78th Congress Adjourns; Appointments Ratified

Senate Kills Rivers Bill

Opposes House Rider Exempting California Project From Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 78th congress wrote finis yesterday to a two-year record highlighted by unprecedented spending and intermittent battling with the White House. The gavel dropped in the house at 6:59 p. m. EWT, and the senate quit at 8:22. The senate put a belated stamp of approval last night on the six appointees to the reorganized state department, but not until after President Roosevelt personally intervened.

Sparse Opposition
Rolling roughshod over a noisy but sparse-voted opposition, the administration won overwhelming approval of the nominations of Joseph C. Grew as undersecretary of state and four assistants.

Republicans made it closer, however, for Archibald MacLeish, poetry writing librarian of congress, who came through with 43 to 25 approval in what proved to be largely a partisan test.

MacLeish thus becomes assistant secretary of state in charge of cultural and public relations. Some described the latter as "propaganda" activities.

Voting
Here's how the others ran in the voting to confirm—

Grew, former ambassador to Japan, to be under secretary of state, 66 to 7.

Nelson Rockefeller, formerly coordinator of inter-American affairs, to be assistant secretary in charge of Latin American relations, 62 to 10.

Will L. Clayton
Will L. Clayton, formerly surplus property administrator, to be assistant secretary in charge of economic affairs, 52 to 19.

James C. Dunn, state department career man, to be assistant secretary in charge of European affairs, 62 to 10.

Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes, formerly attached to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff abroad, as an assistant secretary to be the principal administrative officer in charge of organization and personnel, 62 to 9.

Rivers and Harbors Bill
A half-billion dollar post-war rivers and harbors bill was killed last night when the senate adjourned without considering a controversial report on it.

Stringent opposition against the measure developed from a house-passed rider exempting the $360,000,000 Central valley project (Calif.) from a 42-year-old reclamation law.

Had the measure passed, it faced a possible veto because of opposition of Interior Secretary Ickes to the rider which, he said, would pave the way for land speculation in California.

Overridden Vetoes
Twice during the two years of almost continuous sessions the president was overridden on vetoes of major legislation. Over his objections the congress wrote into law the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act and the 1944 tax act.

The latter measure, a $2,300,000,000 bill which fell far short of administration hopes, so irritated the president that he wrote congress a stinging rebuke that precipitated the historic but temporary break between the White House and its senate floor leader, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

Mass Meeting Ends Threat of Student Strike at LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Threats of a student strike at Louisiana State university over dismissal of a coed apparently ended last night along with a student mass meeting that consisted of mostly cheers and boos.

More than 1,000 students screamed "strike" and "we want Heller" for nearly two hours, but the meeting finally broke up slowly as no one offered to lead any definite action.

The "Heller" referred to coed Gloria Jeanne Heller of Havana, Cuba, whose leaflet on campus kissing and sex resulted in her dismissal.

Atlantic Charter Exists Only as Memoranda

F. D. R. Asserts He Still Stands for Principles Of Informal Covenant

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt declared yesterday that the Atlantic Charter did not exist as a formal document signed by himself and Prime Minister Churchill, but that he still stood for its principles.

The chief executive told a news conference that the charter, drafted in a conference at sea between himself and the British prime minister, existed as a series of memoranda, turned over to radio operators for transmission to Washington and London to be released to the press.

He asserted that it had been signed in substance, but not formally as a complete document.

President Firm
At the same time, Roosevelt made it clear that he adhered firmly to the principles enunciated in the charter as it has been promulgated.

On another tack, he was asked whether he could comment on a statement by British Labor Minister Ernest Bevin that he had initiated at Quebec a British plan for stabilizing Greece.

Comment on Statement
The president inquired whether that had not been denied at the state department and was told it had not.

"Is it to be denied?" a reporter pressed.

The chief executive replied he would not bring that up again, since it was contentious.

On the question of another conference of himself, Churchill and Premier Stalin, Roosevelt asserted that the matter was highly speculative. He said no specific date for a conference has been set.

British Pacific Fleet Staff, Nimitz Confer

HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Pacific fleet headquarters disclosed officially yesterday that discussions are underway here between Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and the staff of the new British Pacific fleet.

The brief announcement by Admiral Nimitz, five-star commander of the United States Pacific fleet, said a series of conferences were being held.

Yanks Capture Headquarters Of Leyte Japs

MacArthur's Forces Take Nearby Enemy Airfield Intact

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday (AP)—The Japanese headquarters of Valencia on Leyte island has been captured by American troops, today's communique reported, and an airfield taken intact by the doughboys.

The largest Nipponese organized force still in action on west Leyte has been caught in a trap; converging Yanks are within six miles of snapping shut an even larger trap on the enemy; and no organized resistance at newly invaded Mindoro has yet been encountered in twin battles for the central Philippines.

Captured Monday
Headquarters announced today that Gen. Sasaki Suzuki's headquarters town of Valencia and its airfield were captured Monday on west Leyte by 77th division troops which have moved eight miles north above Ormoc.

Meanwhile, dismounted first cavalry division troops driving south from the direction of Carigara bay have seized Lonoy, six miles north of Valencia, and in so doing have cut to the rear of forces pinned down by another southbound element, the United States 32nd division.

Airfield Taken
The captured airfield near Valencia had been used as an emergency strip by the enemy. This probably was the first time the Yanks under MacArthur ever won an airfield which would be put to immediate use by their own supporting planes.

Suzuki apparently moved his headquarters from Valencia when things became too hot.

Mindoro Campaign
In the Mindoro phase of the campaign to liberate the Philippines, American planes shot down 13 Japanese aircraft Sunday and Monday. No ground opposition has yet been encountered in the remarkably easy American occupation of this island, which lies less than 150 miles south of Manila.

An airbase at Palawan on Negros island was hammered with 226 tons of bombs in a raid which destroyed 12 enemy planes on the ground.

In far-ranging raids over the Philippines, Borneo, Celebes, Moluccas, Lesser Sundaes, New Guinea, the Bismarck archipelago and the Solomons, today's communique listed the expenditure of approximately 500 tons of explosives on enemy defenses.

Indictment Charges Norden Corporation With Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl L. Norden, Inc., makers of the famed Norden bombsights, was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday, accused of conspiracy to hamper output of the war devices which have been credited with playing a major part in American air successes.

Named in two indictments were Theodore H. Barth, president, and Ward E. Marville, vice-president of the Norden firm; the Efficiency Survey company of Corrigan, Osborne and Wells; Navy Comdr. John D. Corrigan as head of the concern, and Robert H. Wells, vice-president.

The indictments further charged a conspiracy designed to force war plants to employ the survey company, specialists in the installation of production control systems.

Previously, Chaplin testified that he "lectured" his 24-year-old prodigal when she came to his Beverly Hills home with a pistol, and reproached her for her threat to kill herself there after he had given her an opportunity at movie fame.

The white thatched comedian smacked his palms down on the arm of the witness chair and turned emphatically toward the jury while his voice rose in dramatic tones as he related the scene.

Pressed by Joan's attorney, who had called him to testify in her behalf as an adverse witness, for her part of the conversation on the night of Dec. 23, 1942, Chaplin expostulated:

"This is something I would rather forget. I have got to take this story step by step."

25,000 Die Along Route—Japs Compel Prisoners to Build Railway

LONDON (AP)—The Japanese forced more than 80,000 white prisoners to labor under worse-than-slavery conditions to speed through the Thailand-Burma railway and road and then left a monument to 25,000 men who died along the way, the British war office charged yesterday.

Citing cases of extreme brutality, of sick men carried to work on stretchers, men forced to labor naked in insect-ridden jungles, the war office declared there also were cases of torture and killing. It added:

Memorial to Dead
"The Japanese themselves erected a memorial at Tamakan to approximately 25,000 men who had died on the railway. Of these less than 1,000 were Japanese, the remainder being represented as "English, Australian and Dutch."

'Strongest Protest'
War Secretary Sir James Grigg opened the subject in commons with an oral statement that "the strongest possible protest" had been made against past conditions existing in Burma and Siam (Thailand)."

Conditions have improved, he said, and are much better in the rear camps. He declared, however, that in building the railway and road the Japanese proceeded "with all speed, regardless of conditions."

First Army Masses Armor

Nazi Tanks Batter Belgium, Luxembourg Despite Resistance

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris (AP)—The German Christmas counteroffensive on the western front assumed the proportions of an attempted major breakthrough last night as the first frontline dispatches trickling through a news blackout disclosed that the United States First army was massing infantry and armor in an effort to stabilize the front.

