Reds Capture City of Nowe On Vistula

Enter Road Hub 51 Miles Southeast Of German Capital

LONDON (AP)—Russian troops in a four-mile advance yesterday captured Nowe (Neuenburg), on the Vistula river 47 miles south of Danzig, while the Germans reported that other Soviet forces had fought their way into the walled medieval town of Guben, key road hub 51 miles southeast of the Reich capital.

Enemy broadcasts said Nazi counterattacks later expelled the Russians from Guben and also recaptured the strongholds of Sommerfeld Sorau and Sagan, on a 35-mile front southeast of Guben.

No Mention by Reds

Moscow's communique did not mention that vital sector, where the First White Russian and First Ukraine armies under Marshals G. K. Zhukov and Ivan Konev were trying to weld their flanks securely in preparation for an all-out blow toward Berlin.

Berlin said that while Konev's troops were fighting their way abreast of Zhukov's men along the Oder bend southeast of the capital Zhukov was pouring "masses of men" into the Berlin front, getting ready to launch a heavy blow from his bridgeheads across the Oder between Kuestrin and Fuerstberg.

The storm will break very soon, one German broadcast said. Penetrate Lauban Area

Enemy broadcasts also said that Marshal Konev's southern wing had penetrated the area of Lauban.

Moscow said Russian troops on the Samland peninsula, northwest of Koenigsberg, had smashed enemy tank and infantry attacks seeking to break out of encircled Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital.

Red army troops captured a few more Breslau suburbs, gaining up to three miles as they tightened their siege ring.

Officials Criticize De Gaulle's Refusal To Meet With FDR

PARIS (AP)—Questions and answers in the French assembly's foreign affairs committee yesterday confirmed previous reports that General De Gaulle had refused an invitation to meet President Roosevelt in the Mediterranean area.

Wide sections of French officials were critical of De Gaulle's refusal and were striving to arrange some sort of face-saving compromise for a meeting.

Members of the foreign affairs committee of the consultative assembly demanded that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault explain why De Gaulle had rejected an invitation from Roosevelt to meet him somewhere in North Africa—reportedly Algiers.

Bidault replied merely that "faithful to his policies, De Gaulle found himself unable to accept the invitation" and refused to elaborate. Members of the committee said they got the impression that Roosevelt declined to come to Paris and that this caused De Gaulle's refusal to go to North Africa.

Goch Almost Cleared By Scotch Troops

Patton Expands Assault In Eifel Mountains, Cuts Siegfried Line

PARIS (AP)—Scottish troops and tanks virtually cleared the Siegfried line keystone of Goch last night, and east of that town of 14,000 other forces battled south a mile and a half in a drive threatening the rear of the wavering enemy defenses of the Ruhr basin.

In the center of the western front, the United States Third army expanded its assault lines in the Eifel mountains to 55 miles, engulfed seven more German towns, and hacked clear through the three-mile deep Siegfried line on a seven-mile sector south of the Rhenish Prussian base at Bitburg.

One division went over the attack farther south in the Moselle valley and gained a mile to a point near Muzingen, five miles inside the Reich.

The Roer river on the United States First and Ninth army fronts in the area of Aachen was dropping slowly, the reservoirs upstream feeding the flood were expected to be drained within several days, and the river above the reservoirs also was receding as the effect of recent thaws waned.

Once more the United States Seventh army to the south was battling in the Saar basin six miles southeast of the capital city of Saarbruecken. The Americans seized 1,000 prisoners in attacks which supreme headquarters said had limited objectives.

Aull persisted elsewhere on the front as the British and Canadian forces carried the brunt of the attack in the corridor between the Maas and Rhine river leading to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Halsey Says Nips Weakened

'Two Basic Mistakes'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shaggy-browed Admiral "Bull" Halsey, freshly back from his stamping ground in the Pacific, declared yesterday that the Japanese navy has "very little left to fight with and what is left is not in good shape."

For that reason, the commander of western Pacific task forces told a news conference, he doesn't believe the enemy fleet will accept the bold challenge of the American naval-air strike at Tokyo and come out to fight.

"We're going to have to go in and dig 'em out," Halsey said when asked how the Nipponese navy can be engaged.

The enemy—the admiral referred to them in his more reserved moments as "monkeys"—has made two fundamental mistakes: "I don't know why those little (here review officers interposed to strike out a word) rats thought

Yanks Seize Ft. McKinley Inside Manila

Mop Up Defenders In Corregidor, Bataan Engagements

MANILA, Tuesday (AP)—Manila's Ft. William McKinley was seized Sunday as heavy mortars began tearing apart the outer walls of the intramuros where the cornered Japanese defense garrison is holed up for a bloody final stand.

Some of the 7,000 civilians held as hostages within the ancient intramuros (walled city) may have reached freedom already. At least a few were reported to have filtered to the waterfront and escaped in small boats. Japanese fire from the walls is still heavy, however.

Mortars were taken across the Pasig river on pontoon bridges and put to work tearing chunks out of the thick outer wall of the intramuros so tanks and infantry can move in.

Three days ago the Japanese commander was asked to liberate the civilians within the walled city. No formal answer has yet been received.

Ft. McKinley, at the southern outskirts of Manila, was entered by 11th airborne and First cavalry spearheads. Other Yanks, swarming over Corregidor, mopped up the Japanese defenders and pursued enemy remnants on Bataan.

McKinley is one of Manila's two forts. The other is Ft. Santiago, inside the old intramuros where the Japanese are making a bloody final stand, jeopardizing thousands of civilian lives.

Ft. McKinley before the war was headquarters for the Philippine scouts and part of the Philippine division of the American army. It has a large airfield and extensive military facilities.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today the "steady reduction" of the Japanese holed up in the intramuros was continuing.

Nazis Reported Withdrawing From Italy

ROME (AP)—Fresh reports that German forces already have begun withdrawing from northern Italy came from the Swiss-Italian frontier last night, but the allied command maintained silence on the subject.

From Chiasso, Swiss border town, came word that Fascists in northern Italy frantically were seeking means of assuring their own safety as Nazi troops began filtering northward. Previously there had been reports that German units from Italy already were in action on the Russian front.

The newspaper Dued Bund of Bern, Switzerland, said Hitler ordered the evacuation begun last week and that four divisions already were moving through the Brenner pass and toward Graz in Austria.

Even if some German troops have been moved out there is nothing yet to indicate a wholesale evacuation is under way.

Reports of yesterday's air operations failed to indicate more than routine attacks.

Snow May Change To Rain or Drizzle

No matter how bad the weather is otherwise, it should be somewhat warmer today than it was yesterday. The high yesterday was 24 at 10 o'clock last night, the mercury having risen slowly from 11 yesterday morning. Today's temperatures should be between 20 and 30.

The snow that was falling in Iowa City last night may turn into freezing rain or drizzle today as the mercury moves up the scale. The snow started falling early in the afternoon but was very light. Last night the barrage of snowflakes was quite heavy.

