Marines Take Shuri Castle On Okinawa

Fighting Moves To High Ground East of Fortress

GUAM, Thursday (AP)—Leathernecks of the First marine division raised the American flag over Okinawa's Shuri castle at 1:45 p. m. yesterday. Old Glory went up as marines on the west flank and doughboys on the east moved to encircle Japanese survivors in the moated medieval fortress.

An official spokesman said the flag-raising signaled capture of the castle, until recently the headquarters of the Japanese commander on Okinawa. Front dispatches said the marines were mopping scattered enemy pockets inside the castle and fighting on high ground immediately to the east.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported today that marines of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First division strengthened and built up their positions in the castle ruins, first reached Tuesday in a swift dash by Company A of the Fifth regiment, led by Capt. Julius Quenberry of Charlotte, N. C.

On the west flank, Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr.'s Sixth marine division veterans pushed southeastward from occupied Naha toward the Kokuba river, which empties into Naha harbor. Nearly all of Naha, blasted capital of Okinawa, is in Yank hands.

On the east flank Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh infantry division, driving westward, captured high ground near the town of Yonawa, near American-held Yonabaru harbor.

The objective on both flanks is to close a circle about a mile south of Shuri castle to compress the enemy garrison ordered to hold the fortress. Many troops and civilians have been observed leaving Shuri for points south.

Mud and rain still hampered ground operations and posed a severe supply problem for forward elements.

Admiral Nimitz said the poor flying weather reduced Japanese aircraft activity. Several isolated raids were made Tuesday, resulting in damage to two light units of the American fleet. Eight Japanese planes were shot down during the day.

Carrier planes attacked targets in the Sakishima group of the southern Ryukyus and the Amami islands in the northern part of the chain Tuesday.

Iran Insists U. S., Great Britain, Russia Remove All Troops

TEHRAN (AP)—With the European war ended, Iran has demanded that the United States, Britain and Russia live up to their agreement to remove all troops from the country, it was announced yesterday.

The tripartite treaty by which allied forces operated in Iran stipulated that they would leave within six months after hostilities cease, and Iranian authorities viewed the period as dating from the German surrender.

Foreign Minister Sepahbodi told the Iranian parliament that identical notes had been sent to the Big Three allied powers.

Americans joined in sending forces to Iran in 1942, when lend-lease supplies began moving across Iran to Russia. They began liquidating their Persian gulf command as long ago as January after a shorter supply line to Russia was opened through the Dardanelles and the Black sea, but American military railway service troops lingered.

Gen. Mark W. Clark Returns From Italy

CHICAGO (AP)—Victorious and smiling, Gen. Mark W. Clark came home from the European war yesterday.

Kirke L. Simpson Predicts—Series of Trips for President

When President Truman sets out next month for San Francisco to speak at the closing session of the United Nations conference he may be just starting on a series of trips of major consequence.

He seems destined to make personal contact within the next few months not only with such key figures of the United Nations fellowship as Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Stalin and General De Gaulle; but also possibly with China's generalissimo, Chiang Kai-Shek, and with American ground air and sea commanders in the Pacific theater.

There is no official indication of just how or when Mr. Truman's first meeting with his British and Russian colleagues of the "Big Three" group will come out. It is definitely in the cards in the near future, however. A Truman-De Gaulle get-together is slated as well. There is urgent need for those meetings to consolidate the victory in Europe and further implement proceeding at San Francisco.

Neither the time nor the circumstances of Germany's final collapse could have been clearly enough foreseen by President Roosevelt and his top ranking military advisers for more than a tentative plan of redeployment against Japan to have been framed.

There have been significant new developments in China since the Pearl Harbor strategy conference that could greatly influence the course of events in the Asiatic theater. Allied success in virtually clearing Burma of the enemy adds another element.

There are also indications from Tokyo that a revision of Japanese defensive strategy is in the making if not already in process of execution in China. All of these circumstances point toward a reconsideration of Pacific strategy moves by the president and his ranking military advisers in the field as well as in Washington.

Doughboys Corner Japs on Mindanao

510 Tons of Bombs Dropped on Luzon By Fifth Airforce

MANILA, Thursday (AP)—Japanese forces on Mindanao, pushed out of their Sayre highway positions in the center of the island and from Davao on the southwest coast, were being gradually compressed yesterday in largely unexplored mountain country.

The 31st division was driving them eastward along the Kibawe-Talomo trail; the 24th division forced them westward.

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said enemy resistance was slowly weakening in the pocket between the Talomo and Davao rivers, but the 24th division reported strong Japanese forces still in its area.

However, the best Japanese positions and weapons were gone, and fighting was less intense.

In northern Luzon, the 25th division killed 150 Japanese Monday and Tuesday in mopping up around Santa Fe, on the rugged southern mountain approach to the Cagayan valley. The 38th division killed more than 200 of the enemy.

Fifth airforce fighters continued their near-record support of Luzon ground operations, dropping 510 tons of bombs in more than 600 sorties Monday and Tuesday.

24 Holiday Deaths

By the Associated Press
The nation celebrated its 24th Memorial day in many years yesterday.

Only 24 fatalities had been recorded as last midnight approached.

There were 327 deaths last year, when the observance lasted four days. The average peacetime loss of life for May 30 was 400.

Censorship stopped in European theater.

Supreme headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris (AP)—Supreme headquarters announced yesterday that censorship in the European theater of operations had been discontinued "except for major troop movements and details connected therewith and such other matters of high military importance as may require reference to the supreme commander."

The terse directive was handed down from advanced supreme headquarters and surprised the censors themselves as much as the correspondents.

