United Nations Group Drafts Preamble Of World Charter

Big 5 Call Meeting As Russia Willing To Reconsider Veto

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Architects of a world organization proposed last night that people of the United Nations declare a solemn determination to save next generations "from the scourge of war," and work toward greater freedom, equality and good neighborliness among nations.

The preamble of a world charter was put in draft form by a subcommittee of the United Nations conference.

It may undergo extensive revision before the full conference acts. The United States delegation, for instance, was opposing a declaration for international machinery to bring about "economic and social advancement of all peoples" on grounds that might mean interference in domestic affairs.

The conference spent a slow day. But a Big-Five meeting was called last night after the United States delegation heard that Russia was willing to renew conversations on a major issue blocking progress—the veto powers which the Big Five would wield in a world security council.

Turned over to the same conference committee along with the preamble were drafts of two chapters of the charter. One set forth the principles; the other set forth the purposes of a new world league.

All have a long road to travel through the committees, parent commissions and final acceptance by the entire conference.

As for the principles on which the new league will be founded, the first of these listed in the text is that:

"The organization is based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all its members."

The key issue of the conference is whether the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France each shall have authority to block peace-keeping measures in the security council of a proposed world league.

New Army Operating Out of Rangoon In Southeast Asia

CALCUTTA (AP)—Admiral Lord Mountbatten's headquarters announced yesterday that a new army, the 12th, had been organized in southeast Asia and is operating out of recently captured Rangoon, Burma capital.

The announcement presaged greatly expanded operations in this area which includes Singapore. More equipment becoming available with the end of the European war also will be a factor speeding the offensive against the Japanese who apparently are contracting their lines in China and leaving forces isolated in Indo-China, Thailand, Burma and Malaya.

The new army will be commanded generally by Lieut. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese and directly by Lieut. Gen. Montagu Ford, former corps commander in the 14th army.

Meanwhile in Burma savage hand to hand fighting raged in the Kama "escape" bridgehead east of the Irrawaddy river 17 miles north of Promé. Two hundred Japanese were killed and some artillery captured in this area 170 miles northwest of Rangoon.

Hail Five Feet Deep In South Dakota

If you think the hail storm we had was something, you should have been in South Dakota where hail drifted five feet deep along the highways and the wind blew up to 70 miles an hour. That's what The Associated Press says and the CAA observers at the local airport say probably so.

Today it will be generally cloudy with some low clouds. Late tonight more clouds will move in bringing rain, winds from the north and cooler temperatures.

Truman Tells Congress—

Japan to Face Stronger Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—America is forging in the Pacific right now an air-ground team even stronger than the one that ruined Germany, President Truman declared yesterday.

He said it will wreck the Japanese military forces, it will destroy Japanese cities and there is only one escape—surrender.

This chill prospect was held out by the president in a special 8,000 word message to congress.

The communication was in the nature of a "where do we go from here" report.

It called for:

1. A powerful surge of war production to smash home the Pacific punch.

2. A public awareness of the ferocity of the Pacific war, now that Japans' home areas have been breached.

The president said that the United States alone, exclusive of allied help, proposes to hurl against the Japanese more than the 3,500,000 air-ground men who crushed the Wehrmacht, knocked the Luftwaffe out of existence and laid Germany waste.

That is only the force to be sent actually to the theater, with nearly an equal number backing it up at home and elsewhere.

He called the continued resistance of the Japanese, a hopeless, fanatical venture. It is based, the president said, on the Japanese idea that perhaps the Americans will grow tired and want peace more than complete victory.

"They should know better," Mr. Truman declared succinctly.

"They should realize that this nation, now at the peak of its military strength, will not relax. We have the men, the materiel, the skill, the leadership, the fortitude to achieve total victory."

Again the president said that "we have no desire to destroy or enslave the Japanese people."

"But only surrender can prevent the kind of ruin which they have seen come to Germany as a result of continued, useless resistance," he said.

The Japanese suicide attacks, however, are making themselves felt, the president acknowledged. Ship yards are badly in need of civilian laborers to repair the ship damages which are mounting.

There is a considerable shift in the kind of items needed for the Pacific war, but the president said "production for the Japanese war cannot be taken as a matter of course."

President Truman submitted his review, he said, to acquaint the people with the problems that lie ahead and "how we plan to meet them."

'Cease Fire' Order Given

French Refuse To Meet Demands To Withdraw Troops

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet government last night informed France, Britain, the United States and China that Russia "considers that speedy measures to stop the military operations in Syria and Lebanon must be taken, and the conflict which has arisen must be settled in a peaceful manner." It cited the fact that France, Syria and Lebanon are members of the United Nations participating in the San Francisco conference, the note said.

"Events in Syria and Lebanon do not correspond to the spirit of the decisions adopted at Dumbarton Oaks, or to the aims of the United Nations conference taking place in San Francisco, for the creation of an organization to insure peace and security."

A "cease fire" order by French commanders brought at least temporary peace to troubled Syria yesterday as the United States agreed to act as mediator in the dispute which had cost at least 400 lives in Damascus alone and had threatened to plunge the Arab world into revolt.

