The Daily Iowan Salutes—

Bette Jo Phelan, chairman of the committee which directed last night's successful "Winter Wonderland", all-university party at the Iowa Union.

Floor show entertainment and the music of Sam Campbell provided all attending with a different note in university-sponsored events. Miss Phelan and committee members have stated that with the added interest in university parties, shown by last night's attendance, it perhaps will be possible for future dances to feature big name bands.

Kirke Simpson Interprets the War News—

Events of the war on both sides of the world are moving at a pace that helps erase the gloom cast over the allies at Christmas by the German break-through in Belgium.

Developments have left the net heavily weighted in allied favor against both Germany and Japan although the full reckoning was yet to be made as concerned Germany.

Within that January week the German bulge into Belgium was gradually being reduced by the allies. A rising toll of German prisoners, casualties and material losses was coming in from allied official sources. At least one portion of the Belgian sack had been converted into a trap although the bulk of Nazi forces appeared likely to escape over blizzard swept and snow clogged roads unless a break in the weather enabled allied air power to go into full action.

The reduction of the Belgian bulge was the high-light of the war in Europe except for a German report confirmed by Marshal Stalin, that the Russians had launched their long awaited main winter offensive in Poland. The Germans also said the Russians are attacking on the East Prussian front.

There was little doubt that now the Russians have swung their powerful white Russian armies of the center into action. Allied leadership in the west would strain every nerve not only to throw the foe back in Belgium but to regain the offensive stride temporarily lost in meeting the German counter attack.

Where and how that will develop is yet to be revealed as is the unquestionably heavy price the Germans have paid in men and equipment to buy a brief let up in allied pressure on the Roer or elsewhere in the west. The strain on Nazi reserves to meet the simultaneous Russian and allied attacks or operations in Italy can be imagined. It bids fair to leave German lines in the west seriously thinned down with little prospect that gaps in the ranks can be filled adequately for defensive let alone offensive purposes.

Across the Pacific the startling fact of the week was that General MacArthur's troops had made the leap to Luzon under a vast air umbrella and backed by a display of naval strength in virtually home waters of Japan. The landings in Lingayen gulf caught the enemy completely by surprise, the American commander reported. Within 48 hours a fully equipped army had poured over Lingayen beaches and its patrols were racing down the roads to Manila meeting relatively insignificant resistance from the north. They were fanning out rapidly to sweep the whole width of the valley lands that run down to the shore of Manila bay. American planes swept on ahead blasting roads, bridges, enemy road traffic and supply dumps to confuse his attempt to rally for a stand.

The real battle of Luzon was yet to be joined but it was clear even from distorted Japanese radio accounts that the enemy had been caught badly off balance with the bulk of his Luzon garrison rallied south not north of Manila. It was also certain that under the blistering attack by carrier borne planes of the massive American fleets mustered now in the China sea itself his hope of reinforcements or of even air intervention from northern staging bases like Formosa was slim. His initial attempts met with disaster, with American forces inflicting heavy ship losses.

Looking Ahead in Washington—

WASHINGTON (AP)—As the war moves closer to Tokyo, fighter escorts for B-29 Superforts may be expected.

Because of its tremendous range (the B-29 was designed to protect itself—and does—but help is welcomed by any bomber crew.

Surprise, surprise! Here's one bright spot in the income tax picture for a lot of folks. Statisticians in the bureau of internal revenue estimate that some 20,000,000 persons will get refunds from tax payments on 1944 income.

Main reason is over-withholding of taxes under the table system used by many employers. To simplify the job for employers, the government provided tables with wide wage brackets. Result was that the same amount was taken from a $40 wage as from a $49 wage, and so on.

Peacetime training: Soon to be presented to congress, the army's proposed schedule for a year's peacetime military training will be approximately this:

Basic training, 13 weeks; unit training, 8; maneuvers, 10; advanced training, 8; advanced maneuvers, 10. The remaining two or three weeks would be taken up with travel.

Easy for Porter: Look for confirmation of Paul Porter, former Democratic publicity chief, as federal communications commissioner without any real fight. Certain Republicans considered putting up a battle, sought to enlist support of Senator Wheeler, Montana Democrat currently feuding with the administration over foreign policy. Wheeler refused to go along.

Previous reservations: It's unlikely that Secretary of State Stettinius will attend the Big Three conference of the United States, Great Britain and Russia next month. Stettinius already is committed to attend the International conference of American foreign ministers at Mexico City Feb. 15.

Next to FDR at the "Big Three" meeting, the top U. S. representative will probably be either Harry Hopkins or Admiral Leahy.

Jan Buzzers? If the Japs really have some kind of a robot or rocket bomb (as their propagandists have been saying lately) it's likely they'll uncover it during the Luzon campaign.

Opinion On and Off the Campus— Should a Governor's Mansion Be Provided By the State?

F. F. Marsh, funeral director of Keota: "Yes, I do. It is often very difficult for one to find a suitable house or apartment, and I think that the governor should certainly be provided one."

Mary Lou Kelley, secretary of Iowa City: "I think that adequate provision should be made for a governor's home. Maybe I say this because the housing situation is so bad right now."

James Lagomarcino, AI of Keokuk: "I think that one should be provided. We should have enough pride to see that the governor has a good home. Other states furnish an executive mansion, and the president of the United States is provided the White House, so I think that our state executive should have one."

Dr. Marcus Bach of the school of religion: "I think that it would lend a certain amount of prestige and dignity to the executive family. We would know where to find the governor if he had such a mansion—just so wisecrackers wouldn't call it the "blue house."

Patricia Hardinger, music teacher of Albion: "I think that it should. Giving the governor a mansion is a courtesy extended in many states."

Don Kephart, AI of Ottumwa: "I think it should provide an executive mansion. Many states already do it and I do not see why we should be any different."