War Mobilization Director Decries Midnight Entertainment Curfew

WASHINGTON (AP)—A midnight curfew was proclaimed yesterday for night clubs, theaters, road houses, saloons and all other "places of entertainment" throughout the nation.

The action, taken by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes becomes effective Feb. 26, and is expected to make New York's Broadway and countless other amusement centers look like deserted villages after the stroke of midnight.

Byrnes' mandate took the form of a "request" to operators of entertainment places, from swank night spots to neighborhood movies, to have their patrons out and the doors locked up by midnight.

But Byrnes invoked manpower controls to make compliance, to all intents, obligatory. He said he would ask the war manpower commission to "deny ceilings to any place violating this request." This would deprive such establishments of employes.

The war production board, the office of defense transportation and the office of price administration also were asked to aid the WMC as far as possible in enforcing the "request."

Byrnes said his purpose "is primarily to save coal consumed in heating and in providing electricity. But it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, manpower and in other ways."

Places of entertainment were defined as all night clubs, sport arenas, theaters, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars, "and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaurants engaged exclusively in serving food."

In announcing the broad step, Byrnes said: "Conservation measures previously taken by the office of war mobilization and reconversion, do not appear to suffice in view of the coal shortage."

"Unfavorable weather conditions and possible spring floods render the coal situation even more serious than a few weeks ago."

"The closing of places of entertainment at midnight should impose no real hardships, and I am convinced our people at home will gladly comply with this request in view of the fact that in the period just ahead of us those in the armed services will be making greater sacrifices than ever before."

Superforts Resume Tokyo Bombardment

Tinian, Saipan-Based Planes Smash Nip Industrial Targets

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM (Via Naval Radio) (AP)—The aerial bombardment of Tokyo was resumed Monday when an unprecedented force of Superfortresses battered the urban and industrial areas of Japan's war center.

The much-blasted city was hit by the B-29's in full strength close on the heels of the heavy pounding it underwent Friday and Saturday by waves of America's mighty Fifth fleet carrier planes.

Indications were that upwards of 150 Superfortresses roared in on the Tokyo region Monday afternoon from bases on Tinian and Saipan islands. The B-29's bombed by precision instruments through an overcast.

Good results were obtained in the raid, the war department announced in Washington, with the Nakajima Musashina aircraft factory among the industrial targets attacked.

Maj. Gen. Curtis M. Le May, commanding the 21st bomber command, announced in a communique that fighter opposition was light, but anti-aircraft fire heavy.

(In addition to the ground damage inflicted on the Japanese, the B-29's shot down five enemy fighter planes, probably destroyed one and damaged eleven others. Three B-29's of the large force were lost to enemy action.)

Japanese Kidnap American Officials Of Santo Tomas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese appear to have abducted American officials of the Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila just before it was liberated and still may be holding them, it was learned here yesterday.

The disclosure came when the Philippine government's office here released the first copy to arrive in this country of "The Liberation Bulletin" mimeographed at the camp on liberation day, Feb. 3. The Bulletin, published and edited by Peter C. Richards, was received from Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine high commissioner who is in Manila.

Exactly who is being held is not indicated, but an entry in the latter part of the camp chronology states:

"Dec. 23. Chairman of internee committee and three others arrested and subsequently taken out of camp by military police." There is no mention of their release.

Elsewhere the Bulletin lists C. C. Grinnell as chairman of the internee committee, with L. Earl Carroll and S. L. Lloyd as members.

Reports following the liberation indicate Carroll is not among those held by the Japanese.

British, U.S. Heavies Blast Western Reich

Halt Communications In Austria; Attack Industrial Targets

LONDON (Tuesday) (AP)—British bombers kept the mighty allied aerial assault rolling against Germany last night after nearly 1,400 United States and RAF heavy bombers had pounded 13 rail and industrial targets in the western Reich during the day and other heavies from the United States 15th airforce in Italy ripped enemy communications in Austria.

Shortly before midnight the RAF announced that a force of Mosquito bombers had attacked the important rail and road junction of Erfurt in the central German province of Thuringia, 63 miles southwest of Leipzig.

The German "achtung" warning service broadcast reports of other formations over the Reich during the night.

The major daylight operations were carried out by 100-bomber "wolf packs" of the United States Eighth airforce, which sent aloft more than 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 500 fighters. They dropped 3,300 tons of bombs on a dozen different targets—large railway yards at Muenster, Osnabrueck and Siegen and various industrial plants, mostly in the Ruhr.

One bomber and seven fighters were missing, the Eighth airforce announced.

Nimitz Claims Yanks Winning On Iwo Island

Drive Reaches One Airfield; Battle Costs Heavy

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, Tuesday (AP)—The 30,000 marines of Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's Fifth marine corps "are taking Iwo Island," Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said with conviction today, although front line reports made clear the battle is fierce and is costing considerable lives.

Nimitz, whose last communique said the leathernecks had carved out a beachhead 4,500 yards long and 500 yards deep on the southeast coast in a drive which has reached one airfield, expressed confidence in the success of the operation in a message to the fleet.

750 Miles From Tokyo

He said in his message that the same skill, courage and teamwork displayed by carrier pilots over Tokyo "are now being displayed by forces which are taking Iwo island only 660 (nautical) miles from Tokyo." The statute mile distance is 750.

Broadcasts today from Guam all agreed a costly and savage battle is raging on the tiny island in the Volcano group.

Nimitz' message to the fleet said display of the same qualities now bearing fruit in the current operations "will bring success when our troops land in Japan itself."

Landed Monday Morning

The marines landed Monday morning.

In a broadcast 28 hours later from the bridge of Vice-Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner's flagship, Don Pryor, representing the combined networks, said there had been a continuous "vast display of fireworks."

From the flagship, Iwo looked to him "like a garbage scow—serviceable but without charm."

He said the marines had to drive up straight rocky hillsides to reach a plateau "and the Japs are showing that they won't let go without a bloody fight."

In a Tuesday broadcast from Guam, Robert McCormick, NBC war correspondent, said the marines already are so strongly established that the enemy has no hope of driving them off the island but "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men."

McCormick said the Nipponese are holed up in thousands of natural hideouts such as caves from which they are resisting fiercely, emerging at times into the open.

Thoroughly aroused to the danger of their position, the Japanese were reported throwing in incessant counterattacks against the new bridgehead near Myrnyu. Casualties were described as heavy on both sides, but with Japanese losses running much higher than those of the allies.

American and British airforces struck in furious and sustained support of the operation.

No Draft Card

OMAHA (AP)—A sheet metal worker told police here he didn't have a draft card because his board wouldn't give him one.

"I've had eight cards now," he said, "and the last time I was up there they told me if I lost this one I would have to see the FBI for the next one. I knew if I went up there they'd put me in jail."

