Half of Last Iwo Airfield Captured

Marine Lines Hold South Portion Of Enemy Island

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Sunday (AP)—Three marine divisions, driving straight into the face of the most modern weapons Japan has yet employed in the Pacific and over a maze of long-built defenses, captured half of the enemy's last airfield on Iwo Saturday afternoon.

Pushing their lines north to encompass nearly the whole south half of the island, they found out gains of 300 to 500 yards.

But it was paid for in blood every inch of the way past pillboxes, blockhouses and fortified gates. On one flank alone 100 men, 30 to 40 feet deep, had to be knocked out.

The three attacking divisions had to move across mine fields. The leathernecks were paced by tanks and the Japanese opposed these with weapons similar to the American bazookas.

The Nipponese also continued to pour in fire of heavy type rockets. Seizure of the south half of Iwo airfield, No. 2, which has two runways, puts the devil's well atop the plateau on which the field is located. It is the last enemy airfield in enemy hands, with 700 yards north of the captured bomber base.

The advance was scored by Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third Division.

On the right, Maj. Gen. Clifton C. Cates' Fourth marine division has extended the east coast beachhead northward 600 yards. This made its width more than 5,000 yards.

On the left of the Third division, Maj. Gen. Keller C. Rockey's Fifth division, advanced "several hundred yards," today's morning communique reported.

Premier of Egypt Killed After Reading Declaration of War

CAIRO (AP)—Prime Minister Ahmed Maher of Egypt was shot and killed in the chamber of deputies last night shortly after he had read a royal decree declaring war on the axis.

The prime minister had just completed his reading of the decree by King Farouk and was leaving the chamber when three shots were fired at him from close range.

Witnesses said the assailant was a 32-year-old member of the extremist party and some identified him as a young lawyer. His name was not announced, although he was arrested immediately.

All three bullets struck Ahmed Maher in his stomach and he died half an hour later.

The king, notified of the attack on the prime minister, hurried to the parliamentary building at once.

Egypt and other nations of the middle east had been expected to enter the war against Germany and Japan since Turkey's declaration Thursday.

Two Chinese Forces Close on Lashio, Burma Railroad

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon (AP)—Two Chinese formations converged yesterday on Lashio, Burma road railroad and the largest Japanese base in eastern Burma, from positions less than 20 miles away.

One force drove across the Lashio river and captured the town of the same name 25 miles northwest of Lashio.

Southward, British 14th army troops were patrolling the south bank of the Irrawaddy river west of Mandalay, where a bridgehead has been secured as an outstanding threat to Mandalay itself.

Another year has rolled by, and today Iowa men and women pause a moment to remember that their state university is 98 years old.

There have been changes in this last year at Iowa university—changes that weren't on the outside of the campus, because that is the same. Old Capitol still stands calm and serene on the hill overlooking the Iowa river. Schaeffer hall is still crowded with pushing, laughing college people, as are MacBride and University halls. But inside the living part of the University, made up of each man and woman on campus, there have been changes—changes which reflect a university at war.

When the Iowa university men went to war, so did the Iowa university women. Those fellows that left were boys from our home towns; they were a part of the college we had hoped and planned for. When they left... part of our dreams for the future went with them, broken dreams that couldn't be mended by the khaki and Navy blue. That's why we had to make good here at home. That's why we couldn't let them down or fail them in any way. We knew we had a job to do, and we were going to do it. We planned busy days to keep our hands and minds occupied. It was our way of saying, "We're helping too."

The future success of Iowa university lies in the hands of her freshmen. To them she gives the responsibility of carrying on old Iowa traditions and helping to make necessary changes to keep up with the war-time demands.

Allied Air Fleets Smash at Nazi Sub Yards, Oil Refineries

LONDON (AP)—Great fleets of allied planes kept the war's most devastating air offensive roaring through the 12th straight day yesterday with heavy blows on German submarine yards and oil refineries, and Nazi warnings late last night indicated Mosquito bombers were attacking Berlin again.

Rail targets not hit in the previous two-day "buckshot blitz" which paralyzed the transportation network in western Germany also came under the shattering cascade of high explosives as the Britain-based United States Eighth air force struck with 1,600 planes and the RAF followed during afternoon with upwards of 700.

Eighth air force losses were announced as four bombers and 11 fighters. Enemy air opposition was scanty and flak light except at Bremen and Hamburg where grouped fire was intense.

From Italy heavy bombers of the United States 15th air force struck rail yards at Graz on the main line from Vienna to Yugoslavia and at Klagenfurt just north of the Yugoslav border. Flying Fortresses also bombed the yards at Ferrara in the Po valley and Liberators attacked other rail targets at Padua and Udine. Thunderbolts strafed trains moving in northern Italy.

Interpreting the War News

The answer to Nazi ability to maintain any organized defense around within the roofless citadel that lies between the Rhine and the Oder may be evident soon.

And when it is, the duration of the war in Europe can be answered with some reasonable degree of accuracy.

Germany was face to face with another supreme test.

There was no question but that the final phase of a coordinated Russian-allied winter drive to crush the Wehrmacht was on although the full scope and direction of simultaneous massive ground attacks from east and west had yet to develop.

