UNITED STATES NINTH ARMY troops are shown riding the powerful tank destroyers to keep up with the big push into the heart of Germany. In an advance that has the Nazis reeling, the allied foot soldiers all along the throbbing western front have a problem on their hands in keeping pace with the fast-moving forward units. # 110,000 Germans Trapped; Yanks Cut Okinawa in Two

No Organized Resistance

Americans Reach Tabora Ten Days Ahead of Schedule

GUAM, Tuesday (AP)—Crack troops of the new Tenth army's 24th corps cut the vital island of Okinawa in two yesterday by reaching the village of Tabora on the east coast almost ten days ahead of schedule and still finding no sign of strong or organized resistance.

At Tabora, the Yanks of Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge were on the shoes of Katsuren bay, immediately north of the extensive fleet anchorage at Nakagusuku bay, a major objective of the momentous invasion launched Easter morning.

Yesterday's swift drive by the 24th covered two and a half miles across the eight-mile-wide waist of Okinawa, the strategic Ryukyu chain island only 325 miles south of the Japanese homeland.

The entire Tenth army line of doughboys and marines showed gains averaging several thousand yards against scattered resistance—which front line reports said included uniformed Japanese women.

In the extreme north of the American line, Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's Third Marine amphibious corps pushed forward to the north and east to cut off Zampa cape which juts out prominently at the tip of the seven and one-half mile long invasion beach.

While many units walked ahead with amazingly little opposition for such a vital stronghold, troops in the center of the island encountered rugged terrain and increased enemy activity.

There still was no disposition to change the original estimate that the Japanese have 60,000 to 100,000 troops on the 65-mile-long island. Whatever the reason for lack of defense, it appeared that Lieut. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr.'s newly-formed Tenth army had achieved one of the greatest coups of the war against Japan.

Tommies Mop Up Nips Along Irrawaddy

CALCUTTA (AP)—British armored units roved at will in the Irrawaddy pocket yesterday wiping out isolated groups of fanatical Japanese troops, while planes of the eastern air command tracked down enemy forces attempting to sneak eastward into Thailand.

A southeast Asia command communiqué said destroyers of the east India fleet in cooperation with RAF planes sank a Japanese convoy in recent offensive sweeps in the Andaman sea.

In addition, the communiqué said, the destroyers bombarded Sigli, in north Sumatra, and Port Blain.

The convoy consisting of two supply ships escorted by two chasers was contacted March 26

Allied Forces in West—

Destroying Nazi Armies in Field

By Kirke L. Simpson Associated Press War Analyst

Allied armies in the west are within close sight of the prime objective mapped for them when they launched their spring "victory offensive" across the Rhine.

That becomes evident now that one entire Nazi army group has been caught in the Ruhr sack and another in Holland is on the verge of similar entrapment.

The prime objective of the allied armies was to break up and destroy enemy armies in the field, not merely to drive them back upon successive defense lines. By current Paris estimates two-thirds of the remaining Nazi organized strength in the west is now hemmed within the Ruhr sack or being cut off in Holland by the sweep northward of British or Canadian elements of Marshal Montgomery's army group.

Paris estimates 110,000 German troops all first line men are bottled up in the Ruhr sack by the junction of American First and Ninth army elements which closed all eastward escape routes. Some 21 under-strength Nazi divisions, including the best troops available in the west, are sealed off for annihilation with dim prospect of breaking out. How many more divisional units are in immediate danger of being trapped in Holland is not indicated but it seems obvious that the duration of organized German resistance anywhere in the west hinges upon what happens within these two areas.

They contain between them all that is left in the west of seasoned troops and armored divisions.

Whatever the reason that prompted German concentration of strongest fighting forces in the Ruhr area and in northern and northeastern Holland, it is tending to expedite an allied victory. It could be only a matter of weeks or even days before General Eisenhower's men are striking at rear echelons of German armies facing the Russians in the east.

There is no indication to date that the Germans in the huge Ruhr trap are ready for a mass surrender. As this was written, their first effort to break out eastward has been made with little to indicate success.

