Reaction Quiet As State Aides Face Inquiry

Senate Committee Questions Stettinius, Six Nominees

WASHINGTON (AP)—The much-advertised fireworks failed to go off yesterday as Secretary of State Stettinius led six chosen aides before inquiring senators and declared his aim is a "liberal foreign policy."

Fierce questioning had been forecast ever since the senate sent the nominations of four of the men back to the committee for study. Senators had complained that some of the nominees were too close to "Wall street" and, conversely, there were murmurs that Archibald MacLeish was perhaps a bit too leftist and un-equipped for the job of assistant secretary.

Ask Few Questions But yesterday, as the foreign relations committee heard statements from Stettinius and the nominees, questions were few and far between. And when the questioning led into areas that Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) considered improper, he flagged the questioners down.

For example, Senator Murray (D-Mont.) demanded to know whether British Prime Minister Churchill was forcing the United States to "play second fiddle" to Britain in Greece. Connally remarked that it was of "very doubtful propriety" for senators to seek a state department official's interpretation of Churchill's "back stairs views" on such a subject.

Connally later predicted prompt senate confirmation of the six—Joseph C. Grew, named to be undersecretary; and Will L. Clayton, Nelson Rockefeller, James C. Dunn, Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes and MacLeish, prospective assistant secretaries.

Announces Policies Stettinius, who became secretary of state a fortnight ago, gave his first detailed enunciation of the policies which will guide him. They were devoid of gaudy innovations.

"We need a state department," he said, "which can carry out in the interests of the United States a liberal and forward-looking foreign policy with level-headed and businesslike effectiveness."

Stettinius asked for senate endorsement of his program through confirmation of the six aides.

Senate Rejects Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate completed work on two big water-use programs yesterday but rejected the controversial St. Lawrence seaway project.

Concurring in earlier house action, the senate approved a conference report on $1,000,000,000 flood control authorization and sent it to the White House.

A $500,000,000 rivers and harbors bill was passed and returned to the house for agreement on changes.

Among the biggest authorizations of their kind on record, the bills call for post-war construction of flood control, navigation, reclamation, hydroelectric power and other works throughout the country.

St. Lawrence seaway was rejected by a vote of 56 to 25. A last minute boost for the seaway from President Roosevelt failed to turn back the opposition. It came in the form of a telegram to Senator Aiken (R-Vt.).

The message, answering an inquiry from the Vermont senator, read:

"Of course I want action as soon as possible on the St. Lawrence seaway. It is logical and inevitable. The quicker the better."

Monsignor Bulger Dies in Davenport

DAVENPORT (AP)—The Right Rev. Msgr. James W. Bulger, venerable pastor of St. Anthony's church, died at his home last night. He was 85 and one of five priests in the Davenport diocese who had been ordained more than 50 years. In ill health since last June, the Monsignor Bulger served as priest at Maloy and its out missions two years and at Shenandoah and its out-missions ten years. Followed ten years at St. Patrick's church, Ottumwa, before assignment as fourth pastor at St. Anthony's in 1916.

Elected an honorary member of the "Devils" because of his part in the liberation of Metz, General Irwin will henceforth be "on leave" from the outfit and a bunk reserved for him from now on.

Reds Take Rail Center Northeast of Budapest

Soviet Storm Troops Enter Eastern Suburbs Of Hungarian Capital

LONDON (AP)—The Red army yesterday captured Godollo, last major rail fortress 10 1/2 miles northeast of Budapest, the Russian communique announced last night, as other Moscow advices said Soviet storm troops had burst into the eastern suburbs of the bombed and shell-torn Hungarian capital.

A Moscow broadcast said the Red army was pouring through a breach carved in the northeast defenses of the capital. Col. Ernst von Hammer, military authority for the German news agency DNB, admitted it was "a great breach in our lines," but contended it had been sealed off later.

The Russian communique, as is frequently the case when a major operation still is in progress, did not confirm the penetration into Budapest. Besides the announced advance in that direction, however, it also listed the capture of Sajozsenter, important road junction 10 miles north of Kiskolc, 85 miles northeast of Budapest.

The violence of the attack and the gloomy tone of German broadcasts indicated that the Hungarian capital's hours were numbered. There was no direct evidence as yet that the Germans were abandoning the city, which is under assault from three sides.

Patriot Becomes Female Impersonator

U. S. THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, (AP)—Military police of the sixth armored division encountered a new type of patriot yesterday—a 20-year-old youth who became a female impersonator in order to facilitate hiding out from the Germans.

He was ringleader in a group of 73 young men who hid in the woods near a now liberated village in order to escape being drafted into the German army.

He left his hair long and lived in a cave. Whenever he emerged to arrange for new food supplies for his fellow hideouts he impersonated a woman.

U. S. Waits to Plan—

Fate of Jap Emperor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Uncle Sam will wait and see what develops before deciding the post-war fate of the Japanese emperor. This American policy toward the focus of the Japanese military spirit—emperor worship—yesterday appeared to crystallize in testimony before the senate foreign relations committee.

Stettinius for the job of undersecretary of state, told senators considering his appointment that the United States had better put off until American troops get to Tokyo a decision on what to do

Japs Evacuate Tokyo Civilians In Mass Move

LONDON (AP)—The Japanese have started a mass evacuation of non-essential civilians from bombed and blacked out Tokyo, the Berlin radio reported yesterday.

Another incendiary bomb attack on Tokyo last night by American Superfortresses was reported by the Nippon radio as other axis sources said evacuation of non-essential workers from the city was proceeding.

A German Transocean dispatch from Japan said 20,000 persons had been ordered to leave the capital yesterday. The dispatch added that measures were "progressing according to plan" for evacuation of Tokyo, which is being rocked by Saipan-based Superfortresses.

Radio Tokyo claimed Japanese troops in the Ormoc sector were fiercely counterattacking. Domei, the Japanese agency, said Premier Kuniaki Koiso went to Ise shrine and offered a special prayer for victory at Leyte because that battle "will decide the fate of the greater east Asia war."

"No workers in war industry, transport and press may leave Tokyo, however, as special permits are required by the police," Transocean said. "Neither can workers in the essential industries (gas, water and electricity, doctors, chemists and nurses). The civil defense forces must also stay."

Since Nov. 25 scarcely a day has passed without United States or Tokyo reports of Superfort attacks on the Tokyo area by day or night.

Yanks Sink Ninth Jap Convoy, Push Through Old Maginot Line

Destroy Six Enemy Ships

Reinforcement Efforts Cost Enemy 30,000 Troops, 67 Vessels

By The Associated Press Japan's desperate efforts to reinforce her badly-mauled army on Leyte island in the central Philippines have cost her another convoy of troop transports and three warships, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his communique yesterday.

The 11-ship convoy was caught off northwest Leyte Monday (Philippine time) by Yank airmen who, during a fierce running fight with Japanese fliers, sank three destroyers and three transports and shot down 50 Nippon planes. Japanese troop losses were believed to have been heavy. Another destroyer and two transports, battered with aerial bombs, were left dead and burning on the sea. PT boats sank a fourth cargo transport.

