Belgian Bulge Collapses Nazis Crumple Before First

Eisenhower Warns Soldiers—

Fraternization Deadly

By Wes Gallagher

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY (AP)—While General Eisenhower has been trying to convince American soldiers that fraternization with the enemy is dangerous and that German youth has been poisoned by Nazism, some army intelligence officers have tried to suppress one of the best evidences of the supreme commander's contention.

This incident is the climax of a steady growth of interference by American army officers who are not connected with censorship, but who try to restrict the policy of freedom of news within the bounds of security laid down by the supreme commander.

In this case, a 17-year-old German girl, arrested on suspicion of participation in sabotage, carried papers on which she had written (in most violent terms) her day by day thoughts concerning American soldiers and what she would like the Germans to do to them. Newsmen considered it a good story and strong support for the campaign against fraternization.

A Ninth army briefing officer who read quotations from the girl's writings in official reports passed them on to correspondents who wrote the story. But because the story developed in First army territory field censors called First army censors and asked if there were any objections to the story.

A First army counter-intelligence corps officer objected to the Ninth army command, declaring that the girl's writings were secret and that when the story was released it should be given by the First army correspondents accredited to the First army.

A British woman correspondent was forbidden by army officers to pursue the matter, because, as she was told, she was "not accredited to the First army and when the story is given out it will be given first to First army correspondents."

After three days the Ninth army correspondents' stories were definitely stopped, officers fearing that publication would discourage other German youth from doing the same, thus spoiling evidence in future arrests.

Americans Capture Capas On Luzon

MacArthur's Advance Places Troops 54 Miles From Manila

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Tuesday (AP)—Fast-rolling American infantrymen, more than half way to Manila down the central Luzon plain, captured Capas in an 11-mile gain from fallen Tarlac and were only 54 air miles from the Philippine capital at the deepest penetration, headquarters reported today.

They were fast approaching Pampanga province, the gateway to Manila.

Gains in All Sectors
Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing gains in all Luzon sectors and the throwing back of ineffective enemy counter measures, disclosed the makeup of his liberation forces on this main Philippine island. He announced:

"Our ground forces comprise the I (eye) corps on the left, with the Sixth, 25th and 43rd divisions and the 158th regimental combat team, and the XIV corps on the right, with 37th and 40th divisions." The Americans at Capas were only 11 miles from big Clark field, major airbase of the Philippines. Adjacent is Ft. Stotsenburg, important military base.

Air Attacks
American warplanes made their usual harassing attacks on Japanese airfields and supply columns in the network of roads north of Manila, and long-range bombers hit Takao airbase on Formosa.

United States infantrymen on MacArthur's wide-sweeping right flank reached Dasol bay, thereby severing the entire Bolinao peninsula which just like a thumb off the Luzon west coast near the Lingayen gulf beachheads.

On the hard-pressed left flank the Americans captured the highway towns of Cuyapo and Anaao to the east of Moneada, which was taken Jan. 14.

Carrier Planes Down 140 Jap Aircraft

Third Fleet Airmen Make Fifth Raid Of Month on Formosa

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor (AP)—Making the fifth strike of the month on Formosa and nearby small islands, Third fleet carrier airmen last Saturday destroyed 140 Japanese airplanes and inflicted heavy damage on enemy shipping and ground installations.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz' communique yesterday announcing the foray said "one of our major ships was damaged" in the raid.

The disclosure that a major United States warship had been damaged was the first officially reported ship casualty in the Third fleet's high-speed marauding against Indo-China, China and Formosa in the last two months.

The high score of 140 Japanese planes destroyed, with approximately 100 more damaged on the ground, indicated the enemy had offered much stronger air opposition over the pivotal base south of Japan than in the Formosa strikes Jan. 13, 14 and 15.

British Take Key Japanese Defense Point

NEW DELHI (AP)—British 14th army troops, moving up after a heavy artillery and air bombardment, have captured the Burmese town of Monywa, a key Japanese defense point on the lower Chindwin river 50 miles due west of Mandalay, it was reported here yesterday.

Allied headquarters kept mum on the progress of the action on Ramree island on Burma's west coast where British amphibious troops landed Sunday. The landing mounted a new threat to the Japanese in the south.

It was believed that the amphibious force which took the town of Kyaukpyu at the northern end of the island 90 minutes after landing was meeting no real opposition as squadrons of allied bombers, held in readiness to blast any enemy strongpoints holding up the advance inland, were not called out.

A United States army airforce earthquake squadron destroyed four bridges at Swa, 30 miles south of Pymnana on the main Mandalay-Rangoon railway.

Burma Road Declared Open

MYITKYIMA, Burma (AP)—The new Ledo road to China was officially declared open to military traffic last night and the first convoy of trucks to carry supplies across Burma in two and a half years was ready to leave here on the final leg of its winding journey of more than 1,000 miles through mountains and jungle to Kunming.

Lieut. General Daniel I. Sultan, commander of the India-Burma theater announced officially that the road had been cleared of Japanese troops and was ready to handle convoys. The fall of the Chinese border town of Wanting eliminated the last remaining enemy obstacle to passage of allied trucks.

Wanting, site of a former customs station on the old Burma road, fell to Chinese troops two days ago following two weeks of bitter fighting. The next-to-last Japanese stronghold in the area was Namhkam, stormed and captured Jan. 15 in a surprise assault.

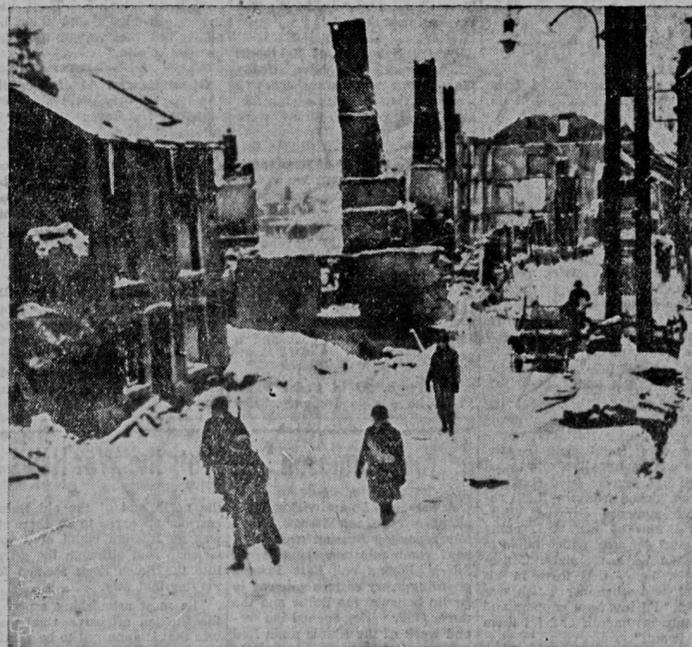

Committee Informs Senate of Idleness, Waste at Navy Yard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A story of large-scale loafing, boom-dogging and "appalling waste" of material at the Norfolk navy yard was laid before the senate yesterday by members of its war investigation committee.

Talk of "prosecution" was heard in the capitol after Senators Mead (D., N. Y.) and Ferguson (R., Mich.) told of hundreds of idlers, of others engaged in making such things as hand-carved furniture, an ornate checkerboard, a dog house, a special oyster-shucking table and jewelry for their bosses or themselves.

Mead, committee chairman, told of a "Paul Revere" who, upon the approach of investigators, would go tearing through one shop warning the men to look busy.

Brownell Wins Vote of Confidence

GOP Committee Maps Active Political Program

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Republican national committee, voting confidence in Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr., adopted yesterday a year-round political action program praised by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as "the most vital step possible" toward winning the war and building the peace.

Naming Mrs. Dudley C. Hay of Michigan its first woman secretary, the committee unanimously approved a "militant opposition" program outlined by Brownell. The latter action was interpreted by members as a vote of confidence in the 40-year-old chairman, who promised to give as much time as necessary to party affairs.

Brownell's job as chairman was not technically at stake in yesterday's session but some objections were voiced to his retaining the post.

Laying down what he called "a militant opposition program" Brownell proposed that the Republicans operate on a full-time basis with an enlarged staff. He also mapped an intensive campaign to win Republican control of congress in 1946.

Patrols Increase Activity Near Bologna

ROME (AP)—Fighting on the snow piled Italian front was confined to patrol action yesterday as this first anniversary of the historic landing at Anzio found Fifth army troops 220 miles beyond that bitter battle area.

Enemy patrol activity has been speeded up on the American front south and southeast of Bologna, allied headquarters said. Only light contact with the Germans was reported by the few allied patrols operating in the Fifth army sector northwest of Vergemoli, three miles west of Galliciano in the Serchio river valley.