All was reported quiet in Syria after days of fighting. British forces formally assumed responsibility for the maintenance of order, and French commanders agreed to take orders from the British commander in the middle east, Gen. Sir Bernard C. Paget.

While France, faced with a virtual ultimatum, consented to stop firing on the Syrians, General De Gaulle refused to go all the way in meeting Prime Minister Churchill's demand of Thursday that French troops be withdrawn to their barracks.

In Damascus, President Shukri Quwatli of Syria yesterday told a neutral diplomat on what terms Syria would treat with France in settling the Levantine dispute.

All "troops speciales," which are Syrian levees under French command and total approximately 18,000, must be given over to Syrian control and the French command must be terminated.

All French troops must stay in their barracks and the Senegalese troops must be removed from the country with the greatest speed.

All French-controlled Syrian installations, such as telephones and railroads which were built under French supervision with Syrian taxes, must come unconditionally under Syrian ownership and control.

The French delegation must be dissolved and must be replaced with a regularly established legation on a purely diplomatic basis such as all other countries have in Syria. The French will not be permitted to have an embassy while the other powers have legations.

5 Military Prisoners Returned to Custody After Camp Riot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Five military prisoners who were missing for hours after a fatal fire and riot in the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Benjamin Harrison were back in custody last night.

An army guard was shot and killed, three military prisoners were wounded and six other persons were hurt when several hundred rioting prisoners set fire to disciplinary barracks at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, 12 miles north of here, Thursday night.

Nine barracks buildings were destroyed by the fire with a loss estimated at $100,000.

An Indianapolis fireman died of a heart attack while fighting the blaze.

Maj. Gen. James L. Collins, commanding officer of the fifth service command, Ft. Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, who was at Ft. Harrison on an inspection trip at the time of the riot, said indications were that the riot "was a planned affair."

All of rioting prisoners were American soldiers who had been court-martialed, some overseas.

Shuri Fortress Collapses

Organized Resistance Virtually at an End

Nimitz Reports Smashing Gains In Okinawa Actions

GUAM, Saturday (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr.'s 10th United States army troops completed capture yesterday of the fortress city of Shuri, battered keystone of Nippon's smashed southern Okinawa defense line, and drove southward against diminishing resistance.

The central areas of the American lines, which had bulged badly northward as four divisions virtually encircled Shuri while the Japanese held tight in that citadel, were straightened and shortened by the day's gains. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported in today's communique.

Strong elements on both flanks made new penetrations toward the south into enemy held ground. Progress was so great that Nimitz reported "mopping up operations were in progress in newly captured areas behind the lines."

Several hours earlier, Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 24th army corps, told Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking that only weather now could stop the Yanks. He said that to all outward appearances, organized Japanese resistance on Okinawa was on the verge of collapse.

The Sixth marine division moved forward to occupy about 1,000 yards of the north bank of the Kokuba river. It met considerable resistance from Japanese in the vicinity of Kokuba village, but forward elements crossed the river and penetrated southward.

The First marine division captured Shichina hill masses after an advance of about 2,000 yards, which gave them positions overlooking the Naha-Yonabaru highway crossing the island from east to west.

Minnesota Agents Find Stolen Plane

An airplane which was stolen from Shaw Aircraft corporation at the Iowa City Municipal airport late in April was found by Minnesota state agents yesterday near Fairbault, Minn. The Minnesota agents notified the FBI who in turn notified Paul B. Shaw, owner of the plane.

The plane, valued at $2,000, was found in an abandoned barn near Fairbault. Apparently it was undamaged and had merely been taken into the barn and left there.

During the windstorm of April 12 which wrecked a hangar at the Iowa City airport the plane was slightly damaged. It was partially dismantled. The thieves apparently carried the plane away in a truck. No trace of the thieves has been found.

Early Meeting Of Big 3 Sure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said flatly yesterday that neither the crisis in Syria and Lebanon nor possible delays at the San Francisco world organization conference would interfere with an early meeting of the Big Three.

He made it clear that Britain's virtual ultimatum to Gen. Charles De Gaulle and her move to halt French-Syrian clashes had his unqualified support.

The president said his meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin definitely will take place in the not far distant future but that a broadening of the conference to include China and France is not under discussion.

He smilingly told his weekly news conference that a meeting in this country is a possibility although it is not very probable.

Truman also announced that he has persuaded Judge Samuel Rosenman of New York to remain until after V-day as his special counsel.

Group for Collecting War Crimes Evidence To Be Perfected

LONDON (AP)—Delegates of 16 nations attending a conference of the United Nations war crimes commission moved yesterday to perfect an international Scotland Yard or world-wide counterpart of the American G-men to collect evidence against Axis war criminals.

Disclosing that there were weaknesses in the present commission setup, Lieut. Col. J. V. Hodgson said that the 16 member nations were searching out war criminals separately and "without regular liaison with other national offices."

