Soviets Smash German Oder River Defenses

Capture Sommerfeld, 67 Miles Southeast Of Reich Capital

LONDON (AP)—The Red army has smashed the Germans' central Oder river defenses with a powerful 30-mile breakthrough which toppled three of the enemy's largest strongholds southeast of Berlin, Premier Marshal Stalin announced last night.

Steadily outflanking the Nazi Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line due east of the imperilled Reich capital, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army captured Sommerfeld only 67 miles southeast of greater Berlin, Sorau, 13 miles to the southeast, and Gruenberg, 25 miles northeast of Sommerfeld, an order of the day said.

45 Miles From Dresden Front dispatches said Konev's lower wing also had slashed within 45 miles of Dresden, capital of Saxony, after reaching the Neisse river in the area of Goerlitz, 74 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

The fall of the three "important junctions of communications and mighty strongpoints of German defenses," southeast of Berlin was aided by a United States heavy bomber attack on Cottbus, strategic rail junction only 27 miles west of captured Sommerfeld.

Allied Aerial Support In another striking example of close liaison between the American airmen and Russian ground forces nearly 500 United States bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, a big 12-way junction clogged with German troops and supply traffic rushed up in an effort to stop the Russians.

The Soviet communique said that the Russians had swept up 150 places in German Silesia and Berlin's home province of Brandenburg. These included Naumburg, on the broken Bober river defense line 12 miles east of Sommerfeld, and Schweitz, five miles southwest of Gruenberg.

Nazi Balkan Army Attempts to Escape From Vienna Sector

ROME (AP)—The Germans toiled desperately yesterday to get their battered Balkan army out of Yugoslavia for use against the Russians after daylight attacks by American and British planes had left the Zagreb-Vienna escape route littered with the wreckage of military trains.

Both United States and RAF craft struck heavy blows Wednesday at enemy movements northward toward Vienna. American heavies blasted rail yards at Graz, Maribor and Zagreb—all key points on the Nazi evacuation route—and escorting Lightning fighters shot up 12 heavily-loaded troop trains.

Only two Nazi fighters attempted to interfere as the fleet of more than 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators delivered their loads with what was officially described as good results. Both enemy planes were beaten off.

Report Says FDR Orders Investigation Of Relief For France

PARIS (AP)—President Roosevelt is having an investigation made of the reputed failure of American relief for France's civilians to be distributed during the current winter as reported promised to the French government, reliable persons said yesterday.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, special adviser to the president, has been charged with this task, according to these sources.

There is no official word whether the president will come to France himself, but many persons here expect him.

In official French quarters it was said that only one-fourth the supplies promised had been delivered.

Exile Polish Premier Defies Allied Ruling

Accuses Big Three Of Dictatorial Acts; Warns Against Russia

LONDON (AP)—Tomasz Arciszewski, premier of the exiled Polish government in London, declared yesterday that Poland will "never surrender to slavery and a new partition done here by the allies," and expressed indignation at the suggestion that his administration was without power to act.

The 67-year-old prime minister closed a 45-minute press conference blast against Russia when a reporter asked: "Does this government in London propose to do anything except talk?"

Arciszewski's eyes blazed and his voice was raised as he shot back: "Of course you may think these expressions of opinion by this government are superfluous, but under the orders of this government are important forces fighting on land, sea and in the air—and that is more than talking."

In connection with the troops under the London government, a dispatch from Rome yesterday reported that Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, commander of Polish troops in Italy, had issued an order of the day appealing to his men to maintain discipline despite "the heavy blow which the Polish cause has suffered."

Arciszewski accused the big three of dictatorial acts and said that Britain and the United States may be disillusioned by Russia "in the very near future."

Yanks, Chinese Drive Along Burma Road

KANDY, Ceylon (AP)—Tank-led American and Chinese forces driving down from northeastern Burma knocked out three Japanese tanks and captured numerous machineguns and other weapons in a brisk fight Wednesday near Hsenwi, only 24 miles from the rail terminus of Lashio, the southeast Asiatic command announced yesterday.

Driving southward along the old Burma road, the hard-hitting allied task force already has advanced more than halfway between the junction of the Ledo and Burma roads at Mongyu and Lashio, which is approximately 135 miles northeast of Mandalay. Kutkai, 48 miles north of Lashio, was seized Wednesday without opposition.

Troops of the 19th Indian division were reported to have made further gains in the Singu bridgehead on the east bank of the Irrawaddy river just north of Mandalay.

Eight Fliers Killed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Eight marine fliers were killed Wednesday night in the crash of seven planes of a flight of 18, the 11th naval district reported yesterday.

The navy said the planes, fighters and torpedo bombers, were wedged in by bad weather and crashed in widely separated areas.

Canadian First Welds Solid Bridgehead

U. S. Seventh Army Opens New Assault South of Saar Basin

PARIS (AP)—The Canadian First army in a two-mile gain poured troops and tanks yesterday across the last river before the stronghold of Goeh, beyond which lies open rolling country leading to Germany's great munitions producing region.

As Canadians and British established two crossings of the Niers river into a solid five-mile bridgehead, other forces pressing due east 14 miles inside Germany neared Moyland, less than two miles from the communications center of Calcar and 17 miles from Wesel in the northwest corner of the industrial Ruhr.

20 Miles Along Rhine On the north flank, Canadians seized control of 20 miles of the Rhine's south bank east of Jimmegan by entering Hurendelich and capturing a ferry crossing to the textile town of Emmerich, five miles northeast of Kleve.

At the opposite end of the western front, the United States Seventh army lashed out in a new attack south of the Saar basin that gained up to a mile and a half on a five-mile front.

This attack, dealt by the 44th division, ironed out a German salient east of the French city of Sarreguemines in the northern Vosges mountains.

Third Army Sector Comparative quiet lay over the remainder of the front, except for the Eifel mountain sector where the United States Third army is attacking the westwall south of Pruem. This fallen German citadel was under enemy artillery fire.

Best Third army advance of the day was a mile and a half through advanced westwall positions 25 miles south of Pruem along the Suer river.

A fall of 16 inches on the flooded Roer, where the United States First and Ninth and British Second armies are deployed, indicated that that troublesome barrier on the Cologne plain was returning to normal.