In the Adriatic sector Eighth army troops threw an enemy raiding party back to its original positions after the Germans had penetrated two and a half miles into allied lines northeast of Alfonsine. The Germans struck behind a heavy artillery barrage.

Weatherman Says: More of Same

The temperature yesterday sailed a straight course at 30 degrees with little tacking while the sun transformed the light snow which fell Sunday night into mud puddles. The low yesterday morning was 26, the high at 7:30 a. m. at 31 and last night at 9:30 it was back to 26.

Today will be more of same: clear and no change in temperature. No snow or colder weather or other unpleasantness is in sight.

Yugoslavian King Demands Ejection Of Subasic Cabinet

LONDON (AP)—King Peter of Yugoslavia ordered the ousting of the cabinet of Premier Dr. Ivan Subasic last night in a defiant attempt to avoid appointment of a regency for his war-torn country. Subasic, who had concluded an agreement with Marshall Tito for a coalition government of Yugoslavia under a regency, immediately called a meeting of his cabinet for today to consider this latest turn in the Yugoslav crisis.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons last week that the young king would have to accept a regency or his acceptance would be assumed and the arrangement between Subasic and Marshall Tito for an interim government would be put into effect anyway.

The best diplomatic opening here last night was that Peter was grasping at the last straw in firing his government and that he would probably lose.

An official Yugoslav source said King Peter probably would name to the premiership Milan Groll, a leader of the anti-Tito Yugoslavs in London and an opponent of the Subasic-Tito agreement.

Senate Group Okays Measure to Regulate Insurance Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate judiciary committee approved unanimously yesterday a compromise bill covering the regulation of the insurance business.

It leaves to the states the continued taxation and regulation of the insurance business but reserves the right of the federal government to intervene in cases of "boycott, coercion or intimidation" in the fixing of rates.

At the same time, it exempts the insurance business from Sherman act provisions until June 1, 1947, and Clayton act provisions until Jan. 1, 1948, to permit a period of adjustment of existing procedures.

Objections Voiced To Henry Wallace

Senator George Seeks Split of Loan Agency, Commerce Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator George (D., Ga.) struck the first strong tactical blow in the senate yesterday against turning over vast federal loan powers to former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace. George introduced legislation to set aside President Roosevelt's executive order of 1942 under which the federal loan agency, the reconstruction finance corporation and subsidiary agencies were transferred to the commerce department.

The effect would be to split up the twin job of loan chief-secretary of commerce to which President Roosevelt nominated Wallace at noon yesterday.

Senator Byrd (D., Va.), chairman of the joint economy committee, called Wallace "the leader of the most radical groups in America" and said he could think of "no person less suited by temperament and business ability" to administer RFC.

Senator Langer (R., N. D.) called the appointment "a real break for the small businessmen and farmers." He said Wallace is "in every way qualified for the position" and predicted he would be the leading member of the cabinet in opposing monopolies and cartels.

Although Wallace was not to be found in the capital yesterday, he released a statement of his intentions, conciliatory in tone and bidding for the support of small business.

Anti-Closed Shop Amendment Wins Tentative Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jail-backed manpower control bill embodying an anti-closed shop amendment won tentative approval from the house military committee yesterday.

Slated for house consideration late this week—with a vote unlikely before next week—the legislation will be reviewed by the committee Wednesday before being formally sent to the floor. In the meantime, a new bill embodying changes agreed to by the committee in closed session will be drafted.

Men now deferred under provisions of the Tydings farm-draft deferment formula shall not be required to take a non-farm job. The committee voted also to permit conscientious objectors to decline to work in war plants.

150 Miles Yet to Go

New Advance West Of Warsaw Part Of Huge Encirclement

BULLETIN

LONDON, Tuesday (AP)—Russian forces driving due west from Warsaw have now advanced to within 150 miles from Berlin, halfway between the German capital and the jumping off place of the Soviet offensive, Moscow announced today.

A broadcast from Moscow to the Reich announced the latest gain, adding that "the decisive hour is here" for Germany. The official communique issued several hours earlier had placed Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's columns 165 miles from Berlin in a 38-mile dash yesterday.

Another powerful Soviet force sliced to within 37 miles of the Baltic port of Elbing in East Prussia yesterday, forging one of the greatest potential encirclements in military history.

Nazis Appeal for Help
The German radio appealed for help against "this bestial, overwhelming mass onslaught."

Berlin said that two Soviet armies attacking on three sides of East Prussia alone totalled more than 1,000,000 men, and it was estimated that 30 or more German divisions were caught in the fast-moving Russian pincers cutting through the shell-torn forests.

The big East Prussian bases of Insterburg, Allenstein, Osterode and Deutsch-Eylau fell in quick succession to the Russians who had cut one Berlin-East Prussia trunk railway at five points and were only 33 miles from the last supply artery running through Elbing.

Thrusts Into Silesia
Riding the crest of the war's mightiest offensive, the hard-hitting Russians were less than 28 miles from Poznan, last big west Polish stronghold on the direct road to Berlin; others were almost at the entrance to the Polish corridor putting up to Danzig, now only 60 miles away; still another massive Red army was digging deeper into industrial Silesia, menacing the capitals of Breslau and Oppeln in southeastern Germany.

Women and children were streaming out of the endangered border zone from Danzig down to Silesia.

Japanese Advance In Hong Kong Drive, Close Railway Gap

CHUNGKING (AP)—The Japanese made further progress yesterday in drives to extend their protective area around Hong Kong, close a Chinese-held gap in the Canton-Hankow railway and strengthen the flanks of their corridor from China to Indo China.

The Chinese high command last night acknowledged Japanese gains in a push from recently conquered Wuyueh (Waichow), 60 miles north of Hong Kong, which was designed to give the invaders domination of bays north of the occupied British colony where they evidently fear American troops might land.

About 20 B-24 planes of the Kunning-based United States airforce raided Honk Kong Monday afternoon, Tokyo radio said in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

American headquarters yesterday permitted disclosure that the 308th bombardment group (Liberators) has been operating in China since March 21, 1943.

AMES (AP)—The Farm and Home week program scheduled on the campus of Iowa State college Feb. 13-15 has been cancelled because of the transportation situation, President Charles Friley of the college announced yesterday. Five hundred persons had been expected.

The programs will be presented over WOI, the college radio station, Feb. 12-16.

Patton Finds Luxembourg Half Of Salient Deserted

PARIS (AP)—The Belgian bulge collapsed in a German rout yesterday and swarming allied warplanes knocked out nearly 3,000 enemy motor vehicles and tanks—enough to equip almost an entire enemy panzer army—in an aerial slaughter without equal in this war.

The United States Third army, racing ahead up to five miles, found the Luxembourg half of the shattered Ardennes salient virtually deserted and resistance disorganized, and the enemy stand crumpled before the United States First army in Belgium.

Pilots reported hardly any of the German columns fleeing from the Ardennes made good their escape; earlier accounts had put the number of enemy vehicles caught on the roads at about 3,000.

Hundreds of Nazis Slain
They reported 65 tanks and armored vehicles, 1,593 trucks and 635 railroad cars destroyed, and 62 tanks and armored vehicles and 1,179 trucks damaged. Hundreds of German troops were slain.

Three hundred medium and light bombers set the stage for the kill by blowing up bridges and blocking roads along the paths of retreat.

All day long the German columns, withdrawing too late from the Ardennes, were ripped in a hurricane of bombs, rockets and bullets by swarming warplanes snarling down through the mists on the transports, massed so densely they could not miss.

Worse Than Falaise
Front dispatches quoted fighter-bomber pilots as saying the scene of havoc, stretching from northern Luxembourg into Germany east of the Siegfried line, was worse than at Falaise, where allied aerial execution was so terrible the enemy could not rally for a stand on the Seine.

Third army doughboys captured the Luxembourg anchor of Wiltz cut off retreat out of the duchy through Vianden with artillery fire and were shearing off the tiny country's mountainous northern tip in a rush that carried through a village five miles from Germany.

The United States First army was within two miles of the Ardennes exit town of St. Vith, and registered two and three-mile gains in pursuit of the retreating enemy.

House Bill Proposes County Health Boards

DES MOINES (AP)—The house public health committee took under advisement yesterday after a fiery bit of opposition a bill presented by the state health department which would substitute county boards of health for some 1,600 township boards of health.

The opposition was led by Mayor Forrest Olson of Sioux City, who spoke on behalf of cities and towns. Those who addressed the committee in favor of the measure were Dr. Walter L. Biering, state health director, and Drs. G. L. Putnam and A. H. Wieters, of the department.

In the senate, meanwhile, the committee on compensation of public officers and employees reported out for passage a bill which would increase the annual salary of the governor from $7,500 to $10,000.

