U. S. Third Army Opens Assault in Luxembourg

British Overrun Four Towns

Germans Reinforce Positions as English Drive Gains Speed

PARIS (AP)—The British Second army, backed by American heavy artillery, slugged out gains of two and a half miles yesterday and overran four towns as its drive on a 28-mile front in western Germany's approaches to the Rhine rose in scope and intensity.

Simultaneously the United States Third army opened a new assault in northern Luxembourg, broke across the Sure river on a seven-mile front and plunged on two miles into the mountainous defenses on which the enemy must rely to hold his stricken positions in Belgium.

Luxembourg Offensive
With some infantry wearing white camouflage suits such as those worn on the Russian front, Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's doughboys fought in Diekirch, 17 miles northeast of Luxembourg city, and Bettendorf, three miles east, while other forces seized strategic heights beyond.

Battering up through the Holland appendix north of Aachen, the Tommies of Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey fought into a village six and a half miles south of Roermond, key to the German defenses at the apex of the Maas-Roer river triangle.

Further south in a new penetration of the Reich the British in an advance of over a mile were nearing a town three miles inside Germany.

Nazi Reinforcements
The Germans threw reinforcements into the mounting struggle, but the British drive appeared to be gathering momentum and was pressing the enemy back toward the Roer.

German defenses in the Ardennes wedge stiffened four miles north of St. Vith, but the United States Third army began a new assault against the southern flank by sending elements of two divisions across the Sure river in northern Luxembourg northeast of the duchy's capital.

Between the southern Luxembourg border and the Saar basin, the Third army was crushing a German pocket at Nennig and hammering off a counterattack while far to the southeast along the Rhine the enemy began building up his menacing bridgehead north of Strasbourg.

Chinese to Abandon India Training Center

CHUNGKING (AP)—India will be abandoned as a training base for Chinese troops, Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure told a press conference yesterday in describing a brightening military picture for embattled China.

The use of India as a training site no longer is necessary, the chief of staff of United States forces in the China theater asserted. He disclosed that a Chinese military training center at Ramgarh, in Bengal, already had been shifted to China.

McClure, who also is deputy chief of staff to Chiang Kai-Shek and vice-director of China's new war transport board, emphasized that the prospective opening of the Ledo-Burma road would not mean an unlimited flow of supplies to China.

McClure discounted the idea that United States carrier-based plane attacks on Japanese bases in China had nullified the loss of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's east China fields, but said the assaults "definitely upset the Japanese."

OPA 'Freezes' Sales of Shortening, Oils

WASHINGTON (AP)—The OPA last night ordered a three-day "freeze" of retail sales of lard, other shortening and salad and cooking oils, preparatory to resuming rationing of these commodities next Monday.

The sales freeze became effective at 12:01 a. m. today and will continue to the start of rationing at 12:01 Monday.

A ration value of two red points a pound was set for all the commodities affected.

Labor Draft Sponsors Seek Farm Backing

Marvin Jones Endorses Proposed National Service Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—With objectors still far from overpowered, sponsors of an 18-45 labor draft sought yesterday to enlist agricultural backing with testimony that it should aid farm labor.

The timetable which had called for house military committee approval yesterday was thrown overboard.

Another call for help—to General of the army George C. Marshall—in an effort to get specific army approval for the particular measure at hand, went unanswered. The army position for a general national service law, however, has been fully stated, and was reemphasized by Marshall Wednesday. He did not, however, specifically mention the pending measure in a message transmitted by President Roosevelt asking quick action on manpower controls.

Yesterday's testimony came from Marvin Jones, war food administrator, who endorsed the pending May bill for coercive action against men 18 to 45 who won't stay on war jobs but suggested changes to aid farmers.

Before calling in Jones, the committee sent an oral invitation to the army chief of staff to give his views.

Because of the pressure of other business Marshall declined the invitation to make a personal appearance.

Weather to Continue Warm Through Today

The question of the day is "How long will it last?" Meaning the warm weather that dropped in on Iowa Citizens for a short visit yesterday. According to those who are supposed to know it will last another day—maybe. No snow or rain in sight.

The temperature hit a new high for the year yesterday: 42 degrees at 2:30 p. m. The low yesterday morning was 26 but at 9 last night it was 25. The weather man advises not to hock your winter overcoat for a new spring outfit just yet.

Bulldog's Priority—

'Regrettable Error'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House yesterday stamped the high-priority travels of Elliott Roosevelt's bull mastiff as a "regrettable combination of errors"—but indicated no one will be put in the doghouse.

Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, said nobody in the executive offices had anything to do with giving the huge pet a rating high enough to get three servicemen bumped off an army transport plane in Memphis Jan. 11.

The president's second son, an airforce colonel, said in London he had nothing to do with air transportation priority for the dog "Blaze" which was sent to his bride, actress Faye Emerson, in Hollywood.

Stimson Announces 74,788 December Casualty Totals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The heavy fighting along the western front during December cost American ground forces 74,788 casualties, boosting total losses on that front since D-day to 332,912.

Secretary of War Stimson, releasing the figures yesterday at his news conference, said the December losses included most of the 52,554 casualties previously reported during the first three weeks—Dec. 15 to Jan. 7—of the big German counteroffensive in the Ardennes.

Against these American losses, Stimson estimated German casualties for the month at 110,000 to 130,000, including 50,000 taken prisoner by the allies.

The December casualties on both sides covered the allied drive against Germany early in December as well as the first two weeks of the German counteroffensive.

Overall army casualties during the war for all theaters as compiled by the war department up to Jan. 7 and reflecting fighting up to the early part of December, Stimson said, are 580,495.

Coupled with the latest navy total of 83,364, this puts United States combat casualties since Pearl Harbor at 663,859.

Yanks Clear Section of Way To Manila

Americans Find No Live Japanese in Captured Town

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Friday (AP)—The northern section of the main highway to Manila opened for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's steamroller early yesterday morning when the Sixth army captured Urdaneta, 27 road miles southeast of Lingayen gulf, after the first action even approaching battle magnitude fought in the nine-day old Luzon campaign.

A five-mile advance down the central Luzon plain by another Yank column meantime captured Panique, a road junction just 12 miles from the important city of Tarlac. Tarlac is just 70 road miles from Manila.

Enemy Tank Concentration
Urdaneta, key town on the main Manila-Baguio highway was taken only after American mobile guns and armor had smashed a concentration of enemy tanks and artillery cleverly concealed in bamboo thickets along the approaches.

When American infantrymen moved into the town in force at dawn they found no live Japanese, and charred remains of at least seven enemy tanks as well as a number of blasted guns.

The remainder of the enemy force, which at Urdaneta put up the first real fight of the campaign, was believed to have fled southwestward during the night into the low Cabaruan hills with the fast-driving Americans in close pursuit.

Drive Slowed
Despite the light resistance reported encountered along this route, the southward push apparently has slowed up, possibly to enable the Yanks to consolidate their positions and bring up supplies.

MacArthur's communique today said the Americans were moving on Agoo, six miles north of the Damortis road junction on the east side of Lingayen gulf. Agoo itself is not of any particular strategic importance but was the center of the main Japanese landing in December, 1941.

Stiff fighting continued to the east along the eight-mile stretch of road between Rosario and Pozzobuffo.

MacArthur's communique disclosed that American planes were operating off the airfield at Lingayen.

Death Decreed Palestinians

CAIRO (AP)—Eliahou Bet Sour and Eliahou Hakim, two young Palestinian Jews who confessed the assassination of Lord Moyne, were sentenced to death in a tense Egyptian court yesterday and they appeared utterly stunned.

The two self-styled patriots will pay with their lives for the murder of the British minister of state resident in the middle east and his chauffeur, Lance Corporal Fuller, who were shot down on a Cairo street last Nov. 6.

The president of the tribunal faced the court yesterday and read a brief statement in which he said, "After considering this case in terms of article 49, the court has decided to send the papers to the mufti."

Those brief words meant death for Bet Sour and Hakim. Bet Sour's face turned brick red. He speaks Arabic fluently and understood what it meant. Hakim seemed puzzled. A moment later he too realized he was going to die.

Small German Force Crosses Senio River, Attacked by British

ROME (AP)—A small German force has fought back across the Senio river—part of the Adriatic coastal waterways which form the enemy's winter defense line—and is under attack by the British Eighth army, the allied command announced yesterday.

The bridgehead was planted near Fusignano, Senio river stronghold 13 miles northeast of Faenza in an area where the Germans recently have been forced into a fighting retreat, and coincided with stepped-up enemy patrol lunges all along the Adriatic.

Clearing skies Wednesday released allied warplanes, which pounded enemy communications in northern Italy—particularly the Brenner pass—and targets in Yugoslavia.

Churchill Addresses Commons Proclaims 'Solidarity' of Allies—

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, proclaiming the "military solidarity of the three great allies," declared yesterday that the entire eastern, western and Italian fronts will henceforth be kept "in constant flame until the final climax is reached."

