Josephus Daniels Compares Temper Of League Fight and Attitude Today—

(Josephus Daniels, president and publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, was secretary of the navy in World War I, a close friend and adherent of Woodrow Wilson, an interested observer of the fight for the league of nations, and supporter of the late President Roosevelt's efforts toward a permanent peace. Asked by The Associated Press to compare the temper of the nation during the league fight with the attitude today during the San Francisco security conference, Mr. Daniels responded with the following story.)

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—My recollection is that the enthusiasm and determination for a world peace covenant were more manifest in 1918, particularly around the premature and real Armistice day, than they are at the day of deliverance cheers the people now.

I vividly recall that Thanksgiving observances in 1918, only a few days after the armistice had been signed, witnessed an outpouring of the people in the churches and in other gatherings, that prayers were offered everywhere that a warless world would follow the fighting. I recall that I spoke to a great union meeting in Buffalo and never have I felt more unity and confidence that the forthcoming peace conference would fashion a way to end all wars.

About the same time I spoke at the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York where the people were quite as earnest and zealous in expressing their determination that the fruits of war should be garnered in lasting peace. The sentiment in these two cities was expressed in like manner from coast to coast as the reverberation of the guns in France ceased.

The proof that history repeats itself is seen in the overwhelming public opinion favoring a world organization to insure peace. Sentiment today parallels that which lifted people to the heights after the signing of the armistice Nov. 11, 1918. The attitude of the people then and now is as alike as two black-eyed peas.

The only discordant note then came in the round robin that Senator Lodge and 33 other senators sent to Paris when Woodrow Wilson was sweating blood to secure the adherence of his European colleagues to the immortal pact he brought home and gave to the senate for ratification in July 1919. The welcome given to Wilson on his arrival by his countrymen was as sincere and enthusiastic as that which he received in Rome which surpassed any event in European history.

And it came from the heart of the people of all parties and creeds as it is now. The dissenters then were unorganized; there was no hint of the propaganda, or the organized opposition of aliens, protectionists, partisans and isolationists who were later to help Lodge and Reed sabotage the League in the senate.

"Let us take a look at the record as it is found in the newspapers of 1919. At first, League opponents avowed their eternal devotion to the goal, all except Senator Borah, an upright, downright and forthright isolationist who fought it in the open. Lodge, the Republican, and Reed, the Democrat, whose hostility compassed "the deep damnation of its taking off" swore they wished a peace pact above all earthly things, but said they felt it needed a little doctoring to make it perfect.

Soliciting Borah's cooperation, Lodge told him that he knew most of the newspapers, the preachers, the educators, those accustomed to write and speak, and "the man in the street" favored the League as presented by Wilson but, he argued, when they were educated as to the need of reservations, its ratification could be prevented. So he played for time and kept a treaty that ought to have been acted upon in a few days before the senate before he applied the deadly dagger that did its fatal work.

This gave time for the opponents with their millions to organize the elements which helped senators to compass the rejection of the League. Senator Jim Watson, of Indiana, records in his autobiography that he said to Lodge: "Senator, I don't see how we are going to defeat this proposition. It appears to me that 80 percent of the people are for it. Fully that percentage of the preachers are advocating it. Churches are very largely favoring it, all the people who have been burdened and oppressed by this awful tragedy of war and who imagine this opens a way to world peace are for it, and I don't see how it is possible to defeat it."

Watson added that Lodge turned to him and said, "Ah, my dear James, I do not propose to try to beat it by direct frontal attack, but by the indirect methods of reservations."

"What do you mean by that," Watson says he asked. "Illustrate it to me," and Watson goes on to say: "Lodge then went on to explain how, for instance, we would demand a reservation on the subject of submitting to our country the assumption of a mandate over Armenia, or any other foreign country, 'we can debate that for days and hold up the dangers that it will involve and the responsibilities we will assume if we propose that course, and we can thoroughly satisfy the country that that would be a most abhorrent policy for us to adopt'."

"Senator Lodge then went on for two hours to explain other reservations and went into the details of situations that would be thus evolved, until I became thoroughly satisfied that the treaty could be beaten in that way."

And that was the way Lodge and his followers kept us out of the peace as a result of the proceedings of the senate shows. As the senate debated and wasted time, the high protection money got in its perfect work. Many good people were misled and thus while not wholly responsible for World War II, Lodge and the rest made it possible by seeing to it that the United States was AWOL at Geneva.

One day while the senate was dawdling over action on the treaty I chanced to meet Senator Warren G. Harding in the rotunda of the capitol. Association with him in his capacity as a member of the senate committee on naval affairs, caused me to venture to show him an Ohio paper I had in my hand containing resolutions favoring the League adopted by Methodist bishops in session in his state.

I handed the paper to the senator and expressed to him the hope that the earnest appeal of the bishops would hasten early action and ratification. To my surprise the senator, usually urbane and polite, flew into a rage refusing to look at the paper and vehemently declared he could not be dictated to by bishops and said they and other preachers would do well to stay in their pulpits. From his manner I sensed the opposition to the League which he evidenced when he became president. That attitude won him the support of Senator Penrose who dictated his nomination as president in the Republican convention in 1920.

"The only difference between the situation as to a world peace pact in 1919 and 1945 can be summed up in the old saying 'a burnt child dreads the fire.' Seeing the fulfillment of Wilson's prophecy of a worse war in 20 years if we did not enter the League, the people are resolved not again to permit frontal or other attacks on the coming instrument of peace to succeed. The Republican leaders of vision responded to the late President Roosevelt's appeal and are co-operating with President Truman in a patriotic spirit and are working to perfect a pact that will keep us out of war."

