Churchill Retains Eden In Cabinet

Interim Government Till General Election Organized

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill retained Anthony Eden in the key post of foreign secretary in the "caretaker" cabinet he organized last night to carry on the British government until the general election July 5.

Sir James Grigg also was re-appointed secretary of war in the cabinet which temporarily replaces the coalition government broken up two days ago by a split between Churchill's Conservative party and the Labor party. The latter is campaigning for a British socialist commonwealth.

Two major posts, important in the war against Japan, were shifted to new hands, however. The prime minister named Brendan Bracken, former minister of information, as first lord of the admiralty and gave the air secretary post to Harold Macmillan, former resident minister in North Africa.

A. V. Alexander, former first lord of the admiralty—who directs naval policies—and Sir Archibald Sinclair, former air secretary, were among the 30 Labor and Liberal ministers who stepped out of the coalition government with which Churchill had prosecuted the war since 1940.

It was the Labor party's refusal to stay in the coalition government until the end of the Japanese war which resulted in Churchill's resignation Wednesday and the forcing of the first nationwide election in 10 years.

Churchill was immediately re-commissioned by King George VI, however, to head an interim government pending the election which will determine whether Churchill as head of the Conservative party is returned to power or whether he gives way to a successor of another party. Some observers believe that if the Conservatives are returned Churchill will keep most of the interim cabinet ministers.

In the new cabinet Churchill replaced the departing Laborites and Liberals mostly with members of his own party, although he picked up a few with other parties in keeping with a previous announcement that he would invite "all men of good will of any party or no party" to help bridge the election gap.

The announcement said the posts of resident minister at allied force headquarters in the Mediterranean, formerly held by MacMillan, and the resident minister in Washington for supply, formerly held by Ben Smith, would not be filled ministerially.

President Stresses Intensified Campaign For Home Gardening

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman laid new stress on the ever-tightening food shortage yesterday by giving White House backing to an intensified campaign for home growing and preserving.

A special division for home food supply, headed by Paul C. Stark of Louisiana, Mo., was set up in the war food administration.

The White House announcement, which urged citizens to increase their victory garden efforts and called preserving "as important as production," came just after a congressional food investigator had reported plans for a deep cut in industrial sugar supplies.

On another troubled food front OPA Administrator Chester Bowles reported growing success against the meat black market with a recent increase in his investigating staff.

Two Die in Bus, Truck Collision

DES MOINES (AP) — The death toll of a collision early yesterday between an automobile transport truck and a bus carrying home swing shift workers from the Des Moines ordnance plant remained at the original two late yesterday, with three of the 12 injured reported in critical condition at Des Moines hospitals.

Four of those injured in the accident on highway 6 west of Altona, were released from one hospital after emergency treatment.

N. B. (Mike) Nelson, state highway patrolman, arrested Raymond Smith, 34, Davenport, driver of the truck. No charges had been filed against Smith late yesterday.

Troops Find Money Buried by Himmler

Million Dollar Cache Discovered by Yanks In Austrian Tyrol

PARIS (AP) — United States troops in Berchtesgaden unearthed yesterday Heinrich Himmler's currency hoard—valued at around $1,000,000—as the body of the ruthless chieftain of the gestapo still lay in a Luenenberg villa two days after he committed suicide.

While the British pondered where and how to bury Himmler, American troops at Kitzbuehel in the Austrian Tyrol arrested another of his henchmen, SS Gen. Karl Ober, known as "the butcher of Paris" in the occupation days when he was police director for the capital and northern France.

As the roundup of war criminals proceeded, Justice Robert S. Jackson, American prosecutor of war crimes, arrived in Paris to begin laying the groundwork for his assignment.

Himmler's hoard, containing the currency of 26 countries but none from America, was discovered under a barn near Berchtesgaden by American officers.

They were led to the cache by Waffen SS Lt. Gen. Berger, who said he had hidden the money there on Himmler's orders although the money belonged to the Reich.

As for Himmler's body, the British still were debating whether to bury him at a funeral in the presence of German military and civilian big-wigs.

9 Killed, 52 Injured In Arsenal Explosion

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md. (AP) — Nine persons were killed and 52 persons were injured at 2:28 p. m. (CWT) yesterday afternoon when a severe explosion occurred in a loading plant at Edgewood arsenal.