H. W. Woz, salesman of Iowa City: "I would say yes if they would keep the cost at a minimum. I believe that $25,000 would be too much to pay for such a mansion."

Roy Warner, telegraph operator of Dubuque: "No, I don't. I think that the governor should provide his own residence the same as other state officials."

John Behnke, CI of Parkersburg: "I think one should be provided. I understand the governor had a difficult time finding a place to stay in Des Moines."

Ruth Cline, AI of Farmington: "Possibly if they raised his salary as has been suggested, he could more easily arrange to find a home himself."

Roy Ewets, shoe merchant of Iowa City: "I do very definitely. I also think that the governor's salary should be increased. Most state officials are underpaid, and higher salaries would attract men of a higher caliber. An executive mansion would be a means of paying the governor a higher salary."

By Jean Collier— The Daily Iowan Sunday Book Review

In line with the great tradition which made such books as "Gone With the Wind" best-sellers, the literary market, in recent years, has been flooded with so-called historical novels. Helene Marguerite's "Who Walk in Pride" both follows and capitalizes upon this popularization of past eras.

Laid during the terrible times of the French Revolution, "Who Walk in Pride" is a tale which cuts across the history of three nations—from the turbulent, blood-cursed soil of France to the rotten, slave-worked plantations of San Domingo—to the opportunity land of America. Equally dominant in any of these environments is the incarnation of proud arrogance and headstrong stupidity. In essence, he is the typical aristocrat of the French colonialists in the New World.

Also portraying the blind aristocracy of this period are Antoine's family and friends, as introduced through the pages of this book. Here the reader finds Mopsieur Dejean, living upon the labor of his wretched slaves in the hope that their industry will finance his prosperous return to France; the discontented Madame Dejean whose chief occupations are reading frivolously indecent French novels and dreaming of the old life in France; the beautiful daughter Louise, worried that the "grand marriage" of her expectations will not be consummated; and gentle Emilie, who spends the majority of her life on her knees, confident that her prayers will remedy the sins of the Dejean family. Here, too, are the gallant and crafty Spaniard, Don Felipe; the loyal family servant, Manette; the sinfully beautiful Eugénie Charot, condemned by a racial curse of generations.

Certainly a brief description of the characters involved indicates that "Who Walk in Pride" would make excellent material for another Hollywood extravaganza, a 1945 exploitation of the talents of one of the cinema's handsome lovers. One almost wonders if Miss Margaret did not keep one eye firmly fixed on Sam Goldwyn as she pounded out the action and plot of the tale.

"Who Walk in Pride" might be entertaining if nothing of better calibre is within reach of the reader, but its total unreality and fairy-tale quality made it, I'm afraid, a wee bit dull. The only compensating factors are Miss Margaret's apparently excellent knowledge of Creole customs and the manner in which she handled the ending, totally unexpected and quite a pleasant surprise after having 270 pages of French arrogance flaunted before the reader's eyes.

Dr. E. A. Gilmore Discusses— Recent Pacific Drive

"Bataan in reverse" is Dr. E. A. Gilmore's graphic explanation of MacArthur's recent Pacific drive. Asked why the landing was in the Lingayen gulf, Dr. Gilmore, for eight years a resident of Manila, stated that the Lingayen gulf was one of the most accessible landing places. "Its wide, sandy beach, extending 30 or 40 miles along the bay, facilitated landing operations. Between the central Luzon plain, a gently rolling plain some 60 miles wide—a plain over which run good hard-surfaced, macadamized roads and an excellent railroad. The Japanese used the same route in their successful drives in 1941."

"The invasion has been carefully planned," continued Dr. Gilmore. "Many rivers and streams crisscross the plain, making passage extremely difficult during the wet season, which begins in June or July. MacArthur wanted to get there when river were low, and the dry season begins in January." Dr. Gilmore went on to explain that even now travel would not be simple for American forces because roads and bridges will be mined and dynamited by the Japanese, and it will be a long, tedious process to force the Japs back.

President Harding appointed Dr. Gilmore vice-governor of the Philippines in 1922, and on the death of Governor Leonard Wood, Dr. Gilmore succeeded him. He is well acquainted with the islands and their problems because during his residence there, he was also head of the entire educational program of the islands, the public health program, and the quarantine service. He and Mrs. Gilmore have traveled over the entire archipelago, by ship from island to island, and by horseback over the high, jagged mountains.

Dr. Gilmore explained the comparatively easy advance of American forces by stating, "The Japanese didn't know where we were coming in. Apparently their reconnaissance is weak. During the day previous to the invasion, our convoy sailed by, apparently bound for Formosa. Under cover of darkness, it returned to Luzon. Too, the Japanese may figure it is better to let the Americans get ashore, since they have learned from past experience they can't stop Americans at sea. The fighting will begin farther south, with the battle for Manila promising to be a bitter one."

Dr. Gilmore was asked about the Filipino attitude toward the United States, and his reply was heartening. "The Filipinos are loyal to the United States. We have kept our promises to them, and are granting them their independence and order is restored. President Osmena of the Philippine government in exile, a close friend of Dr. Gilmore, accompanied General MacArthur's expeditionary forces in their invasion of Leyte, and today is on that island guiding the Philippine government. Dr. Gilmore saw Osmena just a week before he left to join MacArthur, and personally heard his plans to return to his people.

The most pressing post-war problem as seen by Dr. Gilmore is that of economics. How will the Philippines find markets for their three largest crops, sugar, coconut oil, and tobacco? Formerly, the Philippine market was Japan. We could use a reasonable amount of their sugar without endangering in any way the beet and cane sugar interests in the United States, but American interests are hostile to Filipino interests."

In conclusion, Dr. Gilmore believes, "It will be mutually advantageous for the Filipino people and people in the United States to work in the closest harmony, both military and economic, in our post-war relations."