Loss Eight Planes Eight American planes were lost during the battle and in defense of American shipping against spirited Japanese air attacks in Leyte waters.

American doughboys, having liquidated thousands of Japanese in Ormoc city and in a trap to the south, were consolidating their positions while other ground forces advanced slowly from the north and the east on the heart of Ormoc corridor, last strong Japanese position on Leyte.

Nine Attempts Fail Nine reinforcement attempts at Leyte have already cost the Japanese some 30,000 troops, 39 transports and 28 escort ships, mainly destroyers.

Radio Tokyo claimed Japanese troops in the Ormoc sector were fiercely counterattacking. Domei, the Japanese agency, said Premier Kuniaki Koiso went to Ise shrine and offered a special prayer for victory at Leyte because that battle "will decide the fate of the greater east Asia war."

Snow Storm Moves Eastward as Midwest Digs Itself Out

CHICAGO (AP)—A lashing gale yesterday covered the east with snow ranging up to 23 inches. Meanwhile the midwest started to dig itself from under 18 inches of snow from the same storm.

Forty-three persons died in the United States and 13 in Canada from the storm.

War plants throughout the east and midwest reported hampered activities and a high rate of absenteeism due to the clogged roads.

The whole east coast felt the sting of a gale with winds touching 73 miles per hour in places. Rain and snow swept the area from the Carolinas northward to Maine.

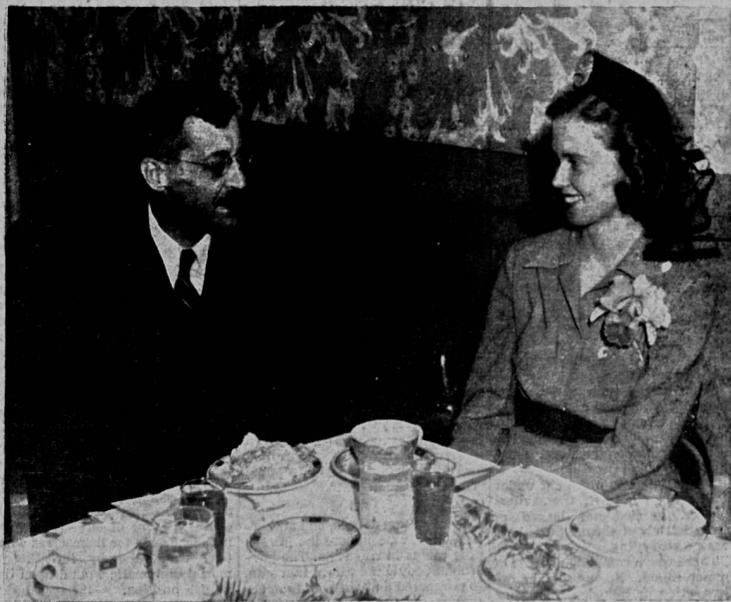

But in the midwest, the snow stopped, except for a few flurries in some places, and cold, clear weather prevailed. The forecast was for clear and cold for at least another 24 hours, both in the east and middle west.

The death toll by states: Arkansas 1; Colorado 5; Illinois 2; Indiana 4; Iowa 2; Kansas 2; Michigan 4; Missouri 5; Nebraska 2; New York 1; Ohio 10; Pennsylvania 5.

Gypsy Rose Lee Becomes Mother

NEW YORK (AP)—Gypsy Rose Lee, who traveled from burlesque theater runways to mystery story writing, started a new career yesterday—motherhood.

The tall brunet became the mother of a five and one-half pound son only a few hours before her recently divorced husband, Actor Alexander Kirkland, took his second bride, socialite Phyllis Anne Adams. June Hanc, sister of Miss Lee, said the infant, born a month prematurely, would be named Eric Lee.

Prof. George Glockler of the chemistry department delivered the address "Chemistry in the Post-War World." (Story on Page 5)

U. S. Urges Abolition Of Nazi War Industry

Advisory Commission Considers Control Of German Economy

LONDON (AP)—American proposals for "complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries and strict control of the country's future economy were reliably reported last night to be under discussion by the European advisory commission as a part of a tough allied plan to suppress Germany's aggressive powers forever.

United States Ambassador John G. Winant was understood to have presented to the commission two or more memoranda containing the American proposals for controlling future German industry, foreign and domestic trade.

Britain Presents Plan Great Britain also was said to have presented her plans in the same field, but neither Russia nor France has submitted corresponding proposals. Moscow, however, was understood to have given much study to the subject.

It was believed that France was waiting until General de Gaulle had finished digesting his talks with Marshal Stalin before submitting plans so that they could harmonize with those of the Soviet union.

Submissions of the American proposals, which Winant was believed to have discussed with President Roosevelt and the state department during his recent visit to Washington, marked the first time that any of the big powers formally had put forward any plans for future German economy.

U. S. Proposals Understandably, the informant said, American proposals called for:

- 1. "Complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries.
- 2. Wiping out the German aviation industry.
- 3. Control of German industries so that they could not dominate European economy.

There was a general feeling that the American proposals did not go nearly so far as the reported plan of Secretary Henry Morgenthau virtually to wipe out German industry and make Germany largely dependent upon its agriculture, a plan which coincided with that suggested by the inter-allied committee.

WLB Summons Ward, Union Officials To Strike Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A threat of strikes at Montgomery Ward stores throughout the nation was raised last night as the war labor board summoned company and union officials to a hearing on strikes at four Detroit stores.

Samuel Wolchok, president of the united retail, wholesale and department store employees of America (CIO), said the purpose was to determine policy regarding the current strike situation in Detroit as it affects Montgomery Ward workers throughout the country.

A union source said that the policy conceivably could be a request for supporting strikes.

The WLB summons to company and union officials was the latest development in a long series of actions involving Montgomery Ward.

The board, it was asserted, will seek to determine why its orders have been ignored.

Berut Predicts Provisional—

Polish Government

MOSCOW (AP)—Boleslaw Berut, peasant-born president of the Polish national council, predicted yesterday that the new year would be ushered in by the formation of a provisional government of Poland dedicated to satisfying the land hunger of 8,000,000 landless peasants.

(The Soviet government has sponsored the development of Berut's council with its seat at Lublin, Poland, and recent Moscow dispatches have indicated that a move to make it the provisional government of Poland was under way. Such a development probably would end all chance of

First Army Near Duren

Patton's Men Force New Opening In Reich Border

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris (AP)—Fighting through the old Maginot defenses, the United States Seventh army stormed more than eight miles northward from liberated Haguenau yesterday while the First American army drove within half a mile of Duren and virtually eliminated the Germans' Roer river salient blocking the route to Cologne.

At the same time the Third army crossed the Blies river northeast of Sarreguemines, forcing a new wedge across the German border, and the French First army rolled up new gains in the Vosges foothills at the southern end of the long western front.