Two of the 52 persons injured, all of whom were taken to the station hospital, were said to be in dying condition. Names of the dead and injured were not immediately available.

Lieut. Col. Paul M-Gahan, assistant public relations officer for the command, said that firemen and equipment still were fighting the big blaze and that an especially heavy guard detail had been thrown around the arsenal grounds.

All outsiders were banned from the area, McGahan said, "in the interest of national security." A special board of officers already has been appointed to conduct an immediate investigation.

Hopkins in Moscow

MOSCOW, (AP) — Harry Hopkins arrived by plane yesterday on a special mission for President Truman.

The presidential advisor was met at the Moscow airport by Andrei Vishinski, vice-commissar for foreign affairs. They greeted each other warmly. Vishinski inquired after Hopkins' health. Hopkins then presented his wife to the Soviet official.

Tito Accepts U. S., British Occupation North of Trieste

TRIESTE (AP) — Yugoslav forces have accepted American and British occupation of territory north of here in a friendly spirit, allied officers said last night, and have been taking down all concrete road blocks between Trieste and the border of Yugoslavia.

The road blocks were removed to speed traffic and relieve a serious food shortage spreading through the disputed area.

It is assumed that the Yugoslavs took up new positions opposite the new allied line running east of Isonzo river, which Marshal Tito's forces originally considered the western line of their occupation zone.

Iowa Lags $3,900,000 In War Bond Drive

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa is still approximately $3,900,000 behind the pattern for this date set by the treasury department for the series E bond sales in the Seventh War Loan drive, the state war finance committee reported yesterday.

The committee said Iowa had made a gain of $1,400,000 on its E bond goal of $82,000,000, bringing sales registered through Wednesday by the federal reserve bank at Chicago up to $29,400,000.

Fire Bombs Rain on Tokyo

Superforts Drop 4,000 Tons of Incendiaries On Government District

21ST BOMBER COMMAND, Guam, Saturday (AP) — Tokyo's governmental district was showered early today with 4,000 tons of concrete-cracking fire bombs from 500 Superfortresses. Returning pilots agreed it was unlikely that the emperor's imperial palace area escaped unscathed.

Striking in moonlight while fires still smoldered from the 4,500 tons dropped Thursday in an adjacent industrial sector, the B-29's hit a district corresponding to Washington's Pennsylvania avenue.

The strong possibility existed that the imperial palace, the army and navy departments and the diet (parliament) buildings were hit by the fire bombs although none was set specifically as a target.

Returning pilots all agreed that in area bombing such as was called for on the raid, chances were slight for the bombs to at least miss the palace grounds.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we singed the emperor's hair a little," said Billy Spence, of Gladewater, Tex., tail gunner on the Superfortress.

The buildings in the area supposedly were fireproof and earthquake proof but returning pilots reported the flames were making good headway through the sector.

The Marianas-based B-29's sped over the Nipponee capital at medium altitude in early morning darkness. Crewmen could see the smoldering remains of at least a 3.2 square mile area sprayed with 4,500 tons in the record breaking 550-plane raid early Thursday.

Target for today was the Marunouchi business district which includes the imperial government center and many so-called earthquake proof buildings best and modern in the empire, and neighboring war plants and docks.

There was no immediate report of losses among yesterday's striking force, nor the reception of the planes received from anti-aircraft fire or interceptor aircraft.

The Chinese high command reported Thursday that the Japanese had landed French troops from warships north of Foochow in one of the areas where the enemy fears an American invasion armada may sweep in from the sea.

Reeducation of Germany
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war department announced yesterday a drastic cutback in aircraft production which means that 17,000 airplanes in or scheduled for production during the next year and a half will not be manufactured.

The department said the cutback was "made possible by the end of the war in Europe and curtailment of lend-lease."

The reduction, army air forces said, affects "most of the nation's existing aircraft producers in various sections of the country."

The cut-backs were approved by the production readjustment committee of the war production board, and manufacturers were notified of the downward revision in schedules.

On the basis of the weight of airplanes, total production during the second half of 1945 will be 70 per cent of the total weight produced in the first six months of the year.

Production in the first half of 1946 will drop to 60 per cent and in the second half to 55 per cent.

Stettinius Returns to Conference—

Big Power Domination Unsettled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Secretary of State Stettinius returned to the United Nations conference yesterday as it edged into its second month with enough progress on the books to let military experts talk of joint maneuvers of armed forces to be pooled in an international police force.