He called on Germany and Japan to capitulate now. Although standing firmly upon the allies' terms of "unconditional surrender," Churchill pointed out to the enemy that enforcement of these terms "in no way relieves the victorious powers of all their obligations to humanity, or of their duties as civilized and Christian nations."

Addressing the house of commons for two hours in one of the greatest of the many great speeches of his career, Churchill—sometimes bitter and pugnacious, sometimes smooth and conciliatory—discussed British-Soviet relations, Greece, Yugoslavia, Italy, the military picture, "spheres of influence" and Britain's over-all aims.

In a sweeping bow to the American doughboy, Churchill said that the Yanks in reversing Germany's winter offensive in the Ardennes had "done almost all the fighting and suffered almost all the losses" in "what is undoubtedly the greatest American battle of the war."

Churchill made these other main points:

1. Yugoslavia—Britain and Russia may have agreed that unless young King Peter agrees to a regency within the next few days, he will be tossed overboard.
2. Greece—Absolving Moscow of causing the troubles involving the leftist ELAS forces, he declared these were Trotskyist-Communists "dirtier than the Germans."

3. Italy—The Germans will pull out or be thrown out of Italy within a few months.
4. Britain's aims—"We seek no territory, we covet no oil fields, we demand no bases for the forces of the air or of the sea."
5. Goals for freed small nations—"We have but one principle: 'Government of the people, by the people, for the people set up on a basis of free universal suffrage, and elections with secrecy of ballot and no intimidations.'"
6. Forthcoming "big three" conference—"I have great hopes of this conference."

British Patrols Drive Closer to Mandalay

Japanese Withdraw East of Irrawaddy As British Advance

CALCUTTA (AP)—British patrols have slashed almost to the edge of Mandalay where the Japanese are feverishly digging in along a new line anchored on this second largest city of Burma, front dispatches to allied headquarters said yesterday.

Japanese forces are digging into jungle positions across an arc of land near the city along a big, right-angle bend in the Irrawaddy river, patrols of Lieut. Gen. William J. Slim's British 14th army reported.

The main Japanese forces have withdrawn to the east of the Irrawaddy—the side of the river on which Mandalay is situated—and the enemy is ferrying more equipment from the west to the east banks, said front dispatches to the headquarters here of the allied land forces of southeast Asia.

At last reports 14th army units were about 25 miles from the big central Burma city in their southeastern drive from the Shwedo district.

Fifty miles to their west other British units are closing in on an isolated Japanese garrison in the town of Monywa.

FDR Prepares Brief Address For Inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt got busy yesterday on the nutshell inaugural address he will deliver tomorrow.

Because this is wartime, the whole inauguration ceremony will be compressed into 20 minutes and the speech into five. So Roosevelt is trying to confine his oratory to 500 words.

The committee handling all the myriad details of the inauguration met at the White House in the afternoon and settled odds and ends of problems that always bob up at the last minute. In another room, the White House Correspondents association started issuing press credentials.

Church services preceding the inauguration will be held this year in the east room of the White House.

A two-inch bronze inaugural medal was presented to Roosevelt yesterday. It bears on its face a new portrait of the chief executive by the noted sculptor Jo Davidson. On the reverse is depicted the United States Constitution in full sail.

Allied Planes Support Russian Offensive

RAF, Yanks Hit Nazi Supply Lines On Eastern Front

LONDON (AP)—The German radio reported that allied bomber formations were ranging over upper and lower Silesia last night, indicating that the RAF had gone to the support of the Russian onslaught by hammering enemy supply lines on the eastern front.

Prague in Czechoslovakia left the air after signaling the approach of enemy bombers.

The force possibly could be from Italy, but it was more likely that Lancasters were hitting Silesia after a long journey from England. Russian night bombers might also be in action.

A small force of Flying Fortresses based in Britain bombed the Kaiserlautern railyards which feed supplies to German troops on the Saar front yesterday while medium bombers and fighterbombers based in Italy struck at Communications in northern Italy.

The only opposition for the British based bombers was the weather, with driving rain storms in their homeward path. The planes from Italian bases operated in generally good weather.

Advances 30 Miles in Day

Drives to Outskirts Of Krakow, Captures 2,000 Localities

LONDON, Friday (AP)—The German radio reported last night that the Red army had reached the Silesian frontier 250 miles southeast of Berlin as Soviet formations in history's greatest offensive ripped through Nazi defenses clear across Poland, capturing nearly 2,000 localities with 30-mile advances in 24 hours.

The Russians drove into the outskirts of Krakow, big bastion in the southwest, reached the area of Lodz, Poland's second city, on three sides, and drove to within 13 miles of lower German East Prussia.

(A Berlin broadcast early today, recorded by CBS, said "Krakow has been evacuated.")

Capture Szarleyka
Moscow announced the capture of Szarleyka, 12 miles from the Silesian frontier and four miles northwest of Czesochowa, but did not confirm the Berlin report that the border had been reached.

Other dispatches said that Soviet spearheads, however, already had crossed into industrially-rich Silesia, Germany's "Ruhr of the east," and a Moscow dispatch said that Soviet planes and artillery were laying down a terrific barrage on German soil.

Striking powerfully in northern Poland the Second White Russian army overran more than 1,000 localities.

260 Miles From Berlin
In central Poland the First White Russian army drove to within 260 miles of Berlin in an advance 40 miles west of fallen Warsaw, capturing 500 towns and villages and sparing to within 30 miles of Lodz.

The First Ukraine army, hitting from the south, drove to within 22 miles of imperilled Lodz, and was reported officially to be within 12 to 40 miles of the Silesian frontier on a 65-mile front between the Szesochowa and Krakow sectors.

The frontier conflict apparently raged west of Czesochowa, captured yesterday by the Russians, in an area only 78 miles from Breslau, Silesian capital.

Senator Mercer Proposes State Employe Annuity

DES MOINES (AP)—A retirement system for state employes, and an annuity and investment board to administer it, would be created under a bill introduced in the upper chamber today by seven senators.

Membership in the system would be compulsory for all state employes except elected or appointed officers, teachers "who may be included now or in the future in a teachers' state retirement of pension system," university and college professors and temporary or part-time employes, the bill stated.

The bill provides for a three percent monthly deduction from wages to purchase an annuity for the employe.

In addition the employe would receive a pension from the state of not less than $720 or more than $1,200 a year.

Senator Leroy S. Mercer (D., Iowa City) proponent of the measure, said it was patterned after a retirement plan now in effect in Wisconsin.

U. S. Submarines Bag 24 Japanese Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—American submarines have slashed a big new gap in the Japanese fighting fleet and sea supply lines, the navy announced yesterday.

A communique disclosed that undersea raiders ranging deep into Pacific and far eastern waters had bagged an additional 24 enemy vessels including four combatant ships.

'A Businessman Looks at Literature'

T. H. Foster Shows Book Collection

Ottumwa Man Speaks to Group in Iowa Union

The informal atmosphere of Iowa Union library with its fireplace and walls lined with books furnished an appropriate background for T. H. Foster's address last night on "A Businessman Looks at Books and Literature." President Virgil Hancher introduced Foster, who was a guest of the school of journalism.

A nationally known collector of rare books, manuscripts and bookplates, Foster urged the group to browse among a number of the books which he brought with him to display. He remarked that "Books are not much use unless they are handled and sometimes read."

We reprint the complete text of his lecture.

It strikes me that the height of presumption may have been attained when a plain business man essays to write or talk about books or literature at any time. More so, perhaps, in this day, and time of war, political and economic turmoil, when men whose duties leave little leisure for cultural pursuits find it difficult to take their minds off business, and to enjoy the relaxation that reading and study bring to the busy brain.

It is not unusual, however, to find busy men—and I mean men engaged in business pursuits—deeply and sincerely interested in literature, books, art, and writing. In fact, many of our leading industrialists have been, and are, writers, and as such have made names for themselves in the field of authorship. The products of their labors, have, in most instances, been along specialized lines; nevertheless, they reflect the wide and cultural reading and study that have made them valuable additions to our literature. Although not recommended for general reading they do contain inspiration and helpful guidance, especially for those who would follow a business career. Wendell Wilkie's "One World" and Bardsley Ruml's "Tomorrow's Business" are recent examples—there are hundreds of others.

Joys of Modest Book Collector

But it is not my intention to talk to you about business or books on business, but rather to impart to you some of the joys that have come to me as a modest book collector as a result of 40 years of collecting, reading, and at rare times, writing about these delightful subjects.

To begin with, I want to say a word for reading, and to propose that useful reading is largely confined to books. "Reading maketh a full man," someone said. Emerson, "If we encountered a man of rare intellect, we should ask what books he read." Bacon in his Essays, "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, some few to be chewed and digested." Books, always books, and never a reference to newspapers, magazines, dime novels, or the Congressional Record!

But wait, I am not condemning newspapers and magazines—they have their places, and as for dime novels—the old Five and Ten Cent Beadles, I will have a good word for them later on.

