by all after victory in Europe has relieved somewhat the patriotic pressure upon the unions, etc., etc.

But there is another side to the story, not being told. This country always has run to extremes. Thirty years ago it was dominated by selfish financial cliques without any sense of social responsibility or the good of the nation or its people. They got theirs in 1929. They got it because they became too big, took in too much territory. Men never seem to know how to use power wisely.

The Fascist movement in Germany and Italy would today be strong had it not taken in too much territory. Napoleon committed the same error. History is unanimous with evident proofs that those who feed on power always commit suicides by their unwise excesses.

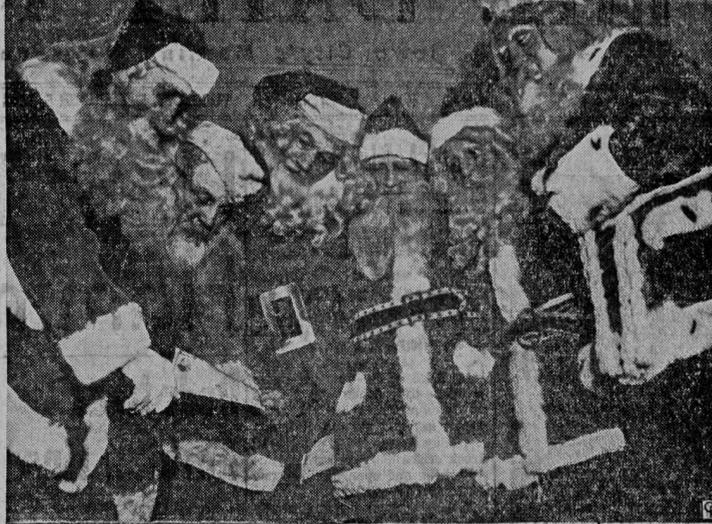

The unions are now at that crossroads. Obviously they must change from the Petrillo attitude (radical czarist leadership) so prevalent among them or they will kill themselves. Their tendency to dominate the whole policy of the country in the past few years cannot continue indefinitely without building up a public resentment which will engulf them, and no doubt lead to the opposite extreme.

Some wise men I know, give them another year at most on their present line. I think the time depends on how they are led. But their bankroll is getting too big, the messes on their hands are increasing, their power is growing too great.

I think, therefore, there is more than an even chance that events will mitigate current fears in this respect, a far better chance than the obvious one indicating they will increase wages continuously to the point of devastating inflation, ruin business and cause socialism.

EARRING DECORATION
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Sailor Archie Miller Jr., 20, strode through Albany's main streets yesterday—unblushingly wearing a fishing loop in his left ear.
The curly-haired pharmacist's mate earned the right to have his ear pierced for the "decoration" by participating in major naval engagements in the Pacific theater of war. Unofficial rules among veterans who originated the earring fad stipulate a record of at least one major battle.

Jack of Hearts His Lucky Card

—Drawing the "Jack of Hearts" from a card deck recently caused Maj. Jack E. Conger, Des Moines fighter pilot, to add a Japanese destroyer to his list of achievements.

Major Conger drew cards with another pilot of the "death dealers" squadron to decide which of the two was to strike the first blow on a destroyer anchored in Kopsang harbor. Fifteen minutes later Conger dropped a 1000-pound bomb which sank the destroyer.

The other pilot, Maj. Robert F. Stout of Fort Laramie, Wyo., who drew the "six of spades," brought his bomb home.

The 23-year-old Des Moines aviator is credited with 10 Jap Zeros in the air and half a destroyer during the Guadalcanal campaign. In addition he got three planes on the ground while strafing Babelthuap airstrip and has participated in 40 missions involving 80 combat hours in the air during seven weeks here.

Now on his second tour overseas, Conger piled up 71 combat hours on 30 missions over Rabaul and Kavieng prior to coming to this island.

War News

Surprise seizure by the American Third army of the Saarlautern bridge giving direct access to the Saar basin puts the Nazi command in a dilemma.

The Nazis must either rush armor and first line troop reserves to seal off the river puncture by quick counter attack in force, or risk the loss of the Saar moat on a wide front to expose the Siegfried line to broad based American attack.