There is another contributing factor that is working to prevent a second failure. The high protectionists now see that prosperity depends upon world trade and do not worship the great God protection as they did in 1919.

It is for these reasons I am confident that we shall not fail this time. But there are pit-falls to be avoided, prejudices to overcome, and adjustments which must be made.

The League covenant was not perfect but there was provision by which it could be amended.

The coming covenant will not please everybody, but it is, as President Truman so well says "peace or chaos" and millions of the armed forces and all the rest of the people have highly resolved that there must not be another debacle.

THESE MEN WILL RULE AMERICAN-OCCUPIED GERMANY

Three SUI Graduates Write Two Play Hits

By GENE CLAUSSEN, W. O. USMS (Former Associated Press correspondent at Iowa City, Iowa.)

NEW YORK (AP)—When Broadway drama critics throw out bouquets with seemingly reckless abandon upon the arrival of a new play, the public, as well as the actors, playwrights and producers, are apt to be stunned.

And when the play is not only a hit but written by comparative newcomers to the nation's circle of drama, the event is bound to stimulate comment in theatre circles and prompt an immediate rush to the box offices to view the new work.

This pleasant situation was faced by three University of Iowa graduates who are responsible for two first-rate hits. The plays are running at top speed during one of the most brilliant seasons on Broadway in 20 years.

"The Glass Menagerie," written by Tennessee Williams who received his B. A. degree at Iowa in 1938, has been named the season's best American play by the New York drama critics circle. The success of the play is further evidenced by the fact that it had scarcely opened before the critics met to cast their ballots.

Howard Richardson and William Berney, who collaborated on "The Dark of the Moon," did their graduate work on the campus in 1941 and 1942. This play was produced first under the name "Barbara Allen" which ran in the University theater on the Iowa campus. Shortly after its debut on Broadway it was characterized as "the most significant theater of the year" by Life magazine.

All three playwrights look more like college students, fresh off the campus (which they virtually are) than successful authors whose plays are now in the big lights in New York's theatrical district.

Williams lives in a modest New York hotel and is looking forward to spending the summer writing another play. Richardson and Berney, first cousins, are nephews of Thomas Dixon, famed novelist of the late 19th and early 20th century whose "The Clansman" became the famous motion picture, "The Birth of a Nation." Richardson is now writing scripts for the OWI here while Berney, a poet and maintainer as well, is doing publicity for Boeing aircraft.

Prior to its opening in New York, "The Glass Menagerie" had a successful run in Chicago. It is Williams' first play to attract Broadway attention although the theater guild once tried his "Battle of the Angels" but abandoned it on the road. In all, he has written eight full-length plays and twelve one-act plays. In 1939 he won a group theater prize for four one-act plays grouped under the title of "American Blues" and is also the author of a collection of verse published under the title "Five Young American Poets" and of a verse play, "Don Ranchos."

When the new theater season opens next fall theater-goers probably will be lining up for tickets to "The Glass Menagerie" and they'll have a chance to view a second Williams production, "You Touched Me" which was written with Donald Windham. The play is an adaptation from a short story by D. H. Lawrence and has been acquired for autumn production by Guthrie McClintic. The young author plans to spend the summer in Cape Cod, working on what he hopes will be a third Broadway hit.

Before settling down to the serious job of writing, Williams did a variety of jobs which included working on a squab ranch in California, operating an elevator, and reciting verse in a Greenwich village night club.

Berney and Richardson, hitting the jackpot with their first play—a legend with music that concerns a witch-boy's love for a lusty mountain girl. It is based upon one of the 200-odd versions of the folk-ballad, "Barbara Allen" and was written while both were attending classes on the Iowa campus.

The play is unusual in that it is a succession of striking scenes and moods, a fantasy which interprets the superstitions of the great smoky mountain region of North Carolina. Upon completion of the play, a professor in the speech department suggested they enter it for the annual Maxwell Anderson award at Leland Stanford university for the best American poetic play. It won first prize and for the first time the authors realized they had written a poetic play.

Options on the script were held by various commercial producers and finally an experimental production was given last August at the Cambridge, Mass. summer theater. The play opened in the hottest week of the year and attracted only a handful of people. Luckily, however, several Boston critics were in town, covered the play and were highly enthusiastic about it. A magazine picture of the story attracted the attention of Lee Shubert, New York producer, who bought the script, sight unseen, and arranged immediately for a Broadway production. The rest is common news to theater fans. The play caught on at once and plays daily to a packed house.

All three were honored recently at a University of Iowa alumni club party but the people who attended the affair had difficulty in spotting Williams, Berney and Richardson. Instead of the suave, men-of-the-world type they had expected, they found three trim, youthful, and almost bashful men.

Looking Ahead in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of Germans in Japan and Japanese-occupied Asia may be in for tough lodging.

Since the Nazi surrender, the Japanese have made a great to-do about abrogating their various pacts with the Reich. Their motive is not entirely clear, but it is believed the move partly expresses the fundamental dislike which most Japanese had for the Germans all along.

The Japanese have never forgotten Kaiser Wilhelm's cry of "the yellow peril" 40 years ago. They grabbed Germany's colonies with gusto in World War I.

Despite the outwardly correct and friendly relations of the tripartite pact with Germany, the Japanese worried before Pearl Harbor when hundreds of arrogant Nazi agents arrived.

After Pearl Harbor, with Russia at war with Germany, the Japanese clamped down somewhat on the Germans in their midst, whom many Japanese privately referred to as a fifth column. The 4,000 Germans in Shanghai were particularly worried and confided to Americans that they thought the Japanese sooner or later would intern them.