More than 30 towns and villages—at least seven of them inside Germany—fell during the day as General Eisenhower's armies pounded at the last barriers guarding the Reich's three main industrial areas.

As the enemy cracked under the relentless pressure of Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges' men and armor, the Yanks crashed through the rubble towns of Hoven, Schopshoven, Pier, Merken, Merde, Gey and Derichweiler, all within a six-mile arc from northwest to southwest of Duren.

Mariaweller, only a half-mile northwest of Duren, was almost cleared of the enemy last night after fierce fighting through its debris-filled streets. It was expected that dawn American troops would be installed on the Roer opposite Duren, a shattered city of 29,000 whose civilian population has long since been evacuated.

The First army's spectacular surge after three days of renewed assault appeared to have been made mainly against German screening forces which had been left behind to stem the advance while the bulk of Nazi troops were withdrawn across the Roer into elaborate defenses at and behind Duren.

Cologne is 20 miles across an almost level plain from Duren.

Allies Blast Nazi Factories

LONDON, Wednesday (AP)—The allied air assault on Germany continued round-the-clock yesterday and last night, with the RAF joining American bombers from both Britain and Italy in a series of powerful blows at communications and industrial targets.

More than 3,000 tons of explosives were dumped by the United States Eighth airforce alone on battleline rail facilities in the Frankfurt area during the day in a massive operation from which nine bombers and nine fighters were reported missing. Most of the fighters were believed to have landed in friendly territory, however, and the day's loss was described as the smallest of the war for an attack in such strength—more than 2,100 bombers and fighters.

Last night a strong force of RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes blasted the great armament center of Essen and squadrons of Mosquitoes bombed Osnabruck, another steel center of the Ruhr.

As the terrific bomb-loads smashed into their targets an airforce spokesman said every synthetic oil plant in the Ruhr had been crippled and every main rail route to German defenses in the west had been severed in the past month's heavy bomber offensive.

News Behind the News—

WASHINGTON—The outbreak of political gangsterism in Greece (diplomatically called a "revolution") is being described as the crisis of the liberation of Europe from the Nazis but somehow it does not make sense.

Consider Greece first. It is the only country in Europe where the British managed to maintain their influence at par. You hear of no revolutions from Rumania or Yugoslavia. The Russians took those. In Yugoslavia their Tito is in complete control, having suppressed the other anti-Nazi faction (Greece in reverse.)

From the start of this war, Greek authorities here have secretly feared Russia would take them too, in the end. The British got in there first, occupied the country, and a Greek government friendly to Britain was established. Joint Anglo-American occupation of Italy kept the Communist element there from full power also, but the Leftists were represented in both the governments of Greece and Italy, though not content with their power.

Now our people do not generally see things this way. They do not know Europe. They judge European developments against their own ideals. Consequently they rightfully advocate "self determination," which is what they would prescribe for themselves.

The truth is the root of the trouble which caused anti-Nazis to take to machine guns against each other in Greece is the same which has less riotously stalemated a political solution in Italy, and also the same which lurks in every nation in the world today, notably France and China. While we argue the justice or injustice of such immediate matters as whether Stozza is being fairly treated by the British, and whether the Greek rightists have given the Leftists sufficient power, the real crisis which has come to a head there and will come elsewhere is simply this: The British had control! The Communist-Radicals want it.

Now do not stop reading here. This is no analysis of Communism. Just an effort to sift the facts of the most important question in the world in search of a solution (and it may take me two columns to set them forth fairly and justly.)

Exiled Polish President Names Cabinet Officials

LONDON (AP)—Wladyslaw Raczkiwicz, president of the Polish republic, appointed last night an acting deputy premier and three cabinet ministers inside Poland as the exiled, trouble-torn government here sought from the homeland's underground army a new guide on policy to strengthen its shaky standing.

A communique issued by the Polish government said the deputy premier and three cabinet ministers, whose names were not disclosed because of security, already were performing their duties, and that all were well-known members of the underground movement.

and know Europe better? In general, our people do not like British policy. It is old fashioned, imperialistic, selfish, always pro-British (this is why London did not want Stozza who is not Communist, but is a wily schemer and not pro-British.) But do we like Russia's policy any better? After all the British are democratic in method, and it is possible to have a revolution under their influence, while it is not possible under the Russian pattern.

How can you settle this problem, I ask European authorities here. They say, the undergrounds of Europe should be granted immediately better representation in the governments (French, Belgian, Dutch as well as Italian and Greek.) But the strongest underground movements everywhere were Communists. They had such an organization before the Nazi invasion. Is this what we really want?

To get a just solution it is first necessary for us to get away from the deceptive vagaries of diplomatic language restrictions and recognize the European game for what it is. We must also go deeper into matters than our current debate about these things is going.

Opinion On and Off the Campus—

DO YOU THINK MEN ARE SUPERIOR TO WOMEN?

Dick Elgin, A2 of Centerville: "Unquestionably, men are superior to women. Women in general cannot be relied upon. They occupy their time with too many trivialities and they evade important questions."

John Anderson, A3 of Duncan, Okla.: "Some women are almost as intelligent as men, but these are few. Women have always had to rely upon their intellect to cope with their physical inferiority to men and so far they have been unsuccessful."

Betty Taylor, telephone operator of West Liberty: "Mentally, women are the equal of men. They have proven themselves capable of getting along in the world, but men have had a head start on them."

David Ferguson, A1 of Lisbon: "I do not believe that women are inferior to men. They have taken over men's jobs during this war and have proven themselves as capable as men."

Betty Lou Little, A4 of Kingsley: "Men are not superior to women either mentally or physically. Because of the type of work they do their muscles are better developed and they become stronger. Mentally, women and men are equal. Men are considered better suited for the business world only because of the public opinion associated with them."

Mariam Velth, A3 of Oakland: "Men are considered superior to women physically, but not mentally. Women in industry have proved that they can be just as capable as men. Women are more emotional than men and sometimes this has a bearing on their work. They have never had the responsibility of providing a living for a family in most cases."

Pat Savage, A1 of Cedar Rapids: "I think that men are superior to women because they have had to be. I don't think anyone wants to feel inferior anyway."

Dorothy Peterson, A4 of Clear Lake: "I think men are superior because for years and years they have been the bread earners and the salary winners. However, women are advancing to the place where they may someday have rights equal to those of men. Chivalry enters into it, and I think that women still like to think of men as their superiors."

Mrs. Harold Lindley, 521 Clark street: "Men think they're more superior until a woman shows them that they aren't. You can tell by their actions."

Gretchen Brown, theater cashier: "Women's point of mind, dress, style and personality are superior to men's."

Pat Morrison, A2 of Pontiac, Ill.: "Much as I hate to admit it, I'm afraid men are superior to women. I'd never tell them, though, because they think so too."

Colleen Brobell, A1 of Lytton: "I believe that men are superior in one field and women in another, depending upon the individual and the circumstances. However, men often are believed to be superior when in reality, they are not superior at all, purely because of tradition."