'Let's Get on With War' to Be Theme As FDR Steps Out on Porch to Take Oath

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt's fourth inauguration Saturday will be a "let's get on with the war" affair—a simple, 15-minute interlude in the martial march of victory.

The chief executive, who will be 63 Jan. 30, will just step out on the south portico of the White House—the back porch—to swear for the fourth time to "preserve, protect and defend the constitution."

The nation's first wartime presidential induction in 90 years will be a business suit oath-taking on a spot never before used for such purpose.

Inauguration on Sunday
Haynes took over the presidency from Grant in 1877 in a White House parlor. But this was only because inauguration day fell on a Sunday, and the constitutionalists wanted to avoid any possibility of elgal challenge. Haynes took the oath again the next day on the capitol steps.

Almost all the trappings of the past will be absent this time. No parade. No inaugural ball. No circus seats along Pennsylvania avenue. No crowds pouring into town "to see the man I voted for."

Mr. Roosevelt will stand on an iron-railed porch as he places his hand on an old cloth-bound family Bible and makes his pledge before Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone. Over the heads of the audience will run a vista to the majestic new Jefferson Memorial on a site in Potomac park picked by the president himself.

Little Ironies
Inaugurations always have their little ironies. Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, who failed of renomination after one term, will administer the oath to his successor, Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri. That will follow an invocation by the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal bishop of Washington. Then will come the presidential oath and five-minute inaugural address, and benediction by the Rt. Rev. Mons. John A. Ryan, director of the social action department, National Catholic Welfare conference.

Because the porch is small, guests there will be limited to the families of the president, vice-president and vice-president-elect, members of the supreme court and cabinet, chiefs of the armed services and dean of the diplomatic corps.

5,000 Attending
Down on the lawn will be some 5,000 persons—against the 100,000 who watched Mr. Roosevelt hailed as the apostle of the "New Deal" back on that bitter cold day at the capitol March 4, 1933.

Members of congress with one partner each, presidential electors to the same number, diplomats, state governors and their staffs, members of the Democratic national committee and Democratic state chairmen—they will make up the greater part of the audience.

Standing with them will be federal agency heads, veterans' representatives and leaders of women's, foreign language and other groups that took part in the successful fourth term campaign.

Following are the names of Iowa counties assigned: Adair, Appanoose, Audubon, Clay, Clinton, Fayette, Fremont, Grundy, Muscatine, Shelby, Union, Warren and Wayne.

After the inauguration ceremony, Mr. Roosevelt will go to church before the ceremony. After the inauguration he and Mrs. Roosevelt will be hosts at a White House luncheon, to be followed by a four o'clock tea.

Thus will come the first great departure in an event that has changed but little since Washington, with "feelings not unlike those of a culprit going to his place of execution," was inducted in New York in 1789.

Nearly 300,000 persons saw the oath-taking and parade when FDR became president at the last March 4 ceremony, nearly 12 years ago. Eighteen thousand persons took part in the parade, led by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then army chief of staff.

Inauguration in Rain
Four years later, in a torrential rain, Mr. Roosevelt took the oath on the capitol steps for the second time from Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes. His silk hat and morning clothes got soaked (so did Mrs. Roosevelt's new bonnet) but after changing to dry clothes he reviewed the 2½-hour parade.

The great spectacle was given an added Roosevelt touch—a reviewing stand which was a miniature of Andrew Jackson's Tennessee home, the hermitage, with fluted columns, rambler roses and magnolia trees with paper blossoms. The platform was encased in bullet-proof glass.

Another four years passed. A chilled, windswep through saw the president make history by taking the oath the third time. John Garner ended 38 years of congressional service—eight of them in the vice-presidency—by swearing in his successor, Henry A. Wallace.

Four Years Ago
The crowd's cheers echoed down packed Pennsylvania avenue as West Point cadets, Annapolis midshipmen and the nation's first peace-time draftees marched ahead of crack units of steel-helmeted soldiers, bluejackets and "devil dog" marines.

America paraded for the first time her newest in armored equipment—line after line of rumbling tanks, combat vehicles, scout cars bristling with machine guns. Motorcycle troops added to the din. Great bombers roared overhead—omens of the martial deluge to come less than a year later.

And—inside the White House—whined a little black dog, waiting for his master. A pat on the head, and "no, you can't go with me today," Mr. Roosevelt had said, smiling.

This time, all Fala will have to do is run out on the back porch.

Transports Named
WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirteen transport and cargo vessels of the navy have been given names of Iowa counties, the navy announced yesterday.

Violin Concert Ticket Sale To Begin

Patricia Travers, young American violinist, will appear in a concert here Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union. Tickets for the concert will be obtainable at the main desk in Iowa Union starting tomorrow.

Miss Travers, who is 16 years old, has ten years of success to her credit. She has appeared throughout the country with numerous symphonies, has appeared on radio programs and has been in one movie, "There's Magic in Music".

She owns the famous "Tom Taylor" Stradivarius violin made in 1732 as well as another rare violin known as the "Consolo". The "Consolo" was made by Joseph Guarnerius del Gesu in 1733.

The concert which Miss Travers will give here Wednesday is being given in Chicago today. Her accompanist for the program is Hendrik Euidt. Several numbers on the concert program include intricate piano arrangements.

Seals Club Tryouts To End Wednesday

Last tryouts of the year for the Seals club, women's swimming organization, will be held Wednesday, Jan. 17, at 4:15 p. m., according to Joan Wheeler, president. Tryouts will be held in the pool at the women's gymnasium.

Seals club is also planning a water show to be given the first week of March in honor of its 25th anniversary.

The annual telegraphic swimming meet, sponsored by Mary Washington college of Fredericksburg, Va., will be held in February, with Seals club participating.