There were hints in front line reports from the Saar sector that enemy armor was being thrown in to limit Third army exploitation of the Saarlautern break-through. By every sign it could ill be spared from the Roer-Meuse areas to the north where British and American armies are on the verge of breaking into the Cologne plain.

Front line observers estimate that the Germans have massed most of their armor and at least a third of some 70 under-strength field divisions behind the Roer and the Meuse to protect the Ruhr. That still is the potential scene of the most critical battle for the foe.

There is indicated German intention to make a last ditch stand in the north, sacrificing the outer defenses of the Saar basin beyond German frontiers for that reason. The American surprise puncture of the Saar gravely threatens to disrupt that plan, however, it was made by seasoned troops under the command of General Patton, skilled at seizing and swiftly exploiting any tactical or strategic advantage.

The fury of Nazi artillery reaction to the Saarlautern bridge seizure disclosed enemy anxiety over the American success.

The diversionary effect of that Third army jump upon the greater battle in the north, however, is apt to prove more important than its immediate threat to Saar basin centers. If the east bank foot-hold can be held and quickly expanded it could prove the break that General Eisenhower is waiting for to throw in his own reserves in the north if it forces shifting of considerable Nazi reserves southward to meet the Third army threat.

The other and most notable change in the European war map was the first December week opened west of the Danube below Budapest. The Russian triple-threat sweep beyond that river in

Second Semester Registration to Continue Through Dec. 21

Students to Register Individually

Should Arrange Now for Conference With Adviser

Second-semester registration began yesterday for all students in the college of liberal arts and will continue through Dec. 21, the last day for conferences with faculty advisers. The usual registration procedure has been changed this year to provide for schedule conference in advisers' offices rather than in Iowa Union.

After securing registration materials at the office of the registrar, liberal arts students should go immediately to the liberal arts advisory office, room 4, Old Capitol, to arrange for individual conferences with advisers. Registration materials, with the exception of cards one and three, should be filled out by the student before he reports for the conference.

Cards One, Three

When a student's preliminary schedule has been approved by an adviser, he will fill cards one and three. Departmental permission is necessary before a new course in music, a new laboratory course or a course in education may be added to the schedule.

If such permission is necessary, the adviser will not sign cards one and three until permission is granted. Registration is completed when the student leaves his signed materials at the office of the registrar immediately after his schedule has been finally approved.

Tuition Payment

Tuition must be paid Jan. 3 or Jan. 4 at the office of the treasurer in University hall. A two-dollar fine will be assessed for the first day after the deadline and one dollar will be added for each day after that.

Freshmen are the only students enrolled under the new curriculum, with other classes following the old system. Although some freshmen will be exempt from further work in communications skills, they must register for the second term and adjustments in schedule will be made at the opening of the new semester.

Course Sections

All students are expected to remain in the same section of any course, although some changes may be permitted with special departmental permission. Students may not take the second semester of any core course without having completed the first semester of work. The first term of Literature 11:1, Introduction to Social Science 11:1 and Western Civilization in Modern Times 11:31 will be offered second semester.

Army Doctor Tells Of Fighting Disease Under Jap Bombings

Capt. Jack G. Lustgarten, a graduate of the college of medicine at the University of Iowa, can tell a story of the men in the front lines of battle who carry no guns and whose main safety lies in their skill in dodging the bullets of the enemy. Captain Lustgarten is an army flight surgeon and his war memories are of the work of the men in the medical detachment.

His first taste of war came when he and five enlisted men were sent to a small town in Australia to fight an outbreak of disease that followed enemy bombing raids.

Five miles from Darwin word was radioed to the plane that the city was undergoing a heavy bombing. After the Japanese "Betty's" left, the medical plane was forced to circle the field while one bulldozer worked feverishly filling in bomb craters in the runway.

Japs Came Back

A few minutes after the plane landed, Captain Lustgarten was standing outside a hanger talking with several officers when the "Betty's" returned for a final blast that day.

"We dove for cover," he recalled. "We were in the midst of war, and believe me we were plenty shaken up."