Five Japanese Ships Sunk by U. S. Planes

Heavy Bombers Blast Shipyard Areas In South Formosa

MANILA, Saturday (AP)—Gen. George C. Kenney's far eastern air force made big news again today in the southwest Pacific, sinking five Japanese ships and blasting Japanese ground installations from the Netherlands East Indies to Formosa and Malaya.

Allied fliers, chiefly American, sank or heavily damaged 2,117, 482 tons of Japanese shipping from Jan. 1 through May 31, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in today's communique.

Japanese ships represented in that tonnage far exceeded 1,000 in number, for as the air, submarine and naval blockade has compressed the enemy's sphere of operations, fliers have found the Nipponese resorting to smaller and smaller vessels to transport their supplies.

In addition to the huge toll Kenney's fliers took of Japanese shipping, they dropped more than 70,000 tons of bombs on enemy troops in support of ground action—primarily in the Philippines—and shot down 1,220 war planes in the same period.

Heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, dropped 200 tons in the Takao sector of southwestern Formosa, blasting warehouses, shipyards areas and anti-aircraft defenses. They started many fires.

Navy Chaplain Holds Services For Fox Terrier

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Zipper, a little white and tan-spotted fox terrier belonging to a Council Bluffs couple, received formal tribute by a navy chaplain when he died after a six day illness at sea.

An assembly of 50 men aboard ship in the Pacific stood reverently in silence at Zipper's burial service. A prayer was read for the dog.

"Grant him peace and happiness in whatever canine heaven Thou maintainest," the chaplain concluded.

The mascot's owner, Carpenter's Mate 3/C Herman Wagor of Council Bluffs, has participated in the invasions of Africa, Saipan, Guam and the Marshall Islands, and was aboard ship at the time of his pet's death.

Tokyo Hints at Great Osaka Conflagration

86 Square Miles Of Jap Cities In Ruins Before Latest Raid

GUAM (AP)—American Superfortresses rained fire bombs for two hours on Osaka in a daylight attack Friday and radio Tokyo hinted of a great conflagration, saying resulting fires "are generally being brought under control."

This picture was presented by Japanese broadcasts as 21st bomber command headquarters here disclosed that 86 square miles of Japan's great war production centers were in ruins before the Osaka raid. The destruction there will be added.

Tokyo reported that the attacking United States planes which the 21st command announced numbered more than 600 B-29's and escorting fighters—came over in formations of 10 to 30 planes starting at 8:35 a. m. yesterday (7:35 p. m. Thursday, United States time.)

Fires, the broadcasts added, broke out in the northwestern section of Osaka city and also Amagasaki city, and "are gradually being brought under control."

More than 450 of the B-29's from Marianas bases, shielded by 150 Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima, scattered some 3,202 tons of incendiary bombs on Osaka's congested industrial area.

As the fires still burned, the 21st bomber command announced here that 6.9 square miles of Yokohama were destroyed.

This, with the ruins added to Tokyo's fire-blackened area by two pre-dawn raids last week, brought the B-29 score to 86 square miles of ruined city districts in Japan.

Hail Storm Lashes City

A hail storm lashed by winds which were reported as high as 28 miles an hour with gusts up to 50 miles in velocity struck Iowa City at 5:20 yesterday afternoon, stripping leaves from trees, breaking windows, tearing car tops and beating down garden crops.

Within 10 minutes .33 of an inch of rain and hail fell in Iowa City. Hail was reported from only isolated sections in the surrounding territory.

Greenhouses in the city reported a total of about 1,250 panes of glass broken by the hard driven hail. Skylights and other windows were reported broken in nearly every section of the city.

Largest crop damage was to fruit trees, already damaged by late frosts. Some damage was also done to tomato, pea, cabbage and strawberry plants. Although a considerable proportion of the corn is already above ground, little damage was done because the plants should be able to straighten up again, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

Nips Withdraw Along Western Side of Lifeline

CHUNGKING (AP)—Japanese units along the western side of their China land corridor withdrew under pressure at points along a 900-mile front today, while other enemy forces to the east pushed along the Chekiang province coast in an area vulnerable to American invasion, the Chinese high command announced.

From the French Indo-China border northward to the area of Shanhsien in Honan province the Japanese were pulling back from exposed salients under heavy attack by United States 14th air force planes.

A Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese had found it inadvisable to longer hold their continental corridor linking Manchuria with French Indo-China, Thailand, Burma and Malaya. He said the Japanese had found the corridor vulnerable to air attacks and subject to pressure from Chinese ground troops, and had discovered it was impossible to build the projected railroad between Luichow and French Indo-China.

Treasury Plans War On Tax Dodgers

Ex-Servicemen to Help; Truman, Congress Give Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans for recruitment of an army of ex-servicemen to ferret out tax chiselers were disclosed yesterday by President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

"We are not fighting this war to make millionaires," the president told his news conference in a formal statement, "and certainly we are not going to allow the black market operators or any other racketeers to be in a favored class when the men in the armed forces, and our citizens generally, are sacrificing so heavily."

