Guerrillas Form—New Force

By Russell Brines MANILA (AP)—Filipino guerrillas have driven a powerful new influence into the troubled politics of Philippine reconstruction.

This, in itself, marks a new departure in Philippine politics. Guerrilla influence already has become more vocal and more successful than was possible for any opposition group during the six-year reign of the late President Manuel L. Quezon and his monopolistic Nacionalista party.

Commonwealth officials estimate that 200,000 guerrillas of all types are pushing actively for political power on Luzon alone, where their direct access to Manila makes them more powerful than groups on outside islands.

They are split into numerous divergent viewpoints, however, and no attempt has been made yet to unite them into a vast political pressure group.

Yet the war and the new guerrilla ascendancy has given greater force to elements formerly opposing President Quezon and his one-time vice president, Sergio Osmena, the current president.

Santos died in a lonely farmer's house of old age and long illness after the American forces landed on Luzon. His armed followers, estimated at 20,000, continued active under his lieutenants.

This temporarily makes military government a relatively easy task but no military governor is willing to predict that it will remain thus. I have talked to dozens in the Rhineland, Saar territory and Palatinate from colonels in major centers like Cologne and Saarbruecken to a non-commissioned officer in a small spot like Gruentstadt in the Palatinate.

None as yet has complained of any important difficulties in governing the defeated Germans. All most invariably they say the biggest problem is caring for displaced persons, of which there are estimated to be eight millions—five and a half million civilians and two and a half million liberated allied slave laborers and prisoners of war.

Wherever I went Germans were overawed by the American display of military force. They see the war machine rolling endlessly over German streets, carrying guns of terrific fire power, bulldozers of unheard strength, trucks carrying husky G.I.s. They see signal corps units everywhere, stretching communications lines with amazing speed, engineers repairing blasted bridges, traffic MP's untangling traffic jams.

Opinion on and off the Campus—Whom Would You Send as Delegate to the San Francisco Conference?

- Marjorie Fitzpatrick, A2 of Elkader: "I would choose Stettinius, the secretary of state, because he is probably better versed on matters of international import than is any other United States official."
Chuck Hindt, E1 of Rock Rapids: "I believe that Stassen is a very capable man and that he will do a fine job at the conference."
Fred Johnson of Iowa City: "I would choose Senator Vandenberg of Michigan because of his all-around capabilities and interest in international affairs."
Carl Kugel, L1 of Sioux City: "I think Wendell Willkie would be my choice if he were living. His book 'One World' convinced me that he would be the man for such a job. Since he can't be there, I would say that Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, would be my choice. He has a deep understanding of what should be done in the post-war economic world."
Howard Carroll, A1 of Clinton: "I think that Eric Johnston would

Bewildered German Public Accepts Defeat, Does What It's Told

By Louis P. Lochner SOMEWHERE IN GERMANY (AP)—The allied conquest of Germany in the last two months has been so rapid that the bewildered German population in occupied territory for the most part meekly does what it is told.

None as yet has complained of any important difficulties in governing the defeated Germans. All most invariably they say the biggest problem is caring for displaced persons, of which there are estimated to be eight millions—five and a half million civilians and two and a half million liberated allied slave laborers and prisoners of war.

Allied Material—1941 and 1945

By Geoffrey H. P. Anderson LONDON (AP)—Returning to active work as a war correspondent after years as a prisoner in North Africa, Italy and Germany these are some of the things which most impressed me about warfare in 1945:

First is the total mechanization and improved equipment of all allied forces plus the enormously increased fire power of combat units.

When Field Marshal Erwin Rommel bagged me at Sidi Rezegh near Tobruk on Nov. 23, 1941, the tommygun still was a weapon which drew a crowd of admiring and envious riflemen though the Germans already had plenty. Now nearly every officer and enlisted man seems to have one.

Tanks, about which there has been so much controversy, seem to me to show unbelievable improvement in size and efficiency. Our tanks in the early days in Libya were mere pygmies in comparison. We used six ten for a job 60 or 600 would do today.

Symphony Orchestra to Present Final Concert of Series Tonight

To Perform Tonight at 8

'Symphony in E Minor,' Soloist, Paul Reisman To Highlight Program

The University symphony orchestra under the direction of Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, will present the sixth and last program of its 1944-45 winter season in the main lounge in Iowa Union this evening at 8 o'clock.

A highlight of the concert will be the "Symphony in E minor" by the late Harry Thatcher Jr., Paul Reisman, visiting professor of violin at the university this year, will appear as soloist with the orchestra.