Several months later, the captain moved up to New Guinea. His operating room was a tent set up in the jungle, not far from the front line. The sides of the tent were made from 20 bolts of gauze to keep out flies and other insects.

Thousands of soldiers were under Captain Lustgarten's care on this island, where the Geneva Convention rules for the conduct of war were practically ignored by the enemy. The air base area was bombed steadily, but still the work continued. Malaria and jungle fever "hit the men almost as hard as Jap bullets," the surgeon said.

"The aides did a wonderful job, though many of them were stricken by malaria and fever themselves," he added. "The impossible," he said "was accomplished more than once. Parts of wrecked planes were welded together to make all kinds of braces for arms and legs. The available hospital equipment was anything but fancy, but as a result of American ingenuity it did the trick."

The doctor with whom Captain

The men talked over problems that were incurred after the application of methods discussed at the October meeting.

The session was under the supervision of Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler of the mathematics department.

Stars and Stripes is an Army newspaper which gives our men on the battlefronts the news and features of the day. One of its editors undertook to "josh" a contributor who wrote in to say that the average GI overseas wanted to go home as quickly as possible. The response was immediate and terrific. Countless GIs deluged Stars and Stripes with letters, so many in fact that there was space in this great army newspaper to carry only a few. The editors wrote this caption over these letters: "Sure, We Wanna Go Home!"

Every American fighting man wants to get back to his firsie, family and friends but he also wants to finish the job. You know him better than anyone else. He is your relative or close friend. How soon and how safely he gets home depends on you. The more effective support, the more weapons, the more blood plasma, the more war bond buying, the more everything will determine the length of time before GI Joe really comes marching home. Seahawks Open at Home Tonight Against Ottumwa

Cagers Expect Tough Battle

Holland, High Scorer, To Start at Center; Skyers Untested

Iowa's Seahawk basketball team, fresh from a 52-31 victory over Bunker Hill Saturday night, will face the untested Ottumwa Naval Air Station team tonight on the fieldhouse court in the first home game of the year.

In running up a big score against the Blockbusters, the Pre-Flighters looked like a team which should develop into an outstanding five during the season.

Star for the Seahawks in chalk-in up the victory against Bunker Hill was big Joe Holland, Pre-Flight center who tossed in eight field goals and two fouls for a total of 18 points for the evening.

Other leaders in the sailors' attack were Jim Klein, former Pittsburgh player, who swished 5 field goals through, as well as three free throws. Only one point behind was T. B. Ary, reserve end on the Seahawk football squad, who earned a starting assignment after only a week's practice.

Ary hit for four goals and four free tosses to be third high man on the team Saturday night.

In preparing the cadets for tonight's game with Ottumwa Lieut. O. M. Nordly will probably use the same starting lineup which worked so successfully against Bunker Hill.

This five would include Charles Pugsley and George Leddy as guards, Ary and Klein as forwards, and Holland at the pivot.

Skyer mentor, Lieut. Ed Hickey, who was coach of an officers team here at the base last year, has picked a team from among 20 players who were left on the squad after two cuts.

Starting for the Ottumwa station will be John Kraft, only officer on the team, and Walker Lundberg at the forward positions, John Miller, six foot five inch center from the University of Oregon and Jim Reese and Jack Newell at the guard slots.

All the players are men with college competition behind them, but their exact ability is not yet known, since tonight's game will be the first of the season for the Skyers.

Orlyn Feurbach Shoots Last Minute Goal To Beat Gophers

AMES, (AP)—Guard Orlyn Feurbach's one-handed pivot shot with only two minutes left in a toss-up tussle gave Iowa State college a 42-41 victory over Minnesota's Gophers in the Cyclones' basketball opener here yesterday.

Slip Behind

Leading 40-38 with five minutes to go, the Cyclones slipped behind when George Kilen, six-foot-seven-three quarter inch substitute center tipped in a rebound to knot the score and then cashed a gift shot after he was fouled by Bill Bailey, Cyclone center.

Iowa State led at the half, 20-18.

Possession of the ball changed hands several times in the last two minutes, with both sides missing chances to convert free tosses.