The young man or young woman who reads nothing but newspapers and magazines and neglects the world's best books is making one of the biggest mistakes of life; and this is especially true of you who are here getting a university education to fit yourselves for the better things of life—either in the professions or in industrial pursuits. If your desire is for money making, and that alone, you may be able to "get by" as the saying goes and be a success in life without culture—but you will be missing half the enjoyment—perhaps more—that life has in store for you.

Every Student Needs Latin

Let me put in a word here—strictly as a business man—for the dead languages—Latin and Greek. I will not speak specifically of Greek because, unfortunately, I did not study it, my "classical" education—such as it was—being confined to the regular run of Latin grammar, Caesar, Virgil and Cicero. Now, if there is any student within the sound of my voice who thinks that because he is going to be a business man, rather than a teacher, doctor or lawyer that he doesn't need Latin (and I have known students who thought that) let me tell him that he is terribly mistaken, because, aside from the valuable training which language study imparts to the mind, there are, as you all know, in the dead languages, the roots of our own words in common every day use. A man who has studied Latin can write a better business letter, can more quickly grasp the implications of a contract, can speak more fluently, than the man who has had no Latin at all.

But I am getting off my subject and preaching a sermon, and that is not what I am here for. I want to talk to you about the pleasures of collecting—collecting books, because a collection of books is the greatest of all collections, and I will except none. Collections of paintings, sculpture, and other works of art—museums generally—are wonderful institutions, but after all the library—public or privately owned—as a means of enlightening the public or adding to the enjoyment of the individual owner is preeminent.

Hopes to Be At Dedication

I understand that there is a plan on foot for an adequate library building here at the University; and it is my hope that it may materialize as soon as conditions permit. A modern library building, filled with books and properly staffed has been needed here for many years. May I live to attend the dedication of such a project!

I want to urge every student at this University to start a collection of books. Begin by owning one volume, even if it is "Gone With the Wind" or "Robinson Crusoe." Many times have I heard book lovers say, "But it is an expensive hobby, I can't afford it." That is a mistake, it is not expensive, and if purchases are made gradually, and with intelligent discrimination through the years, a library is soon built up; and the satisfaction of seeing it grow compensates for the money put into it. Why, some of you folks could accumulate a fine library—first editions, too—with the money spent on movies, ice cream sodas, lipstick, and bobby socks! Please understand however I am not suggesting that you should do without these necessities of life! Once you get the "fever" you will soon learn to discriminate in your buying of books and buy those writers whose books are collectors' items. Ordinarily, first editions of their works cost no more than others—but their value increases as the years go by and in time your "first" may have increased (by auction room records) five to ten times their original cost and frequently one-hundred times. A first edition, first issue, for example of "Tom Sawyer" published at $1.00 brings $100.00 to $200.00 in the auction room today, depending on condition and "points."

Style Is Trademark Of Individuality

There are those, perchance, who will not accept this estimate of Ruskin's, because style is an elusive thing and sometimes difficult to define; and those who would write either as journalists, novelists, biographers, or historians, should cultivate it and so infuse their work with it that it becomes known to readers and critics as belonging to them. Style, it might be said, is the trademark of individuality—the hall mark of authorship. Listen to Voltaire, "A great writer possesses, so to speak, an individual and unchangeable style, which does not permit him easily to preserve the anonymity."

Books Enshrine Essence of Age

Collecting, too, is a potent means of multiplying our contacts—it carries us back into the past, diversifies the present, and links us with the future. To quote

Bacon again, "Antiquities are the remnants of history which have casually escaped the shipwreck of time." They are more than that, as collectors agree, because they enshrine the essence of the age in which they had their origin. Old books more than anything else, carry us back to the thoughts and feelings of their creators.

Let me make this suggestion to beginners in book collecting, and to those who have a writing career in mind. By all means, begin to collect reference books, especially those useful for authorship. Without such books, at times, you may be lost. Ordinarily, they are not expensive, especially good second-hand copies which can be picked up in the second-hand book stores. Most reference books—encyclopedias excepted—hardly ever go out of date.

Book catalogues can be had for the asking, and are invaluable as bibliographical reference books. Constant reading of them will make any book lover a real bibliophile, or bibliopog, if bindings are the interest. A word of caution in connection with buying rare, scarce, or first edition books from catalogues: Long has raged the controversy between book sellers and buyers over the true meaning of the words "rare," "scarce," "mint," etc. The condition of a book is discernible by the sense of sight; rarity by none of the senses, except that of common sense aided by a reasonable amount of experience, plus a strong leaven of scepticism.

'Scarce or Rare' Depends on Period

Whether a first edition is scarce or rare depends on the period in which it was printed and the number of copies appearing annually in the auction rooms. Here are some examples: "Scarlet Pimpernel," "Gone to Earth," "Man of Devon," "South Wind," are rare. With the exception of very recent novels by popular authors published in large numbers, all firsts in new condition—"Mint," as cataloguers call them—are scarce. "Man of Property," "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," "Youth," and "Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes" are scarce. But there is no hard and fast rule, because regardless of how books are catalogued and priced by the dealers, the old law of supply and demand governs, and the auction rooms in London and New York are to books what the stock exchanges are to stocks and bonds. Dr. Rosenbach, bidding against the British Museum and London dealers in April, 1916, bought the original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland" for $77,000.00. The supply was limited—only one copy. The demand tremendously competitive—the old law of supply and demand working as it always works, in spite of buyers like Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, and Maurice Hewlett. Quiller-Couch, Cambridge lecturer, professor of English Literature at the University of Cambridge, died within the past few months.

Recommends Works Of Quiller-Couch

His Cambridge lectures should be read by every student of English, and especially those who look forward to writing careers. If it is journalism that beckons you cannot afford to miss reading his Cambridge lecture on "Jargon." Our newspapers, our magazines are filled with jargon—jargon that enervates the writer's hold on the reader's mind. It was against this slipshod, platitudinous style of writing that Quiller-Couch thundered in his lectures to the English classes at Cambridge. He said, "If your language be jargon, your intellect, if not your whole character, will almost certainly correspond."

I mentioned Maurice Hewlett—another of our modern essayists who has written many delightful things, and whose style is worthy of imitation. I like his "Road in Tuscany" and "Wiltshire." Essays especially. But for essay style which thrills, go back 75 years to James Anthony Froude, historian, editor, essayist, and read his "Short Studies on Great Subjects" in two volumes. I envy any one who has not read his "Story of the Spanish Armada," "The Times of Erasmus and Luther," and "The Book of Job"; there is a literary treat in store for those who know not Froude and read him. But enough about style.

At the beginning I said I would have a good word to say about dime novels. These are the old paper back stories for boys which Beadle & Co. began to publish in 1880. Number one, entitled "Ma-laeska, the Indian Wife of the White Hunter," is now excessively rare and a collector's item, and hasn't appeared in the auction room for years. I will admit I used to read dime novels myself, but not with parental blessing. Having no stiff covers, and being easily folded, they were easy to carry around in one's pocket to be read surreptitiously when opportunity presented. Boys who read these thrillers, chief among which

Frederick, Voltaire, The 'Wiley Foxes'

But let us go back a few years to the end of the 17th century and the beginning of this pseudo-philosophy from which Nazism sprang—surprisingly enough in England. Previously, Alexander Pope had written; "One truth is clear—whatever is, is right." Deism they called it later, a conglomeration ofisms of various kinds and breeds, which served "first as a cloak and later as an excuse for private immorality and social degeneracy."

During this period, Voltaire, Rousseau and Montesquieu lived for some time in England. They were patronized by the intelligentsia in London and elsewhere, and, returning to France, took with them this new sceptical philosophy, which became the philosophy of the French Revolution. "Liberty! Equality! Fraternity!" became the battle cry.

The Poison Giving Birth to Nazism

It was this philosophy with which Voltaire poisoned the German mind. It was this poison which filled the volumes in Frederick's library—it was the poison which gave birth to Nazism!

If any student here is seeking a subject for an essay or thesis, he will find this study of Voltaire's influence on the German mind not only interesting, but timely. Read Pope and the history of England covering the 100 years beginning with 1650, the Life of Voltaire, Confessions of Rousseau, Life of Frederic the Great, and Carlyle's French Revolution. It will be startling, but there is enough historical background to command attention.

Much can be said about style in writing, but no one can tell you exactly how to attain a style that will mark you as a successful author. I am neither writer nor critic, and as a famous and beloved columnist once remarked; "All I know is what I see in the papers," all I know about style in writing the English language is that which I have observed—rather than learned—by reading—especially the essayists whose style is worthy of close and particular attention. Here is a list of authors whose style should be studied; Chaucer, Shakespeare, Johnson, Addison, DeQuincey, Goldsmith, Emerson, and of course, the King James edition of our English Bible. There are more modern writers whose books should command our attention, especially those of essayists like Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, and Maurice Hewlett. Quiller-Couch, Cambridge lecturer, professor of English Literature at the University of Cambridge, died within the past few months.