Despite the Americans' desperate holding fight, the enemy's tank-led battering ram continued probing into Belgium and Luxembourg on a front of approximately 70 miles extending above Monschau in the north to the vicinity of Echternach in the south.

Push Back First Army
The Germans apparently were hammering with the same fury that in the first three days of the assault rolled back the First army at least 20 miles at one point.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher said the Nazi advance had been halted south of Monschau yesterday in bloody fighting during which "some gallant doughboys stood fast in their foxholes and let themselves actually be run over by Nazi tanks without retreating."

But farther south the situation still remained fluid and obscure, Gallagher said.

Strict Censorship
Supreme headquarters maintained its own strict news censorship, but promised last night that a full and truthful account of the reverse on the First army front would be given the public at the earliest moment consistent with military security.

A front dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent William F. Boni said Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges was throwing all available forces into the effort to stem the "most serious setback to American arms on this side of the world since Kasserine pass in Tunisia."

Flying Fortresses
Late yesterday an emergency call brought a big force of United States Flying Fortresses and British Lancasters from British fields to spread 2,000 tons of fragmentation and high explosive bombs on rail and road junctions immediately behind the attacking Nazi forces.

They were forced to bomb through thick ground-clinging clouds and fog which shrouded the blazing 60-mile front and denied the hard-pressed doughboys the invaluable support of fighters and fighter-bombers.

Emergency Debate Called in Commons On Greek Question

LONDON (AP)—A showdown on British policy in Greece developed suddenly last night when it was agreed that a special emergency debate on the issue should be held in the house of commons today.

Prime Minister Churchill, who had refused requests to debate the Greek question yesterday, served notice on his critics that if they wanted a showdown it would have to come on a vote of censure, with his coalition government standing or falling on the outcome.

The minority labor party accepted the prime minister's challenge and agreed to the debate on the vote of censure.

Churchill himself and possibly Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden are expected to plead the government's case.

Just a few hours before the announcement of the emergency debate Churchill hit back at his critics in a stormy session of commons, defending the policy of intervention, not only in Greece, but also in Belgium, where, he said, "We are acting upon American instructions."

Ward Case Goes To White House

Early Seizure Of Some Properties Appears Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Montgomery Ward's refusal to comply with war labor board directives apparently was turned over to the White House last night. Early seizure of some of the big mail order firm's properties appeared possible.

Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB, and Lloyd Garrison, public member, conferred with Economic Stabilizer Fred Vinson late in the day.

While there was no announcement as to the reason, there appeared little doubt the conference concerned the Ward case.

Earlier, the WLB reported that it was continuing with the Ward case in the customary manner...

...that of preparing papers for Vinson's consideration.

Meanwhile, eventual seizure of properties of the United States Gypsum company, also headed by Sewell Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward, was indicated.

The united mine workers of America asked the WLB to refer to the White House two cases involving alleged non-compliance by Boston and Los Angeles plants of United States Gypsum.

The WLB set a deadline of Monday night for Avery to announce compliance with board directives in the Montgomery Ward case. With no direct word from Avery, the board turned to the White House.

Postal Employees Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—An objection by Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) killed in the senate last night house-approved legislation to increase the pay of most postal employees $400 a year.

Senator Mead (D-N.Y.) sought action on the measure but Bailey made a parliamentary point that it had not been before the senate sufficient time.

Reds Advance 80 Miles In Slovakia

LONDON (AP)—The Red army threw a fiery siege arc around the Czechoslovak communications hub of Kassa yesterday, pressing within nine miles of that hinge position of the German defenses and cutting the highway and railroad to the southeast in a day of general advances on a front of more than 80 miles in southern Slovakia and northern Hungary.

In gains of as much as eight miles from previously-announced positions, the Russians crossed into Slovakia at many new points, it was disclosed in the Soviet communique broadcast from Moscow last night.

They thrust within eight miles of the frontier south of Losonc in a series of fighting maneuvers that promised quickly to give them a solid front of 140-odd miles from Kassa on the east to captured Ipoly-Sag on the west.

Pressing through thick forests in rugged mountainous country, the Russians captured 24 Slovak towns northeast, east, southeast, south and southwest of Kassa.

The combined power of Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay's 20th bomber command, Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th airforce and the Chinese-American composite wing made the strike.

Chorus, Orchestra To Give 'Messiah'

"The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union by the university chorus of 16 voices, orchestra of 70 pieces and soloists under the direction of Prof. Herald Stark of the music department.

Soloists for the performance are: Jean McFadden, A4 of Oskaloosa, soprano; Faye Von Drasko, G of Oskaloosa, contralto; Donald Ecrody, G of Arkansas City, Kansas, tenor; Kenneth Hakes, director of vocal music in the Ft. Dodge high school, bass. A trumpet obligato will be played by Ruth Ostrander, A2 of Marion.

This is the first time "The Messiah" has been sung on this campus since 1938. However, it is a tradition of many large choruses to sing this oratorio each Christmas or during the Easter season. Tickets for tonight's presentation are available at the main desk in Iowa Union.

Nubbins Goes Home, Saved by Operation

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman, three, came home like a conquering hero yesterday but his attitude was a little more prosaic: he wanted to wash the dishes.

Work Load Increased

Since worn-out clothing was not replaced, some had to work naked or in loin-cloths made of rags. The work load was increased until each man had to remove one and a half cubic yards of earth and rock each day—a job the war office said required up to 14 or 15 hours of labor.

Men and officers were beaten, the statement said, and other forms of greater brutality were not infrequent. Sometimes the men were given meat to eat, the war office concluded, but "one pig was supposed to provide for 1,200 men."

University regulations relative to attendance at final meetings of classes before holidays apply to the last meeting of each class before Christmas vacation. These regulations apply to candidates for degrees as well as all other students.

'Now It's Our Turn' -- The Freshmen

For a Merrier Christmas

We think it's about time the rest of the campus heard a few ideas, thoughts, and opinions of the freshmen. The upperclassmen have had their turn, and with the printing of this page, the A-1 students finally have a chance to prove that experience isn't always the best teacher.

Like the MS. magazine, this page owes its existence to the guidance and help of the Communication Skills course. Our goal is to bring you the best in editorials, features, and special articles, which will reflect the ability, enthusiasm, and interest behind this medium of writing. The keynote is informality and we will do our best to print a page that you will enjoy reading.

Students Excel In Activities

We are proud of our freshman class for the outstanding achievements they have made in the various university activities. They have exhibited promising talent in sports, theatre, radio and debate. In this column we would like to present to the freshman class as a whole the individual work and advancements of these freshmen. They deserve a great deal of credit for adjusting themselves to college activities so readily, and for taking such an active part in all university functions.

SPORTS

Of the 77 that composed the football squad at the opening of the season, 67 were freshmen. We're proud to say that these boys did all right, too. Many of them were named on high-school all-state teams last year, but the Big Ten is tough sledding for even the best college players. By the end of the season such fellows as Fagerlind, Woodward, Snyder, Kelso, Kersten, Winslow, Benskin, McLaughlin and Hanson had proved to everyone that, despite lack of experience, Iowas' freshmen are to be reckoned with.

The freshmen are also well represented in basketball. There are 17 of them on the squad of 27. Though it's too early to give an opinion, it looks as if they'll be seeing action. Some of the most promising of these are: Weir, Straatsma, Tdesky and Jack Wisnimer, forwards; and Schulz, Graham, and Bob Wischmeier, guards. Take our word for it—keep an eye on these men.

THEATRE

In the theatre three freshmen have performed with such distinction that no one attending "The Skin of Our Teeth," "The Corn Is Green," and "Snow White" can have missed noting their work. They are Willis Otto of Rock Island, Reginald Petty of Springfield, Mo., and Marvella Gregg. Otto had the lead in "The Corn Is Green," and Petty was Henry, the son, in "The Skin of Our Teeth." Miss Gregg took the part of Snow White in the play of that name. Dorothy Waters and John Hacker are also freshmen who have lent their efforts to this semester's play production.