Previous directives, which appeared immediately after V-E day, called for censoring all copy for such things as inaccuracies and "reports likely to injure the morale of the allied forces or the relations between the allied nations" despite the cessation of hostilities. Censorship officials here were not able immediately to explain the change in plans.

Mustangs Hit 3 Jap Vessels

SEVENTH FIGHTER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Iwo Jima (AP)—Three Iwo based Mustang fighter planes, which turned aside from a raid on Tokyo to answer a distress call from an American submarine, seriously damaged and probably sank three Japanese coastal vessels.

The story of how the airmen repaid in part their debt to the undersea service for its many rescues of downed airmen in the Pacific was told today by Lieut. John F. Galbraith of Silver Spring, Md.

Galbraith was one of the three P-51 pilots who turned aside from escorting B-29 superfortress on the Tokyo raid to aid the submarine.

The underwater craft had been spotted by three 75-foot Japanese picket boats, heavily armed coastal vessels, which even then were bearing down for the kill, he related.

The picket boats were spread out in a line as the Mustangs reached the scene. Each pilot picked a boat and made simultaneous strafing runs, clearing the decks with their 50 caliber bullets the first time over. After two more passes one ship exploded and the others were left burning fiercely.

Increasingly Cloudy, Continued Warm

For most of today, the weather will be a repetition of yesterday's beautiful weather. However, late this evening conditions will be unsettled and we may get some rain showers. It will become increasingly cloudy through the day but temperatures will remain about the same as yesterday's.

The mercury almost set a new high-jump record yesterday. From 39 at 5:30 a. m. it leaped to 76 in the late afternoon. By 12:30 this morning it had fallen only to 57.

Syrian Capital Serves As Battleground For Local War

Damascus Battered By French Mortar, Artillery, Bombs

By Frank O'Brien

DAMASCUS (AP)—This Syrian city has been a battleground for French and Syrian forces since 6:55 p. m. Tuesday in one of the most inexplicable outbreaks of violence on record.

Artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire, as well as bombs, has been raining on Damascus almost unceasingly from the French forces while Syrian gendarmes and police have given answering fire with every available weapon.

Clay Gowran of the Chicago Tribune and I were trapped in the Serail (government house) when Damascus exploded suddenly Tuesday evening into utter chaos.

We were held in the Serail for three hours by the constant shooting, but finally were able to dash through a lull in the firing to reach the British officers club, halfway to our hotel. Then after another wait of two hours we were able to get to the hotel.

Eventually we decided to take refuge in the British consulate, going there yesterday afternoon to escape the continual mortar fire. Even there safety was not assured, for one British officer was killed there this morning by a mortar.

In London Foreign Secretary Eden told commons last night that the British cabinet was in emergency session on the warlike situation in the battle-torn Syrian capital of Damascus where he said French-Arab fighting had caused "a serious loss of life and destruction of property."

With the situation in the Levant "greatly deteriorated," Eden said his government was "in actual communication with the United States government."

In Washington Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew said "developments in Syria and Lebanon in recent days are causing the United States government deep concern. We are employing every means to assist in finding a peaceful solution and preventing further bloodshed and disorder."

Chinese Veterans Drive for Liuchow

CHUNGKING (AP)—Chinese veterans, hot on the heels of Japanese forces reportedly pulling out of south China, ripped along a 50-mile front last night toward the great former American air base city of Liuchow, now swept by fires.

Battering seven miles through Japanese fortifications, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's battle groups reached the outskirts of the fortified Japanese stronghold of Ishan, 43 miles west of Liuchow, while the Japanese reportedly evacuated points only 38 miles northwest.

Great fires were reported raging in the Kwangsi province rail hub as the Japanese garrison apparently put the torch to the city Tuesday in preparation for an abandonment, believed planned as part of a general Japanese withdrawal from all south China.

Chungking was flooded with reports that the Japanese were pulling out of south China and planning to evacuate strategic Liuchow following the Chinese capture of Yungning (Nanning).

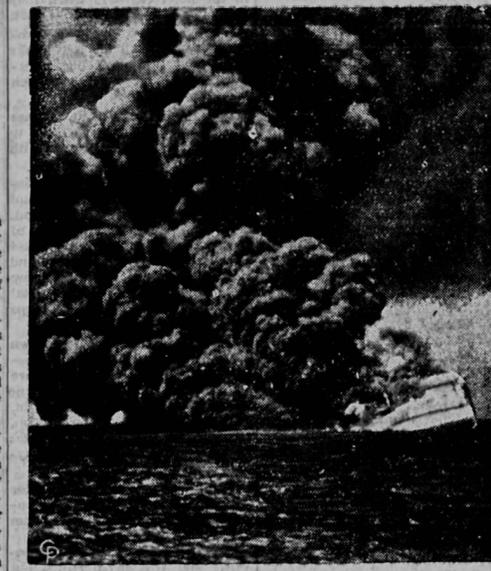

But Chinese Minister of Information Dr. Wang Shih-Chieh warned that although Japan's land bridge to Singapore definitely had been cut, there was no indication that enemy troops in south China would pull out without a desperate fight.

Nations May Forfeit Vote for Failure To Support League

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The loss of voting rights may be the price of refusal of any United Nations member to support a new world league with its military resources.

This possibility developed at the United Nations conference yesterday when a committee reported to its parent commission that this penalty is under consideration and may be adopted.

The bulk of the committee report, recommending some of the structure and procedure for a projected general assembly of all nations in the world organization, was approved almost automatically at the second public meeting of a conference commission.