Marjorie Van Winkle, A2 of Cedar Rapids: "It has been stated that man is superior to woman in mechanical and technical things; whereas woman shows her superiority to man in things relating to verbal action. The difference can be remedied by practice on the part of either the man or the woman, and this difference, it has been shown, is relatively small."

Leah Keller, N3 of Dallas Center: "I think it is about a toss-up. Men are superior in some ways, such as strength, and women are superior in poise, grace and culture."

Jean Reininga, A3 of Oak Park, Ill.: "I think men are superior to women. I think every girl will admit that eventually."

Deborah Page, A2 of Denison: "I think women are superior to men because they can do all sorts of jobs. Anything men can do women seem to be able to, but it doesn't work the other way."

Jackie Day, A1 of Highland Park: "I don't think that either is superior to the other. Men may be superior in the business world, while women are superior in the home. Each has certain characteristics and thus there is no way of judging which is the superior."

Ardell James, A1 of Walcott: "I think that men are superior physically, but I think men and women are about equal mentally. However, men have a much greater opportunity to show their mental ability than do women."

Marion Ferguson, A3 of Daventry: "I don't think men are superior to women, but neither do I think women are superior to men. Each is superior in different things, but neither is superior in everything."

Interpreting the War News—

Ten days short of the winter solstice, the allied winter offensive in the west has substantially reached its first objectives; but by every indication the grimmest battles lies ahead.

Formidable river barriers, the Roer, the Meuse and the Rhen, still guard all critical gateways to the Rhine-Ruhr valley, industrial heart of Nazidom in the north.

In the south where converging American armies are bearing down on the vital Saar basin, source of Nazi war material, only the forefield of Germany's Siegfried line defenses west of the Rhine have yet been reached or closely approached. Only from the Karlsruhe corner in the central Rhine valley southward to the Swiss border does the foe appear definitely in process of falling back behind the Rhine.

Obviously the real test of German ability to wear down allied power short of the Rhine is only now beginning. At one point in the Aachen area advance forces stand nearly 20 miles deep into Germany but still 20 miles or more from Cologne with its multiple Rhine crossings. The 300-mile span separating allied troops in Holland from Berlin has stood unchanged for weeks.

Below the Moselle, Third army troops which took the Saar in stride are at grips with the outer layers of the labyrinthine Siegfried line defense system that lies behind the river. And on the southern face of the Saar basin perimeter between the Saar and the Rhine, Third and Seventh army troops are only now approaching German frontiers well guarded in depth.

There seems no reason to doubt that clearance of the last Nazi invader from French soil will be accomplished soon. From the Karlsruhe corner to the Swiss frontier, German rearguards are fighting only to achieve escape behind the Rhine with minimum losses.

There is little prospect of further major action in that upper Rhine sector once the Nazi withdrawal east of the river is completed. It should mean probable shifting of forces northward to more critical sectors for both sides.

Up to now, every reported Nazi move in the north, including the present retreat behind the Roer where allied forces have gained a substantial footing on the west bank of the flooded strait, points to a die-hard defense foot-by-foot of the whole west Rhineland.

It is there that, aided by winter weather cramping allied air support of attacking troops, the foe obviously has staked everything on exhausting allied will or capacity to drive to or beyond the Rhine this winter.

Student Relief Drive Planned

Central Committee To Direct Campaign To Aid War Victims

Organization last week of a central committee to direct the work of the World Student Service Fund on the university campus marked the opening of a concentrated effort on the part of students to contribute to the relief of American and foreign students who are victims of war.

Dean Lierle, A1 of Iowa City, was named chairman of the campus drive to help student prisoners of war, refugee students who need food, clothing, books and medical supplies, and interned students in this country and in foreign prison camps. The chairman and other members of the central committee already are outlining plans for projects to be worked out in a concentrated campaign early in February.

Officers Elect
Secretary for the World Student Service Fund organization at SU is Phyllis Hedges, A3 of Iowa City. Jack Fickel, M1, was named treasurer for the campus fund. Other members of the campus central committee are Mary Osborne, A3 of Ottumwa, publicity chairman; Shirley Sherburne, A2 of Lone Tree, solicitation chairman; Mary Ann Lawton, A2 of Benton Harbor, Mich., and Frank Singer, A1 of Newton, projects co-chairmen.

Plans for the Iowa campaign which resulted in a contribution of $1,380 to the student-to-student relief organization last year, have been underway since the recent visit on campus of Rose Marion Simonton, traveling secretary for the fund. Miss Simonton met with members of the Student Christian Council, leaders of campus groups and their advisers to discuss the work of the fund.

Organization Aims
The aim of the student aid organization is to provide "reconstruction" now, to help students whose education has been interrupted by the war. Americans who are prisoners of war in German internment camps are receiving books and study materials through the fund, enabling them to continue with their study even though they are thousands of miles away from American colleges and universities. Several former SU students have received this aid, including books, paper and pencils and recreation materials.

Campus Project
At least one campus project has been started to gain funds for students from China, Europe and the United States who are able to continue their education only under great difficulty. The Young Women's Christian association has taken over the job of checking wraps at university parties, with the money earned by the workers to be contributed to the fund.

Elizabeth Penningroth, A4 of Tipton, has been named to direct the "Y" project, which also includes ushering at university dinners and checking at other university functions.

Central committee members are anxious to make the campaign as campus-wide as possible, since the work of the fund directly affects students. Emphasis is laid on the fact that friends of Iowa students are among those who receive aid through the fund's projects in foreign prison camps where members of the American armed forces are now interned.

Chinese Work
The World Student Service Fund began its work in China, helping Chinese students, driven out of coastal cities by the Japanese invasion, to travel inland to continue their study in new colleges. From China the work spread to Europe, where refugees from Poland and other Nazi-occupied countries have been given aid in reaching Switzerland to study there.

Finally the fund's work was extended to Americans overseas and then to foreign students in the United States. Nisei students have been relocated in American colleges and universities with the aid of the fund and foreign internment have been given study materials.

WSUI to Broadcast Music Hour Tonight
The Wednesday evening music hour will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the north music hall. WSUI will broadcast the program. The program includes: "Etudes Symphoniques, opus 13" (Schumann), Nadine Fischer, G of Decorah, piano; "Trio, opus 63" (Schumann), Betty Smith, A2 of Albia, violin, Marjorie Jacobson, A3 of Story City, cello, and Nadine Fischer.

ELKS
Elk members will hold their monthly frolic night stag party tonight beginning with a dinner at 6:30 p.m. at 6:30.

Y. W. C. A. RAISES MONEY FOR SERVICE FUND

CHECKING WRAPS at last Friday's inter-fraternity party was one of the jobs taken on by members of the Young Women's Christian association to earn the "Y" contribution to the World Student Service Fund, international organization for the aid of students whose education has been interrupted by the war. "Y" members Marilyn Miller, A3 of Sumner; Barbara Wright, A4 of West Union; Jean Ferguson, A4 of Cedar Falls, and Elizabeth Penningroth, A4 of Tipton, were checking wraps when the above picture was taken.