Kirke Simpson Interprets the War News—

With seizure of pin-point Iwo Jima off the south coast of Japan under way by American naval forces, a beginning has been made on rolling history back almost a century.
Just 92 years ago next July Commodore Matthew C. Perry began the negotiations for the treaty of "peace and amity" that opened Japan to the world. By the time that anniversary rolls around it is a fair conclusion that another American naval officer, Admiral Nimitz, will have sealed Japan in again, blockading her by sea and air against any effective contact through the east and south China seas with the Chinese mainland.
That is the implication of the massive naval power blow that exposed Iwo Jima to landing operations destined to make it a plane base for American use a meager 750 miles from Tokyo. It means that land based medium bombers taking off from Iwo Jima's air strips can range over all the ports of southern Japan and blast at sea communications of the enemy army in northern China as well as at Japanese war industries.
It means, too, that Nimitz' mighty fleet can carry its bold sweep into Japanese home waters farther west and north at will under shelter of Luzon and Iwo Jima based heavy air power to supplement its own carrier plane strength. Iwo is a potential step toward American naval penetration of the Yellow sea to cut Japan off completely from huge Nipponese armies deployed in China.
Strike a 1,000-mile radius circle from Manila and another from Iwo Jima and they intersect over the Japanese Ryukyu islands just east

'A Real Inspiration'— SUI Graduate Student Taught in Alaska

By JOHNNY JOHNSTON
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"Teaching Eskimo children was a real inspiration. They were just crazy to learn," remarked Beryl Michaelson, G of Humboldt, who taught school in two Alaskan villages before coming to the University of Iowa last fall.
With hopes of returning to Alaska as a doctor, Beryl is now finishing up her requirements for entrance into medical school, where she will specialize in obstetrics and gynecology. In addition to her studies, she is social director at Eastlawn dormitory, where she is known to one and all as "Mike."

Beryl Michaelson

Civil Service Job
When she accepted a position with the Civil Service Commission as an Alaska Indian Service teacher, Beryl was sent to Selawik, an Eskimo village above the arctic circle. The population was 306, but there was only one white family. Here Beryl and Dorothy Slaughter of Little Rock, Ark., taught for a year and a half.
They were the only teachers in a two-room school building which at times accommodated 96 pupils.

Enrollment Fluctuated
"The enrollment fluctuated from time to time because of the hunting and fishing trips," she explained. "School was in session from the middle of September until the first part of April, when the muskrat season opened. School reopened June 1 through July. Then fishing trips began and continued until September."
"These Eskimo children knew no English whatsoever when they entered school, so we taught them to speak and read hand in hand. We used the Edna Ritter reading program whereby a sign with 'window' printed on it was tacked to the window, a 'door' sign on the door, etc., and it worked beautifully," she commented.

Learn Household Words
In order to understand their pupils, the tutors learned a few household words in Eskimo. "We also found that they did a lot of talking by facial expressions. We had to learn that raised eyebrows meant yes, while a scowl and squinted eyes signified no."
"Age had nothing to do with what grade they were in," Beryl continued, "although we accepted five-year-olds, some did not start until they were 10 or 11. We only taught the first six grades."

Diverse Duties
Teaching was only one facet of their many-sided job. Their duties also included overseeing reindeer herds, supervising the territorial guard, advising the village council, instructing an arts and crafts club, doing social welfare work and playing the roles in turn of nurse, doctor and dentist.
"Since we were the only representatives of the Indian service there, we had to supervise the two reindeer herds, a locally-owned herd of 4500 and a government-owned herd of 15,000. The whole system was set up as a corporation and it was our duty to take care of the book work and issue butchering permits. And those reindeer steaks are better than any beefsteak in the world," she declared emphatically.

Offer Guidance
As advisers to the council, the two women "sat in on" the meetings and offered guidance at strategic points in the course of the discussions.
"One case brought before the council concerned a fellow accused of drawing the herders into a gambling game. After he was found guilty, the council decided the penalty—that he cut a cord of wood for the schoolhouse. This was very typical of the constructive punishments they inflicted," informed Beryl.

"However, they have no conception of the seriousness of the different cases," she went on, "to them it is just as serious an offense if someone drops a playing card in church as if he breaks and enters a home."
Government Documents
Because of their "book-larnin'" and official position, the part-time school teachers took care of government documents—making out old age pension blanks, signing up 18-year-olds for the draft, and filling out birth and death certificates.
"Most Alaskans have two names, one in Eskimo and one in English. Usually the birth certificate carries the English name, while the Eskimo one is just common knowledge," she mentioned in speaking of the certificates.
In Selawik the two pedagogues were in charge of a dispensary where people could get medical supplies.

Only One Doctor
"Since there was only one doctor in the entire arctic circle, it was necessary for us to give medical care. One summer a girl was sick. Her family came down after me and I spent three days in an Eskimo fishing camp taking care of her," she related.
"I pulled about 40 teeth in the time I was there," she said, "There were no bona fide dentists so we were given forceps and novocaine to do what we could."
Transferred
In April the schoolmistresses were transferred to Eklutna, a vocational training school near Anchorage where about 180 students were enrolled. According to Beryl it is "a home for children without homes."

"In the summer young people over the age of 15 work at some job. We oversaw this activity and helped them bank the money they earned. That summer I stayed with eight girls who worked at Enard's packing company," she said.
Near Army Camp
Fort Richardson, the largest army camp in Alaska, was near Eklutna. "The soldiers were always doing wonderful things for the children. At Christmas time they raised a collection of $2000, then bought expensive presents for each student—coats, sweaters, housecoats, sleds and dolls. At other times they would bring the air corps band out to play for us and even bring out the current movies they received and showed them to us," she told the reporter.

Adopt 'Our' Ways
"The Eskimo has adopted many of our ways," she observed, "Photographs blaze away all over the country. Scarcely a family is without such a machine and without the records of cowboy ballads, which are the rage up there now. They make use of mail order concerns to obtain modern tools, enameled pots and pans and so on.

They call for products by brand name. Some even have electric lights in their home."
Proud to Be Eskimos
"Yet the Eskimo is proud to the nth degree of being an Eskimo. To him, nothing could be more wonderful. It starts when he is a little boy. He does no work and the family pampers him and waits on him hand and foot. He is taught that he is indeed a superior individual."
Describing these northern folk, Beryl stated, "Eskimos are the most jolly and affectionate people imaginable and love to play all sorts of games. They have a frontier spirit of friendliness which is the basis of their happiness. They are practical jokers and always tag Christmas presents with joking take-offs of the receiver."
"Gifts from the Junior Red Cross were distributed while we were at Selawik," she continued, apropos of Christmas, "The happiness and excitement they caused would have repaid the workers here many times over if they could only have seen it. All of the children love the jackstones that were included and play with them all of the time. One little fellow received an eversharp pencil and a paper tablet. He strutted around as if he had the world at his fingertips."

Igloo Homes
"Igloo" in Eskimo lingo means home, she corrected, not an ice house, as most foreigners assume. Most of the houses Beryl saw were log cabins, some covered with sod. Some had bare floors; others were covered with willow branches.
Raw frozen fish is still considered a delicacy in Alaska, despite the fact that stoves are in use. Once Beryl was invited to a Sunday dinner where the "fishy" menu consisted of frozen whitefish, dried pickerel, dried salmon, muktuk (meat from a seal, similar to salt pork) and blueberries with sugar. They use no bread of any kind, she added.