The "Symphony in E minor" was sketched in 1930, scored for orchestra two years later and submitted in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Ph. D. degree given Thatcher in 1933. It was first performed by the university symphony orchestra in 1936 under the direction of Frank Estes Kendrick.

Brahms' "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra" is the presentation to be played by Professor Reisman and the orchestra. Professor Reisman, since 1940, has been professor of strings and director of the orchestra at Simpson college, Indianola. He came to this country in 1938 from Budapest. During the absence of Prof. Arnold Small from the music staff here, Professor Reisman has been dividing his time between Simpson and the university.

Tonight's concert will open with Liszt's symphonic poem, No. 5, "Prometheus," and will close with the prelude to Wagner's "Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

The public is invited to attend this concert. Free tickets are obtainable at the information desk in Iowa Union.

DAR Show to Air Short Compositions By Professor Alspach

Short compositions by Prof. Addison Alspach of the university music department, will be featured over the Daughters of the American Revolution radio program to be presented over WSUI Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. This is another in a series of programs featuring compositions of local composers and is under the direction of Mrs. Paul Shaw, member of the Pilgrim chapter of the D.A.R.

The following selections will be given in four groups: The first group will be Small Piano Set for Youngsters, "March for Jane," "Minuet for Edward," and "Pledge, for Cyrus," played by Edward Alspach, 10, son of the composer.

The second group will consist of Three Curious Songs for Low Voice, "Improvisation," (words by Alfred Kreyenberg), "Fog" (words by Carl Sandburg) and "Scenes" (words by J. B. Cabell), sung by Faye Vondraska, contralto and graduate student in the music department. Norma Cross will play the piano accompaniment.

The third group will include Small Suite for Clarinet and Piano in three movements, first, moderately, second, very slowly, and third, vigorously, to be sung by Allen Sigel with Norma Cross playing the accompaniment.

He is stationed at the naval air station in Pensacola, Fla.

'SUI Production Is Fine Performance of Difficult Play'

By BOB KRAUSE
"The Searching Wind," which opened at the University theater last night, is a play which says again something which has been uttered many times. For this reason we fear that the first night audience may not remember it for very long. And yet, through the expert touch of Lillian Hellman, it is a drama which speaks in a loud, commanding, and warning voice.

For "The Searching Wind" is a play of anti-appeasement which cries out against the mistakes, weaknesses, and indecision of the generation that inherited the earth from just after World War I up to the beginning of the present conflict. Paralleling this underlying theme is a sometimes-wearying love affair, triangular, which illustrates clearly the exact state of the world during the period of which the play speaks. Its participants make a complete mess of things—as did the people of the earth.

Difficult Bit
It is a difficult bit of theater which Miss Hellman has challenged the talents of actors and actresses. And we are happy to say that last night's cast, almost in entirety, did a marvelous job of carrying off her work. Directed by Prof. E. C. Mabie, every member interpreted each complex and multi-emotional character with feeling and understanding.

True, there were flaws and rough edges, all to be expected on opening night. We trust that these will be ironed out before the offering completes its run. We received the impression at times that possibly the principles were pressing just a bit in order to please. However, it should be remembered that Miss Hellman had much to say.

Done in Flashback
The play, most of which is done in flashback, centers about one Alex Hazen, played by Clarence Edney; his wife Emily, played by Dorothy Mielke; Catherine Bowman, portrayed by Betty Wenzel, who is in love with Alex; Sam, Hazen's son, played by Reg Petty; and Moses Toney, portrayed by Russell Lemke, who is Emily's father.

The opening scene is set in Washington, D. C., in the summer of 1944. Sam Hazen is a young wounded soldier recently returned from the Italian front. He has come home to a family of aimless and wandering people, all unhappy and all wondering where to turn next. Moses Toney is a tired and disillusioned newspaper publisher who retired years ago because he saw no use in being a liberal and in trying to ward off the impending tragedy of another war. People would not listen and Toney became a searching cynic.

Triangle Club
Election of officers will be conducted at the annual banquet of the Triangle club Friday at 6:30 p. m. in the Triangle clubrooms in Iowa Union.

"Little Known Wonders of Science" will be the topic of a speech by Prof. Gordon Marsh. Completion of the program will be impersonations by Bob Ray and movies shown by John Hedges.

Included on the committee in charge of the banquet are Prof. Erich Funke, Fred W. Ambrose and Garland Hershey.

and they made the play worthwhile. Our only fear is that possibly the audience may not have caught the significant theme which was underneath the somewhat preposterous love affair which dragged on for more than 20 years. Despite that, there is much to be derived from Miss Hellman's play. We feel that the University theater has a success on its hands.

