Delinquent Dog Develops Dentures

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A pup of undetermined ancestry but with a notorious liking for soybean products in the form of 1944 Illinois license plates ran afoul of the law yesterday. Police Officer Lee Estrop spied the dog gnawing away at a license on a parked car and took the animal into custody. City Street Commissioner Frank (Hoke) Lock estimated it had destroyed 20 to 25 plates in three weeks. Lock said the dog would be held 10 days, awaiting an owner. It is friendly and several offers of adoption have been made. No motorists complained the pup had eaten similarly-constructed 1945 plates, which legally should be on cars after Jan. 1. A Memphis, Tenn., woman reading of the dog's recent activities, suggested that the state put red pepper in the soy-plastic tags.

Nazis Shift Ski Troops To Italy

ROME (AP)—The Germans have transferred troops from Norway to strengthen their lines at the extreme eastern end of the Italian battleline and Adolf Hitler has ordered present positions there held "at all costs," the allied command announced yesterday. In particular the Germans are declared intent on holding the east-west Reno river line at the southern end of the narrow spit of land separating the large Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic sea. This neck of land provides a still-usable back door escape route for the enemy. The importance attached by the enemy to this sector was deduced after an Eighth army counter-attack on an enemy patrol on the south bank of the Reno in which ten prisoners were taken. They were members of the 710th division, which headquarters said was newly-brought to Italy from Norway. Sharp fights between patrols of both sides flared at several points along the Fifth army front.

Ward's, Army Begin Battle of Affidavits

CHICAGO (AP)—The army and Montgomery Ward and company fought a battle of affidavits yesterday, each accusing the other of responsibility for business confusion arising out of army operation of 16 company properties in seven cities. Amid the allegations and counter-allegations, however, an army spokesman released figures to reporters which he said showed that sales in nine of the 10 seized retail stores increased in the week of Jan. 2 through Jan. 8, first full week of army control, over the comparable week a year ago. In these affidavits the army replied to accusations by Ward's, contained in 33 additional company affidavits filed Wednesday, that Ward's business was being hampered and that inefficiency and confusion had been caused by the army.

Yugoslavian King Opposes Tito-Subasic Regency Proposal

LONDON (AP)—Young King Peter of Yugoslavia handed allied diplomats a new Balkan political snarl last night when he suddenly reversed his course and came out in formal opposition to a regency plan drawn up by Marshal Tito and his own prime minister, Ivan Subasic. The exiled monarch, who had promised a statement on the regency at noon and then withheld it without explanation, declared last night that he approved the "basic proposals" of the Tito-Subasic agreement, whereby the future government of Yugoslavia would be "determined solely by a free decision" of its peoples. He objected, however, to "the suggested form of regency" and to "the provisions by which (Tito's) anti-Fascist council of national liberation would wield unrestricted legislative power until a constituent assembly had completed its work." London diplomatic observers generally have expressed the view that rejection of a regency by Peter might result in his loss of the throne.

Committee Presents Report of— Gallup Methods

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. George Gallup looked over a sometimes laudatory, sometimes critical analysis of his election polling system yesterday and remarked: "This is a brickbat and bouquet business." A panel of poll experts, selected by the house campaign expenditures investigating committee, presented a report sprinkled with these hot and cold conclusions about the Gallup methods. Dr. Gallup has pioneered in the field of sampling public opinion and has contributed materially to developments in this field. His organization "sincerely tried to use scientific polling methods." But "better sampling methods are available." The Gallup poll underestimated the proportion of Democratic votes in "about two-thirds of the states (which) indicates either that the Gallup sample was not an accurate cross section of the eligible voters in the United States or that proper interviewing procedures were not used."

Nazis Begin 23-Mile Belgium Withdrawal

Paris, 15 Other Towns Fall to Yanks As Enemy Retreats

PARIS (AP)—The United States Third army threatened to cave in the Luxembourg front with a surprise stroke yesterday that sent thousands of Germans fleeing into the woods and in Belgium the enemy began a 23-mile withdrawal that turned loose British patrols on a 10-mile eastward sweep. The northwestern enemy anchor of Laroche fell along with 15 other towns as German forces were reported evacuating the entire western apex of their Belgian and Luxembourg conquests.

Patton Advances
Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's troops cut in half powerful box positions southeast of Bastogne from which three enemy divisions had been hammering at his lines from the east. The neck out of the box now was no more than two miles wide. Resistance in the remainder of this area was reported collapsing rapidly as the Germans—caught off guard by the unexpected blow—floundered off into the snow drifts and woods toward the uncertain haven of Wiltz, ten miles east of Bastogne, where other Third army forces lie in wait.

Admits Quitting
The German high command admitted it was quitting all the Belgian bulge west of the Ourthe river and front dispatches said the new line was expected to run from Vielsalm on the north for 16 miles southwest through Houffalize to near Bastogne. The closing jaws of the allied vise were expected to catch few prisoners, for Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt apparently had cleared out the bulk and the best of his troops with the help of fog, deep snowdrifts discouraging swift pursuit, and dense mine fields.

Enlisted Men Given 40-45 Year Sentences

PARIS (AP)—Sentences of imprisonment at hard labor ranging from 40 to 45 years were imposed yesterday on five United States enlisted men by a general court martial trying a series of cases involving the looting of supply trains and the diversion of cigarettes and other army goods into black market channels. Signed confessions showed that the five men participated in looting them thousands of dollars. All five were of a railway operating battalion.

Allied Carriers Attack Japanese Fleet Off the Indo China Coast

Yanks Take Ninth Town

Luzon Invaders Push 7 to 9 Miles Inland After 48-Hour Advance

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Friday (AP)—Americans invaders of Luzon, punching seven to nine miles inland from their 25-mile-wide Lingayen gulf beachheads, have seized five more towns and terminals of four main highways and a railroad leading to Manila. They found the first appreciable opposition at their deepest spearhead. Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth army units have been advancing for two days as far and as fast as reasonable caution and the movement of supplies has permitted.

Take Nine Towns

The Yanks have now taken nine towns and more than a score of villages. The 48-hour advance has carried the Americans well south of the maze of swamp country at the mouth of the meandering Agno river and across the river line along which the Japanese might have been able to make a delaying stand.

Only on the extreme left flank, along the Pozorrubio road, have the Americans run into anything more than isolated and quickly eliminated sniper resistance.

Combat Contact
Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique yesterday made the first mention of "combat contact" near Pozorrubio, at the end of the deepest spearhead east of the San Fabian landing beach. He gave no indication of the severity of the fighting there.

The original 15-mile beachheads were widened to at least 25 miles with the capture of the mouth of the Agno, which empties into the Lingayen gulf west of captured Lingayen town.

Nine miles represented the deepest point of penetration in the time covered in the communique. Since the communique always lags 24 hours behind operations it was probable patrols had driven deeper since then.

Encounter Enemy

The first stiffened resistance was at the left flank east of the San Fabian beachhead. There the Sixth army troops had seized the road junction town of Manaoag and were advancing northward toward Pozorrubio when they encountered the enemy force.

MacArthur's communique said the Japanese, still unable to recover from the apparent surprise landings in the Lingayen gulf after an invasion from the south had been expected, were unable to move their forces from the south in sufficient strength to impede the Yanks' progress notably.

Air Activity

Enemy air activity was reported still negligible. A MacArthur spokesman said gains reported in the communique covered operations up to midnight Wednesday, the second day of fighting.