June 6 was being discussed as a tentative date for winding up the deliberations.

But land and sea forces may enter the picture. Australia has proposed that other forces than air power be employed for emergency action. The committee handling the problem delayed a vote on it to give Britain and the United States time to finish their discussions and submit them to Russia, China and France.

For the most part, conference committees were moving along easily, drafting various segments of the charter so they can be fitted together next week.

To clear the way for action in one committee considering the creation of a police force, Britain and the United States were reported framing a plan for joint maneuvering of the contingents to be supplied by the various countries.

They are talking particularly of air squadrons, since the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for a charter contemplates letting the security council use hard-hitting planes for "urgent military measures" against aggressors.

France urges the allies to "invite" the resignation of Generalissimo Franco, whose regime was forced on Spain with the aid of Hitler and Mussolini, was made yesterday by the French foreign affairs committee.

An army spokesman said the Chinese drive was not more than seven miles from Ishan, only 43 miles from Luichow which is a keystone to Japan's overland route to Indo-China.

The buildings in the area supposedly were fireproof and earthquake proof but returning pilots reported the flames were making good headway through the sector.

An army spokesman said the Chinese drive was not more than seven miles from Ishan after a 23-mile gain that overwhelmed Hwaiyuanchen, on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway 50 miles northwest of the rail lines and air base of Luichow.

Back of these boding enemy lines in Kwangsi province, the Chinese said the Japanese were reforming their 54th and 80th divisions, badly mauled in the lost battle of Burma.

The ultimate objective of an all-out drive against the Indo-China corridor would be to cut off such forces along with other enemy troops in the south to prevent their moving north for the climactic battles of China.

There was no immediate report of losses among yesterday's striking force, nor the reception of the planes received from anti-aircraft fire or interceptor aircraft.

The Chinese high command reported Thursday that the Japanese had landed French troops from warships north of Foochow in one of the areas where the enemy fears an American invasion armada may sweep in from the sea.

Improved Weather
For Vicinity Today

Today's weather will be pretty much like yesterday's, with improvements. We probably had some rain early this morning but from now on it should be clearing. It won't be as cloudy as yesterday but it will be warmer. All in all, a fine day for planting your garden.

Temperatures yesterday stayed well up in the scale. The low in the morning was a high 58, the high for the day was 77 and at 12:30 this morning it was 62, a very good indication that it should be warm indeed today.

Senator Mercer Explains Point of Law in Test Case--

By Joe Mather
Daily Iowan City Editor

The point of law involved in the test case filed in district court Thursday on the new gasoline tax act is whether or not the act contains two separate, unrelated subjects: increasing the gasoline tax and allowing county boards of supervisors to increase their levies for secondary road maintenance if they wish.

This point was considered when amendments to the original bill were being discussed in the legislature, according to State Senator LeRoy S. Mercer.

The original bill provided only for optional increases in property taxes for maintaining and constructing secondary roads. The increased gasoline tax was added by the house after the senate had passed the original bill.

Objections to Amendments

When the amendment raising the gasoline tax from three to four cents a gallon was offered, the point was raised as to whether or not the amendment was germane to the original bill.

The speaker of the house ruled that the bill as amended dealt with only one subject. The bill was then passed by the house, its amendments concurred with by the senate, and the bill became law.

In the petition filed in district court here, a petition for injunction to restrain the state treasurer and the county board of supervisors from acting under the act's provisions, the plaintiff, L. V. Carlton, charges that the act is unconstitutional because it contains two distinctly different subjects.

He charges that the act, SF 229, violates section 29 of article III of the state constitution. This section reads:

"Every act shall embrace but one subject, and matters properly connected therewith; which subject shall be expressed in the title. But if any subject shall be embraced in an act which shall not be expressed in the title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be expressed in the title."

Senator Mercer explained that the original bill contained only one section which gave county boards of supervisors optional authorization to increase their levies for secondary road construction and maintenance from three to five mills.

Title of Original Bill

The title of the original Senate File 229 was "A Bill for an Act to amend Section Four Thousand, Six Hundred and Forty-four and eleven hundredths, (4644.11), Code, 1939, relating to Secondary Roads and Optional Maintenance Levies."