Iowa State jumped into the lead when guard Bob Peterson looped in a long shot in the first 10 seconds of the tiff. Center Bob Stassen cashed a gift shot for the Gophers on a foul by guard Bill Bailey, but Bailey came back with a successful free toss for the Cyclones.

Army's Point-a-Minute Sets Scoring Pace

NEW YORK, (AP)—Army's point-a-minute football machine set the pace in 1944 as college teams throughout the nation rolled up scores at a faster clip than they have in any season since the early 1920's.

The Cadets garnered 504 points in their all-winning nine-game season for an average of 56 points a game.

The 104 teams covered in the 1944 Associated Press scoring survey totaled 14,336 points during the just-completed season, averaging 137.85 points each for the campaign.

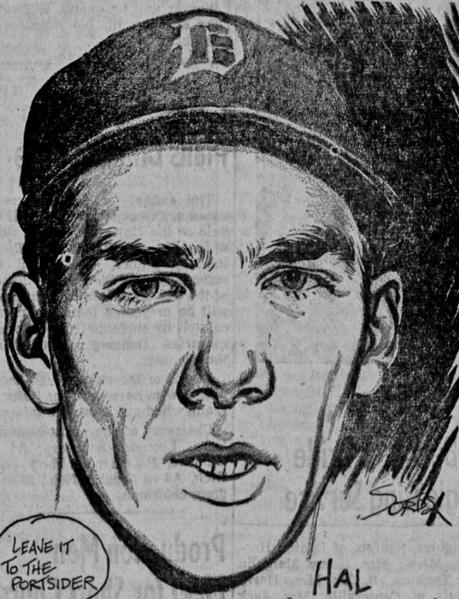

Rec Center Games Racking up their second win

The Iowa City basketball league, the Airliners won a close one from Williams Dents 26-8 for the Airliners.

In the second game of the evening Bremers knocked Oxford off the unbeaten list by 26-14 score. Bremers held a 14-5 halftime lead.

Byron Nelson Wins Open By One Stroke

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, won the San Francisco open golf tournament for the second year in a row when he shot a final round 69 for a total of 281.

Sergt. Jim Ferrier, Camp Roberts, Calif., by a single stroke, the latter carding 282.

Nelson posted a 35-34 on his last round against Ferrier's 35-36-71.

Starting the back nine of the final round, they halved the 10th and 11th holes in pars 5 and 3 respectively. Ferrier gained another stroke, putting him two ahead, when he bagged an eagle 3 on the 469-yard 12th.

His third successive two under par score on this hole. Nelson, himself, had a birdie 4. Ferrier, as twice before, struck a spoon shot on the green and sank the putt.

Nelson gained back a stroke with a birdie 3 on the 39-yard 13th, tanking a 15-foot putt, to Ferrier's 4. They halved the 14th in par 4 and Nelson evened the match on the 15th with a par 4 to his rival's 5.

Ferrier pushed his second shot to the right, chipped six feet past the cup and missed the putt.

Nelson jumped into a two stroke advantage on the 16th with a par 4. Ferrier was in serious trouble here, taking a 6. He hit his drive out of bounds, and his next was partially stymied by trees.

He elected to play under the branches but his ball hit low hanging boughs. He missed a six-footer and had to chalk up a double bogey on the hole.

The golfing soldier wasn't finished yet, however. He rapped in a 10-foot putt for a birdie 2 on the 148-yard 17th and cut Nelson's lead to one stroke.

He made a final bid on the last hole. Both were on the green in 2, Ferrier some 40 feet from the cup and Nelson about 12 feet. Ferrier's uphill putt stopped some five feet short. Nelson's putt hung on the lip of the cup. The par 4, however, gave him first prize of $2,666 in war bonds. Ferrier knocked in his putt for a par, to receipt for $1,866 in war bonds.

Kenesaw M. Landis Leaves Large Estate

CHICAGO (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner who died Nov. 27 left an estate estimated at $100,000, his will disclosed yesterday when filed for probate.

Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary, who filed the will, said the estate consisted of $700 in cash, $32,000 in bonds and the remainder in stocks.

Horvath to Receive Heisman Prize Tonight

Ohio State General Goes to New York For 'Dream of Life'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Leslie Horvath, 23-year-old Ohio State university dental student who seems destined to grab off most of 1944's individual football honors, shoved off for New York last night to receive the Heisman trophy, which by his own words is "the dream" of his life.