In expanding their beachhead westward the Americans seized Labrador, on the opposite side of the Agno river. A seven-mile penetration was made beyond Umunday, a focal point on the main north-south highway in the west.

Roosevelt Decorates Richard Evelyn Byrd

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard Evelyn Byrd, the Polar explorer, won new laurels as a pioneer in aviation yesterday. This time in the Pacific.

President Roosevelt lifted the veil of secrecy the shy retired rear admiral donned himself by awarding him the Legion of Merit and pinning it on his uniform at the White House.

The decoration is for exploring the southeastern Pacific to chart a new air route to Australia. The president said Byrd had done a great job for the future of United States and united nations air travel across the Pacific.

One object, Roosevelt said, was to find new airfields to cut down the travel time between the Panama canal area and the southwest Pacific.

Gov. Robert D. Blue—

Recommends 'No New Taxes'

DES MOINES (AP)—It was the consensus of some legislators yesterday that Gov. Robert D. Blue is in favor of continuing the 50 percent forgiveness of the state income tax.

While the governor has not expressed his view flatly, he recommended in his inaugural address yesterday that no new taxes nor any additional taxes be enacted during the emergency.

One of the highest officials of the house, who declined use of his name, said, "While the governor did not say directly that he favors continuance of the 50 percent forgiveness, it seems to be the impression of the house that he meant the income tax should be continued as it was in 1942 and 1943." The 1943 legislature provided that only half of the full rate of income tax need be paid for the years of 1942 and 1943. Unless the legislature acts to continue the 50 percent forgiveness, the tax will revert to the full rate on 1944 income.

Immediately following the joint session of the two houses to witness the swearing in of Governor Blue and Lieut. Gov. K. A. Evans and to hear the governor's 53-minute message to the legislature, Evans assumed his position as presiding officer of the senate.

The two houses now are adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, to permit completion of organization. Senator John P. Berg (R., Cedar Falls) said he thought the 50 percent deduction would be continued.

"There will be no new taxation unless something unforeseen comes up," he declared. "As far as expenditures are concerned, I think we can stay in line with what taxes already are available."

A newcomer to the senate, Duane L. Dewel (R., Algona), said he felt the size of the income tax depended upon what the legislature does with the school code bill and other proposals involving large askings.

"But if we have normal expenditures, there's no reason for an increase," he added. Representative Albert Steinberg (R., Ames) said he felt the governor "intended to keep the income tax at 50 percent, which statement seemed to meet the approval of those who heard it."

Near Saigan, Camranh Bay

Luzon-Bound Nip Reinforcement Convoy Intercepted

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Carrier planes are "attacking the enemy off the coast of French Indo China," Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced last night and a Japanese fleet was the target. Nimitz cryptically stated the assault constituting the United States fleet's deepest penetration of Japan's inner defenses, fell "between Saigan and Camranh bay."

Reinforcement Convoy

He did not specify what was attacked but it is very probable a Japanese reinforcement convoy, escorted by warships, was intercepted while setting out for Yank-invaded Luzon in the Philippines. Pointedly the brief communique said the fleets fell "off the coast."

Camranh bay on the coast east of Saigon is one of the finest natural harbors in Asia. It has a large protected anchorage for capital warships.

The Pacific fleet carrier task force, which a little over a week ago sent planes reconnoitering along 500 miles of the China coast during attacks on Formosa, had to move across the south China sea to unleash the aerial blow.

Prevent Reinforcements

Admiral William F. Halsey's Third fleet is charged with the responsibility of preventing Japanese reinforcements from getting to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's expanding beachheads on Lingayen gulf at Luzon.

To carry out the action just disclosed it had to cross Japan's great sea communication lanes to Nippon's stolen empire.

Camranh bay is the closest and best protected Japanese fleet base from which the enemy could attempt reinforcement of Luzon. It is 1,000 miles from the Saigon area to Manila.

Camranh bay's superb natural harbors undoubtedly have been developed into one of Japan's key naval bases.

Large anchorage areas also are available in Vinhba bay and the Grand passage southeast of the entrance of Camranh bay.

Russians Control Nearly Four-Fifths Of Burning Capital

LONDON, Friday (AP)—Russian Stalingrad veterans overran the entire Angyalod district in northeastern Budapest yesterday, driving to within 20 blocks of the Hungarian parliament building in the center of the city and winning control of approximately four-fifths of the burning capital, Moscow announced last night.

Simultaneously, in fierce fighting on the snow-covered hills west and northwest of Budapest, other Soviet units for the fourth straight day repulsed large German infantry and tank forces attempting to break through to the rescue of the weakened and desperate axis garrison, the Soviet communique said.

A midnight supplement, telling of the struggle west of the capital, said the Russians killed 900 Germans in two repulses during the day and knocked out 19 tanks and seven armored troop carriers.

In 10 days' fighting to relieve the capital the Germans have sacrificed almost 16,000 men killed, and approximately 650 tanks on the basis of Moscow's accounts.

Forty miles northwest of Budapest Soviet troops were reported fighting in the outskirts of Komarno, strategic Slovak communications base on the north bank of the Danube, but the communique did not mention the battle for that six-way rail town only 83 miles from Vienna.

Steadily herding the battered Germans back into the center of gutted Budapest, the Russians captured a total of 150 square blocks yesterday in Pest, the half of the capital lying on the eastern side of the Danube.

English Troops Drive Toward Mandalay

City of Shwebo Reported Completely In Allied Hands

CALCUTTA (AP)—British troops have captured and pushed through the large Japanese base of Shwebo in central Burma and are driving on down the railway toward Mandalay, fabled city on the Irrawaddy river now less than 46 miles away, an allied communique announced yesterday.

Shwebo, last important enemy resistance center of Mandalay, was entered four days ago by allied troops, who later overran its airfield. Yesterday's announcement said the city "is completely in our hands and our troops have advanced south of the town."

The current series of allied successes, which are fast driving the Japanese out of Burma, are the results of smart military chess that has checkmated the enemy at every turn.

It took months of bitter combat before the Japanese gave up the struggle in the air, and allied losses were not inconsiderable in the periods when enemy air fields were the prime targets. But when Japanese air installations finally were knocked out, the strategic force was free to concentrate on supply lines.

Shot to Death

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—State Senator Warren G. Hooper, Albion, Mich., Republican, was found shot to death last night in his automobile four miles north of Springport, Mich., and special prosecutor Kim Sigler ordered the Carr grand jury investigators to investigate his death at once.

British, ELAS Continue Peace Talks

ATHENS (AP)—British authorities and leftwing ELAS leaders early yesterday reached a "large measure of agreement" for a cease-fire order in an opening nine-hour session and continued their peace discussions yesterday afternoon.

As the four ELAS delegates and members of the staff of Lieut. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander, sat around a bare deal table in a chilly room in the British headquarters building, sporadic fighting still was going on north of Athens.

A delegation claiming to represent 15 Greek trades unions called upon British Ambassador Reginald Leeper Wednesday and thanked British authorities for "saving Greece from communism." The British embassy announced it also had received a memorandum from Socialist party leaders denouncing the ELAS "rebellion."

Temperature Rises From 0 to 36

A gentle south wind caused the temperature to scot from zero yesterday morning to 36 at 9 o'clock last night with indications that it would continue to rise throughout the night. Today it is expected to be moderate but not above freezing. A cold front is moving in from the west.

Iowa Citizens did not have an exclusive monopoly on the warm weather. Temperature readings in the 60's were made in Nebraska and Kansas yesterday. No snow is in sight for this area.