Tydings - Ickes - President Truman apparently is relying more on Senator Millard Tydings (D, Md.) to solve the Philippine rehabilitation and independence question than he is on Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Two of Ickes' recommendations—one favoring immediate appointment of a high commissioner and the other 20 years free trade with the islands after independence—have been ignored thus far.

Instead Mr. Truman appointed Tydings, chairman of the senate committee on territories, to head a special committee to inspect the islands and report direct to him. The committee includes only one interior representative.

PAC Model—The United States Chamber of Commerce is embarking on a drive to organize national affairs committees. It calls them NACs. Their purpose is to help businessmen get ahead politically. The comparison with the CIO's Political Action committee (PAC) is obvious—but unmentioned.

Stassen's stature—Civic, educational, business and other organizational representatives are serving as consultants to the American delegation at the San Francisco conference.

A person close to the delegation said on a trip back here that these representatives are sold on Commander Harold E. Stassen, a delegate.

Some make no bones about it that the former governor of Minnesota is their choice as the next president, this person said.

Stassen has been the delegation's liaison representative to the large group of citizen consultants invited to San Francisco.

terminated drive is on to offer the Black Hills of South Dakota as a site for the permanent "capital" of the United Nations security organization.

Representative Case (R, S. D.) says, "The Black Hills area is the geographical center of the North American continent; Russia is opposed to setting it up in Geneva; there is opposition from the western powers to placing it at Prague or Vienna in line with Russian desires."

Gov. M. Q. Sharpe of South Dakota is head of a committee pushing the Black Hills area. President Coolidge set up a "summer White House" there for three months in 1927.

Hitler May End Up In Dublin Lodge Says Playwright Shaw

LONDON (AP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw said yesterday in a letter to the London Times that, if the report of Hitler's death proved unfounded, there still was a possibility that the German Fuehrer "would end up in the Dublin vice-regal lodge like Louis Napoleon in Chislehurst and the kaiser in Doorn."

The provocative octogenarian praised the "correctness" of Prime Minister De Valera's action in visiting the German minister in Dublin to extend condolences when Hitler's death was reported.

He said that as an Irishman he was proud of De Valera's statement that Eire reserved the right to give asylum to fugitives when justice, charity or the honor or interest of the nation required it—a reply made in 1943 to an allied demand on neutrals not to admit axis war criminals.

"Portugal refused. The rest took it lying down except Mr. De Valera," Shaw continued. "The voice of the Irish gentleman and Spanish grandee was a welcome relief from the chorus of retaliatory rancor and self-righteousness then deafening us."

He hailed the prime minister as a man who had defied both Hitler and the allies and had gotten away with it because the allies had a base in northern Ireland and because the Germans struck to the east instead of toward Ireland.

Seventh War Loan

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa's Seventh War Loan campaign was $2,800,000 behind schedule at the end of the fifth day of the drive, state war finance committee officials said yesterday.

They emphasized that Iowans must increase their E bond purchases 40 per cent over those of the Sixth loan drive if the state is to meet its "people's bond" goal of $82,800,000. This is about $20,000,000 higher than the E bond quota of the last campaign, but there are to be fewer bond drives this year than last.

BLAZING THE TRAIL

Rabbi Morris Kertzer to Speak Tonight in Macbride Auditorium

Vespers Program To Begin at 8 P. M.

Battle Experiences To Be Basis of Talk By Army Chaplain

Basing his talk on personal experiences as a chaplain with the armed forces in Africa, Italy and France, Rabbi Morris N. Kertzer will speak on "We Saw the Liberation" at the university vespers service at 8 o'clock this evening in Macbride auditorium.

Music for the first vespers program of the summer session will be furnished by a trio: Irene Giannakakis, A4 of Cedar Rapids, violin; Jean Tetzlaff, cello, and Norma Cross of the music department faculty, piano. They will play the Adagio from the "Trio in B major," opus 8. Their selection will be followed by a hymn, "God of Our Fathers."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Carl H. Meinberg will give the invocation and the university chorus will present "Our Master Hath a Garden" (Clokey).

Experiences at Anzio

Rabbi Kertzer, recently returned to this country from the European theater of war, will tell of his experiences on the Anzio beachhead as chaplain. He was assigned to that battleground when Gen. Mark Clark discovered that there was no chaplain there to minister to the religious needs of the men of Jewish faith fighting in the desperate battle.

"You have to have an iron constitution to see a young man at prayer services one day and at burial services the next and not get a little older," the army chaplain wrote in a letter to the National Jewish Welfare board.

At his first service at Anzio, Rabbi Kertzer reported, "We had a large crowd, including eight truckloads of British soldiers. It was odd to see them come directly from the front lines, guns and all, for an hour's break to attend service."

General Service

Later Rabbi Kertzer held a general service for units stationed along the length and breadth of the beachhead. "We were fortunate in not being shelled out. My assistant and I have had several close calls, but life goes on. It has been a great experience to live with troops constantly exposed to combat conditions. They are a very appreciative group of men."

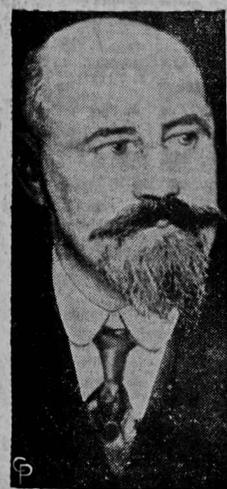

Ten Jewish Sabbath services were held weekly on the Anzio beachhead, conducted either by Rabbi Kertzer or under his supervision. Front line troops unable to attend group services were visited by the regimental chaplains who often were forced to travel under cover of night, in order to reach forward positions without drawing fire.