Under cover of a sustained allied air bombardment that blackened German skies day and night with bombers the big push began.

In an anniversary order to Red armies issued while allied bombers were ripping at every vital Nazi communication key in preparation for the culminating break-

Back Home Nurses From Bataan, Corregidor Return

HAMILTON FIELD, Calif. (AP)—Heroines of Corregidor and Bataan came home yesterday.

There were 68 of them, arriving at 1:45 p. m. on three big transports and one hospital plane—67 army nurses and specialists and one Red Cross worker.

Back home! Away from the blood and dirt of war.

Back home! Away from a prison camp.

Back home! Oh, it's so good! It's so good! You just can't know!"

Such was the refrain repeated again and again by the women who nursed the wounded and the dying in the bitter, desperate days of America's defeat and who then suffered through nearly three years of Japanese captivity.

The nurses and specialists were the first group of the many thousand liberated Americans in the Philippines to be brought home.

Yanks Push Five Miles Beyond Roer

Win Half of Dueren; Germans Rush Reinforcements

PARIS, Sunday (AP)—The American First and Ninth armies plunged nearly five miles across the Cologne plain beyond the shattered Roer river defense line yesterday, engulfing 30 towns and villages and capturing thousands of the German west bank Rhine force which General Eisenhower declared he was going to destroy.

At dusk the second day of the powerful push—by German account "the greatest offensive Eisenhower has ever staged"—American spearheads were 12 miles from the western Ruhr basin and 19 from Cologne, and had won half of the Roer river bastion of Dueren.

A late report said that Marshal von Rundstedt was rushing German reserves from the south into the battle on the approaches to Duesseldorf and Cologne.

The 102nd division alone took more than 800 prisoners since they jumped off east of Linlich, and both the Ninth and Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army had taken at least 1,400 in the first 24 hours of the offensive. Hundreds more were streaming back into the prison pens yesterday.

Eisenhower confidently told a press conference: "Our attack is progressing as favorably as can be expected. I expect to destroy every German west of the Rhine and in the area in which we are attacking."

Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's United States Ninth army on the north flank was gaining momentum after spearheading through the village of Baal, 12 miles southwest of Muenchen Gladbach, an industrial city of 200,000 at the western edge of the Ruhr.

These forces seized high ground beyond Baal and were 25 miles from the big Ruhr center of Duesseldorf.

Chinese Retake Town On Jap Supply Route CHUNGKING (AP)—Lienhwa, key town on the Japanese supply route to Kanhien and Suichwan, former American airbases in Kiangsi province, has been recaptured, the Chinese high command announced last night.

Situated in western Kiangsi province 90 miles east of the Japanese-held Canton-Hankow railroad Lienhwa also was one of the strongholds protecting the east flank of the enemy's China-Indo-China corridor. Its recapture marked the first real success of Chinese counterattacks designed to interrupt the flow of enemy supplies to the fallen air bases.

Culbertson Coming Here

Author, Bridge Expert To Speak in Union

World Peace Plan Combines Mechanics, Mass Psychology

Presenting a peace plan that can be understood by people everywhere, an ingenious plan for maintaining world peace by a quota system of distributed forces, Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, author and lecturer will speak on "The Fight for Total Peace" in Iowa Union, March 12.

Culbertson's plan for world peace described in his latest book, "Total Peace" is one which only an expert in mechanics and mass psychology could have devised. It is a job of engineering which commands the respect of experts.

A man of versatility and international background, Culbertson has studied at six universities and speaks eight languages. He has a deep understanding of world problems as an outgrowth of his experiences in three revolutions.

The life work of this seventh generation American brought up in Russia and Europe, has been in the field of social sciences and mass psychology. He is a maker of systems, a social engineer.

Even though he is widely known as the inventor of a bridge system played the world over, the last three books written by Culbertson have focused on world peace. These three books: "Of War and Peace," "The World Federation Plan," and "Total Peace" written in 1941, '42, and '43, respectively, followed by a period of eleven years from 1930 to 1941 in which he wrote ten books including an autobiography, a mystery play and many on the bridge he now considers a hobby.

Russians Four Miles From Breslau's Heart

Germans Report Reds Strengthen Drive Across Neisse River

LONDON (AP)—Russian siege troops hurled the Germans out of 15 more city blocks in Breslau yesterday, driving to within four miles of the heart of the city, while other Soviet forces pushed to within 33 miles south of Danzig.

Red army troops also were reported to have smashed in growing force across the Neisse river guarding Berlin's southeastern approaches, but Moscow did not confirm this development.

In one of the briefest communiques issued since the Russians opened their winter offensive Jan. 12, Moscow announced slight gains in German Pomerania near the Polish frontier and the capture of nine more localities in the shrinking Nazi pocket southwest Prussian capital.

A Nazi garrison believed to number 100,000 men fought savagely to hold Breslau and delay the Russian advances on Berlin and Dresden.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army attacking on a 70-mile front gained up to seven miles from their previous positions, capturing 10 localities in the Polish "corridor" and in Pomerania on the west.