B-29 Crashes; Five Rescued

NEW YORK (AP)—A B-29 Superfortress crashed in Flushing bay about 4 p. m. (EWT) yesterday and exploded. Five persons were rescued by launches. The plane caught fire after striking the water.

It was not disclosed immediately how many passengers were in the plane.

The Superfortress was identified as such by Col. Eugene F. Gillespie, commanding officer of army air transport installations at La Guardia field. The crash occurred just off the airfield.

Witnesses said the giant bomber apparently attempted to land with the left outboard engine not operating, and appeared to overshoot the field.

As further described, the pilot pulled the ship up over Flushing bay at an altitude of about 50 feet and attempted a left turn. The left wing, witnesses said, seemed to dip into the water, sending the B-29 into a somersault as it struck.

Secretary Stimson Reports 61,962 Men Lost in January

WASHINGTON (AP)—Erasing the German salient in the Ardennes and launching small-scale offensives along the western front during January cost American ground forces 61,962 men, Secretary of War Stimson reported yesterday.

The month's losses, including 8,848 killed, 41,325 wounded and 11,789 missing, were substantially smaller than those on the same front in December when 74,788 ground troops were lost—principally during the German sweep into Belgium and Luxembourg.

Vern Haugland Describes—

Preparation of War Fleet

(Editors note: The following story written by Vern Haugland, Associated Press correspondent, Feb. 8 was released yesterday by the censor when news of the carrier force strike on Tokyo and environs was announced officially by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.)

Largest Task Force That task force will be the greatest ever known to man—greater even than dreamed of a few years ago and it will include the largest and newest American X carriers, battleships, light carriers, jeep carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

It will launch considerably more than 1,200 planes against Japan's main island of Honshu in the first low-level air attack upon Tokyo and any other cities selected as worthwhile targets.

Ships in this greatest of fighting fleets will stand off Honshu forming a line two hundred miles or more up and down the coast while fighter, dive-bomber and torpedo planes carry the war into the heart of Japan.

Constant Activity This great anchorage where warships and auxiliaries are preparing for the greatest strike of the war is a place of constant orderly activity. Small craft churn the blue-green waters, dashing back and forth between vessels.

At night low-lying clouds glow with the flashing of signals between ships.

It is a 24-hour-a-day job to get this battlefleet into operation.

Yanks Near Victory In Manila Drive

MacArthur Reports New Gains on Bataan; Corregidor Attacks

MANILA, Friday (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today that Japan's master plan to make Manila the turning point of the Luzon campaign in Nippon's favor is being smashed by a powerful American drive nearing victory in the scarred city and fast overrunning nearby Bataan peninsula.

Today's communique, reporting steady reduction of the enemy pocket in south Manila, new gains on Bataan and withering air attacks on Corregidor also announced seizure of an enemy document.

This document, the general said, made it clear the Japanese had expected to hold Manila with 20,000 troops, street and house fortifications, thousands of mines, elaborate concrete strongpoints and hundreds of heavy guns—all prepared for an attack from the south.

But MacArthur struck from the north and the campaign for Manila is close to American victory, with destruction of the defense system, slaughter of the last ditch defenders and capture of hundreds of cannon.

Of high interest is the swift progress on Bataan. In a push of only a few days down the east coast, Yanks of the 38th division have advanced four miles below Abucay bay to the eastern bastion of the final American defense line in 1942.

Plans to Draft 500,000 Chinese to Aid Yank Landings Announced

CHUNGKING (AP)—Japan's once-powerful position on the mainland is deteriorating rapidly, the United States commander in China declared yesterday as plans were announced for conscripting 500,000 Chinese for an all-out offensive in concert with coming American landings on the coast.

"Japan's over-all position is unfavorable," declared Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in the China theater, in one of the most optimistic statements yet made on the war in the east.

"I don't believe the Japanese people realize that, but I am confident the Japanese high command is deeply concerned. They must be."

Wedemeyer declared the first consideration was the defense of the supply terminal at Kunming, which lies on the Burma road and is a depot for supplies flown over the hump from India.

Yank Heavies Blast German Rail Yards

Dresden Hit Again In Non-Stop Support Of Russian Drives

LONDON (AP)—More than 1,100 American heavy bombers escorted by 450 fighters, carrying the greatest non-stop air attack of the war into its second day, threw their main weight of destruction yesterday against clogged rail yards at Cottbus, only 12 miles in front of the on-sweeping Russian army.

Burning Dresden also was hit again.

Fifteen bombers and six fighters of the Eighth airforce were missing from the Thursday's assault, but some were believed to have landed in friendly territory. It was announced last night that figures on the Eighth's losses Wednesday, when 1,350 bombers and 900 fighters took part, still were not available.

Nearly 500 bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, aiming at a vast rail web in the center of the city, where six main lines converge. Extensive rail repair installations also are in the city, which now is of prime importance in the German defense system since the heavy pounding of Berlin.

Dresden was attacked for the fourth time since the great air assault began Tuesday night, some 200 more American heavies bringing the total bomb weight unloaded on the Saxon capital to 4,000 tons.

Treasury Lifts Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Finland, Poland, and "other Baltic areas" no longer under German domination will not be considered "enemy territory," effective Friday, the treasury department announced yesterday.

The treasury lifted its ban on commercial and business communications with those areas, and postal service is resumed.

1,500 Aircraft Take Part In Blasting

Warships Shell Volcano Islands During Action

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Friday (AP)—The most powerful battleship and aircraft carrier force afloat poured more than 1,500 Hellecats, Helldivers and Avenger planes today at Tokyo while warships and army planes shelled and bombed islands to the south.

More flattops than America ever before assembled in a single sea operation are sending raiders in continuous waves against Tokyo's airfields and military defenses, tangling in sky battles with the enemy airforce.

The carriers, protected literally by thousands of anti-aircraft guns mounted on battleships, cruisers and destroyers, disgorged swarms of bombing, torpedoing and strafing raiders in the first such naval smash of the war at Japan's capital.

The huge and audacious operations, posing a challenge to Nippon's fleet, strongly suggests major developments.

(There was no word from headquarters of the raid's purpose but it easily could be intended to cover new amphibious landing operations within the inner defense ring of Japan's island outposts.)

A navy communique today, first disclosing the action, said the planes were raiding "in and around Tokyo" while warships shelled Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands and other enemy bases some 700 miles to the south.