Skills Magazine Freshmen Publish Class Writings

By MARILEE BORN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
MS., a magazine written by and for students in the communication skills classes, appears for the first time today. An editorial staff of 16 members has published the first issue under the direction of Prof. John Gerber, head of communication skills.

In the contest for the title of the magazine, the prize was awarded to Betty Lou Parrott, A1 of Ft. Madison. She chose the title from the abbreviation for manuscript, "MS" which is also an abbreviation for the history of the word. Before the invention of movable type, documents written by hand were the only records kept. During the Middle Ages monks and other members of the clergy transcribed from papyrus manuscripts as much knowledge as they could ascertain. "Since Gutenberg, 'manuscript' has come to mean a composition, especially an author's copy of his work," Betty writes in reference to the meaning of her title.

Editor Mary Edythe Stuart, A1 of Des Moines, expresses the intent of those students whose work has resulted in MS. She writes: "As its name suggests, MS. contains a fair representation of what we have been doing in the communication skills classes. We make no claims that we are geniuses, nor do we say that MS. is what the critics like to call 'a new and challenging venture in the field of letters.' But in our own minds we feel that it is important. It reflects what we as freshmen feel and think and believe, and it demonstrates that some of us, at least, can already give some shape and fullness to those feelings and thoughts and beliefs. We believe that, given an opportunity, we can measure up to and beyond the standards of writing set by the university."

Eighteen expository themes on various topics written in communication skills classes make up the magazine to be published twice a semester. The colophon, or introductory signature, was designed by Eloise Simmons, A1 of Centerville, first-prize winner in a contest conducted among all freshman students in the fine arts classes. The colophon appears in the upper left hand corner of the cover.

Associate editors of the freshman paper are: Betty Atkinson of Cedar Rapids; Nancy Collison of Whiting; Annette Degnan of Guttenberg; Nancy Green of Cedar Rapids; Corrine Hendrickson of Cedar Rapids; LaVonne Holm of Des Moines; Shirley Isenberg of Davenport; Eleanor Kistle of Council Bluffs; Mary McCracken of Morton Mills; Isabel Shaffer of Anita; Charlotte Sommer of Omaha; Gene Swain of Palm Beach, Fla.; Jeanne Waugh of Burlington and Suzanne Witt of New Canaan, Conn.

Commerce Sorority To Install President At Dinner Sunday
Phi Gamma Nu, honorary commerce sorority, will install Mary Modesta Monnig, C4 of Iowa City, as president at a dinner meeting Sunday at 6:30 in Hotel Jefferson. Miss Monnig, who has served as vice-president, succeeds Phoebe Hartz, C4 of Sheffield, Ill., who will graduate this month.

Christmas decorations will be featured, and faculty guests at this month's meeting will be Prof. and Mrs. Elmer Hills, Prof. and Mrs. George Hittler, Prof. and Mrs. W. F. Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fetzer and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Winter. Members are asked to bring children's gifts to be distributed in Children's hospital.

Final Orchestra Concert—Solo Stirs Audience

By MARJORY SWANSON
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
Otto Jelinek with his violin solo stirred his audience last evening at the final University Symphony orchestra concert of the semester with an effective interpretation of Alfredo d'Ambrosio's "Concerto in B minor" for violin and orchestra. Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, conducted the orchestra in the concert.

The first movement of the concerto opened with grand solemnity and developed into a calmness characteristic of the second movement. The deep tones of this first movement were impressive and sustained. The lento was peaceful and lovely. Jelinek proved his artistic ability in the final movement, with speed and perfection of touch.

The overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" (Michael Glinka) was typically Russian. Glinka used Russian tales and traditions as a basis for the opera and the marked contrasts in dynamics brought out this nationalistic origin.

'A Fantastic Symphony'
Following intermission the orchestra presented Hector Berlioz's "A Fantastic Symphony." This symphony is composed of episodes from the life of an artist, who has been required by his love and attempts to end with his life with opium. Instead of proving fatal the opium arouses his imagination with a series of fantastic dreams.

The first movement displays the conflict of passions that envelops his mind. The violins and flutes presented the melody associated with his beloved and this same melody returns throughout the symphony.

The artist seeks to forget his unfortunate love by escape into dancing and gaiety. At a large ball, he sees her in the distance and his memory returns to torture him. In the seclusion in the country the pipes of the shepherd with answering shepherds' piping from the flutes and clarinets give distinction to the movement. It demonstrates the alertness of the musicians to respond to the slightest movement of the baton.

Percussion Takes Spotlight
The final two movements march to the gallows and dream of a witches sabbath, give the percussion a chance to take the spotlight. The crash of the guillotine, ending the march to the gallows aroused the audience for the finale. In witches' sabbath, a mixture of weird tunes, the artist's lover returns in the form of a fiend to torture him in after life.

The beautiful violin melody becomes a coarse dance tune. The bells tolling increased the fiendish emotion of the entire movement. This climactic symphony is a perfect example of the artistic extravagance through orchestration so typical of the composer. The talents of the three composers were brought vividly to life last night by the University Symphony orchestra in the final concert of 1944.

Mary Osborne

Mary Osborne, A3 of Ottumwa, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the 1944-45 Code for Coeds, the booklet published annually by the University Women's association to be sent to prospective women students. The appointment, made by the U. W. A. council, was announced yesterday by Ann Mercer, A4 of Iowa City, president of the women's organization.

Activities editor of last year's Code, Miss Osborne is a Daily Iowan staff reporter and chairman of the section on organization of the 1946 Hawkeye. This fall she was pledged to Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity for women.

A member of the publicity committee for Information First and women's Panhellenic association, the new editor of the Code for Coeds was publicity chairman for the campus straw vote held before the presidential election and editor of the 1944-45 "Y" Guide. Chairman of the World Student Service Fund campaign on the campus last year, she is publicity chairman for the Fund's drive to be held second semester this year.

Now serving as vice-president of the Young Women's Christian association, Miss Osborne is also a member of the U. W. A. council representing The Daily Iowan. ### Julia Frances Loufek, SUI Graduate, Wins Wings With Final WASP Graduating Class marking the termination of the WASP training program.

Julia Frances Loufek, who received her B.F.A. degree at the University of Iowa in 1942, was a member of the final graduating class of the WASP. She received her wings Dec. 7 in a ceremony at Avenger field, Sweetwater, Tex.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Loufek of Minneapolis, Minn., Miss Loufek began flight training over two years ago in Iowa City with the Civilian Pilot Training program. She worked at U. S. Signal corps headquarters in Washington, D. C. before joining the WASP.

The battle of the supply lines has been won, according to Pvt. Donald Fertig of Iowa City, an assistant machine gunner during the Battle of Nip Gap in the Southwest Pacific.