RADIO

The freshmen of SUI have displayed their talents in radio, as well as other fields. Each Friday evening at 8 o'clock some Communication Skills students present a half-hour program over station WSUI. Some freshmen students who have done well in radio this first semester are: Elaine Lemmy, Jean Conroy, Claire Ferguson, Sue Cobble, Claire Laughlin, Ann Van Alsea, Veronica Haskins, Eugene Jesse, S. J. Brownlee Betty Kousnigmark, Peggy Collins, Mary Rhoeher, Jean Kirk, Mary Lou Humphrey, Edythe Rosenthal, and Fleur Lane.

DEBATE

In debate Virginia Rosenberg, A1 of Burlington, has done outstanding work. In the inter-collegiate tournament held in Iowa City this semester Miss Rosenberg received a rating of "excellent" in debate. She was also one of four representatives of SUI in the women's Big Ten conference which recently met at Northwestern.

Other freshmen who have shown interest in this field are Max Moore, Lawrence Dengler, John Oostendorp, Joyce Blomquist, Frances Lapin, and John Nydegger.

Credit Due

By OLYVE MILLER

To most Americans, Christmas means "Peace on earth, good will toward men"—festivity, snow, gifts, family reunions, turkey dinners, candles, sleigh bells, and holly wreaths. As Webster defines it, "Christmas" is the 25th of December, celebrated as the anniversary of the birth of Christ. The word itself is composed of two words, "Christ" and "Mass"—"Mass" meaning a religious service.

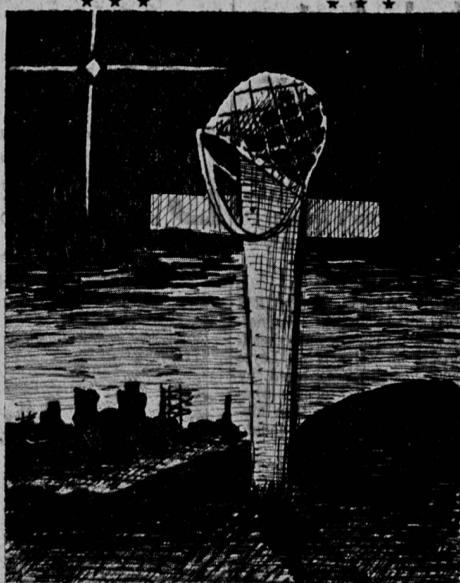

The story of Christmas centers in a family—the Holy Family of Joseph and Mary and the little newborn babe. On that holy night, a baby lay in the straw and the shepherds, pausing in the doorway, gazed in awe, for the manger was filled with a divine light. Christ, who would show men the path of peace, had been born. How can there be "Peace on earth, good will toward men" when there is no peace on earth, and good will is overshadowed by bitterness and hate?

Through the crystal air, the promise sifted, two thousand years ago. Upon a waiting hillside, the shepherds raised their eyes in wonder, glorying at the Star and at the chanting angels. Sheep bleated softly. Today, the air is sharp with the acrid smell of powder. The promise is death; the chanting is a dirge; the star is a gold one hanging in a window. Instead of the wonder of the shepherds, hate films the eyes of soldiers lying in a hillside trench. The band of angels has been replaced by the gods of war, and the soft bleating of sheep, by the deafening roar of cannon.

Upon their knees, the wise men offered gifts, gold and myrrh and frankincense, and worshiped the Prince of Peace. For nineteen centuries the descendants of the wise men have been blind, bound by personal ambition or nationalism, limited by the word, expediency, super-race, exploitation, and force. Now the responsibility rests on four men—Stalin, Churchill, Chiang Kai-Shek, and Roosevelt. At the altar of peace they too have an opportunity to sacrifice resources, privileges, and empires.

With the birth of Christ, dynamic changes came into existence. At this Christmas time we must have faith that something new and transforming may be born into our world—that Christmas next year will mean "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Freshmen Express Views After Three Months at SUI

Has College Lived Up to Your Expectations?

Even before we left high school, we looked forward to the day when we would enter college. We dreamed, made plans, and built up an ideal in our minds. Now our first semester of college life is over. We have become accustomed to it, and taken it into our stride. What about that ideal and those plans? Has life at Iowa lived up to or exceeded our expectations? This is the question that was put to the freshmen, and these are the answers received.

Jeanne Lounsbury of Des Moines: Iowa U. is tops. Although I've had a hard time adapting myself to the change from high school, I find everything here most enjoyable.

Barbara Bygrave of East Lansing, Mich.: Yes, but definitely! Everything here at the state university is as wonderful as can be. I couldn't be more satisfied.

Joan Hawkinson of Des Moines: My answer is definitely in the affirmative for never have I enjoyed the activities and people as much. I'm glad I chose SUI instead of a girl's school.

Dorothea Davidson of Kirkwood, Mo.: According to all reports SUI is twice as good in peacetime, but I really don't see how it could be much better. This place really grows on you, and it certainly has lived up to my expectations.

Joan Lyon of Des Moines: College is definitely a wonderful place to be and I think everyone should be thankful that they can go to such a grand school as SUI.

Lynne Whittan of Newton: Yes, college life is what I expected. It was hard to get down to work when I first got here, and it took me quite a while to get used to it—as a matter of fact, almost three and one-half months.

JoAnne Walters of Cedar Rapids: College does live up to my expectations. This first semester has really passed quickly, chiefly, I think, because everyone is kept so busy.

Virginia Beach of Oskaloosa: Yes, I think it has. Classes are like I thought they'd be. Activities, subjects, teachers and methods of teaching are along line I had heard they would be. Also the tests!

Phyllis Stribe of Manning: No, but then I didn't have many expectations. I don't think there's as much school spirit here as I had anticipated, but that's probably due to the war.

Roy Stoddard of Cedar Rapids: I think that it has lived up to my expectations and then some. It's better than I had hoped it would be, and I'm having more fun and getting more of what I want here than I thought I would.

Janet Guiz of Hampton: As far as studying is concerned it has, and a little bit more. The social life has been fun, but, of course, a bit disappointing. Aside from that it's what I expected.

Mary K. Summerson of Hoxie, Kan.: In the first place, I'd never planned on coming to Iowa U. for I had intended to attend Pasadena junior college in California. Therefore, I hadn't given much thought to what I did expect from Iowa U.

Ruth Sherman of Des Moines: Not exactly. Well, at first socially it was rather disappointing, but now I've found that it just takes a while to get acquainted. I knew it would be plenty of work, but I don't think it should have been built up so in those pamphlets, for, naturally, everyone would be a little disappointed.

Nancy Romine of Davenport: Yes, it has lived up to my expectations. My brother came up here to school, and he prepared me for it. He told me in what ways it had not lived up to his, and I knew just what to expect.

Eloise Simmons of Centerville: Except for a few courses, it has lived up to my expectations. Because of the fine art department, I believe my ambitions for a specialized career in art will be fulfilled.

Margery McCann of Des Moines: Yes and no—the social life is fine but the homework angle not so fine!

Marian Keeley of Aurora, Ill.: Yes, I like the method of teaching and the exemption of final exams appeals to me. And as for the

Playwrights and War

By HELEN KUENSTLER

The playwrights have done a remarkable job in the last three years, of composing some stirring plays with wartime backgrounds. For the benefit of us, the public, they have covered the war from all angles. We have seen the serious and the humorous side of the war (if there is any ludicrousness in war). Robert Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night," an account of the bitter conflict between the Finns and Russians, was well told but its locale was a little too far from home to affect us very much.

"The Doughgirls" by Joseph Fields was an excellent comedy as comedies go, but the setting in overcrowded Washington, D. C., failed to bring the war very close to us. Maxwell Anderson's "The Eve of St. Mark" was outstanding in its simplicity, and told the story of a soldier and a girl in love. Its effectiveness lay in the fact that the misery and goriness of war were presented. But the play that succeeds in bringing the war right up to our front doors, and that gives us an idea of one of the major problems which we shall have to face after the war, is the poignant and stimulating "Tomorrow the World," written by James Gow and Arnaud D'Usseau.

"Tomorrow the World," as recently presented, was certainly the most impressive war play I have yet witnessed, and from the opening scene until the fall of the curtain at the very end, I was enthralled by the swift-moving action and clarity of the production. The plot is not involved—I should say that it "hits the nail on the head."

The entire action of the play is centered around 12 year old Emil Bruckner who, in the autumn of 1942, comes to America from Germany. Here he makes his home with his uncle, Michael Crane, a professor at a large Midwestern university. Previously a member of the Nazi Jungvolk, Emil is, from the moment of his arrival, a source of trouble and constant worry. His contempt for other children and his superiority complex are displayed over and over again.