Escape Attempt Thwarted

Ninth Army Strikes Beyond Ruhr; Nears Weser River

PARIS, Tuesday (AP)—American troops again crushed German attempts yesterday to break out of the Ruhr, where 110,000 Nazis were trapped, as British and Canadian forces to the north smashed 15 miles inside Holland and sped within 68 miles of the German North sea coast, threatening to seal off another huge enemy group in the western Netherlands.

In the race toward Berlin, swift United States Ninth army columns striking far beyond the encircled Ruhr, were nearing or might already have reached the Weser river near the Pied Piper town of Hameln, 155 miles from Berlin.

A dispatch from Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th army group headquarters said a total of 350,000 Germans had been captured in March, 150,000 of them by the Third army and 90,000 by the First army, whose troops yesterday smashed Nazi break-out attempts and counterattacks in the Winterberg and Warburg areas.

The dispatch added: "The German situation in the west is falling apart so badly that the possibility of an attempt to transfer some divisions from the east isn't excluded, despite the sorry German situation in the east."

Forward elements of the sprinting Ninth army were moving under a security blackout in the attack toward Berlin, and along the center of the front the United States Third army reached the Werra river on a broad front and crossed that stream near Eisenach, 155 miles southwest of Berlin and 90 miles from Leipzig.

The Third army now was more than half-way across the waist of Germany, racing toward the Czechoslovakian frontier about 90 miles away, in an effort to split the Reich and prevent German troops from retreating into the Bavarian Alps. Other Third army units made a new crossing of the Fulda river in this eastward sweep.

The American Seventh army fanned out in sizeable advances to the north, east and west, and the adjacent French First army at the southern end of the front captured 60 localities in 48 hours.

Miners, Operators Resume Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis and bituminous coal operators, with another month's grace for writing a new contract, resumed their negotiations yesterday.

The old contract, due to expire last Saturday night, was extended until May 1 by agreement of the operators and Lewis Sunday at the direction of the war labor board.

Yesterday was virtually a holiday in the mines in observance of the anniversary of the first contract providing an eight-hour day, but the diggers were expected back in the pits today.

The mine leader imposed the 30-day limit and thus did not comply fully with the WLB directive, as the operators had done, but the board did not quibble. A possible strike was averted for a month in their opinion, and that was the main objective for the moment.

The mine workers by overwhelming vote had authorized Lewis to order a strike if he saw fit.

House Group to Study Black Market Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Anderson (D., N. Mex.) announced last night that the house food study committee will go to New York and Boston to investigate charges that "90 per cent" of the meat there is sold in the black market.

The committee, he said, expects to be in Boston April 23 and in New York April 24-25. It will be in Chicago April 16-17 and in Cleveland April 18.

Soviets Smash 11 Miles

Within Three Miles Of Slovakian Capital

Berlin Claims Russian Tank Forces 20 Miles South of Vienna

LONDON (AP)—Russian assault forces, ripping 11 miles yesterday through shattered enemy defenses, smashed within two and a half miles of panic-stricken Bratislava, capital of the puppet axis state of Slovakia, while Berlin reported Soviet tanks 20 miles south of Vienna.

As the Germans proclaimed a last-ditch defense of Vienna, under command of Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, commander of Hitler's SS bodyguard Moscow's nightly war bulletin was silent on the progress of Soviet troops battering into Vienna's southern defense wall.

Clamping a news blackout on the sector, the Soviet high command said, however, that Red army forces were "continuing offensive engagements" west of the Neusiedler See (lake) where they last were officially reported 22 miles below the Austrian capital.

Enemy broadcasts said that Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian army had gained two miles and that other Soviet units had thrust 32 miles inside Austria to Semmering pass, one of five great trans-Alpine passes in Europe.

Other reports said giant Soviet tanks were battling in the streets of Wiener Neustadt, shell-raked industrial city 22 miles south of Vienna.

East of Vienna, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army plunged unchecked through southern Slovakia along the northern bank of the Danube. The puppet government had fled the city of Bratislava, it was reported.

B-29's Bomb Engine Factory

GUAM (AP)—American Superforts based on this and other islands in the Marianas concentrated on explosive and incendiary attack on the big Nakajima aircraft engine plant on the northwestern outskirts of Tokyo early yesterday (about noon Sunday, EWT).

Two of the B-29's, from the force of probably 150 that made the raid, were lost to enemy action, it was announced in Washington by the 20th airforce headquarters.