The president expressed approval of the program to employ 10,000 new tax investigators and said civil service commission recruiting agents will be stationed at army discharge center to enlist ex-fighting men.

He told reporters last night he had the "informal approval" of the house and senate appropriations committees to start at once recruiting 10,000 new employees for the drive. Funds which the bureau of internal revenue already has on hand will be used at first, and other money will be appropriated later.

"FOR REMAINING at his post at great personal sacrifice and with a fine sense of duty and devotion" to both President Roosevelt and President Truman, Stephen T. Early, White House press secretary for the past 12 years, was awarded the Distinguished Service medal. He is shown above with President Truman at the presentation.

The Soldiers Say Goodbye—

By Kenneth L. Dixon
MARGRATEN, Holland AP—Ten thousand American doughboys today were given the dignified farewell that didn't come—never comes—with death in battle.

It was a short, sincere Memorial day tribute, a salute from 21 guns and from 16 generals.

Most of us who attended didn't want to come, partially because it meant a 400-mile trip back to the United States Ninth army's main cemetery, but mostly because such ceremonies invariably present a false picture, no matter how sincere the intent behind them may be.

Forty acres of dead in neat individual graves. Row after row of clean, shining white crosses. Flowers brought by grateful, hard-working, volunteer Hollanders decorate every grave. Green sod and a hedge and thousands upon thousands of soldiers and civilians line the cemetery's edge.

And down at the end, gleaming in the intermittent sunlight, the American flag floats gently at halfmast.

And the clean white helmets of the army bandmen sparkle and the bugler stands erect, alone in a frozen silhouette and the clear, sharp sobbing notes of "Taps" cut through the thick silence of thousands who stand rigidly, swallowing in spite of themselves.

All that you see on Memorial day. You think of it as representative of all those who died in battle—you associate its decency, its dignity, its clean, quick surge of patriotic fervor with all death in combat. And such ceremonies inevitably leave you with a false mental picture.

For death in combat has no dignity. It has no decency. It has no flag, no bugle, no surge of patriotism. It has no sureness of purpose, no concrete convictions, not even any cleanliness.

Because the ceremony was simple, honest and sincere. It was devoid of bunk, it had no fancy speeches. It was more a neighbor's goodbye and a thank you than a soldier's salute.

"In happier days they were our neighbors—our friends," Lieut. Gen. William Simpson, the Ninth army's commander, said slowly in a short tribute which he concluded simply with "Let us carry on. They would have it so."

Then he took a wreath and placed it on the grave of an unknown soldier. For a moment he stood at the grave's head, hesitant, then he straightened his tall, lanky frame and held a sharp salute for a long, silent second. Then, with his face drawn down in bitter grimace, he strode back to his place.

One by one other generals followed, each putting a wreath on the grave of some known soldier of his individual outfit. Then taps broke the stillness and the bandmen played The Star Spangled Banner as the flag slowly rose to the top of the pole.

The last backward looking wave came from thousands of doughboys who filtered down the rows between the crosses and sought out their sidekicks' graves, and then—before leaving to go home or to the Pacific warfront—stood there a moment saying a silent goodbye.

Interpreting the War News—

By Kirke L. Simpson
Associated Press News Analyst

Prompt and firm British action with full support of Washington appears to have abated if it has not wholly averted danger of an armed "collision" between French and British troops in the Levant... that possibility Prime Minister Churchill bluntly foresaw in his note to General De Gaulle announcing Britain's decision to intervene in the Franco-Syrian clash. It does not remove the conclusion, however, that the pace of British redeployment against Japan may have been seriously slowed by events in the eastern Mediterranean theater.

London made a major point of the fact that tranquility in the middle east was essential "if the vital line of communication to the far east was not to be disturbed." The same thought was implicit in American reaction to French pressure tactics in Syria although omitted from the note to General De Gaulle urging that France "review" her policy.

And oddly enough, it was upon the same point French spokesmen in Paris largely based their defense of De Gaulle regime methods in Syria. French communications with the Orient were involved, they said.

Obviously, and restricted to purely military factors, availability of air or other staging bases in the middle east must be a prime element in British plans for concentrating empire armies in India, Burma or elsewhere in the southeastern Asia command for impending campaign to reconquer Malaya and Singapore. They would be no less essential to any French participation in the war against Japan in the southeastern theater, as recovery of French Indo China stands high on the De Gaulle government's announced purposes.

Availability of food resources in all the Levantine and adjacent states is another military logistics item of importance. That undoubtedly figures in joint allied plans for pressing the war on Japan simultaneously both in the Pacific and central and northern China theaters and by the southeastern Asia command.

Quite aside from the political or economic aspects of the Franco-Syrian crisis, or even its reaction on the effort at San Francisco to create world security machinery, its effect on allied and particularly British redeployment against Japan via the Mediterranean and Indian ocean could be serious if an amicable solution is not soon found.

Argentina Reestablishes Press Censorship—

By Roman Jimenez
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)

—Argentina has reestablished press censorship, arrested numerous prominent citizens, closed several newspapers and detained or expelled several well known journalists.