Tokyo confirmed the attack, said it began at 7:15 a. m. Tokyo time, reported two hours later it still was continuing and still later that the planes were fanning out in attacks southeast to airbases on the Boso peninsula.

Signaling the beginning of the carrier assault on Tokyo, the Japanese radios there went silent at 7 a. m. just as the American flag was being raised over headquarters on Guam.

The overall fleet actions—the Tokyo raids, the Bonin and Volcano shelling—were under the direction of Admiral R. A. Spruance. Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher commanded the huge task force off Japan.

Tokyo was attacked April 18, 1942, by army bombers under Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle then a lieutenant colonel flying from the aircraft carrier Hornet but today's job was the first full scale navy operation against the Japanese capital or homeland.

George Bill Survives First Test in House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation enabling Henry A. Wallace to become secretary of a cut-down commerce department barely survived yesterday its first test on the house floor.

By a vote of 22 to 192, the Democratic leadership turned back a solid Republican front, joined by some southern Democrats, that sought to sweep the senate-passed George bill off the house floor.

The test came on adoption of the house rule by which the George bill was presented on the floor. If the rule had been rejected the bill would have gone back to committee, and probably into a pigeon hole. This was calculated by the opposition to bring about the outright rejection of Wallace for the President's cabinet, by forcing the senate to vote on him not only as commerce secretary but as head of the RFC.

It is conceded that Wallace would have little chance of confirmation without divorcement of the RFC.

Allies Cut German Motor Fuel Supplies

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris (AP)—The loss of refineries to allied advances from the east and west, combined with air blows, has cut German motor fuel production by 80 percent to 103,000 tons a month—hardly enough to keep an average size airforce in operation—it was announced officially yesterday.

Freshmen Views on Education

This is the second of a series of editorials to be written by University of Iowa freshmen and printed in The Daily Iowan. This week the students discuss education.

The weekly feature is under the direction of George de Schweinitz, instructor in communications skills.

Student Cites Faults Of Modern Education—

By Elaine Glasser

Because I hope to teach some day, my interest in education is probably greater than that of most persons. According to my ideas, our present educational system is not on a very high level.

Education in its present form does not give the proper training to the extreme students, the very slow and the very quiet. Our system can be compared, as a teacher once told me, to Procrustes' bed. Procrustes had an iron bed of a certain size. If the person who was on the bed were too small, he would stretch his legs until they would fit. If the person were too long he would cut off his legs.

The students of today are treated in a similar fashion. Education is made to fit the average person. If a student is above average he is forced to go along at a slower pace. The below average student is pulled along with the class. He is stretched to fit the standards.

These students who are not suited to the educational standards should be given special attention. The slower pupils should be put in a separate class where individual problems will be adjusted. After a time they may be fit to be placed in a regular class. The above average student should also receive special attention.

From these girls and boys will come the future leaders of America. There is no reason why the more intelligent students should be forced to learn and re-learn things they understood on first presentation.

There is no reason why these students should not be allowed to go at a pace that is more suited to them. If they can finish public school in six years and high school in three years, they should be given the opportunity.

The Need of Education In the United States—

By Howard Frederick

To have a well functioning democracy such as we want in the United States, the large middle and lower classes must be reasonably well educated. But are they? Statistics would seem to indicate that they are not.

First let us look at the education of the typical American. Children who live in cities attend school for 8.7 years while children living in rural districts attend school for approximately 7.7 years. From a group of 100 rural students who finish high school only two will graduate from a college or university. In other words, instead of having a college or even high school education, the average American adult has only a grade school education.

Turning from the students let us examine the school buildings that are now in use. Before the war there were approximately 229,000 school buildings of which over half were one-room, one-teacher schools. In 506 large cities a recent survey showed that 40 percent of the schools

State Commission Against Discrimination.

The report said that "in most public schools" the field of education against prejudice and discrimination "has not even been explored."

This situation is true of the entire country. If we expect our children to grow up as true Americans we must teach them the principles of democracy. We must teach them to accept and live peacefully with people of all races, creeds and classes. We must teach them that prejudice and discrimination is not an American way of thinking. But so far our educational system does not encompass this type of teaching.

Secondary education does not prepare a young person for future work. Many of these people go through college and continually change their majors. Others start work immediately and then find out that what they really want to do is go to college. A third type starts college but soon quits in favor of a job. All have one thing in common. They were not properly prepared to meet the conditions that faced them upon leaving high school.

Special courses can be included in the present school curriculum. Some schools already have courses that try to help the student find his main interest and aptitudes. Other courses can be given that will serve as an introduction to medicine, engineering, writing, etc. Extra-curricular activities can also help students find their media of expression. Medical, navigation, mathematics and language clubs can be organized. Plays can be produced and newspapers and athletic teams organized.

Some of this has been done in various schools throughout the country, but I feel that it is not being done on a large enough scale. It is so important that the graduating student be familiar with his talents and has a definite plan in mind for future work.

Education is the basis of our country. If our leaders of tomorrow are taught properly, our country is sure to prosper under their direction.

Finding New Methods In Education Is Essential—

By Mildred Sandeen

I believe that the language department of every college and university should employ foreign drill masters for the purpose of aiding the student in the correct usage of the language he is studying. Because the course will be for more benefit and interest to the student, the language will tend to unite the peoples of different countries, in a more friendly and peace-loving group.

I base this belief on my observations of the language department of this university in comparison with that of other colleges. The Spanish department is set up here so that the student receives instruction in rules and vocabulary three times a week and attends a "drill" class twice a week.

The drill class is taught by a Panamanian, Mexican, Spaniard—someone whose native language is Spanish. In this drill class, all conversation is carried on in Spanish. Not only is the lesson carefully gone over from this true foreign point of view but also the students are encouraged to question and converse with the drill master concerning their native country's culture and mannerisms.

From these discussions, the student becomes more interested in the language. He understands the true Spanish meaning of words more thoroughly and can develop the foreign way of thinking with much more ease. Instead of acquiring a foreign "book-learned" accent, he is trained to speak the native accent fluently.