Roaring in at low level before dawn, the sky giants set numerous fires among the buildings of the engine plant. Tokyo radio reported the planes were over the Tokyo-Yokohama area for an hour.

It was the first assault of Tokyo since the momentous fire raid of March 10.

The British prime minister's wife reached Moscow after an all-night flight from Cairo. She will visit Stalingrad and Rostov, where British funds will equip two 500-bed hospitals.

Meanwhile, it was announced that allied warships have been raking Nazi positions along the French-Italian frontier, included the harbor of San Remo.

The German high command communiqué said fighting had broken out on the "forgotten front" in the French-Italian border region, and acknowledged allied seizure of "a small foothold on Petit (little) St. Bernard, a 7,064-foot mountain 15 miles south of the Swiss border."

Acceptance Hints at Early European Victory—

Byrnes Quits as War Mobilizer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday accepted the resignation of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes and there gave the broadest official hint to date that Germany is as good as beaten.

By agreement reached months ago, Byrnes was to stay until the European end of the global war job was done.

Fred M. Vinson, federal loan administrator, was chosen to succeed him as director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion.

Byrnes had agreed last November to stick to his post—as Roosevelt then stated—"until the elimination of Germany from the war."

The 65-year-old "assistant president" submitted his resignation on the day American troops surged across the Rhine in strength, telling

Sixth Army Forces Land at Legaspi

Capture City of 45,000, Nearby Airfields On Southeast Luzon

MANILA, Tuesday (AP)—Sixth army veterans, spearheaded by Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider's 158th regimental combat team, invaded the important harbor of Legaspi, city of 45,000 inhabitants and the nearby airfields.

The landing, the first on Luzon's east coast, was preceded by effective naval and air bombardment. Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his communiqué today.

American losses were light. The enemy's extensive defense system was all but wiped out in ten days of concentrated aerial bombardment, capped by warship bombardment.

"The city and airfields were immediately secured, and our troops are now rapidly advancing in exploitation," MacArthur reported.

The new landing came as Yanks advanced on a dozen ground fronts in the Philippines and American bombers sank or damaged 23 freighters in the China sea.

The move enveloped enemy forces in southern Luzon, MacArthur reported.

The 14th corps, already driving east and southeast now complete the encirclement by attacking northwest along the Bicol peninsula with this new column.

Army Engineers Plan To Prevent Flooding On Lower Mississippi

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The United States army engineers set about in earnest yesterday with plans to open the Morganza floodway on the Mississippi river north of Baton Rouge, to divert additional water to the gulf and ease the flood strain on the seriously menaced lower valley levees, where breaks might cause great damage.

Col. George H. Hudson, district engineer, announced that water now in sight indicated use of the floodway within the next two weeks.

This move, it was explained, would tend to control the river at Baton Rouge.

ing the president he felt V-E day "is not far distant."

The president held the resignation while allied armies fanned swiftly over the Reich and then, in apparent agreement that Germany could now be regarded as virtually eliminated, released the former senator and supreme court justice with "heartfelt regret."

Vinson, former member of the house from Kentucky, is popular in congress. As director of economic stabilization, he got along with labor most of the time in his management of price and wage problems. His appointment as federal loan administrator March 6, less than a month ago, was cordially received by business.

This augured well for the reception to be given reconversion plans under his direction. The strong-handed Byrnes had been

RAF Bombers Hit Berlin, Magdeburg

LONDON, Tuesday (AP)—RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin and Magdeburg during the night, the British announced today, ending Germany's two-day and two-night respite from an allied aerial offensive that broke all records in March.

The overnight raids were carried out despite bad weather, the RAF bomber command said.

Principal target at Magdeburg, which is situated about 70 miles southwest of Berlin, were oil installations feeding the tottering German war machine.

Figures officially announced yesterday showed that allied planes operating from Britain and bases behind the western front smothered Germany with 179,380 tons of explosives last month, nearly two and one-half times the weight the Nazis have hurled on England by plane and V-bomb since the war started. The figures did not include tons of thousands of additional tons poured on Germany by Italy-based planes, which also had a record month.

Constriction of the target area, however, as allied armies rampage within Germany, has just about numbered the days of strategic bombing by American Eighth airforce Flying Fortresses and Liberators and the RAF's heavyweights.