The efforts of Michael Crane, his ten year old daughter, Pat, and Michael's teacher friend, Leona Richards, to change Emil's outlook on things seem to be of no avail. The climax of the play is reached when Emil, in a fit of temper, almost kills Pat by hitting her over the head with a bookend. He turns then from a snarling German hero into a frightened child. Just as Michael and Leona are about to give up their attempt to change Emil from an instrument of Nazi brutality into a normal human being, Emil himself realizes that the Nazis are not supermen after all. Leona and Michael were at last able to prove that human nature can be changed, not by torture but by persuasion.

I daresay that "Tomorrow the World" is a bold challenge to the American people. The authors have presented a problem that will be one of the greatest of those confronting us in the post-war world. What are we going to do with Germany's twelve million children? Emil Bruckner was just one of the many, and the task of dealing with him was a difficult one. Yes, more than any other war play, "Tomorrow the World" has given us something to think about.

SUI Fullback Gives His Version Of Freshman Playing

According to Jim Hanson, regular fullback on this year's football team, the average spectator has no idea what freshmen football players are up against in their first Big Ten competition. It's not only the idea that they are playing for the first time against one of the nationally known Big Ten teams that awes them, says Hanson. It's also the idea of traveling with their teammates to distant cities and appearing before large metropolitan crowds.

When you've never seen anything but high school crowds it's easy to get stage fright in these circumstances, he says. When S. U. I.'s young squad played Ohio State, later recognized as one of the country's best teams, at Columbus last fall, they just naturally felt, and sometimes acted, Jim admitted, "as green as the grass in the stadium."

But watch SUI's team next year. They're tried and tested now, says Jim.

Chicago Shows War-Time Art

By VIRGINIA ROSENBERG

At the Chicago art institute this month there is a special exhibition of art of the United Nations. Possessed of sheep-tendencies and unlimited curiosity, I followed a steady stream of people: sailors and dowagers, children and shabby old men—the Sunday afternoon crowd at the art institute. The show related art to the war without overdoing it. Criticism should consider how well each exhibit represented a country, the value of the pieces as art, and the appeal to a demanding public which seeks a varied choice. Art of the United Nations managed to avoid a weighted exhibition by limiting the display to one example from each country, thus improving the quality and eliminating repetition. As always, the display was in the best style of the institute, and most settings enhanced paintings and sculptures which might otherwise have been humdrum.

The exhibit spread out through several galleries, with larger objects sprinkled at random among the smaller, less spectacular pieces. The first display, that of Mexico, was a stone figure of the Goddess Dean set in a desert scene. It was Coahuilte Aztec of the 12th-16th century. Hung against rough-hewn logs was a flaming Russian painting of the 18th century, "The Ascension," throbbing in rich browns and reds.

Yugoslavia was represented by a precisely sculptured figure, "My Mother," by Ivan Masirovic. China sent a delicate 12th century painting in shades of brown on tapestry woven with threads of gold.

India was represented by a 14th century crusted green copper figure of a Dancing Siva, with four arms and many hands, curving the figure of a baby beneath its dancing feet. Most impressive was the huge Medallion carpet from Iran, woven in 1559. Against the light, small holes were visible from the back of it, but the pattern and dyes were richly elaborate and complete from a distance. There were less impressive displays, too.

Greece sent a fragmentary Hellenistic relief of white stone, carved at the end of the 4th century B.C.; Guatemala, a woman's costume woven in bright yellows, reds, and blacks; Ethiopia showed a browned, frayed illustrated copy of the Collex of the Gospel from 1401; a typical Georgian Saurat represented France; and from Liberia there was a mask of the Hawk Devil, 18th-19th century. Nearly all of the exhibit was well displayed, although occasionally there was a bit of crowding. British and American art seemed conspicuously minimized, representing no particular period of art.

The examples from other countries were dominantly historical or native. Some of the pieces were not great art as our standards would dictate, but variety made up for their deficiency.

Its success lay not alone in its choice of examples, or in its timeliness, but also in the beautiful arrangements of each display by the Institute. The exhibition gave a rapid glimpse into the art, the culture, and the life of our allied nations.

A Freshman Asks—

What's the Home Front Waiting For?

By VAUGHN SMITH

Strikes in wartime are very unfair. I'm not a "flag-waver," but I do think that those people who go on strike from their war jobs are being very unpatriotic. They think it's fine, however, when the young men of the nation volunteer to go forth into battle and risk their lives to preserve our American way of living.

Why, then, don't the civilians put aside their petty grievances and do everything in their power to help the fighting man? The right to strike, they contend, is one of the privileges of Americans.

Of course, it's wonderful to be able to organize labor so they can demand higher pay when they think it should be forthcoming; but is it being fair to your friends—your brothers—your sons—to hold up production of war materials just to get a few cents an hour more salary?

Perhaps these strikers think they deserve more than that fifty dollars a week; after all, they are engaged in vital industry. Yes, and those who are doing the actual fighting are receiving about the same amount for working a month. Does that seem right? At least there is nobody shooting at our factory workers!

The boys overseas need those weapons which are being produced in order to continue the wonderful job they're doing. They can't be expected to fight this war with their bare hands and still win it.

Many more times than we hear about, however, they are doing just that! It isn't because they want to — their supplies don't come through. They wait for ammunition to come; the supply gets low, then lower, and finally there is no more. They decide that an enemy torpedo must be responsible. What would they think if they knew that the boats weren't sunk — they didn't even start!

The dock-workers decided they

X-Ray Examination Reveals 11 Cases Of Early Tuberculosis

Eleven cases of pulmonary tuberculosis were discovered at an x-ray examination of 80 Johnson county persons at an x-ray conference in Mercy hospital this year. It was the third annual conference in the program for discovering tuberculosis in its early, curable stages.

Funds raised in the annual Christmas seal sale helped to finance this program, which was sponsored by the Johnson County Medical society in cooperation with the Iowa Tuberculosis association and the Iowa department of health.

County nurses Mrs. Jean Carlson and Mrs. Mildred Johnson made case histories of 117 persons whose names were supplied by county physicians as having had contact with persons infected with tuberculosis. These persons were given tuberculin tests by their physicians and seven positive reactions were reported.

Christmas Treats— In The Kitchen

—With Mrs. Fred Riecke

PUTTING THE FINAL touches on a batch of fork cookies is Mrs. Fred Riecke, 308 S. Johnson street. Mrs. Riecke, who has raised a family of six, is adding walnut halves to cookies which are a favorite of her son, Capt. Harold Riecke, who is serving with the armed forces in Iceland.

With a blanket of snow outdoors and the air inside crackling with some mysterious atmosphere, it can mean only one thing—Christmas! And what Christmas would be complete without that delicious smell of baking cookies, cakes and pies to greet you as you cross the threshold.

Filled with typical Christmas atmosphere is the residence of Mrs. Fred Riecke, 308 S. Johnson street. Although only two of her six children, Anna Mae and Joyce, are now living at home, Mrs. Riecke regularly bakes the family's favorite delicacies.

Probably every recipe that was ever written down, and many that weren't, have been tried in the Riecke kitchen, for Mrs. Riecke has raised five daughters. In spite of some of the unusual concoctions five daughters could doubtless produce, Mrs. Riecke still prefers those tried and true recipes which save her time and work.

One of her favorites, and incidentally, a special pet of her son, Capt. Harold Riecke, who is now serving with the armed forces in Iceland, is fork cookies, which can easily be converted into filled cookies.

Another of the Riecke family favorites is honey-pumpkin pie, "a delicacy that simply melts in your mouth." For wartime cooks, the recipe is a blessing because it's a real sugar saver, as well as being very inexpensive to make, Mrs. Riecke says.

No Christmas ever passes without plenty of candy and Mrs. Riecke's chocolate nut creams occupy a special place not only during the holidays but frequently throughout the year. Here again the element of simplicity makes this candy a family favorite.

Christmas morning is a special occasion and there's nothing better for Christmas breakfast than sweet rolls, fresh from the oven.

Having cooked for a family of six children, Mrs. Riecke knows the importance of thrift and expediency, and these recipes she finds especially valuable during the Christmas holidays.

SUI Publishes French Book

L'Atelier, four-page bulletin published in French by members of the French Workshop, made its first appearance on the campus yesterday. Edited by students in the advanced French class of Dr. Henri Barzun, the bulletin is the first paper to be published in French at the University of Iowa.