Feature Practicality
Fashions in clothes seem to feature the practical angle. Protecting face and feet from the cold is the primary object, says Beryl.
"Around the face they wear the ruff, a hood of wolf skin, in which the long guard hairs protect the face. Footwear is styled for good hard use. In winter they wear the mukluk made of winter reindeer skin with the skin outside and the fur inside. Summer footwear is made from the skin of sea lions. The parka which they pronounce 'parky' is made from the skins of one-year-old reindeer fauns," said the informant.

Alaska a Dreamland
Alaska would seem a dreamland to a large part of the world today, for it has no rationing system. Beryl told how those in Alaska can order from "The Outside," as all Alaskans term anywhere but Alaska, and the order, whether it be shoes or sugar, will be filled and sent into Alaska ration free.
"It was easy to get used to the cold up there, but very difficult to get re-adjusted to the heat here," Beryl reports, "Temperature in Alaska may be most anywhere on the mercury scale. On the Fourth of July it was 96 degrees in the shade, but I have also seen the mercury drop to 60 degrees below zero."

Wants to Be Doctor
"Someday I want to return as a doctor. There is a saying in Alaska that if you ever come there for awhile, you'll be back—and it's true in my case. There is a crying need for doctors there and I feel that I can fill a bigger need as such than as a teacher."
Miss Slaughter, who was with Beryl both places, has a degree from John Brown university and has taken graduate work in the University of Arkansas. At this time she is writing a book on their Alaskan experience, which she expects to complete soon.

MacArthur's Return to Bataan—

Editor's note: The following story was written for the combined press by Frank Weissblat, United Press correspondent who was wounded and captured by the Japanese on Bataan in 1942 and a few days ago was rescued by the Americans from Bilidid prison in Manila. In it he describes MacArthur's return to Bataan—and his own.

WITH MACARTHUR ON BATAAN, Feb. 16—(Delayed)—General of the army Douglas MacArthur today returned in triumph to Bataan, the scene of the gallant but hopeless stand of American forces in the Philippines in 1942. Disregarding his personal danger, the general rode in a jeep, then walked to our most forward positions on the east coast of the peninsula where he could watch his troops swarming ashore on Corregidor.

He was disappointed when a blasted bridge forced him to turn back before reaching Mariveles—despite the fact he already had gone beyond our most forward road blocks and was in Jap-infested territory through which only our first patrols had passed.
"This visit is easing an ache that has been in my heart for three years," MacArthur told Brig. Gen. Clyde Edelman, of San Antonio, Tex., of the Sixth army, as he stood listening to the roar of guns from Corregidor.

The general had hoped to see the paratroopers drop on the rock but arrived just too late to see the initial stocks of pocked fighting men float down.
With a small party, MacArthur had left his headquarters before dawn for a 10-hour inspection trip which carried him so far into the frontlines it became almost a personal reconnaissance.
With him on the initial stage of the trip were Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, Colonels Andre Soriano, Lloyd Lehrbas and Roger Egeberg and this correspondent who, like the general, was revisiting scenes indelibly graven in his memory in those terrible days in '42.

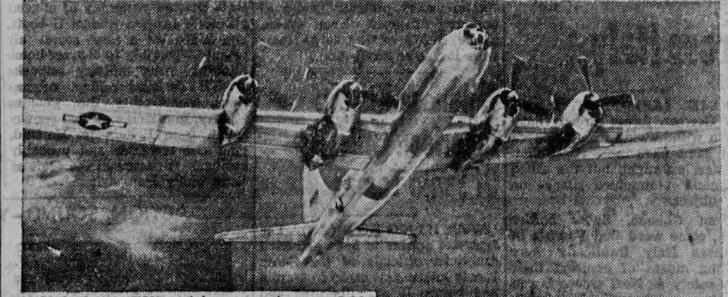

As we headed down the east coast, we passed within a few hundred yards of Colis where on Jan. 7, 1942, I was wounded and captured by the Japanese.
Maj. Gen. Charles Hall, commander of the 11th army corps, Brig. Gen. William Spence, of Camilla, Ga., commanding the east coast task force, and Edelman met us as we moved south.
In the first Filipino villages we passed, there was no excitement but "bamboo telegraph" apparently carried the word of our coming ahead of us.

At Abucay—eastern anchor of our final defense line in '42—hundreds clad in their Sunday best lined the street. They waved, cheered and waved the V for victory sign.
Many remembering MacArthur from his visit there shortly before the withdrawal in '42 shouted his name.
In a Japanese encampment along the road, there were evidences of hasty evacuation—buckets of cooked rice, kettles of soup, stacks of dishes left unwashed.
At Cabesben, MacArthur wanted to continue to Mariveles. Despite warnings of his officers, we started in that direction but most of us were plenty nervous and this correspondent for one was wondering if we eventually were going to land on Corregidor in the midst of the fighting.

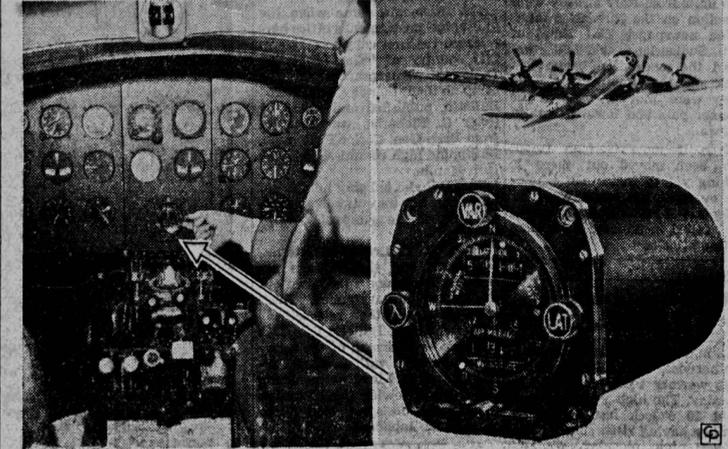

A blasted bridge a short distance from General Chase's forward elements forced us to turn back. On the return trip, we were stopped a short distance north of Limay where a warning had been received that 80 to 100 Japs had landed along the road from an ore barge.
Today's Opinion—
Will Russia Join Allies Against Japs?

Ed Hogan, J3 of Iowa City: "I think that they will let us use some of their bases, but they won't use their own armed forces against Japan."
Nona Jean Wanberg, A3 of Schaller: "Yes, Russia will help fight against Japan is they're able. The Russians are just as much against Japan as the United States, but they've had so many more years of war than we've had. I think too many people have the wrong impression of Russia."
Wilbur Benham, manager of a bowling alley: "I believe they will join against Japan, because they probably feel that it will be to their advantage to continue to play ball with England and the United States."
Victoria Holder, A1 of Council Bluffs: "Yes, I believe so. Their aim is the same as ours—to defeat the aggressive nations. They have more in common with us than with either Germany or Japan."
Wilbur Dougherty, A3 of Adalissa: "It will be to Russia's advantage to help defeat Japan. She will aid the allies in order to increase her own power in the Far East."