About three weeks ago the chaplain flew from France to spend six weeks leave in this country with his family in St. Catharines, Ontario. He will arrive in Iowa City this afternoon.

Before entering military service he served the Hillel foundation here as rabbi and was a professor in the school of religion for three years. Rabbi Kertzer is a graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and the University of Illinois.

The new government has the blessing of Moscow though the United States and Great Britain were not consulted in its establishment. SENIOR NURSE TO WED

MR. AND MRS. P. H. Chamberlain of Des Moines announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Grace Anne, to Lieut. (j. r.) Robert C. Heege, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Heege of Independence. The wedding will take place sometime in June. Miss Chamberlain is a graduate of Independence high school and attended the college of liberal arts at the University of Iowa for two years. She is now a senior in the school of nursing at the university. Lieutenant Heege, also a graduate of Independence high school, received his B.A. degree in political science at the University of Iowa in 1943, and was enrolled in the college of law prior to his entrance into the navy. He was affiliated with Sigma Nu social fraternity and Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. He is now on destroyer duty in the Atlantic.

FBI Man Makes Survey of Local Recreation Program

A survey of the Iowa City recreation program is being made by a representative of the federal bureau of investigation to prepare a bulletin to be issued to law enforcement officials all over the country.

Richard L. Holcomb—

Named Law Professor

RICHARD L. HOLCOMB, recently appointed associate professor of law enforcement in the bureau of public affairs, received his M.A. at the University of Iowa in 1936. One of his first duties at Iowa will be to assist Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law in organizing the peace officers training course June 25-29.

By Helen Huber Daily Iowan Staff Writer "Iowa hasn't changed much since I was here," smiled quiet-spoken Richard L. Holcomb, newly appointed associate professor of law enforcement in the bureau of public affairs. "The only great difference is the new elevator in East hall. Only a person who rode in the old ones could appreciate the change!"

Professor Holcomb, who received his B.S. from Iowa State college in 1933, received his M.A. at the University of Iowa in 1936. Now he is assisting Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law in research, surveys and instruction for the peace officers' training course, June 25-29.

The course is open to men already in some kind of law enforcement, he explained. Regular classes are to be supplemented by general sessions for the entire group. Work in the course is specialized and covers an intensive field.

The new faculty member stated that there has been too little attention paid to the smaller departments in law enforcement. "This program is just the start of a more general program that will take in other public officers such

University of Iowa Courses—

Teach Museum Techniques

More than 25 years ago, the university museum started to train workers to work there. This early undertaking has resulted in the organizing of courses for training museum workers, and it is now possible for a student to receive instruction in any branch of technique that is used in modern museums.

For many years, the University of Iowa was the only institution offering anything of the kind. Although other institutions have started to offer museum training, the work at Iowa is still unique in many respects.

Since the courses are elective, students may take a little of the work to fill out their schedule to profitable advantage. Working in a laboratory where many different kinds of museum specimens are being prepared gives a broad knowledge of museum work. It is possible, as a result, to visit a museum and have an intelligent understanding of the exhibits and how they are prepared. A student may also become familiar with many species of birds, mammals and other animal forms by handling and seeing them in the process of mounting.

Emphasis will be placed upon changes in the courses for the returning servicemen. The war effort has produced many new materials and processes that will permit work that has never been done before. Many of the servicemen who have seen for the first time strange animals, birds and fish, will return home wanting to know more about them. Museum training may be the thing that will fit that need.

Even though the demand for positions has been more or less limited, there always seems to be room at the top. It has never been known that a really good man fails to find work. New courses in biology now being offered in college must have teaching museums. This new demand will necessitate more trained workers in the museum field.

For art students who wish to develop their perception of the third dimension, and those who wish to learn to make casts of their work so that it may be preserved in permanent form, the classes in modeling and casting offer unusual opportunities.

Pre-medical and pre-dental students find the modeling of anatomical forms and the use of plaster and other materials in making casts is useful to them. This training not only develops coordination and technique but proves of practical use in their professions.

Laboratory work has been arranged to fit the individual needs of students in order that they might acquire some training in the skinning of birds, mammals and reptiles and in the preparation of other classroom material. These courses can be taken without enrolling in classes of the regular museum technique.

The museum has its displays in cases in Macbride hall on the campus where they may be seen at any time.

New Officers, Council For 1945-46 Named By Iowa Mountaineers

The Iowa Mountaineers at their annual business meeting last night elected officers for 1945-46. They are: S. J. Ebert, engineer at station WSUI, president; Robert Featherstone, associate in pharmacology in the college of medicine, vice-president; Martha Ann Isaacs, Iowa City high school instructor, secretary; Gretchen Yetter, Iowa City high school student, correspondent secretary, and Edna Rahlf of the university statistical service, treasurer.

The group also named ten council members. Elected for a two year term are Donald Sullivan, Featherstone, Louise Gingles, Miss Yetter and Miss Rahlf. Chosen for a one-year term are Miss Isaacs, Gordon L. Kent, Mrs. S. J. Ebert, Prof. C. C. Wylie of the physics department and Ebert.

The club has 48 active members at present. No additional members will be accepted until the new council adopts membership standards and by-laws. After that individuals will be required to qualify under the new regulations in order to be eligible for membership.

The reorganization of the club was considered necessary in order to meet national mountaineering club standards and to permit the proper supervision of the outdoor activities and the selection of active members possessing the necessary experience and physical qualifications for safe participation in outdoor activities.