From observations of friends' Spanish classes in other schools, their systems are entirely lacking in interest. They are not taught to think and speak as the Spaniard, and so the language becomes merely one more uninteresting subject to study every night. The students are not aware that their accents are wrong because they never have the chance to hear and be trained by a Spanish-speaking person. Because language does play such an important part in our lives, being the main form used by different nations in attempting to understand and get along peacefully with each other, it is indeed a crucial and essential factor in the growth of our civilization. It should be treated as such an important agent and every means possible should be employed to help the people of various nationalities to understand this, and to try their utmost to understand the people of foreign countries through their language.

The present conflict is not due entirely to the complexity of our social relations. It is also partly because the American people have made no comprehensive effort to organize new agencies of communication for the simple purpose of spreading understanding.

Development under the present system has regarded these agencies not as useful instruments of a cultural society but as tools for profit-making reasons. The only way to further our society and the understanding of other nations is by developing the interest of our people in foreign languages.

I hope that each college and university soon will be made to see that the success of its language department depends wholly upon the interest shown by the students and that the most beneficial way to create this interest is to employ natives of the country where the language is being taught. Thus not only will the course prove useful to the student but it will become a powerful social factor which will tend to unite the different peoples of the world.

Liberal Education vs. Progressive Education—

By Delores Olsen

At present there is a great struggle between two worlds or types of education: the liberal vs. the progressive, or, the classics and philosophy vs. technical knowledge. In order to judge which is the better, or whether a combination of the two is best, a knowledge of the ends of education in a democracy must be obtained.

Certain Aims

Certain aims for education in a democracy are agreed upon by both factions, although each side may have a few individual views. Some objectives of education as set forth by the educational policies commission are: "self realization, human relationships, economic efficiency and civic responsibility." This commission states that the general end of education in America at the present time is "The fullest possible development of the individual within the framework of our present industrialized democratic society."

All agree that education is not stuffing the mind with facts, but is educating the whole man. Ends that are commonly agreed upon are to make the individual a good citizen, and to educate the individual not for literacy alone, but to prepare him for the world as it is and as it will be tomorrow.

Common Core of Knowledge
The believers in a liberal education base their ideas on the assumption that everyone should have a common core of knowledge, and that common knowledge is of the classics or the 100 books promoted by this program. They are stressing primarily literature and philosophy and place emphasis on poetry because "Poetry, literature... are more pleasant to encounter."

Difficulties in Democracy
The liberals also leave an impression that it is not totally a question of education, but that the difficulties lie in democracy. These are escapist and radically undemocratic statements and ideas. Recognition is given to the differences in ability of individuals and when that difference emerges, only those most capable or those who deserve it would get the highest training. This is not a democratic principle and is a type of class distinction which they do not deny is a result of the purely liberal program.

Program Motivation

Even the motivation of this program has a hazy and questionable basis. "The medium of liberal arts education is tradition and the past." An educational system cannot last in the present when its foundation and medium are in the past. An aim of education "to prepare for the world as it is and as it will be tomorrow," as already stated, is repudiated. Granted that the past has a value that no one can ignore, and we all need as a background, still we are living in a world of the present where individuals must think, work, invent and act, not where we have many leisure-hours for meditative thought of the grand old days of Greece and Rome. Here again is the escapist attitude. By thinking of the past we forget the present and the future.

Technical Knowledge

Whereas the first plan was based on the humanities and the classics, the second program is for a progressive education based on technical knowledge. The progressives want to make work seem like play, and stress the individual differences. Emphasis is placed on technical knowledge and skill that can be practiced in the industries of the world of today. They realize that the humanities are important, but they also realize that a man may be able to quote Plato or know Darwin's theory of the origin of the species, but yet not be able to contribute anything constructive to society.

Combination System

At the University of Iowa, a combination liberal-progressive educational system has been established. At first outsiders and students may be of the opinion that it is unorganized and unrelated. When, however, the program is explained and understood, a different view comes to light. A common core of knowledge is acquired by completion of a group of core courses consisting of social sciences, natural sciences and historical and cultural studies. These lay a foundation for the general or common knowledge that each student should have at his fingertips at the time of graduation.

Opinion on and off the Campus—

Will Religious Enthusiasm Remain Dominant In the Post-War Period?

C. C. Rogler, instructor in the commerce department: "The general trend would be against that. Religion offers an escape during war and is apparently needed more then as a relief from the stress caused by war. After wars there has been a relaxing of religious fervor because the need for it seems to wane."

L. E. Gibson of the commerce department: "Probably no because there is a strong correlation between the difficulties in daily living and the demand for religious consolation. Post-war period will probably present less strain because of more settled home conditions with the return from battlefronts of friends and relatives. Increased financial difficulties, however, might create the same need."

Dr. David C. Shipley of the school of religion: "Every war in America has been followed by a noticeable decline in religious enthusiasm and activity. It may be questioned, however, that this cycle will continue, because this war may well be the most costly in human life of any we have experienced. It may be that the affirmations of religion will afford the only answer available to the tragedies of this era."

Dr. Marcus Bach of the school of religion: "I believe that the following three things will happen. First, there will be a deeper religious consciousness among those who have had personal spiritual experiences. Second, there will be a deeper appreciation of other people's faiths due partly to the influence of the chaplains of differing denominations. Third, some fellowship will be so disillusioned with mankind generally and the horrors that they have seen that they will be thoroughly out of adjustment with religion on the home front.

All three of these items should present a thoughtful challenge to the churches of America."

Louis Carani, A3 of Highland Park, Ill.: "There's no doubt that many soldiers in the present conflict have come closer to religion and have experienced a spiritual uplift. The big problem after the war is whether the churches will be able to maintain this feeling and handle it properly."

Dorothy Edmondson, A1 of Columbus Junction: "Religion will continue to be as dominant in the post-war era as it is at present. The churches at home are working harder to prepare for the homecoming of service men. The war has made many people realize the importance of religion. The soldiers will be more religious because they won't easily forget their experiences on the battle fronts."

Mercedes Staley, A1 of Mount Vernon: "For a lot of people that have found comfort in it and whose prayers have been answered by the safe return of their boys, the enthusiasm will probably remain. But others whose sons are lost may not be able to understand why, and may turn from their religion."

Alice Gaylor, A1 of Waterloo: "It usually depends upon how the boys will react to the things that have been happening at home during the crisis."