The Heisman trophy is awarded each year by the New York Downtown athletic club to its choice as the nation's outstanding collegiate grid performer in a poll of the country's football writers and broadcasters.

Horvath, alternating at quarterback and right halfback, sparked Ohio State to an unbeaten and untied season his fall and so valuable was his work in guiding a crop of freshmen that he became known as the "playing assistant coach."

Discharged from the ASTP last summer, Les was offered a contract for weekend play with the Cleveland Rams of the National pro league. He saw a chance to help the Bucks and turned it down.

His classroom work as an advanced dental student called for long hours in the clinic before he could report for practice.

He played the last few games with a set of badly battered legs. Long hours on his feet in the clinic plus the pounding he took in practice and games finally took their toll. You'll probably never be able to sell this story to Illinois or Michigan, but there were times when he hobbled like an old man.

Horvath got two touchdowns against each of them in the last two games of the season.

A native of Parma, Ohio, Cleveland suburb, Horvath now plans to reenter the army after he completes his dental course this spring.

Spring Training—South? No, North

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe there wasn't a chance anyway, as when "the Judge" made up his mind about something you couldn't budge him with a bulldozer, and he had made up his mind that it wasn't a good idea for major league baseball teams to train in balmy climes.

However, if there was even a hazy chance the teams could go south or west, it is gone now, and we don't think the possibility even will be considered when the National and American leagues meet here this month.

There isn't a chance because any change now would be considered as an admission that now the club owners were free of the stern rule of Landis they would do what they had wanted to do but were afraid to do while he was alive. The magnates are on the spot, and can't move for fear of public opinion, although in justice to them it must be said they have too much respect for the memory of the fiery old gentleman to disregard one of his last edicts.

For, after all, it was a Landis edict that the teams should train in the north. There never was any official government ban against their going south.

"The Judge" was a man of vision, and undoubtedly he saw the harm that might ensue if photographs of athletes basking in the sun in a palm setting were published. He wanted the service men to know that baseball was roughing it in its own way.

From that standpoint we agree with the late commissioner, but there are other factors which we think tip the scales the other way. Why should baseball, for instance, be the only sport which so martyred itself?

Teams in other sports—football and basketball, particularly—traveled widely and no hue and cry was raised about it. And for actual strain on the transportation system, there probably is no sport that touches horse racing, which requires hundreds of freight cars to transport nags from track to track, not even considering the staff of handlers, etc., and the fans who follow the nags about.

It likewise is true that a great many ball players winter in the south, and would have to do less traveling to get to a southern camp than they would to get to a northern camp.

At any rate, the teams won't go south next spring. The commissioner's death assured that.

15 Eastern Stars Accept

Coffman, managing director of the event, announced yesterday. Nine more players will be picked to complete the east roster.

Selection of the east eleven is being made by Coffman with the assistance of Andy Kerr, coach at Colgate, and who will serve as co-coach of the outfit with Dr. George Hauser of Minnesota.

Those accepting are: Centers: George Bujan, Illinois, and Steve Szymanski, Notre Dame.

Guards: Ralph Serpico, Illinois, and Bill Hackett, Ohio State.

Tackles: George Savitsky, Pennsylvania; Mike Slich, Minnesota, and Tom Hughes, Purdue.

Ends: Skimp Harrison, South Carolina, and Francis Brogger, Michigan State.

Quarterback: Frank Dancewicz, Notre Dame.

Halfbacks: James Walthall, West Virginia; Bob Kelly, Notre Dame; and Bob Brugge, Ohio State.

Fullbacks: Mike Kulbitski, Minnesota.

Little Hawks Meet West Liberty Tonight Expect City Highers To Have Little Trouble Against Weak Comets

The City high Little Hawks have a basketball game scheduled for at 8 o'clock on the Iowa City floor. Their opponents are a team of Comets from West Liberty.

Just what the Comet tagline stands for is in doubt, for West Liberty looked like anything but Comets in their opening game against Durant. They managed to make the unbelievable total of 7 points--three field goals and one free throw while Durant collected 27 points.