Under the new standards outdoor activities will be presented less frequently, but are expected to attract a larger number of participants. The activities will be instructional as well as being aimed

Sergt. Howard Jacobs Serves as Radioman Educational Fraternity Meets, Elects Officers

Former president of the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce, Staff Sergt. Howard P. Jacobs, is now serving with the 442nd troop carrier group of the First allied airborne army in France, as a radio mechanic and operator in the communications department.

The smooth operation of the organization's airplanes, gliders and other equipment depends upon its system of communications, and it is Sergeant Jacobs' duty to see that all radio sets and navigational aids employed by the unit are maintained in perfect operating condition.

From D day to the present time the 442nd has dropped paratroops and glider-borne troops in six major aerial operations, including the Normandy invasion, landings in southern France, action in Italy and Holland and the battle for the relief of Bastogne. Their most recent and largest exploit was bridging the Rhine in advance of Montgomery's ground forces, when 42,000 British and American airborne troops with full equipment including radio sets, jeeps and howitzers were dropped behind the German defense.

In addition to his Eastern Theater of Operations ribbon, Sergeant Jacobs wears five bronze battle Stars and the gold-bordered blue ribbon which signifies a Presidential Citation received by his outfit for the Normandy invasion.

Sergeant Jacobs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jacobs, 608 Walnut street. His wife resides in St. Louis. Before entering the service in 1943, he was employed by the Nagle Lumber company.

Roosevelt Spills Hawklets, 5-3, To Advance to Finals

City High Rally Fails

Oxford Junction Falls To Wyman, 5 to 3 In Opening Contest

The City high Little Hawks fell in defeat yesterday afternoon in the finals of the state district baseball meet to the Rough Riders of Roosevelt (Cedar Rapids), 5 to 3, after battling uphill throughout the contest.

Roosevelt jumped into a four run lead in the first three innings at the expense of Russ Lackender, the starting Red and White hurler. Lackender was nicked for three of the four blows that the Rough Riders collected.

Hawklets Score
The Hawklets smoldered silently until the fourth when Snook walked, Lackender singled and Drake singled in succession, scoring two runs. They scored again in the sixth on two walks and Drake's double to center, but Lackender was called out at the plate in a very close play, ending a very promising rally.

Dick Drake, who took over the Hawklet mound chores in the third, limited the Roosevelt nine to a lone single, but gave up three walks, while his mates were erring two times, consequently allowing the Rough Riders to score twice more.

Rain Halts Contest
The game was halted in the second when a sudden downpour forced the players and spectators alike from the field. After a half hour's recess, the contest continued, but the soggy diamond, and wet infield hindered the infielders and pitchers alike.

Al Schamberger, the Roosevelt hurler was nicked for four hits, while his mates collected four off the combined efforts of Drake and Lackender. The Little Hawks made three errors, however, to the Rough Riders' one.

Oxford Junction Falls

In the opening contest of the afternoon, Wyman overcame a three run deficit to spill the favored Oxford Junction nine out of the tournament, 5 to 3.

Maurice Fink's double in the fifth with two men on drove in two runs and set up a third, enough to send the winners ahead. Fink's double was one of two doubles of the game, his teammate, Davis, connecting for one in the fourth with their man aboard. By virtue of their win, Wyman will meet the tough Roosevelt nine Monday morning at 9:30 for the championship of the district.

Cyclones Win Track Meet

LINCOLN, Nebr. (AP)—Iowa State's team strength won the Big Six outdoor track and field championship for the Cyclones here yesterday but Missouri's Bill Bangert grabbed the color by breaking a two-year-old shotput record by more than six inches.

The Cyclones scored but two first places—Bob Jones taking the 440 in :50.2 and the relay team of Max Burroughs, Bill Rowland, John Alexander and Jones winning in 3:26.5—in racking up 64 1/2 points.

Hawklets Take Fourth at Coe Valley Meet

The City high thincads finished fourth in the Mississippi Valley conference track meet held at Coe college yesterday. The Hawklet tracksters accumulated 42 points as compared with first place Davenport's 104 1/2.

Tag Wilson was again the leading point-getter for the Little Hawks, collecting a first place tie in the pole vault; a fifth place tie in the broad jump; first in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 11 inches; and fifth in the 120-yard high hurdles.

As was expected, Clinton pushed Davenport for the championship, and it wasn't until the final events had been run off was the champion decided.

Other Hawklets to place were:
Discus—Olson (second)
Two-mile relay—Nichols, Gunderson, Eakes, Housel (Second)
Football throw—Eakes (second)
880-yard-relay—Hudson, Bob Wilson, Fryauf, Coulter (fifth)
440-yard dash—Troyer (third)
440-yard relay—Miller, Hudson, Bob Wilson, Fryauf (fifth)
Mile relay—Gunderson, Eakes, Housel, Tryer (fourth)

MINNESOTA LOSES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota finished its dual track season yesterday by losing to Wisconsin, 61 to 56, although the Gophers took first place in eight of the 13 events. Both schools will go to the University of Illinois next week for the Big Ten meet. Ray Tharpe of Minnesota was high man with 11 points, scored on first in the broad jump and 220-yard low hurdles and third in the 100-yard dash. There were no relays because of the shortage of manpower on both teams.

49 points to 46 for Oklahoma, 41 for Nebraska, and 23 1/2 for Kansas.

Bangert set his record of 52 feet, 7 1/8 inches for the shot of his first throw in the morning preliminaries, thereby substituting his name for that of E. L. Ausseker, also of Missouri, who set the old record of 52 feet, 1/4 inch in 1943.