Russia, however, blocked acceptance of a formula for electing the top administrative officer of the world organization, explaining she had taken the matter up with the conference steering committee.

As nine working committees ground ahead on the job of drafting various portions of a charter for the world organization, it became known that:

1. The American delegation is leaning toward the idea of including in this charter terms of the Atlantic charter's promises of access by all nations, "on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity."

2. Denmark, apparently assured of a belated invitation to the conference table, has three delegates scheduled to arrive here today.

3. French desires to maintain (1) a Franco-Soviet pact aimed at Germany and (2) her independence of action in Europe have given added weight to an old issue of regional security.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tokyo radio yesterday said Tuesday's American incendiary raid on Yokohama left 250,000 inhabitants of Japan's second largest port homeless with 60,000 houses destroyed, but the count of dead and injured would take some time to complete.

The city's communications and transportation lines were knocked out, providing more war worries for Premier Kantaro Suzuki, who conferred yesterday with six former premiers of the empire.

While the broadcast, heard by the FCC, gave no details of subjects discussed by Suzuki and some of his ministers with ex-premiers, Domei news agency hinted at the agenda with the report that the nation was filled "with trepidation" over raid damage to the imperial palace.

Tokyo termed the Yokohama raid "by far the largest in the number of planes" participating and continued to make unconfirmed claims of shooting down 20 Superforts and 12 escorting Mustang fighters, with another 59 planes damaged. American communiques have announced the loss of two B-29's and three Mustangs.

Americans Pause to Observe Memorial Day At Home, in Europe, in Pacific Theaters

By the Associated Press
Americans everywhere—at home, in the now quiet European war areas and in the faraway Pacific battle theaters—paused yesterday to mourn the military dead of this and past wars.

Parades, religious services and simple holiday ceremonies marked the observance of the 77th Memorial day throughout the nation while overseas thousands of fighting men and women attended special services or visited cemeteries where their fallen buddies lie.

Wreaths were placed on the tombs of the Unknown Soldier of World War I in London, Paris and in Arlington national cemetery.

At Hyde Park, N. Y., where two small children reverently laid a wreath of spring flowers on the grave of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, Postmaster General Frank C. Walker said of the former commander-in-chief:

"Rarely in history have whole peoples so taken from one man's fire and flame of courage. From the depths of defeat this man led the nations of the world to victory."

At Anzio beachhead, where 8,000 men were killed, Lieut. Gen. Lucien K. Truscott told United States Fifth army men, "We pray that when the soldiers' last job is done the statesmen of the world will make sure that last peace" for which their soldier comrades died.

T. V. Soong Succeeds As Premier

Raises Possibility Soong May Attend Meeting of Big 5

CHUNGKING, Thursday (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek resigned today as president of executive Yuan (premier) and was succeeded by Acting Premier T. V. Soong.

Elevation of Soong to the full premiership raised the possibility he might attend any impending meeting of the Big Five leaders (China, France, Russia, United States and Great Britain). It also would give him greater face if he makes an expected visit to Moscow on his way back to China from the San Francisco conference.

Wong Weh Hao, minister of economic affairs and head of China's war production board, was appointed vice-premier, succeeding H. H. Kung. The appointment probably was a reward for his labors as head of the Chinese WPB.

Chiang's relinquishment of the position of premier to Soong did not affect the former's position as president of China and the head of the state.

He announced his resignation of the premiership at a meeting today of the newly elected central executive committee of the Kuomintang, the National people's party.

Keeping Main Job
It is presumed that Chiang, in view of the accelerated tempo of the Far East war, intends to devote himself primarily to his main job—supreme commander of the allied forces in the China theater.

In addition to the presidency, Chiang holds numerous other posts.

Soong had been serving as acting premier since last Dec. 4. As such he had attended to most of the generalissimo's duties as premier. His transition from acting premier to premier therefore was not surprising. In fact, it had been expected here for some time.

Other government changes are expected to result from the present session of the central executive committee.

The ministry of finance is expected to figure in these changes. Soong is recognized in China and probably abroad as the country's most brilliant statesman. As premier he probably will be in a better position to talk to Premier Stalin in the matter of improving relations between China and Russia, should he go to Moscow, and to engage in discussions with other international leaders.

Soong is known to be eager to exert every possible effort to solve China's troublesome Communist problem.

Joseph E. Davies Completes Series Of London Meetings

LONDON (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, President Truman's special envoy, completed a series of conferences in London yesterday amid increased indications that only a meeting of the "Big Three" could break deadlocks on European questions confronting the United States, Russia and Britain.

A meeting of the leaders of the three countries was expected to be held shortly after the conclusion of the San Francisco conference, tentatively set for June 6.

Davies said he would fly to Paris today for a meeting with General Eisenhower and then return directly to Washington to report to the president on the results of his conferences.

During the day he and United States Ambassador John G. Winant conferred with Soviet Ambassador Fyodor Gusev, concluding three days of conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and other members of the British government.

Reports from Moscow said that Harry Hopkins, in the Soviet capital on another special mission for Truman, had had highly satisfactory conversations with Stalin and high Russian officials.

Former SUI Commandant, Mumma, Dies

Col. Morton C. Mumma, 67, former commandant of the military department at the University of Iowa, died yesterday morning at his home in Beverly Hills, Calif. Death was a result of a cardiac lesion.

On behalf of the State University of Iowa, I wish to express to Mrs. Mumma and her family sincere sympathy in the death of Colonel Mumma, who faithfully and efficiently served this institution over a long period of years. Colonel Mumma was a close friend of mine and I feel a deep personal loss in his death.