Two Wars in Contrast—

By WILLIAM F. BONI

PARIS, JAN. 10.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Changes in wartime sometimes are made too swiftly and completely to be accepted with total equanimity.

One afternoon you may be crouching in a shallow slit trench at a Belgian crossroads watching German shells burst in the village just beyond American troops working their way up a hill.

The next afternoon you and your driver, Gordon Confrey, Milford, N. H., are bucking four-foot snowdrifts in an open jeep with a balky distributor and chains which break four times in the 10-hour ride from First army headquarters to Paris.

Only 24 hours later you are sitting in the American Red Cross "rainbow corner" listening to an AEF band beat out familiar rhythms for a crowd of soldiers and their girls.

Thinking of sharp contrasts, your minds drifts to another—that between the war against the Japanese and this war against the Germans. In broad aspects it's the same war against aggression: in individual parts they are two separate and distinct wars.

The difference lies largely in artillery.

On the western front—any time you are merely as far forward as division headquarters—you are likely to come under shellfire.

In New Guinea and Burma and now in the Philippines the main Japanese threat is still from snipers.

"There's a hell of a lot more stuff lying through the air around here," explains Australian correspondent Geoffrey Hutton, who came here from the Pacific.

On the other hand, the western front from day to day is usually a fairly stable proposition. Accurate maps permit you to reach division or regimental command posts without straying into trouble.

They have situation maps in the Pacific, too, but generally they are dotted with question marks or terse notations that Japanese patrols and snipers have been active here or there along the jeep lanes.

From the correspondent's viewpoint, the two wars are entirely different in personal comfort.

This is a winter war and for the fighting men it is bitterly brutal business. But, while the correspondents may get half-frozen and dirty, in his quest for news, generally at night he returns to a hot meal and sometimes a hot bath—and sometimes even a bed with a real mattress and sheet.

Correspondents in the Pacific travel lighter than those over here. The jungle hammock, perhaps one blanket, is ample on the island fronts.

Against the numbing cold of winter warfare here, there is the heat and mud of the tropics... the tropical rains and the great variety of strange diseases. Against the machine-like brutality of the Nazi SS troops who shoot down American prisoners and Belgian civilians with lack of emotion, you have the fanaticism of the Japanese, who never surrender in groups as the Germans have done repeatedly.

With the AEF—A Report on Combat

By KENNETH L. DIXON

IN GERMANY, Jan. 7 (Delayed) (AP)—This is an account of combat, straight from the combat soldier. It's the sort of thing you hear scores of times as boys come out of this or that bloody fight.

Lieut. Jack Melton of Dallas, Tex., was in the Hurtgen forest fight. His face was bearded and haggard. This is what that tall, gangling, company I Texan had to say after the battle was won—when he was asked what it was like:

"It was tougher than the Normandy hedgerow fighting. The whole damned place was alive with mines. Kraut artillery and mortar fire were the heaviest I've ever ducked. To top it off, the weather was just what Adolf ordered—two weeks of sloppy rain and snow.

"We were full of vinegar that first morning, back to the wars after a month's rest of Luxembourg defense. We'd relieved a badly tired outfit the night before and were all set to jump at dawn.

"We did jump—more crackin' and poppin' than you'd see at a western movie. Then after a few hundred yards there were explosions all around. All of us knew then that some of our boys had hit mines. Snipers let go from the edge of the woods. Then it came—kitchen sink and all. Jerry threw in 120 mortars and 150 artillery pieces on our sector alone. Everyone reserved himself a crater after the first few minutes of shelling.

"It was the damndest feeling of helplessness. We couldn't move ahead a few feet without mines popping or Jerry throwing more heavy stuff. We had to stay there for days. Even when hot food came up, only two or three men would risk the artillery to grab.

"The engineers made several attempts to get through the minefields, but they were unsuccessful. Finally a patrol pulled the company through. It was Stan and Hatcher and Minik and Trusty and Stevens who did it.

(He means Lieuts. Stanley Schwarz of Baltimore, Md., and Hudson Hatcher of Harlan, Ky.; Staff Sgt. John Minik of Michigan; and Pvt. Harold Trusty of Casella, Miss., and Pvt. Jessie Stevens of Cumilton, Ala.)

"It was one hell of a series of firefights after that. Jerry was always hidden in pillboxes or behind log bunkers. Artillery and small arms couldn't push 'em out. So our doughboys guided tanks to the bunker flanks and flushed out Krauts by the hundreds.

A Vest That Holds Months of Life in Its Pockets

WASHINGTON—A vest which weighs a little more than 10 pounds and with pockets that hold all the things a man may need to survive for months in the South Pacific, is one of 1944's main contributions to air sea rescue.

Air sea rescue is a new war business that promises to carry on in peace for every sort of shipwreck and plane crash.

Since Eddie Rickenbacker's experience brought it to public attention, this new business has expanded to bring back safely thousands of fliers downed in the oceans; it now heads up in the new air sea rescue agency of the army and the navy. The coast guard is acting in a coordinating capacity.

The vest, smaller in bulk than a life preserver, illustrates a new art of using incredibly few things to live. The army uses the vest. The navy uses a pack on which the flier sits.

In the vest pockets are 28 items, designed for sea and jungle survival. These range from a waterproof booklet of information and instructions, to a hat that looks like a sou'wester. This hat is soft, and can be worn either side out. One side is bright yellow, to reflect some heat and to attract attention. The other is dark green, good camouflage.

There is a compass that also is a magnifying glass capable of starting a fire. A sheet of asbestos unfolds into a good-sized cooking kettle. There is a flashlight without batteries; squeezing the handle spins a generation that gives a bright electric light in a couple of seconds.

Assorted safety pins, plus chute silk and clothing become household mending, tentage or other shelter.

There are gloves, flares, a gaff for fish, matches, ammunition, gun, gun cover, gun oil and water bag. In all, the 28 items break down into several dozen uses.

The navy's seat kit is designed for life on the water. With it a man can live 14 days, with no rain and no fish, and remain healthy. He can go far longer by getting busy with his gear.

He makes good paddles by using two board fins that fasten to his hands with straps. He has a nylon line no bigger than string, but strong as a clothesline.

Prof. John Ely Briggs Discusses— Governor's Salary

Should an Iowa governor spend 2 or 4 years in office? Prof. John Ely Briggs favors the four-year tenure, explaining "The governor, as a public servant, needs time to work out his policies." Professor Briggs established his point by citing Iowa's general policy of reelecting governors. "The best policy would be to choose other elected executive state officials at the same time, to serve for the equal length of time, since the governor works hand in hand with them."

Nationally speaking, the country is about divided. Twenty-four states use the two-year plan; 23 prefer a four-year tenure. According to Professor Briggs, the trend has been toward the longer term of office. "For example, in Virginia, at the time of the Revolution, a man could hold office for one year. Of course the officeholder was eligible for reelection, but no fourth terms. The colonists were opposed to 'appointed governors,'" explained Professor Briggs, "and when they won their independence, they were skeptical and wanted an annual vote. They were firm believers in that old saying, 'Where annual election ends, tyranny begins.'"

Prof. John Ely Briggs, of the University of Iowa, is shown in a photograph with a woman, possibly a family member, in a domestic setting. The caption reads: "GERMAN CAPTION with this picture, received from Stockholm, says that Reichsmarshal Herman Goering is wishing Adolf Hitler a 'happy new year' here. Also, the caption stated, this picture was taken by Hitler's personal photographer."

Opinion On and Off the Campus— Should the Governor's Salary Be Raised From $7,500 to $10,000?