Charles R. White Discusses Post-War Employment Issue at Information First

"If industry, commerce, agriculture and transportation do not provide 22 percent more jobs in the first year after the war than the 46 million of the peak year 1940, the government will," was the prophecy of Charles R. White, Information First speaker yesterday. He pointed out that mass government employment has been said to be as disastrous as unemployment.

The committee for economic development, of which White is regional manager in the seventh federal reserve district, is a non-profit, non-political, non-government organization of and for businessmen to foster economy from the individual employer to the largest corporation. "The C. E. D. will help employers in planning to expand operations to employ extra men," White declared.

Organized in 1942 among businessmen confident of victory, who saw the necessity of planning to meet post-war problems, the C. E. D. now counts 60,000 businessmen voluntarily giving their time to its work, in 2,200 local community committees. Set up by federal reserve districts, its purpose is to stimulate individual business firms to plan now for greater post-war development, the Information First speaker explained.

Transitional unemployment during the reconversion period is to be expected," White admitted. "An increase in productivity is necessary for material prosperity. A healthy and expanding economy necessitates good use of industrial equipment and labor. Risk capital almost disappears when risk of loss is too great for any prospect of gain," he commented in discussing prospects for post-war economy.

State and local C. E. D. committees study community employment probabilities and business conditions likely to prevail in the post-war period, then define national

Hydraulic Research Institute to Measure Possible 1945 Floods

The Iowa Institute of Hydraulic research at the University of Iowa will carefully measure possible spring floods in 1945 which cause great loss to Iowa soil.

The gaging stations in the co-operative program in Iowa, as in the May and June floods of 1944, serve the needs of all city, state and federal agencies having jurisdiction, such as the Executive council, Iowa State Conservation commission, United States Weather bureau and corps of engineers of the army.

Facts discovered by engineers are related to a variety of problems of agriculture and conservation, such as municipal water supplies, soil losses, silting in lakes and rivers, protection of state parks and preserves and proposals for flood control dams.

Ohio State-Illinois Game Heads Conference Card

Iowa Hoping For Illini Win

Outcome of Contest May Determine Final Conference Standings

CHICAGO (AP)—The Western conference basketball race ends for a pair of also-rans this weekend, but it is entering the crucial stage for the three leaders.

Especially on the spot are Ohio State (7-1) and Illinois (5-1) whose battle at Champaign, Ill., tonight is bound to cheer idle Iowa (7-1), no matter how it ends.

Calling It Quits

Fourth-place Purdue (6-5) which invades Wisconsin (3-5) Saturday night and sixth-spot Michigan (4-7), pitted against Northwestern (3-6) at the Chicago stadium tonight, are the two teams calling it quits early.

The champion Buckeyes, who must hurdle the Illini or relinquish their share of the lead with Iowa, see road action again Saturday night at Indiana. Minnesota (2-6) is host to Northwestern Saturday night, completing a five-game conference card this weekend.

Hawks Pulling

The Hawks, who make their next start Monday night against Wisconsin at home, probably are pulling for an Illinois win over Ohio State.

Walt Kersulis, Illinois' newly-found star center, is headed for the armed services next week. Hence, the Illini would be weakened considerably for their second meeting with Ohio State at Columbus Feb. 23 and their finale at Iowa March 3.

Toughest Stretch Drive

The Illini unquestionably face the toughest stretch battle of the three leaders. After Monday night's scrap at Champaign with Minnesota, Doug Mills' cagers play four straight road contests, meeting the Buckeyes, Northwestern, Indiana and the Hawkeyes.

Two Games Left

After this weekend, the Buckeyes have only two games left; home tilts with Illinois and Indiana. Iowa has four remaining contests, including a home-and-home set with Wisconsin, a trip to Minnesota and a home finale with Illinois.

The Northwestern-Michigan game at the Chicago stadium tonight shares billing with an important battle between once-defeated De Paul and formidable Great Lakes.

Blue Hawks to Meet Mt. Vernon Tonight In Crucial Test

The University high Blue Hawks will return to conference competition tonight on the home floor as they meet the Mt. Vernon Maroons, last year's Eastern Iowa league champion.

Doubly Important

Tonight's clash is doubly important to the Rivermen as at present, with six wins and no losses, they lead the conference. The Maroons, after a slow start, have improved tremendously in a past week and should offer some real competition.

Coach Ross Wedemeyer's lads have been going through a week of intense preparation for this clash, spending considerable time on both offense and defense and will be all set to try to maintain their new winning streak, which now stands at three games.

Undefeated in Conference

The Maroons placed third in the Linn county cage tournament two weeks ago, and within the last month have not lost a league contest, although two defeats were inflicted on them earlier in the season.

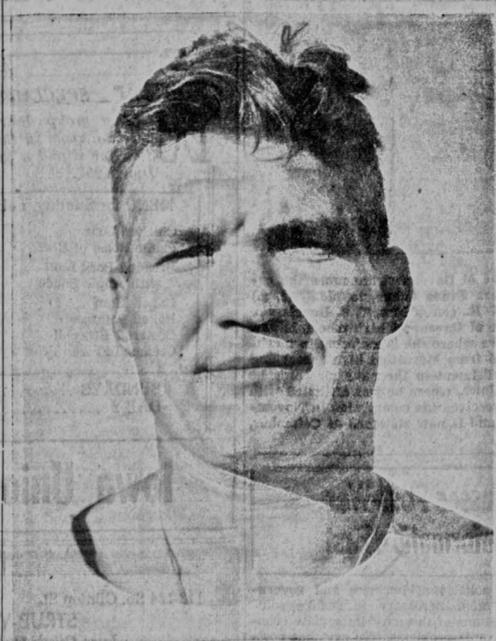

Although a few men still are hampered by bruises incurred in the Williamsburg clash last week, the Rivermen are expected to be at full strength. Red Morris' sore ankle still needs taping, but the ankle injury of Jim Williams seems to have healed well.

Wedemeyer is expected to start his usual lineup of Morris and Nusser at forwards, Kennedy at center and Williams and Miller at guards for this crucial game.

Red Cross

The monthly meeting of the Johnson county Red Cross chapter will be held Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the Women's Club rooms of the Community building.

According to by-laws, the retiring officers and board of directors and the newly elected officers and board meet together at all sessions until April.

From Grid to Ring

By MERLE FLEMING

Daily Iowan Sports Writer
"I got into boxing by accident. Football has been my sport since college," says assistant boxing coach, Raymond George of the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school.