Virgil M. Hancher

He was born on March 8, 1878, in Benton Ridge, Ohio. He graduated from the United States military academy at West Point in 1900. He came to the University of Iowa in 1909 and was head of the department until 1912.

In 1916-17 he was recalled to head the department at the university and served again from 1919 to 1923. His last service with the university was from 1924 to 1928.

In a letter this month to Pres. Virgil M. Hancher, Mumma said he had suffered a heart attack in 1943 and was inactive in business and military affairs since that time. He had another severe attack early this month.

He was a member of the United States Cavalry association, and the United States Infantry association, the State Historical society and served for some time on the board of censors. He was promoted to full colonel in the cavalry in 1918.

Colonel Mumma was associated with Sears Roebuck and Co. after retiring from the army. He acted as a personal representative of General Woods, president of the company. He was sent to Honolulu, Hawaii and established Sears stores there.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, Morton, serving with the navy in Washington, D. C., Albert, with the navy in Arlington, Va., and George of Wilmette, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Martha Mumma McClintock of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Sarah Harrah, who has been with her parents while her husband is in the submarine service.

Colonel Mumma will be buried at West Point, N. Y. The date has not been disclosed.

Navy Announces Lag in Ship Repairs Becoming Serious

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the Japanese stepping up their aerial attacks as the war approaches their shores, the United States navy gravely announced today that the home front "battle of ship repairs" is not progressing satisfactorily.

Naval leaders called an unusual news conference to make known that they are worried. They said workers are quitting their jobs in west coast repair yards in the face of existing manpower shortages and growing work loads.

Only the necessity for keeping valuable information from the enemy, it was emphasized, prevented recitation of facts and figures to back up the urgent appeal of the department's heads for shipyard workers to stay on the job and for others to answer the call.

In lieu of any precise disclosure of numbers of ships involved, Secretary Forrestal cited that 4,270 personnel of naval supporting forces were killed or missing in action in the battle for Okinawa between March 15 and May 23, compared with 5,332 for the ground forces in the same action.

Admiral Frederick J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, commented that it could easily be seen "what that must mean in ship damage."

Specifically, the department heads revealed that some $300,000,000 in the new ship construction, originally scheduled for the west coast, had been transferred to the east coast to release facilities for ship repairs.

That it would take nine months to get the damaged carrier Franklin back into action.

That some cruisers would require six months and some destroyers three months.

That destroyers, intended for overhaul after 40,000 miles, are now operating after 240,000 miles without overhaul.

That the Mare Island, California, navy yard was 9,000 workers short and lost 600 net last month despite widespread recruiting drives and intense efforts to keep workers; Puget Sound, Washington, navy yard was 5,000 short and lost 600 net last month; Hunters Point, California, naval dry docks was 6,000 short and lost 700 net; and "the situation is comparable in private yards."

In an effort to solve the problem, the navy—at the urgent request of Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander-in-chief, obtained blanket deferment of skilled workers in west coast yards, gave priority to repair work over new construction, and agreed to provide transportation and subsistence to workers recruited in the east and mid-west.

At least 15,000 skilled workers, unobtainable on the west coast, are critically needed in addition to another 15,000 semi-skilled and unskilled workers.

"This situation," said Secretary Forrestal, "points up what we were talking about a few months ago when we were urging manpower legislation."

Describing the intensity of the Okinawa action now in progress, Secretary Forrestal said that total Japanese plane losses in combat during April exceeded 2,500 to set a new monthly record. The previous record was set in October, 1944, when Jap losses were slightly below 2,000. The April losses, Forrestal said, were estimated to have reduced the Japanese air force by about 13 per cent.

The secretary also revealed for the first time the dramatic story of the destroyers Hug W. Hadley and the Evans off Okinawa May 11.

"Both destroyers had been at general quarters throughout the night of May 10-11, which means that no one had had a night's rest, due to attacks by several enemy planes which harassed their formation during darkness," the secretary related.

"Shortly before eight o'clock on the morning of May 11 a low flying seaplane attempted a suicide attack on the Hadley and was shot down.

"Soon after, several formations of enemy planes, totaling about 150 aircraft in all, were reported to

Last of the Manchus— To Lose Throne for Third Time

By Norman J. Medrech Central Press Correspondent

With the land he rules in name only a potential background, Henry Pu-yi—the last of the Manchus—is facing for the third time of his life the prospect of losing his job, this time as emperor of Manchukuo.

A figurehead all his life, Pu-yi is the "front man" for the Japanese in a puppet state inhabited by 40,000,000 Chinese, Mongolians and White Russians. His nation, twice the area of France, and with a population equal to that country, is at war with the United States.

Pu-yi's country, too, is surrounded on three sides by armies of alert Russians in Siberia, a situation that has caused Pu-yi's panicky Japanese bosses to "usurp" the little that is left of his royal prerogatives.

Pu-yi, now known as the Emperor Kang Teh, is 39 years old. He started his career as a "front man" at the age of two, when he assumed the Dragon throne of old China at the death of his uncle, the Emperor Wwung Hsu. He took the name of Hsuan Tung and a regency ruled China's 458,000,000 subjects in his name for four years.

In 1911 the 3,000-year-old Chinese monarchy was overthrown by the republic. Sun Yat-sen, who established the Chung Hua Ming Kuo, the Chinese republic. The boy had lost his first royal job.

Hsuan Tung was allowed to retain his title of Emperor of the Manchus and rule over a square mile of territory surrounding his estate in Peking.