Walter C. Chudwick, rector of Iowa City: "I think that his salary should be raised to $10,000 if he is not given a residence by the state. But if he is given a residence the salary should remain about the same. I wouldn't be in favor of giving both the $10,000 and the residence."

Ed Berwick, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce: "I think that any salary should be raised."

Perry Haist, D3 of Burlington: "Absolutely. I think that his salary should be at least on a par with that of the president of the university because he holds the highest office in the state."

Barbara Hallman, A3 of Aurora, Ill.: "I do not think he should have the raise."

G. F. Gerischer of Iowa City: "I think that it should be. In comparison with educators and some business executives throughout the state, the governor's salary is low."

Mildred Campbell, 109 S. Johnson street: "I think a man who holds a job with such responsibility should get more pay. His job isn't an easy one. Still, taxes are quite high at present."

Nona Jean Wanberg, A3 of Schaller: "Right now there should be no salary increase. The American people have enough taxes to pay without having to pay for added expenditures which aren't of a vital nature."

Mary Frances Murphy, discharged WAVE enrolled in the university: "Because of increased living costs the governor's salary should be raised. He deserves more than $7,500 in respect to his position and capabilities."

Will the senate and the people go for it? They might. The available alternatives may not be pleasant. The arrangement might be presented upon a "take it or get something worse" basis. Quite a powerful nation could be maintained within the sights of our new vision, if it is effectively organized.
But I think our acceptance all depends upon how fully and convincingly our hopeful ideal of democracy is held out to the rest of the world, particularly in Europe, by this charter.
You can feed Europe, as some of our people wish to do, to improve our prestige and power there. True enough much food will have to be sent as a matter of relief, but the use of food for political effect generally has only a temporary result.

'Russia Probably Glad to Join Club-Like Dumbarton World Order in Spring'—Mallon

WASHINGTON—Trying to dispel some international fog yesterday, I reported that inasmuch as Russia delayed the Dumbarton Oaks agreement, and is now sealing off central Europe with her armies, she probably would be glad to join the club-like Dumbarton world order in the coming promised negotiations which is to complete the club charter by April (we hope).

The club naturally would guarantee her gains forever with arms and perpetuate a post-war Europe which directly or indirectly is now dividing spheres of influence between the Russians and the British, with the Russians in possession of the iron's share.

These considerations naturally have raised the questions in the public mind as to whether this nation, the senate or even the administration, will be so strong for the coming charter to preserve forever what is something short of our announced ideals. What do we get out of it?

Well, we get the mandated islands of Japan in the Pacific. No question of that. We also get our own hemisphere influence, or recognition of it, as we already had in fact. The coming Mexico City meeting is supposed to bring Argentina around and establish a front of diplomatic solidarity on our longitudes. Thus the coming world charter will direct our vision westward and south.

We are defeating Japan without the assistance of the Russians. The help we are getting from the British will raise some question of post-war British influence in the Orient (Hongkong, etc.) which must be settled, and there is a Communist army in China.

Yet the results of the war and the proposed charter give us the top position westward and southward, which we clearly do not have in Europe, Africa and most of Asia (India).

Our future, under the current conceptions of things here, would seem therefore to lie in those directions, but not too far, perhaps not too deep into Asia.

Our fleets will command the Pacific, indeed all the waters of the world, but political power these days seem to march with armies, and I do not know how far the charter will take our armies into Asia.

Very definitely, I think the administration will want this arrangement. Mr. Roosevelt is a little on the Russian side anyway. Announcements have suggested this is about all we can expect to get, doubt be accepted with consider-

Engineering College Tests Turnbuckles Made in Cedar Rapids

Turnbuckles manufactured by the Midland Industries company of Cedar Rapids are being tested in the materials testing laboratory of the college of engineering. Iri Tubbs, former head coach of the University of Iowa football team, is a member of the firm and has been representing the company in the testing.

Used to hold cables which in turn hold cargoes in place on shipboard, the turnbuckles must come up to specifications made by the army transportation corps. Midland is striving to make a product which will withstand a pull of 40,000 pounds, two and a half times as much as before. When they feel they have succeeded, several thousand of the turnbuckles will be made. With a government engineer looking on, 50 from each thousand will be chosen at random and tested in the laboratory here. If one of the 50 fails to resist the 40,000 pound requirement, the government will not accept the order.

Prof. Chesley Posey of the mechanics and hydraulic department of the college of engineering is in charge of the laboratory and has been making the tests. A Universal testing machine, one that registers the force necessary to break the article tested by pushing, bending or pulling, is used. It is the only machine of its kind in this area and is capable of exerting a force of 200,000 pounds.

A family supper which preceded the meeting was served by the Altar guild committee of the women's auxiliary. Mrs. Horace M. Korn was the supper chairman.

Student Requests Expulsion From SUI

The University of Iowa campus recently was the scene of a new version of the "man bites dog" tale when a student appeared before the college authorities and asked to be "kicked out of school."

It seems the student objected to parental insistence on continuation of his college education and thought perhaps eviction from the college would prove more persuasive than his protest against staying in school. At the latest report, the unnamed student is still enrolled in the university.

Recent Issue Pictures Hospital Tower

The French Forum magazine, edited by Dr. Henri Barzun, visiting lecturer in the Romance languages department, has centered its latest issue on cultural activities in Iowa, using a reproduction of the University hospital tower by Georges Plasse as the cover decoration.

Plasse is a Parisian artist well known to thousands of Americans for his portrait painting in oil and pastel. A personal friend of Prof. Stephen Bush, head of the University Romance languages department, Plasse made the picture of the Iowa Medical tower for him. Professor Bush pays tribute to the artist in an article in the Forum, entitled "A French Artist in Iowa."

A review of the work of the Coe college "Abbey group," by Harry Osborne of the Romance languages department explains the seminar's study of idealistic groups among men of letters, including the writers, poets and artists who formed the Paris Abbey group.

The Forum also features poetry, both in English and in French, an article on Theodore Roosevelt's friendship for France by Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department, a survey of the dramatic arts in Paris by Georges Benoit and several items concerning art and culture by the editor, Dr. Barzun.

SUI Makes Plans For 98th Anniversary To Be in February

Observance of the University of Iowa's 98th birthday will be next month, probably taking the form of a radio program originating over WSUI, according to Prof. Bruce E. Mahan, secretary of the alumni association.

The university was founded by a legislative act Feb. 25, 1847, just a few months after Iowa achieved statehood. First classes were held in March, 1855.

In pre-war period, it was customary for alumni clubs in many sections of the nation to hold rallies as close as possible to Feb. 25. However, transportation and food restrictions have made impracticable the promotion of such gatherings during wartime. It is expected that the university's centennial will be observed extensively in 1947.

Ava Louise Smith, David Carmichael Wed In Double Ring Ceremony in Texas

In a double ring ceremony, Ava Louise Smith of Iowa City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Smith of Sundown, Tex., became the bride of David Burton Carmichael, U. S. N. R., of Iowa City, son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Carmichael Sr. of Santa Ana, Calif., at 8 p. m., Dec. 26 in the First Baptist church at Sundown. The Rev. J. Wilson read the vows of the ceremony before 75 guests.