Over terrain that a mountain goat would have found impassable, the supplies of rations and ammunition flowed in a steady stream to the battle front. One supply route crossed a swift mountain river 16 times, and the men carrying supplies were often chest deep in the water.

"One day," Private Fertig said, "we began to fire our gun into the Jap pillboxes with only 12 belts of ammunition. At the end of the day's firing we had 25 belts left."

"Yesterday," he added, "the Mess Sergeant sent up turkey sandwiches and fresh doughnuts. How's that for delivering the goods?"

Lieut. George R. Zimmerman, son of Mrs. Helen Zimmerman of Amana, has been transferred to the Army Airforce Training Command station at Perrin field, Tex., from Sheppard field, Tex. He will assume the duties of flying instructor at his new station.

The young pilot attended the University of Iowa for one year, and served as a medical research technician in the department of pathology. He was awarded his officer's commission and pilot's wings at Foster field, Tex., last May.

Corp. Charles E. Walker, son of Mrs. Mae Walker, 323 N. Lucas street, has recently been transferred to the Mayo general hospital at Galesburg, Ill. He expects to come home Dec. 20 on a 15-day leave, his first since arriving in this country from overseas duty in October.

The young corporal served with a bomber command in India for eight months. He wears the Good Conduct medal and the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon.

Corp. Leo McCormick, who played football and basketball at the University of Iowa for two years, is now serving overseas with an engineer battalion that is part of a veteran infantry division somewhere in the Pacific theater.

While at the university Corp. McCormick was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Lieut. Gene R. Marner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Marner, route 1, has completed an orientation course at an air service command station in England, according to a release from the headquarters air service command.

Before entering the army air forces he was a student at the University of Iowa.

Corp. Robert J. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. White, 927 N. Summit street, has been promoted to sergeant. He is a medical technician with the 34th "Red Bull" division of General Clark's Fifth army in Italy.

He was transferred to active duty in the South Pacific in the early part of this year in an exchange with musicians from the battleship, after over two years with the Sea-hawk band.

His wife, the former Juanita Under of Gary, Ind., is a storekeeper 3/c in the WAVES, stationed at Treasure Island, San Francisco. She is at present spending a leave with her husband's parents at Panora. She attended the University of Iowa from 1941-1942.

Seahawks Meet Fast Iowa State Quintet at Fieldhouse Tonight

Cadets Trying For Fourth Win

Both Teams Hold Close Victories Over Golden Gophers

Returning to their home court, Iowa's Seahawks will be gunning for their fourth straight victory tonight when the same starting five that has defeated all competition thus far goes into battle against Iowa State, last year's co-champions of the Big Six conference.

While the Seahawks have held their previous three opponents to a 32 point average, Lieut. O. M. Nordly, Pre-Flight basketball coach, has hopes that his charges can put on a better scoring show than has been apparent in previous games.

In defeating the Gophers last week the Seahawk quintet won only by a six point margin, while in the game before that with Ottumwa, the Seahawks had only an eight point margin of victory.

Good maneuvering in these contests brought the Seahawks within shooting distance plenty of times, but many shots failed to connect, thus accounting for the comparatively low scoring.

In the Cyclones only game of the season, they squeezed out a scant 42-41 victory over the Gophers on the Ames court, while last Saturday night the cadets racked up a 38-32 win over the same team on the Minnesota court.

Believing these comparative scores to be far from conclusive, Nordly has a great respect for the coaching of Louis Menze, for 17 years the able director of the Iowa State five. With three veterans returning from last year's team which won nine while losing one conference game, the Ames cagers should offer much opposition.

Last year's Cyclone quintet averaged 44.5 points per game while limiting its opponents to a low of 30.6 points per game. Bill Block, James Myers, and Orlyn Feuerbach are the veterans whom Menze will be counting on.

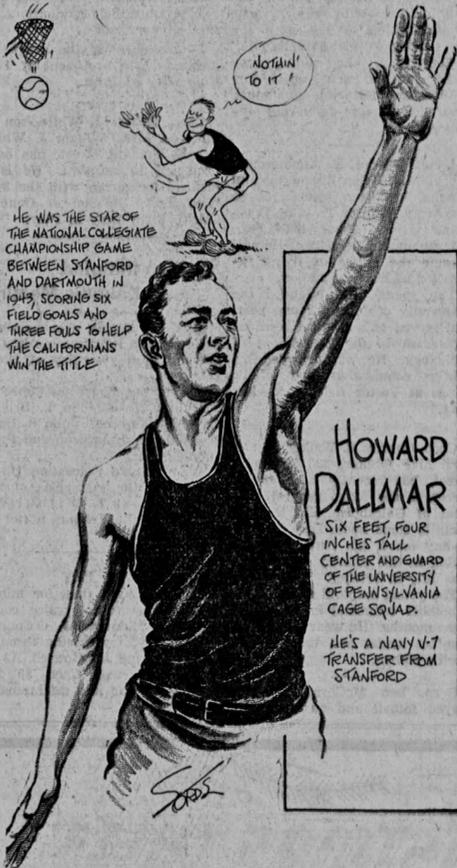

Another scoring threat to team with Joe Holland has now been added in T. S. Ary, Seahawk footballer who garnered 16 points against Minnesota to equal Holland's record of 38 points scored in three contests.

Close behind with 32 points to his credit is Jim Klein, set shot specialist who starred at Pittsburgh. Still another member who may soon be added to the goal-getting contingent is Bob Baggott, whose attack of flu has kept him out of the last two contests.

Baggott, who teamed with Ary as a V-12 student last year at South Carolina, was hampered during the football season by an ankle injury, and as yet has had

Crystal Ball—

Glenn vs. Gunder

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Hargiss says he never knew just how fast Glenn Cunningham could run the mile, although the record books show just how fast he did run it.

Hargiss, who was Cunningham's tutor at the University of Kansas and guided the keg-chested athlete in his later assaults on records, explains that when Cunningham was at his peak, and on the days he felt like running, he never was forced to go all out.

"Glenn could have bettered a 4-minute mile right here on the Garden boards the night he ran a 4:07.4 race, the fastest indoor time up to that time," Hargiss says. "Glenn was full of run that night, and I think the calling out of the times for the quarters was what spoiled his chance."

"He ran the first quarter in .58, and the half in 1:57. Of course he heard the times called out, and I thought he might think he was running too fast and slow up, so I called to him as he started the third quarter to hurry up, as he was behind time."

"Well, Glenn misunderstood me. He thought I said to slow up, so he did, and how! His time for the third quarter was .68. Well, Glenn was a good judge of pace, but on a track that size it is hard to tell just how much you have slowed up, and the slowing up took more out of him than if he had continued at the pace he had been going. I am positive he could have hit the 4-minute mile or better that night."

"We mentioned that it was too bad that Cunningham wasn't at his peak now, so he would have Gunder Haegg for competition. Hargiss' eyes glistened at the idea. "Between them they would have wrecked the mile record," he exclaimed.

Hargiss never has seen Haegg run, but said he understood the lanky Swede ran with a light, feathery tread, sort of floating along.