The bulletin includes articles on the Workshop's first performance, Parisian fashions, Christmas songs, an art exhibition, France in the Middle West, the recent concert by Sanroma, a trip by air from Panama to the United States, book reviews, a short story, a travelogue on Normandy, a poem and cartoons.

One of several projects planned by members of the Workshop, L'Atelier will give students in the classes and seminars of Dr. Barzun practical experience with living French. The bulletin is published entirely by members of the group although other students are invited to participate in performances of the Workshop.

Editor of the French bulletin is Marion MacEwen, A4 of Iowa City. Associate editors are Ruth York, A4 of Melrose, Mass., and Mary Osborne, A3 of Ottumwa. Beverly Jones, A4 of Rock Island, Ill., is art editor for the publication and Wanda Dawson, A3 of Knoxville, is business manager.

Hospitalized Children To Receive Presents From University Club

The University club will observe its traditional custom of bringing gifts for the Children's hospital to the Christmas tea at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon in the University clubrooms of Iowa Union. New and used toys and books will be appreciated. Serial books such as "The Bobsey Twins," and older books such as collections of fairy tales, the Pepper Books and old files of children's magazines will be welcomed by convalescing children at the hospital. Candy, cookies, puzzles and games will make the holidays pass more quickly for those children who are unable to go to their homes for the holidays.

The library at the hospital will also receive at this time contributions of books and magazines for the adult patients at the general hospital.

Wuri Elected

Thomas S. Wuri, J4 of Iowa City, was elected president of Sigma Chi fraternity for the coming semester at a meeting Monday in the chapter house, 703 N. Dubuque. He will succeed R. Bruce Hughes, A2 of Sioux City, who is being called to military service. Richard D. Yoakam, A4 of Pittsburg, was elected vice-president and pledge trainer. Other officers are George Clausen, A2 of Clinton, treasurer; Dick Rust, A1 of Cedar Rapids, secretary.

Iowa Hawkeyes Trip Denver for Fourth Straight Win

Ives Counts 20 Points

Iowa Has Trouble In Rough Contest; 31 Fouls Called

By Bob Krause
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa's Hawkeyes won their fourth consecutive basketball game last night as they whipped Denver university by a score of 60 to 41, but it wasn't a very pleasant evening for Coach Pops Harrison's men. Denver, nicknamed the Pioneers, kept threatening to break through the frontier all through the battle—and battle is the word for it.

Dick Ives

If it had not been for the sensational play of sophomore forward Dick Ives, who led the scoring with 20 points in a brilliant display, the Hawks might have been more surprised than they were. Denver, completely at a disadvantage as to the matter of height, kept right on pushing right down to the final whistle of an exceedingly rough engagement. At one time, shortly after the start of the second half, they were off the pace by only 31 to 25.

Last night's affair was definitely not for lovers of the finer things in the game of basketball. Hot blood boiled on frequent occasions and, once or twice, a trading of punches seemed imminent. The officials were kept busy tooting their whistles as numerous obvious fouls were called on both teams. There were 31 in all.

Poor Brand of Ball

Neither team played a brand of ball which will be remembered for very long. In fact the whole duel was decidedly inept. What made it exciting, however, was the fact that the Pioneers kept on scrapping and moving so that Iowa was never quite sure of victory. Jack Loftus paced Denver with 15 points.

Whenever things got really dangerous, and this happened often, Ives, with a good deal of help from Jack Spencer, Herb Wilkinson and Ned Postels, was able to step into the breach with a spectacular basket. The trio scored six, ten and eight points, respectively.

Air-Tight Defense

As the game started out the Hawkeyes displayed an air-tight defense which the Pioneers seemed unable to fathom. Denver was forced to fall back on a series of one-handed long shots in typical western style. Clyde Hendricks and Phil Graftoff excelled at this art with nine and eight points apiece. Iowa held a half-time edge of 29 to 17.

The Pioneers also showed a creditable defense and the Hawk quickbreak offense was hindered. Harrison's men appeared very slow at this juncture, seemingly unable to do much with the ball. Denver pressed them hard at every occasion, and the guarding was frequently overly close.

Second Half

As the second half commenced Denver began with a rush and narrowed the scoring margin. Their set plays started to work and they split the Hawk man-to-man protection. Despite the height disadvantage they controlled the backboards.

After about ten minutes Iowa steadied and Ives broke out in a scoring rash. The slender star counted on four beautiful push shots from underneath. Jack Spencer sank two long, looping one-handers and the lead went to 49-29.

Basketball Holiday

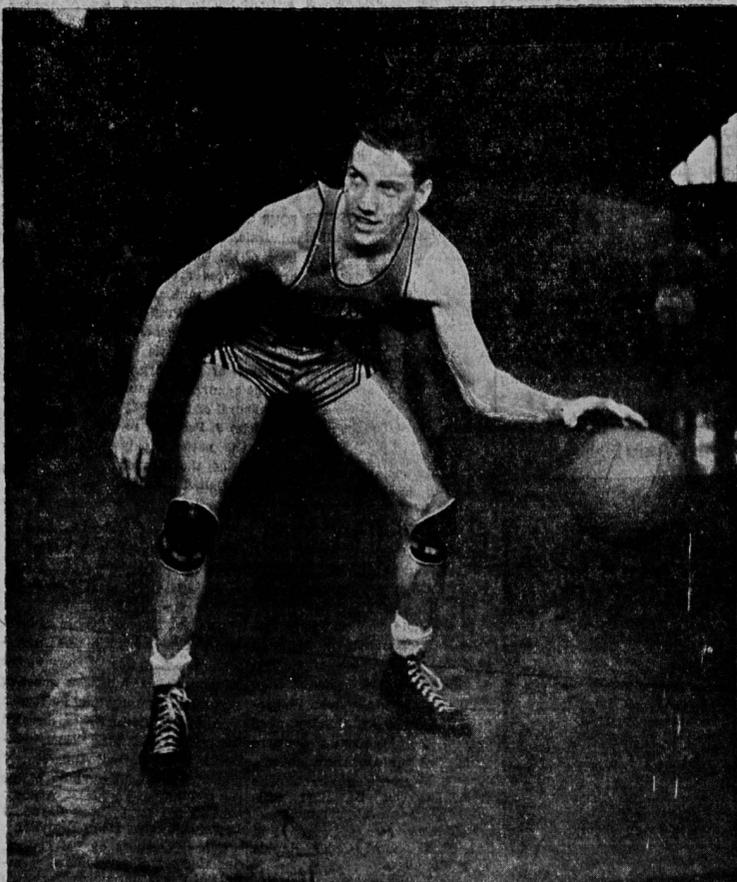

Ives was superior above any other man on the floor, but the Old Gold still did not function as a smooth unit. Denver was not a particularly good team, missing many shots, but they kept boring in all evening long. It was entertaining, but basketball took a holiday.

Ives Leads Iowa Scorers

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN a comfortable margin and a close squeeze in last night's Hawkeye triumph over the University of Denver was sophomore Dick Ives, pictured here. Ives dropped through 20 points to pace the scorers. Coach Pops Harrison's Hawks had a none too easy time of it as the Pioneers kept drilling through the Old Gold defense through out the gruelling evening.

Little Hawks to Rely On Speed to Defeat Burlington Tonight

The Burlington Greyhounds roar into Iowa City tonight to try to complete the final chapter of the serial they started last fall on the gridiron when Coach Wally Schwank's Hawksletts staged one of the biggest upsets of the football season to tie the favored Greyhound eleven, 6 to 6.

This time the two teams will square off on the hardwood instead of the hard ground, and the ball will be round instead of spherical.

Winning Streak

Now as then, the Greyhounds are riding a winning streak and are setting the pace in the Little Six conference. And, now as then, the Hawksletts are coming up out of the dirt from a defeat and are looking for revenge.

There's no denying that the Burlington quintet, led by football all-star Dick Meyer is a formidable foe for any team to face, but the Little Hawks are taking it in stride and appear to be very casual about it all, except in practice, where the Red and Whites' offense has been speeded up considerably.

Sher Out

The squad seems to realize that Coach Wally Schwank wasn't kidding when he told them that they would have to get the lead out of their attack if they expected to win any games. In order to speed up the attack Dick Drake has been substituted for Don Sehr at the center post.