Preceding the ceremony, Betty Jane Taylor sang "I Love You Truly," and nuptial organ selections were presented by Zora Mae Sweat and Betty Ragland.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Mary Frances Smith and serving as bridesmaids were two other sisters, Marjorie Ann and Nina Faye Smith, all of Sundown. Serving his brother as best man was Douglas Carmichael of Santa Ana and ushers were Olson Sweat of Colorado, Tex., T. P. Drew, W. L. Mooney and G. L. Ragland, all of Sundown.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in an old-fashioned floor-length gown of white velvet, fashioned with a V-neckline. Her lace veil fell from a bonnet and extended the length of her senior train. Her only jewelry was a pendant of pearls centered with a diamond, a gift of the bridegroom. White gladioli formed her bridal bouquet.

The maid of honor chose a floor-length gown of blue velvet styled in keeping with the period setting. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids wore similarly fashioned gowns of velvet, one pale pink and the other blue, designed with full skirts and fitted bodices. Each wore a halo bonnet.

'Win by Any Score,' Harrison's Theory; Hawks Slight Favorite

Coach "Pops" Harrison has summed up his apparently sound basketball theory in just five words—"beat them by any score." The Hawks will have their hands full doing just that tomorrow night with the Purdue Boilermakers. The fans will have to take Harrison at his word when he said, "one point or 50 as the case may be"—and the case may well be one point.

Don't Worry About Records
"In this league, we coaches are glad to get by any game and we don't worry about maintaining previous point averages or setting records. Of course, it's easier on our nerves when the shots drop in," Harrison commented.

This statement, more or less, belies the Hawks efforts in their opener against Western Illinois State Teachers to smash the field house record of 103 points set against Chicago last year.

Harrison threw in everything but the towel in this encounter in an effort to push the Hawks off the 101 mark where they became stalled with two minutes left in the battle. The Tutors' effective stalling tactics played havoc with the Old Golders and their scoring punch. For two minutes they blazed away at the bucket and failed to connect, and the record remained intact, regardless of their efforts to surpass it. But then—the Hawks and Harrison never worry about breaking records.

Typical Purdue Team
There's not much doubt that there will be NO records broken Saturday night, except perhaps a record of the number of fouls in one game. The 1945 Boilermaker quintet is a typical Purdue outfit such as those which have averaged 7 wins in 10 conference games for more than a quarter of a century, and will, without much doubt, give the undefeated Hawks one of the toughest battles they will encounter on their title bound victory train.

Harrison had special praise for Paul Hoffman, hard-dribbling center, who is tough on any defense, and is also a thorn in the side of any team with his consistent impossible buckets. Hoffman was a member of the All-Star college squad last month and on some all-conference teams of 1944 as a guard. Also coming in for a share of attention, as far as the Hawks are concerned, is Billy Gosewehr, a six foot, two inch freshman who leads the scorers.

In listing the quality of the Purdue players, Harrison said, "they have fine speed and are good shots, although inclined to be a little erratic in shooting as evidenced by their record of four wins and four losses. All the players are smart and aggressive, they handle the ball cleverly, and take lots of shots."

Questionable Purdue Attack

If the Boilermakers floor an attack styled along these lines, the Hawks should literally go to town, as their fast break is geared to match shot for shot with the opposing team. The Gopher contest found them unable to do this, as the slow deliberate game that Minnesota played did not give them much chance to work their fast break and Ives and Co. were forced to poke away from way out. Consequently the Gophers outscored the Hawks in the field goal department.

Only Iowa's ability with gift shots saved them from defeat in that sad memory as they hit for 17. "Pops" practices, that have been stressing the importance of free throws, apparently paid off.

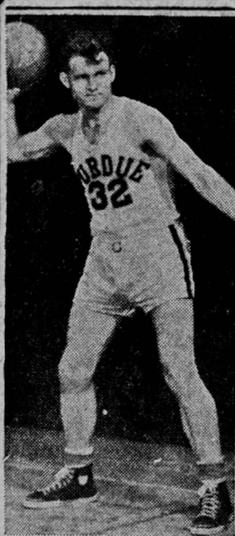

Final Workouts
Final workouts for the Black and Gold have been emphasizing defense, together with polishing of passing and other tactics which should produce a maximum number of shots. And the Old Goldsters are still toying the line after each practice to make 24 gift shots before they can leave, a policy that should help them win a few more Big Ten contests that they might lose by a missed free throw.

Morningside Whips Wayne Tutors, 27-25

SIOUX CITY (AP)—The Morningside college Maroons gained revenge for an early season loss to the Wayne Teachers college quintet by trouncing the Tutors, 27 to 25, in an overtime period on the Morningside Maples here last night.

Guard Ted Forward, who sparked the Morningside crew all evening, scored the long swisher in the last minute of the overtime period after the game was tied 25 to 25 at the end of the regulation time.

Seahawk Wrestlers, Boxers, Add Two New Meet Dates

Two new dates for both boxing and wrestling were announced Thursday for the Iowa Pre-Flight varsity squads by Athletic Director Laurence "Moon" Mullins.

Boxing dates are with Bunker Hill NAS with the first meet to be held here Feb. 16 and the return engagement at the Indiana station March 2.

The wrestling squad will meet Ottumwa NAS Jan. 16 and the Skyrms will come to Iowa City for a match on Jan. 23.

Four Open Dates
The boxing card has not yet been completed since there are four open dates remaining. The Seahawk mittmen will compete with Wisconsin Feb. 23 at Madison and again in Iowa City March 10.

The navy wrestlers have two wins to their credit and will try for another when they meet the Badger grapplers here Saturday morning. The Seahawks defeated Illinois and Illinois Tech in previous engagements.

Cubs to Play Reds 8 Times in Training

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds will be quite chummy during baseball's spring training season. The Cubs yesterday announced the addition of April 3 and 4 games with the Reds which completed a 15-game training schedule that pits Chicago against Cincinnati eight times.

The Bruins open practice at French Lick, Ind., March 8 and see their first action against the St. Louis Browns in a three-game series at Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 30-April 1. Then they collide with the Reds in eight straight games, April 3-4 at Bloomington, Ind.; April 6 at Camp Knox, Ky.; April 7-8 at Louisville, Ky., and April 9-11 at French Lick.

A four-game city series with the White Sox April 12-15 winds up training for the Cubs, who open league play against the St. Louis Cardinals at Wrigley field, April 17.

Shamrocks Meet West Branch Tonight

Irish Affer Revenge Victory for Bears' Early Season Defeat

Riding on the crest of a three-game winning streak, the Shamrocks of St. Patrick's will meet the once beaten West Branch cagers tonight at 8 o'clock in a return engagement which promises to be one of the better games on the local court this season.

The Irish, fresh from their second triumph over Williamsburg and their fifth victory this year, are still smarting from the 24-17 defeat handed them by the Bears in the teams' earlier encounter.

Pointing for This One
"My boys have been pointed for this game all along," commented Coach Cliff Kritt. "They want the victory badly, and they'll really go after it."

Kritt put his boys through a stiff workout Wednesday and a tapering-off drill last night in preparation for the forthcoming battle with the enemy, who are expected to employ their usual fast break style of attack.

Man to Man Defense
The West Branch five uses a shifting man for man defense which has typified their play for the past four or five years.

"Red" Gatens, six foot, three, ace rebound snagger, and Gene Herdliska, high-scoring center, will spark the Shamrocks' attack, while the leading offensive punch of Coach L. C. Hipple's boys will be supplied by Bob Berger, 5 foot, 11 inch forward who specializes in one-handed push shots from the side of the floor.

The teams appear to be fairly evenly matched, but the Shamrocks will have to watch Warren Rummels, guard, and pivot man Wayne Reinbrecht, the other important eggs in the Bears' powerful machine.