Bills to raise the gasoline tax by one cent a gallon had been introduced into both houses of the legislature. However, these bills were in the sifting committees and opponents of the increased tax were strong enough to prevent either bill from ever coming out of the committee.

The Colburn amendment was accepted by the house and the bill passed and was sent back to the senate.

The title was enlarged by the house with the addition

"and to provide additional revenue for the construction and maintenance of secondary roads by amending certain sections of chapter 251.3, Code, 1939, as amended by chapter 165, Acts of the 50th General Assembly."

The senate concurred with the amendments added by the house and passed the bill by a vote of 41 to 8. "Yes, I voted for it," Senator Mercer said.

Backers of Bill

The original bill was backed by legislators from southern Iowa, where the secondary roads aren't in such good condition and where the county boards of supervisors do not have sufficient funds for construction and maintenance.

Legislators from counties in the northern part of the state were not especially interested in allowing county boards of supervisors to raise taxes for road maintenance. Many legislators felt that the increased gasoline tax was a good thing because it gave part of its revenue to the cities and towns of the state.

Opponents of the Act

The most powerful opponents of the bill were lobbyists for trucking firms and oil companies. These persons had many excellent arguments on why the gasoline tax should not be increased.

Despite this opposition, the bill with both provisions was passed and will go into effect July 4 unless declared unconstitutional by the court.

"It's up to the court to decide whether or not the act contains two subjects are one and is unconstitutional or constitutional," Senator Mercer said.

"I am sure that the speaker of the house obtained an opinion from the attorney general and perhaps the governor before giving his ruling on the Avery objection to the Colburn amendment."

Postwar Occupation Time—

By Kenneth L. Dixon

OCCUPIED GERMANY (AP)—There is nothing like a good band concert to pass away postwar occupation time—and if you are going in for that, you might as well get the best.

GI's located around the town of Bad Brambach deep in Germany are getting such concerts regularly now, thanks to the 16th regiment of the First Infantry division.

When the regiment moved into town a couple of weeks ago, it discovered it had bagged the entire personnel of the world-famous Dresden operatic orchestra.

Lieut. Col. Edmund Discoll, who was considered quite a music lover back in his home town of Malverne, N. Y., commands the regiment. He felt it was a shame to let such talent go to seed. So he called in Lieut. Anthony Zack, Uniontown, Pa., who hired a hall and made the necessary arrangements.

Since the orchestra had played countless "command performances" in a majority of European capitals, including several in the Berlin opera house, Zack suggested they might like to play a "benefit performance"—for the benefit of the doughboys.

The musicians seemed happy to cooperate and have been playing regularly to enthusiastic audiences. When the first concert closed, someone asked Colonel Driscoll what he thought of it.

"In my opinion," he replied diplomatically, "the Germans make much better musicians than fighters."

Counter-intelligence corps agents working with the 13th corps hit a new linguistic high the other day with this lineup:

The War Against Japan—

By J. M. Roberts Jr.

The war against Japan has reached approximately the same stage as that attained by the war in Europe at the beginning of 1944.

That is not to say that it will be over in 17 months. It merely means that the sons of heaven have been pressed back to their central core of defenses, and that the process of softening by air is really getting under way.

Aside from mopping up actions in areas already penetrated, and a possible lopping off of Japanese outposts in such places as Borneo, Java and Singapore, the next several months are likely to be occupied largely by the burgeoning air offensive.

The recent raids on Japan stand about on a par with the early B-17 raids on Germany. They indicate that Saipan now bases just about as many superfactories as it will hold, that new bases have to be, and are being developed.

The chief of these, of course, is Okinawa. From there bombers and fighters of every type will soon be taking off from every available space—and there is a lot of it. They will have several duties—to neutralize Formosa and the China coast, blockade Japan's sea approaches, and soften the main islands for ultimate invasion.

They will be aided on the west and south from the Philippines, from China by the 14th airforce, which already has done tremendous damage to Japan's communications with the continent, and probably from Burma by the British.

This latter is one of the more important factors. Burma's eastern coastal area can accommodate numerous bases for the great Halifax and Lancaster bombers which carry the block-busters and the 22,000-pound bombs over long ranges.

Recently Released From Prison Camp—

Prisoner of War

By Lieut. David A. Englander

Talking with our German captors about America was one thing; mention of Russia was another!

"Russia" was a word that quickly brought shudders or grimaces or a quick shake of the head more eloquent than words.