A stream of expelled persons and political fugitives from the Argentine government is reaching this city. They are the source of much of this information.

Since Argentina declared war on Germany and Japan, scores of former political prisoners have taken refuge here after exercising their option to leave Argentina.

Among them are persons who spent months and even more than a year in jail or concentration camps.

Yesterday I met a Czechoslovak who had been released from Villa Devoto jail after more than a year's imprisonment. He said he had been arrested with many other Europeans and Argentines on the ground he was working for the United Nations.

Persons opposing the Argentine regime estimate Argentine jails still hold nearly 3,000 political prisoners, of whom, they say, only 10 per cent wear axis sympathizers.

The number of prisoners was swollen recently by a series of arrests resulting from an Argentine government announcement that a subversive terrorist plot had been uncovered.

Exile sources here say that most of those charged with implication in the plot were found not guilty by a military court. They said this explained why the chairman of the court, Gen. Nicolas Accame, was sent out of the country as ambassador to Brazil.

Informants here are skeptical regarding the announced willingness of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell's regime to hold a general Argentine election. They say that such elections, if ever held, would be carefully engineered.

Through its declaration of war, the Argentine government became armed with a set of decrees purportedly assuring secrecy of the national defense, but which in fact may be used to suppress any criticism.

Sources here told of the continuous arrests of newspapermen and of the violent methods employed by Argentine police in curbing pro-allied demonstrations when Berlin fell and on V-E day.

This airport map of Iowa shows how citizens of this state will participate in the huge federal airport program sponsored by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and now under discussion in Congress. When completed there will be more than 130 airports in the state with many communities having such facilities for the first time. The whole program is designed to encourage private flying and the commercial airline systems.

Exclusive of buildings, hangars and special equipment, the total cost of the proposed state program is estimated at $9,951,000, of which half would be paid by the federal government and half by local agencies. This map was prepared by Cities Service Company from official CAA records.

'Serviceable' Shades Haven't a Chance—

Bright Color in Postwar World

By Bert Davis
Central Press Correspondent

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Almost any color but khaki—universal finish for almost all things GI—can expect a run for the post-war dollar. Local specialists in industrial design and finishes foresee no rosy future for the somber, off-tan hue that has been applied indiscriminately to WAC panties and the packaging of field-ration chewing gum.

Navy blue and other "serviceable" shades are also likely to fall far behind reds, yellows, and orchid shades in the finishes applied to tomorrow's packages and to the surfaces of durable articles as well.

"The sewing machines and typewriters of yesterday had no color-glour when they reached our American 'buy-ways,'" remarks Jim Alexander, who combines engineering skill with merchandising experience.

"Black-and-gold dignity in such machines even the one-color treatment of a typical washing-machine or stove, would not have captured one eager peso or kopeck in some of our major export markets.

"Yes sir, the same model, when shipped from our American plants to Brazil or Hawaii or Greece, was likely to emerge in the colors of an Oriental flower garden.

"A painter of circus band-wagons would have to admit himself outranked by the multi-colored creations fresh from many paint-sprayers, that came out the side door of many an otherwise prosaic factory. The producer's ordinary domestic products would have a shiny black skin with some gold stripes and maybe one small three-color nameplate bolted on.

Allentown's most color-conscious industry, 79-year-old L. F. Grammes and Sons, Inc., could see the new trends picking up momentum in the ventures made in motor car design. The splashy use of chrome strips and eccentric designs in plastic instrument boards were forerunning a sort of motored chariot Americans had never before seen.

"Cars were catching up with juke boxes when war rang down the curtain on the designers," says Alexander.

"We might get severe patterns and an economical use of metal in the first of the new breed of cars," he adds, "but watch for color and 'loud' color at that to come steadily forward.

"What our planes and even the airport facilities will look like by 1950 color-wise is beyond imagination. The planes will be put together to meet the critical inspection of men by the million who are now in airforce garb—and sick and tired of the 'serviceable' shades.

"Probably there will be fewer mauve dinner jackets sold to these men than they like to think when they are dreaming about post-war living.

"However, we can surely figure out that leisure-time equipment and home accessories can be bright, cheerful, new-looking—and due for tremendous approval from just such men as these who have had dust and dust-colored equipment as a steady diet throughout the war years."

To the Grammes organization there is more to color and its commercial use than the first, or show-window, appeal. Color, in fact, came into the Grammes ken after long experience in modifying various commercial designs to fit the hand, or to streamline for overall appeal, or to guard a product against quick aging in appearance.

The color studies were not so much interrupted as sent off on other directions when this company had to deal with the preservation war-time equipment facing unusual demands.

"What we learn in applying finishes to the implements of war to be serviceable for years to come," they say at Grammes.

"A research lab was developed here years ago, to pool the talents of artist, research technician and production specialist. We did not turn to any innovation in design or finishing without looking at the use of the product and also at the cost and other practical elements in actual manufacture.

"However, the war production requirements, piling up rapidly and with no time to be spared in finding the answers, put us through our best paces."