Flees from Peking Here Hsuan maintained his court while his advisers and retainers conspired to restore him to the nonexistent throne of China.

The north. They were immediately attacked by our fighters but many of them broke through and attacked the Hadley and Evans. For the next hour and a half the two destroyers, maneuvering at high speed and firing all guns, were under continuous attack by suicide planes.

"In the ensuing melee, navy fighter planes shot down about 50 enemy planes, and the two destroyers accomplished the amazing feat of destroying 42 enemy planes between them, the Hadley 23 and the Evans 19. Toward the end of the battle, as our navy fighter planes ran out of ammunition, there were several cases in which our pilots actually "rode" enemy planes into the water, flying closer and closer and above the Jap until he was forced into the sea. In two instances a heroic marine pilot interposed his plane between the Hadley and an attacking suicide plane, forcing the Jap aircraft to break off its attack.

"Both of these gallant destroyers were hit before the Jap attack was repelled."

A rebellion, simmering for years, broke out in 1917 and the Manchu nobles hurried the 11-year-old boy out of Peking, placed him on a throne in an old palace and crowned him as emperor of all China.

The second reign of Hsuan Tung lasted just 14 days, but the leaders of the Chinese republic again allowed him to keep his royal titles.

However, the Christian general, Feng Yu Hsiang, was not so lenient in 1924. Knowing from experience the treachery of the "royal court" of the Manchus, he drove out the nobles, seized the lad and held him a prisoner for some time.

Then there followed the inglorious escape for a proud Manchu. The emperor-without-a-title, it was reported, dressed himself as a lowly coolie, and fled to Tientsin, where the Japanese gave him protection.

In the Japanese concession lean years caught up with the unhappy ex-emperor. Once his personal income was $3,000,000 a year and now it was so uncertain that the last of the Manchus was forced to live in a house renting for $50 a month.

The royal bankrupt remained "unemployed" for seven years, then, in 1932, the Japanese found a job for him. They had overrun Manchuria, the northern provinces of China and the original home of the Manchus, and the former Hsuan Tung was put to work as the chief executive of the conquered territory at the salary of 1,500,000 Mexican dollars (about $750,000) a year.

His salary was jumped to $5,000,000 when the Japanese decided to "promote" him by restoring the dynasty of the Manchus. He was going to be an emperor again, a "ruler" whose decisions would be guided by hundreds of Japanese advisers.

The coronation, in 1934, made front page headlines. The Japanese, with an eye to impress the world, hired Manchu scholars to coach their "front man" in the ancient rites of the age-old Manchu dynasty.

Three days of purification—prescribed by the scholars—preceded the enthronement. Henry Pu-yi retired from the world to fast, meditate and pray. When he emerged he took the name of Kang Teh, traded his comfortable American clothes for a black fox robe and adopted an orchid as his imperial crest.

Also approved by the Japanese for Kang Teh's new nation was a flag—a yellow flag with stripes of red, blue, white and black in a corner box.

His Bosses' Words As an enlightenment gift, Emperor Hirohito of Japan sent vases belonging to the Japanese imperial family and the new emperor reciprocated by reading to the world at his coronation this message prepared by his Japanese bosses:

"Our friend, the Japanese empire, in compliance with the will of heaven, rendered assistance to our nation and brought about close and friendly co-operation. The Japanese empire took the initiative in extending recognition and concluded a friendly pact with us. This pact must last through the years."

The "friendly pact" eventually led to war with the United States. The Japanese also are realizing that the years of the pact are numbered. What are they doing?

The Manchukuo army, whose loyalty always have been suspected by the Nipponese, has been sent to the Siberian frontier under the command of Japanese officers.

Behind this "ally" are crack Japanese troops, for the Japanese themselves admit that "World War II started in Manchukuo in 1931 and will end in Manchukuo."

The invasion of occupied China is the No. 1 fear of Japan and its puppet Manchukuo emperor—the "career front man" who is about to lose his third job.

Civilians to Get Less Meat in June; Pork To Take More Points

WASHINGTON (AP)—A further shrinkage in the civilian meat supply in June—about seven per cent below May—was forecast last night by the OPA, which simultaneously announced higher point values for fat pork.

OPA said the hike of one to three point cuts such as fatbacks and plate cuts, effective June 3, is being made to prevent the diversion of these meats into lard.

Except for point reductions in certain types of cheese, other red point values will be unchanged. —joaaa etoain etoainoai

Lard, shortening and salad and cooking oils will remain at ten points a pound, the value assigned to them in the emergency action in mid-May, when values were increased two points.

Fatbacks, clear and regular plates were increased three points a pound making the new value eight points, the same as for regular bacon, which remains unchanged; bacon (breakfast plate) was increased three points to eight points, and pork sides (aged and dry-cured) one point to a nine-point value.

The only other change in red point values involved cheeses in group 3. These cheeses, mostly soft, perishable types, will require only six points a pound, a decrease of two points. Group three includes limburger, camembert and liederkranz.

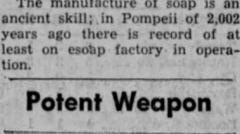

Price Administrator Chester Bowles predicted an average of about 201,010, 000 pounds of meat weekly in June for sale over retail counters compared with a weekly average of 214,320,000 in May.

Here are his weekly estimates for various types of meat: Beef, 73,530,000 pounds compared with 80,220,000 in May; veal 23,040,000 pounds compared with 17,730,000 pounds; lamb, 11,010,000 pounds compared with 11,670,000 pounds; mutton, 2,190,000 pounds compared with 1,110,000 pounds; pork, 91,240,000 pounds compared with 103,590,000 pounds.