"Pop" Reports

GEORGE GARDNER, 15-month-old USNIR (U. S. Navy Infant Reserve) checks his dad's identification card at the San Diego Naval training center. "Pop" is Allison S. Gardner, SP, second class, who weighs in at 298 pounds and is six feet six inches tall. The miniature shore patrolman boasts a 34 pounds. (International)

World Student Service Fund Book Drive For War Prisoners to End This Week

Ending the World Student Service fund book drive before the Fund's campus campaign gets well underway, members of the U. W. A. war finance committee will gather all books from collection boxes late this week. Books contributed by students to the W. S. S. F. boxes in Iowa Union, Schaeffer hall, Bremers clothing store and in housing units will be sent to the fund's headquarters to be distributed to student prisoners of war overseas.

Men Suggest Books
Questionnaires are circulated in hundreds of European prison camps, giving men an opportunity to suggest the books and other items they would like to have. Greatest appeal is for books, notebooks and pencils to give them some means of passing the time. Since morale is so important in the prison camp, men must have something to do with their minds and hands.

Books are mailed from Geneva, Switzerland, to the prison camps, the postage paid by the countries through which they travel. Each package contains a receipt which is filled out and returned to Geneva. Signed by the prisoner, the receipt lists the exact contents of the parcel.

Books Censored
All books sent by the W. S. S. F. then to the prison camps, are subject to censorship regulations. German authorities censor books sent into Germany and refuse to admit books by certain authors and some books on politics. American censors also do not let certain types of books leave the country, but the total number of restricted books involved is less than 3 percent.

Sciences are the most popular studies, although prisoners are studying in nearly all the major divisions of the arts and sciences. Subjects include algebra, chemistry, composition, modern languages, history, art, mechanical drawing, physics, bookkeeping and accounting, medicine, law, economics and others in various fields.

Prisoners Earln College Credit
By special arrangement with some American colleges and universities, prisoners of war are earning college credit for the courses they are studying now. Textbooks which students in this country send to them are helping them toward a university degree.

Margaret Shuttlesworth, A of New York City, U. W. A. war finance committee chairman, has pointed out the type of books especially needed in the W. S. S. F. campaign: college or high school textbooks, not more than 10 years old unless they are classics; standard works in English literature; books on professional subjects; standard detective stories; language books and pocket books.

Censorship regulations forbid that magazines or newspapers be sent to prisoners of war by W. S. S. F. # Two Convicts Flee Jail

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—In their second escape in less than three months, two Nebraska convicts fled the Council Bluffs city jail early yesterday morning after they had unlocked their cell door with keys fashioned from a toothbrush handle and a wooden spoon.

Officers said last night they had reports that the automobile in which the two were believed to be traveling had been reported seen going north on highway 69 between Belmont and Garner in north-central Iowa.

Police Chief Earl Miller said the police car used by the pair—John Giles, 37, and Edgar Cook, 31—was found abandoned a mile south of Audubon on highway 71, and quoted Audubon county Sheriff Tom Finnerty as saying a 1933 Chevrolet master coach with red wheels, owned by Alvin Anderson, had been stolen at Audubon, presumably by the fugitives.

Police Captain Joe Rauterkus said the pair unlocked six doors, escaped through a washroom window in the basement of the jail building, which also houses other city offices, and made off in a police car which was parked inside the police garage.

The pair was believed seen attempting to break into a filling station at Persia, 25 miles northeast of here between 7 and 8 a. m., police said.

Giles and Cook escaped from the Nebraska state penitentiary at Lincoln, Nov. 2, by knocking a hole in the wall and kidnapping a prison worker and his car. Two weeks later they were recaptured at Oakland and charged with larceny of an automobile, in connection with a car theft at Fremont, Neb., during the time they were at large. They were indicted by a Pottawattamie county grand jury Dec. 12, and were scheduled to go on trial at Avoca, Jan. 16.

In addition to the larceny charge, the pair had been cited under the habitual criminal act and Giles is accused of killing Police Chief Martin G. Johnson of Ray, N. D., Sept. 4, 1930.

Coeds Choose— Bedtime Flannels

—For Zero Weather

WARM ROBES for after-hours wardrobes—left, a housecoat of mercury red brushed spun rayon, fashioned in the double-breasted style with a shawl collar trimmed with white novelty lace. Right, the insert and sleeves on this unusual robe are of beige, while the rest of the costume is maroon. Peasant braid of gay colors outlines the insert.

The question of how to be warm and comfortable before bedtime during these cold winter nights when the mercury refuses to come above the zero mark has been solved by the Iowa coed. Whether for lounging or for that essential beauty sleep she will be smartly and cozily attired.

For sleeping snugly, Mavis Spevacek, A1 of Cleero, Ill., has chosen pink and white candy-striped wool flannel pajamas. The long jacket which provides extra warmth has long sleeves trimmed with plain pink flannel-cuffs. The collar, lapels and the one small pocket are also made of pink flannel. Of tie-around style, the jacket is fastened by small pink buttons down the front and the straight pajama pants have elastic around the back which assures comfortable fitting at the waistline.

In direct contrast to flannel pajamas, Gail Mosely Russell, A4 of Anamosa, sleeps comfortably in one of the new brilliantly-striped Topsters. Of spun rayon, the red and white stripes are interwoven against a background of white. Gail's short nightshirt is designed with short sleeves, one small pocket and small white buttons down the front.

Looking as if she might have stepped out of Grandmother's time is Rena Zook, A3 of Hamburg, N. Y., when she visits the "land of nod" in her white wool flannel floor-length nightgown. Styled with long straight sleeves, it has a round neckline, buttons down to the waistline and white braid work along the yoke.