Interesting Game It's listed as a basketball game on the Iowa City schedule, but the score may indicate something else before the final whistle sounds.

Regardless of what kind of team West Liberty will floor, the game will give Coach Wally Schwank a chance to experiment with two combinations of forwards, center, and guards. One combination will have Jim Van Deusen and Bob Freeman or Lackender at the forwards, towering Don Sehr at the center and Dick Drake and Dick Kallous at the guards. The other combination will find Van Deusen and Freeman at the forwards, Drake at center and Kallous and Lackender at the guard posts.

Disappointed in Showing It appears that Coach Schwank is disappointed in the showing the ex-Sharon giant, Sehr, has made in the games played so far. For his height, Sehr should be making an average of at least 12 points per game, but so far he has failed in his attempts to score. Schwank knows he can hit with regularity, for he has demonstrated in practice his ability to handle tip-in shots.

As yet, the Hawks haven't presented an offense that would scare any of their conference foes. They gained an easy 30 to 16 victory over West Branch in the opener, then had to come from behind to grab their second start from Washington, 29 to 28. Both of these teams were far below the quality of the Hawklet's conference foes. If this is any indication of future play it would appear that the Little Hawks are due for a lot of practicing, or some very miserable evenings in the coming months may result.

Little Trouble Regardless of the team's value in the coming conference schedule the consensus is that they will have very little trouble defeating the woefully weak West Liberty five tonight.

The City high freshman-sophomore squad will play a certain-raiser with the West Liberty reserves. They, like their big brothers, will also be seeking their third straight triumph.

Probable Starting Lineup

Iowa City West Liberty
Van Deusen F Kallberg
Freeman F Black
Sehr, CWilson
Drake, G Pike
Kallous, G Brook

Eight to Represent Iowa at Conference

A Hawkeye delegation of eight men will represent the University of Iowa Thursday and Friday in the conference schedule meeting in Chicago, director of athletics E. G. "Dad" Schroeder announced yesterday.

On the agenda will be drawing of 1945 schedules in baseball, track, wrestling, and swimming; and meetings of the football coaches, athletic directors, faculty representatives and business managers.

Between 15 and 18 dual contests in the sports probably will be arranged, headed by about 10 baseball games.

An aid to poaching eggs is the addition of a teaspoon of salt to each cup of water. This will hasten the coagulation of the egg white and prevent the white from spreading too much.

Second Guess Just a Smattering About Basketball

By TERRY TESTER

Just a couple of thoughts to throw out to those fans who were as disappointed as we were to find that Dick Ives didn't have much opportunity to show Chicagoand what he could do on the basketball floor.

1. Dick sprained his ankle last Tuesday and was unable to practice or play much time in the Friday game.

2. The college All-Star coach, up against a team of tall play-for money boys, put in his well-over-six-foot boys during most of the game in an attempt to counteract the advantage.

But Iowa fans will still get a chance to see what Ives can do, beginning Saturday with Iowa's first home game against Western Michigan. And remembering how he could shoot last year, he'll still show the Big Ten--and Chicago--a few tricks.

Iowans who can't wait until Saturday will get their chance to see a college-caliber basketball game tonight when the Seahawks play the Ottumwa naval air base on the Iowa Floor. Last year the teams were not very evenly matched, although Ottumwa made a better showing in their second appearance after they had absorbed a few Seahawk stars who advanced from pre-flight base.

About the most striking thing we can remember about those year-ago games was the fact that the players all had the navy uniforms, although in different colors, and it was sometimes difficult to remember who was who.

The Seahawks started out right this year by trouncing Bunker Hill with a comfortable margin. Ahead lie a number of seasoned Big Ten opponents and, of course, Notre Dame. Their play tonight should indicate to some degree the strength they will be able to muster when the real schedule rolls around.

Iowa's total number of points for the recently finished grid season adds up to about an average Army score for a game.

Baseball's Colorful Duke of Tralee Dies in Toledo Home

TOLEDO, OHIO, (AP)—The Duke of Tralee, one of baseball's most colorful figures, is dead.