Five Nations Banned From San Francisco World Security Meet

LONDON (AP)—Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal, Argentina and possibly Eire have been banned from the San Francisco world security conference, it was reliably reported last night.

Even a declaration of war—the price of admission to the peace table for other neutral nations—apparently has been turned down in the cases of these nations.

Only a change of government, it was reported in responsible quarters, might win some of these countries a place back in the good graces of the major powers and a seat—with a vote—in the projected world security league.

It is significant that none of the countries apparently was cut in on the big three decision to give other neutrals until March 1 to make up their minds.

WMC Lists Penalties For Curfew Violations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government decided yesterday on a series of penalties that can put a night spot out of business if it violates the midnight curfew which goes into effect Monday.

The policy was announced by the war manpower commission as the prime enforcer of the curfew ordered by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to conserve electricity, fuel, manpower and transportation facilities.

The announcement listed these stern measures:

- 1—Placing of a "zero" employment ceiling on an establishment, which means the proprietor may not hire anyone except maintenance employees such as a janitor.
- 2—Withdrawal of power and fuel by the war production board.
- 3—Withholding of rationed food and other commodities by the office of price administration.
- 4—A ban on deliveries by the office of defense transportation.

U.S. Presents Plan To Control Subversive Activities in Americas

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States presented long-range plans to the inter-American conference yesterday to keep tight controls on subversive activities throughout the hemisphere.

The plan fitted closely with the Washington attitude towards Argentina. It was learned on best authority that the main condition for United States recognition of Argentina is far-reaching action by Buenos Aires to block any activities which would threaten the hemisphere's peace.

Mere gestures, such as a declaration of war, would fail to satisfy this demand, it was understood.

A Cuban resolution calling for "all the nations of America to declare war on Nazi Germany and on Japanese militarism" stimulated terrace chatter, however, on the possibility of Argentina's entrance into the war.

Argentina has broken relations with the Axis, but is now the only American nation not at war with either Germany or Japan.

Increased Induction Of Men 30-33 Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—Selective service last night ordered increased drafting of men 30 through 33 years old, by permitting their deferment only if they are "necessary to" an essential industry.

Heretofore men of that age only had to be "engaged in" such an industry.

The new instructions to draft boards mean that a larger number of the approximately 1,500,000 men in that age bracket holding occupational deferments will enter military service this year, a selective service spokesman said.

Three-Week Battle Wins City for Yanks

3,000 Civilians Freed From Intramuros By Americans

MANILA, Sunday (AP)—Manila, strewn with the bodies of more than 12,000 Japanese, was completely liberated Saturday—three weeks to a day after Yanks first entered it.

The death gasp of the enemy's fanatical garrison was emitted within the centuries-old walls of the intramuros where 3,000 frightened and tortured civilians were rescued—a day after the dramatic behind-the-lines liberation of 2,146 civilians southeast of the city at Los Banos.

Grim-faced Yanks of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th (Buckeye) and Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First cavalry divisions, the first to enter Manila, slaughtered the last remnants of an enemy garrison once estimated at 20,000.

Uncounted Enemy Dead Many more enemy dead remain to be counted in the fire-scarred and rubble-strewn city where "the enemy apparently expected to turn the tide of battle in a supreme effort," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Final victory crowned a battle so bitter that at times Americans were fighting on one floor of a building against Japanese above them or in the basement.

Its last stages were marred by Japanese practise of murder and rapine against unarmed civilians.

China Sea Action Highlighting air attacks, planes ranged over the China sea to attack an enemy convoy, sinking a destroyer. An 8,000-ton freighter transport probably was sunk. Three other vessels were damaged. Another enemy destroyer was damaged off the French Indo China coast and a 2,000-ton freighter possibly damaged off Swatow, China.

Contrary to all expectations, American casualties in the intramuros fighting were light, reported Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson with the troops.

He said most of the 3,000 rescued were women and children. Few male civilians escaped death. Many of the freed, the bulk Filipinos, had been wounded or burned. There were a number of priests and nuns.

SUI Shares Win In Debate Conference

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska Wesleyan university, the University of Nebraska, the University of Iowa and Coe college of Cedar Rapids shared top honors in debate at the University of Nebraska two-day discussion and debate conference concluded here yesterday. Fourteen colleges were represented.

In addition to the superior ratings listed, excellent ratings in debates were given to Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Coe college, the University of Iowa, the University of Nebraska (two teams); Iowa State college, Illinois State Normal (two teams) University of South Dakota, Denver university, Wheaton college (Ill.); Augustana college (S. D.).

Superior individual ratings went to Jean O'Connell of Nebraska Wesleyan; Jean Collier, Velma Martin and Dorothy Kotteman of SUI; Mary Ann Matton and Tom Sorenson of the University of Nebraska.

Margarine Point Values Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The OPA last night ordered a boost in the ration point values on lard, shortening, salad and cooking oils and margarine, effective at 12:01 a. m. today.

Butter, not affected, remains at 24 points a pound.