Missouri gave Iowa state a terrific battle, but never was a threat after Dale Dean and Bill Arlen ran second and third in the two mile to put the Iowans ahead 47 1/2 to 45 points.

Just before the two-mile run, Missouri had taken a 44 to 40 1/2 lead through the first place points of Bob Heinsohn in the high jump. "Doubles" were frequent with Bangert taking the shot and discus, Crowson the 100 and 220, Dean Kratz of Nebraska the mile and 800 and Orval Barker of Nebraska the 120 high hurdles and the 220 low hurdles. A high spot of the meet was Kratz's, thrilling one yard victory in the mile over Clarence Vicklund, Oklahoma's defending champion.

White Sox Spill Boston Again, 3 to 2

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Joe Cronin used four pinch hitters and two pinch runners in a six-batter ninth inning yesterday, but Frank Papish, a White Sox rookie southpaw, upset Boston's chess board by retiring pinch hitters Lloyd Christopher and Nick Polly to preserve a 3 to 2 victory for the league leaders.

Papish, a lefty who had seen only one inning's previous service this year, was rushed to the mound after the Red Sox, who were behind a run, loaded the bases on Johnny Humphries with one out. He set down Lloyd Christopher on three straight strikes and then got Nick Polly on a foul to the catcher on the second pitch.

Humphries, a veteran Chicago starter who was making his first appearance of the season, pitched five-hit ball the first eight innings, during which both runs off him were unearned.

Second Guess

Tough One To Lose Always Next Year

By ROY LUCE, Daily Iowan Sports Editor

YESTERDAY'S SEMI-FINALS of the state district baseball meet ended the wrong way, as far as the City High Little Hawks are concerned. It was a tough game for the Hawklets to lose, and nobody felt sadder about it than Russ Lackender, the losing pitcher. Russ was hit hard in the two innings he worked—hard enough anyway that the Rough Riders scored three runs.

Dick Drake, the boy who hurled a one-hit game against Lowden Friday, took over in the third and allowed the lads from the Parlor City only one hit. It took Dick about two innings before he settled down into the style he was throwing them against Lowden. Drake gave four walks, hit one man, and allowed one hit in the third and fourth frames—enough for Roosevelt to add two more tallies to their total. The Rough Riders were aided somewhat in these two frames by two Hawklet errors. From there on out, Drake was invincible, forcing the Roosevelt sluggers to pop out or ground out. He also fanned six, three of the strike outs coming in succession.

That Big Word—If
Besides that, Drake was the boy that almost led the game for the Little Hawks in the hitting department. In the fourth, he connected for a long single into center, scoring two men—and once again in the sixth he connected with two men—this time on a booming double into deep right center. One run scored and Russ Lackender was called out at the plate in a very-very close play. In fact, it looked to everyone in the grandstand, including the Roosevelt rooters, that he was laying on the plate when Medhus, the Rough Rider catcher, took the throw in. However, the ump, after first calling him safe, changed his decision, and swung his thumb back over his shoulder, signifying that he was out.

If Lackender had been safe at home, things might have been different for the Little Hawk cause. The score would have been 5 to 4, and Drake would have still been on second, in scoring position. Bob Oldis, always a dangerous man, was next on deck. It's hard to say—but we have a hunch that Oldis would have come through with that needed hit, if—well, it's a big word, isn't it? IF.

Expected Slaughter
Wyman's victory over Oxford Junction in the opening session yesterday afternoon, gives them the right to be slaughtered Monday morning at 9:30 by Roosevelt. And what a slaughter it will be. There is a tournament rule that says that if a team is ahead ten runs at the end of five innings, the game is automatically over. We feel that Monday morning's contest will be a short five inning affair. Roosevelt could pitch their bat boy and whip Wyman—and that, although it is not a known fact, is assumed to be true by most of the officials except, of course, the Wyman coach. They had no business beating Oxford Junction—yet they did. One big inning—(the same way they beat Deep River in the opening round) was all they needed. Kramer, the Oxford pitcher, was noticeably tired, and had trouble finding the plate in the critical moments. He went four scoreless innings in the opening round, which might have something to do with it. At least, we think the better team got beat—at least in his case.

More Polished
As for the Hawklets—as much as we hate to admit it, Roosevelt seemed to have a much more polished team—all the way around—than did City High. But it must be remembered that most of the Rough Riders are veteran ball players, who have played legion ball for many summers in Cedar Rapids. Some of them have even played in the industrial league there—which is a mighty tough league—for high school boys. While the Hawklets have not had any experience at all, so to speak. What little they knew about playing, they picked up by themselves. There is always a next year, and we look for the City high outfit to improve plenty by next season. Congratulations, Earl Sangster, on a wonderful season.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Four meet records were established here yesterday as Michigan piled up 97 points to Purdue's 25 in a dual track meet. Wolverine Archie Parsons cracked the half-mile mark with a 1:55.3 performance—feature of the meet. The old mark was 1:57.4. Dick Forrester and Charlie Bird-sall of Michigan set meet records in the 440 and two-mile respectively. Forrester ran the 440 in 49.8 seconds and Bird-sall covered the two-mile distance in 9:53.4.

Seahawks Spill Skyers In Ragged Game, 7 to 6

Martin Favors—

Honest Horse Racing

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—It's always easy to spend someone else's money, or tell him how to spend it, so it is no trouble at all to urge the horse racing folks to dig down in the sock and hire themselves a first-class czar.

Racing is off to a fresh start after its four-month vacation. That it is due for prosperity surpassing even its record season of last year is almost a foregone conclusion. The public as a whole has shown it wants racing, is hungry for it.