Warmth and luxurious comfort are the features of the lounging pajamas owned by Nancy Scofield, A2 of Morris, Ill. Bright red, green, white and blue flowers stand out against a background of black quilted silk. The trousers are made like slacks with two pleats in front, a zipper side opening, and a large slit pocket which opens on the side seam. The knee-length lounging coat which completes the ensemble is of the tie-around style and has three-quarter length sleeves. Both the coat and trousers are lined with red satin.

Jane Holland, C4 of Milton, is the proud owner of a pair of First Nighter men's pajamas. The long top part is made identically like a polo shirt. It's of slipover style in navy blue and sky blue-striped cotton, designed with long sleeves and round neckline, both of which have a navy blue knitted cuff. The sky-blue cotton shantung trousers are similar to slacks and are fashioned with four pleats in front. The waistline has gathered elastic in the back and extends into a plain band which buttons in the front.

The rich colors of lavender and black distinguish the lovely silk jersey lounging pajamas belonging to Shirley Zeug, A3 of Newton. The lavender shirtwaist top has long sleeves that button at the wrists and is fastened down the front by small pearl buttons. Flare bottoms and a side button placket are the features of the trousers.

Comfort-cut for sleeping are the smartly tailored pink and white cotton pajamas chosen by Mabel Davis, A3 of Cedar Rapids, for her nightly trip to dreamland. Mabel's shirtwaist style top has short sleeves, one small patch pocket and buttons down the front. The pants have two small pleats in

Louise Maddy Weds Petty Officer Winter In Chapel Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony, Louise Maddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Maddy of Great Bend, Kan., became the bride of Petty Officer Second Class R. W. Winter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Winter of Hoisington, Kan., Dec. 29 at 6 p. m. in the chapel at the naval air station at Corpus Christi, Tex., with the Chaplain J. C. Corbin officiating.

The chapel was decorated with evergreens and poinsettias and a seven-candle candelabra was lighted on each side of the white altar.

Preceding the ceremony organ selections included "Hymn to the Sun" and a vocal solo "Oh Perfect Love" was presented. After the benediction as the couple knelt before the altar "The Lord's Prayer" was sung.

Attending the couple were Lieut. and Mrs. J. R. Ryerson.

The bride chose for her wedding a two-piece suit of white wool trimmed in gold. Her accessories included a black sequin cap with a veil accented in gold sequins, and she carried a white Bible topped with white gladiolus and short streamers of white narcissi.

The matron of honor selected a red suit and hat and had a corsage of gardenias and white carnations.

The bride, a graduate of Great Bend high school, received her degree from the University of Iowa in December. She was affiliated with Zeta Phi Eta, national professional speech fraternity.

The bridegroom was graduated from Hoisington high school and attended Kansas State college at Manhattan, Kan. He is now stationed at Corpus Christi, where the couple is residing at 1121 17th street.

IOWA-ILLINOIS GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

Hawks Overwhelm Purdue, 61-34

Maintain Undefeated Record With Eighth Straight Victory

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa's rampaging Hawkeyes chalked up their eighth straight win and their second in the Big Ten conference last night with an overwhelming 61 to 34 victory over the Purdue Boilermakers.

Headed by a quartet of scorers, Dick Ives, Clay and Herb Wilkinson and Jack Spencer, the Hawks grabbed an early lead and were never in serious trouble throughout the contest.

Although Iowa's famed fast break was paying dividends, the Harrison men counted most of their goals from the field. Spencer and Herb Wilkinson put on a demonstration of one-handed push shooting that had the 11,000 cheering fans on their feet constantly.

The Boilermakers undoubtedly missed the steadying influence of their veteran center, Paul Hoffman, who did not make the trip because of a foot injury suffered in Purdue's Monday night victory over the Minnesota gophers. But his substitute at the pivot post, John Elliott, although held to three points, played an outstanding defensive game.

The Old Golders started fast on baskets by Clay Wilkinson, Ives and Herb Wilkinson and were never headed as they roared into a 27 to 13 half time advantage. Iowa's brilliant defensive play held the Boilermakers to three field goals in the first half, but Purdue's ability on the free throw line accounted for seven of their 13 points.

Wilkinson Score

The Lambert men roared back at the start of the second half on a pair of baskets by the freshman forward, Bill Gosewehr, but, at this point, the Hawks' scoring machine started to work again. Ives hit for two almost impossible shots under the basket, and the Wilkinson brothers came through with another pair of scores as the tempo of the game increased several notches.

The height advantage of some two inches per man which the Hawks held was a deciding factor as Iowa controlled rebounds off both backboards and hit time and time again on tip-in shots.

Ives, playing the type of game that earned him the respect of all of last year's opponents, led the attack from start to finish with his brilliant floor play and his driving shots which consistently dropped through.

Clay Wilkinson was a tower of strength under both baskets as he broke up the Boilermaker plays and grabbed rebounds on practically every sortie. His tap shots were outstanding as he turned in the best game he has played this season.

The Hawks looked like an entirely different team from that which barely eked out a 49 to 44 victory over the Gophers. They handled the ball with more finesse and in general played a much better floor game than they have in any other contest this season.

Clay Wilkinson, with 16 points, was high man for the Old Golders, but he was closely followed by his brother Herb with 15, Ives with 14 and Spencer with 13. Postels was the only man out of the starting five that didn't collect a field goal. He was apparently as off as his teammates were on, as his shots rolled off the rim constantly.

With five minutes left in the game, Iowa's high scoring reserves started to filter into the battle. Fiery little Murray Wier, for the first time this season went scoreless, but his aggressive floor play was a big factor in the Hawks hitting the 60-point mark. Stan Straatsma was the only reserve to score, hitting on a tip-in score under the basket.

Myrwin Anderson led the Boilermakers with eight points in a losing cause. He was closely followed by Gosewehr and Bob Lewis with six counters apiece. The Hawks ability on gift shots was noticeable as they hit for 13 out of 17 chances. The Boilermakers, however, didn't fare so well as they connected for 10 out of 16 chances.