Whether by accident or some other way, Lieutenant George is one of the coaches of the team opening its season tonight against Bunker Hill NAS here. Aside from his duties as assistant coach he has one other job—surprisingly enough, he instructs cadets in boxing.

'God's Country'

George is a native of Los Angeles—"God's country," he calls it. He attended high school in Los Angeles where he had some competition in football, baseball and the shot put.

After enrolling at the University of Southern California, George started concentrating on football at the right tackle position. He was at Southern Cal in 1936, '37, '38 and '39. A member of Sigma Chi fraternity, he was graduated in 1939 with a B.S. degree in business administration.

Trojan Medal

While in college, he was awarded the Trojan diamond medal for being the outstanding athlete of the year in 1939. He was on most lists for all-American that year, the same year that U. S. C. defeated Duke 7-3 in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena.

During the fall and winter of 1939 he joined the Detroit Lions pro team. The following fall he went back to U. S. C. and obtained his secondary teaching credentials. That winter he played with the professional Hollywood Bears.

In 1940-41 George taught commercial courses at Porterville high school, coached football and found time enough to play with the Hollywood club another season. During the early days of January, 1941, he played on an all-star professional team against the Green Bay Packers.

in California. He smilingly recalls "I had the first platoon of the first battalion to enter the school."

At St. Mary's he was a military officer with a few athletic duties stationed at St. Mary's Pre-Flight for good measure. He was stationed there for ten months and played on the football team. Coached by Lieut. G. A. "Tex" Oliver, the St. Mary's team was what George termed "just average." The team had a record of six wins, three losses and one tie. One of the defeats was a 21-13 setback by George's alma mater.

Sea Duty
From St. Mary's, Lieutenant George was transferred to a flight prep school at the University of Washington. From Washington he went to sea duty on a carrier for 14 months.

His ship, the St. Lo, was sunk Oct. 12 of last year in the second battle of the Philippines. He was transferred here in August. On the flat top he was the first division gunnery officer. While with the St. Lo he participated in the invasion of the Marianas, the remainder of the time being spent in transport duty.

Lieutenant George came to Iowa City Aug. 15 last year. He played with the Seahawk team against the four service teams on the navy schedule. One of the six officers to play on the squad, he remembers playing against Seahawk teammate Perry Schwartz in college and Jim Pools in professional games.

Present Positions
Getting back to boxing in which he is quite involved at present, his positions of teaching and helping coach the varsity squad were explained in a vague sort of way.

"I've done a little boxing and after working under regular coaches to pick up the fundamentals it's easy, seeing as how I had experience coaching football," Coach George said.

"I teach it all day but I love every minute of it," he stated as he prepared to go up to the field-house boxing loft to work with the varsity.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Touring the ETO (European theater of operations) foxhole circuit with four major league baseball players as a USO camp shows unit was a combination of thrills, laughs and jitters, a rare adventure for anyone; certainly a never-to-be-forgotten experience for a man well past the military age, who never had expected to have a near-the-front view of World War II.

Thrilled

Flying the ocean in the years to come may be a commonplace weekend lark. It was a thrill to us. Frank Frisch, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had made an airplane tour of the Aleutians. The other members of what we later dubbed "our brave little band" had done very little flying.

I had been up for about 15 minutes. Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds had made one trip to an all-star game. Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants and Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators, had done a little commercial flying. Then we flew the Atlantic, to Paris, and back.

We met generals. We sat with Generals Patton and Bradley and their staffs while they saw moving pictures of the 1944 World Series, part of our USO show.

Rank of Captains

We traveled through France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland and into Germany. Garbed in G. I. uniforms and carrying identification cards showing we had the rank of captains—just in case we were unfortunate enough to be captured, we journeyed in a weapons-carrier, rigged up as a sort of motorized covered wagon. We gave shows in large theaters and in small recreation halls, in hospitals and in barns.

However, we recently read that, after being rejected something like four times Frankie had finally been drafted into the army. Moral: If at first you don't get drafted try, try for more I-A notices.

Just the Same

We would like to express our views on discharged and 4-F athletes who, as far as we know, are just the same as any other discharged and 4-F's, in the following two ways:

No. 1—The reviewing of cases of discharged persons impresses us as being a sign of a rather loud guilty conscience. If those who made out the discharge were in doubt about it why did they issue it in the first place? Why is it that so many military men are anti-athletic?

No. 2—Down at Everyman's Pool Hall Joe McJerk, rated 4-F because of a pair of big, long, flat feet, bangs another one into the side pocket with the following bit of wisdom: "Well, I see where they finally drafted that bum Sinkwich. Imagine him wandering around loose earning big dough at a tough game like football. Hey, draft me another!"

Ashamed

We felt a bit ashamed of those lumps in the throat. But when the ceremony ended, General Boling turned to us and said: "If that soldier had said one more word, I'd have burst out crying right on his shoulder. Imagine his hoping, sir, that I'll prove worthy of this honor." We felt better about the lumps in our throats after that.

St. Mary's to Meet St. Patrick's Tonight

With their entire squad in good shape and their reserves looking very good in practice this week, the Ramblers of St. Mary's are prepared to give a repeat performance tonight when they meet their intra-city rivals, the Irish of St. Patrick's.

The Marians will be out to even up the series at 24 games apiece and to duplicate the first contest between the two quintets this year which ended in a 36-29 victory for the North Siders.

Winning Streak

Rolling along on an eight game winning streak in their regular schedule, the Ramblers have a season's record of 15 wins against three losses. They added four straight victories to their record in winning the Davenport diocesan championship a week and a half ago to bring their season's total up to 19 victories.

Tough Opponents

Three of the Marian's toughest opponents remain to be played before the end of the regularly scheduled season. Tonight's tilt with St. Patrick's, next Wednesday night's game here with Loras Academy of Dubuque and next Friday night's contest with Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids will wind up the year for the North Siders.

If the previous game this year was any indication, the Ramblers can be certain that their rivals, with the advantage of their home floor behind them, will be a tough team to overcome.

Usual Lineup

"I look for a good close game," Coach Francis Suplee of St. Mary's said yesterday. "We'll start our usual lineup of Stahle and O'Brien at center and Toohy and Shrader at guards."