I noticed that many wore the ribbon of service on the eastern front.

His tone at first was arrogant.

He insisted on walking around me to inspect the contour of my head.

He seemed dubious about its classic Nordic beauty. He was tall, lean, blonde and immaculate except for an unshaved face.

I noticed that many wore the ribbon of service on the eastern front.

So I asked: "How about the campaign in Russia?"

"Russen," spouted one. "Russen—nich gut—die Russen sind schrecklich." (The Russians are no good—they are terrible.)

He had begun to wave his arms and make wry faces when one of the officers walked over. They quieted. The officer wanted to talk.

An infantry first lieutenant, he was the first German I had seen who resembled the Nazi propaganda picture of the "Aryan superman." He was tall, lean, blonde and immaculate except for an unshaved face.

I began to wonder what, if anything, I would say when a firing squad leveled its guns at me. I decided that, as a last gesture of defiance, I would sing our national anthem.

Fantastic ideas came and went and some now are as unrealistic as events in a dream. Thus, I remembered suddenly that my voice had never been able to hit the high notes of "The Star Spangled Banner" and that, at the last moment, I would have to compromise with "America."

A small open car had come up. It was of German make. It stopped directly in front of us. We were motioned into it and driven off.

As we left, I flashed a final glance at the diggers. They were up to their chests now, but not too busy for a last-dour look at us. I still don't know why they were digging those holes.

The car took us to a cafe in Eschweiler. There we were turned over to a German master sergeant who was charged with the evacuation of prisoners of war. His main function, however, seemed to be to hit the glasses of Wehrmacht officers who stopped by for a drink.

I grinned and shrugged my shoulders, and he walked away in a hurry.

As soon as he was out of sight, Bob Wright nudged me. "Lieutenant," he whispered, pointing straight ahead, "do you see what I see?"

I did. Across the road, their coats stripped off, two German soldiers had begun digging holes. They would dig for a while and each time they paused to rest for a moment on their shovels, they looked over at us.

We watched, with a growing sense of discomfort, as the holes grew from small two-foot gaps in the earth to trenches about six feet long. Quickly they began to deepen their holes.

Wright and I looked at one another. Wright whispered: "Graves?" I said: "What else?" For they were not to be graves, they were excellent facsimiles.

Suddenly the Nazi officer came back. He wanted to talk again, but I had no further interest in sounding him out. I kept looking at the grave diggers and they kept looking back at me. Annoyed by my silence, the officer turned for a moment, then he looked straight at me.

"I will not bother you with further questions," he said. His face was impulsive. His voice was toneless, cold as he added: "Where you are going you will not have to worry about this—or any war."

He walked away.

At that moment there seemed to be but one thing to do in the face of such a verdict—I might try a break and get away. At least, I would be shot trying.

I looked quickly at the Germans around us, wondering how far we might get should we try to escape. Suddenly my wounded legs seemed particularly stiff and painful. I knew I could not possibly get far.

British Find Burma Inland Port Desolated

CALCUTTA (AP)—British troops taken by boat up the Basen river in southern Burma found the inland port city of Basen deserted by the Japanese, a southeast Asia communiqué said yesterday.

The Japanese destroyed the main jetties but the small jetties were in fair condition in the city, which had a peacetime population of approximately 46,000 and is an important seat for the rice trade. The port is about 88 miles west of captured Rangoon.

Court to Hear Case On Tax Act Soon

City, County to Get More Road Money If Law Constitutional

The test case on the state increased gasoline tax act filed in district court here Thursday will probably be heard within a few weeks. County Attorney Jack C. White, who will defend the county board of supervisors in the action, said yesterday that all parties involved want to get the matter settled before the act is to go into effect on July 4.

Johnson county and Iowa City officials are extremely interested in the case because if the act is declared unconstitutional, it will mean that they will not be able to collect more than a hundred thousand dollars in taxes for road and street improvements.

The case, brought by L. V. Carlton, Iowa City real estate agent, is in the form of an injunction to restrain the state treasurer from collecting the one cent increase in gasoline taxes authorized by the act, known as SF 229.

Carlton's petition also asks that the county board of supervisors be restrained from increasing the property tax levied for secondary road maintenance under the optional authorization stated in the act.

If the law goes into effect and is not declared unconstitutional by the courts, the county board of supervisors would be able to raise $90,000 in increased revenue for road maintenance by raising the property tax levy for road maintenance from three to five mills.