10 More Soldiers Sentenced for Looting

PARIS (AP)—Sentences to hard labor ranging from 20 to 30 years were imposed yesterday on 10 more enlisted men of the United States 716th railway operating battalion accused of looting supply trains enroute to the front.

A second court trying another group of six men from the same battalion is expected to finish testimony and reach a verdict today.

'We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing'

By LYNN JOHNSON
Daily Iowan Feature Editor
Before an appreciative, capacity audience in MacBride auditorium for the vesper service Sunday night, Capt. James C. Whittaker told of drifting on the Pacific for 21 days with Eddie Rickenbacker, of eating sea lice to keep alive, and of eight days without water until their prayers were answered. "Be back in about 10 days . . . we're taking Eddie Rickenbacker over to Guadalcanal . . ." Captain Whittaker sent this note to his family from Honolulu. He had been on his way home to Los Angeles after ferrying a B-24 to Australia, when he and his pilot, Capt. Bill Cherry, were ordered to fly Rickenbacker on a mission.

Forced to Take B-24
Due to a defective right brake on their plane, the crew and their passengers were forced to take a B-24 which they had not checked personally. The ground crew said it was in perfect working order, and fully equipped.
"Our only directional equipment was a radio compass, which didn't operate through the entire flight," Whittaker remarked grimly. "Our navigator had made seven trips over the Pacific, so we didn't start to worry until a half hour after we were due at our destination." The handsome co-pilot told of communicating with Canton island by radio, but the island did not get any equipment to find a lost plane until a week after Whittaker's plane went down.

Prepare to Crash-Land
"With 20 minutes gas left, we feathered two engines and prepared to crash-land at sea. Five feet above the ocean we cut the other two engines, hitting the water at 100 miles an hour." Sincere admiration was in Whittaker's voice when he said, "It was the most beautiful landing I have ever seen! We stopped in less than 40 feet." The terrific pressure was indescribable. The crew were in the back of the ship, protected by mattresses, Rickenbacker had unpacked a parachute to shield himself, and Whittaker held a small pillow in front of him. For a minute after they hit water, they could not see.

Expected to Be Picked Up
"Of course, we expected to be picked up before dark. We kept hoping for the first six days; then we started thinking only of food." The husky, broad-shouldered captain told of having four fishhooks, string, weights, but no bait . . . and of the serious discussion among the men as to which part of their bodies they could cut off and use to attract the fish, visibly swimming in the water around their rafts. At this point, the famous swallow lit on Rickenbacker's head. "It certainly wasn't turkey-size as portrayed in one magazine," grinned Whittaker. "It was about one-third the size of a sea gull, and all bone and muscle at that. When it was beheaded and disrobed, there was less than a square inch of fat for each man. The men used most of it for bait, catching several eight inch fish, which was their first real food in six days."

First Water
Two days later it rained, and the men had their water. They caught it in their handkerchiefs and underwear, wringing it into their mouths and blowing it into their Mae West life preservers. "The only water we drank was what we could lick off our arms and bodies . . . but you'd be surprised how far you can lick," Whittaker chuckled.

Sharks Around Raft
"There were always five or six sharks around our raft, ranging in size from one and one half feet to 12 feet. They would scratch their backs on the bottom of our rafts, shaking loose the sea lice." Captain Whittaker held up a thumb and said, "Sea lice were about the size of my thumbnail, with two claws."

See Barge
That afternoon, while lying in the shade of the palms, the captain spotted something moving out on the water. He nudged his companion who looked, then grunted disgustedly, "It's only a barge."

Opinion On and Off the Campus— Will the Hawkeyes Remain Undefeated?

Bob Spratt, A1 of Ft. Madison: "If the Hawks beat Illinois the first time they play them they'll be undefeated for the remainder of the 1945 season."

Dick Padgham, E4 of Iowa City: "Heaven only knows, but here's hoping."

Ed Hogan, J3 of Iowa City: "No. They have too many good teams left to play, and off nights come too often."

John Anderson, A3 of Duncan, Okla.: "Yes, I think they will. There is not a team in the Big Ten that can beat them."

Dexter Hake, A1 of Reinbeck: "Sure, because they have already played some good teams. They've won them all in spite of the fact that some of the games were close."

Allen McCord, A2 of Davenport: "They should. I don't know who will beat them unless they start playing bad ball."

Bob Schulz, A1 of Davenport: "If we can get past Illinois, I think that we will remain undefeated."

Bill Orr, A2 of Iowa City: "Sure. They have a good spirit and a great team this year."

Ed Marsh, A1 of Cedar Falls: "They have a good chance. They should win on paper, but I don't know that they will."

Holly Baker, A2 of Highland Park: "I hope they will, but I think they may be defeated at some of the big games which will be played away from home."

Wanda Siebels, A3 of Amber: "Although I believe Iowa will top the Big Ten, I'm afraid in the schedule ahead that they may not come through undefeated."

Jane Hanson, A1 of 935 E. College: "I think the Iowa team will remain undefeated. They have their good nights and their bad nights but they've got the spirit in them to win."

Glenn Conger, A1 of Sac City: "As long as they don't play Ohio State, the Hawkeyes will never be defeated."

Melvin Den Hartog, A2 of Rock Valley: "We'll not be beaten because we are able to resist the opponent's techniques. This enables us to remain superior to all conditions with which the team will be encountered."

Margaret Ellsworth, A1 of Des Moines: "No reason why Iowa shouldn't have a winning basketball club this year."

Ethel Miller, A1 of Ogden: "It's practically in the bag or through the hoop I should say."

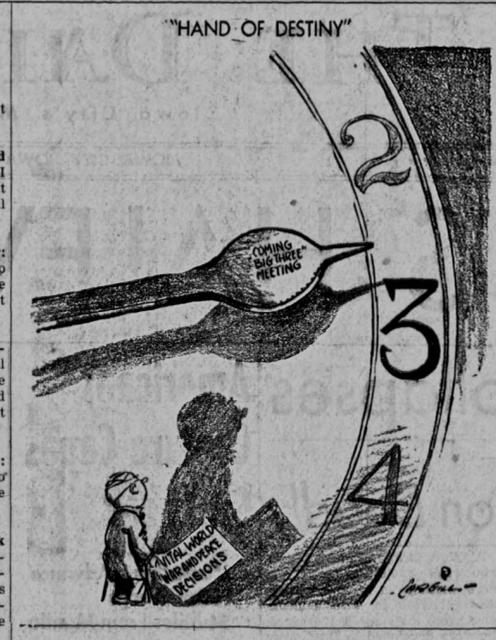

Paul Mallon Says— 'Fourth Term' Washington Is Different

WASHINGTON—Everything is going to be a lot different in Washington in this fourth term. You can see plain signs of the character and scope of the change behind the action of the house in setting up this new committee to investigate un-American activities. The skillful parliamentarian, Mr. Rankin, of Mississippi, who navigated the authorization for the committee through the apparently confused and uncertain house, has made a speech indicating he expects this to be a real investigation. His voice sounded to me a little hoarse, as if he were expressing a wan hope.

The investigating personnel they finally came up with was as surprising as the success of Mr. Rankin's original proposal. It is the custom to name believers in an investigation to the direction of it, but for the first time in my 25 years' experience here, this time four of the six Democrats named, including the chairman, already had voted against the investigation. (Rankin could not take the chairmanship because he already has the important veterans affairs committee.)

If the hand of the White House or the CIO was discernible in the ways and means committee choices, it was not apparent to Rankin. He looks on the selections as "compromises."

His reason for placing even that bright a light on what appears to be dull prospects, is that with the three Republicans, himself and one other Democrat, he may be able to swing a majority of 5 to 4 in favor of some kind of investigation, even against the wishes of the chairman (a Hague henchman) and the other Democrats who similarly come from districts subject to the heavy CIO political pressure.

The scope of whatever limited inquiries are to be made may be determined in the end by the popular demand created by the American Legion and other patriotic organizations interested in the subject. In his speech Rankin asked that they write him any evidence they detect.

Unquestionably the weakness of the old Dies committee was that it was not strictly legal or meticulous about all its facts. On occasions, unquestionably it went beyond the point where it could not be successfully refuted.

Particularly it branded some public people with the Communist taint on the ground that they were under Communist influence although they were presumably unaware of the nature of organizations which they joined. The Dies publicity was always handled in an accusing rather than a factual way.

Kirke Simpson Interprets the War News

A barrage of new victory announcements from Moscow officially reporting Russian capture of key communication centers in Silesia, Poland and East Prussia guarding every eastern gateway to Berlin between the Baltic and the upper Oder valley opened the second week of the titanic main Red army winter offensive.