"That's the way I always tried to teach my boys to run," he said. "Cunningham was more of a pounder, but that was due to circumstances. You know how his legs had been burned as a child. Well, he had no spring in his toes and had to come down hard and drive along. Even so, he improved, and was running much lighter at the end of his career."

It was suggested that Cunningham could give the boys who are running now a pretty good race, and Hargiss was quite serious as he replied:

"He could, at that. He's taken wonderful care of himself, running every day when he could. I think he's at sea somewhere now, though."

They would have made a great pair, at that. Cunningham, stocky, well-muscled, a picture of sheer driving power, and the long-legged, slender, feather-footed Swede, both masters of pace and each determined to stick with the other come what might. It might be one of those Joe Louis vs. John L. Sullivan debates, but it is interesting to speculate on such a meeting.

New Policy May Hinder Discharges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Athletes and other prominent persons now in the army may have a hard time securing a discharge in the future.

Criticism over the release from service of athletic stars, stage, screen and radio figures has been so great that the war department has decided to tighten controls on their release, it was disclosed yesterday.

A policy has been put into effect which requires that all such cases hereafter shall be given special examination by the war department. Heretofore, a commanding officer has had authority to approve the discharge of anyone under his command.

A war department source said that criticism which led to the new policy had been aimed chiefly at sports figures who received discharges, principally medical, but who proved in good enough physical condition to return to strenuous athletic competition.

In athletic circles, this policy is interpreted as meaning that all phases of sports, which have been bolstered by a trickle of men coming out of service, will have to get along for the rest of the war on the manpower now available.

At the navy department, it was said that no such policy has been formulated.

Benny Leonard Wins 1944 Neil Award

Former Lightweight Boxing Champion Selected by Writers

NEW YORK (AP)—Lieut. Comdr. Benny Leonard of the maritime service yesterday was awarded the Edward J. Neil prize by the New York Boxing Writers' association as the man who did the most for the sport during 1944.

Leonard, who retired as undefeated lightweight champion in 1935 after holding the title some eight years, was selected over such luminaries as Joe Louis, heavyweight champion who was awarded the plaque in 1941; lightweight champion Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack, who drew $36,000,000 in war bonds at a Madison Square Garden show in August, and Willie Pep, the featherweight king.

The plaque is awarded annually in memory of Eddie Neil, Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent who lost his life in 1938 while covering the Spanish revolution.

The record books show that Leonard, during his ring career extending from 1912 through 1932, engaged in 218 fights. Of these, 113 were no-decision affairs and the others were exhibitions. Of the eight, Leonard won 71 by knockouts, grabbed the decision in 21, fought one draw, and lost three by knockouts and one on a foul.

Leonard entered the merchant marine in 1942 and recently was promoted to lieutenant commander.

Previous winners of the award were: 1938—Jack Dempsey; 1939—Billy Conn; 1940—Henry Armstrong; 1941—Joe Louis; 1942—Barney Ross; 1943—all boxers in the armed services.

In addition to the Leonard award, the writers also voted a plaque to Gen. J. J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, "in recognition of long and meritorious service to boxing." General Phelan has been connected with the commission for more than two decades.

Andy Kerr Names Men On East Team

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP)—Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate university announced yesterday the 24 players of the East squad for the East-West football game at San Francisco Jan. 1.

Kerr's associate coaches for the eastern team will be George Hauser of Minnesota and Bernie Berman, former Minnesota coach recently discharged from the marines.

Kerr said the squad would assemble Dec. 17 at Northwestern university, leaving that night for the west coast for pre-game workouts.

Giants, Packers, No T For Pro Playoff

NEW YORK (AP)—Two conservative coaches who will have nothing to do with the popular "T" formation (except to stop it cold, now and then) will match time-tested offenses in the National Football league playoff here Sunday.

Coach Steve Owen of the New York Giants, continues to use what he calls his "N. Y." formation, mixing in a few single wing plays. Curley Lambeau's Green Bay Packers line up in the Notre Dame box and then usually shift to a single wing.

Shamrocks Display Best Ball so Far In 41-24 Triumph

By Dorothy Snook

Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Looking much better than they have in any of their previous encounters this year, the Shamrocks of St. Patrick's evidently decided to play ball last night and, consequently, hung up their second victory of the season with a 41-24 win over Williamsburg.

The team, as a whole, was functioning much more smoothly than has been the case previously. Time after time they broke through the visitors' defense, and with Gene Herdlika leading the way, they drove ahead to a 22-11 halftime edge.

Herdlika, regular guard for the Irish, connected for five field goals and five free throws for an evening's total of 15 points. Gatens and Connell were not far behind with 12 and 10 respectively.

Leading the Williamsburg offensive was Kamfuath with 8 markers and Yoder with 7.

Herdlika Leads

Gatens, Herdlika and Connell all played very good ball for the home five. Gatens played his usual spectacular game at guard with special emphasis on his defensive play while Connell looked especially good on rebounds under both baskets, with Herdlika as the offensive standout.

The visitors had a hard time breaking through the Shamrocks' defense and were forced to shoot from way out most of the time. Kamfuath, Williamsburg center, paced the visitors all the way.

Irish Pull Ahead

Behind 4-3 midway in the first period, the Irish pulled ahead on Gatens' goal and proceeded to increase their lead to 12-5 at the end of the quarter.

From there on out the Shamrocks were never in danger. At halftime they were leading 22-11, and then came back in the third period to outscore their opponents 13-3 for a 35-14 quarter margin.

Pre-Flight School Rations Cigarettes To Station Personnel

Rationing of cigarettes at the Iowa Pre-Flight school became effective yesterday, the navy public relations office announced. Each individual — officers, enlisted personnel and cadets — is entitled to purchase two packages from the Ship's Service store each day.

Monthly cigarette ration cards have been issued, and will be punched at each sale. If one day's purchase is skipped, that purchasing power is lost and cannot be regained on any following day.

These cards are serially numbered, bear the name and rank or rate of the owner, and are not interchangeable. They will not be replaced if lost.

Dependents of station personnel (wives and children 21 years or older) may obtain ration cards for purchasing cigarettes from the Ship's Service store by applying in person to the Ship's Service office in the Quadrangle.

Officers and enlisted men may purchase cigarettes for their dependents. In all other cases, purchases must be made by the card holder in person.

"While our orders require a limitation of two packs per day," stressed the executive memorandum concerning the rationing of cigarettes, "our actual supply on hand may require reduction to even lesser quantities, depending entirely upon the quantities which can be obtained."

CHRISTMAS BELLE

HOW TO BE a Christmas belle is demonstrated by Eleanor Pownall, A2 of Iowa City, who models the Mademoiselle Design contest first prize winner. Miss Pownall's design won second prize. The dress features an aqua crepe bodice with an unusual drop-shoulder effect and the skirt is of black faille, accented down the back with a ruffle of aqua. Eleanor has chosen a choker of pearls on a black velvet ribbon and black dress gloves and pumps to complement the ensemble, which will be "special" for holiday parties.