Chinese Troops Fight Into Changsuichen

CHUNGKING, Tuesday (AP)—Chinese troops fought into the town of Changsuichen, 70 miles from the Shensi province border, Monday in a fierce battle to check an incipient Japanese threat from northwestern Honan, the Chinese high command announced today.

The Chinese, in a communique, said the enemy had penetrated Laohokou, 200 miles northwest of Hankow, but said at least 400 invaders were killed. "Hard fighting is proceeding there," the report said.

Widespread offensive activity by the Chinese airforce in different sectors of Honan also was announced.

An earlier communique reported hard fighting in both Honan and Hupeh provinces as the Japanese sought to smash resistance for a possible entry into Shensi, northern gateway to Chungking.

COMMENCEMENT HOUSING

Persons living in Iowa City who have an extra room to rent during the commencement weekend, April 20-22 (Friday through Sunday) are asked to contact the university housing service (extension 274) between now and Thursday at 5. A number of out-of-town guests are expected for that weekend and housing facilities are limited.

Home-School Workshop To Be Conducted

Under the direction of the Iowa child welfare research station a workshop on home-school cooperation, first of its kind ever scheduled here, will be held June 14-19.

It is designed for teachers, administrators, students, faculty members of teaching-training institutions, community leaders and parents, according to Prof. Ralph Ojemann of the child welfare department.

During the intensive five-day course, problems requiring home and school cooperation will be presented. Various specialists will contribute to the program, Professor Ojemann said.

Olson Discusses Monetary Conference For Women Voters

"If you want to buy you have got to sell and if you want to sell you have got to buy." This is the first principle of foreign trade, according to Prof. Paul R. Olson of the college of commerce, who spoke to the League of Women Voters Monday at the Congregational church.

Discussing the Bretton Woods proposals, Professor Olson said that in order to keep up production and employment in the post-war years, we will have to promote civilian demands for our goods from other countries to take the place of the enormous production for war which we are now sending them.

"Isn't it only natural that our government attempts to foresee certain problems of an international character in order to stimulate orders from abroad?" the speaker asked. "Bretton Woods is one of a series of attempts here to provide for the future."

Stable Structure For international trade, Professor Olson declared that we need a stable structure of prices, stable currencies, and an equilibrium between the supply and demand for currency. The two main provisions of the proposals, the international monetary fund and the bank for reconstruction and development, are attempts to help promote this equilibrium and to provide more markets. The bank will certainly not attempt to supplant private investment abroad, Professor Olson emphasized.

Rather, it will guarantee risky loans which private sources would not touch.

If we do not have a joint effort among the nations to promote ease of foreign trade, then the years immediately following the war will see a race among nations for economic defensive measures, such as depreciation of currency, increase of tariffs, bilateral agreements and so on.

Symbols of Good Will

Each of these measures is a step towards economic warfare, warned the speaker. Therefore, we must regard proposals such as those of the Bretton Woods conference not only as symbols of good will, but also as a way to prevent a return to the economic warfare of the period between the two world wars.

Mrs. Lyman White served as chairman of the meeting, and presided during Professor Olson's talk and for the discussion which followed.

Library Annex Pool Open to Boy Scouts Beginning This Week

The library annex swimming pool will be available for all Boy Scouts for swimming Wednesday and Thursday evenings beginning this week, Scout Executive Owen B. Thiel has announced.

There will be three 45-minute periods of swimming. From 7 o'clock until 7:45, beginning swimmers will take over the pool and be given instruction.

Scouts who don't swim well will be given pool privileges from 8 to 8:45. This is a practice period and there will also be coaching for those who desire it. Advanced swimmers and those working on life saving badges will swim from 9 to 9:45 p. m.

Each swimmer is required to furnish his own soap and towel. Scouts who have earned their life saving awards will serve as life guards.

Bible Group to Meet

The Bible study group of the Presbyterian church will meet for the last time Thursday noon. Elizabeth Brinker will lead the discussion. A sack lunch and Marlyn drink will be served at the church.

IT'S GETTING TO BE OLD STORY--JAP CABINET QUILTS

Field Marshal Gen. Sugiyama

Adm. Mitsumasa Yona

Mamoru Shigemitsu

JAPAN'S PREMIER, Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, and his entire cabinet resigned en masse to make way for a "more powerful" regime, according to a Tokyo broadcast. Included in the "honorable walk-out" were Field Marshal Gen. Sugiyama, minister of war; Adm. Mitsumasa Yona, minister of the navy, and Mamoru Shigemitsu, minister of foreign affairs. The cabinet's resignation came only eight months after its installation at the time Tojo's cabinet fell following the American capture of Saipan in the Marianas. Domei agency reports a successor to Koiso, 77-year-old Adm. Baron Kantaro Suzuki, president of the privy council, has already been recommended. The resignations came as a result of continued military defeats climaxed by the Okinawa invasion. (International)

Guest of Department Of Political Science To Deliver Lecture

Dr. William L. Bradshaw, professor of political science at the University of Missouri, will deliver a graduate lecture on "Missouri's New State Constitution" when he comes to Iowa City, Monday, April 16, as a guest of the department of political science.