Court Upholds Order Lowering Interstate Gas Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court upheld in the main yesterday federal power commission orders substantially reducing interstate wholesale gas rates of four companies serving wide mid-continent areas.

Justice Douglas delivered the three opinions which affected the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company, Colorado Interstate Gas company, Canadian River Gas company and Colorado-Wyoming Gas company.

Douglas held in effect that the rates as affirmed are just and reasonable. He adhered to a principle previously stated by the court that the result obtained is the controlling factor and not the method of property valuation used to arrive at gas charges.

Winter Won't Quite Make It to Iowa City

It looks like Iowa City's consistent good luck in avoiding the worst of all bad weather is going to hold up during the present comeback attempt of winter. Last night it was snowing all over Nebraska and at 9:30 it was 12 above at Cheyenne, Wyo.

That sort of thing will be greatly diminished before it gets this far and the worst should go around us. Today will be cold but not snow freezing; cloudy, but no snow or rain. The high yesterday was 54, the low 45 and at 9:30 last night it was still 48.

Senate Would Create Group to Study Taxes

$1,500,000 Added To Appropriations Bill By Committee

DES MOINES (AP)—The senate yesterday adopted, 44 to 1, a joint resolution calling for creation of a special committee, suggested by Gov. Robert D. Blue, to study Iowa's entire tax structure and suggest possible revisions to meet postwar problems.

The measure now goes back to the house for concurrence in amendments.

Building Appropriations

DES MOINES (AP)—As an amendment to a house appropriations bill, the senate appropriations committee yesterday asked expenditure of $1,500,000 for expansion of the state psychiatric hospital at Iowa City.

The amendment was filed to a bill appropriating $5,800,000 for capital improvements at the five institutions under the board of education.

The committee's report would be delivered to the next legislature, which will convene in 1947, or to any special session meeting before that time. The resolution appropriates $30,000 for the study.

The committee's membership would include three senators, three representatives and six persons appointed by the governor.

The senate refused meanwhile, to accept the lower chamber's amendments to a measure reorganizing the state department of public instruction.

As passed by the senate, the bill called for establishment of a seven-member state board of public instruction appointed by the governor with power to appoint the state superintendent of public instruction.

The house amended the measure to retain the office of superintendent as elective and provide for election of an eight-member board of instruction on a partisan basis in congressional districts.

Nazi Officer's Diary Concedes War Is Lost—

By Sid Feder

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY.—(AP)—The diary of a Nazi officer captured in the 10th mountain division's drive in the Apennines draws a clear-cut picture of a German soldier wanting peace, but held to war because of his blood.

The diary acknowledged Feb. 26 that even a German officer "can hardly believe in final victory."

"Burn these words deep in your hearts, you men of all nations, 'never again war' was another entry. Feb. 13, when things were still quiet in his sector, the officer wrote: "Now leave me in peace, you tormenting thoughts. I am of good will."

But in the very next line he told why he was fighting:

"I have German blood in my veins. I am only doing what I believe to be my duty."

The following excerpts between Feb. 13 and March 2 (the 10th division's attack was launched Feb. 19) illustrate the brooding thoughts of a German soldier fighting the tough war on the Italian front:

13th—"One starts to think about the war, one thinks of the future. (Do we have any future at all?) . . . One starts philosophizing—but what good is Schopenhauer's philosophy, Goethe's Faust, Nietzsche's superhuman beings, and Fichte's well-meant speeches? We all, whether young or old, are subject to the laws of this embittered war. Its iron fist forces us into the smallest hole when the splinters start flying around. When the Yankee pulls the lanyard we become animals. . . . Does the war have any meaning?"

"Feb. 23—It is 2000 hours. . . . The whole neighborhood is alive with crashes. The bunker is shaking. The airpressure is blowing out the carbide lamp and exerts pressure on the ears. I hope nothing has happened to the food truck. Last night I was out scouting. . . . At last I have more details on the enemy penetrations. . . . Mt. Belvedere, Capelle, Conchidos, Mt. Torracca and Mt. Castello are in the hands of the 10th American division. One of our regiments is almost completely destroyed. Two enemy.