Sehr, the tallest man on the squad, has been very active in snatching rebounds from the Hawksletts, but his slowness has admittedly pulled down the Red and Whites' fast break, a factor that is counted on heavily by Coach Schwank for points in the coming conference battles.

Forward Combination

Game time will find Bob Freeman and Jim Van Deusen at their usual forward positions, with Dick Kallous and Russ Lockender handling the chores in the rear court. Although the river city quintet has a powerful offense, their defense is probably their largest banner, as in their first game with Keokuk, the opposition was held without a field goal and got only a couple of shots at the basket the entire half.

Rely on Speed

The Hawksletts will undoubtedly find trouble puncturing this defense as they did the Davenport Blue Devils' last week, but Coach Schwank is relying on speed to break up the Greyhounds' air-tight defense, and allow the City high fast break combination of Freeman and Van Deusen to function as it should.

The freshman-sophomore squad will be trying for their fifth straight victory in the curtain-raiser which is scheduled for 7 o'clock. The varsity game will begin at 8:15.

Bond Bowl Contest— Didn't Fit Routine

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—New Yorkers are creatures of habit. They take the same route to and from their work every day. They buy their newspapers at the same stands. They have their pet eating places and one citizen was quite perturbed when he picked up a check with his left hand instead of his right hand, particularly as he was counting on someone else picking it up anyway.

Possible Reason

This trolley-track existence may account in some measure for the fact about 8,000 persons rattled around in the Polo Grounds stands last Saturday at the Randolph Field-Second Airforce football game and a crowd of 46,000 attended the Green Bay Packer-New York Giant pro championship game the next day.

Pro football did not always draw that way here. There were some pretty scrawny days before the public began to accept the Giants and work them in as part of their routine, so the airforce footballers needn't feel they were discriminated against. They drew as well as any two teams would have drawn under the circumstances, unless one of the teams was the Giants.

Sports Town?

The first reaction of outlanders in reading of the Saturday attendance naturally would be to indict New York as a sports town, as 8,000 out of seven million turn out to see teams of the acknowledged class of the airforce rivals it does seem like the local residents wouldn't pay a nickel to see a circus in their backyard.

But when attendance at fights, baseball games, giant football games and games involving Army, Navy or Notre Dame, which are considered practically home town teams and have become habit-forming, is considered the sports interest seems to be here, although maybe not to as great an extent as in some other towns, population considered.

Fight Interest

Interest in fights is natural as a fight is a fight in any language and you don't need to be educated to it to enjoy the sight of two guys trying to knock each other's brains out. As for football, and even baseball, the attendance in proportion to the population may seem small until the cosmopolitan nature of the population, with a great many of the seven million knowing nothing about football or baseball and caring less is considered.

Davenport, Clinton Lead Circuit Race; Hawksletts Tie for Third

Davenport and Clinton are perched on top of the Mississippi Valley conference with two wins and no defeats after two weeks of conference play, but tonight the roost will topple for one of the two river towns as they meet in a game which may be a deciding factor in the battle for the conference championship.

Equal Footing

Both teams were defeated by Muscatine and both have won two conference games, which would seem to put them on rather equal footing. Davenport's showing against the Iowa City Little Hawks, however, did anything but class them as champions, so it would appear that it would be safe to presume that the River Kings will be riding the top of the Mississippi Valley conference wave when the shouting has died down Wednesday night.

The Hawksletts are in a three-way tie for third place, and will undoubtedly remain there until they open up conference play after the holidays with a battle with Franklin high of Cedar Rapids on the Iowa City court.

Inter-City Games

The four Cedar Rapids schools play inter-city games Friday night while Dubuque will meet a strong out of the state rival in Freeport (Ill.) at Dubuque. Iowa City is scheduled to play Burlington Wednesday night in a non-conference battle at Iowa City.

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Pct.
Davenport	2	0	1.000
Clinton	2	0	1.000
Dubuque	2	1	.500
Iowa City	1	1	.500

McKinley	0	3	.000

cerned, but to New Yorkers it was just another football game. The press got behind it, giving it columns of space, but there are limitations as to what even the press can do.

Late Date

Another possible factor was the late date, as, except for the Giants and the pro fans, who on the whole form a different cross-section than the college fans, interest in football dies abruptly after the Army-Navy game, the same as baseball interest disappears with the World Series.

Anyway, we have an idea that the players on the airforce teams, getting a glimpse of the vacant Polo Grounds seats, felt like sending cards to their friends: "Having fine time; wish somebody was here."

Seahawks Will Try For Seventh Victory

Ary, Klein to Lead Pre-Flighters Against Wisconsin Tonight

Having successfully triumphed over their first six opponents, the Seahawk cagers will be gunning for their seventh straight tonight when they return to Big Ten competition in a game with Wisconsin at Madison.

Starting Lineup

Scheduled to start for the Pre-Flighters is the same five that chalked up impressive victories over Oklahoma and Olathe last weekend. At the forward positions will be T. S. Ary, high scoring cadet of the Pre-Flight squad, and Jim Klein, Pittsburgh set shot expert who was high man against Olathe in the Seahawk's 41-29 victory over the Clippers Sunday.

At center will be Joe Holland, Berea, Ky., college product who has successfully held down the pivot post all season. Taking over the back court positions will be George Leddy from Chicago's Kelyvn Park school and Charles Pugsley, who lettered in basketball at Oklahoma last season.

Slight Edge

Wisconsin's quintet, which has won over Marquette and Lawrence while losing to Notre Dame, has a team centered around three veterans and has the edge on the Seahawks in height and experience.

Defensive Game

In their six games thus far the Seahawks have yielded only 33.8 points per game to their opponent's and have scored an average of 45.3 points in contrast to the Badgers who have tallied an average of 46.3 points against their three opponents while yielding 39.6.

Of the six teams beaten by the cadets four were suffering their first defeat. In the contests against Bunker Hill and Olathe, both naval training stations, the cadets snapped winning streaks of five and six games respectively. In the first game of the season for the Seahawks the Pre-Flight cagers handed Bunker Hill a 52-31 beating, while in the last Seahawk game the cadets romped over Olathe 41-29 to give them their first defeat in seven starts.

Probable Starting Lineups

Irish Wallop Loras, 91-44

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's basketball scoring record was broken for the second time in three weeks as the Irish ran up a 91-to-44 score against Loras college of Dubuque, last night.

Crack Guard Injured

It was a costly victory for Notre Dame, however. Billy Hassett, crack Irish guard, suffered strained ligaments in his knee late in the first half and probably will be out of action indefinitely.

The game was fairly even for the first half of the opening period, but then Johnny Dee and Vince Boryla started hitting and gave Notre Dame a 25-to-14 lead. Gordon, forward, took over and led the home team to a 39-to-19 margin at the half.

Break Record

The second half was all Notre Dame. The first stringers piled up the points until they were withdrawn, and the reserves took up where they left off. With two minutes to go Gordon scored the 90th point to break the previous record of 89, set against Kellogg Field three weeks ago.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

Ramblers to Play Greyhounds; St. Pat's Faces Ft. Madison

Returning again to their home court after three straight road games, the Ramblers of St. Mary's will meet the strong Immaculate Conception Greyhounds of Cedar Rapids tonight at 8 o'clock on the Junior high floor. A preliminary game between the sophomores and the junior high of St. Mary's will begin at 7:15.

With their record to date reading five victories and two losses, the Ramblers will be out to keep their home slate clean having suffered their losses only on foreign courts. Coach Francis Suellep of the Ramblers has been drilling his guards who have the job of stopping Forwards Rozek and McAvary of the Parlor City five, who together accounted for 37 points last Friday night in their 44-43 victory over St. Patrick's of Iowa City.

St. Mary's lineup is uncertain, but it is probable that Tom Stahl and John O'Brien will start the game in their regular forward positions, although Stahl's ankle injury, suffered in the Riverside tilt Friday night will, undoubtedly, handicap him slightly. Coach Suellep said last night that either Bill Hettrick or Kenneth Kasper would start the game at center, and the guard spots are a toss up among Bart Toohy, Bill Suellep, Jack Shrader and Jim Diehl.

For the Greyhounds, McAvary and Rozek will be in as forwards, Dader at center and Banner and Jennings in the guard position.

DePauw Overcomes Purdue Rally, 49-48

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP)—DePauw came from behind with a late rush to defeat Purdue in a college basketball game last night, 49 to 48.