Dr. Bradshaw took his doctor's degree at the University of Iowa 15 years ago in the department of political science and has since become an authority on problems of state and local administration.

As an active member of the state constitution convention which drew up the new constitution recently adopted by the voters in Missouri, Dr. Bradshaw deserves much of the credit for the success of the project. He will discuss the features of the new Missouri constitution and tell something about the campaign which led to its adoption when he talks to classes in American government Monday morning. These classes have been studying processes involved in making state constitutions.

Law Commons to Give 'Spring Promenade'

"The Spring Promenade," formal spring dance of the Law Commons, will be held Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in the Pine room of the Commons, with Roy Gray and his "Music Styled for Dancing," furnishing the music.

Festive streamers and spring flowers will be included in the decorations. Chairman of the party is Polly Coen, A3 of Silver Spring, Md., and serving on the committee with her are Alice Dehn, A2 of Burlington; Marietta Moershel, A1 of Homestead; Peggy Moorhead, A1 of West Branch; Barbara Miller, A1 of Sioux City, and Marlyn Knipe, C3 of Armstrong.

Dinner Fetes Miriam Taylor

At the annual senior dinner held last night at the University club rooms and given by the students and faculty of the women's physical education department, Prof. Miriam Taylor, of the physical education department, was honored for her 25 years of service to the university.

It is traditional at this dinner that the graduating seniors be honored by their instructors and fellow students.

The junior class served as a committee on arrangements under the direction of Prof. Gladys Scott.

The program consisted of speeches by Helen Carroll, A1 of Atlantic, "All Aboard"; "Forecast" by Nancy Scofield, A2 of Morris, Ill.; "Log" by Lucille Curtis, A3 of Ft. Madison, and "Anchors Aweigh," by Anita Patterson, A4 of Kansas City, Kan.

Miss Margaret Mordy and Prof. Ella Mae Small who are leaving the physical education department to join the Red Cross made responses for the staff.

Dorothy Magill, A3 of Atlantic acted as mistress of ceremonies and Ruth Giblin, A3 of Williamsburg was general chairman of the committees.

A trio composed of Martha Humphrey, A1 of West Union; Audrey Peterson, A1 of Freeport, Ill., and Lucille Schoenfeld, A1 of Nashua, sang during the evening. The climax of the program came when Professor Taylor was presented with a scrap book containing letters from students, alumni and colleagues among the faculty pertaining to her 25 years at the university and in appreciation for her work here.

The book was made by Mrs. B. L. Gainsforth of the Iowa City Crafts guild in expression of appreciation of Professor Taylor's work with the guild.

Mrs. Ester Sorensen of Marshalltown and a former member of the physical education staff was the honored guest.

The chairman of the program committee was Dorothy Wirts, A3 of Iowa Falls. Hope Hea, A3 of Mason City, headed the decoration committee; Bettie Lew Schmidt, A3 of Freeport, Ill., was chairman of the menu committee and Paula Raff, A3 of Highland Park, Ill., was chairman of the invitation committee.

County Attorney Files Delinquency Charges

County Attorney Jack C. White has filed an information in justice court here charging Roberta Fleming, 21, of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. A warrant has been issued for her arrest in Davenport.

Iowa City police searched for the woman here Monday and traced her to Davenport.

At a juvenile court hearing before Judge James P. Gaffney the juvenile, a 17-year-old Iowa City boy, admitted having sexual relations with her and drinking beer with her in a local tavern.

Judge Gaffney said that Miss Fleming has been sentenced at least twice to the women's reformatory at Mitchellville.

Senators Call OPA Black Market Policy Crooked, Ineffectual

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.) declared yesterday that OPA's handling of black markets smells of crookedness, and Senator Lucas (D. Ill.) said its price policies make no sense to him.

In an angry session of the senate agriculture committee investigating food shortages, the legislators swapped sharp remarks with Thomas I. Emerson, OPA's enforcement chief.

Wheeler had quoted reports that 80 per cent of the meat sold in most big cities is black market meat.

"Fantastic," said Emerson. He estimated that in New York perhaps 10 per cent of meat sold at wholesale is black market, perhaps 15 per cent at the retail level.