The board can use its own discretion in increasing the property tax for this purpose. The act is optional.

From the increased revenue from the additional one cent a gallon gasoline tax a certain amount is given to cities and towns for use in maintaining their streets. This amounts to about 50 cents per capita.

For Iowa City that means nearly $9,000 more that could be spent on the city's streets.

Carlton is represented by Edward L. O'Connor and D. C. Noller. Attorney General John M. Rankin will represent John M. Grimes, treasurer of state, and County Attorney White will defend the county board of supervisors in the action.

Judge Harold D. Evans will hear the case in district court here. He has not set a time for the hearings but it was apparent yesterday that all parties would like to have the matter settled before July 4 when the act is to go into effect.

Harry A. Thomas Dies at Home

Funeral services for Harry A. Thomas, 63, who died yesterday morning at his home, 20 E. Market street, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Presbyterian church. Dr. Iliion T. Jones, pastor, will be in charge.

He had suffered a heart ailment for some time and moved to Iowa City from Union township in order to receive medical care.

He was born Dec. 19, 1880, in the family home in Union township, the son of Robert M. and Melinda Jones Thomas. He lived there his entire life until moving to Iowa City six weeks ago.

Mr. Thomas served as a trustee for the AAA and was a prominent stock breeder and cattle feeder in this county. For many years he farmed with his brother, Robert Thomas.

Bond Sales Reach Mark Of $90,753

JUNE 10

The sale of war bonds in Iowa City has jumped $90,753 since Wednesday, helped considerably by the sale of $16,825 in bonds by Iowa City theaters for the War Bond premiere movie "It's a Pleasure," to be shown May 29 at the Englert theater.

The total bond purchases in Iowa City stand at $522,058 with one-half of the drive over. Johnson county ranks 47th among the counties of Iowa and has sold 36% of the quota of $2,036,000.

Co-chairmen Frank D. Williams and Ben S. Summerwill have announced a meeting Monday night of representatives of all civic organizations to make plans to increase the sale of "E" bonds.

Albert Davis, theater war bond chairman, announced that 284 persons have bought bonds for the premiere, and there are plenty of seats remaining to be sold.

Workshop Registrants Bring Home-School Cooperation Projects

Projects from their own communities will be brought by registrants to the university's first workshop on home-school cooperation June 14-19, according to Prof. Ralph Ojemann, workshop coordinator.

Pointing out that different communities will present different problems, he said that the students can work quickly toward the solutions under the guidance of persons from the state university, Iowa State college and State Teachers college.

Examples of projects are preparation of a series of teaching units on parent-teacher cooperation for a teachers' college course, how to learn about home environment of each pupil and the effect of school activities on a child's behavior at home.

Afternoon sessions will be in the form of lecture-discussion meetings. The project has been organized in cooperation with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Recipes for Entertaining—

Sergeant O'Leary's Bride

By MARY LOU
A wise mother-in-law has Sergeant O'Leary.

She enjoys entertaining, is never too weary.

"No kitchen slaving" is her motto.

Her recipes are simple and fun to follow.

Sergeant O'Leary's wife had a wonderful mother! Not only did she teach her daughter to cook, but she loved cooking herself, and her friends welcomed the occasions when she interrupted her busy routine for an afternoon of fun and good eating.

Once she did herself proud with the shower she gave her daughter and when lunch was over, the guests, all eager, but very inexperienced cooks, clamored for the recipes she had used.

She'd taken just one morning to prepare this food, although it appeared elaborate. The luncheon consisted of:

gingerale lemonade
eggs and mushrooms a la king
tomato and lettuce salad
Ocean Crest Bavarian cream dessert

The young guests copied the recipes carefully, after giving their promise to report the results when they tried them.

Stuffed eggs a la King
8 hard boiled eggs
1 small can mushrooms

Roosevelt Spills Waterloo 1-0 For State Prep Crown

Schamberger Hurls No-Hitter

Rough Riders Score
Lone Run in Fifth
On Single, Bunt

MANSON (AP)—Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids, playing its first year of baseball, yesterday defeated East Waterloo, 1 to 0, to win the state high school baseball championship. Al Schamberger, Cedar Rapids pitcher, was credited with a no-hit victory.