SIGNPOSTS ON THE SKYROAD TO TOKYO

AMERICA'S MIGHTIEST aerial weapon—the great B-29—is now further fortified with the new "magic dial."

SPOTTED BY THE "MAGIC DIAL" of an amazing new navigation device, signposts are guiding our B-29 Superfortresses on their super-range Pacific missions along the skyroad to Tokyo. The "Air Position Indicator" provides navigators for the first time in navigation history, with continuous readings of latitude and longitude. The new aid, according to the Bendix Aviation Corp., who developed it in cooperation with military airforce experts, expect shortcuts by hours the tedious calculations and is to our navigators what the automatic pilot is to pilots.

Educator to Conduct—

'Keys to Careers' Conference

Among the speakers listed for the "Keys to Careers" conference March 2-3 is Bess Goodykoontz, assistant commissioner of education in the United States Office of Education who will talk on "Educational Opportunities." She has been serving in that capacity since the establishment of the position in 1929.

Included among the varied responsibilities of her position is the direction of research and investigation conducted by the office of education, and the administration of educational programs concerned with problems of school administration, instruction, health and physical education, comparative education, Inter-American educational relations, and library service. She also organizes and directs certain demonstration and service programs in cooperation with state and local school authorities, such as the program of extended school services for children of working mothers and the program of Inter-American education demonstration centers.

In addition to these regular duties Miss Goodykoontz, an alumna of the University of Iowa, finds time for other professional responsibilities in the field of education. She is a past president of the American Educational Research association, of Pi Lambda Theta, and past chairman of the board of directors of the National Society for the Study of Education.

In 1940 Miss Goodykoontz was co-chairman of a joint committee of the Society for Curriculum Study and the Department of Home Economics of the National Education association to prepare the yearbook entitled "Family Living and Our Schools." Last year she was chairman of a committee responsible for the preparation of Part II, Structural Reorganization, of the 1945 yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education entitled "American Education in the Post-war period."

Miss Goodykoontz attended the public schools of Iowa and received her B. A. and M. A. degrees from the University of Iowa. Her teaching experience includes rural and city grades, the experimental school at the university of which she was later principal, elementary school supervision in Green Bay, Wis., and five years of teaching in the school of education at the University of Pittsburgh.

'Y' Devotion Service To Be at 12:50 P.M. Beginning Today

Y. W. C. A. Little Chapel services which have been held every Tuesday afternoon from 12:45 to 1 o'clock will be held from 12:50 to 1:05 beginning today, in order that students living a long distance away can attend. These devotional meetings are held in the Little Chapel of the Congregational church.

Jimmy James, A2 of Des Moines, will be in charge of today's service. Carol Raymond, A3 of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, is the general chairman, but a different "Y" member takes over the program each week.

"Fools of Reason" will be the topic discussed in the Little Chapel today. Mary Elizabeth Bell, A3 of Colfax, will play the organ. Two hymns will be sung, "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me."

The object of the services is to provide a short period in the middle of the week for a few minutes of quiet devotion and inspiration. In addition to students, townspeople and faculty members may attend the services.

Dr. Andrew Cordier To Interpret Proposals Of Dumbarton Oaks

"The Dumbarton Oaks Proposals" will be the subject of a lecture Wednesday evening at 7:30 by Dr. Andrew Cordier, state department official who was present at the recent Dumbarton Oaks conference. Chairman of the division of the social sciences at Manchester college in North Manchester, Ind., the speaker is now in government service attached to the division of international security of the department of state.

Dr. Cordier's discussion will be an interpretation of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals in their world setting and an analysis of their provisions. The state department is interested in having these explained to the public and even more interested in noting public response in question and answer sessions concerning the proposals. A discussion period will follow the lecture Wednesday night.

Connected with the state department as an expert in international problems, Dr. Cordier is rated by newspapers as one of the best orators in Indiana and ranks high as one of the clearest thinkers along lines of national development in the country. A lecturer for the extension division of the University of Indiana, he speaks on educational topics as well as matters concerning the United States, Europe and South America.

Born in Canton, Ohio, in 1901, Dr. Cordier was educated in Indiana schools. He has an M. A. degree from the University of Chicago and a Ph. D. degree from the same school. Chairman of the department of history and political science at Manchester college since 1926, he has traveled and studied in Europe, South America and the Caribbean area since that time.

Hawks Smash Badger Uprising, 54-53

Badgers Grab Early Lead

Late Scoring Rush Almost Upsets Hawks From League Lead

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

The Wisconsin Badgers almost proved a stumbling block to the title hopes of the Iowa Hawkeyes last night as they put on a last two minute scoring rush that came within one point of the Hawks, only to have the gun end the game with Iowa on the long end of the score, 54 to 53.

It was evident from the start that the Hawkeyes were in for a miserable evening as the Badgers grabbed the lead on baskets by Ray Patterson and Bill Johnson to soar to a 12 to 3 lead with but six minutes of the game gone.

Similar Type

The Wisconsin quintet, using an offensive similar to the type that Rollie Williams, former Iowa coach, used to use, had the Hawkeye Hurricane completely baffled during the early minutes of the first half.

Then Dick Ives broke the Hawkeye stalemate with a one-hander from the free throw lane and the Iowa scoring rush was on. The Wilkinson brothers hit in rapid succession to pull the Hawks within three points of the Badgers.

Five Left

With but five minutes remaining in the first half, the Muscatine redhead, Murray Wier, entered the contest, and the Hawk cause immediately took a turn for the better. Wier, playing like a demon, raved up and down the floor, stealing the ball from Wisconsin players, breaking up passes and scoring himself. Just 30 seconds after he entered the contest, he scored on a fast break under the basket and was fouled in the process. He cashed in on his free throw attempt and a minute later dumped one in from way out to put the Hawks ahead for the first time in the game, 22 to 21.

Scoring Antics

Wier's scoring antics apparently fired the rest of the Hawkeyes, for big Clay Wilkinson hit under the basket, and Herb Wilkinson soon followed with another drive-in shot to put the Hawks further out in front. Wier hit again before the horn sounded for the intermission period. The Hawkeyes left the floor, leading 29 to 24, after a gallant climb from a nine-point deficit at the start of the game.

As the Hawks came back from the rest period, it was again Wier who led the Iowa onslaught as he dumped in a free throw and dribbled through a broken field like a halfback for another two-pointer. At the end of three minutes of play, the scoreboard read Iowa 34, Wisconsin 24, and the Iowa fans settled back in their seats to watch what appeared to be a typical Hawkeye finish.