"Feb. 25—All hell has broken loose. Crashes in every corner. . . . One regiment is retreating in disorder. Just now a man from the retreating regiment said I'll have to pull our outposts back or they'll shoot into their bunker entrance. . . . I moved to the old platoon C. P. It was just about time, too. . . .

"I hope that everything will work out all right. If they don't start a counterpush on my right soon, things will go badly. I guess we all might land some place in Canada or Kansas. If my darling only knew what filth they have us sitting in here. . . .

"Feb. 26th.—The night passed quietly. The air is alive again with the humming of the jabs. . . . And we just sit here and just have to take it all patiently. I can cry in the face of all this depressing superiority. . . . One cannot show one's self at all during daylight. That would be bordering on suicide. One's nerves have to be of steel. I can hardly believe in final victory. It must be such the same on all other fronts. God in heaven may give that the end may be at least half way bearable for my Germany."

"Feb. 27th.—Today I once again just barely escaped death's cold grip. . . . The Yankees must have seen us as sprinted across the moonlit yard. . . . A rain of fire followed. . . . I hugged the earth and crawled to the building. . . . A terrible explosion and fire all around me. A human being cried for help. . . . This war is terrible. Whoever has not gone through it as a front-line infantryman, cannot possibly picture it. What human beings can do to one another. . . . Damned humanity, what insanity are you committing?"

"March 2nd—My nerves have calmed down. Things have quieted down the last two or three days. We have disengaged ourselves. . . . Now, the Yank no longer looks straight down our throats. . . . Three sergeants and two privates disappeared without a trace. I wonder if they deserted. Everything is possible. . . . In five days, it will be four full months that we have been up here without relief. Our losses are not too heavy yet. That's why they leave us in this so long."

Most of Spadework for Independence Of Philippines Still Undone—

By Jackson S. Elliott

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under the Tydings-McDuffie Philippine independence act, July 4, 1946, was set as the date on which the island commonwealth would become a sovereign nation.

The act was passed in 1934. Today a former adviser to the Philippines high commissioner describes it as "placing a blind reliance on an unchanging world."

What was intended to be the ordinary operation of the act has been set back perhaps as much as five years by the Japanese invasion. Nearly everything remains undone.

There must be speedy action in fields of diplomacy, industry, finance and politics if independence is to go into effect on schedule.

Paul V. McNutt, former United States high commissioner, who is considered a possibility for the post again, says that if the commonwealth leaders "persist in harping on the independence question," the islands are headed for economic trouble.

The act calls for a treaty, to be approved by both the United States congress and the Philippine legislature. The next general election in the islands, when a legislature could be chosen, is due Nov. 6, 1945. Whether the Japanese will have been cleared out sufficiently to hold a representative election then is not now known. The president of the United States, however, probably could set another date.

Should the Philippines become independent next year, the young nation would immediately face economic problems of such size and complexity as rarely have faced more mature nations.

On the day freedom becomes complete, Philippine goods sent to the United States may have to bear full tariff charges for the first time. Experts in Washington predict that if full charges are levied against Philippine sugar not a pound will be imported into the United States. This would throw into chaos the industry which supplies one-eighth of the Philippine national income.

With freedom the United States also may cease crediting the island government with proceeds of the present three-cent-a-pound tax charged United States processors of Philippine coconut oil. This tax in the past has averaged $15,000,000 a year and accounts for about one-fourth of the income of the commonwealth government.

Also, the five-cent-a-pound tariff will be restored on Philippine oil. This tariff had been cut to three cents, which was returned to the Philippines. The Philippines will have to compete with the other prime soap oil, from the African palm kernel, on which the tariff is only three cents.

Under the terms of the independence act a joint rehabilitation commission has been established. It will meet soon to discuss future trade relationships. It is expected that the Philippine government will ask for a 20-year period of free trade.

Even such a period of free trade would not fully protect the islands' vital sugar industry. The reason is that a United States-Cuban treaty provides that each nation will allow the goods of the other to come in at a tariff 20 per cent lower than is charged the goods of any other nation.

A treaty giving the Philippines permission to send in sugar duty-free would automatically remove all duty from Cuban sugar. Since transportation costs from Cuba are less, Cuba would retain a handsome advantage.

Financial authorities also believe that freedom may require the Philippine government to devalue the peso.