The winning run was made in the fifth inning by George Schamberger, who came in on a hit by Bill Tylee. The only Waterloo man to get to first base was Ralph Anderson, who walked in the sixth.

Schamberger's cousin, Ray Schamberger, scored the game's lone run in the fifth. He opened the inning with a bloop single to right field and went around to third as Manny Wise bunted and was safe when the throw to first was in the dirt.

After Bill Tylee had fanned, a squeeze play was enacted with Dewey Rudd at bat. Rudd missed the pitch, but Schamberger with a good lead and quick start slid safely into home plate.

Before its defeat, East Waterloo had won 16 straight games this season. Cedar Rapids got four hits off Dick Orth and was charged with one error, while Waterloo was charged with one muffed.

Seahawks Face Skyers Today; Tackle Wisconsin Here Sunday

Cadets Hold Previous Victories Over Both Badgers, Ottumwa

It will be a busy week end for the Iowa Seahawk baseballers as they take to the road today to face the Ottumwa Naval Air Station and come home on Sunday to take on a strong University of Wisconsin nine.

The navy will be seeking their fourth straight victory of the season when they meet the Skyers in a return encounter. Coach Carlos Ratliff's men have previously defeated the Skyers 7-6, here. Since that time the Seahawk team has taken on some early season polish, and they reached their peak for the season so far by defeating Wisconsin 9-5 Tuesday at Madison.

Gene Jaroch, the Wisconsin pitcher, was battered off the mound by the Seahawk blows which included several extra base knocks. Defensively, the club also improved for only one error was committed.

Luke Majorki is the leading slugger of the team with a hefty .455 average. He has five hits in 11 times at bat. John Burrell, right fielder has a .400 figure with McGrath coming in third with .375.

Another bright spot in the Seahawk picture is the performance of John Crew as a pitcher in the Wisconsin contest. Crew allowed only seven blows and showed throughout the contest that he is capable of pitching winning ball. That means that Coach Ratliff will have Steve Stuka, Henry Kaiser and Crew ready for active duty.

Western Conference Grants Right to Play On Neutral Floors

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Athletic directors of the Western conference, who last winter passed a ruling prohibiting members from playing basketball on "neutral" floors, yesterday granted three schools permission to do so the next year.

Wisconsin, Northwestern and Indiana were the three schools affected. The directors, meeting on the eve of the 45th annual conference track meet, granted permission to Wisconsin to play Marquette one game in the Milwaukee auditorium, Northwestern to play in Chicago stadium and Indiana to play in the Louisville, Ky., stadium.

The directors also appointed James Maska of Chicago, for 40 years an official in the Western conference, as an assistant to Commissioner Kenneth I. (Tug) Wilson. Maska's principal duty will be assignment and administration of officiating in the conference.

AL SCHAMBERGER, Roosevelt Rough Rider hurler came within one man of a perfect game yesterday as he pitched his team to a no-hit, no-run state championship title. One East Waterloo man, Ralph Anderson, walked in the sixth inning to spoil Schamberger's dream of a perfect game.

And we might add that Schamberger, more or less, spoiled our predictions for this tournament. Yes, we still have the old towel out and are crying lustily. Yesterday, we said that Elkader would have beaten Roosevelt if their ace, Jack Dittmer, had hurled. And then, yesterday morning, we found that Dittmer did hurl. We, very trustingly, went out on a limb by taking The Associated Press story that Drahm pitched the Elkader-Roosevelt game, and then went ahead and expounded no end on why the Warriors should have won instead of the Rough Riders. By all right, we should eat those words right now and forget all about it.

Better Ball

Anybody who saw the Iowa City tournament certainly realizes that Roosevelt must have played better ball in the state finals than they did here. They would have to. It would be utterly impossible for them to win if they had played at Manson as they did here. We know—because we have seen Elkader in action and know that the Rough Riders could not have touched them if they have been playing the same brand of ball that they played in the Iowa City district.

Coach Earl Sangster can certainly be proud of his Little Hawk charges. The Rough Riders hold a 5 to 3 district tournament victory over them—a hard earned victory at that. For a team that never played baseball before, the City high Hawketts did more than all right. They were—as the old saying goes—plenty "hep."