Battle of Centers
The contest may turn into a battle of centers, for both Herdliska and Reinbrecht have shown great offensive and defensive ability.

Coach Kritt plans to use his regular starters, Merle Hove and Charlie Berger in the forecourt, Herdliska at center and Gatens and "Doc" Connell as guards, while Coach Hipple will start Wayne Rummels and Berger as forwards, Reinbrecht at center and Kenny Lathrop in the backcourt.

Blue Hawks Meet Panthers Here Tonight

University high's Blue Hawks, boosted by a four-game winning streak, will be favored to extend it tonight when they meet the Monticello Panthers on the U-high floor at 8 o'clock.

The second teams representing the two schools will open the evening's activities at 7 o'clock.

Offensive Plays
Coach Ross Wedemeyer has been drilling his charges on offensive plays during the week, with the object of breaking through the strong Monticello defense which has been built around two stellar guards, Captain Hanken and Bonwell.

The Blue Hawks will be relying on all-around team play, sparked by Steve Nusser and Jack Kennedy, to pour in enough points to give them their fifth straight win since a defeat early in the season by Roosevelt high of Cedar Rapids.

Probable Starting Lineups
Probable starting lineups for the Rivermen will have Red Morris and Steve Nusser at forwards, Jack Kennedy at center, and John Miller and Jim Williams at the guard posts.

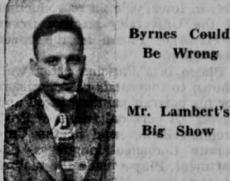

It is expected that Monticello will open with Fitzsimmons and Benson at forwards, Rickels at center, and Hanken and Bonwell at guards.

Ramblers Top Muscatine

Led by the high scoring combination of Tom Stahl and John O'Brien who hit for 16 points apiece, St. Mary's Ramblers opened their three-game out-of-town card with a smashing 46 to 23 victory over St. Marys of Muscatine last night.

Although the Ramblers showed great offensive power, their defense was the crowning feature of the game as they held the Muscatine five without a field goal the first half. The Ramblers led at the intermission, 24 to 7, and had in-

Maybe So

Byrnes Could Be Wrong

Mr. Lambert's Big Show

By BOB KRAUSE

MR. ASSISTANT President Jimmy Byrnes appears to us to have committed a slight faux pas or, in Basic English, to have gently placed his foot in his mouth. As everyone is well aware there has been a good deal of feeling in connection with the drafting of healthy appearing 4-F's since the recent reverses suffered by our armies in Europe, particularly in the cases of athletes. Critics would have you believe that these sport stars are suffering from nothing more severe than hang-nail attacks.

Naturally, Mr. Byrnes, as chief magul in the office of war mobilization, has been in the thick of the verbal war. It seems that he could not understand how a young husky could take the pounding of a football game, and yet be unable to hike some 30 miles a day with a heavy pack on his back. There was other disparaging comment along this line, but most of it was in connection with those athletes who have been rejected because of an item known as a punctured ear drum.

The mobilization director, in the course of matters, came through with a statement which closely parallels the following: If a football player with a punctured ear drum can hear the quarterback calling the signals then why can't he hear the sergeant shouting orders? Clever sarcasm, but really, Mr. Byrnes!

In the first place Jimmy either misses the point or he is trying to ridicule a none too humorous situation. It is certainly true that there are numerous cases of punctured ear drums and, it seems to us, that these unfortunates are turned down with good reason. Can you imagine, for example, what would happen if a shell exploded anywhere near a man who was so afflicted? He could easily be deafened by the noise, and the drum shattered, disregarding the fact that he might be blown back to where he came from. How would Mr. Byrnes look then? Horrified, we hope.

Personally, we object to politicians who try to play doctor on the side. We don't know how much Mr. Byrnes knows about medicine, but we are willing to bet that the draft board doctors are better versed in the subject. Why not let the medicine doctor who is fit and who isn't, and let Mr. Byrnes worry about the absenteeism from war work.

Those in power have already ended horse racing—which will probably make the horses happy—but, in so doing, they have cut out a major sport. If baseball were to go the same way we would look on it as a major tragedy. Probably the best reason for hanging on to the national game is that the GI's want to keep it right here. Just imagine a whole summer without worrying how the Yankees made out today. Awful! And that's no gag!

THOSE OF you who like a little vaudeville mixed in with your basketball will do well to venture up to the fieldhouse Saturday night to watch Mr. "Piggy" Lambert, Purdue hoop mentor, go through his sideline antics. We understand that Mr. Lambert is one of those coaches who believe that basketball should be played right up to the hilt—by all six men. That's right, six. Purdue's five players and the coach should sweat out the night, according to Lambert.

Whether or not "Piggy" is serious about the business at hand, or whether he beats his breast and throws his towel on the court for the sake of the public, is open to conjecture. We suspect it is a little bit of both. After all, a bit of color never hurt any team. Those who saw Coach Clem Crowe, of Notre Dame, in action Wednesday night know what we mean. Mr. Crowe waved his fists at the officials and threatened to take off his coat in preparation for battle—and the crowd loved it.

At any rate, those who enjoy watching grown men pull their hair out in large bunches will get their fill when the Boilermakers steam in tomorrow night.

Little Hawks' Victory Hopes Hit by Mumps

City high's chances for a victory over Dubuque tonight took a one dive yesterday when the Little Hawk regular guard, Dick Drake, came down with the mumps.

Minus the services of their stellar guard the Hawklets will leave for Dubuque at 2:45 this afternoon to play the Rams in what will be a "must" game for the Red and White.

Chance to Climb Ladder
Now in second place, the City high basketball team can climb to the top rung of the ladder tonight if they can come through with the all important victory over Dubuque, a team which has just been rated as the leading five in the Northeast Iowa district.

However, since Dubuque now stands in the first place spot along with Clinton and Davenport, a victory by Clinton over Wilson tonight will still keep Clinton on the top of the heap.

Giant Pivot Man
Playing the chief role in the Dubuque attack is six-foot-three Jim Kremer, crack pivot man, who now leads the conference in scoring with 106 points. Whether the Little Hawks can successfully keep Kremer bottled up or not will be a big factor in determining the final decision.

Also to be watched is Loomis, Dubuque forward, who has proved his worth on the basketball court this season.

Because of the sudden loss of Drake, who will probably be out for at least two weeks, Coach Wally Schwank has had to do a revision job on his lineup, which is even yet not certain.

Lineup Switch
The only sure positions will find big Don Sehr at his usual center post, while Dick Kallous is certain to start in one of the back court positions. More or less of a toss up are the remaining three spots.

To take the place of Drake, Schwank will either shift Bob Freeman back to a guard position or start Russ Lackender in the spot.

Should Freeman fit in well in the new position as guard, the starting forwards will undoubtedly be Bob Krall and Jim Van Deusen. If, however, Schwank should choose to start Lackender at guard, Freeman and Krall will team together on the fore court.

Only bright spot in the otherwise gloomy outlook for the Hawklets, is the fact that Dubuque has not been a particularly high scoring team this season, while in games to date, the Red and White have averaged 44 points, a considerably higher number than Dubuque. If the Little Hawk basketballers can maintain this average tonight, they will be in pretty good shape.

Pop Up Scoring Attack
In an attempt to pep up their scoring attack the Hawklets have been working on a fast break all week. Showing improvement in practice is Sehr, who has come up with a little more life in the recent practice sessions.