Badger Aces

But Bill Johnson and Ray Patterson, the Badger scoring aces, soon belied that belief as they started hitting from all over the floor. The Iowa lead dwindled to a mere six points, 36 to 30. But then, Herb Wilkinson exploded with two quick baskets and a free throw, and Dick Ives tossed in another two-pointer to run the count once more to a 10 point margin, 43 to 33.

But the Badgers came back stronger than ever and with Patterson and Johnson leading the way, cut the Iowa lead to seven points. The score seasawed back and forth with the Hawkeyes maintaining their slim margin of lead.

Stalling Game

With six minutes remaining in the ball game and the Hawks leading, 49 to 43, and playing a stalling game, it appeared that the game was all but over. But once again the Badgers pulled one out of the hat as Vince Goering entered the game for the first time.

Goering was the spark that ignited the flame, and the Badger offensive soon caught fire as he hit for two quick baskets. Patterson followed with a tip in under the basket and Goering scored again, this time from way out to bring the count to 54 to 49. At this point Gene Matthews came through with his only basket of the game as the score climbed to 54-51.

Maybe So

The Eager Badger

By BOB KRAUSE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

WHETHER OR NOT the grambeside the point in this case, but we have it on reliable authority that, in reference to last night's Wisconsin-Iowa melodrama, one man is questionable seems to be of the members of the Hawk squad had substantially this to say in relation to the Badgers—before the game: "Hell, they ain't got nothin'!"

We trust that, at present, the young man has reconsidered his words. We trust that the Iowa team as a whole has ceased projecting its thoughts beyond the coming weekend to the Illinois game of March 3.

Big Hangover

If Pops Harrison's club hasn't altered its thinking it is likely to wake up with a terrific basketball hangover on either next Sunday or Tuesday morning—maybe both.

Yes, Wisconsin surely did have something. And, we presume, since they have been improving steadily in the past weeks, they are not likely to lose this something come Saturday.

Return Match

We noticed an incident that makes us believe that Badger coach Harold "Bud" Foster is really aiming for the return match with Iowa with all weapons loaded and aimed well.

This was the fact that, seemingly he lifted one of his aces, Des Smith, at moments when he might have helped the Badger cause more by not warming the bench. It seems obvious that Foster was saving the balding forward for the home crowd, as we noticed that his right knee and ankle were heavily taped.

How Often

Since we are in the mood for beef without points today we would harken to some words we penned a while back. It was after the Michigan fiasco at Iowa City that we wondered just how often and how much of those cute stalling tactics the Hawks could use to make the assembled mobs squeal with glee.

Well, you saw what happened last night. All those present except Wisconsin thought that the ball game was all over after some ten minutes of the second half. Only the Badgers, who, after all, were the interested party, seemed aware of the fact that there were still ten minutes of regulation time left.

Wisconsin, in fact, still wasn't giving up with only three seconds left. Well, the fancy stuff may be OK against the humpty dumpties but, Hawkeyes, beware—the future is not bright, if you forget that there are 40 minutes in a basketball game.

Fight Fans — Why, They're Bloody

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Diamond settled into a chair, his cushioned frame spreading slowly over the edges like ink staining a blotter. He fixed us with a steady, hypnotic gaze from black eyes.

"I have an idea for you," he said, then, the corner of his eye catching Comdr. Jack Dempsey, in the next chair, lighting a cigar and then bending down to reach under the table suspiciously. "Let's sit somewhere else. He's trying to give me a hotfoot."

Nobody Writes

We moved, and the Honest Brakeman continued: "Nobody ever writes anything about the fight fans. Who they are, and why they are loud and bloodthirsty."

"Now who are these fans? Well, there is the man who works for somebody else. He has to take orders all day, and can't talk back. He comes to fights to let off steam, to yell like he couldn't yell at his boss."

Henpecked Husband

Then there is the henpecked husband. The "George, clean up those ashes off the rug" fellow. He also wants a chance to get away from the mouse role, so he goes to fights and hollers his head off.

"Then there's the bloodthirsty type, the man who wants to see somebody get kilt in there as long as it isn't him.

"And then there's the guy who thinks every fight is a phony, and no matter what happens you can't tell him otherwise. And there's the one who can see only one fighter, and who thinks the referee and judges are crooked if they give the decision to the other man.

Don't Care

"And there are the gamblers, who just go to bet and don't care about the fight as long as they get with a sprained ankle Saturday, but Lieut. Hon. Norby said today that he would play as long as his services were needed by the team."

In the previous meeting between the two clubs, the Seahawks drubbed the Cornhuskers, 62-42, at Lincoln, but with the weakened navy lineup the game should be of a much closer variety, and the Nebraska five is given a chance to upset the Gold and Blue.

Main Point

The game tonight will be the next to last game for the Cadets this season. Their record so far shows 15 wins against 4 losses. The Seahawks will wind up their campaign March 5 with a game with Minnesota here. Then the navy hopes to be at full strength.

Cadets Face Cornhuskers

Navy Presents Revised Five Against Nebraska; Three Out Tonight

After their 16th win of the season the Iowa Seahawks will oppose Nebraska tonight in the Iowa fieldhouse. It will be the second game in two nights for the Cornhuskers as they played Iowa State at Ames last night.

The Cadets will present a much revised lineup from the one that faced Nebraska at Lincoln. Holland, Weaver and Pugsley left immediately after the Notre Dame game last week on a leave. Taking over in their absence will be Robert Ritcheske from Muskegon, Mich., at the forward slot, Gordon Sherwood from Seattle, Wash., at the center position, and Bob O'Neal will take over the other guard position.

Only Regulars

Only regulars in the lineup for the Pre-Flighters will be Bob Baggett, the high scoring guard, and Jim Klein, who was reported out with a sprained ankle Saturday, but Lieut. Hon. Norby said today that he would play as long as his services were needed by the team.

In the previous meeting between the two clubs, the Seahawks drubbed the Cornhuskers, 62-42, at Lincoln, but with the weakened navy lineup the game should be of a much closer variety, and the Nebraska five is given a chance to upset the Gold and Blue.

Irish to Meel I. C. Tonight

Fresh from their victory over St. Mary's Ramblers Friday, a rejuvenated Shamrock quintet of St. Patrick's will attempt to upset another diocesan champion when they play host tonight to Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids.

Besides trying to knock out the Dubuque diocesan champions as they did the Davenport tournament winners, the Irish have another motive for going after their tenth win of the season.

They haven't forgotten the 44-43 loss they suffered at the hands of the Cedar Rapids five when they met them on the Parlor City court in the teams' former encounter, and the element of revenge may again strongly influence their performance.

The Shamrocks displayed great improvement in floor play and strategy in trouncing their intracity rivals Friday, and if they continue that type of play, they may be able to wrest another major victory from a champion team.

Since winning the Dubuque diocesan tournament, the Greyhounds have chalked up consistent triumphs, and their season's record to date shows only two losses. A fast-moving, hard-driving team, the visitors have an all-important height advantage which they have put to good use against their foes.