Maybe So

Painful Spotlight

By BOB KRAUSE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

IN RELATION TO THE world of sports the army and the navy are in accord at last. But they aren't in agreement on what a good many people hoped they would be. By now it is a pretty well accepted fact that the various naval programs at colleges have done much toward saving intercollegiate athletics.

The army, too, runs various programs but, for some reason best known to the brass, those enrolled could not and cannot participate in sporting events which involve the teams of their particular institution.

Two Services

But, as before we rambled, the two services are now looking at something athletic in the same way. Both are now reviewing the cases of the discharging of prominent athletes, actors and others. Both are afraid of public reaction to the discharging of such people.

Unless we are mistaken draft boards are reviewing, with the aid of a microscope, the cases of athletes and other well-known figures who are rejected for military duty. We cite the case of Frankie Sinkwich, the famous Georgia football player.

Trick Knee

Flashing Frankie was in the marines for a while and was discharged. Sinkwich is the possessor of a trick football knee and a pair of very flat feet. Despite these difficulties he signed with the Detroit Lions football team and, during the past season, was his old terrific self.

However, we recently read that, after being rejected something like four times Frankie had finally been drafted into the army. Moral: If at first you don't get drafted try, try for more I-A notices.

'Hasty Wire' Grabs First in Featured Race at Havana

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Mrs. B. P. Castellano's Hasty Wire, making his first start in Havana yesterday, won the featured fifth race at Oriental Park.

The 11-year-old gelding, ridden by Jockey Raul Alonso, came from behind at the turn and defeated the favorite, Elizabeth K., in a thrilling stretch duel, by a length. Happy Sis was third.

The winner, paying $24, covered the five and three quarter furlongs in 1:10 2/5.

Run Away

Rice and Goshen's four-year-old Sickle Toy ran away from the field in the featured Premio Tepic at Mexico City's Hipodromo de Americas, defeating Mrs. H. P. Bonner's Miss Daunt by four lengths. Rancho Tarabillas' push was third.

Ridden by American jockey James Thornburg, the son of Sickle ran the five and a half furlongs in 1:05 1/5 and paid $24.00.

There is no doubt, however, that the Marians will find plenty of use for their capable reserves in tonight's tilt. Don Seydel, a small, but fast and aggressive forward, has shown definite improvement in practices this week and will probably see action along with Eddie Colbert and Andy Chukalas, forwards, and Bill Suplee and Jim Diehl, guards.

Scoring Aces

The Ramblers will be depending on their two scoring aces, Tom Stahle and John O'Brien, for their main offensive power. Stahle has been hitting at better than 13 points per game, while O'Brien is close on his heels with an average of 12 points. Big Bill Hettrick, Rambler center, has also been connecting in recent games, and should be able to contribute his share to the scoring column.

Hawklets Face Roosevelt Tonight on Local Court

SIZE NOT ALL

By Jack Sords

MURRAY MENDENHALL, RICE INSTITUTE GUARD WHO, DESPITE HIS 5 FEET, 10 INCHES, IS ONE OF THE OUTSTANDING BASKETBALL PLAYERS IN THE SOUTHWEST

Sehr Expected To See Action

City High Center Back After Long Siege of Mumps

City high's second place Little Hawk cagers will tangle with the seventh place Roosevelt Roughriders tonight in a game scheduled to begin at 8:15 p. m. on the local court. Preceding the varsity contest the freshman-sophomore squad will meet the Tiffin varsity at 7 o'clock.

Not Too Tough

Although the game shouldn't be too tough for the Hawklets because of Roosevelt's poor record, the Little Hawks may be "hard put" to win if tonight's game goes anything like the one played in Cedar Rapids against Franklin last Friday night.

Minus the services of big Don Sehr, who was out with the mumps, the usual well-balanced, precision attack of the Red and White seemed to fall apart at the seams.

Sehr Missed

Sehr has been back to practice this week, but it is still doubtful whether he will start or not. Since his height is a definite advantage, Sehr's ability to grab rebounds has been missed as the Little Hawks have had trouble around the backboard the last two games.

Should Sehr go into his old position at the pivot post, Jimmy Van Deusen and Bob Freeman, the two hot shots of the Hawklet team, will take over the forward positions.

Pivot Post

However, because he is but slowly coming back into shape, Sehr may not get the opening assignment. In this case Van Deusen will start at center as in the past two weeks, and Freeman and Bob Krall will team up at the fore court positions.

Dick Kallous and Russ Lackendorf will be counted upon to handle the guard slots, while Dick Drake will alternate at one of the guard positions.

Roughriders' Attack

The Roughriders are paced by Ray Petrzeka, center, who has sixth high scorer in the conference has spearheaded the Roosevelt attack all season.

In Roosevelt's 38-37 victory over Mt. Vernon Tuesday night, Petrzeka led the Roughriders with a total of 18 points, a total which included seven field goals for the evening.

Another all around player to watch is Martin, a guard on the Roosevelt quintet who starred for the Roughriders in football this past season.

Irish Ready For Intra-City St. Mary's Tilt

Those St. Patrick's Shamrocks, who bounced back on the winning trail two weeks ago by a victory over the highly-favored Cedar Rapids Shamrocks, and then did it again last Friday at the expense of a speedy Oxford quintet, try something tougher tonight when they play hosts to their rivals, the Ramblers of St. Mary's, on the South Side floor.

This is the second of the two annual intra-city clashes, the first ending in a seven-point advantage for the Marians, 36-29. However, the fact that the Irish will be battling the Ramblers on home territory tonight may have more than a psychological effect on their showing.

Slippery Floor

The Shamrocks had a little trouble coping with a much more slippery floor than their own when they were the visitors on the St. Mary's court, a factor which caused them to lose the ball more than usual in the game. With this eliminated, they should make a better showing all around.

Their home play record, likewise, is not to be overlooked in sizing them up for this contest. Of seven games the Shamrocks have played on their own floor this season, they have won five by decisive scores, losing the other two, to St. Joseph's (Rock Island) and St. Patrick's (Cedar Rapids), by only two and one points respectively.

Going into their 16th game, the Irish have won 8 and lost 7, with an offensive average of 36.4 against a 31.6 defensive average for their opponents.