University of Iowa Begins Its 99th Year Today

SUI Officially Established Feb. 25, 1847

47,423 Degrees Granted by University In Its 98 Years

Ninety-eight years ago today, the state legislature of Iowa passed a law establishing officially the State University of Iowa. During the past week the state legislature passed a maintenance budget for SUI, to take care of some 400 acres containing 50 buildings which have been built since that memorable date, Feb. 25, 1847.

Degrees Awarded

Beginning its 99th year today, the University of Iowa has granted 47,423 degrees to its students. Of these, 34,829 were awarded one degree, 5,462 received two degrees, and 504 earned three degrees. Twenty-two persons succeeded in obtaining four degrees and there were five who received five degrees apiece. The number of living alumni totals 35,949, while 4,873 alumni are deceased, according to information at the registrar's office.

An old historical record of the university contains the following statement by Vernon R. Carstensen, historian, "It was in the nature of a political bargain that Iowa City was given the university in compensation for the loss of the capital."

Location of School

This remark is borne out by the fact that the Iowa constitution of 1846 gave the general assembly authority to establish a university. "With such branches as the public convenience may hereafter demand for the promotion of literature, the arts and sciences." However, no suggestion had yet been made as to where the university would be located. Then it was decided to move the capital of Iowa to a point nearer to the center of the state. Iowa City was then chosen as the site for the new university and was given the state building.

To Prepare Teachers

The principal duty of the institution would be to prepare teachers, according to a statement made by the first general assembly in 1847. Some proposed, instead, the training of doctors, lawyers, engineers, chemists and geologists. It was finally decided that the main purpose of the university would be to teach students how to earn a living and no consideration was given to mental discipline.

When the university was established 98 years ago, there were fewer than 200,000 people in Iowa. Thirty-three years later, the population had increased to over a million and a half.

Increase in Enrollment

In 1856-57, about half of the 124 students in the university were enrolled in the preparatory department of the university. Between the time when Dr. Charles A. Schaeffer became president of the university in 1887, and President Jessup's term of office ended in 1928, the enrollment of the university increased from 571 students to 9,203.

Old Capitol--Symbol of Iowa

On Iowa, Proudly at the Fore!

"Two hundred and fifty dollars for the best strictly University of Iowa song," offered the Chicago Alumni association. W. R. Law, '04L, carried his ruled paper and pencils to the piano and set to work. Law could sing, but his piano-playing ability was a product of personal ingenuity.

"On Iowa, on forevermore. On Iowa, proudly at the fore!" Experimentally, Law combined chords, hummed snatches of his potential prize-winner, and wrote the chorus first. Words came later. The potentiality of "On Iowa" remained just that for a while. The $250 went to Iowa, University Iowa, and Law returned to his legal books.

The director of the university band was ready to go in for a swim preceding his Waterloo concert when a breathless young man ran up and made him look over the two-year-old score of "On Iowa". Standing there on the sandy beach, the director agreed to give Law's song a chance, although it was too late to play it that evening.

"On Iowa" was officially used for the first time at a mass meeting before the Iowa-South Dakota football game in Iowa City. It merited tremendous applause, and the band played encore after encore. A week later, the sheet music was put on sale at the Iowa homecoming game.

Today, "On Iowa" brings every loyal university student to his feet, with pride and respect for a song whose words and music are strictly SUI.

"On this 98th birthday we salute the memory of the Iowa men and women who have given their lives in defense of their country. We shall be forever in their debt. And we send greetings to all those who in distant battle areas on land and sea and in the air, in the quiet cloistered air of research laboratories, or on farms and in factories are serving their country in this global war. We must not fail to reward their heroic services by doing all that we can to create and preserve the kind of world for which they are making their sacrifices.

"As this program makes clear, the university has witnessed a marked transition since founder's day one year ago. The army programs have almost entirely disappeared. Only the army program in the college of medicine remains. We still have the Navy V-12 programs in medicine and dentistry, and the Navy Pre-Flight school is operating at capacity, but throughout most of the university, we have returned to a civilian status.

"Inevitably, we have begun to think and plan for the days when peace will come, and men and women from the armed forces will return. You have heard of some of the educational plans which have been made to meet the needs of returning veterans. We hope to develop these plans further and to assemble a faculty which will keep this university among the foremost in the land. In addition, we have been planning for the physical growth of the university to meet our post-war and long-range needs—a library, a communications center for journalism, visual education and later radio, dormitories, an addition to the Union, to meet immediate post-war needs, and then further additions for the longer range physical needs of the university.

"Our country will need all the knowledge and wisdom that education can bring if it is to measure up to its opportunities and responsibilities in the post-war world. It is my hope that this university and its sons and daughters may contribute as mightily to the winning of the peace as they have to the winning of the war."

—President VIRGIL M. HANCHER

Founders' Day Program Broadcast

Script Written By Jean Krabbenhoft For Annual Program

One of the highlights of the week was WSUI's radio program Thursday night given in recognition of today—the 58th anniversary of the founding of the State University of Iowa. The scriptwriter, Jean Krabbenhoft, A3 of Davenport, and students who participated in the program cooperated to make it one of the best in WSUI's history. The production was directed by Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the speech department.