Bowles estimated the total supply of lard and of cooking and salad oils for June would be about 20 million pounds below May supplies.

Sergeant O'Leary Gets—Tasty Evening Snack

Are you "in the know" About the best for an evening snack?

Here's a tip, for Mrs. O'Leary It's on the inside track.

After Sergeant and Mrs. O'Leary had been married a few months, they were lucky enough to find a small apartment in the tiny army town where he was stationed. Sergeant O'Leary ate most of his meals on the army post because they were free, but he came home to dinner, and his bride, though she was busy with a job in the morning and Red Cross work in the afternoon, always made a point of fixing things for him that he was unlikely to be served at the army mess.

Once, however, it was impossible to get anything but weiners in the town. They were being served in the restaurants, on the army post and in the homes of everyone. In this emergency Mrs. O'Leary looked in her recipe file and found a way to make even weiners taste different.

Grilled weiners with cheese and tomatoes

6 large skinless weiners 3 slices of American cheese 6 thin slices of tomato

Split the weiners in the middle and fasten apart with toothpicks. Put a half slice of cheese on each weiner and a slice of tomato on each piece of cheese. Put this on the grill in a hot oven for about five minutes. Serve with mint flavored iced tea, crusty bread and a fruit dessert. What could be simpler and more appetizing for a late evening meal or snack?

Giants Score First, 8-6; Cubs Snatch Second, 11-2

Giants Thump Three Cub Hurlers in First Game for 13 Hits

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Giants split a Memorial day doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs yesterday before a sell-out throng of 4,565, largest Wrigley field crowd since 1939.

The league leading Giants won the first game, 8 to 6, but the Cubs easily took the second one, 11 to 2. Several thousand fans were turned away at the gates.

Bill Voiselle suffered his second setback against eight victories in the afterpiece as he lasted three innings after yielding seven hits, including a three-run homer by Andy Pafko in the third.

Meanwhile, Lefty Bob Chipman handcuffed the Giants with three hits to breeze to his second victory behind the Bruin's 16-hit assault on three New York tossers. Pafko also belted a double and a single.

Although he went hitless in the finale, Manager Mel Ott of the Giants banged a double and a single in the opener for a lifetime total of 4,890 bases, breaking the National league record of 4,888 held by Honus Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates since 1917.

In the first game the Giants thumped three Bruin hurlers for 13 hits, including Ernie Lombardi's 12th homer, a two-run smash in the fifth which gave New York a 7-6 lead. Ray Prim, second Cub tosser, was charged with the loss, while Bill Emmerich, who replaced starter Andy Hansen in the third and scattered four hits the rest of the way, was the winner. Five Cub errors gave the Giants two unearned tallies.

SHORTSTOP VERN STEPHENS, DOING A LOT OF BALL SHELLACKING FOR THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS. AS STEPHENS GOES, SO GO THE BROWNS, AND HE'S LEADING THEM IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Boston Braves set off two explosive batting attacks to win the second game of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 2, yesterday after losing the first, 4 to 2, in 12 innings.

Jim Tobin hurled the Braves' victory and had easy sailing as his mates took a two-run lead in the third inning then salted the affair away in the fifth with another up-rising good for five runs.

The Cards had the first game apparently tucked away going into the ninth with a 2 to 1 lead, but Michael Ulsney prolonged the business by starting off the inning with a single. Masi ran for him and scored the tying run on a single by Joost.

First baseman Ray Sanders broke the deadlock in the 12th with a home run, scoring behind Buster Adams, who had walked. The Cards also used four pitchers in that game.

Second Guess

Seahawks Lose Key Players To Interview Cochrane

By ROY LUCE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

NOW THAT most high school sports have passed into the twilight, there remains only the Iowa Seahawks to talk about—and with the Cadets playing far from sensational ball—well, this columnist is having a hard time finding enough to talk about every day—that is—material that is of local interest. So—we're warning you in advance that more than likely, this column will probably turn into a discussion mat for the big leagues and what have you. But as far as possible, we shall attempt to bring you all the dope on local sports teams as we see it. But—don't say that we didn't warn you...

The Seahawks suffered another blow—and a rather serious one this week when it was announced that Bob O'Neill, regular backstop and Don Wyman, regular left fielder have graduated to primary training at Norman, Okla. Consequently, the Cadets are in the market for a catcher and an outfielder. So far, Coach Carlos Ratliff has had Mike Franchuk in O'Neill's catching spot. Franchuk has spent the last 18 months in the Mediterranean and North Atlantic regions as a deep sea diver.

Slated to take over Wyman's left field duties is Herman Soard of Oak Ridge, Tenn. Soard played formerly in the Appalachian league and is capable of taking a turn on the mound too, which should be of some help to Ratliff—what with his rather shaky mound corps, at least lately. He certainly needs a pitcher capable of silencing the enemy for keeps—perhaps Soard will fill the bill. We hope so!

The Cadets face a dangerous twin stand with the Irish of Notre Dame this weekend—and no one knows better than Coach Ratliff that his charges will be pressed and pressed hard to emerge with a split in the two day series. So far this season, rain has been the Cadets' most dangerous enemy, but perhaps this weekend, it might develop that rain will be a very good friend. Only guessing. But in our opinion, the Seahawks have far to go before they find the winning combination.

As an extra added attraction, Sportstime over WSUI tonight at 7:30 will feature an interview with Lieut. Cmdr. Mickey Cochrane, former Detroit Tiger star and manager, who is now stationed at the pre-flight school, Bob Brooks, of the WSUI staff will conduct the interview, which from a sportsman angle, should be very interesting.