In one case the requirement for implements of war would be the ability of the finish to stand up to changes in temperature. Another product had to withstand salt air. The problem facing another manufacturer would be to defeat the attacks of perspiration.

Tests prove the life of certain finishes. And what the war taught is now to go into the future usefulness of vanity cases, refrigerator fittings, aviation clock cases, and many other products planned for mass production.

While the work with many colors, applied by etching, fire-enameling, spraying, and embossing, goes on in several departments of the Allentown plant, another Grammes shop has been handling a single contract that called for drilling eight million holes.

Jigs were set up elsewhere on the lot to bring together 17 pieces for an assembly, with 28 arc welds required to make this a finished unit.

However, the finishing specialists point out that it's typical of American metal trades to have something as "arty" as millinery designing or rose breeding going on in the midst of machine-stamping and large-capacity arc welding.

There is to be more of this merging of the sturdy and the strikingly beautiful in dishing up the items for tomorrow's merchandising.

Colored paints and enamels go to work for safety, too, as well as in post-war merchandising. Experts in the safeguarding of life and limb are planning a universal language of color that can be applied to situations in which there is neither time nor inclination to read a "danger" signboard.

Standardization of safety suggestions by color signals is already ready for post-war adoption by industries and authorities.

In the new color-tongue, a door knob, a valve handle and a trigger for gun or electric drill will all be painted blue. The hue will stand for the location of a control mechanism—not dangerous in itself unless you do not happen to understand thoroughly the mechanism to which it is attached.

The dangerous objects will bear yellow marking or, in some "super-dangerous" situations, yellow and black stripes. Orange paint would be applied to moving parts, including the wringer of a home washer as well as the propeller of an airplane.

Motorists' familiar red and green signals—commonly confused by the color blind—get new values in the safety engineer's proposed "warnings without words."

fighting and extinguishing fires would bear red paint or enamel, like the hydrants and alarm boxes in many cities. A first-aid man's equipment and even the doorway leading to his quarters would carry green paint as the signal color.

"Matched colors" have daily use already in many war plants. It didn't take long for new workers at Pettibone-Milliken's Chicago plant—points out Jim Alexander—to learn that a particular lubricant arriving in green drums, transferred to green oil cans, is to be used only on machinery parts that carry an off-hole rimmed with green paint.

The idea there and elsewhere, engineers say, prevented wastage of the more expensive lubricants and kept each machine serviced with the oil or grease it required.

Whether in shop operation or along Main street show windows, color seems to have a bright future. While the song-writer may be accurate in clothing the returning serviceman in the "old blue serge," his homemaker seems likely to vote against a backdrop of Joseph's-coat brilliancy, using putters and garden hoes and lunch pails that outshine the wildflowers.

Censorship Abolition At End of Hostilities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Abolition of censorship in the United States as soon as hostilities against the Japanese cease is the hope of Byron Price, director of censorship.

As for the people of Germany, they face an internal censorship for an extended period, OWI Chief Elmer Davis says. He explains that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower fears they otherwise might "misuse democratic rights."

A house appropriations committee, which held hearings on a national war agencies supply bill, disclosed the censorship angles in testimony released yesterday.

"Censorship constitutes so ruthless an intrusion upon the ordinary rights of individuals that no part of it should be prolonged beyond the point of absolute necessity," Price told the committee.

He said he would recommend termination of censorship "the moment American lives are no longer in danger."

Price praised both the American press and radio for the voluntary cooperation with the office of censorship.

"As General Eisenhower advised the president, 'we are not going to lose the peace by giving license to racist pan-Germans, Nazis and militarists so that they can misuse democratic rights in order to attack democracy, as Hitler did,'" Davis said.

Nipponese Kill 11 Baptist Missionaries

NEW YORK (AP)—The Japanese put to death, presumably by beheading, 11 Baptist missionaries and a nine-year-old boy on Dec. 19 or 20, 1943, the American Baptist foreign mission society disclosed yesterday.

The executions occurred in the hills of Panay in the Philippine islands where the group had fled after the Japanese invasion, the society said, adding that the location of the missionary settlement was given to the Japanese by a captured Filipino guerrilla.

Eichelberger's Army—

Powerful Force

By Fred Hampson

MANILA (AP)—As the Philippines campaign moves toward its close, it becomes evident that the MacArthur command has come up with a new and powerful force in Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Eighth army.

Built up secretly in New Guinea before the Leyte campaign, it was put "on the record" last January when its 38th division, with elements of the 24th, landed on Batan to prevent the Japanese from attempting a large-scale stand there. From there, it took Subic bay and Olongapo.

A few days later, Eichelberger sent his 11th airborne division afoot into Masugba in Batangas province south of Manila. This was the notable "1,000-yard-wide, 65-mile-long beachhead" operation. Eichelberger landed personally and supervised the campaign during which he got his doughboys ashore over the incredibly long beachhead in 104 hours.

In February Eichelberger launched what probably is one of the hottest amphibious paces in the history of warfare. In 44 days he conducted six major landings and 24 smaller ones, averaging an operation every 36 hours.