Composite View

Dick Baxter, G of Mount Pleasant, acted as master of ceremonies introducing various student representatives, giving a composite view of the campus as it is today after 98 years. The university band opened the program with the Iowa Victory song. Virginia Anderson, A1 of Harcourt, gave a freshman's impressions of Iowa during the last semester. In tribute to the men who have returned to their studies at the university after overseas duty, the university chorus sang, "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home."

Veterans Speak

Comments were made by Bill Boswell, U. of Marshalltown, a former marine who saw service in the south Pacific and is now a freshman on the SUI campus, and also by Bobette Merrick, a former WAVE, now majoring in speech. Following this, Hugh Ames of Muscatine told a little about the Special Instruction for Veterans' program of which he is a part. Willis Otto, A1 of Rock Island, Ill., expressed interest in his views since he is soon to leave for service himself.

Represent South America

Carlos Troetsch, A3, and Leonidas Saavedra, E3, represented the many South American students attending the University of Iowa by singing some South American music. Polly Normant, A3 of Chicago, then spoke for all university women.

After these brief commentaries, the band played an excerpt from the "Miracle" suite by Humperdink. Robert Ray, G of Davenport, read an excerpt from an overseas serviceman, Corp. Loyall Pearson. President Virgil Hancher then spoke a few words in commemoration of the anniversary of the founding of the university. The band closed with "Iowa On to Victory" and taps in the background.

First Graduate

"Dexter Edison Smith!" The black-robed young man rose from his chair, stepped up to the president, and received a bachelor of science degree. Mr. Smith was the first person to graduate from the State University of Iowa, and the only member of the Class of 1898.

Iowa U. Weathers—Fifth Major War

For the fifth time in its history, the State University of Iowa is giving its men and its facilities to the United States at war.

The Mexican war, in 1848, was the first one to which Iowa sent men from its classrooms. Iowa men fought and died in the War of the States, the Spanish-American war, and the first World War. To the present war, Iowa has already sent some 8,716 students and former students, and 145 of these have given their lives in service.

Take Correspondence

Most of Iowa's servicemen are now fighting in far corners of the world, but many of them, anxious to keep up their studies, are taking correspondence courses from the university. A few have come home and enrolled in the program of special instruction for veterans, under the GI bill of rights. The University Veterans association is an active organization with social, radio, education, publicity and athletics departments.

In this World War II army specialized training units, army meteorologists, army and navy medics and dentists, and Navy Pre-Flight cadets have been quartered on the university campus and a number of dormitories have been turned over to the military command.

Women Contribute

Women students have contributed their share in the war effort: some by enlisting in the service, some assuming the responsible jobs of men now in service, some by such mental tasks as bandage-rolling, writing letters, entertaining servicemen, etc.

Civil War

At the beginning of the Civil war there was no telegraph station nearer to Iowa City than Davenport, so that even though the first shots were fired on Fort Sumter, April 14, 1861, Iowa Citizens did not hear of the beginning of the conflict until April 18th.

On the evening of the 18th the leading citizens and students met at the courthouse, and there 43 persons enrolled as volunteers. Including the Washington Guards, this totalled 73. The townspeople subscribed $3,000 for needy families of those enlisting.

Quartered in Statehouse

Enlistees were usually quartered at the Old Hutchinson house, formerly the Old Statehouse. The Ladies Soldiers Aid society enrolled only names of those who paid regular dues, but it called for help from many university women who aided in scraping lint, preparing bandages, and tying comforters. They also assisted in soliciting donations and in conducting public entertainments for the purpose of raising funds.

It was in April, 1864, that a number of patriotic citizens provided homes and education for orphans of soldiers, and this appeal was sent out all over the state. The Board of Regents admitted to the university free of tuition charge all returned soldiers and soldiers' widows.

Military Instruction

The first move toward establishment of a military instruction at the State University of Iowa was made during the early days of the Civil war. Company D of the 44th Iowa Infantry, which later guarded Sherman's rear lines from Louisville to Atlanta, Ga., held its first organization meeting on the steps of Old Capitol. The company was composed of volunteers who felt a deep pride in their company, and especially in their special letter of commendation from President Lincoln.

Many gatherings to further the interests of the Union were held on the SUI campus. Banquets and entertainments were held in Metropolitan hall for soldiers.

Enlisted Men

The number of enlisted men from Iowa was almost one-tenth the entire population, which meant that nearly all the young men were at the front. The university suffered heavily, but the time between the last demand and the end of the war was short and the following year saw the return of many soldiers.

At the opening of the Spanish-American war, all but 15 of 200 cadets volunteered to go should their battalion be called into service. The entire National Guard of Iowa either mustered into the federal service or was discharged, so that for a time Iowa was without an organized militia of any kind.

World War

In World War I the first contingent of university men to leave for service consisted of 125 students, 10 faculty members, a large alumni quota, and some representatives from the National Guard. Their first stop was at Fort Snelling. In the meantime, a Student Army Training corps (S. A. T. C.) and a naval training unit were organized on the SUI campus.