Dunnington Pictures World Conditions in Memorial Day Address

'We Must Make Peace Worth Our Sacrifice'

San Francisco Proves Step Toward Solution Of Universal Problems

"With 200,000 of our boys lying dead and over 1,000,000 casualties in this war, this is a solemn day which we hold in memory of our war dead," declared Dr. L. L. Dunnington in a Memorial day address at Oakland cemetery yesterday morning.

Dr. Dunnington's talk followed Lincoln's Gettysburg address, delivered by Ted Gunderson and several selections by the navy Pre-Flight band.

"This occasion and this cemetery therefore make an excellent setting for the question: Can and shall we make a peace commensurate with the sacrifices already made and still to be made? The boys who fight are wondering," Dr. Dunnington said.

Quoting a letter from Lieut. Charles Ingersoll, an Iowa City soldier, Dr. Dunnington read: "We soldiers have a greater fear than that of wounds or even death—it is that our America will badly bungle the post-war solution of the problems of the peace."

Dr. Dunnington stated that we must plan for peace as we have planned for war in order that these sacrifices shall not have been made in vain.

"Total casualties around the world for this greatest of all wars is estimated at 40,000,000 thus far and that does not include the hundreds of millions in Europe and Asia who are homeless and suffering from starvation and bleak despair," he said.

"This war was caused primarily by Soviet Russia and her way of life. A quarter of a century ago 170 million Russians grew tired of economic and social serfdom. They overthrew their masters and set up a socialist state and economy. Her erstwhile allies fought an undeclared war on seven fronts against her after Versailles was signed and then quit fighting because they faced so determined a foe," Dr. Dunnington said.

"In 1931 Japan was allowed to seize and keep Manchuria without any action by the League of Nations because it placed a dangerous foe on Russia's back door step. Thus came the first wide break in the world's peace machinery—because of fear of Russia," Dr. Dunnington said.

"The Russian revolution was the beginning of the century of the common man—a revolution to seize the wealth of the earth and exploit it for the common man as over against the upper five per cent."

There are two Englands. One England is democratic to which 90 per cent of the people belong. The other England is Tory England—the England of imperialism and empire.

Tory England is authoritarian in the interests of the upper five per cent just as Russia is authoritarian in the interests of the 90 per cent. It is Tory England that is in conflict with Russia. When Tory England goes into an eclipse, Russia and England will become true allies.

America's role in this world revolution is to act as mediator between England and Russia until such time as Democratic England is in the saddle.

America is the world's greatest democracy. We can not subscribe to either the authoritarianism of Imperialist England or of Soviet Russia. Eventually both must give way to democracy in the interests of the common people of the earth.

San Francisco is but a step in that direction. What comes out of there will be good but not good

Iowa Citizens Freed From German Camps

Two more Iowa Citizens have been liberated from German prison camps. They are Lieut. John K. Anderson and Pfc. Dewey L. Stoops.

Lieutenant Anderson's mother, Mrs. Marguerite I. Anderson, 720 E. Burlington street, received a message from the war department saying that he had been freed from a German prison camp. He was on his way to England.

He has been a prisoner since Nov. 5, 1943, and was at Stalag Luft I, Barth, Germany, before he was released.

Lieutenant Anderson was a pilot on a B-17 with the Eighth airforce in England and was shot down over western Germany while on his 13th mission.

He entered the service in January, 1942, and was a graduate of Iowa City high school.

Pfc. Dewey L. Stoops, 22, was reported missing in action in Belgium on Jan. 3. A paratrooper, Private Stoops entered the service in December, 1942. He served in England, France and Holland before going to Belgium.

His mother, Mrs. A. Stoops, 325 S. Dubuque street, received both a war department telegram and a Red Cross message, stating that her son had been liberated from a German prison camp.

Highland Stables To Have Riding Show

A demonstration of horsemanship riding will be given at the Highland stables on Sunday afternoon June 3, at 2:30, by members of classes under the instruction of Mr. J. L. Witt.

The program will consist of demonstrations by the university students who are in the elementary and advanced classes. In addition, there will be some work shown by members of the high school girls' classes, and the grade school boys' class. The public is invited to attend the program.

The articles of confederation were all the 18 sovereign American colonies could agree on in 1776 after our own revolution. Then after 11 years of floundering around the colonies were literally driven to form a constitution. The world will struggle along in the same manner for several years after this peace on the verge of war and finally work out a solution for an international organization such as we have in the United States.

Radio Shows for Services—Lighten Soldiers' War Burden

By VICTOR GUNSON Central Press Correspondent

LOS ANGELES—In an office in an old abandoned movie studio on a back street in Los Angeles a soldier is sitting at a desk reading a letter from another soldier on active duty in Germany.

"Well," it begins, "as I am sitting here tonight listening to your radio program I am trying to write you a letter to let you know that we here at our base listen to your program every Friday night, and we enjoy it very much."

"I might as well explain how we are able to listen to your program. When the Germans quit this place they left some radios that we welcome very much, and I am sure if der Fuehrer knew to what use we were putting his once owned radios—I can just bet he would turn over in his grave."

The soldier explained they would like to hear "Begin the Beguine" and then added:

"There may be a few misspelled words in this as I ain't a very well educated hill billy."

The letter is being read in the headquarters of the Armed Forces Radio Service and is one of the 600 or more received every week from fighting men in every corner of the globe.

It is from these letters that a hard working staff under Col. Thomas H. A. Lewis learns just what the men at the front want in the way of radio entertainment.