Should Be For Life
But it wants honest racing. It doesn't want jockeys, or owners, or trainers who have been barred for shady practices at one track operating at another. When a man is suspended for life, it should be for life.

It is said there are 70-some ways a horse can lose in a race honestly. That is gamble enough without being fearful that the horse isn't being allowed to make its best effort.

Racing Czar
A czar, a man of iron will and accepted integrity, would give the public confidence in the sport, and would make any would-be wrongdoers think twice before attempting any shenanigans. If a man connected with the game knew that if he were caught cheating he was through for life, he wouldn't try to cheat.

The idea is that the race bettors want to know they are getting an honest run for their dollar. They don't want to put their two bucks on a nag and, by the nag's performance, find out that the trainer just had him entered for the ride to condition him for future races.

They want to know that when a horse goes to the post it means the horse is ready to run, and that no attempt will be made to keep it from running.

Score Winning Tally In Last of Ninth On Ottumwa Error

In a ragged game that was called once because of rain, the Iowa Seahawks came from behind in the last few innings yesterday to spill the Ottumwa naval air station Skyers, 7 to 6.

The Cadets drew blood in the initial frame, scoring one run on one hit. Ottumwa retaliated in the third by scoring four runs on one hit, as Kaiser, the navy pitcher, had trouble with his control. He walked three and hit one batter with a pitched ball. After this outburst, it was an uphill fight for the navy until the eighth inning.

Scoring two more runs in their half of the third, the Seahawks came within one run of tying the count. In the home half of the fifth, Lou Rochelli slammed a long triple down the right field line, scoring Luke Majoriki with the tying run.

The winning Cadet tally came in the last of the ninth after Schoblein had walked, Majoriki singled and Rochelli walked. Coach Ral-liff then hit a slow grounder to the Skyer shortstop who threw to Scalzie at second. Scalzie's relay to first was low, and Schoblein scampered home with the winning run.

Monday, the Seahawks will return to college competition to face the strong University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Yanks Outfit Browns 11 to 7, But Fall In Defeat, 4 to 2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Browns made it two in a row over the New York Yankees here last night, winning by a score of 4 to 2 although outbait 11 to 7.

Johnny Lindell hit his first homer of the season in the fourth inning to give the Yankees a lead, but the Browns bounced back in their half of the same inning, scoring two runs on Gene Moore's double, a walk to Frank Mancuso and singles by Don Gutteridge and Tex Shirley.

The Browns added two more in the sixth without a hit. George McQuinn walked to open the inning and after Moore was out, Mancuso and Gutteridge walked filling the bases. Shirley was hit by a pitched ball to force in McQuinn and Mancuso scored on Pete Gray's long fly.

Miller to Be Here for Debut Of Composition

Dr. Ralph Dale Miller, composer of "Night Poem," is expected to be present at the first performance of his piece by the university orchestra Wednesday night. Dr. Miller received his M. A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1939 and his Ph. D. in 1942.

At present he is on the faculty of the State Teachers college at Duluth, Minn. Prior to his work at Iowa he attended the Illinois State Normal university, receiving his B. Ed. degree in 1936. During the next few years he led instrumental groups in high schools in Illinois and Iowa while taking his summer graduate work at the University of Iowa. Later he moved to Iowa City to complete this graduate work.

Born in Whitehall, Ill., in 1909, Dr. Miller attended public schools in Bloomington and Peoria, Ill., where he was active in ensemble performance. In those days there were not many openings for professional musicians, so he concentrated a while on study of draftsmanship. It was not until after his graduation from Illinois State Normal university that he turned entirely to music.

Dr. Miller has written a large number of compositions for various combinations of instruments, ranging from full orchestra to trios and quartets. His "Venus and Adonis" was premiered here in 1941. "Night Poem" is a short impressionistic number.

Other numbers included in the orchestra concert to be presented Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Iowa Union include "Symphony in E flat" (Mozart), "Eight Russian Folk songs," opus 58 (Liadov) and "Suite in D major," opus 39, (Dvorak).

Tickets for the concert are available at the information desk in Iowa Union and in room 110, music studio building.

Catching the Eye—Feminine Formals

—Go to Summer Dances

SEATED AT THE PIANO is Shirley Zeug, A3 of Newton, who is modeling a black summer formal. The dress is designed with wide black net cap sleeves and a bodice of chartreuse and canary yellow taffeta candy stripes. The black marquisette skirt falls into a wide flare. With it Shirley wears long black formal gloves. Marjorie Jacobson, A4 of Story City, has chosen a light blue chiffon formal, fashioned with a shirred bodice, gathered sleeves and a full skirt.

Every Iowa coed loves to dress up in a new summer formal and go dancing with the man in her life! Whether she chooses a fragile chiffon or cotton pique she will be in good taste if she keeps an eye to charm in simplicity.

Alyce Smith, A2 of Charles City, has selected a gown with a white tight fitting bodice of brocaded satin, narrow black straps and a very full skirt of white chiffonnet. The sleeves are three quarter length and she wears silver sandals to complete the effect.

A summer formal popular with university women is one such as the two-piece green linen of Bette Batta, A4 of Chillicothe, Mo. Her dress is sleeveless and may be worn with or without a white eyelet pique peplum blouse. A yoke extending over the shoulderline forms the cap sleeves and white rick-rack around the neck line and the sleeves adds further accent. The skirt is gathered at the waistline and extends into a full skirt.

For dancing under a June moon, Helen Huber, J3 of Clinton, has chosen a pale blue Victorian style dress of mousseline de sois. The dress is designed with drop shoulder ruffle of blue with pink edging. The full skirt is accented by a large pink bow caught in the hemline with a pink ribbon which extends around the skirt. White silk jersey formal gloves complete the ensemble.