Instigate Tag Day

Students instigated a tag day in order to secure a 75 to 100 foot steel flag staff. It was planned to place a flag staff west of Old Capitol and have a retreat three times a week with the assistance of the University band. A total of $235.76 was secured but it was impossible to obtain a flag staff through the quartermaster corps after the beginning of the war and prices elsewhere were too high. The money after the war was turned into a memorial union fund.

Curriculum Changed

Many courses offered in the university curriculum were changed to fit in with the war needs. Mechanical training was offered the soldiers in the engineering college; a quartermaster's course was started in the college of commerce.

Special statistical and secretarial courses and one called "War Issues" were offered women to enable them to take men's places. Freshmen women lived in fraternity houses which were taken over by the university as dormitory units. Social fraternities suspended all rushing, pledging and initiation during the period of "military occupation."

1,100 in Service

The Iowa lowan in September, 1918, stated that 1,100 men had entered the service from the university. Fifty-three per cent of these were officers, and 12 of the stars were golden on the flag.

The influenza epidemic during the fall of 1918 was serious enough to quarantine students, faculty and the administration. Every student was required to undergo a medical examination and guards halted all persons entering or leaving the campus. Isolation hospitals were set up at the Psi Omega and the Sigma Nu houses and at the law building in addition to the University isolation hospital.

Armistice Day

The blare of the war works whistle at 2:40 a. m., Nov. 11, 1918, announced the signing of the Armistice. S. A. T. C. men coming to class later that morning were greeted by the janitor with a sign telling them there would be no school for that day. At one o'clock a grand march formed at the commercial club, headed by the S. A. T. C. with its band. It was composed of school children, D. A. R., Red Cross, the Commercial club, G. A. R. and everyone with noise makers and flags. It was one of the biggest and gayest parades Iowa City had ever seen.

First Faculty Made Up Of Three Men

Hope and wild land marked the beginning of the State University of Iowa in 1847. Slender funds failed to provide for teachers, buildings, or equipment, and for eight years, the university lived a nominal existence.

Academic life began on a small scale. Commented an alumnus, "One day while in Iowa City, fresh out of high school, I noticed two men running a foot race in the state house yard. They were barefoot and had their pants rolled up. 'What is that?' I asked. A native answered proudly, 'The university track team!'

Prairie Chickens on Campus

Early students often watched prairie chickens strutting about with great pomp all over the prairie, and involuntarily they would shudder at the melancholy, nocturnal howls of prairie wolves.

The original faculty of three made up a catalog at the completion of their first year, which provides excellent insight into the ways of the university. A few excerpts follow:

Ten Dollars Per Term

"The fee payable to the University by each student is ten dollars per term. . . No other charge is made."

"The academic course included mathematics, languages, and preparatory studies."

"Board in private families may be obtained at from two to three dollars per week, and it is hoped . . . it may be had at still lower rates."

Volumes in Library

"The aggregate value of the books and apparatus at present is about twenty-six hundred dollars. The number of volumes in the library is about five hundred . . . carefully and judiciously selected."

"The business of each day is opened with chapel exercises . . . attended by all students. Great care is taken to shield students from the inroads of temptation and vice, and to train them in the principles and habits of virtue and morality."

Accessible by Railroad

"The University is . . . accessible by railroad from the east; surrounded by forests and rolling prairies; possessing a fine bracing atmosphere and a climate which has ever proved mild and healthy." Early in its history, the institution had to close its doors for two years because financial support was lacking.

Smoking Prohibited

Smoking on the campus or about university buildings was prohibited. At one time, the student paper accused a prominent professor of having made himself offensive to ladies in the library and elsewhere by the odor of tobacco around his person.

The university opened with three instructors and nearly one hundred students, as contrasted with today's 300 instructors and 3,600 students.

Today's Freshmen

Yesterday's curriculum and social life has been replaced. Today, freshmen are taking core courses and communication skills: core courses to provide each with a liberal background in the sciences, arts, and letters; communications to measure ability in reading, writing and speaking. Today's freshman may begin work immediately on her major field instead of waiting for her junior year. Today's freshman has a personal adviser for counsel and guidance. Today's university student goes to class with returned veterans from World War II, and with students from other countries. Today's students are buying their cigarettes in Iowa Union and backing their basketball team, which is a potential Big Ten conference winner.

Born in 1839, the Heart of the University—

It's More Than a Building of Stone

Iowa's Old Capitol was born in 1839, while Indians still roamed the Iowa river valley. In its infancy, it saw the territory of Iowa become of age. In early childhood, it witnessed the founding of the State University of Iowa. In its teens, it contemplated the birth of Iowa's Republican party and the departure of the governmental seat to Des Moines. With advancing years, it has surveyed 18 university presidents, hundreds of university professors, and thousands of university students.

professed to have weighed four tons, and foundation walls are known to be six feet thick.

Today, Old Capitol is more than a building of stone; it is a spiritual personality which forms the nucleus of the entire university, and dominates the scenes in this little town on the banks of the Iowa river.