The defeat was the first of the season for Purdue and was DePauw's revenge for a 47-to-31 loss suffered at Lafayette. It was the Tiger's fourth victory in six games this season.

Except for two occasions, once when Purdue tied the score at 17 points, and again at 36-all and then pulling away to a 46-to-40 lead.

DePauw closed the gap, however, and Stan London scored from under the basket to give the Tigers their winning margin. DePauw stalled successfully as the time ran out.

In an attempt to even up their season's record at three and three, the Shamrocks of St. Patrick's play host to the highly rated Central high team of Ft. Madison tonight at 8 o'clock on the St. Patrick's floor.

The Shamrocks would like nothing better than to defeat the team that ousted them in the semi-final round of last year's diocesan tournament at Burlington and who finally wound up with runners-up honors. With three regulars and five squadmen back from last year's team, the Ft. Madison five is still exceptionally strong.

The three regulars are Forward Cullen and Guards Tamboribus and Belding, all of whom will undoubtedly be in starting positions tonight.

Still smarting from the 44-43 setback suffered at the hands of Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids Friday night, the Irish have showed improvement with every game and should give a good account of themselves tonight on their home floor.

CLYDE HUBBARD

A man familiar to many Iowa Citizens represented Denver at the public address table during the Denver-Iowa basketball game last night. He is Clyde Hubbard, formerly major, who was the commanding officer of the army airforce meteorology detachment stationed in Iowa City in 1943-44. Coach of the Denver Pioneers before the war Hubbard was recently discharged from the service and is back at the Colorado school.

Williams Here on Leave

Former Iowa Mentor Reports to Great Lakes; May Coach Bluejackets

Lieut. Comdr. Rollie Williams, who coached the Iowa Hawkeyes for 12 years previous to the war, is back home after serving 18 months in the Hawaiian Islands. He arrived in Iowa City yesterday to spend a leave with his family before reporting to Great Lakes in January.

To Great Lakes

Commander Williams said that he has "been ordered to report to Great Lakes Jan. 4," but that he did not know whether the speculation that he will coach the Great Lakes Bluejacket, quintet was correct.

Head of the Hawk cagers from 1930 to 1942, Williams had his best season in '42 when the Iowa quintet won 10 out of 15 conference contests to tie for second place in the Big Ten.

Given a leave of absence to join the service, he entered the navy and was stationed at the Iowa Pre-Flight school on the athletic staff. He was a member of the pre-flight school coaching staff for a year and then was detached for service in the Hawaiian Islands where he was naval recreational director for 18 months.

Arrived Yesterday

Commander Williams said that he flew from the Hawaiian Islands to Oakland, Calif., and arrived in Cedar Rapids yesterday afternoon.

Don Hutson Wants To Retire Again

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Don Hutson, who holds more National football league records than any other player in the 25-year history of the professional circuit, wants to retire at end of the world champion Packers, but he doesn't know if he can.

"I've retired for the past three years and it didn't stick. I intend to retire now, but I'm not sure," he said last night.

"If the Packers can get new material, or get former players discharged from the services to help defend the title we won at New York Sunday, I won't play next fall. If they need me, I probably will play."

Hutson was signed as a backfield coach for this season, but played in all games, boosting the records he had established as a scorer and pass-snatcher supreme in nine previous National football league seasons.

"The Packers have offered me another contract as coach for the 1945 season, and I intend to sign it," he said.

"I haven't definitely retired," he emphasized, "but I will retire if conditions permit."

Detroit Beats Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—After pulling into three deadlocks, the speedy Detroit Red Wings rapped in four goals in the final period to gain their 11th consecutive National Hockey league victory over the Boston Bruins by a 6-3 margin last night before a 12,000 crowd at the Boston Garden. Eddie Bruneteau caged a pair of unassisted tallies during the last minute of play.

Six New Members Named to C of C Board of Directors

Six new members of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce board of directors were named yesterday. Votes were counted yesterday morning by W. T. Hagebeck, Roscoe Taylor and Leland Nagle after the voting deadline Monday night.

Vern Bales, E. J. Liechty, Henry Linder, E. C. Miltner and A. A. Welt were elected for three-year terms, and L. W. Yetter will fulfill a one-year term.

Others nominated included W. J. Hayek, J. W. Kirwan, I. C. Nichols, Earl Snyder, Howard Young and Raymond Bywater.

The new members will take office Jan. 1. Present board members whose terms will expire Dec. 31 are President John Nash, Deimer Sample, L. D. Wareham, Wilbur D. Cannon and Kenneth E. Greene.

An additional director was named in the election this year to take the place of B. E. Vandecar, who entered the navy in August. Vandecar would have been a director until Dec. 31, 1945.

Members of the board of directors who have two more years of service are Frank D. Williams, Emmett C. Gardner, Dwight W. Edwards, Harry Dean and George Davis, Telford Lawew, George Nagle, Dean Francis M. Dawson of the engineering college and Ben S. Summerwill will serve on the board until Dec. 31, 1945.

John Honeyman, an unsung hero of the American revolution, helped George Washington cross the Delaware.

Leads Invasion

LIEUT. GEN. WALTER KRUEGER, commander of the U. S. Sixth Army, led the invasion forces that established three beachheads on Mindoro island, winding their 20-mile-long American warship convoy from Leyte over 600 miles among enemy islands of the central Philippines.

Lieut. Robert E. Bender, B-24 Navigator, Receives Promotion at Base in England

Lieut. Dick Davies, who attended the University of Iowa in 1941-42, visited Sadi Moon, A4 of Lamoni, the past week. He received his commission at Ellington Field, Texas, Dec. 2, and reported back to that field Dec. 17 as an instructor in the navigation school.

Lieutenant Davis served in Hawaii from November, 1942, to September, 1943, as an infantry and aviation engineer. His home is in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Cpl. Robert W. Merriam, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Merriam, 1225 Muscatine avenue, recently landed in England.

A student for two years at the University of Iowa, he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and was on the rifle team and the university swimming team. He enlisted in the army in May, 1943.

Home from France with a shoulder wound, Lieut. Bill Leeming of Newton spent a few days last week end visiting friends in Iowa City. He has a 21-day leave from the general hospital at Springfield, Ohio, reporting back Jan. 2.

A former student at the University of Iowa and member of the cheerleading squad, Lieutenant Leeming was serving at Villers de Moivron in France when he was wounded.

Iowa alumnus Major Carl E. Rantzow has been promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, according to announcement by headquarters U. S. Army forces, Pacific ocean areas.

A native of Turkey River, Colonel Rantzow was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1931 with a B. S. degree in civil engineering. His wife and sons live at Guttenberg.

The Air medal has been awarded to Lieutenant William C. Guenther, navigator on a B-17 Flying Fortress of the 9th bombardment group in England.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Guenther of Winterset, Lieutenant Guenther received the award for participating in Eighth air force bombing attacks on vital German industrial targets, and on Nazi airfields, supply dumps and gun emplacements in support of allied ground forces on the continent.

The Third Bombardment division has also received the presidential citation for outstanding bombing missions over Germany.

Lieutenant Guenther attended the University of Iowa, receiving his B. A. degree in 1943.

Flight Officer John L. Birch-enough, a glider pilot in a troop carrier squadron of the 12th air force, has been awarded the Air medal for his participation in the invasion of southern France.

Son of Rev. Allen O. Birch-enough of Des Moines, he has served three years in the armed forces, of which seven months have been spent overseas in the Mediterranean theater of operations.

He attended the University of Iowa prior to entering the armed forces.

Lieut. Thomas H. Allen, University of Iowa alumnus and former faculty member, is now an aviation physiologist at Avon Park army air field in Avon Park, Fla., a final phase training base for Flying Fortress combat crews.

Lieutenant Allen received his B. A. degree in 1936 and Ph. D. in 1941 at the University of Iowa, where he later joined the staff as a faculty member. He was appointed to the National Research Council in 1941 and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Xi fraternities.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor V. Allen of Kansas City, Mo. His wife lives in Birmingham, Ala.

Robert E. Bender, former University of Iowa student, now stationed in England, has been promoted from second to first lieutenant. It has been announced by Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commanding general, Eighth air force.

A navigator at a B-24 Libera-tor station in the British Isles, the young lieutenant is a veteran of numerous missions over continental Europe, and has been decorated with the Aid medal and Oak Leaf cluster.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Bender of Waterloo, Lieutenant Bender was affiliated with Phi Kappa Psi fraternity while at the University. He entered the army air forces in November, 1942. His wife, the former Maxine L. Travis, was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1944, where she was a member of the Delta Gamma sorority. She is living in Waterloo.