Postoffice Flooded With Christmas Mail; Shortage of Railroad Cars Slows Delivery

Iowa Citizens are dinging their Christmas mailing early this year because the volume of mail now going through the postoffice is much greater than it was at the same time a year ago, according to Postmaster Walter J. Barrow. Larger numbers of packages and cards have been sent.

"People realize that unless they mail their Christmas cards and packages early, their mail may not arrive until after Christmas because of the shortages of railroad cars and cars," Postmaster Barrow said yesterday.

Four or five new postoffice workers have already been hired for the Christmas rush. "Probably 15 or 20 additional workers will be hired later on as the volume of holiday mail increases," Postmaster Barrow said.

Many persons are taking advantage of the new special handling service. Packages marked "special handling" are sent as first class mail instead of fourth class. "That means that they are delivered much faster because many trains carry only first class mail," Postmaster Barrow explained.

Special handling rates are 10 cents and upwards, depending on the weight of the parcel. Postal employees do not give special handling parcels any different treatment. Only packages marked "fragile" or "glass" are given special care. It is against the postal laws to mark "fragile" on any packages which do not contain delicate objects.

"The biggest rushes come between 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and between 4 and 5:30 p.m.," said Harold J. Rummels, postal clerk. "Of course there are rushes all the time now but between those hours the lines are longest."

Rummels said that Christmas mailers are very sensible in wrapping packages. Despite the shortages of wrapping materials they are doing a good job and very few packages have been rejected.

One of the problems that postal clerks have met is that some people send Christmas cards to servicemen overseas in unsealed envelopes and with only one and one-half cents postage.

Bluejacket Club To Reopen Friday

The Bluejacket club for all enlisted navy men will reopen Friday night at 7:30 in its new location, 23 1/2 College street, originally the site of the club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Formerly the navy club was located in the Paul-Helen building on Washington street. It has been inactive for approximately a month and is now reorganized with new personnel.

The Seahawk dance band will play and free food and drinks will be served at the re-opening Friday night. All enlisted navy personnel are invited.

The Bluejackets club had been in operation in the Paul-Helen building location since December, 1942.

Study Club Program Deals With War, Reconversion

"What Shall We Tell Our Children About Peace?" is the title of the latest Radio Child Study club program sponsored by the Iowa child welfare research station dealing with war and reconversion problems.

Following its custom of combining current events with child care, the club will present two more lectures along these lines. "Father Comes Home" will be the topic of a talk by Dr. Robert R. Sears, director of the Iowa child welfare research station, which will be broadcast over WSUI and WOI Jan. 16 at 2:30. Dr. Sears will present a discussion of the problems facing the soldier returning as a stranger to his children.

Feb. 13 Broadcast

Mrs. May Pardee Youtz, who is in charge of parent education at the University of Iowa, will discuss the problem, "Is Mother's Place in Factory or Home?" at the club's Feb. 13 broadcast.

In previous programs the club has presented a discussion on the GI bill of rights from two points of view, first in its relation to family security and in respect to the individual youth's adjustment upon returning home. The provisions of the bill were discussed, as well as its importance in giving sons and daughters a better chance of adjustment to civilian life than their parents had after the last war.

Disease Prevention

Dr. M. E. Barnes of the department of hygiene and preventive medicine said in his talk on "What We Learned From the Draft," presented Nov. 2, that although it is obviously impossible to prevent all

Two SUI Students Visit Cornell College To Plan Conference

Plans for a minority conference to be held March 8-10 at Cornell college in Mt. Vernon began last Friday and Saturday on the Cornell campus. Anita Patterson, A4 of Kansas City, Kan., and Phyllis Hedges, A3 of Iowa City, met with the group for a two-day discussion.

The conference will have as its theme, "Understanding Racial Minorities." Representatives from all colleges and universities in Iowa attended the planning meeting. The discussion Friday night was a general one in which the group defined its purpose and drew up preliminary plans. The Saturday discussions narrowed the field and were concerned with definite decisions.

Four different racial groups will be included in the spring conference—Negroes, Jews, Mexicans and Nisek Nisei (Japanese Americans.) Although subject to change, plans now include four main topics to be discussed—housing, post-war employment, education and social discrimination.

Speakers have not yet been contacted, but the planning group will attempt to have a specialist who has studied the problems which confront the particular race to speak on each of the four races. Saturday evening each college will give a presentation of some racial element on the campus which they represent.

War Bond Premier Of 'Doughgirls' Film To Be Held Here

The Sixth War loan drive premier with "Doughgirls" starring Ann Sheridan will be held tomorrow at 8:15 at the Englert theater.

One ticket will be given with every bond purchased at Iowa City theaters during the drive. Seats are reserved for the show.

The feature is a moving comedy revealing the adventures of three couples in the suite of an overcrowded hotel in Washington. It is adapted from the stage play of the same name by Joseph A. Fields and the screen production is headed by an all-star cast including, in addition to Miss Sheridan, Alexis Smith, Jack Carson and Jane Wyman.

Snow Plow Breaks Crew of 16 Men Clears Streets

A crew of 16 men, four trucks and two snow plows beginning at 4:30 yesterday morning finished removing snow piled in Iowa City streets. One of the snow plows broke down early in the day, slowing the work.

"This is about half the crew we usually have to clear the streets after a big snow," Charles Seemuth, street commissioner, said yesterday. "But the boys have been working hard and we should have all the streets cleared except the alleys by Wednesday night."

All the highways and main country roads are now open. Some of the country roads probably will not be opened for several days.

Farmers and highway patrolmen report that all the snow fences are full and that another snow as heavy as Sunday's 12 inches with a strong wind would close all the roads around Iowa City.

There is little chance of that happening soon, the weather bureau at the airport reports. Light snow was seen in Iowa City last night and at several other places in the state but no heavy snows were reported.

Temperatures were lowered yesterday after the rather mild temperatures experienced over the weekend. The low yesterday morning was eight above zero. The mercury climbed to only 20 in the afternoon. Predictions are for warmer weather today.

To the People of this Community

Champions come through in a pinch. Americans hit hardest when a blow is needed most. That's why our military men confidently expect you to do your best in the tight spot your country is in now. These are dangerous days because there is the human temptation to relax a bit when the war news is good. The Japanese count on this slowing up of American war morale, American War Bond buying, American war production, to give them time to set up their inner defenses.

Every Japanese war leader will be watching closely the daily war bond tabulations here for a clue to how determined we are to follow through. They know that if they escape this war with any kind of negotiated peace they will have won for all practical purposes. The Japanese have then only to bide their time for another attempt at world supremacy. Every individual American counts in this situation. It is up to you to show your championship calibre now. Only a few days remain in the Sixth War Loan. Every extra dollar you throw into the Pacific war will send its message winging toward Tokyo and help to serve notice that you are in this to the finish. Buy an extra $100 War Bond as your minimum contribution.