Illinois Beats Wolverines, Kirk Stars

Leads Michigan To 55 to 37 Victory; Lindquist Paces Illini

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Walton (Junior) Kirk, University of Illinois guard, poured in 20 points last night as the Illini whipped Michigan's basketball team, 55 to 37.

The Illinoi triumph squared things with the Wolverines, who had beaten the Illini here last Saturday, 43 to 38.

Illinois started fast last night and after Michigan had taken a 16 to 15 lead midway of the first half the Illini pulled away and never again were headed. The half time score was 30 to 22 in favor of Illinois.

Illinois sophomore forward Howard Judson of Hebron, Ill., popped in three straight baskets as the Wolverines moved into a threatening position for the only time in the game at the ten-minute mark of the first half. After that the outcome was hardly in doubt as Judson sank two more field goals before the half was over and the Illini climbed into a 30 to 18 edge.

Field goals by Don Lund, Michigan center, and Don Lindquist, Wolverine guard, made it 30 to 22 at the half.

Then Kirk, who scored only eight points in the first half while Judson was getting six baskets, started his 13-point last half spree, easily winning high scoring honors for the game.

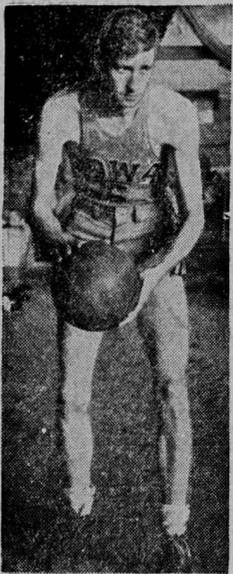

Judson wound up with 14 points and Lindquist of the Wolverines accounted for 12.

Judson's eagle eye seemed to turn the tide in the first half after Michigan had stayed within four points of the Illini through the first ten minutes, going ahead 16 to 15 on successive baskets by Don Mullaney and Lund.

THE TWO CO-CAPTAINS pictured above, Jack Spencer and Ned Postels, in the usual order, were of considerable help last night as the Iowa Hawkeyes moved to their second consecutive Big Ten victory of the year. Spencer dropped in 13 points, while Postels, although held to a single marker, aided with his general floor play. The victory put Coach Pops Harrison's team in undisputed possession of first place.

Ohio State Stops Northwestern, 53-46 In Bitter Contest

Two Players Ejected For Fighting at End; Morris High Scorer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's Bucks roared from 14 points behind in the last 15 minutes last night to give Northwestern a 53 to 46 basketball beating in a bitterly fought encounter that saw two players ejected in the last minute of fighting.

The victory was Ohio State's second in three Western conference games and Northwestern's first setback in the same number.

The two players tossed out of the all game were Jack Pfeiffer, Ohio State center, who had sparked the Buck rally, and Max Morris, Northwestern center, who had scored 21 points for his team.

Ohio State held a 10 to 4 lead at one time during the first half but some great one-handed shooting by Bennie Schadler and Morris let the Wildcats take the lead at 13 to 12. From there they pulled away to a 24 to 17 halftime margin.

They were just as hot at the start of the last half and with about 15 minutes to go had widened their margin to 31 to 17.

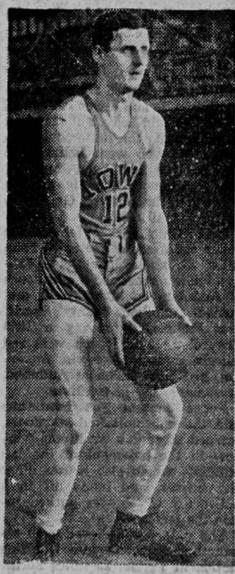

Pfeiffer went into the game at that point and Ohio State started driving back. With nine minutes to go, Don Grate stole the ball and raced in to cut the deficit to three points. The Bucks finally tied the count at 40-all with five minutes and 46 seconds to go.

Between halves, Wilfred Smith, sports writer for the Chicago Tribune, presented the Tribune's trophy, awarded annually to the most valuable football player in the Big Ten, to Les Horvath, Ohio State's All-America back.

Horvath, chosen by his teammates as the team's most valuable player, was selected as the best in the Big Ten by a committee of coaches and officials.

Wisconsin Nips Gophers

Patterson Sparks 46 to 37 Triumph; Gophers Drop Third

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin, gaining an even break in two Western conference basketball games, played a red hot first half and then coasted to a 46-37 victory over Minnesota last night. The defeat was the Gophers' third in four Big Ten contests.

Inspired by the return of Ray Patterson, their key man and principal scoring threat, Wisconsin raced at white heat tempo into a commanding 31 to 10 half time lead. After taking a 9-1 advantage, the Badgers permitted field goals by Ray Christesen and Walt Rucke before running the count to 24-6. Four points by Des Smith and a three by Bill Johnson made it 31-10 at the intermission.

Minnesota took the upper hand in the early moments of the second half and counted seven markers before Wisconsin again landed in the scoring column. The play was see-saw from here on in, with the Gophers having the edge on seven points by Gordon Muske and six by Arnie Lehman.

Don Rehfeldt's sharpshooting on rebounds enabled the Badgers to maintain a substantial lead although Minnesota at one time narrowed the gap to 40-31. Rehfeldt, Wisconsin's center, scored 12 points, 11 in the last half before leaving the tilt on five personal fouls. Guard Bill Johnson copped scoring honors, however, with 13 points on five baskets and three free throws.

The Gophers plainly showing the effects of a 52-33 defeat at the hands of Northwestern Friday. The night before, were paced by Arnie Lehman with 10 markers on four field goals and a two free throws.