Nazi Forces British Troops to Fall Back in Italian Fighting

ROME (AP)—A savage counter-attack mounted by the Germans in an effort to hold their positions on the west bank of the Lamone river northeast of Faenza against a British flanking drive has forced the Eighth army troops to fall back to the northern edge of the town.

The grim, tank-supported Nazi defense appeared to indicate the Germans were having trouble extricating their forces from a nine-mile wide salient between Faenza and the important road center Bagnacavallo.

Work in clearing a lake bed for Grand Coulee dam involved the moving of 12 towns.

Probate Court Admits Lee, Bulechek Estates

Two estates were admitted to probate in district court yesterday. Mary Mead Lee was appointed administratrix of the estate of Isaac B. Lee under a $1,000 bond. Fred L. Stevens is attorney for the estate.

Frances Bulechek, under a $10,000 bond, was appointed administratrix of the estate of Anton W. Bulechek, who died Dec. 14, 1944.

The will of Lena Thurauf Apitz who died Nov. 29, was admitted to probate Monday. Bertha I. Thurauf and John E. Thurauf were appointed executrix and executor without bond.

Wilson, Cleaman and Brant are the attorneys for the latter two estates.

INVADE 150 MILES FROM MANILA

AMERICAN TROOPS have split the Philippine archipelago with a landing on Mindoro island just south of important Luzon island. The 600-mile overwater invasion movement took the U. S. convoy from Leyte, where the Yanks first landed Oct. 20, south and west past the Japanese-occupied islands of Mindanao, Bohol, Cebu, Negros and Panay, where heroic guerrilla actions (starred points on map above) had turned it into a fairly safe convoy by seizing airfields and strategic ports in secret maneuvers just disclosed. Gaining three virtually bloodless beachheads, the Yanks are now within 150 miles of Manila, capital city of the Philippines, and close-by Corregidor, where nearly three years ago Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his men were forced to escape the Jap-seized islands.

Velma Martin; Dorothy Klein, G of Eagle Grove.

Student Speakers Bureau: Doris Lundeen, A2 of Marion; Mary Forslund, A2 of Sioux Falls, S. D.; John Nydegger, A1 of West Union; Raymond H. Miner, U. of Donnell; Owen Peterson; Jean Collier; Velma Martin; Marian Crews; Edna Herbst; Jean Stamy; Frances Siamis; Donald Ecroyd; Peggy Banks; Mary Kirby; Bernice Peiffer; Edythe Rosenthal, A1 of Starsdale, N. Y., acted as secretary to the bureau.

Delta Sigma Rho: New members: Bob Ray, G of Davenport; Sally Birdsall. Present active members: Richard Baxter; Tom Wuriu; Gordon Christensen; William Arnold; Velma Martin; Don Ecroyd, G of Kansas City, Kan.

Gavel Club Officers: Gordon Christensen, president; Richard Baxter, vice president; Velma Martin, secretary.

Intercollegiate debate board: Gordon Christensen; Velma Martin; Tom Wuriu.

Search for Santa

LITTLE Sharyn Moffett, child film star, joins her baby brother Greg on a reconnaissance trip down the stairs in their Hollywood home. It seems somebody told them that Santa could be expected any day now and they've been making regular searches about the house just in case he should arrive before Christmas day.

Iowa Winter— Adds Ski, Skating Togs

Whether wind is whopping wildly and furiously around the corner, or snow is falling softly and gently, the Iowa coed has prepared herself to brave the elements of a cold Iowa winter in new ski togs, skating outfits and slack combinations of the latest fashion.

She whistles a bit with assurance and knows freedom of action means freedom for fun when she steps out in a sleek new skiing outfit with the slim pants and the broad-shouldered jacket that not only warms her heart, but makes her look like the spirit of Sun Valley at the same time.

With plain rubber snow boots, or the heavy fur-lined stadium boots her feet will be kept warm and dry. Kerchiefs, ski caps and hoods combine with matching mittens to complete her preparation for classes, skiing, skating or sleigh rides.

Donella White, A3 of Pittsford, N. Y., steps out smartly in the winter weather in a soldier blue ski suit of gabardine. Her medium-length jacket is gathered to fit tightly at the waistline. It zips up the front and has two flap pockets, each of which fastens with a small silver button engraved with a maple leaf. The plaid wool lining has stripes of blue and white interwoven against a white background. Donella's ski pants are tight fitting, according to the latest fashion, and have a zipper placket, two small pockets in front and two buckles in back for better fitting at the waist. To complete her ensemble, she has chosen a beige ski cap, beige mittens and stadium boots.

There is nothing more perfect for those cold walks to 8 o'clock classes than the short and saucy top coat and the tailored slacks worn by Barbara Shields, A2 of Newton. Her three-quarter length coral-colored coat is of the tie-around style, double-breasted and designed with two huge deep pockets which open on the side seams. With this, Barbara wears grey-pin-striped flannel slacks and black snow boots. Her slacks are man-tailored with no cuffs, a center placket and a pocket on each side.

Ready for an afternoon of skiing in a blue and white combination is Bettie Lew Schmidt, A3 of Freeport, Ill. Bettie Lew's ski trousers are navy blue gabardine, lined with red satin. They have a zipper side placket and two slanted flap pockets on the sides. With these, she wears a long, loosely-fitting white gabardine jerkin over a blue and white figured ski sweater. Heavy white ski mittens add the final touch.

Functional detail and classic line are traditional in the ski togs worn by Louise Slotsky, A1 of Sioux City. Her raspberry-colored suit has a very short jacket which cuts off abruptly at the waist. The button-down-the-front jacket is designed with a silver buckle at the waist to allow for either snug or loose fitting. The wide lapels may be turned-up or down and two vertical zipper pockets near the top and sleeves which button at the wrist complete the fashioning of her jacket. Louise's tailored ski pants, which have one slit pocket on each side, taper down to fit tightly at the ankles. A white kerchief, white fur mittens and white ski boots form her accessories.

Something different in the way of snow clothes is the multi-colored stocking cap owned by Nancy Noble, A1 of Princeton, Ill. The cap, which Nancy knitted herself, measures 31 inches including the tassel. Blue, red, white, green, tan, coral, purple, brown and yellow are among the colors included. Since she can't take a radiator with her, Islea Beth Hope, A2 of Chicago, keeps herself warm and in style with a red and blue ski suit of windbreaker material. The trousers of soldier blue allow freedom of action, tapering down from a slight fullness in the legs to tight fitting at the ankles. The two slit pockets in front—button shut. Islea's jacket is reversible with one side red and the other navy blue with red trim. It is designed with elastic in back to assure comfortable fitting at the waist and sleeves that button at the wrist. A red ski-cap with folding ear muffs, beige mittens and stadium boots promises warmth and comfort in snowy weather.

Braving winter winds in a long Hudson Bay jacket of white is Eileen Ehed, A1 of Forest City. Three-inch stripes of black, yellow, red and green are woven horizontally against the white background. Two huge flap pockets and two smaller slit side pockets are added conveniences to this striking double-breasted jacket. Eileen wears green ski pants to complete her skating and skiing outfit.

A striking picture, indeed, is Gerry Farrer, A1 of Mason City, as she glides smoothly over the ice in her white corduroy skating ensemble. Gerry's short, full circular skirt is lined with black gabardine. Her jacket is lined with white quilted wool material and is designed with black buttons on the front, a round neckline and long sleeves, full at the top and tapering to tightness at the wrists. White corduroy tights, white skates and black gabardine mittens complete this smart outfit.

Fashioned for cold weather anywhere is the beautifully tailored three-quarter length topcoat belonging to Elaine Lenney, A1 of Cleveland, Ohio. Of the around style, the tan gabardine, double-breasted coat is lined with luxurious mouton. The collar, also of mouton, is cozy around her ears when it's up and smart when it's down. Two deep slash pockets are also included. With her coat, Elaine wears matching brown corduroy slacks and stadium boots.

Elayne Kamins, A1 of Woodmere, Long Island, N. Y., has chosen as her protection against zero weather, navy blue and red ski togs. Her jacket, designed with red collar and lapels, is waist-length with a zipper front, full sleeves with elastic at the wrist and elastic around the waistline for snugness.