Ready to Go
On the eve of the battle, Coach Cliff Kritt reported that his team is "in good physical condition and ready to go." The squad went through two heavy drills Tuesday and Wednesday night, and a light shooting practice last night in preparation for the encounter.

Charlie Belger and Merle Hoye will again take over the forward posts which they have held all season, after having been replaced for part of the last game by Bob Sullivan and Bob Brown. Although these substitutes shouldered the forecourt responsibilities admirably against Oxford, Kritt has resumed the usual lineup and plans to use few if any replacements. Both Belger and Hoye showed considerable improvement in last week's game.

Doc Connell will retain his pivot post, which he acquired in the second half of the previous contest with St. Mary's. All-City center last year, he became a guard this season, but since his switch back to center, he has added considerable scoring punch to the Irish five.

Offensive Spark
At the guard positions will be Gene Herdlika and Red Gatens, both of whom are seeing their last year in high school basketball. Gatens is high scorer for the Shamrocks, and the leading offensive spark, while Herdlika uses his height to advantage in breaking up enemy passing attacks.

Cadets 'Accentuate the Postive' at USO Dancing Lessons Each Saturday Afternoon

By RUTH SCHULTZ Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"You've got to accentuate the positive, eliminate the negative, latch on to the affirmative"—so goes the song. Yet as the cadet dancing students at the Saturday afternoon USO dancing class "lindy" to that popular ditty, it seems to be "Mr. In-Between" who is always messing things up. To remedy, Mrs. Harriet Walsh, USO dancing instructor, reviews weekly the same steps until her servicemen students have the negative eliminated, the positive accentuated and the affirmative securely latched.

Teaches Servicemen For three years Mrs. Walsh had been teaching the lindy hop to servicemen stationed in Iowa City. "They want to leap into jitterbugging right off," she explained. "With the lindy, they get the basic fox trot steps as well as the jive, and so it is the most popular."

Although the dancing class has always been large, the number of servicemen (plus their enthusiasm) increased recently when USO junior hostesses were invited to attend the classes in order to help with the teaching as well as improve their own dancing.

A sort of shuffle exercises starts the class activity and leads into the introduction of the lindy. With Mrs. Walsh in the fore, the cadet line-up usually extends three deep down the length of the gymnasium floor, while the girls stand on the sidelines. After the introduction of the steps, the line maneuvers back and forth across the floor. The steps are set to music after they have been practiced several times.

Hostesses Assist "Girls, find partners, now, and dance," is the command following the individual practice. Since the cadets outnumber the girls, the group is split with the hostesses doing double duty and the cadet groups sometimes practicing separately. Mrs. Walsh circulates among the dancing couples offering suggestions, sometimes dancing with the students herself.

"The real trouble with those who think they can't dance," related Mrs. Walsh, who has danced and taught dancing most of her life, "is that they are too tense. I try to explain," she went on, "that dancing is just as natural as walking only with timing and rhythm added."

"I find sometimes that a student doesn't know tempo so occasionally time is taken out for that," said this patient instructor.

Awards to Be Given Scouts Who Collect 1,000 Pounds of Paper

Concerning the paper drive which the Iowa City Boy Scouts are conducting tomorrow, Scout Executive Owen B. Thiel issued the following statement yesterday.

"During the course of the year a number of problems have arisen which could be avoided with a little cooperation. Those in charge of the collections are interested in conserving not only the waste paper but also the gasoline that it takes to make the monthly collections."

Thiel lists these problems as those which householders could help to avoid:

1. Drivers of the trucks report that some people don't put their paper out until the truck has already passed. This means an extra trip over the same territory any wasted gasoline.
2. People sometimes don't wait for the paper to be picked up. They call in and then put their scrap paper out. By the time a special truck comes to collect it, the paper has already been picked up by the regular truck.
3. Some householders expect the scouts to clean the attic and bundle paper for them on the day of the drive. In case of disability, the resident should have a scout help him to collect the paper before the drive starts.
4. Many contributors fail to tie the paper securely or weigh it down to prevent it from blowing around.

Scouts all over the country are being asked by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to collect paper during March and April. Each scout who collects 1,000 pounds during these months will be awarded a special medal. Each troop collecting 1,000 pounds per member will be presented with a shell container inscribed with a message from General Eisenhower.

During 1944 the scouts of Iowa City collected more than 175 tons of waste paper.

Lieut. James B. Verdin Smashes Eight Enemy Planes in Single Strike on Luzon

Lieut. James B. Verdin, son of Mrs. J. H. Verdin, 706 E. College street, navy fighter pilot in the south Pacific, took part in a smashing 10-day air assault on the Japanese in which he destroyed eight enemy planes on the ground. He achieved his feat on a single strike at Clark field in Luzon.

"When we reached Clark field a group of eight Jap fighters were lined up close together ready to take off," Lieutenant Verdin reported. "One more was already in the take off position. I fired four high explosive rockets at the cluster of planes and when I pulled up and looked back, the group was one solid flame."

Lieutenant Verdin is based on the USS Enterprise, navy aircraft carrier.

Red Cross Official Addresses Women's Clubs at Joint Meeting

Interest was shown by the Iowa City 19th Century club, Shakespear and Raphael clubs regarding relief being sent to Philippine citizens through Red Cross channels, when Royal Clyde Agne, assistant manager of the midwestern area office addressed those groups last Monday at the home of Mrs. Eugene Gilmore.

Agne on his return to the St. Louis office sent detailed information back to the local chapter telling that several shipments of Red Cross chapter-produced clothing were prepared for the Philippines at the request of General MacArthur's headquarters, well in advance of the capture of Manila.

Special articles were shipped for civilian internees to meet immediate needs and to make their homeward trip comfortable, but the bulk of the supplies were sent to the Islands for distribution to Filipino and United States citizens according to the need.

More than 636,000 articles of clothing are on their way. Some should be already in the Islands and more are being shipped at the military authorities can arrange transportation. In addition to the garments made in Red Cross chapters, clothing and comfort articles for men and women have been purchased.

More than 100,000 cakes of soap have been sent, and cloth and sewing materials for more clothes. Comfort articles include tooth brushes and paste, razors, blades, and shaving soap and talcum powder. Lipstick and other cosmetics were included for the women and girls in the internment camps.

The American Red Cross is assisting the army civil affairs section in meeting civilian needs by furnishing experienced relief personnel and special supplies.