Opportunity Gave Celebrated Knock— Student Lived in Canada, Panama, Orient

By JOHNNY JOHNSTON
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Some people just can't be put on paper. Jan Allen, 24, of La Mesa, Calif., with her delightfully intriguing but hard-to-describe personality, is one of these. She is highly imaginative and intelligent, likes to deal with the abstract, yet keeps her head out of the clouds. She adores ghost stories and dreams them up herself. She has a terrific sense of humor and is a chronic punster. In short, a combined intellect and a screwball.

Journalism the Answer
"I like people, travel and writing—journalism is the only answer," is the way Jan figures. She is tremendously interested in languages, wants to live in foreign countries, learn the languages, meet the people and then write.

Opportunity gave its celebrated knock and Jan has already had a chance to see a chunk of the world. Her father is a naval officer of 35 years standing. She was able before the war to accompany him on sundry missions—to Canada, to Panama, to the Orient. In 1937 her father was ordered to Olongapo on Luzon in the Philippines as captain of the yard. When he was sent on a secret mission to the south, Jan, her mother and younger brother, Clark, "went native" and moved out on Half Moon beach.

Lived in Hut
"We lived in a nipa hut made of a thatched material and built on stilts. It looks flimsy but is very resistant to the typhoons," she explained.

"The jungle was at our back door and the sea at the front door. It rained constantly during four months of the year and when the tides came in, we were marooned. We were alone except for a native family of 12 next door, who were the only people within five miles. In order to communicate with the natives, the Allens picked up Tagalog, the chief Philippine dialect.

"We had a native houseboy, Banta, from the Ilicano tribe who was a happy soul and a wonderful fellow to have around. In fact, he saved our lives at least three times.

Kills Python
"One night after returning from the movies at Olongapo we saw in the darkness a silver path leading up the stairs about a foot wide. Banta smelled it and informed us there was a python in the house and that its luminous scales made the path. We went to bed and at about 4 o'clock in the morning we heard a terrible rumpus downstairs. Rushing down, we found that Banta had killed a 20-foot python."

A second instance was the time brother Clark was attacked by wild monkeys on his way to the barrio (village). These monkeys, according to Jan, would attack and kill a woman or child if alone or unprotected. Banta came to the rescue running, yelling and brandishing his knife and the monkeys fled.

Attack Brother
"Then there was the time that a ghekkoo dropped off an akla tree on Clark. The ghekkoo is a kind of lizard with a suction cup on his claws. Once they get a good hold, they must be cut away from the flesh. Banta saved the day and my brother by whittling the ghekkoo off."

"Banta was an imp at heart, but courageous and loyal. He joined the Philippine scouts and was killed on Bataan."

Rustic was the word for their way of life while at Half Moon. They had no running water and used candles for light. The menu said fish every day they were there. Sometimes when they couldn't get into the village the rustics lived on fish exclusively. Telekita and lapu-lapu were two abundant varieties.

Swimming Dangerous
"Swimming was a dangerous activity," Jan asserted, "Clark was caught by a jelly-fish once and they are deadly poisonous. Something was always happening to that boy. A native rubbed sand and lemon juice on his leg to counteract the poison and he recovered."

"Even with the shark net up, sea animals came in. There was the baboi-baboi, a little spiny animal on the bottom of the ocean. Stepping on them is very painful and the spines have to be cut out immediately. If you ran into a squid (pusit) it felt flabby and gave you a moment's terror. The natives fear the jelly-fish (salabi) and the swift-attacking barracuda even more than the shark."

While in the Philippines Jan experienced one of the bigger typhoons. At that time the family was living on the station.

Experiences Typhoon
"The number 10 signal, the highest typhoon warning, was out. When it came, the typhoon lasted for three days and no one went outside. First there was a terrific wind and intermittent rain, then a complete lull. That's always the horrible part, because the worst is yet to come. After the lull, the winds and rain increased. In front of the station was a 50-foot flagpole that was blown over. It missed our house by 1/8 of an inch. Had it hit the house we would have all been killed. It took three weeks to clean up after that storm."

Casually Jan mentions such things as going on wild boar hunts. "The natives took along wild dogs, knives, and bows and arrows. When we got one we would roast it over an open fire and have a big picnic, and the natives would sit around and sing their beautiful weird music."