Having no stiff covers, and being easily folded, they were easy to carry around in one's pocket to be read surreptitiously when opportunity presented. Boys who read these thrillers, chief among which were the "Diamond Dick," "Nick Carter," "Buffalo Bill," "James Boys," "Pluck and Luck," "Work and Win," series were supposed to be on the road to hell. As a matter of fact, I have never heard of any dime novel reader who went there, at least because he read Beadles!

Denounces Current 'Comic' Magazines

Compared to the trash that children are reading today the old dime novels seem harmless enough. I refer to the flood of so-called comic strip weekly magazines, most of which are not comics at all, but have largely to do with crime, fantastic doings of more fantastic and impossible people, and which have an alarming appeal to the imagination of children five to 12 years of age. Fortunately, they steer clear of sex, and that, possibly, is their one redeeming feature—if there is any at all—like the dime novel, however, they are sure to die a natural death. If I were younger, I would start collecting them; some day they will be valuable as collectors' items.

Discusses Works Of Shakespeare

There are many collectors of dime novels; I know one who has over 12,000 different titles, and there is a very fine collection in the New York public library. Prices range from about $2 to $5, according to scarcity. Quite an interesting "ana" has arisen from the hobby of collecting these old timers and there are bibliographies and check lists to be had if they appeal to your collecting instincts. At the best they are only harmless fun for the true bibliophile. It is interesting to know that the word "leuth" was coined by a prolific dime novel writer—Harlan P. Halsey, who wrote nearly 650 of them, and amassed a fortune.

Advices 'Association' Copy Collection

One of the pleasantest paths to follow in book collecting is that which leads to the accumulation of so-called "association" copies of books by well-known writers. If I should make one of you a present of any new, two-dollar book and inscribe in it that it was presented by me to you, you would have an association copy—but a second-hand copy worth possibly one dollar; but if Charles Dickens wrote and signed an inscription in one of his books—"Pickwick" for example—presenting it to Wilkie Collins, its value would be enhanced possibly one thousand fold, if offered in the auction room today.

A book is an association copy if it is autographed by the author; if it has inserted a letter written by the author or the recipient of the book from the author; or if it is a book from the library of a famed author, containing either his book-plate or other visible evidence of ownership. Unscrupulous dealers sometimes insert an author's ex libris in one of his books and palm it off as a genuine "association" copy. Fortunately, this type of dealer is rarely met with—book buyers know more tricks than do the sellers!

To beginners in book collecting, I would offer this word of advice.

Select a subject or author in which or whom you are interested and specialize. Do not, however, confine your collecting to one writer or one subject. While specializing—generalize. No one wants a library full of editions of Dickens, or books on the care of cats to the exclusion of the general run of fiction, history, travel, biography, reference, etc.

Specialize, Generalize Says Collector

If you decide, for example, to specialize in the works and editions of Shakespeare, a very wide and interesting field lies before you; possibly a wider field than any other in literature. Editions of the bard, without number, biographies, bibliographies, works of Stratford interest and association overflow our libraries and book stores. First and second folios, are of course, out of the reach of most collectors and belong, anyway, in rare book collections of the richly endowed libraries or private collections of the millionaire.

Discusses Works Of Shakespeare

Permit me to digress here to ask a question and propose an answer. Is it possible that Shakespeare, of Stratford-on-Avon, the butcher boy who could not write his own name and who left not a single written line of manuscript, or book, did not write the plays and poems generally attributed to him?

The answer is that it is not only possible, but probably true. I will go further and say that now, although it is general currency, it is very difficult for an informed and unprejudiced person to accept the Stratford view of the authorship. There is ample evidence, irrefutable historical evidence—that William Shakespeare was not the author of the so-called Shakespeare plays, poems and sonnets. Did time permit I would present the evidence but that is another and longer story.

'Our Age Is A Collecting Age'

Book lovers and bibliophiles have been criticised by some writers for the time and money they spend on first editions, fine editions, rare books and old; the argument being that they have no relation to literature. Bibliophiles they confuse with bibliomaniacs (who, by the way, if they were not crazy about books, would be crazy anyway and possibly harmful). Arnold Bennett, writing years ago on this subject, said, "The point is that our age is a collecting age. And why should it not be? Only rare, beautiful, historical, odd or scandalous objects are collected. To collect them is a virtue—for which the next generation will thank us, and financially reward our executors and trustees."

And finally Boswell: "Sir," said Doctor Johnson, "a mere literary man is a dull man. A man who is solely a man of business is a selfish man, but when the literary and the commercial are united they make a very respectable man."

GI's to Have New Sense of Values

Information First Speaker Discusses Veteran Adjustment

"The American serviceman who wants to come home to things as they were will have to face the bitter reality that he won't be prepared for them," declared Dr. Coleman R. Griffith to an Informa First audience of more than 300 yesterday.

"While the GI has been away, he has acquired a new sense of values. Parents cannot expect their sons and daughters to be the same as they were when they left," he added. The problem of adjustment of the veteran to his family will be no greater than the family's problem of adjustment to the serviceman.

Dr. Griffith, advisor to the war manpower commission on psychological problems, stressed the idea that no veteran wants sympathy. "He wants to be taken as a human being and to become a member of the community again as fast as he can," the speaker stated in discussing "The Psychological Adjustment of Returned Veterans and Their Families."

How to bridge the gap of the veteran's first few days at home is the greatest problem his family must face. "The ten million youth who have new characters, new personalities, cannot be expected to do all the adjusting," Dr. Griffith warned.

"Something has happened to these men and women whose characters have had to be hammered into weapons of war. They have met reality directly," said the speaker, who has worked with veterans as an administrator at the University of Illinois. Young Americans who have become fighting men must have aid in regaining a sense of security and prestige lost when their goals were shattered by the war.

The veteran will still want respect as a person who counts in the scheme of American life. He must be in close touch with someone who can help solve his problems to prevent fear and anxiety. "Since young men and women have gone into service from different kinds of homes and have met different experiences, their problems will differ," Dr. Griffith asserted.

LaVonne Loney Entertains Sister

In honor of her sister, Darlene Loney, bride-elect, LaVonne Loney, 823 Bowery street, will entertain at a miscellaneous shower in her home tonight at 8 o'clock. She will be assisted by her mother, Mrs. Thomas Loney.

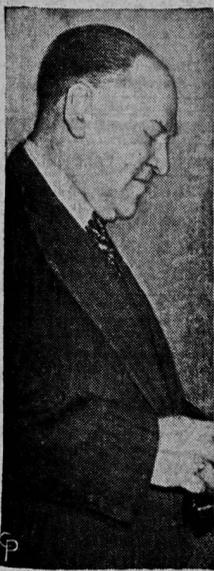

The guests will include Helen Cannon, Marjorie Donohue, Mary Agnes Duffy, Mrs. Eugene Duffy, Mrs. Paul Ipsen, Pat Eisenhofer, Jean Eisenhofer, Mrs. Eddie Landversicht, Mary Margaret Hall, Jerry Logan, Mrs. Edward O'Brien, Mrs. Leo Lynch, Mrs. Hal Moss, Kathleen Sedlacek and Agnes Fitzpatrick.

After several games and contests have been played, gifts will be presented in a basket decorated with the bride-elect's colors, pink and blue. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Loney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Loney, 823 Bowery street, will become the bride of Donald John Zeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zeman, route 4, Tuesday.

Never hang your sweaters on hangers. Lay them flat in a drawer so they will keep their shape.

U High Names 5 to Society

Initiation ceremonies for five new members of the Junior National Honor society were held at a special University high school assembly yesterday morning.

Initiates are Fritz Harshbarger and Tom Hulme, ninth grade; Mary Ladd, Robert Ojemann and Susan Winter, eighth grade.

Students from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades are considered for the honor by a faculty committee headed by Dr. Vernon Price. Selections are made from the scholastic high ten percent of the classes. Students are judged on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship, citizenship and service.

Past members of the society, Bob Daykin and Lombard Sayre, assisted John Carson, a ninth grade member presenting the candlelight ceremony.

Another initiation will be held at the end of the semester.

World Student Service Fund Completes Book Collections, Opens Drive for Funds

By MARY OSBORNE Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Members of the war finance committee of the University Women's association are now collecting the books contributed by students to the World Student Service Fund drive for books for American servicemen in foreign prison camps. Book collection centers in Iowa Union, Schaeffer hall, Bremer's clothing store and in housing units have been well filled with textbooks and fiction for prisoners of war, according to Margaret Shuttleworth, A3 of New York, chairman of the drive.

A goal of $3,500 has been set by members of the WSSF student committee for the fund's campus drive to be held Feb. 11-18. Student organizations are cooperating with the WSSF central committee to make the drive as campus-wide as possible.

Phyllis Hedges, A3 of Iowa City, has been named by the campus central committee to take over the chairmanship left vacant by Dean Lierle, who was inducted into army service before the opening of the second semester. Bonita Lansing, A3 of Iowa City, replaces Jack Fickel, M1 of Henderson, as treasurer for the campaign. Helen Pitz, A2 of Middle Amana, was chosen as secretary of the committee to replace Miss Hedges.