"If you know what the facts are," retorted Wheeler, "then there is something crooked in your office. The trouble is that when you are told about the situation you don't do anything about it."

Lucas expressed his poor opinion of OPA during testimony by Wilbur La Roe, counsel for smaller meat packers. He accused the agency of "unwillingness to cooperate with the intent of congress and with this committee."

The OPA-vs.-packers argument is an old one, boiling down to a difference of opinion on fairness. Some packers claim that the top legal prices they are permitted to receive are too low in comparison with the prices they have to pay. OPA has argued that the industry has been prospering generally and that a packer ceiling increase would not relieve meat shortages.

Chairman Thomas (D. Okla.) directed Emerson to put into the record the names of those "responsible for this situation, beginning with yourself."

Emerson replied that meat prices were the responsibility of James F. Brownlee, deputy to OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, and John Madigan, OPA meat expert.

Senator Wherry (R. Neb.) joined the two Democratic senators in jumping on OPA. Wherry said he knew of chickens selling for 75 cents a pound in Washington and "I can tell you where" ration points are on sale at $8 a thousand.

"I've come to the conclusion that most of your men are academic and don't know what they are talking about," Wherry told Emerson.

Emerson agreed with Wherry that there is a larger black market this year than last.

"By and large we feel the counterfeited problem is under control," he said.

Lucille Mason Engaged to Wed

Mrs. Oliver J. Mason of Elizabeth, N. J., announces the engagement of her daughter, Lucille G. Mason, to Edward J. Maxfield of Riversdale, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maxfield of Waverly.

Miss Mason was graduated from Batin high school for girls in Elizabeth, and from Union junior college in Roselle, N. J., and is now a senior in the college of liberal arts at the University of Iowa.

Mr. Maxfield was graduated from Waverly high school and attended Wartburg college in Waverly before receiving his degree from the University of Iowa in 1943. He recently received a medical discharge from the army and is now employed as a chemical engineer by Universal Oil products at Riversdale.

Technician Bert Hughes Cited for Bravery Displayed at Radio Post in Philippines

That fighting artillerymen are sometimes stationed nearer to fire-spouting enemy lines than the most forward infantry elements is a little-known fact — but Tech. Bert R. Hughes of Iowa City knows all about it.

During one of the hottest, rainiest days of the whole Philippines campaign, Hughes crawled forward under Jap fire and set up an artillery radio observation post on the slope of a rugged, Jap-infested hill.

Though in full view of the enemy, Hughes continued to operate his radio to enable his own artillery to smash the Jap position. Then, withdrawing, he helped to carry wounded comrades back to safety.

Radioman Hughes, who is the husband of Mrs. Eleanor L. Hughes of 821 East Jefferson street, was awarded the Bronze Star medal for heroic achievement.

For having maintained a superior record of service and supply to medium bombardment organization of the Ninth airforce, the depot supply squadron of which Master Sgt. Edwin C. Ellis, of Iowa City, is a member, has been awarded the airforce's newest recognition, the Meritorious Service plaque. The award, presented to the squadron commander, entitles each man in the unit to wear the sleeve insignia denoting the recognition of merit.

Sergeant Ellis's squadron is assigned to service and supply the Ninth's new A-26 Invademedium bomber. Sergeant Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Ellis, 624 South Governor street, entered service in October, 1942. He is the husband of Mrs. Shirley Ellis of the same address.

Second Lieut. Arthur D. Sexton, 632 S. Dodge street, pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress with the Eighth airforce in England, has been decorated with a second Oak Leaf cluster to his Air medal.

Army Officials Reveal Proposed Cutback In Production Plans

CHICAGO (AP)—A nearly $200,000,000 cutback in projected plants and ammunition production schedules for 1945—representing approximately a 10 per cent reduction in the entire artillery ammunition program authorized last December—was announced yesterday by officials of United States army ordnance.

The army said the curtailments, involving production schedules and facilities in 60 plants, have no connection with the plans to be placed in effect after V-E day. Army representatives made the announcement after conferring with representatives of the war production board and the war manpower commission.

Schedules to be abandoned or more seriously curtailed included new plants and facilities incorporated in the 1945 projected program where production has not been started and where little progress has been made on either construction or delivery of equipment.

The war production board last night disclosed the names of companies in this region which will be affected by the cutback. Among them are the Pullman Standard Manufacturing plant, Hammond, Ind.; Litho Equipment company and International Harvester company, Chicago; Milwaukee Gas Specialty company, Milwaukee, Wis., and Bowser incorporated, Ft. Wayne, Ind.