Jan went on many excursions to nearby places of historic interest. One was Grande Island where an Old Spanish fort guards the entrance to Subic Bay.

Works on Paper
To hear Jan's story, life at Olongapo consisted of fishing, swimming, trips in the banca (outrigger canoe) and a good time for all, especially Jan. She did have a job, however, as correspondent on the Cavite paper, "Bamboo Breezes." In those days the big news from Olongapo included what ships were in, who was visiting whom, deaths, etc., but since that time real news has been breaking in that sector. With the fall of Luzon to the Japs, the enemy used Half Moon beach as an important base.

After Olongapo, the Allens went to Manila for three weeks. "It's a city of contrasts; parts of it like downtown Los Angeles and others with narrow cobbled streets where the Spanish conquerors once walked." Here she worked as a cub reporter on the Manila Bulletin.

The next move was to China. They lived in Hongkong for four months and in Shanghai for a year.

War Begins
"It was here that we first realized there was a war on. Dead bodies floated on the water; troops were everywhere; curfews were strictly enforced. I was out after 10 one night and spent the night in a Chinese jail. It was quite an experience," Jan acknowledged, her eyes sparkling. "There I was surrounded by the dregs of society, opium fiends, petty thieves and prostitutes."

Everything but experiences were rationed in China, and Jan had her share of them. Many of them were amusing. In fact, one has the feeling that amusing incidents go out of their way to happen to Jan. Like the time she was stopped while shopping by a Sikh policeman. Her Hindustani was a little rusty and she misunderstood the question he asked, answering what she was carrying rather than what her name was. The result was that during her stay in Shanghai she was referred to by the Sikhs as "Memsahib Fruit Juice."

Chapel Falls
Chapel, the Chinese sector of Shanghai fell, millions of refugees were bombed and strafed while trying to escape over Garden Bridge, cholera broke out and the Allens were refugeeed out of Shanghai.

"The rest of the time in the Orient we were just vagabonding around. Went as far north as Chingwanto where the people are very tall. Looked like something out of Ghenis Khan's time. Many of the men were 6 foot four. They were a sullen morose people. I'll never forget the ricksha coolie there who wore nothing but a loin cloth and ear muffs, although it was freezing cold. The Japs had occupied the place and were using it as a supply base, so we left."

Lived in Tokyo
The erstwhile travelers lived for awhile in Tokyo. "In 1940 the attitude of the Japanese toward the Americans was very bad. In the Orient knew that war between Japan and the United States was inevitable. All of the time we were in the Orient we had trouble with Japs, but we could do nothing about it. The slightest complaint would be considered an international 'incident.' I was slapped by a Jap once and at another time had a horse bayoneted out from under me."

Bayonet Houseboy
"The Japs stuck a bayonet through our houseboy and tossed him over the bridge just because his pass was slightly soiled. They were a swaggering lot, would crowd you off the streets, push you out of restaurants—but they were scared to death of the American marine."

"My last sight of Japan was of a ship bringing back little black urns, each supposedly containing the ashes of a dead Jap soldier. Crowds of women and children were waiting at the dock to receive the remains—but there wasn't a single sign of emotion."

Enrolls in College
Before the big trip to the Orient, Jan had barely completed her high school education, so after returning to the states, she enrolled in the San Diego state college. A year and a half of study at that institution was all that Jan managed before she added some more travel to her record. This time the direction was north and the object military. Like father, like daughter, she worked for the navy in the Aleutians in aircraft communications for nine months. The fact that she had done that type of work in San Diego and that her father was in communications prompted her to take the job.

Works in Kodiak
"I worked mostly in Kodiak for the Commander, Alaskan sector. Frankly, I didn't think much of the scenery. It's a black and white country, just snow and earth. The fire weed is the only growing thing, and the winds or willows are terrific."

She flew back to San Diego by way of Annette island and Yakutat army air base to work in the headquarters of the 11th naval district.

To bring things up to date, Jan entered the University of Iowa last April and hopes to graduate in December. She is a journalism major but devotes much of her time to literature courses.

Writes Scripts
Under the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary she is writing a series of dramatic scripts, one a month, on the subject of veteran rehabilitation for station WHO. Other writing she has penned has been mostly in the field of personal essay and feature work.