Roger Bresnahan, who came out of his native Tralee, Ireland, to serve organized baseball for a third of a century as star catcher, manager, coach and owner, died of a heart attack in his home. He was 64.

Giant Catcher A former receiver and No. 1 fan of Christy Mathewson, Bresnahan was the first-string catcher for the New York Giants from 1902 to 1908, playing in the 1904 and 1905 World Series.

He retired from baseball in 1931, ending a 35-year career that started as a catcher for Lima in the Ohio State league in 1896. He saw action as a catcher--and sometimes pitcher and outfielder--for six teams in four leagues, playing manager of two major league teams, and player manager and owner of the Toledo Mud Hens.

Politician In later years he was salesman for a brewing company. In the election a month ago, he unsuccessfully sought the office of county commissioner on the Democratic ticket.

Bresnahan was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1908 for pitcher Bugs Raymond, outfielder John (Red) Murray and catcher George Schlie, and served as playing manager of the team in 1909 through 1912. The Chicago Cubs bought his contract in 1913, and he was playing manager there in 1915.

Iowans who can't wait until Saturday will get their chance to see a college-caliber basketball game tonight when the Seahawks play the Ottumwa naval air base on the Iowa Floor. Connect For 45-34 Victory

Red Gatens, Herdlika Lead St. Pat's Five To Beat Out Cosgrove

By Dorothy Snook Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Staging a second half rally, the fighting Shamrocks of St. Patrick's came from behind last night to trip Cosgrove 45-34 for their first victory of the 1944-45 season.

As was the case in their previous encounter this year, the Shamrocks were not able to get going until the second half. They had exceedingly tough luck with their shooting as shot after shot rolled around the rim of the basket and out again.

Red Gatens Tall "Red" Gatens of St. Patrick's regular guard, took over scoring honors for the evening as he connected for seven field goals, six of which came in the second half, for a total of 14 points. His running mate in the backcourt, Gene Herdlika, was next high for the Shamrocks dumping in five baskets for ten points.

Leading scorer for the Cosgrove five was Maher who made four goals and three free tosses for a total of eleven.

Meade Connects Meade, Cosgrove's outstanding player of the game, started the scoring in the first minute of play, as he connected on a long shot. However, a charity toss by Merle Hoyer and a goal by Herdlika gave the Shamrocks a meager one-point lead midway in the first period. From then until the end of the first quarter, the visitors surged ahead to a 11-3 lead.

The Irish came back fast in the second quarter with Connell Herdlika and Gatens all connecting to give them a 14-11 lead with one minute remaining in the period. Maher came through in the last few seconds and Meade cashed in on Connell's foul to give the visitors a 16-14 halftime advantage.

Take Over Lead At this point the Shamrocks really got down to playing ball and in the first couple of minutes had again taken over the lead never to relinquish it the rest of the game. Gatens played his usual outstanding game in the second half, defensively as well as offensively.

Court Dismisses Solon Tavern Ownership Dispute

The trial of Joe Kinney versus Arthur and Mabel Uch, John Agnew, Roy Eastwood, and F. J. Birtner was dismissed yesterday after the case was settled out of court.

The trial over the disputed ownership of a tavern in Solon was to have been heard before Judge H. D. Evans at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Kinney, the plaintiff, claimed in his petition that before his oral contract with the Uchses to purchase the property was completely fulfilled they closed a transaction with Agnew in which he paid a higher price for the tavern than Kinney had agreed upon.

Jesters Make University High Play 'Story With a Moral'

By GEORGE MATHER Daily Iowan Staff Writer

A story with a moral, "The Goose Hangs High" (Lewis Beach), was given by the Jesters of University high school in the university theater last night. The boisterousness of the Ingals twins, played by Carolyn Ladd and Donald Follett, did much to brighten the play.

The story is of a typical American family, the Ingals. Bernard and Eunice Ingals, played by James Morton and Vera Lockender, have sacrificed so that they can give their children all the things they wanted. In the second act they begin to wonder whether they have done right when they observe the callousness, sophistication and seeming ingratitude of their children.

But when their father resigns his post as city assessor because a crooked council was too much for him, the children immediately accept the situation and set things right.