During the 44 days Eichelberger had to spread his forces pretty thin for he already had taken over the job of mopping up in Leyte and Samar.

The rugged, experienced 59-year-old Eichelberger probably knows as much about Japanese soldiers and the jungle as any man in the world. He broke the back of the enemy forces in the bloody battle of Buna.

Eichelberger, despite the pressure of his command, always seems to have time to meet and talk with anyone. He is naturally friendly and has a warm and ingratiating personality.

He is a favorite with correspondents. He goes to great length to assist them because he believes that the morale of his troops is dependent on the public recognition they get for their conquests.

Eichelberger won the Distinguished Service Cross in World War I, to which he has added two Oak Leaf clusters in this war in addition to being made a knight commander in the order of the British empire, military division.

Last Two Escaped Jap Prisoners Caught

CAMP MCCOY, Wis. (AP)—Armed with improvised knives and a hatchet, the last two of three Japanese prisoners or war who escaped from compound here May 21, were captured yesterday near West Salem, Wis.

The pair, Hajime Hashimoto, 23, and Kohei Tanaka, 24, were dressed in prisoner garb and offered no resistance when taken into custody by highway patrol chief, I. A. Wright, and Patrolman Jerome Breske. Suspicions of a farmer who saw the prisoners walking on a country highway, led to their apprehension.

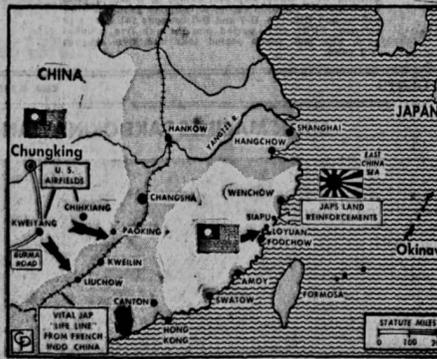

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were questioning the pair at La Crosse. The other prisoner who escaped with them was recaptured May 28 at Prairie du Chien, Wis.

JAPS RUSH TROOPS TO CHINA

FEARING AMERICAN FORCES soon may strike at Fochow, liberated port, the Japs have rushed reinforcements by warships into the critical east coast sector 30 miles northeast of Fochow. The landings were made north of Loyuan. Far to the west, Chinese troops broke a Jap stand 19 miles west of Paoking and pressed on east toward that former air base 340 miles southeast of Chungking. Far to the southwest, the Japs were falling back on Ishan. (International)

Nazi Art Caches Total About One-Fifth Of World's Treasure

PARIS (AP)—Works of art looted by the Nazis in occupied countries and private collections in Germany itself comprise roughly one-fifth of the entire art treasures of the world, Lieut. Col. Geoffrey F. Webb of the internal affairs branch of the G-5 division of supreme headquarters estimated yesterday.

This fabulous accumulation is now in the hands of the allied armies—most of it found in 580 depots ranging from huge caches of 3,000 to 4,000 cases in deep salt mines to small collections hidden on farms and in other out-of-the-way places.

Colonel Webb declared it was impossible to compute the value of the enormous collection, explaining that if it were marketed normally over a long period it would be worth unbelievable sums but that if it were dumped on the market in its entirety prices would drop to rock-bottom.

As chief of the monument, fine arts and archives section of the civil affairs division, Webb directs the organization charged with the care of historic buildings and works of art, including those looted by the enemy, wherever troops under SHAEF are employed.

The British officer, who formerly was Slade professor of fine arts at Cambridge university, said it will take weeks and weeks to examine the various caches, most of which were found without accurate inventories because of last minute shifting by the Germans in the final days of hostilities.

Webb said the majority of the Nazis' looted art objects were found in southern Germany where many of them were taken to get away from regular routes of the allied bombers, and others were added after other sections were overrun. He said for the same reason loot uncovered in the areas overrun by the Russians probably totaled only a small percentage of that found by General Eisenhower's forces.

WLB Hears Dispute Between AFL Local, Egg, Poultry Company

The dispute between the Amalgamated Meat Cutters, local No. 170-B, American Federation of Labor and Priebe and Son, Inc., formerly the Iowa City Poultry and Egg Co., was heard by panel members of the war labor board yesterday morning at the Iowa City postoffice.

The issues involved were union dues checkoff, guaranteed workweek and wages. The union, represented by Kenneth Sauer, Cedar Rapids, and the poultry and egg company, represented by Larry Faust, Kansas City, Mo., failed to agree on any of the three issues.

The panel members included the Rev. R. J. Conley, public; R. J. Carney, industry, and Waldo McMillan, labor.

The union representative stated that the meat cutters union is trying to get all contracts in the industry standardized and claimed that any other policy would be unfair to the other locals. The company countered with the acceptance of the standard maintenance clause, but stated that the union must be attractive enough to its members to get its own dues without having to depend on a check-off.

The union's request for a guaranteed workweek of 36 hours is unacceptable to the company on the grounds that the work involved is of a seasonal nature. However, according to Faust, the company is willing to accept a "preferential shop," which would favor union members according to seniority rights.