Mercedes Horan, A4 of Lakewood, Ohio, has chosen a white slipper satin gown which is cut on the bias with a low neckline in back, a drop shoulder line, and full skirt. Mercedes wears pearls to give the dress additional appeal.

For that special prom or hop you might see Jo Hutchinson, A2 of Rock Rapids, wearing a nylon mesh lime green formal with scattered daisies decorating the skirt. The dress is fashioned with a round neckline trimmed by a small bow and cap sleeves. Jo wears gold earrings and a matching bracelet as accent.

Lieut. E. Schnoebelen Completes 18 Months Pacific Duty

Lieut. Eldon C. Schnoebelen

Lieut. Eldon C. Schnoebelen, (DC), USN, SUI graduate in dentistry 1942 and member of Psi Omega dental fraternity, is spending a 30-day leave with his wife and son at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Donohoe, 313 N. Dubuque street, after completing 18 months duty in the south Pacific aboard an aircraft carrier of the Independence class. His ship operated in the Third fleet under Halsey in task force 58.2, and participated in operations against the Marshalls, Truk, the Marianas, Palau, the invasion of New Guinea, first aircraft operation against Iwo Jima, the battle against the Philippine sea, strikes against the south China coast, first carrier raid on Tokyo, supported the invasion of Iwo Jima and strikes against Okinawa. The Japs were not the only menace, as Lieutenant Schnoebelen vividly recalls a typhoon of Philippine coast during which two destroyers were lost and others threatened by 105-knot winds.

"You see lots of Iowa men whenever you go into port," said the Lieutenant, who wears the Pacific theater ribbon with nine stars signifying nine major campaigns, and a Philippine campaign ribbon with two stars. He mentioned particularly his former classmates, Capt. Linden Sievers, also a Psi Omega, and Lieut. Darrell Johnson, whom he saw at Pearl Harbor.

Lieutenant Schnoebelen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Linus Schnoebelen, 830 E. Davenport street. He is married to the former Euna Marie Donohoe of Iowa City. After entering the service in April, 1943, he served at Great Lakes Naval Training Station and Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Maryland, before going overseas.

Lieutenant Schnoebelen is to report May 29 to San Francisco for further assignment.

Lieut. Nyle Jones Wins Croix de Guerre

Lieut. Nyle Jones

First Lieut. Nyle W. Jones Jr., a pilot of a B-17 Fortress bomber and son of Mrs. Nyle W. Jones Sr., 30 S. Governor street, has recently been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross and has received the award of the French Croix de Guerre with the Silver Star.

The citation reads, "At the time of the attack of Romans, August, 1944, Lieutenant Jones gave proof of spirit and of remarkable courage, which truly constitutes an example. He did not hesitate to expose himself to the precise gunfire of automatic arms of the enemy to personally inflict losses to the Germans."

At the time Lieutenant Jones volunteered for service in April, 1942, he was a member of the class of 1942 at the State University of Iowa. He entered training in January, 1943, and received his wings at Pampa, Tex., in March, 1944. He left the states in July 29, and was reported missing in action on Aug. 15, D-day for southern France, on his first mission. The nose had been shot from his plane by enemy flak and it was set on fire still carrying its full bomb load. Bailing out of the nose hatch a wind carried his parachute miles from their target and a safe landing was made after missing a high tension line by inches.

Four of their crew were able to join the French Maquis in the fighting to liberate Romans. After the area was freed of Germans, he was returned to his base in Italy. For burns and flak wounds, he received the Purple Heart, and later the Air Medal with Oak Leaf clusters for 10 combat missions, Bronze Stars for each of the three areas over which he has entered major engagements, Italy, France and Germany. In December, 1944, his squadron was honored with the Presidential Unit citation and before leaving Italy for home, Lieutenant Jones was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross. He has telephoned from an undisclosed eastern port of his safe arrival in the United States, and after visiting his wife in California, will fly to Iowa City before he reports for further training.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS—

1. No news . . . no excitement! Prescribed remedy: Why doesn't someone give or take back a pin?!
2. The rainy weather dampened everyone's spirits. However, we've been told that the sound of rain splashing against the windows and roof created an appropriate atmosphere for . . . conversation?
3. We'll be glad to see someone on campus once more . . . even the beginning freshmen in June . . . anything to make it hard to get in and out of Schaeffer Hall again.
4. The "Bluebeard" of the Campus—"Buck" Hanson—is raising a fine crop of whiskers. We wonder if he's heard of Gillette's Thin Blue Blades?
5. Why don't students show more interest in baseball games?—You don't know what you're missing!
6. —Would appreciate every bit of gossip that you could give us. Of course, we know most of it, but then, we admit that there are one or two things we don't catch.

We were sitting in the Soda Fountain at the Union Friday morning when we happened to glance out the window. And what did we see? One Navy Lieutenant and one charming girl having their pictures taken with a movie camera. The subjects were Mary Lou Sternberg, Kappa from another campus, and HER man. The pictures should be good 'cause they looked quite happy.

Did you know that it just costs one dollar per mile to go over the speed limit? That makes it kind of expensive to go 50 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone, doesn't it Dick Wonderly? Dick also learned the hard way that there is a $3.00 difference between stop and go.

We told you so!—Remember the little hint last week about Butch Neville and Gary Chinn? Now we're fairly bursting with pride at our powers of prophecy, for this week finds Butch back home in Emmetsburg, and with her, Gary's ATO pin.