The World Student Service Fund is an educational and fund-raising organization which operates primarily in the colleges and universities of the United States in order to raise money for world student relief. It goes to students and faculty who are victims of war in all parts of the world.

It is an international, interracial, non-political and non-sectarian, being based upon a belief that students have a special responsibility for fellow students around the world.

The work of war student relief began in 1937 when the Far Eastern Student Emergency Fund raised money for students in war-torn China. With the spread of the war to Europe, the European Student Service fund was organized early in 1940. Later that same year, the two funds were merged into the World Student Service fund.

As the war has spread to other nations, the fund has expanded its activity to meet needs in all parts of the world. In 1943-44, a total of $238,000 was raised for this work.

In addition to the money sent overseas by the WSSF for student war relief, books are sent to Geneva, Switzerland, to be distributed to Americans in prison and internment camps in Europe. Books, clothing and medical supplies are shipped to students in Russia.

The WSSF campaign on the University of Iowa campus is one of several on Iowa college campuses. Grinnell college last year raised $1,500 for student war relief. Working with representatives of campus organizations in planning group projects, the university committee is directing an appeal to students to reach the campaign figure of $3,500 this year.

Books Also Sent

Buying war bonds, another war time activity of the Eagles, has been carried on vigorously by the Iowa City organization. To date, $30,000 in bonds has been purchased by this arie, independent of individual purchases by members.

Bonds bought by aries throughout the country total in excess of $40,000,000, according to Kritt.

Although 72 names appear on the Eagle armed forces honor roll in the club rooms at 222 1/2 E. Washington street, membership in the organization has increased this year.

Quota of new members for fiscal year ending June 1, 1945, is 70. Already the Eagles have initiated 123 new members and are now striving to double their quota.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has a total membership of nearly 1,000,000, according to Kritt.

State F.O.E. president, Larry J. Lechty, resident of Iowa City and trustee of the local arie, serves on two national committees besides conducting his state and local business.

He is on the national finance committee and was recently appointed by the grand arie to a committee on post-war stimulation of employment for ex-servicemen.

Local officers besides Lechty are: John Lemons, junior past worthy president; Cliff B. Kritt, worthy president; William Jacobs, worthy vice-president; Loyal Burkett, chaplain; William Hartsock Jr., conductor; Max Ingalls, inside guard; Anton Jiras, outside guard; Ray Potter and A. P. McGuire, trustees, and Harold Franklin, secretary.

Two Local Women Fete Bride-Elect, Edith Evans, Tonight

Feting Edith Evans, bride-elect, Mrs. Gertrude Fuhrmeister and Jennie Kinsinger will entertain at a miscellaneous shower tonight in the Knights of Pythias hall. Approximately 50 guests will be included in the courtesy.

Miss Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve T. Evans, 603 Benton street, will become the bride of Robert LeRoy Dahne, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dahne, 646 S. Dodge street, Tuesday at the Presbyterian church.

Glocklers Out-of-Town

Prof. George Glockler, 621 Holt avenue, will leave for Chicago today to attend the meeting of the local section of the Electro-Chemical society.

Mrs. Glockler left for Ames yesterday to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heine.

Mrs. J. B. Martin

Mrs. J. B. Martin, 405 S. Dodge street, is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Newbold of Richmond, Ind. Before returning she also will visit friends in Indianapolis, Ind.

Recent Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Anciaux and family and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jondle and son, Jimmy, all of West Liberty, were the recent guests of Mrs. Margaret Duwa, 613 Ronalds street.

Dinner Guests

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Wagner, 511 Ronalds street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wagner and daughter, Mary Kay, at dinner last night.

Rainbows to Install Officers Sunday Night

The regular business meeting of the Rainbows girls will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 in the Masonic Temple. Sunday at 7:30 p. m. an installation of officers will be held in the Masonic Temple. Darlene Barker will be installed as worthy advisor. The ceremony is open to the public.

Prof. Wilbur Schramm Selected to Represent Journalism Schools

SUI Director Named By National Council On Radio Journalism

Prof. Wilbur Schramm, director of the University of Iowa's school of journalism, has been selected to represent schools of journalism on a newly-formed National Council on Radio Journalism.

The six-man group which will hold its first meeting in Chicago, Jan. 25, has been created to promote closer cooperation between schools and the radio industry, to establish professional standards for training of radio newsmen and radio writers and to study relations of newspaper and radio training.

Other members of the council and Paul White, director of public affairs and news broadcasts for CBS; William Brooks, director of news and special events for NBC; Arthur Stringer, director of promotion and circulation for the National Association of Broadcasters; Karl Koepfer, managing director of KMBC, Kansas City, and E. R. Vodeboncoeur, program director of WSYR, Syracuse, N. Y.

Former Boxer To Speak

Guest speaker at the regular Friday noon luncheon of the Masonic lodge today will be Lieut. Bob Becker of the United States navy. Now stationed at the navy pre-flight school here, Lieutenant Becker has served in the Pacific on an aircraft carrier.

With a history of boxing activity behind him, Becker at one time was boxing commissioner of the state of New York, and formerly coached at New York university.

While he was commissioner in New York, Mickey Walker, Benny Leonard and Red Herring became national boxing champions, and Becker is also given much of the credit for giving Ray (Sugar) Robinson, a coming boxer today, his start in that field.

Prior to his entry into the navy, Becker was associated with the public school system in Albany, N. Y.

Ardis Froyd Marries Ens. Russell Bryan In Candlelight Ceremony at Villisca

In a candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with holiday greens tied with white and silver ribbon bows, and banked with ferns and white tapers in tall candelabra, Ardis Froyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Froyd of Villisca, became the bride of Ens. Russell Bryan, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bryan of Red Oak. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Elmer Froyd of Brighton, Col., brother of the bride, assisted by the Rev. P. W. Thompson, in the First Presbyterian church of Villisca, Dec. 26 at 8 p. m.

Before the entrance of the bridal party, organ music was furnished by Mrs. Harvey Eno and Mrs. Loreen Benedict of Essex sang "At Dawning" and "Because."

Bridal Attendants

Marjorie Froyd of Chicago served her sister as maid of honor. Virginia Froyd, sister of the bride, and Christine Cochrane of Council Bluffs, were bridesmaids. The bridegroom was attended by Charles Good of Red Oak as best man. Ushers were Richard Cochrane of Council Bluffs, Russell and Franklin Froyd and Junior Brandt of Villisca.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white gown with a floor-length net skirt and a long sleeved basque blouse of white satin fashioned with a peplum. Her short veil fell from a net halo and she carried a bouquet of poinsettias and white roses.

The maid of honor wore a long-sleeved fitted white net gown, with a heart shaped bodice and full skirt. She carried a bouquet of small white chrysanthemums and red roses.

The bridesmaids, who lit the tapers before the ceremony, were attired in floor-length dresses of sheer white.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. A three tiered wedding cake centered the serving table which was set with silver and white. Mrs. A. J. Wertman and Mrs. Harold Bickford presided at the table, and Mrs. J. L.

Wheeler were in charge of the dining room. Aileen and Evelyn Hill, Barbara Bastron, and Mrs. Dorothy Corrigan assisted with the serving.

Wedding Trip

Following the reception the couple left for a short wedding trip, after which they will spend the remainder of Ensign Bryan's leave in Red Oak and Villisca, and then go to California where he will await further orders.

Mrs. Bryan is a sophomore at the University of Iowa and will continue her studies upon the completion of her husband's leave. Ensign Bryan was graduated from the United States Naval academy at Annapolis last June. Since then he has been taking special submarine service training.

Ont-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cochrane and family of Council Bluffs; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hite and daughter, Beverly, of King City, Mo.; Barbara Bastron of Ottumwa, and Mrs. Loreen Benedict of Essex.

Program Announced For Campus Night

The intermission program at campus night in Iowa Union tonight will feature singing, comedy numbers and accordion music. Dancing begins at 8 o'clock in the river room and lasts until 11 with the intermission at 9:30.

Faye Vondraska, G, will sing two songs by Victor Herbert. Humorous relief will be provided by Bob Riggs, P3 of Canton, Mo., and Fred Laros, A2 of Wahoo, Neb., with several comedy numbers with voice and piano. Leo Cortimiglia, C3 of Iowa City, will play several selections on his accordion.

Hawks Face Wolverines Tonight; Seahawks Tackle Bunker Hill

Crucial Test For Hawkeyes

12-Man Squad Makes First Conference Trip; Seek Ninth Victory

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Probable starting lineups

Iowa	Pos.	Michigan
Ives	F.	Gehan
Postels	F.	Mullaney
C. Wilkinson	C.	Lund
Spencer	G.	Lindquist
H. Wilkinson	G.	Kell

A 12-man squad of Iowa Hawkeyes is already encamped in Ann Arbor where they hope to grab their ninth straight contest and remain the only unbeaten team in the Big Ten conference race.