Because of the long trip, Schwank will take only the varsity team, which will make a traveling squad of 11 men. The game is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

"SILVER FOX" RETURNS - By Jack Sords

COACH BERNIE BIERMAN, RETURNING TO THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA ON JANUARY 17, WHERE HE PRODUCED THE NATION'S OUTSTANDING COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL RECORD OVER THE 10-YEAR PERIOD BEFORE HE JOINED THE MARINES IN 1941

Dumont Decides—Baseball Okay

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—We're a little discouraged about our friend Ray Dumont. The big Hoologian is turning sissy on us; actually becoming to think the baseball rules are pretty good as they are.

He isn't even suggesting a minor change this year, such as having the outfielders patrol their gardens in airplanes or giving the batter the choice of going up to hit the ball or just announcing he was conceding himself a two-base hit and taking his place at second, thus eliminating the time the pitcher wastes trying to throw a two-base-hit ball.

Base-Running Scheme
Ordinarily Dumont comes up with some idea every year, and uses his National Semi-Pro baseball congress at Wichita as a guinea pig. Last year he tried sort of an ambidextrous base-running scheme, with the batter allowed to head in any direction he pleased. The result was astonishing, with the players getting mixed up all this like. They should have had a conductor at each base to punch tickets to see that the runners were going in the right direction.

Anyway, Dumont says that after many experiments he's convinced the public doesn't want any new fangled ideas in the rules. The remark was prompted by a publicized scheme to speed up the game by making it seven innings, with four outs for each team each inning.

Speed Up The Game
"We tried out a plan to speed up the game back in 1933," Dumont explains. "This speed-up plan has previously been advocated by a Florida college professor. Batters advanced to first

Incidentally, we are expecting to get Dumont's preview of 1945 semi-pro baseball any day now, and for optimism we guarantee it will break all records. The prospect of major league 4-F's going into war plants would mean better semi-pro teams for those plants, which mean better crowds, which mean better money, etc. The Byrnes statement didn't just have a silver lining for Dumont. It practically turned any clouds inside out for him.

Hawks Favored In Purdue Battle

Iowa, Northwestern Only Undefeated Conference Teams

CHICAGO (AP)—A knock-down, drag-out affair before the opening whistle faded, the Big Ten basketball race this week end finds one of the two still unbeaten contenders definitely on the spot.

Northwestern, a 52-37 victor over Wisconsin in its only previous league start, sees action in two of the five conference battles scheduled Friday and Saturday. The Wildcats tackle Minnesota's surprisingly formidable five at Evanston tonight and meet Ohio State's defending champions at Columbus Saturday night.

Iowa Favored
Their successive home appearance is enough to favor Iowa's heralded Hawkeyes to keep their record unblemished against once-beaten Purdue Saturday night.

In other games, Illinois and Michigan face off at Ann Arbor in a second meeting and Minnesota invades Wisconsin Saturday night.

With only seven conference games played, the dopesters already are scurrying for cover. Highly-regarded Illinois was bumped off in its first start by Michigan 43-38. Ohio State was tumbled by Purdue 37-36 and then the Boilermakers were spilled by Minnesota 49-44. Indiana has lost its only start, but that was a 54-53 shaming by Michigan which in turn had failed to get past Ohio State in its opener.

So unless Iowa, which had trouble disposing of Minnesota 41-34, and Northwestern, which victimized Wisconsin when Badger ace Ray Patterson was benched, produce convincing triumphs this weekend, the league form sheet can be torn to bits.

In the midst of the get-away confusion, Iowa's Dick Ives, 1944 conference scoring champion, has been left at the post. True, the Hawkeye ace has played only one game, but his 11-point total is considerably behind the 21 scored by Max Morris of Northwestern against Wisconsin and 17 by his own team-mate, Clay Wilkinson.

Towering Arnold Risen of Ohio State, Ives' 1944 scoring rival, has tallied 31 points in two games while Bob Geaghan of Michigan tops the standings with 37 in three games.

Rifenburg Drafted

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP)—Dick Rifenburg, 18-year-old freshman sports star at the University of Michigan, has been called for induction by his Saginaw draft board and ordered to report to the Detroit induction center Jan. 22.

Rifenburg, an end on Michigan's football team last fall, withdrew in midseason to await call by the merchant marine, with which he enlisted in September. When the call did not come through immediately he reported for basketball with the Wolverines and has played in Michigan's last three games as a center.

Big Three Goals Differ

Richard L. Wilson Predicts New Allied Offensive in France

Richard Wilson, Des Moines Register correspondent in the nation's capital, gave the Information First audience yesterday a straight-from-Washington view of the day's important news, including problems of Allied unity, Henry Wallace's plans, the progress of the war, the president's health, discussion on unconditional surrender and Dumbarton Oaks.

"The thing that disturbs me most is what is wrong between the United States and other Allied nations," Wilson declared. "That we are not getting along on the diplomatic front is reflected in the British, American and even Russian press. The fundamental difficulty is a disagreement about what we are fighting for: the United States has followed the course of idealism, while Great Britain and Russia have followed that of realism."

Russia Stubborn

Americans are getting tired of the stubbornness of Russia and the imperialism of Britain, the Washington correspondent believes. "The president will be tougher in the next three-power conference and insist more on a free choice of government by the people of Greece, Poland and Belgium."

"The president has one ace," Wilson added. "Great Britain and Russia depend on the United States for post-war rehabilitation. We could lose the European war and still survive; Britain and Russia cannot."

Prospects of New Offensive
Discussing the immediate prospects for the war in Europe, Wilson guessed that a reinforcement of United States troops in France is preparation for a new offensive. "The setback delaying the American offensive which might have brought the war to a rapid conclusion has given the Germans a chance to organize an underground system. We can anticipate a long period of organized or unorganized fighting," the Information First speaker predicted.

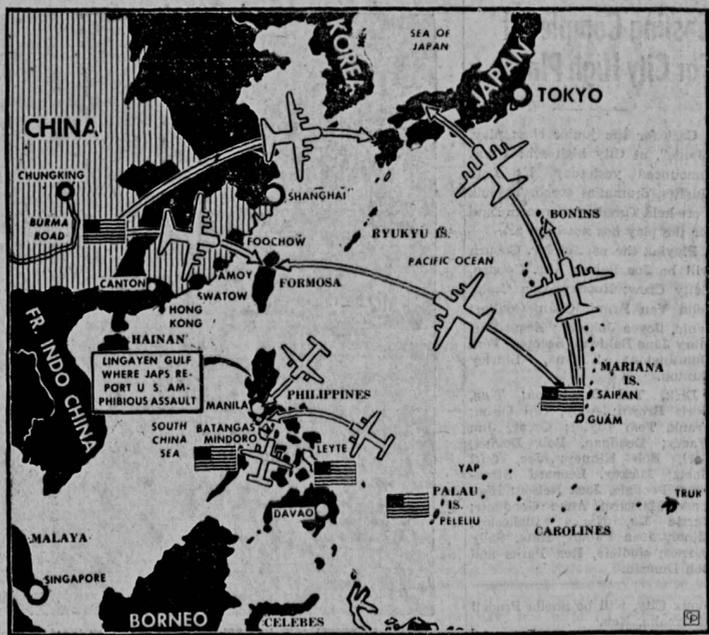

Asserting that the war must be fought to an unconditional surrender on the part of Germany and Japan, Wilson backed his arguments with the idea that the nations who thought they were going to conquer the world must be crushed.

"A compromise at this stage, to bring the war to an end, would have to concede to Germany the right to maintain some kind of armed force," he told his audience. "There is always the distant possibility that a defeated German machine will join forces with communism for new world aggression; Allied nations need to go on to enforce unconditional surrender."