They came tumbling on each other's heels so fast as to make any detailed mapping of the vast 800 mile eastern front a matter of conjecture. Utterly confused and off balance as the whole Nazi defense deployment from the northern flank of the Carpathians to the north end of the old Danzig corridor appeared to be, there still was no Russian claim of a total German rout although the retreat into the Reich itself seemed fast verging that way.

The most astonishing aspect of the Russian offensive tidal wave was that it appeared to be gaining instead of losing speed the farther its supply lines were extended. Within a week's time the remote possibility of an attempted Nazi evacuation of East Prussia had been converted into a virtual reality. The fall of such mighty defensive bastions in northern East Prussia as Tilsit and Insterburg strongly suggest that Berlin has thumbed the whole German army westward in a desperate attempt to escape before the Russians cut the last land transport route across the Danzig corridor.

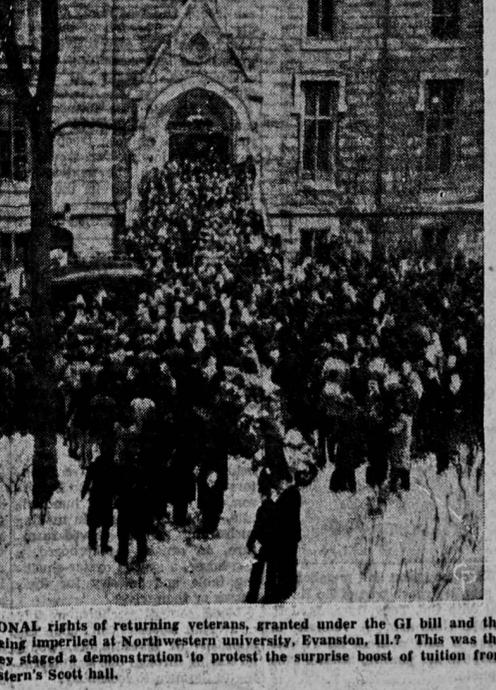

Only two main rail routes are available for such a mass troop movement. One of those has been slashed. They are the Insterburg-Deutsch Eylau-Torun-Berlin and the Koenigsberg-Marienburg-Stettin-Berlin lines. Russian seizure of Allenstein and close investment if not capture of Deutsch Eylau and Torun has certainly rendered the first useless. In the Deutsch Eylau area, Red advance forces are within easy striking distance of Marienburg, critical hub of the other, to complete the isolation of East Prussia from the rest of the Reich except by sea.

Russian capture of Tannenburg, scene of a crushing Russian defeat in world war one, was more than a symbolic triumph for Soviet forces. It lies close to Deutsch Eylau and on the way to Marienburg. Russian seizure of those critical rail junctions could lead to a far greater German disaster in East Prussia than czarist armies suffered in 1914 at the hands of Marshal Hindenburg whose massive tomb at Tannenburg is now in Russian hands.

Even more ominous Russian advances south of the Vistula and the Danzig corridor are officially recorded by Moscow.

Smartly Mr. Rankin framed his proposition so the administration leaders, particularly Speaker Rayburn (who has had some troubles from CIO in his district) could not make the appointments. The way he handled it the appointing power was put in the hands of the Democratic party leaders as represented on the ways and means committee.

DETROIT (AP)—The Pomeranian is a "women's dog." That popular conception was upheld right at the bar of justice yesterday. Otto Boehm and his former wife, Gladys Lewit, were in dispute on the ownership of Teddy, a Pomeranian. "That's not a man's dog," said the court. "That's the kind of a dog a woman likes."

Navy Inventor Develops Sub Devices

Capt. William Eddy Turns 'Gadgets' Hobby Into Career

"Television in Postwar Industry" is the title of the illustrated lecture to be given by Capt. William C. Eddy in Macbride auditorium tomorrow evening at 7:30. At present, commanding officer of the navy's radar training center, Captain Eddy is a well-known authority on electronics, television and radar. Every person is invited to attend free of charge.

Famous Inventions
While in the submarine service after graduation from the United States Naval academy in 1922, Captain Eddy indulged in what he calls "gadgets," a pastime destined to make him famous later in the engineering field and which resulted in many new devices for navy use. Among these was the Eddy amplifier, a device used aboard submarines for sound receiving. The principle involves transforming sound into a meter reading. He was instrumental in developing the periscope antenna which enabled a submarine to broadcast without surfacing.

Next on the list of discoveries was a gadget that produced a method of determining a ship's speed by recording the frequency of propeller beats. One of the more amazing though less scientific Eddy discoveries was soon to follow. He developed what he called a "submarine outboard" for use in determining the zigzag cause of a surface ship attempting to escape attack. All at once with the help of this gadget there was a miraculous improvement in marksmanship aboard Captain Eddy's submarine. The target couldn't escape. Admirals were baffled and snatched Captain Eddy's "outboard." At once they developed a new set of strategic zig-zags.

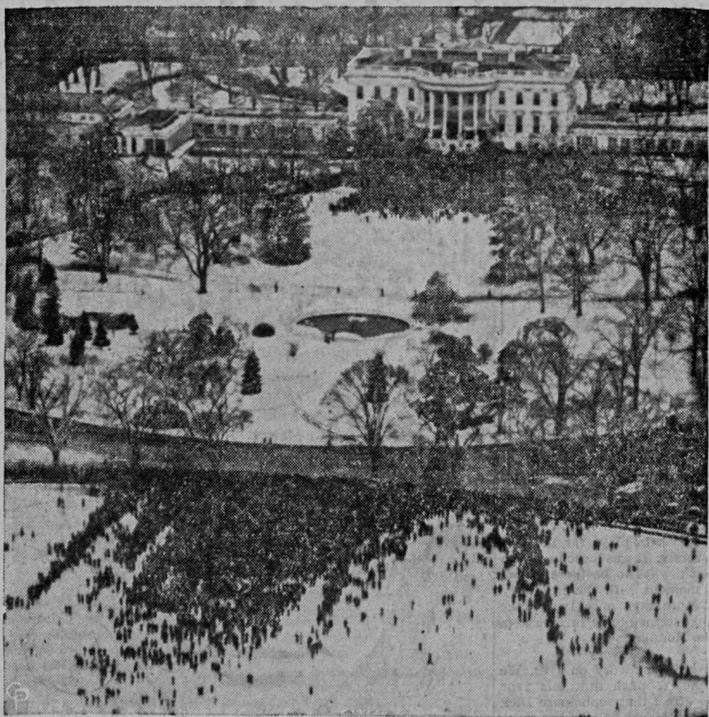

Assigned Gunnery Control
His next assignment from the navy was gunnery control, where he discovered a way of producing the effect of heavy sea as a gunnery problem on board ship without stirring from the Brooklyn navy yard.

Later, after retirement from the navy, he worked for Philo Farnsworth, television pioneer, as chief of video effects for NBC's television outlet in New York. These three years were a gadgeteer's paradise for Captain Eddy. He created many strange effects for television broadcasting: six little spiders spinning a web on actual miniature spinning wheels; a growing hedge of roses; a frog that would talk, sleep, wink and catch flies; and assorted phenomena, all for the visual effect in television broadcast. His spinning spiders were on display in a special room at NBC dedicated to Captain Eddy's gadgets, and he developed a puppet that could execute fifteen mechanical movements in the manner of a human being.

Licks Television "Bug"
Many important additions in the field of television were developed by Captain Eddy. Lighting television was a serious bug to directors, but he licked this problem by devising a new means of lighting in the studio that still is used by NBC.

In the fall of 1940 Captain Eddy took an assignment with Paramount pictures to build a television studio and broadcasting station in Chicago's loop. With two second-hand police transmitters, he and a colleague went to work. He had a staff of five youngsters who were interested in television, and in record time Balaban and Katz's television station was on the air. With the new television studio underway, Captain Eddy once more became a patron of his favorite pastime, gadgetry. Among his new discoveries were an improved focusing device for the

INAUGURAL CROWDS—INSIDE, OUTSIDE GROUNDS

THIS MAGNIFICENT PHOTO, taken from the top of the Washington Monument, shows the two inaugural crowds, the lucky 5,913 who got into the South Grounds of the White House in Washington and who may be seen clustered about that historic structure in the background. In foreground, outside the White House, may be seen the larger crowd—those unable to gain entrance. Note the solitary figures half-way between the groups, presumably guards.

Basketball Scheduled

The schedule for this week through Monday, Jan. 29, of the women's intramural basketball tournament is as follows: tomorrow night at 7:15, Gamma Phi Beta vs. Currier I and Delta Gamma vs. Independent III; at 8:30, Sigma Delta Tau vs. Alpha Delta Pi; Thursday night at 7:15, Kappa Alpha Theta vs. Delta Delta Delta and Chi Omega vs. Clinton place; at 8:30 is Currier annex vs. Independent II; Monday afternoon, Jan. 29, at 4 o'clock is Commons I vs. Commons II.