Coach Cliff Kripta reports that the Shamrocks will go into this crucial game in perfect physical condition, and that he will use the same five who outplayed the Ramblers. Charlie Belger and Merle Hove will be in the forefront, while Connell will be at center and Gene Herdliska and Red Gatens will be guards.

under the basket by Patterson. In a jump-ball off to the left of the basket, Patterson calmly jumped high in the air to bat the ball in for another two-pointer. The Badgers, realizing they were within striking distance of victory, tried desperately to get control of the ball, but Jack Spencer, playing it smart, took the pass from out of bounds and fell on it as the gun went off ending the struggle, 54 to 53.

Wier, with five field goals and four free tosses, led the Iowa scoring, closely followed by Clay Wilkinson with 13 points. Johnson with 17 and Patterson with 14 led the Badger offensive.

Sam Sneed — Wins Another

By SKIPPER PATRICK
GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Samuel Jackson Sneed of Hot Springs, Va., won the Gulfport $5,000 Open Golf championship yesterday by one stroke after a 19-hole grueling playoff against Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio.

Sneed's victory here pulled him even with Nelson in the P.G.A. winter series, each having four championships, although Sneed has played in two tournaments less than Nelson.

Outlast Rival

Sammy appeared determined to outlast his rival yesterday after Sneed missed a short putt Sunday on the 18th hole that would have given him the Gulfport championship at the end of the 72-hole tournament.

The Virginian also barely missed ending the play at the end of yesterday's scheduled 18-hole playoff when his five-foot putt parked on the lip of the cup. He bogeyed on the par-4 hole while Nelson was getting even par to deadlock the score at 71-71. The competition then went into an extra stanza.

Drives First

Nelson drove off first on the 19th hole. His ball stopped in the soggy grass at the edge of a ditch. His second try hit the opposite bank of the ditch and he dropped out of the ditch to lose one stroke. He was on the green on his fourth shot, and sank a 30-foot putt for a bogey 5.

Sneed was within 15 feet of the cup on his second shot and when he putted to within one-foot of the pin, Nelson walked over and clasped the hand of the stocky Virginian, conceding the championship.

Illini Nip Minnesota By 49 to 48

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois, fighting for the Western conference championship, sped from behind in the last half here last night to edge out a stubborn Minnesota quintet, 49 to 48.

Second Place

The Illini, in second place in the conference, trailed Minnesota most of the first half in the rough, fast game, and were behind, 27 to 22 at the intermission. They moved into a lead soon after the start of the second period, but couldn't shake off the dogged Gophers who put on a scoring burst of their own in the last two minutes that came within a point of overhauling Illinois.

A crowd of 4,651 saw the game.

Move Into Lead

Illinois, paced by Jack Burmaster, who scored 16 points, and Junior Kirk, with 12, moved into a 32-28 lead five minutes after the intermission. With six minutes remaining, they were ahead 44 to 36, but three minutes later the Gophers had whittled that lead to 45-44. Howie Judson and Jack Burmaster each dropped in a field goal for Illinois to make the count 49-44, but Clarence Hermens, who led Minnesota with 17 points, and Lehman, each scored from the field in the last 50 seconds, with time running out before they could add a game-winning goal.

Iowa State Overcomes Huskers

AMES (AP)—Bob Mott's basket with seven seconds of the game left gave Iowa State a 47 to 45 victory over Nebraska here last night and kept the Cyclones in the running for the Big Six conference cage title.

State Trails

Iowa State trailed, 25 to 22, at halftime.

Jim Myers dumped in 14 points to pace the Cyclones. Art Peterson led the Huskers with 11 points. The triumph brought Iowa State's record in the loop to five victories and two defeats and paired the Kansas margin to a half game.

Go Ahead

The Cyclones went ahead in the first 45 seconds of the second half when forward Orlyn Feuerbach and Mott hit field goals. Guard Buzz Hollins knotted the tally with a charity shot, but Ted Chamberlain, State backcourter, cashed a push shot to put Iowa State out in front, 28-27.

Gift Shot

Center Art Peterson's gift shot knotted the score again, and the teams battled down to the stretch on even terms to set the stage for Mott's long, arching shot.

Pep Defeats Terranova

NEW YORK (AP)—Using his longer reach to good advantage Willie Pep, of Hartford, Conn., retained his featherweight boxing championship last night by easily outpointing challenger Phil Terranova of New York, in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 10,247 that contributed to a gross gate of $48,701 saw the Hartford 124½-pounder jab his way to a unanimous decision. Terranova, 125, waged a game fight, but his reach of 65 inches to Pep's 66 proved too much of a disadvantage to overcome. In chalking up his 24th straight triumph and 86th triumph in 87 bouts, Pep came close to scoring a knockout in the 10th round. In that stanza he overwhelmed Terranova with jabs, lefts to the stomach and rights to the jaw that had the Bronx challenger reeling as the bell rang.

At the end Judge Tom Guillofoyle gave Pep 12 rounds, Terranova three and called one even. Judge Marty Monroe scored it 10 to five while Referee Arthur Don-

Hoover Says 'No' To Baseball Job

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Sports Editor Sam Adams of the Montgomery Advertiser, who recently suggested the appointment of John Edgar Hoover as national baseball commissioner, had this reply today from the FBI director:

"I have no intention of leaving my present position in the midst of a war."

The FBI's duties, he wrote, "are of such a nature as to make those activities for all practical purposes very closely associated with the armed forces, and in such times as these personal and financial considerations must remain secondary."

oan carded it as 10, three and two even. The Associated Press scorecard called it 11 and two with one even.

City High Can Clinch Title Friday

Having jumped into undisputed possession of first place in the Mississippi Valley conference as a result of Clinton's upset loss to Franklin, Iowa City's Little Hawks can clinch the title this week if they can get past the tough Wilson cagers who will tangle with the Hawkleys Friday night in Iowa City.

In their 56-32 slaughter of Roosevelt last Friday the Red and White cagers looked plenty powerful, as they racked up the score with ease and were not in danger at any time.

The play of the Little Hawks was the decided reverse of that displayed by the team in the last two contests and should it keep up against Wilson the Hawkleys should have the championship in the bag.

The City high basketballers will be taking no chances, however, this week and will go through a stiff round of practice sessions to prepare themselves for the all-important contest.

Wilson is a team not to be taken lightly, as it was only last Friday that they copped the city championship in Cedar Rapids by defeating McKinley's Golden Bears, 52-47. Particularly effective for the Wilson cagers in this contest was Zeke Hoyle, guard, who tossed in a total of 21 points in leading his mates to victory.

Frick Seeks Definite Status of Players

NEW YORK (AP)—Ford Frick, President of the National League, arrived in Washington yesterday to get a definite commitment from War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes on baseball's status, it was learned from a highly authoritative baseball source last night.

"Frick has gone to Washington armed with a list of the majors' personnel, consisting mostly of 4F's, discharges, over-age and under-age players," said the informant who asked that his name not be mentioned.

"As we have said many times before, we don't want to use a single man who is needed by the armed forces or by essential industry. However, we'd like to keep the men who are not needed. All we ask is no discrimination."