When the capital was moved to Des Moines in 1857, the state house and its ten acres were donated to the university. Immediately one of Old Capitol's rooms was chosen as the classroom for university students. Little desks for two lined the room, and along one side was a raised platform, on which sat a narrow bench. This was the recitation platform. The class not reciting were supposed to listen to others' recitations, and if they could pass final tests over the material covered, they were credited for taking that course. The college of law was last to leave the tangled ivy walls for their new home. Today, Old Capitol houses administrative headquarters.

Facing east and west, walls softened by time, Old Capitol stands with simple dignity and poised tranquility, the guide and guardian of students in the state university.

Three miles distant a man was dying. Without taking time to change his clothes, Mazzuchelli went with the messenger. Several hours later, on his return home, he contracted pneumonia and died within a week.

The Order of Dominican Sisters at Sinsinawa, Wisc., founded by the priest, sent the university a 30 inch canvas picture of Mazzuchelli, a replica of the portrait which hangs in the Milan art gallery, to be hung in Old Capitol.

First stone for the massive building was allegedly from the site President Hancher's home now occupies. When this was totally expended, stone was floated down the river on rafts. Some individual pieces of this stone are

For So Many Years— Ringing Out Its Call

In the fall of 1918-1919, Dean Kay wrote, "Just now I have been listening to the bell in Old Capitol ringing out its call to our men and women to heed the duties of the hour. And I am reminded that for 70 years and more the same peal has gone forth. Where are now thousands of sons and daughters of Old Gold who have listened to the music of its call?"

"Nearly all of those who gave life to the campus in the early days have long since passed away, but their memories are cherished for the tasks they performed. Many who later went out from Alma Mater are still in the full vigor of their manhood and womanhood, playing their parts on the stage of life—in legislative halls, pulpits, in school, in banks, in office, and in home. Still others, in recent days have turned aside from the paths of peace and have been giving their lives to the service of their country. And our undergraduates gladly have made sacrifices to make the world a more fit place in which to live.

The gold stars and the blue stars fill us with pride.

And now the bell is ringing in the "thousand years of peace." May the youth who are within range of its music and the thousands who are yet to come be inspired by its call so to prepare themselves that, when their lives have been spent and their records written, they will cause the glory of Old Capitol to shine far more brightly than ever before, and may humanity be the better for the services they have rendered to the world."

Over 200 Enter Golden Gloves

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 200 youthful scrappers flocked here yesterday from 27 cities in 23 states for the 18th annual Golden Gloves Boxing tournament at the Chicago Stadium, Monday through Wednesday night.

Sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., with cooperation of 27 other newspapers, the three-day "Tournament of Champions" will produce 16 finalists for the championship round at the Stadium, March 9.

Composed of fist-handy lads from the armed forces, war plants and teen-age ranks, the field represents the best by test among amateur battlers from coast to coast. All of the sponsoring newspapers conducted local tournaments from which emerged the squads which will slug it out for team and individual titles at the Stadium.

Chicago which never has been shut out in the tournament has two local champions back. Fort Worth, Texas, has entered an old tournament hand, 175-pound Tom Attra, an army corporal, who fought in five previous tournaments and in his division in 1942.

Seahawk Track Squad Defeats Irish, Purdue

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Taking firsts outright in four of 12 events and tying for blue ribbons in two others, the Iowa Pre-Flight indoor track team whipped Notre Dame and Purdue in the Notre Dame fieldhouse yesterday. The Seahawks totaled 53½ points to 47½ for Notre Dame and 28 for Purdue.

Iowa Pre-Flight, led by Len Weed, distance running star, scored in every event. Weed paced the winners with a first in the two-mile and a second in the mile.

The Seahawk winners in addition to Weed were Vic Schleich, shotput, and Kolste, broad jump. The Seahawk mile relay team of Bowers, Lemeseuer, Stewart and Robinson took that event in 3:30.2. Strom of Iowa Pre-Flight tied with Vosburg of Notre Dame for first in the pole vault and Bowie tied with Dick Kilpatrick of Purdue for the high jump blue ribbon.

Happy Day By BOB KRAUSE Daily Iowan Sports Editor

PARDON US, won't you, if we bubble over. But last night's victory over Wisconsin proved a number of things all over again. See that guy over there with the dark glasses and the furtive look? He's the one who kept on telling you that Iowa is a punk road team.

Personally, we've made a good many remarks to the effect that the Hawkeyes are one of the poorest offensive teams we've ever seen. Poor that is, when it comes to the matter of a systematic attack with set plays and whatnot.

But, we will fight to the death—although it may not come to that—the fact that Pops Harrison is one of the best defensive coaches that ever trod the earth. We don't know what brand of cereal Pops feeds his men, but they certainly had enough energy last night to break up practically all of that cute Wisconsin under-the-basket passing which proved so painful in the game here last Monday.

A friend walked up to us today and, with a wounded look in his eye, accused us of being blind to the fact that Herb Wilkinson is the best man on the Iowa team. Well, from a defensive standpoint, and after last night, we are willing to concede that Herb covers the opposition better than the warmest blanket. And Jack Spencer was right with him all the way.