Officials for the Wednesday and Thursday games are: Peg Malcolm, A4 of Wellesley, Mass.; Paula Raff, A3 of Highland Park, Ill.; and Tanny Burnett, A4 of Tiptonville, Tenn.; at 7:15 Wednesday and at 8:30, Dorothy Wirts, A3 of Iowa Falls, and Bettie Lew Schmidt, A2 of Freeport, Ill. Thursday officials are: Gwen Smith, G of San Marcos, Tex., and Marge Elliott, G of Marshalltown, at 7:15 and Peg Wilson, G of Aurora, Ill., and Carol Dunger, G of Marshalltown at 8:30.

Armless Veteran Granted License To Drive Car

DES MOINES (AP)—Loss of both arms below the elbow in the war isn't going to keep Staff Sgt. Thomas M. Dougherty of Sioux City from driving a car.

Clarence Shrier, superintendent of the Iowa drivers license division, said Dougherty would be allowed to maintain an Iowa drivers license on the basis of a Michigan state police recommendation.

The examining officer in Michigan told the Iowa department that 29-year-old Dougherty "has an artificial left hand and a hook device on the right hand."

In a single ring ceremony, Lila Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bucklin of Bayard, became the bride of Kirk Cammack, son of Mrs. Edna Cammack of Storm Lake, Dec. 13 in the Church of Christ at Bagley. The Rev. Iyle V. Newman officiated.

Green-Durian
In a candlelight ceremony, Marilyn Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Reo Green of Ft. Dodge, became the bride of Lieut. (j.g.) Robert Durian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durian, also of Ft. Dodge, Jan. 14 in the First Presbyterian church at Ft. Dodge. Dr. H. G. Hilscher officiated at the single ring service.

The bride, a graduate of Ft. Dodge high school, attended Ft. Dodge junior college and has been employed in that city.

Morse-Goode
Announcement has been made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Roxanna Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon E. Morse of Council Bluffs, to Sgt. Donald Paul Goode, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Goode, also of Council Bluffs. The wedding is planned for the near future.

Miss Morse, a graduate of Abraham Lincoln high school in Council Bluffs, attended the University of Iowa, where she was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is now employed by the Mutual Life Insurance company in Omaha, Neb.

Reinking-Morlock
Paula Reinking, daughter of Mrs. Louise Reinking of Clarence, became the bride of Capt. Mark J. Morlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morlock of Aurora, Ill., in a double ring ceremony in the First Baptist church at Edmondton, Canada, Dec. 24. The ceremony was performed by Capt. James R. Cox, chaplain in the army air- forces.

Knutson-Wieber
Mr. and Mrs. Manly Knutson of Ellsworth announce the marriage of their daughter, VeDonna Maree, to Bryce Wieber of Denver, Colo., Nov. 13 in St. Louis, Mo.

The bride was graduated from Ellsworth high school and the University of Iowa. She has been employed in Denver.

Hillel Foundation Holds Election

Hillel foundation met and elected officers for the current year yesterday afternoon at 4 p. m. Those elected to office are: Frances Kelberg, A3 of Iowa Falls, president; Marian Levitt, A3 of Des Moines, vice-president; Julius Spivack, A2 of Waterloo, recording secretary; Betty Silverberg, C4 of Storm Lake, treasurer, and Enid Levantini Kam, A3 of New York City, corresponding secretary.

Capt. Ralph A. Thiessen Dies in Plane Crash in Oregon After Completing Mission

Former University Student Awarded Many Decorations

A plane crash near Portland, Ore., Jan. 6, killed Capt. Ralph A. Thiessen, a former University of Iowa student from Hamburg. Captain Thiessen, who had flown his 50th mission on April 16, 1944, accomplished his final mission in line of duty before the crash.

Full military honors were given at the grave of the flyer in his home town with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thiessen, his brother, Jack Thiessen and his wife, Ruth Givens Thiessen in attendance. Another brother, Pvt. James Thiessen, is serving now with the armed forces in Italy.

Captain Thiessen was born in Hamburg Feb. 29, 1920. He attended public schools at Hamburg and worked until 1941 when he enrolled at the university.

On March 13, 1942, he entered the armed forces and after pre-flight training at Santa Ana, Calif., he was trained as a pilot at Thunderbird field in Phoenix, Ariz. After further training he received orders for overseas duty.

On June 7, 1943, he reached North Africa, where he served with the 15th airforce. The military records indicate that Captain Thiessen served in combat with distinction. He merited the Air medal and eight oak leaf clusters, the silver star, the Distinguished flying cross and oak leaf cluster.

Lieut. William L. Meardon
Lieut. (j. g.) William L. Meardon, USNR, of 1851 Muscatine avenue, has received the distinguished flying cross and the gold star in lieu of a second air medal, the navy department announced.

The citations accompanying the awards were signed by Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of the first carrier task forces of the United States Pacific fleet. A pilot of a navy Helicot fighter, Lieutenant Meardon received both awards following aerial flights as squadron photographic officer and wingman.

The Distinguished flying cross was awarded after a reconnaissance mission from Sept. 9 to Sept. 22, when, without supporting aircraft, Lieutenant Meardon flew repeatedly at low altitudes in the face of intense enemy anti-aircraft fire to insure photographic coverage of the designated areas. In these actions he strated and destroyed two enemy planes on the ground and assisted in the destruction of one enemy vessel and the damaging of another. The citation accompanying the cross reads: "His photographic results were of inestimable value to our forces in the subsequent attainment of objectives."

From January through September of 1944, the navy pilot participated in 34 strike missions in the central and south Pacific areas. Flying a total of 266 hours in the combat zone, he aided in protecting American forces against enemy attack, damaging and destroying enemy aircraft, ground installations and shipping to such a degree that "our forces were materially aided in the accomplishment of their objectives by his personal combat efficiency."

Lieut. Donald Kessler
Arriving in the 15th army airforce in Italy recently, Lieut. Donald F. Kessler of 319 E. Burlington street, has been assigned to a veteran combat group. A bombardier on a B-24 Liberator bomber, Lieutenant Kessler has joined a group which has flown more than 150 combat missions and which has been cited twice by the war department for outstanding performance against the enemy.

Before entering the service on May 8, 1942, the bombardier was studying at the University of Iowa. His wife, Mrs. Regina M. Kessler, and his father, Fred B. Kessler, live at the Iowa City address.

Lieut. Robert S. Ivie
Another Iowa City lieutenant, Lieut. Robert S. Ivie, was presented the air medal after participating in numerous damaging strikes against Japanese airfields in the Solomon islands and Bismarck Archipelago.

Lieutenant Ivie, 26, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram S. Ivie, 127 Melrose avenue.

Award of the air medal was made in the name of the President by marine Col. Zebulon C. Hopkins, commanding officer of the B-25 squadron to which Lieutenant Ivie is attached.

Since coming overseas in February with the first marine B-25 outfit to fly directly into the combat zone, Lieutenant Ivie has participated in 38 combat missions against enemy installations in the Solomon islands, New Britain and New Ireland. He has flown a total of 840 hours, 250 of that total having been run up in the combat zone.

A graduate of the City high school in 1936, Lieutenant Ivie was graduated from the university in 1940 and then enrolled at the Harvard law school in Cambridge, Mass. He studied there two years before enlisting in the marine corps as an aviation cadet.

Yellow Jaundice Reported in Iowa

DES MOINES (AP)—An outbreak of about 100 cases of acute catarrhal jaundice in the Tama-Toledo area was reported yesterday by the state health department.

The jaundice is rarely fatal but its victims are sick in bed for a week or more. Yellowed skin is one of its manifestations. It usually appears in rural or small town areas.

"The disease was believed to be spread by human contact. The source is difficult to trace because the incubation period is from three to five weeks. Children seem to contract the jaundice more easily than adults although some of the victims are adults.

Air General Dies

BRIG. GEN. Frederick W. Castle, one of the pioneers of the United States Eighth airforce, was killed in action Dec. 24 when his Fortress was shot down by seven Messerschmitts in the Lege, Belgium, area. Ordering his crew to bail out, Castle refused to jettison the about-to-explode bomb load, for his craft was flying over allied soldiers in an attack against the German breakthrough. The air hero was known as the "flying colonel" until Nov. 20, when he was promoted to a one star general.

The end of the war or the end of active service does not end all of a serviceman's problems, and returning servicemen of Johnson county are finding the local Red Cross chapter ready to help them make the adjustment to civilian life.

The local chapter during the past 10 months has served 424 ex-servicemen. Cases have ranged from supplying information and forms for mustering-out-pay to financial assistance for veterans' families during the period their government claims are pending. Assistance in filing claims for government benefits is only one of many ways in which the local Red Cross chapter helps ex-servicemen.