Tremendous Operation The Armed Forces Radio Service launched in April, 1942, is a combined operation of the War and Navy departments. Its operations stagger the imagination. It has 162 radio stations, 55 foreign governments and commercial stations and 162 sound systems in daily operation overseas. For the overseas sound system alone 73,000 transcription disks, each giving a half hour's entertainment, were processed last month.

Twenty-one shortwave transmitters on both east and west coasts beam overseas and more than 5,000 hours of programs, special events and newscasts monthly. There are also semi-permanent and mobile stations in the immediate vicinity of the troops which are equipped with transmitters ranging from four to 1,000 watts.

"Command performance," the first radio program of the war produced exclusively for the armed forces, is rated as one of the most popular programs in existence today. Most of Hollywood's top light stars have appeared on it gratis.

Among the other programs, covering every field, are "Serenade for Strings," "At Ease," "Jubilee," "Intermezzo," "Hymns for Home," "World With Music," "Melody Roundup," "Showtime," "Music for Sunday," "Concert Hall," "Globe Theater," "Mystery Playhouse," "Mail Call" and "G. I. Journal."

An example of a star-studded super-cast was the presentation of a dramatization of one of America's favorite detective strips, at the request of servicemen overseas.

Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore, Frank Morgan, Judy Garland Jimmy Durante, the Andrews sisters, Cass Daley and Jerry Colonna co-starred in that one. The performance was a sensation.

"G. I. Jill," the mistress of ceremonies on "G. I. Jive," is one of the most popular entertainers. "Jill" in person is Miss Martha Wilkerson, a beautiful blonde in her early twenties.

A Merchant Marine seaman wrote her from the South Pacific asking if she would play "As Time Goes By."

He added: "If you ever decide to change the name of your program, Jill, I think the combination of you and the music would make the title 'Sweet and Swing' very appropriate.

"One thing I've wondered about is how many proposals you get per week from guys who've heard you say 'Goodnight' once too often. Thanks a lot in advance for playing that number for me. I'll be listening."

A letter to "Miss Jill" from a member of the Sixth South African division said:

"I have heard you over the radio a couple of times and I am fascinated by your voice, and so are the rest of our platoon."

They wanted a picture of Jill to "carry around with us."

"Jill" isn't the only one of the Armed Forces Radio Service girls who get requests for pin-up pictures. Stacks of letters come, too, for Jo Stafford, Savannah Churchill, Martha Tilton and the others.

One sailor far out in the Pacific wanted Miss Stafford to autograph her picture to "The Gunners' Gang."

The reason was simple. "We just want you to know," the sailor wrote, "that as far as we are concerned you are tops."

Letters From Overseas In a photo request to Miss Tilton a master sergeant on duty in the Philippines wrote:

"After not having seen a real live Yankee woman since coming overseas some 20 months ago your picture will certainly be 'tops'."

A corporal in Belgium addressed Miss Tilton, "Hello Sugar," and added, "Over here it's really a treat to hear that sweet voice of yours."

"By the way," he added, "I'm a rebel from Monroe, La. So if by any chance you can give a very homesick 'Yank' the latest on what's what at home it will surely be appreciated."

After 33 months "down under," "Butch" wrote Martha Mears: "The good old tunes are just what we need and you do them nicely."

Six soldiers out in Hawaii wrote one letter to Ginny Simms. They wanted her to sing "Cuddle Up a Little Closer."

And then there was the sailor Jerry Cinetta, at an advanced Pacific base, who wanted very much for Bing Crosby to dedicate a song, "My Sister and I" to his sister, Rose Marie Cinetta, of Milford, Mass.

"The reason," Cinetta wrote, "I would like it sung by him is because he always has been my sister's favorite singer, and my sister writes me every single day so maybe in this way I can really do something that would make her and myself the happiest brother and sister in the world."

Bing gave them the song.

His wife, a former university music department staff member, is now in Los Angeles, teaching at Marlborough school for girls.

Chennault, commanding general of the 14th airforce in China, for meritorious achievement in aerial flight. He received his medal for meritorious service in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany from July 2, 1944, to March 21, 1945.

LeRoy E. Weekes Post—Thanks Citizens

Assistant Marshal Kite Knowling, commander; Adjutant Francis Boyle, Quartermaster Earl B. Weekes, and Trustee John Fielding of the Leroy E. Weekes Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars have issued an open letter to the 26 organizations which participated in the Memorial day parade:

"We hoped you enjoyed the part you played in our annual exercises, and that your hearts were warmed with that glow of patriotism and sense of duty alone, which is the reward of those who are sincere in their love of country, and respect for its great institutions.

"By keeping faith and honoring those who have played an active part in our country's history, you have helped to build up in the hearts and minds of our children respect for the virtues of loyalty, courage and sacrifice in our nation's course.

"It is a matter of regret that the committee was unable to obtain a film of the parade, as the fine showing of the various units, colorful uniforms, waving flags, standards and prancing horses—the whole augmented by music of a high order, presented as pleasing a spectacle of civil activities as could be desired.

"We hope that in the future you will find pleasure in recalling the bright and shining morning of May 30, 1945, when it was your privilege and your duty to honor the brave."

ANTI-FRENCH FIGHTING RAGES HERE

SKIRMISHES between natives and French forces have been reported from Homs and Hama in Syria with increasing tension in Lebanon—the Levantine states where a crisis has developed, stemming from France's reinforcement of her garrisons in both Syria and Lebanon. This, the governments of the two Arab states assert, is a violation of their independence.