A Big 'Bull'

As far as that goes, it is also the first year for Roosevelt in organized baseball—but, the Rough Riders have been functioning together as a team for a number of years, something the Little Hawks haven't. They have played American Legion ball in Cedar Rapids for several years—last year presenting one of the most powerful teams in the state—and practically the entire team made up the original Rough Rider nine of this year. So—although, it will go down in the record books as a team that played its first season of baseball and won the state championship in reality, it will not be true.

And little Wyman, a team that didn't know the word, or meaning of "defeat"—what a moral victory it must be to them to have Roosevelt, the team that barely eked out a 1 to 0 district tournament victory over them, win the state title.

There is probably more celebrating going on in Wyman than there is in Cedar Rapids. And rightfully so. They more than have a reason to be proud.

That is baseball; a game where nothing is decided until the last out is made in the ninth inning; a game that has more thrills per hour than any other, except perhaps, basketball; a game that attracts more thousands of fans per year than any other sport.

Yes, Roosevelt is the state champion, and we, for one, offer our congratulations. We are mighty proud, as are the City high Little Hawks, to have been host to them in the district meet here last week.

Michigan's Wolverines—

Big Ten Favorites

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Unless there's a phenomenal upset, Michigan's Wolverines appear headed toward an easy victory in their quest for a third straight Western conference track championship here today.

A survey of the field—and the entire middle distance line-up is dominated by Michigan—showed the Wolverines to be almost certain of 40 to 45 points in the meet.

Illinois, beaten only by a point, 55 1/10 to 54 1/10, in the conference indoor meet two months ago, seemed out of the running for the title, but ahead of the rest of the field for the runner-up spot. The most competition should be in a third-place scrap among Minnesota, Ohio State and Purdue.

Class of Three Events

Aside from Bob Kelley of Illinois in the half mile, and possibly the mile, Michigan's middle distance aces appeared the class of three—880, 800 and two-mile. Kelley, defending champion in the half-mile and 440-yard dash, should take the Iowa City meet.

Michigan's Julian Witherspoon,

Minnesota's Mark Brownstein and

Purdue's Boris Dimancheff are possible winners in the event unless Buster is in form.

Kelley, if he has reached top condition, should take the 440-yard dash. But there were other schools who could rival Illinois in the two sprints. Bill Buster, the Illini's champion in the two events indoors, also has been off the track with a pulled leg muscle.

Enrollment to Increase—

SUI Foreign Students

With the end of the war in Europe, an increasing number of students from other countries may be expected on the Iowa campus this summer and next fall. At the present time, more than 50 men and women are continuing their advanced work here in such fields as dentistry, pharmacy, hydraulic engineering, journalism, child welfare and medicine. They represent approximately 15 countries and two outlying possessions of the United States—Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Of this group, 13 are from China. The majority are working in the field of hydraulic engineering, but others are in medicine, physical education, child welfare, chemistry and statistics. Eight students arrived recently under the new plan of the Chinese government which releases students to come to the United States to study.

Twenty-seven Latin Americans represent 10 republics and Puerto Rico. The countries are Panama, Brazil, Costa Rica, Peru, Chile, Venezuela, El Salvador, Colombia, Mexico and Cuba. Five of the South Americans are studying medicine and five engineering. Other fields in which they are taking work are pharmacy, dentistry and physical education.

Students Have Scholarships

Most of these students have scholarships, one-third of which are sponsored under the Institute for International Education. Some have scholarships from civic groups, some have tuition exemptions granted by the University of Iowa.

Ten other students come from Iceland, England, Belgium, Iraq and Turkey. As varied as their homelands are their major fields, which range from advanced swimming to bio-chemistry.

Fourteen of these men and women have arrived since January, according to Margaret Ems, adviser to foreign students in the office of student affairs. Miss

Let's Go - PUT THE BIG DRIVE OVER!

- ★ The Seventh War Loan is an "all out" call to victory.
- ★ No American can falter. No American can afford not to answer this vital call.
- ★ Victory comes high. Every day it is delayed costs us dearly in American blood and lives.
- ★ Last year there were two War Bond Drives by this time. The Seventh is doubly big because it's two drives in one.
- ★ That's why this is the most urgent war loan of the war. No matter how many bonds you bought in the past, you must buy more in this great Seventh.
- ★ If you have any income, from any source—whether from work, land or capital—you have a personal quota to make in the 7th. Look for it in the box to the right.
- ★ We must all buy bonds in proportion. Let's meet our quota—let's exceed it if we can.