Almost as important as helping to prepare applications for claims are the personal counselling services. Information about legislation affecting veterans, referrals to various public and private agencies for different services, advice in regard to employment, plus the friendly guidance of persons familiar with local conditions, combine to make the returning fighting man realize his home town is interested in his welfare.

Bill to Regulate Air Commerce in State Before House Group

DES MOINES (AP)—The house aeronautics committee yesterday began study of a 25-page bill sponsored by the state commerce commission which would place regulation of all intrastate air commerce under the commission.

The bill, which designates all persons, firms and corporations engaged in air commerce of persons or freight as "common carriers by aircraft," would require those engaged in air commerce in Iowa to obtain a certificate from the commission before starting operations. Lines already operating would be given 120 days in which to apply for a certificate. All applications would be considered at a public hearing at which objections might file protests.

The bill, which was proposed as the "Iowa Air Commerce Act," would give the commission broad powers in the regulation of fares, routes, schedules and other commercial air line activities.

All airlines would be required to file schedules of rates and charges with the state commerce commission and if the commission would be authorized to postpone the effective date of such charges for 90 days while it investigated them. The proposed act also would empower the commission to suspend or revoke already existing charges and rates.

Other sections of the bill seek to give the commission power to order airlines to extend already existing lines to cover other points and to direct the lines to furnish additional airplanes and faster service on their existing lines.

Hawkeyes Out-Race Speedy Indiana 56-51

Win Tenth Straight Game

Clay Wilkinson Leads Iowa Scorers With 20; Postels Hits for 13

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer
Iowa's strong men did it again last night with a smashing 56 to 51 victory over a game and tough Indiana quintet on the fieldhouse court before an estimated 11,500 wild-eyed fans.

The Hawkeyes' scoring spree started just 10 seconds after the opening whistle when towering Clay Wilkinson dove high in the air to tap one in. The Hoosiers soon followed with a long shot and the battle was on. For 18 minutes of the first half the score saw-sawed back and forth—first the Hawks would lead, then the Hoosiers.

Indiana Leads
With four minutes of the struggle passed into history, Jim Copeland hit from the side for Indiana and they took the lead for the first time in the game, 7 to 6. But, Ned Postels, playing one of his best games of the season tied it up on a free throw. A minute later, Ray Brandenburg came in to 9 to 7 in the Hoosiers' favor but, once again, Postels hit from way out to tie it up.

For the rest of the half it was a battle of who could get the most points in the least time and Iowa won by a scant margin of five points, 33-28. The brilliant play of Clay Wilkinson under the baskets was definitely the big factor in the Hawks' win as he dumped in 12 of his 20 points in the first half, most of them on tip-ins.

Come Back Strong
The Harrison men came out strong after the rest period and had soon built their lead to a ten-point margin on baskets by the Wilkinson brothers, and Jack Spencer. With five minutes of the second period gone the Hawks led 43 to 33, then 45 to 35, and then, with Ray Brandenburg and the sophomore Gene Paris hitting from all angles, the Hoosiers slowly cut the margin down.

But the Hawks were not idle as Indiana continued to pour it on. With four minutes left in the ball game, the Hawks held only a scant three point lead, 51 to 48.

Grow Desperate
Then the Indiana five, growing desperate as the time slowly ran out and the Hawks stalled effectively, started to foul in their attempts to break up the Iowa passes. Spencer, and then Ives, hit on consecutive charity tosses, before Brandenburg was able to find the range again for the Hoosiers.

Then Postels came through with a push shot from way out and raised the count to 55 to 49 with a minute left. At this point, Al Kralovansky stole the ball from the stalling Hawks and hit from the side to run the score to 55 to 49.

their Hoosiers undoubtedly gave ous vsst performance of any quin- head, at has appeared in the field- size e this season. Their high- gripping attack, headed by the sen- tional Paris, who hit for 18 points, kept the Hawkeyes busy all evening in an attempt to stop the attack. Iowa could find no defense to stop the one-handed flip shots from the side of the floor and their looping long ones from way out.

CLAYTON WILKINSON
Iowa Center

CO-CAPT. JACK SPENCER
Iowa Guard

CLAY WILKINSON, on the left, scored 20 points last night to pace the Hawkeyes to their fourth consecutive Big Ten victory as they trounced Indiana 56 to 51. The passing of Jack Spencer, at right, and Dick Ives was instrumental in icing the triumph. The Hoosiers gave Iowa plenty of scares before some last half scoring settled the matter. The Hawks now have won ten straight games this season.

Despite the Record—Cards Only Hit .500

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—"Why don't you write a piece about the Cardinals being above the .500 mark for the first time in more than 40 years," Bill Brandt suggested, and as it was the first time we were aware of that, and it would give us a chance to get away from stories about the F-F-F-F's for a day, we'll do it.

Considering the fortunes of the St. Louis National league in recent years it's almost unbelievable that, until early last year, their over-all percentage of games won and lost since 1901 was less than .500.

Boost Average
When the Cards finished the 1943 season their victory percentage was .4998, and their first three games in 1944, which they won, brought the mark above .500. At the end of last season they had boosted their average to .504.

It was a long, tough climb for the Red Birds, who lately have been winning pennants with such ease they get little credit and less sympathy. It took eight pennants and the feat of being the only National league team to win more than 100 games three straight years to reach their present .504 mark.

Wrong Foot
They started out on the wrong foot in 1900 by losing 75 while winning only 65, but they brought their two-year average above .500 the next year by winning 76 while losing 64.

Then came the famine, and, among other disastrous seasons, there were two straight years when they lost more than 100 games each year. In fact, in only three of the first 17 years did they finish above .500 and there were 12 straight years they finished in the second division. And it's the Cardinals we're talking about, not the Phils.

Anyway, considering the agonies the St. Louis fans must have suffered through those early years they should not be begrudged what satisfaction they can get out of the current status of their team. After all, a club whose victory average is .504 for 44 years can't be accused of being a glutton, except for punishment.

Bill Brandt, who doesn't care how often you mention the Cardinals, or any other club as long as it is in the National league, the National league being his ration book in his role of publicity man, also has another item concerning the St. Louis team.

More Homers
This one isn't too surprising. It just points out the fact that the Cards were one of the two National league teams to hit more home runs on their home lot than their opponents did last season. Of 53 home runs hit at Sportsman's Park, the Cards hit 39, or 73.6 percent of them. Boston accounted for 61 of 95 hit at Braves field for a .537 mark, but all the other clubs were out-hit in the home run department by the visitors. The Reds made the poorest showing at home, making only 14 of the 37 circuit drives at Crosley field.

As might be expected, considering the telephone booth dimensions, the Polo grounds were the happy-hunting grounds for stickmen, seeing 181 balls go into or over the stands. The Giants got only 75 of them, which is understandable. They weren't batting against their own pitchers.

Despite that dubious distinction, the Millbrook stable's son of Chance Play-Joybird, now five years old, earned $99,560, pretty good for a horse that vets said was anemic all summer and didn't have nearly enough blood to be out there running.

His three months vacation since running in New York in October has done wonder for Alex. He has gained 150 pounds and improved 100 percent, relates trainer Jimmy Hastie, who claims "there isn't a horse in the country who could beat him now. He'll run away from handicap stars when racing resumes."

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gene Dearnoff, former National Amateur Three-Cushion Billiard champion, last night set what is believed to be a world's amateur record for a high run when he made 16 consecutive billiards in a city tournament match.

Dearnoff said he was not sure what the amateur record was, but that he thought it was not over 11. The world's professional record is 25, set by Willie Hoppe in an exhibition in 1928.

Ohio State Beats Purdue by 50 to 35

Warren Amling Leads Scoring With 13 Points As Bucks Get Revenge

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State exacted a full measure of basketball revenge last night from Purdue—the only team to beat the Buckeyes in four previous Western conference games—by putting on a blistering last half drive that brought a 50 to 35 victory over the Boilermakers.

To make the Buck vengeance complete, Don Grate, ace Ohio State forward, who was held without a point in the previous game against Purdue, got 10 points, nine of them coming in the last half when the Bucks suddenly caught fire.

False Lead
Ohio State jumped into a 11 to 5 lead and then stood stock still as Purdue poured 10 points through the hoop. The Bucks rallied, however, and the count was deadlocked at 23 at halftime.

Billy Gosewehr of Purdue and Jack Pfeiffer of Ohio State were tossed out of the game with three minutes and 50 seconds to go when they tangled under the basket and squared off to throw some punches.

Warren Amling, who has been the low scorer among Ohio State's starters this season, was the high man in the point department last night with 13, most of them on one-handed fielders from the foul circle. Myrwin Anderson got 10 for Purdue.