Gopher of Minnesota, prepare to defend thyself.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Iowa's Big Ten conference leaders routed Wisconsin last night, 68-38, for the Hawkeyes' first victory on the Badgers' floor in 11 years.

The Hawkeyes, shooting for their ninth win in 10 conference games, drove to a 36-15 lead at the intermission, holding Wisconsin without a basket for the first nine and one-half minutes of play. At one time the Hawks led 33-7.

Midway in the second half, the rampaging Iowans had widened the breach to 57-19.

Murray Wier, pint-sized Iowa forward, scored 15 points in the last half for an 18 point total to lead both teams in scoring. Bill Johnson's nine points paced the Wisconsin quintet.

Iowa converted 20 out of 28 free throw attempts while the Badgers sank 10 and missed 14.

City Primary Tomorrow

Voters Will Select Party Candidates For City Offices

In tomorrow's city primary election there are no contests for the nominations of either party as indicated on the official ballots. Voters may write in the name of any other member of their party who they would like to be a candidate in the city election March 26. The polls open at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning and close at 8 p. m. Polling places to each precinct are located in the same place as in last fall's general election.

Candidates for mayor, two alderman-at-large, city treasurer, police judge, one park commissioner and assessor will be nominated by voters of both parties. In addition, each party will elect a committeeman and committeewoman from each ward of the city and delegates to the city convention.

The names of the candidates for city offices which were selected by caucuses of both parties are printed on the ballots. A blank space is provided for the voters to write in the name of another candidate if they do not wish to vote for the choice of the party caucus.

According to the theory of the state primary law, the voters are to write in the names of the party workers who they wish to serve as ward committeemen and committeewomen. But both parties have selected in caucus persons to act in those important positions. The names of those persons selected by the caucuses have been printed on gummed stickers for the voters to paste on their ballots.

Delegates to the city conventions of both parties have been selected by party caucuses and will be approved by the voters in the same manner.

The candidates nominated by the party caucuses are:

For mayor, Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, Republican, and Prof. Jacob Van der Zee, Democrat.

For aldermen-at-large, I. J. Barron and M. Dean Jones, Republicans, and Ruth A. Gallaher and William H. Grandrath, Democrats.

For councilmen: first ward, J. S. McLaughlin, Republican, and James M. Callahan, Democrat.

Second ward, Vernon I. Capen, Republican, and John A. Stromsten, Democrat.

Third ward, Adolph Boeye, Republican, and Charles T. Smith, Democrat.

Fourth ward, Carl S. Kringel, Republican, and Mrs. Amy Dickinson Worthley, Democrat.

Fifth ward, Roy A. Ewers, Republican, and Ambrose E. Cooper, Democrat.

For treasurer, E. B. Raymond, Republican, and Milo Novy, Democrat.

For police judge, John Knox, Republican, and Scott Swisher, Democrat.

For park commissioner, Dr. William Rohrbacher, Republican, and James T. Aldous, Democrat.

For assessor, William J. White, Democrat, unopposed.

The polling places for each precinct are located in the following places:

Manpower Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Chandler (D. Ky.) yesterday assailed the manpower bill approved by the military affairs committee as a "monstrosity" which ought to be recommitted by the senate.

Before the measure is called up in the senate Monday, the Kentuckian plans to check other members to see if he can obtain sufficient strength to send it back to the committee.

First ward, first precinct, Johnson county courthouse; first ward, second precinct, Gartner Motor company, 205 S. Capitol street.

Second ward, first precinct, city hall; second ward, second precinct, city park pavilion.

Third ward, C. S. A. hall, 524 N. Johnson street.

CAA Chief To Leave

James M. Bradford, chief of the civil aviation authority communications station at the municipal airport, expects to leave March 15 for South America where he will serve as the chief overseas communicator in charge of a station there.

He does not know to which of the South American countries he will be sent.

For nearly three years Bradford has been stationed here and after completing a year's service outside the United States, he will return to Iowa City to resume his present position.

When Bradford puts on the uniform of a navy officer, which all CAA men outside of the country wear, it will be no new experience for him. He served 10 years in the navy before taking a civilian post with the CAA.

In March, 1942, Bradford came to Iowa City from Garden City, Kan. He originally came from Kewanee, Ill.

His successor in his post here will be named March 1 by the regional office in Kansas City, Mo.

Gardner Advocates Immediate Banking Of Elm, Hackberry

Homeowners wishing to protect their elm and hackberry trees against cankerworm damage should band these trees now, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

Tree bands are made by wrapping a strip of cotton batting four inches wide around the tree trunk about three feet above the ground so that the crevices above the bark are filled. Over the cotton is placed a strip of tarred or heavy paper four inches wide.

This is drawn tight, and the ends which overlap are tacked. The tree tanglefoot is then spread in a thin layer covering about three-fourths of the width of the paper band.

Canker worms will soon emerge from the soil, crawl up the tree and lay eggs which will hatch in a short time. The small larva eat the tree leaves as soon as they come out in the spring.

Later these worms fall to the ground, and go into the pupa stage until early the following year when they emerge and begin their life cycle all over again.

In a couple of months this band may be removed, rolled up and saved for use again next year.