Maybe So

Watch Those Hawkeyes

By BOB KRAUSE

WELL, THEY fooled us on Paul Hoffman last night, but the Iowa Hawkeyes helped a good deal to cover up the disgrace of a wrong guess. We took the view that Hoffman, supposedly the strongest threat that the Boilermakers could boast, would not only make the trip to Iowa City, despite his bad foot, but that he would help Coach Pops Harrison to enlarge that bald spot.

Well, the husky center did neither. In fact, as far as we know, he is in the hospital and unable to even walk without some pain. That would make us about 1,000 percent wrong. But, and we say it with pardonable pride, the Hawks may have covered up the error.

As against Notre Dame the Old Gold were facing a team which was of superior mettle. Purdue played exactly the kind of game which Coach Harrison predicted they would—a tribute to the scouting ability of Pops. The Boilermakers tried, rather ineffectually, to draw out the Hawkeye defense in order to set up fast drives at the basket. Iowa refused to bite at the bait whereupon Piggy Lambert's men were forced into a set attack.

Here the big height advantage of the Hawks came into play as they took complete control of the backboards—largely through the truly masterful play of big Clay Wilkinson without whom, we feel, Iowa would be an untied package of dynamite instead of a compact power.

We cannot praise the work of the older of the two brothers Wilkinson too much. His masterful control of the rebounds off both boards was the difference between an interesting contest and what was almost a complete rout. The Boilermakers were a well-coached outfit, but they could not cope with the Utah giant.

But to get back to an earlier thought from which we wandered in typical fashion. To us there seems no question now that the Hawkeyes are a team to be reckoned with on a national scale. As we said before, they have looked very bad against the sadder sisters which they have faced during these early stages of the campaign. But it was the Notre Dame affair which, for us, provided a line of what is to come. When the competition on a particular night is of high caliber the Old Golders rise to meet the threat, and, in our opinion, they will defeat the dragon in most cases.

Once again, it was the Hawk defense which told the story last night. Harrison has worked out a type of shifting zone which would befuddle the best puzle expert in the world. But a sly thought creeps in here. We have never known a team to be exactly injured by having a few members who could score baskets. The Hawks seem to have that power, too.

The next match for the sailors will be Tuesday night when the navy grapplers travel to Ottumwa to meet the Skyer wrestlers. The Badgers will meet the University of Iowa squad at Madison next Saturday.

NCAA Convention—
Stop Betting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic association called upon its members yesterday to make every effort to "dry up" sources of information for form sheets used in gambling on athletic contests and to persuade newspapers to refrain from publishing game odds.

The recommendation was made in a report by a special NCAA committee which has been investigating gambling on college sports events. The report was submitted, accepted and adopted as the NCAA and the National Football Coaches' association wound up their annual convention here.

Expressing "regret" at the prevalence of gambling on college games, particularly football and basketball, the NCAA voted to call on its members "to cooperate in the establishment of remedial measures."

It proposed that gamblers be barred from college games and that the schools seek to bring about a "discontinuance of the issuance of prediction charts."

Smith was elected head of the NCAA in a three-way contest with James D. Lynch of Cornell university and Dean R. W. Aigler of the University of Michigan. Lynch was the choice of the convention's nominating committee.

Rules on T-Formation

CHICAGO (AP)—The T-formation as played by schoolboy griders was given extra zip yesterday by the football rules committee of the national federation of state high school athletic associations.

The committee approved a recommendation making a T-formation quarterback eligible to receive forward passes whether or not he originally handles the ball and is less than a yard behind the center. Thus six players now can snag passes instead of only five as previously required in the same situation.

Cadets Smash Tigers, 74-38

Holland Gets 21 Points In Overwhelming Rout Of Missouri Five

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Iowa Naval Pre-Flight school presented a fast-rolling offense, which Joe Holland led as he scored 21 points, to defeat the University of Missouri, 74-38, on the basketball court here last night. Gene Kurash, with 15 points, was high for the Tigers while T. S. Ary and Charles Pugsley each gathered 12 for the visitors.

The navy outfit led after the first seven seconds, and most of the way its advantage was of 2-1 proportion. Both teams used a hectic fast-break attack through the early minutes, but the Missourians could not keep up with the furious scoring pace set by the Seahawks and by half-time were trailing, 18-39.

SUI Women Send Valentine Remembrances Under Mailing Deadline to Men Overseas

By AUDREY ROSS
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Today is the day that overseas valentines, packages and cards are due in the mail, but perhaps if you hurry downtown tomorrow morning, you can make the deadline before the last shipment goes out. Some university women have already sent remembrances, so maybe their ideas may help you to select something for your soldier, sailor or marine.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Better mail your valentines right away if you want them to reach your soldier sweetheart overseas by Valentine's day, Feb. 14. The majority of valentines mailed now can be delivered on time in all except the most distant theaters, the war department said Monday. All valentines must be sent in sealed envelopes and carry first-class postage rates.

A five-pound package without a request may be sent to a man in the navy, and an eight-ounce package may be sent to the army first class, providing it contains no candy or foodstuffs.

A T-shirt embroidered with silly red hearts and sox with the toe embroidered with the face of a girl with long yellow hair and green eyes is the clever touch added on the valentine present to Pvt. Bob Watkins, from Phyl Shambaugh, G of Clarinda. 'Course Phyl expects Bob to remove the hearts and flowers embroidered in bright colors on the shirt front and also up and down the heel of the sox before he wears them.

A standard gift especially suitable for Valentine's day is a picture of yourself, and Muriel Mansfield A3 of Moline, Ill., is sending hers to Lieut. (j. g.) Jack Murray in a double frame 5x7 dark maroon leather folder.

If your friend is in the country, a gift such as the one Marilyn Carepenter, A4 of Hamburg, is sending Midshipman Lawrence Convalescens Herman Wiegand, glass blower in the chemistry department, who broke his hip several weeks ago, is reported convalescing successfully in his home at 400 N. Clinton street.