Leagues Not Likely To Get Commissioner

CHICAGO (AP)—There probably will be discussion of a new commissioner to govern baseball when the major leagues hold their joint meeting at New York Feb. 3 but, in the opinion of William Harridge, president of the American league, it is doubtful if a man to replace the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis will be elected.

"From the sentiment of our (American league) members, I doubt that there will be an election," Harridge said last night. "I do not believe they want to rush into an election without taking sufficient time to discuss possible candidates."

Harridge said he did not know whether individual candidate would be discussed, but that duties of the office probably would be discussed.

The 10-man committee which drew up a new major league agreement will meet in New York Feb. 2 to approve a final formal draft, and the joint meeting of the league will be held the following day to approve the document.

Maybe So

About Dick Ives
The Game Was Good

By BOB KRAUSE

CLAY WILKINSON and Ned Postels may have scored most of the points last night but, the way we saw it, Dick Ives and Jack Spencer won the ball game from a pleasant-to-watch Indiana team.

It was these two men who set up the cash-in plays for the two high scorers. It was these two who seemed always to be there at the right moment with the necessary pass. More than once Ives broke up what seemed to be sure baskets for the Hoosiers.

A Theory
We have a theory on Ives. We have heard much talk this year to the effect that sophomore Dick is not the player he was last year. This comes from those numerous fans who, more than anything else, seem to wish that basketball consisted of nothing more than throwing the ball through the hoop.

Their axiom is: Score, Score, Score—and let the blood fall where it will splatter. They may have a point, too, since, we are told, scoring baskets is the way to win games.

Last Season
But, it would appear, there must be some maneuvering beforehand in order to get the other team out of the way. The crowd loved Ives last season because he was a big point-getter. This year, because the brilliant forward has turned into more of a play-maker, he is no longer quite so much of a public marvel—in the eyes of the public.

We think that Dick is a better ball player than he has ever been, and that he was at his best last night. His ball-handling was superb, and, as was mentioned before, he made a number of basket-saving steals from the Hoosiers.

CONCERNING THE GAME itself were some rather interesting features. Clay Wilkinson, sizzling for the first half, suffered a common ailment in the second stanza.

This is probably best-known as the "cool-off." It is a common disease. Clay may have had just as many chances at the basket after the intermission, but they just weren't dropping.

Best Team
We honestly think that Indiana was the best team to play in the fieldhouse this year. Possibly, if they had kept up their boring-in tactics of the first half, the outcome would have been different.

But, toward the end of the opening frame, and throughout the last half the Hoosiers resorted to long shots. These, of course, kept the people in an uproar, but they didn't hit often enough to let Indiana draw too close.

Well-Coached
The Hoosiers were a poised and beautifully coached outfit. Despite the fact that the starting five was largely sophomore, the men acted as though they had played together before. Gene Paris, Al Kralovansky, Jack Mercer, Jim Copeland and Ray Brandenburg seemed to know their way around.

Brandenburg, in particular, was a driving and tremendously fast type of player.

Well, on to Illinois, where, we hope, the Champaign will not be too heady. Forgive it, will you.

Demaret Returns To Golfing Wars

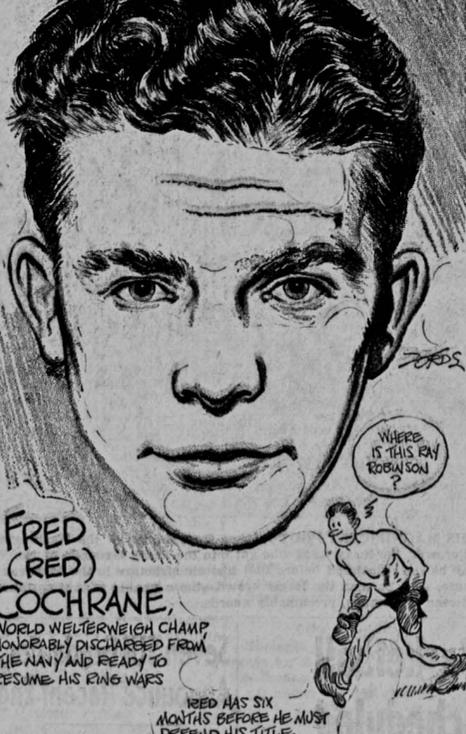

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Smiling Jimmy Demaret returns to tournament golf after 14 months with a plug for the game as an excellent "medicine" for the war-weary.

For 15 years golf has been a fine sport and profitable business for Demaret, a big money winner along the tournament trail until he entered the navy. Since the war Jimmy has discovered a third dimension of value in the game. He calls it "the great rehabilitator."

Demaret, a specialist in athletics, first class, was transferred recently from Bainbridge, Md., to the Corpus Christi naval air station, thus will be able to join his golfing pals of yesterday in two tournaments—the Texas open at San Antonio this weekend and the Corpus Christi open next week.

University High Examines Mistakes

Although a few men showed themselves to be fine defensive players under any circumstances, Coach Ross Wedemeyer stated at practice yesterday that it was the Blue Hawk defensive lapses which brought about the Anamosa victory last Friday night.

John Miller, regular, and Moe Whitebook, reserve, played fine games at guard, but all through the contest the superior speed of the winning five shook men open for close-in tries and it was this faculty for getting those shots which won the game for Anamosa.

A Puzzle
The University high mentor stated that, also the Blue Raider zone defense proved quite a puzzle for the Rivermen, and it was never completely solved, although the locals were able to match the Raiders point-for-point during the last two frames.

Led by the tall and fast Frank O'Brien, the victors seemed able to cash in continually on close shots, while the Blue Hawks missed set-ups time and again. The ease with which the Raiders were able to shake loose from the Rivermen's man-for-man defense seems mainly to have been due to their superior speed, although Coach Wedemeyer stated that the Anamosans used several successful screening plays.

Serious Words
Yesterday the Rivermen plunged into serious preparation for their clash this Friday with the West Liberty Comets on the University high floor. A shooting drill took up most of the drill session, and the Blue Hawks will spend the rest of the week on offensive and defensive preparations for the game. Although the locals conquered the Comets rather easily in a contest at West Liberty several weeks ago, the coach cautioned his men against overconfidence.

The loss to Anamosa last week gives the Rivermen a season record of six games won and two lost. However, the defeat does not affect their league record, and the locals now are tied with West Branch for the lead, each five having won three while losing none during the conference season.

Cadet Matmen Face Skyers Here Tonight

In a return engagement, the Ottumwa NAS wrestling team will come to Iowa City tonight to meet the Seahawk team in a group of exhibition matches.

There will probably be 10 matches instead of the usual eight according to head coach Archie Mathis. The Ottumwa squad will have more than one man in the same weight class. The Pre-Flight squad will provide competition for each Ottumwa grappler.

The sailors' record to date stands at four wins and one tie. The navy team chalked up a victory against the Skyers last Tuesday and will make an attempt to repeat the 27-3 margin of last week.

Leave for Training
Jim Milliman, 158-pound wrestler and George Bettie, heavyweight, will not be here for tonight's matches as they leave for primary training at Norman, Okla., today.

Walter Coupe, who was the only Seahawk grappler to obtain a fall in Saturday's tied match with Minnesota will be giving his last performance for the cadet team as will John Petry of the 145-pound division. The two leave Wednesday morning for primary training at Ottumwa.

Coach Mathis announced the addition of several new cadets to the varsity squad. New names in the lineup tonight will include cadets Van Meter, Leiske and Liggett. All 10 matches are scheduled, there will probably be on heavyweight contest because of the lack of a heavyweight on the Ottumwa squad.

Great Lakes Wins No. 18 Over Badgers

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Seven field goals by Randy Clark and five more by Walt Budko in the last half enabled a smooth Great Lakes cage aggregation to defeat the University of Wisconsin Badgers last night, 66-51, after a nip and tuck opening period.

The Bluejackets rushed into an early lead but the Badgers, led by Gene Mathews and Bill Johnson, overhauled them 19-15 and clung to the lead through the remainder of the first half. At the intermission, it was Wisconsin 30, Great Lakes 29.

It was Great Lakes' 18th win in 21 starts this season.

Darlene Loney, Donald Zeman to Marry This Morning at 9 in St. Patrick's Church

Before an altar banked with baskets of carnations and snapdragons, Darlene Loretta Loney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Loney, 823 Bowery street, will become the bride of Donald John Zeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zeman, route 4, this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. J. O'Reilly will officiate at the single ring ceremony.

Nuptial music will be provided by Mrs. Will Condon, organist, and Will Holland, vocalist, both of Iowa City.