A striking, almost professional performance was given by Valerie Dierks as Dagmar Carroll, the bride-to-be of the eldest Ingals boy, Hugh, played well by James Easton.

The Ingals twins, Lois and Bradley, as played by Carolyn Ladd and Donald Follett, are convincing as enthusiastic, energetic college students.

Other parts well played were Thomas Holme and Craig Harper as two boorish, grasping councilmen; William Hittler was excellent in his character part as an old man much older than he really is as Mr. Ingals' old friend, Noel Derby.

Rhoda, the maid, as played by Mary Sayre; Julia Murdock, Mrs. Ingals sister, as played by Jayne Kupka; Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Ingals' mother, as played by Elizabeth

Cargo for Prisoners Reaches Russian Port

A $1,500,000 Red Cross cargo for Allied prisoners of war is reported by the Japanese to have arrived in Kobe, Japan, from Nakhodka, a Soviet port 100 miles east of Vladivostok, according to Basil O'Connor, chairman for relief supplies for prisoners of war.

The supplies were sent to Vladivostok last year. They were moved by the Soviet government and picked up by a Japanese boat.

The cargo of food, medicine, clothing and some recreational supplies were sent by the American and Canadian Red Cross and YMCA at the suggestion of the Japanese government after other methods of sending prisoner of war supplies to the Far East had been rejected by that government.

The cargo included 300,000 eleven pound food packages, 2,661 cases of drugs and medical supplies, 19,500 sets of clothing, 4,200 pairs of army shoes, 7,080 overcoats, 125 cases of shoe repair materials, 21,000 sets of toilet articles, 1,000,000 cigarettes, and 299 cases of YMCA books, religious and recreational supplies.

A delegate of the international committee of the Red Cross met the ship on arrival at Kobe to direct the forwarding of materials to allied prisoners of war. Every effort is being made to see that supplies are sent to camps that did not receive their share of two previous shipments. Other shipments were made on the exchange ship Gripsholm, in 1942 and 1943.

Adams; Ronald Murdock, as played by Robert Smith; and Clem, as played by John McCarthy, were well-done.

By the end of the seventh day last year $1,979.85 had been received; this year $555.32 more has been received. Last year the people of Johnson county were asked to contribute 22.6 cents each for the fight against tuberculosis; this year they are asked to give 2 cents more, 24.6 cents.

Capt. Earl Gifford Praises Company C Non-Commissioned Officers for Work

By POLLY COEN Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"I believe they're the best group of non-coms in any unit of the state guard, and if it hadn't been for their hard work and cooperation the company wouldn't have won the state award. They are the backbone of the company," said Capt. Earl Gifford of the 21 non-commissioned officers in state guard company C.

The company composed of three officers and 60 enlisted men is authorized in its table of organization 21 non-coms. Before and after each meeting, the officers go over next week's drill with the non-coms, who serve as teachers, instructing the enlisted men.

Drill Periods
The two platoons are entirely supervised and directed under the guidance of the 21 soldiers. With plans for a year blocked out on chart they divide each drill period into short intervals, so each Thursday night may cover practice of many military techniques. While platoon one shoots 22 rifles, platoon two drills in the armory proper. Alternating, armory space is used to the best possible advantage.

Schedule includes calisthenics, school of the soldier and drill, (discounted), articles of war and military law, military courtesy and discipline, personal and military hygiene, first aid, care and maintenance of equipment, interior and special guard duty, bayonet training, unarmed defense, weapons (nomenclature), chemical grenades and gas masks, marksmanship, traffic control, road blocks, riot formations, marches and march discipline and company inspections.

Equipment
Equipment is issued by the federal government to a state property officer who issues it to the companies throughout the state. With a third birthday for the state guard, the fifth of January, the company is well armed, clothed and well trained. Many of the non-coms are eligible for two and year service ribbons. Such a small turnover in personnel makes for a highly trained company because of constant supervision and a more personal interest in the men under them.

After drill the company knocks off for sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee. One evening mess Sgt. McKinly Sleichter made an excellent ox tail stew, and he reports pleas for pies are heard on all sides.

Supply Room
The supply room, stocked with summer uniforms, head gear, other personal equipment and a rack of