Wilkinson Makes Trip

Coach Pops Harrison was smiling as he boarded the Rocket yesterday morning, apparently satisfied with the Hawk's final practice session. And the rumors that have been flying around the campus about Herb Wilkinson not making the trip, were completely squashed, as Herb, big as life, was one of the 12 who climbed aboard and headed east, thirsting for victory.

The story was around the first part of the week that the younger Wilkinson would not make any out of town trips with the team as his dental studies would interfere. Later, the gossip-hounds had it that he would not make the Michigan trip, but would make the rest of the scheduled trips.

Harrison Worried

But Harrison is definitely worried over one big question—just how the Hawks will react to a foreign floor and a definitely hostile crowd. It happened last year to the Hawks and Pops hasn't yet forgotten the upset the Gophers handed Iowa in the conference opener at Minneapolis—a defeat that knocked them out of a conference championship. And the Old Golders' reactions at Nebraska, the only foreign game this season, were far from pleasing.

The Wolverines are tough and dangerous, according to two Iowa scouts, Maury Kent and Lieut. Ellis Johnson. They have won 9 of 11 games, including two Big Ten battles, and have been averaging 44 points per game. In comparison with Iowa's 67.5 average per game, the Wolverines stack up about 10 points to the leeward.

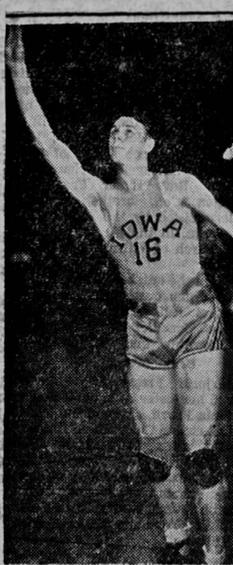

However, both teams have been holding opponents' scores to 36 points, which isn't exactly in favor of Iowa. This season's string of unpredictable upsets in the Big Ten has led the Gambler not to risk their shirts on any Western conference game—Iowa or otherwise.

Tailor-Made for Upset

If the Hawks are due for an upset this season, this encounter is tailor-made for it. All the advantages ride with the underdog Wolverines. They play on their home floor—it's the Hawks first road game in over a month and only the second one of the season, and naturally Michigan's successes have had their psychological effects on the Iowa quintet.

Considering everything, the contest stacks up as one of the toughest of the long list of tough ones that Iowa must face on their victory trail. No wonder that Harrison is keeping his fingers crossed.

Local Iowa fans who won't be able to make the long trip to Ann Arbor will be able to follow their favorite sons by radio. Dick Yoakam, WSUI sports editor will air the game direct from the Michigan fieldhouse.

Little Hawks Face Clinton In Vital Test

The Red and White cagers of City high will be shooting at a double goal tonight when they attempt to put themselves on top of the league as well as to oust the Clinton River Kings from their first place tie with Davenport.

Fast Game Expected

Scheduled to start at 8:15 p. m. on the City high floor, the game should be one of the fastest to be seen on the Iowa City court this year. Particularly noted as a fast breaking, high scoring quintet, the Clinton basketekers need this victory every bit as much as the Little Hawks do.

A win by the Hawklets would put them in a two-way tie for first place with Davenport, while a Clinton triumph would give the River Kings undisputed possession of the coveted top spot.

Work on Defensive Tactics

Working hard on defensive tactics all week, the Red and White men hope to be able to stop the powerful Clinton attack as well as to get their own fast break to click more effectively.

Coach Wally Schwank is hoping that the Little Hawks can put on a performance equal to last week's play at Dubuque, when the team worked as a well precisioned unit to down the favored Dubuque Rams 48-32.

Only sure starters for the Little Hawks appear to be guards Dick Kallous and Russ Lackender. Kallous has been a vital cog in the Hawklet defense all season, while Lackender, who played a good game against Dubuque, will replace Dick Drake who is on the sick list.

Hawklet Positions Uncertain

While the pivot post will probably be taken over again by big Don Sehr, there is a possibility that Bud Ruppert may break in at center because of his outstanding play against Dubuque.

Ten two forward spots will be taken over by two of the three men named by Schwank as possible starters. The three are Bob Freeman, Bob Krall, and Jim Van Deusen.

All three of these fore court men put on a good show at Dubuque, and were the three high scorers of the evening. Freeman continued in his role as high point man, but Krall and Van Deusen added a number of buckets to the cause.

Clinton Starters

Clinton starters will probably be Peterson, Burrige, Burlingame, Price and Lutz.

Peterson now stands in third place in the individual scoring record, just one point behind Freeman of the Little Hawks. Ranking in fifth place in the scoring, Burrige of Clinton is another high point man who will have to be watched.

Moose Beat Eagles In Euchre Tourney

Moose euchre players defeated the Eagles team Wednesday night by a margin of 268 points in the fourth round of a tournament. The Moose team has won three of the four rounds played to date.

The tournament, formerly scheduled to be five rounds, may be lengthened to seven or eight rounds, according to Milo Novy, chairman.

Tonight's Broadcast About Jim Hansen Mr. May Pops Off

By BOB KRAUSE

WE ARE asked to announce that Dick Yoakam, sports editor for WSUI, will start his play by play account of the Iowa-Michigan game tonight at 6:25. This, due to the discrepancy in time zones, will be 7:25 Michigan time.

IN THE interest of the public we would like to add our bit to the recent items concerning big Jim Hansen, Iowa's fullback of last fall. As you know, Hansen, although still in Iowa City is rumored as not being registered this semester.

The news which has come to us is that Jim has a contract with a big league ball club—we won't mention which one—and that he will spend his late winter and early spring days going through spring baseball training with the team.

Just a Warning

Once again we warn you. This may well be more of that rumor, rumor stuff. But Jim is 4-F and a good catcher. And, manpower conditions being what they are in the majors, a husky, promising recruit such as the Omaha boy would be more than welcome.

Of course, this wouldn't necessarily mean that one should look for Hansen's name in the box score each day after April 20 or so rolls around. Chances are a good pruning in the bushes would be the order for a couple of years. If it's all true, then all our best to Jim.

came out of Washington last night which is calculated to make us and, we hope, you, boil with righteous rage.

It concerns somebody named May. May is a man who impresses us as a person with an oversized mouth—at least for what came out of it yesterday.

It seems that May is a chairman. Chairman, to us, in this case, meaning that he probably spent his life in one making sour faces at people. At any rate May is the head of the house military committee which is considering work-or-fight legislation.

Just a Question

A reporter walked up to May after a session of his committee to find out what the attitude of the group was since President Roosevelt's good word to baseball. Chairman May answered in the following deathless phrases which you may keep for posterity—or the ashcan: "Any man who is able to play baseball is able to fight or work in a war plant. If baseball has a morale value it can be just as great played in the army. Let those fellows play their baseball with the Japs and Germans."

We Broil

Nuts, May, you make us broil. Get wise. Don't you realize that the guys who are keeping things right so that you can go on being a Democrat from Kentucky want baseball to keep on being played in this country?

Didn't you know that draft board doctors are those who decide who can't fight, but who can play ball? Are you a doctor, May? And did it ever occur to you, May, that there might be men in the combat zones who had no time for sports—which is putting it mildly? Did you ever think that they might like to know that the things in which they are interested back home are still going on? Well, did you?

Go on, May, have yourself a long mint julep.

'Jolting Joe' Quits Ring

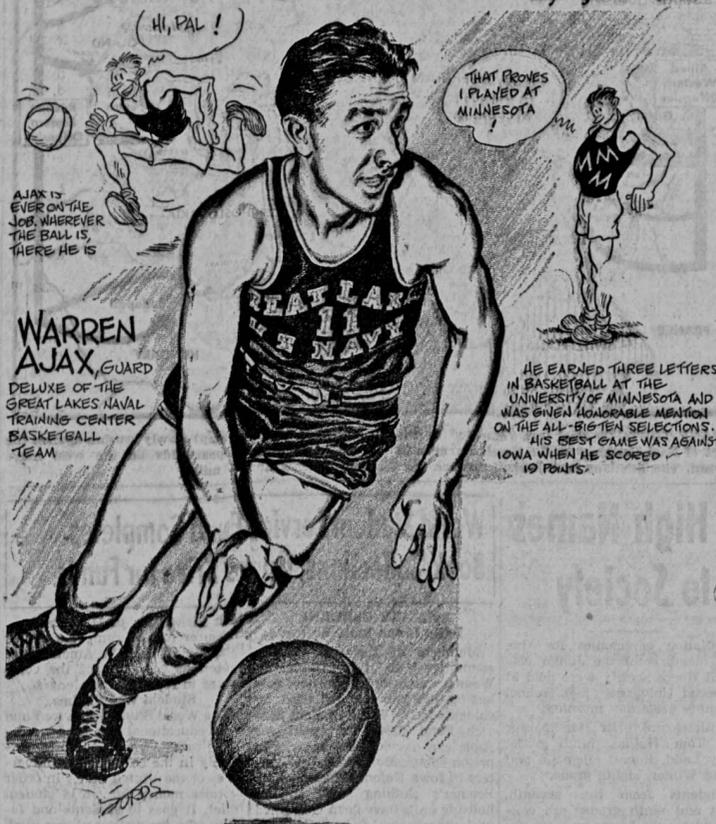

CAMP SHANKS, N. Y. (AP)—Staff Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavy-weight boxing champion, said yesterday that "It's true that I am going to defend my title only once after the war and that Billy Conn will be my opponent."