Marjorie Donohue of Iowa City will attend the bride as maid of honor and La Vonne Loney will serve her sister as bridesmaid. Best man will be Cleo Schomburg of Lone Tree and Maynard Zeman, cousin of the bridegroom, will usher.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, has chosen a white floor-length gown of slipper satin, designed princess style, with a sweetheart neckline, leg-of-mutton sleeves and a yoke edged in pearls. Her fingertip veil will fall from a pearl tiara.

A single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, will be her only jewelry, and she will carry a bouquet of white gladioli. Miss Donohue has selected a blue floor-length gown of net over satin which is also of princess style. It is fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her matching shoulder-length veil will fall from a Juliet cap and she also will wear a strand of pearls.

The bridesmaid will be attired in a pink gown designed identically like the maid of honor's and each will wear a white carnation corsage.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Loney, has chosen a grey suit with fuchsia accessories, and the bridegroom's mother will wear a navy blue dress with navy accessories. Both will have shoulder corsages of white carnations.

A 1 o'clock reception will be held this afternoon in the home of the bride's parents. Table decorations will include a three-tiered wedding cake and bouquets of mixed flowers. Mrs. Will Loney and Mrs. Joseph Eisenhofer, both of Iowa City, will serve as hostesses.

After the reception, the couple will leave on a short wedding trip to Chicago. For traveling, the bride will wear a white wool dress with black accessories.

A graduate of St. Patrick's high school, the bride has been employed at the Northwestern Bell Telephone office.

The bridegroom is a graduate of

Legion to Hold Ritual Sunday For War Dead

The second county American Legion memorial service for Johnson county casualties will be for nine servicemen who have given their lives, according to Frank Lee, commander of the local post.

The ritual will be held Sunday, Jan. 28, in the American Legion quarters in the Community building. Services will begin at 2 p. m. and doors will be closed at that time. The service is for families and friends of the gold star servicemen and for members of the American Legion and the auxiliary.

The list of casualties is as follows, and includes casualties since the last memorial service Oct. 28, 1944 until Jan. 9, 1945:

Pvt. Melvin Diltz, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Diltz, now residing in California; Sergt. Raymond C. Sasina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Sasina, 414 S. Madison street. His wife resides in Cedar Rapids.

By V-Mail— Yuletide Greetings

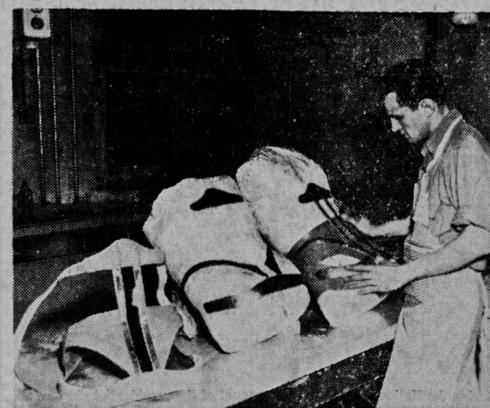

Another chapter in the history of Iowa is now being recorded by the State Historical society by the collection of V-mail Christmas cards to add to the story of Iowans in World War II.

These unique greetings come from such distant lands as France, India, Italy, Germany, Egypt, Australia and carry a variety of greetings. Cartoons of Sad Sack seem to be quite popular, but others have patriotic designs or sketches of Christmas scenes in these remote lands. In several instances free-hand sketches were made by servicemen who did not have access to other cards.

Hospital Brace Shop Builds Appliances to Straighten Bodies

ONE OF the three women employees of the brace shop, Mrs. Edna Sellers, is shown here fastening the felt padding to the metal frame with copper rivets. Final padding and stitching is in the hands of these women as well as the fabrication of arch and ankle supports.

Imagine being able to fashion with your hands an appliance which will enable a man to walk for the first time in his life. This is the work of nine people in the brace shop located in the basement of the university Children's hospital.

Straighten Bodies
There, workers cut, twist, bend and mould leather and metal into lightweight frames which will help straighten human bodies or support them enough to allow victims of disease and accident to carry on many ordinary daily jobs.

The making of a back or leg brace is a long and complicated process. The affected body part is wrapped with gauze with plaster of paris moulded over it. After the plaster has hardened, the form is split open, taken off the patient's body and brought to the brace shop. Here the inside of the form is lubricated and filled with plaster to make an exact copy of the patient's body on which to build the brace.

Patterns Guide
Paper patterns of the necessary metal parts are made to serve as a guide to the workers in the metal shop. The finished metal parts are then placed on the plaster form, twisted and bent until they exactly fit. The metal framework is then riveted together and polished.

The leather used as padding and support is soaked in water and stretched over the plaster model until dry to form a moulded shape that will not lose its form. The metal frame and moulded leather are then turned over to women workers for assembling, sewing and the addition of straps, buckles and felt padding.

All appliances made are built according to prescriptions of the orthopedic surgeons in each case. "We don't make artificial limbs," said Donald Sullivan, foreman of the shop. "All that work is done by private manufacturers. We do maintain a repair shop for the people who have had operations at the University hospital and have been fitted here."

5,000 Orders
The shop foreman estimated that about 5,000 orders are handled each year. However, the work sometimes comes in spurts. In two days last week, 11 full back braces were made.

Since the University hospitals operate principally for the indigent patients of Iowa, the great majority of work done in the brace shop is for patients of that classification. Occasionally a patient comes from such a remote place as Brazil or Mexico.

War Affects Materials
War-time shortages have affected the shop in many ways but according to the foreman, a high priority has enabled them to obtain the more essential critical materials. Many of the better grades of leather are unobtainable now but substitutes have been found. As to the metalwork, monel metal, duraluminum, sheet metal and galvanized iron have been available in sufficient quantities to fill most of their needs.

The manpower shortage is the greatest drawback. Where twelve trained workers were employed before, eight now take care of the work. The construction of orthopedic appliances is a technical trade requiring a long period of training. Workers are trained through a system of apprenticeship with master workers. The

Hick Hawks Extend Invitation to Dancers To Attend Meetings

The Hick Hawks are extending a special invitation to any one who is interested in square dancing to attend their meeting tonight and also the following meeting next Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. This invitation is for the next two meetings only but after that time those who wish to become regular members of the group may do so. No new memberships will be accepted after Jan. 30 and old members who have not returned since the beginning of this semester will be dropped after that time unless they reinstate themselves before Jan. 30.

Members of the group are expected to attend meetings regularly in order that the group may progress steadily.

DONALD SULLIVAN, foreman of the brace shop, is shown making the final adjustments on a newly finished back brace. In this operation, the metal supports are bent to insure the greatest amount of comfort and support to the patient and the leather straps are cut to the correct length.

Theta Rho Observes Anniversary at Party

In observance of the beginning of their 10th year of organization, Old Gold Theta Rho girls were entertained last night by the Iowa City Rebekah lodge at a meeting held at 7:30 p. m. in the Odd Fellow hall.

The tables were decorated with the symbol of the club, with bluebirds pictured on the place cards. A large birthday cake with 10 candles on it was centered on the table.

Mrs. Ida Weatherly, Mrs. Florence Fenlon and Mrs. Bess Adams were members of the committee from the Rebekah lodge who were in charge of the party.

One-Fifth of Students Hold Outside Jobs, Shows Latest Report

Of the 3,500 students on the University of Iowa campus, 700 are now doing some kind of outside work for self-support, it was estimated by Robert L. Ballantyne, manager of student placement in the office of student affairs.

Of these, nearly 500 have part-time jobs and about 100 are employed by the university dining service. Jobs in various local business establishments account for the remainder of the workers.

"We believe that outside work is beneficial to the student. In many cases, the working student is among the class leaders, both in academic studies and in extra-curricular activities," Ballantyne said. Faculty advisers help to re-arrange the class schedule if a student's working hours and schedule conflict.

Hundreds of students have filed application cards with complete information about themselves with the office of student affairs.

Often the office can make a job for a needy student simply by a study of the application card. Noting some special qualifications, Ballantyne tells employers of the availability of such a person, and the student is quickly placed.

University Veterans To Hold Discussion At Club Tea Today

"Veterans Are Human Beings" will be the topic discussed by Bob Gilliam, Bill Boswell and Richard Nazette, World War II veterans studying on the campus, this afternoon at the University club tea in Iowa Union at 3:30.

A freshman law student from Eldora, Nazette is president of the University Veterans' association. Dr. William Coder, director of veteran service, is in charge of the program.

Mrs. Harry Newburn is chairman of the tea committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Everett Plass, Mrs. Erling Thoen, Mrs. Lewis Ward and Mrs. Coder.

The discussion will be held promptly at 3:30 instead of 4 o'clock due to the class schedule of the participating students.

Mrs. Ned Smith is chairman for the month.