Rivermen Prepare For Crucial Tilt

After winning their sixth straight Eastern Iowa conference game last Friday from Mt. Vernon, 38 to 35, the University high Blue Hawks went through a light warmup session yesterday before going into serious preparation for the clash with West Branch this weekend.

The Bears must be beaten by the Rivermen for the second time Friday in order for the Blue Hawks to gain first place, although at present they hold the only undefeated record in the league. The Bears will have played one game more than the locals, and if West Branch wins the oncoming clash, that team will be conference champions by virtue of having a higher percentage than University high.

Last Friday's clash with Mt. Vernon showed the Rivermen that they can never let up during any conference game. U-high was in the lead all the way, but in the closing minutes the Maroons closed a 10-point deficit, and only by effective stalling were they held from tying or winning the clash. Nusser, who scored 13 points, led the Iowa City attack, and Williams played his usual fine defensive game.

The present conference standings are as follows:

Team	W	L	Pct.
University high	6	0	1.000
West Branch	6	1	.857
Mt. Vernon	3	3	.500
Monticello	2	3	.400
Tipton	1	6	.143
West Liberty	1	6	.143

Appointments Open For Orientation Interviews This Week

Appointments may still be made for orientation interviews to take place this week, according to freshman orientation chairman Helen Kuttler, A3 of Davenport, and transfer council chairman Ann Shaw, A3 of Des Moines.

Separate appointment sheets for those who wish to be interviewed as prospective freshman or transfer orientation leaders and assistants are still available at the University Women's association desk at the foot of the steps on the ground floor of Old Capitol. Interviews with members of the two orientation councils will be held there throughout the week.

Women are urged to be prompt for their interviews, since interviews are scheduled at regular intervals, allowing just enough time for the person being interviewed to give her ideas for the fall orientation program. If it is impossible to appear for a scheduled interview, a later appointment may be made. Anyone who missed her appointment yesterday should sign up now for a time later in the week.

Dutch Underground Worker to Lecture

Information First Speaker Scheduled For Wednesday at 4

Speaking at the last lecture of the 1944-45 Information First series, Jacob Van Berkel will tell of his work as a member of the Netherlands underground during the past four years. The lecture this week has been scheduled a day early, Wednesday, in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4 p. m.

Van Berkel's activities took him all over Europe—from Holland to Germany, Poland, Austria, Czechoslovakia and other parts of the continent occupied by Germany. He has just arrived in the United States and has a dramatic story to tell of his work as an underground agent.

A young man of 26, Van Berkel served as liaison officer with the Dutch underground. Arrested once, he was taken to a Gestapo prison where he remained for a week. During that time he was in a cell 8 feet by 10 feet which was occupied by 60 persons. For reasons of security, many details of the speaker's life with the underground cannot be released.

He was in Holland when it was invaded by the Germans in 1940. One of the first things the Germans did when they went into Holland was to put into effect a forced labor law. Van Berkel volunteered to go to Berlin, volunteered as a foreign worker and soon was assigned to a Berlin factory. During the time he spent in Germany, however, he was actively connected with other workers from occupied countries who created an organization to supply their countrymen with false passports and visas so they could escape from Germany.

Seven University Graduates, Former Students Announce Recent Engagements, Marriages

Word has been received of the recent engagements and marriages of seven graduates and former students of the University of Iowa.

McKim-Gardner
In the Frazier Hall chapel at Norfolk, Va., Shirley McKim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. McKim of Burlington, became the bride of Lieut. (j.g.) George McCutchen Gardner, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gardner of Unionville, Mo., Feb. 11. Navy chaplain Theobald officiated at the single ring ceremony. The bride was graduated from the University of Iowa, where she served as editor of The Daily Iowan. She was employed on the editorial staff of the Mason City Globe-Gazette.

Lieutenant Gardner, a graduate of Parks air college in St. Louis, is now stationed at Norfolk.

Homann-Nolan
In a double ring ceremony Jan. 14, Betty Helen Homann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Homann of Launa, became the bride of Ems. William O. Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nolan of Chicago. Chaplain Francis B. Meyer officiated in the Navy chapel in Pensacola, Fla. The bride is a graduate of the Launa high school and attended the University of Iowa for two years.

Ensign Nolan is a check pilot at the naval air station at Pensacola, where the couple will reside.

Hanson-Mason
Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hanson of Sioux Rapids announce the marriage of their daughter, June, to Robert D. Mason, pharmacist's mate first class, son of Mrs. Clarence Kelsey of Waterloo. Elder E. L. Abbott officiated at the ceremony Jan. 26 in the Broadway Seventh Day Adventist church in San Diego, Cal.

The bride was formerly employed by the Small War Plants corporation in Davenport. The bridegroom attended the University of Iowa prior to his enlistment in the navy in 1942. Maintain Morale Treat Emergencies In Red Cross

Home service for families of men in the armored forces is the greatest single responsibility in the American Red Cross today, for there is no other service in the Red Cross which proves so well that "your Red Cross is at his side."

The problems which come to chapters according to Mrs. Lorna Mathes, local executive secretary, run the gamut of human difficulties, sickness, injury, financial trouble and marital crises. Some of the requests come from servicemen themselves. Others are relayed through Red Cross field directors and hospital medical social workers, both here and overseas.

Home service workers are available around the clock in most Red Cross chapters to take care of emergencies and, according to the army and navy, they are doing outstanding work maintaining the morale of our fighting men.

Much anxiety and apprehension about the welfare of ones here at home or stationed overseas can be reduced by the exchange of information between Red Cross home service and Red Cross field directors overseas.

One of the dramatic examples of American Red Cross Home Service work during the war has been its foreign inquiry service. This is carried on by each Red Cross chapter but is centered in Washington where it operates through the facilities of the International Committee of Red Cross.

Thousands of anxious relatives of civilians in the enemy or enemy-occupied countries of the world have used this inquiry service to make contact with their relatives abroad. Messages which are transmitted must necessarily be of a strictly personal nature, but they serve to relieve fears about the health of aged parents, missing brothers or sisters, or a long-unheard-from husband or wife.

The dramatic impact of this service will be realized when it is appreciated that millions of individuals are concerned and that normal means of communications are not available.

Local Meat Retailers Report Fat Salvage

The war food administration has set a goal of 322 million pounds of waste fat to be collected in 1945. This is an increase of 100 million pounds over the amount collected in 1944.

The need for housewives to save used kitchen fats during the next six months will be greater than in the past, according to most Iowa City meat retailers included in a recent survey.

Reasons given were as follows: 1. Salvaged fat will help speed victory when utilized in production. 2. Because of the increased point values of meats, housewives are anxious to obtain the two red points per pound.

All the meat retailers who were questioned in the survey accept used fats at any time, but stipulate that it be strained. Four cents is paid for each pound of fat.

Meat dealers who stated they were getting more used fat each month traced the increase in fats turned in to radio and newspaper publicity and to the fact that most families need red points.