President's Health
On the national news front, The Register correspondent answered a frequently asked query on the president's health. "The president looks better close up than from a distance," he admitted. "He is in relatively good health, with no signs of having undergone, or planning to undergo, an operation."

Henry Wallace stands for Democratic party liberalism, according to Wilson. "Wallace is trying to capture almost single-handed the machinery of the Democratic party to turn it into a liberal

PHILIPPINE AIRFIELDS OBJECT OF U. S. ATTACKS

JAPAN'S RADIO NEWSCASTERS reported the new American assaults in the Philippines as imminent and as having already occurred several days before the Yank task force which blasted Luzon island in preliminary shelling disembarked the Sixth Army troops on the Lingayen Gulf coast. A series of B-29 attacks on the Japanese homeland and Jap-occupied Formosa preceded the latest invasion, as well as aerial assaults on Manila and Clark and Batangas airfields on central Luzon.

party with the help of the CIO Political Action committee. He was regarded as the most loyal Democrat in the past campaign. Wallace is not through," the speaker predicted. "He is working for the presidential nomination in 1948."

Discusses Rationing

Answering a question on Washington feeling toward restrictions proposed by War Mobilization Director Byrnes, Wilson discussed the problem of rationing. He considers false the rumors that rationing was cancelled before the election and imposed again following the vote.

"Roosevelt is tending considerably left of center," Wilson said. "Government control would be necessary to provide 60 million jobs promised for the post-war period." The newsman discussed the Dies committee from the viewpoint of Washington correspondents and commented on the effort to repeal the poll tax in the south.

Wilson regarded the Dumbarton Oaks conference as "a job that had to be done." Americans tend to underestimate the results of the Dumbarton Oaks agreement, but it is really the structure of United Nations organization, the basis for further cooperation.

Recreation Center Negro Forum Plans Activities

Included in the varied activities at the Recreation center this year is a program the second Saturday of each month for all the Negro people of the community and the university.

Sponsored by the Negro forum, headed by Mrs. Allyn Lemme, 15 E. Prentiss street, the idea was originally suggested by the Recreation center director, J. Edgar Frame.

With an average of 35 to 40 in attendance on the designated Saturday nights, the program of fun and recreation has proved very popular with Negro students and Iowa Citizens.

All the facilities of the Recreation center are open to Negro people, who plan all their own Saturday night programs. Especially popular is the opportunity for dancing, where those attending dance to the top bands of the nation through the use of the juke box.

Ranking high with the men is the billiard room, where a good many games of pool are played each Saturday night, while the ping pong tables and bowling alley come in for a good bit of use from both men and women.

For those who like to spend their Saturday nights relaxing instead of strenuously engaging in dancing, bowling, or ping pong, there is a game room where card or other table games often are played.

In the near future the forum will begin preparations on tournaments to be conducted throughout the year. Plans now call for a ping pong tournament.

All Negro students attending the university are urged to take advantage of the opportunities for a good time offered at the Recreation center the second Saturday of each month.

Patricia King Attends Student Consultation In Granville, Ohio

One of 75 delegates from all over the United States, Patricia King, A2 of Livingston, Mont., attended the United Student Consultation, a three-day conference during Christmas vacation at Denison university, Granville, Ohio. The meeting was called by the United Student Christian council which is made up of delegates from the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., New England Christian movement and denominational student groups.

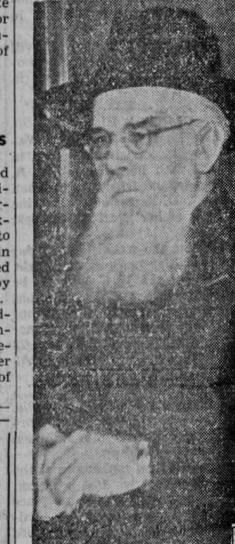

Miss King attended the conference as national student chairman of the Congregational churches student movement. Donald Noyce of Columbia, who was graduated from Grinnell college last year, and Carl Siegenthaler a graduate of Yale university, New Haven, Conn., presided as co-chairmen.

Fifty-one colleges were represented. The meeting was called and completely conducted by students. The only adults present were research experts.

This was the first time that students from all over the country have gathered to discuss common problems and ways to help each other in interdenominational work on respective campuses.

The results of the meeting were in the form of recommendations, as the group had no power to make definite rules or laws. The main recommendation was that regional consultations be planned by the students attending the Denison university meeting and that they follow the pattern of that meeting.

At 8 A. M.— Campus Dilemma

Swish! A flying figure races into the library, deposits something on the desk and is off again in a cloud of dust.

Superman? Well, no and yet such a person might be mistaken for the hour is eight o'clock in the morning, the temperature 10 degrees below zero, and the speed about "60 miles per."

This Dagwood-like flight is made to the reserve library and there's a reason for the madness. A library ruling makes it imperative that reserve books be returned by 8 a. m. And then the swift departure out the door is due to another inconvenient institution—the 8 o'clock class.

The dilemma of one who is supposed to be in these two places at the same time has been known to cause such severe cases of frustration that individuals finally subjected themselves to study in the library the night before.

Stalin Responsible for Turkey's Neutrality, Dean Asserts in Address to Rotarians

"The chief reason for Turkey's staying out of the present war was the pressure of Stalin," asserted Dean Allin W. Dakin, the university's administrative dean, speaking at the weekly luncheon of Rotary club in Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

"Stalin wanted Turkey to remain neutral to protect Russia's important life-line onto the Black Sea," Dean Dakin explained.

The Turks did not want to get into this war because for the first time in their history they had learned to appreciate what could be accomplished during peace. Turkey has been at peace since 1923, the longest period of peace in its history.

Great changes and vast improvements have been made in Turkey in this period of peace. No other nation has ever gone through such a drastic change in such a short time.

"The resurrection of Turkey from the 'sick man of Europe' is due to one man, Kamal Ataturk," declared Dean Dakin, who lived in Turkey from 1934 until 1939 where he was associated with Robert college in Istanbul.

Ataturk was a tall, stout man with a commanding appearance and piercing steel-gray eyes. He was deeply sympathetic toward all his people. People of all sorts were irresistibly attracted to him by his personality.

Dean Dakin remembers especially Ataturk's eyes. "He seemed to be looking right through you," he said. "Everyone who looked at him was hypnotized by those eyes."

"Ataturk will go down in history as one of the greatest men and one of the most brilliant military strategists of his time, because he did more for his country and all the people of the world than any other man in his time," asserted Dean Dakin.

The creation of the grand assembly in 1923, according to Dean Dakin, was Ataturk's greatest contribution. Other changes which Ataturk originated were to abolish the religious schools and courts and break the relation between church and state, to take from the people all objects of religious significance, such as the fez and the veil, and to change the international calendar.

Substituting our Latin alphabet for the complex Arabic letters was perhaps one of the most significant changes. All the people in Turkey had to learn to read again. The Latin alphabet was so much more simple that literacy in Turkey jumped from 20 percent to 80 percent soon after the change was made.

Other changes which Ataturk instigated were to give suffrage to the women, to establish a labor code providing for maximum hours and minimum wages, and to attempt to purify the Turkish language, which is still used.

Dean Dakin remembers vividly the sorrow which swept the nation when Ataturk died. "The nation of sympathetic and sensitive people dissolved in tears," he said. Ismet Inonu, who became president of the republic after Ataturk's death, is more conservative and has removed some of the changes inaugurated by Ataturk.