The London edition of the Stars and Stripes said today in an article by Pvt. Tony Cordaro, former Des Moines, Iowa, boxing writer, that Louis intended to fight only once—against Conn—and then quit the ring.

(Cordaro, who interviewed Louis several months ago during the champion's exhibition tour of England, said Louis originally planned to fight twice but "since it is now generally agreed that the earliest the two can possibly meet again is 1946, the Bomber will bow to Father Time and hang 'em up after a return bout with Billy the Kid.")

Shamrocks Battle Ft. Madison Tonight

Irish After Second Victory Over Catholic Central; Seventh Win

Determined to get back on the victory trail after their narrow defeat Monday at the hands of St. Patrick's of Cedar Rapids, the Shamrocks take to the road tonight for a return engagement with Catholic Central of Ft. Madison.

With a campaign record of six wins and four losses to date, the Irish will be shooting for their second victory over the Ft. Madison cagers, having rolled over them, 37-25, earlier this season.

Ranzy Team

The enemy, with only one other defeat, to St. Joseph's of Rock Island, Ill., is a ranzy team with plenty of offensive power, which, coupled with their desire for revenge, is expected to furnish the visitors with good competition.

Coach Cliff Kritt put his squad through a stiff drill Wednesday, tapering off the practice last night to polish a few rough edges which showed up in Monday's game. The Shamrocks have smoothed out their tactics considerably in the last four contests, playing a solid, fast brand of ball which netted them three consecutive victories this year.

Gatens—Big Headache

Ft. Madison's big headache tonight will be red-headed Don Gatens, the Shamrocks' speedy guard who led his team to their previous victory by pouring in 13 points. Teaming up in the backcourt with Red will be Doc Connell, whose defensive power did a great deal to keep the Central score at a minimum, especially in the last stages of the play.

Kritt plans to start his regular forwards, Merle Hoye and Charlie Belger, and high point man, Gene Herdiska, at center.

Three Veterans

The enemy attack will be powered by three veterans from the 1943 squad. They are Fressmeir, offensive mainstay who rang up 15 points against the Shamrocks, Poepsel, a guard, and Cullen, lanky center who gave the Irish some bad moments in the previous game. Hoening will team up with Fressmeir in the forecourt, and Wiebler will take on the other guard position.

Young Drafted

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Claude (Buddy) Young, brilliant University of Illinois football and track star, will be inducted into the navy next Monday, it was learned yesterday.

Claudine Young, sister of the tiny Negro athlete, said Young would be inducted with Don Johnson, who also played halfback on the Illinois football team last fall.

As an Illini freshman, Young was the nation's outstanding sprinter and won a halfback berth on the second All-America team. He won all the Western conference sprint titles and the National AAU 100-meter championships. Young had been preparing to compete in the Millrose games at New York on Feb. 3.

Blue Hawks To Clash With Anamosa Five

The University high cagers, under the leadership of Coach Ross Wedemeyer, will leave Iowa City at 6 o'clock tonight in automobiles for their clash with the Anamosa Blue Raiders, which is scheduled to start at 8:15.

The Blue Hawk mentor, in commenting on his team's chances, pointed out that inconsistencies of trying to rate two teams by their comparative scores against two other schools, but he appeared confident that his five would take the measure of the Blue Raiders.

Locals Have Improved

The Riverman will face a team which has been growing stronger as the season progresses; but the locals have improved, too. The closest comparison of the relative strength of the two cage teams is afforded by their games with Monticello within 10 days of each other. The Blue Raiders topped the Panthers 36 to 30, while a week later the Rivermen conquered the same team 44 to 18.

It is expected that the University high defense, led by Jim Williams, will hold down the two scoring leaders of the Anamosa five, Cletus McNamara, forward, and Frank O'Brien, center.

Strong Offense

But the Rivermen have a strong offense, too, and if Steve Nusser and Jack Kennedy, helped by Williams and Red Morris, can adjust themselves well to a foreign floor, they should show the Anamosa fans some fine basketball.

Starting Lineups

Nusser and Morris will probably start at forwards. Kennedy at center, and Williams and John Miller are likely to hold down the guard posts.

Coach Earl Kihnman of the Blue Raiders is expected to lead off with McNamara and Kelson at forwards, O'Brien at center, and Kearns and Downing at the guards.

Pre-Flight Wrestlers—

Present Two Sides of Weights

By MERLE FLEMING
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

An interesting study in contrasts with the differences resulting in the same desired goal, is provided by two undefeated members of the Seahawk wrestling squad, Walter Coupe, lightest man on the team competing in the 128-pound class, and George J. Bettie, the heavy-weight grappler.

Outstanding Difference

The most outstanding difference between the two, aside from their size, is the fact that Coupe has concentrated on one sport, wrestling since 1935, while Bettie lettered in three other sports and first took up mat competition in the Pre-Flight school here.

Bettie towers far above Coupe but the lightweight bests his teammate in two other categories, age and length of time served in the navy. Walter is 23 and has been in the navy since March of 1942 while George is 19 and first became a navy man in April of last year. Coupe was an aviation ordnance-man first class and gave up his rating to enter pilot training. Bettie came to aviation cadet training directly from civilian life.

Three Letters in Wrestling

Coupe hails from Valley Stream,

Long Island, N. Y. He attended high school there and took up wrestling in 1935. He won three letters in high school and graduated in 1939. After leaving his Superior Magnet corporation in Long Island city, all the while continuing his work with wrestling.

He was twice winner of the New York Metropolitan championship in 1939 and 1940, twice winner of the German American Eastern title in 1940 and 1941 and runnerup for the New York state championship in 1941. While at Iowa Pre-Flight he has won two regimental championships before becoming a member of the varsity squad under the tutoring of Lieut. Comdr. Archie Mathis.

One Sport Man

"I'm a one sport man," the New Yorker smiles, "and I love wrestling so I've concentrated entirely on it."

Coupe took a deep breath and Bettie took up the tale of "How to become an undefeated wrestler, version No. 2." Bettie was born at Meyers, Mont., 19 years ago and has one brother and two sisters.

He attended high school at Hysham, Mont. where he lettered in softball, basketball and track.

make a terrific lineman on anybody's football team but his high school didn't compete in the gridiron sport until after George graduated in 1943.

Regimental Championship

He attended Carroll college in Helena, Mont. for a year before enlisting in the cadet program. Since coming to Iowa City he has one regimental championship to his credit. A regimental title means that a cadet has defeated all comers in inter-squadron competition. The contests are held about every three months.

Bettie, like Coupe is undefeated against other varsity opponents this season. He has represented the cadet squad in every match except one in which Alex Kapter of Northwestern and Seahawk grid fame took over for a one night stand against Wisconsin.

All-Around Athlete

With a glance at the clock on the field house wall Coupe said, "It's been more than great to have been a member of the Seahawk team and to captain it through four overwhelming victories, and to work under the navy coaches." Bettie nodded in agreement and the two hurried away for a work out—with no holds barred.

War Veterans Have Program on WSUI

The University Speaks, the first program in a new series designed to give the veterans on the Iowa campus an opportunity to discuss the problems that face servicemen and servicewomen returning to college, will be heard over WSUI this afternoon at 12:45.

This series will be of special interest to friends and relatives of men and women in the service who plan to return to school.

Veterans who will participate in today's program will be Robert Gilliam of Dubuque, John W. Smith of Des Moines, Gordon Christensen of Iowa City, Frederick Davies of Waukegan, Ill., Bobette Merrick of Des Moines, Jean Livingstone of Iowa City, Richard Nazette of Eldora and Donald Pierce of Iowa City.

Gilliam and Smith both served overseas, Gilliam in England, Africa and Ireland, and Smith in Africa, Sicily and Italy. With the exception of Davies, who served in the coast guard, all the other men served in the army. Bobette Merrick served as a WAVE and Jean Livingstone was a member of the WASP.

Teeters Reports Plans For New Liquor Bill

Iowa City to Get Nearly $17,000 if Bill Passes Legislature

A portion of the millions of dollars profits from Iowa liquor stores will be divided among every city in the state if a bill proposed by the League of Municipalities is passed by the state legislature now in session.

Iowa City would get some $17,000 of the profits. Mayor Wilber J. Teeters returned last evening from a three-day meeting of the executive committee of the league in Des Moines. According to the mayor, what would amount to $1 per capita would be returned to the cities, whether or not they have a liquor store.

This amount, which is 50 percent of the profits, would be used as each city thinks best.

"We have to have a larger police force where there are liquor stores," commented Mayor Teeters. This is the primary reason for having a refund on liquor store profits.

26 Men Take Army Physical

Twenty-six men left Wednesday night for Jefferson Barracks, Mo., where they will take their pre-induction physical examination.