Collects Music
Jan collects folk music, has a private flying license, entertains those who sit next to her in class with surrealistic drawings, can turn on a barrage of dialects at will, calls her favorite people "Bird."

Jan Allen cannot escape being an Iowa personality, but she can and does defy description.

Congressman Says 20,000 Servicemen Refused Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Philbin (D, Mass.) asserted yesterday that approximately 20,000 servicemen overseas are reported to have been denied government life insurance policies because of their physical condition.

H. W. Breining, assistant administrator of the veterans' administration, told a reporter in reply to Philbin's statement that servicemen have four months in which to take out insurance without a physical examination.

If the serviceman does not buy insurance within this time, and later decides he wishes to, he may do so by passing an examination.

Iowa City Merchants Discuss Closing Hours

Iowa City merchants are still undecided about whether or not to close Saturday nights and keep their places of business open some other night during the week.

A meeting was held last night at Hotel Jefferson to discuss the proposed new closing hours, but no final decision was reached. A final vote will be taken at a later date, according to Ed Berwick, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The waltz, most popular of the 19th century dances, came from Germany although several other countries claim it.

The bridesmaid selected a yellow marquisette and lace floor-length gown fashioned like the maid of honor's. She carried a bouquet of yellow and blue flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stewart chose a gray dress and a flower hat. Mrs. Hunter wore a navy sheer dress and matching hat trimmed with flowers. Both had a corsage of camellias.

War Prisoner To Speak at 8

Sergt. Winston Lowe To Tell Iowa Citizens Of German Treatment

Staff Sergt. Winston Lowe of Cedar Rapids, who returned to the United States in February on the Swedish liner Gripsholm after being a prisoner in Germany for two years, will speak about the treatment of prisoners to Iowa Citizens in the junior high school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

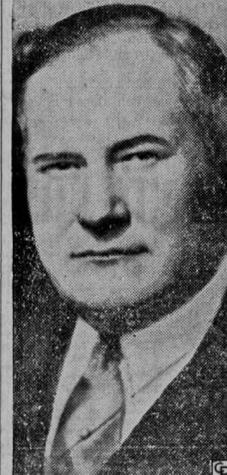

A 1942 graduate of the University of Iowa, Sergeant Lowe is home on a 30-day furlough from De Witt hospital in Auburn, Calif. He is spending most of his time fulfilling requests and errands from men still interned in Germany. Having received hundreds of letters from parents of prisoners in Germany who are anxious to get the slightest bit of information about their sons, Sergeant Lowe has the assistance of two Cedar Rapids Gazette secretaries to help him answer the inquiries.

Sergeant Lowe emphatically praises the work of the American Red Cross after such experiences as going without a bath for nine months and eating only rats and mice the prisoners were able to kill for a period of five weeks.

"Those Red Cross packages kept us alive," he said. "They gave us something to look forward to, and I'll be forever grateful."

The Johnson county Red Cross has mailed letters announcing his talk to all of the 25 families of prisoners in this vicinity. Tonight will be the only chance for Iowa Citizens to hear Sergeant Lowe's story since he has declined to speak to service or luncheon clubs unless they are held in the interest of the Red Cross.

Argentine Envoy?

Permission to Reopen Grocery Store Given Mrs. Mary Holoubek

Permission to reopen a grocery store at 818 E. Market street was granted to Mrs. Mary Holoubek yesterday by the Iowa City board of adjustment.

The store had been in operation for many years, and during its later years of business the residential area in which it was located was placed in an "A" residential district. After a business in such an area has been closed for a definite period of time, permission to reopen must be obtained from the board of adjustment, according to a city ordinance.

Members of the Iowa City board of adjustment are Mrs. F. J. Snider, J. W. Anderson, Frank Nesvaci, Jules Kaspar and Prof. Fred G. Higbee, chairman.

City Block of Land To Be Converted Into Recreation Area

Kiwanians to Hear Address on Divorce

Judge James P. Gaffney of the district court will speak on "The Divorce Problem in Iowa" to members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting this noon at the Hotel Jefferson.

This Marine is shown cautiously approaching a native hut on Saipan, his rifle ready, on the alert for any Jap snipers that may be hidden in the area. The more War Bonds you buy the quicker this Marine and his buddies will be able to come home again. U. S. Treasury Department