Peck, U. S. N. R., at Ft. Schuyler, N. Y., is ideal for his leisure time. It consists of two decks of playing cards with the design on the card back her sorority crest.

Winifred Shields, A2 of Kansas City, Mo., is sending Pvt. Jack Thompson at Camp Roberts, Calif., a wool army-green scarf for his valentine. Cleverly boxed in a red and white pin-striped wrapping, it carries the thought to him on the day.

Naturally food, from cake to peanuts, is always welcome to someone in the navy. Variety boxes of nuts and candies are a good combination, providing the weight remains within the five-pound limit for overseas. Since foodstuffs over eight ounces without request are not acceptable for army men overseas, ideas such as airmail stationery and snapshots may be substituted. A novel idea in the food line is cheese, cream or loaf. Many soldiers have requested canned fruit juices of all kinds. Letters and more letters are prized above all.

And after this thought of what to buy, June Muhl, A1 of Oskaloosa, has decided to solve the Valentine's day problem by seeing Lieut. Krank Shook of Pensacola, Fla., in person come February.

State Guard Company To Go to Burlington

Company C of the Iowa State guard will attend the banquet and program of state guard day at Burlington, Monday, January 15. The company's three officers and 40 of the enlisted men plan to attend the activities.

Brown, Second Lieut. Robert Botwell, Sergt. Harold D. Ahlff, First Sergt. Edgar Stemmmons, Staff Sergt. Leslie Talbot, Sergt. John Ludwig, Corp. Herbert Taylor.

The men will be transported to Burlington in an Iowa City Coach Company's bus. Expenses for the trip will be paid by the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Nazis Shoot Americans

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY SOUTH OF MALMEDY (AP)—The frozen, bullet-shattered bodies of more than 100 Americans who were captured and then slaughtered in cold blood by the Germans, were found yesterday in a snow-carpeted field near the village of Geremont, a mile south of Malmédy.

The wanton slaughter, which was first disclosed by a handful of survivors, was confirmed by an infantry patrol which went out at night, located the field and dug into the snow. There the bodies were found, many still with their hands over their heads.

The bodies of the Americans, members of an artillery observation battalion, had lain in the field since they were mowed down after being captured by Germans who overran their positions in the breakthrough of Dec. 16.

The American infantry patrol, from the 119th regiment of the 30th division, counted more than 100 bodies. Because they were working in the dark, they were unable to give a more exact figure.

Couple Gets License

Ross J. Oesterreicher, Titonka, and Mary Margaret Brown, Iowa City, were issued a marriage license by the clerk of district court yesterday.

"In and Out and Round About"

If pins could have a theme song surely it would be "Together." They do go well that way and even better when chained proved Joan Chance, Gamma Phi, when she returned from vacation with hers linked to pin-mate Wendall Johnson, former AKK on campus.

Get a fresh start! There's nothing more pleasant and feminine than freshness from skin out. H AND H HOSIERY have a stock of lovely satin and rayon slips to provide daintiness for the most fastidious woman. An extra slip or two in your lingerie collection will be insurance for freshness.

Out of the newly initiated Phi Gam pledge class—one pin definitely hung, and we've been warned of four others coming up! The definitely known case is Alpha Xi Donice Waterman's new possession acquired from Lloyd Coomes last Wednesday night.

Something a little different for dates—bowling at PLAMOR BOWLING ALLEY. Both you and your date will enjoy the bowling and delicious fountain refreshments at PLAMOR BOWLING ALLEY.

A big weekend's in store for Tri Delt Tanny Burnett, who's off to Chicago in response to a long distance from Marine Don Winston. Don warned that he's been saving up during his two years overseas to "paint the town red!"

Still undecided as to where to eat this noon? Here's the answer in two words—FORD HOPKIN'S. You can't go wrong with the super menu they've planned. Take your choice between roast young chicken or roast sirloin of beef plus potatoes, a vegetable salad, rolls, coffee or tea, and one of FORD HOPKIN'S special desserts. Today they're featuring a long list of home made pastries that add the right climax to a Sunday dinner. Another good combination for an in-between-time snack is a ham salad on toast sandwich with one of FORD HOPKIN'S fountain specials. Their prices are modest and the service is cheerful—just the right atmosphere for a January Sunday.

Kappa Patty Miller, deciding the navy was o. k. for her, has accepted the Beta pin of Midshipman Dan Dobson, formerly at Syracuse University. We think Dan's mighty lucky, Pat!

New diamonds in the Theta House lessen their dateables by two. Jessie Sidney's now wearing the diamond of Delta Sig Johnny Stewart, and Cary Jones is the proud possessor of Phi Beta Chet Winter's diamond.

Included in the Christmas stocking of Currier lass Jane Holland was a diamond from navy man Johnny Shumate. One less dateable for the weekend deluge of Currier-dating cadets!

Been bothered with those mid-winter colds now that the temperature is hovering around the zero mark? Better see your physician right away, and then head for the DRUG SHOP with the prescription and see Mr. Rose. His excellent service and accuracy in filling this prescription will make the DRUG SHOP number one on your list for drug services.

January's icy blasts won't phase you if you're wearing a campus-flannel shirt from BREMER'S. You'll find all-wool or wool-and-rayon shirts in solid colors or fancy plaids at BREMER'S. The price range is $5.95 to $10.00.

Delta Sig Johnny Richards at long last decided to send his pin off campus and pinned his high school sweetheart, a Chi O at Drake.

Deciding this free lunch stuff is not for him, George Claussen settled down with Gamma Phi Jeanny Pyles by hanging his Sigma Chi pin Sunday.

Just to prove cadet dates do sometimes materialize—Bobbie Benson of Currier received a diamond last Sunday night from former cadet and present ensign, George Overby.