Four of the 26, Richard H. Baker, John G. Pesles, Thomas F. O'Leary, and Elmer G. Brennehan Jr. were volunteers.

The other 22 are John E. Good, Harold M. Donnelly, Paul L. Vedepo, Elmer Heak, Robert W. Becka, Donald C. Alberhasky, Henry H. Musack, Robert J. Sladek, George Fraunholtz Jr., Edwin L. Berry, Leonard J. Reymann, Vernon A. Dulshar, Claire C. Doyle.

Sam K. York Jr., Donald W. Sedlacek, Charles E. McCreedy, David Coblenz, Robert E. Snyder, Walter E. Herrmann, Noel D. Knotts, William D. Keeler and James B. Serbousek.

Wallace D. Fisher left for Hill City, S. D., where he will do work of national importance in a conscientious objectors camp.

Jingling Milk Bottles Aid March of Dimes

Iowa Citizens are asked to keep those bottles quiet, at least not during the March of Dimes fund drive sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Fifty milk bottles have been the collection of funds to be placed in downtown stores for use in the prevention and treatment of infantile paralysis.

This is the first year the Junior Chamber of Commerce has taken charge of the annual collection which will continue through Jan. 31. Lloyd Cashman is chairman of the local committee. Other members are Adolph Boeye and Clark Caldwell.

Persons wishing to make larger donations may write checks payable to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Election Campaign Democratic Scouts Form Platform

Boy Scout Democratic office-seekers met in secret session Wednesday evening to formulate resolutions in their party platform for the forthcoming election and Citizens' day activities.

They drew up the following statement of appreciation: "The Democratic party as organized for the purpose of entering the election on Boy Scout Citizens' day takes this opportunity of thanking the city administration and the people of Iowa City for the opportunity of learning more about the workings of the city government and hereby goes on record as requesting that the policy of a Boy Scout Citizens' day be continued in Iowa City."

Their platform is in the form of four resolutions:

1. We heartily endorse the policy of the city government and the recreation center in making more and better recreation available for the youth of Iowa City and pledge that if our candidates for the city council are elected they will go on record by means of a resolution to the regular city council, in asking for the continuance of the fine recreation program.

2. We favor a policy which would allow better places for ice skating by the public and pledge that our city council will go on record asking for some method of smoothing out the surface of the ice at the City park pond or the providing of some other suitable and safe place for ice skating.

3. We have made no promises of any appointments to office and pledge that we will make appointments in a fair manner and with an effort to secure the Scouts most interested in the working of the city government.

4. We hereby pledge that if the candidates of our party are elected they will make a careful study of the duties of their respective offices so we might better fit ourselves for the future possibility of serving our community in public office.

Freshmen to Discuss Newspaper Writing On Radio Broadcast

As a continuation of the series, "The Freshman Takes the Platform," about 12 freshmen students will participate in a half hour program to be broadcast over WSUI at 8 o'clock tonight. The topic for this evening is, "The Student Writes for the Iowaan."

Those taking part in the program are chosen from a first semester course in communication skills. Most of the participants helped in editing the freshman page of The Daily Iowan, published in the regular edition, Dec. 20, 1944. Their discussion will center around this edition. Questions will be put to the authors about the material on the page.

George de Schweinitz, instructor in communication skills, is in charge of directing the program and will act as its chairman. Harold Nelson, instructor in communication skills, will assist him.

French Publication Bulletin Recognized Off Campus

L'Atelier, the French bulletin which the students of Dr. Henri Barzun of the romance languages department published just before Christmas, is receiving wide recognition from newspapers and magazines as the first of its kind to be published at the University of Iowa.

The New York Times of Jan. 14 carried the following item on its educational page under the heading "Iowa—French Bulletin":

"Advanced students in French at the University of Iowa are now receiving practical application of their linguistic knowledge in the publication of a four-page bulletin. First of its kind to be issued at the university, L'Atelier is published by members of the French workshop. The bulletin includes articles on Parisian fashions, book reviews, short stories and travelogues, as well as illustrations and cartoons."

Students in Dr. Barzun's classes and seminars plan two more group performances during the semester and two more issues of the bulletin as practical experience with living French. The first issue of L'Atelier has been sent to several other universities to demonstrate the work of Iowa students in the romance languages department.

Student Aviation Pilots End Novelty of Ribbons at Base

Service ribbons, denoting citations and recommendations and battle stars no longer are a novelty on the trainees since the arrival of the Student Aviation Pilots at Iowa Pre-Flight. In keeping with the navy's newest policy of granting qualified enlisted personnel the school has received the veteran navy men each month since the first group arrived in November. The latest group, which arrived early this month, included 79 S. A. P.'s among its total complement of 204.

Fifty-three of these men can qualify as aviation cadets and will be given the option of becoming such or maintaining their S. A. P. status with their pay envelopes matching their ratings. However, during a day of duty there is no way of distinguishing between the cadet and the S. A. P., for both wear the regulation V-5 program working uniform. It is only when he leaves the station that the S. A. P. appears in his regular blue-jacket gear.

Of the 26 who cannot qualify as cadets and therefore must retain their regular ratings, 24 are married, while two are over the 27 year limit. If any of the married trainees' wives move to Iowa City, regulations allow him to live off the station for this is considered his tour of shore duty after serving two or more years at sea.

However, this does not offer the advantages of a normal home life as might be first believed, for he must be on the station and in V-5 gear by reveille at 5:30 a. m. and cannot leave until after his final class of the day at 5:15 p. m. On the week-end he enjoys liberty from 2:15 p. m. Saturday until 9:15 Sunday night, when he reports back for the one night a week he must stay aboard.

Jean D. Opstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Iver A. Opstad, 613 E. Bloomington street, has arrived in North Africa to serve the armed forces as an American Red Cross staff assistant. Until her Red Cross appointment, Miss Opstad taught public school music in Muscatine. She is a graduate of Iowa City high school and the University of Iowa.

For his part as a marine B-25 pilot during 45 damaging strikes against Japanese installations on New Britain and New Ireland, Capt. Willard C. Lemke of Clintonville, Wis., has been awarded the air medal. A graduate of Clintonville high school in 1938, Captain Lemke attended the University of Iowa for three years.

Last October, while attempting to shield the crew of another B-25 which had been shot down off Namatani, New Ireland, Captain

Intercollegiate Debaters— To Convene in Model United States Senate

Modeled after the United States senate, a conference will be held on the University of Iowa campus by intercollegiate debaters called "The Student General Senate on the Foreign Policy of the United States." Tentative dates for the conference are March 16-17, 1945.

The student senate will consist of an opening general session, committee sessions and a final general session. Objectives of the conference have been stated in this manner:

"1. To answer specifically the question, 'What should be the foreign policy of the United States as formulated in 1945?'"

"2. To provide the college and university students with opportunity for further research in the problem of America's international relations and policies and for the formulation of policies."

"3. To provide these students with additional opportunities for group discussion, debate and public speaking."

"4. To increase student interest in social-political problems and to further equip students for the responsibilities of leadership in political affairs."

Student President

At the opening general session a student president of the senate and a student secretary will be elected. Each delegate will be assigned to an appropriate committee. Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of forensics, has charge of the conference. Velma Martin, A4 of Laurens, newly elected president of Gavel club, and Gordon Christensen, A3 of Iowa City, president of Delta Sigma Rho, are cooperating and assisting in planning the program.

About ten committee sessions will each consider a special problem. Assignment and investigation of the problem will begin now. The committee session will be conducted by committee hearings, discussions, debates and special reports. Specific recommendations are to be formulated as resolutions to be presented to the senate. A series of two or three one-hour debates will follow the preliminary discussions. Then a final two hour session of the committee will be held for the purpose of formulating the resolutions to be presented for ratification by the general assembly.

Committee Reports

Each committee will report its resolutions to the final 10-hour meeting of the general assembly. One hour is the time allowed for each committee report. Faculty judges will rate the participants as debaters, and as public speakers and discussers. The students will also rate each other. Robert's "Rules of Order" will be followed. A parliamentary is to be appointed by the president of the senate. Faculty advisers on the appropriate subject-matter fields will be invited to counsel the committees.

Final Session

A chairman of each committee will be assigned at least 30 days before the final session. His duties include calling regular sessions for discussion and debate, seeing that bibliographies and readings are available, securing outlines and briefs from each member and otherwise charting the preparation. Results of the senate will be printed and distributed to the participants and to others who may be interested.

Problems to be considered by the committees and the members of the committees are listed below. Other persons not listed who are interested in participating in the conference may see Professor Baird.

(1) What should be the policy of the United States concerning the post-war control of Germany?—Norma Ansher, A3 of Des Moines; Velma Martin, A4 of Laurens; Frances Lee Grusky, A3 of Newburgh, N. Y.; Jean Collier, A2 of Freeport, Ill.; Max Moore, A1 of Burlington; Tom Wuriu, A4 of Iowa City; William Arnold, A4 of Marion, Ind.