On the final issue, involving wages, Faust expressed the company's willingness to sign the voluntary form 10, if the union agreed to accept the offered 2 1/2 cent wage increase. The form 10 applies to the willingness on the part of the employer to increase existing substandard wages in his plant.

Sauers insisted upon the classification of poultry workers as skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled, but Faust stated that the company found it impossible to adopt the three bracket-classification system.

The union representative said that the standard rate in the industry for this area is 55 cents per hour for both men and women, and that an established wage differential of 10 cents per hour exists between male and female labor.

At present male employees are receiving a 60 cents per hour minimum, and female employees are receiving a 50 cents minimum. The union asks a blanket 10 cents per hour increase for employees working inside the plant.

Another controversy involved the rousteners. The company refused to accept the unions request for a 4 cent increase on each dozen eggs and on each pound of poultry obtained by the rousteners.

The findings and recommendations of the panel members will be submitted to the seventh regional war labor board at Kansas City for disposition.

Aboard at Navy Pre-Flight—Cochrane New Athletic Trainer

By Miriam Brammer Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"The kid next door who used to come home late for dinner because he had to pitch that day for the second avenue athletic club is still baseball conscious, even when out in the far reaches of the Pacific." This statement comes from one of baseball's all-time greats now known as Lieut. Comdr. Gordon S. Cochrane, Iowa Pre-Flight school.

The lieutenant commander has been helping provide a worse time for the Japanese than he did for umpires and American league pitchers when he was known as "Mickey" Cochrane, top drawer catcher for Connie Mack's world's champion Phillies. Later he was manager of the Detroit Tigers, who won the world title in 1935 when they shellacked Charley Grimm's Chicago Cubs.

Commander Cochrane is now stationed at the Navy Pre-Flight school and is acting as a member of the instructional football department. He just recently returned from an administrative post overseas and came here from the United States naval hospital on Treasure Island. The former peppery backstop says that baseball still wins a lot of attention from our fighting men overseas, even though they take little interest in baseball or anything except the job at hand when they are close to combat zones. However, the further from the fighting fronts the more baseball—this seems to be the formula, according to Commander Cochrane. He has seen the game played in places where it was never even heard of before the war. Baseball is still the national game of America, even among Americans thousands of miles from home. Sometimes the weather out in the Pacific gets a lot more unbearable than in the Shibe Park bleachers, and even the most rabid baseball fan among the youngsters in the navy finds the humidity just a little too high to go cawing palm trees along the first base line. Commander Cochrane said he occasionally meets some former major leaguer on duty in the Pacific and it is then that the "Hot-stove" league meets overtime. Ted Lyons of the Marines and formerly of the Chicago White Sox is the big leaguer he had met most recently out there, he says. Prior to his service overseas, "Mickey" was attached to the athletic department at the Great Lakes naval training station, near Chicago. He helped develop the nationally-known Great Lakes team, whose lineup was studded with former major and minor league stars in 1942. Since then the navy's policy has been altered and all-star teams are discouraged in favor of recreational ball where large numbers of personnel participate.

Juanita Long, Lieut. Col. R. F. Kennedy Wed by Proxy in Congregational Church

In a wedding by proxy, Juanita Long of San Francisco became the bride of Lieut. Col. Ronald F. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Kennedy of Cedar Rapids, Thursday at 5 p. m. in the Little Chapel of the Congregational church. The Rev. James Waery officiated at the single ring service. Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Guy D. Barrett of Palo Alto, Calif., whose husband is serving overseas with Colonel Kennedy. Standing with the bride was George Seigle of Cedar Rapids.

The bride was attired in a black and white pin check suit, a small black hat and matching accessories. She carried a white satin prayer book centered with a white orchid and tied with streamers and bows of bouvardia.

Mrs. Barrett selected a blue suit and blue accessories, with which she wore a gardenia corsage.

Following the service a dinner was held in the Rose room of the Hotel Jefferson. A tiered wedding cake surrounded by mock orange blossoms centered the serving table.

Mrs. Kennedy is a graduate of Chicago, Ill., high school and is enrolled as a senior at the University of Iowa.

Colonel Kennedy was graduated from Stanford university in Palo Alto and has been serving overseas in the European theater of operations for the last 25 months with the Eighth airforce.

Mrs. Kennedy will be at home at 250 Alhambra drive, San Francisco, Calif.

Attorney Arthur O. Leff, who handled the legal transactions for the unusual wedding stated that the written contract of marriage providing for such a ceremony is the important thing.

Iowa does not provide any specific form for wedding services nor does it require both parties to be present. In other jurisdictions where there are likewise no specific requirements, the validity of proxy weddings has been upheld. There is no question when there is a written contract, but no decision has been made as to the validity of a proxy marriage without this written contract. The contract had to be sent overseas for Colonel Kennedy to sign and returned to Iowa for Mrs. Kennedy to sign here. The physical examination papers of the bridegroom had to be returned within 20 days in order to be valid in this state just as though he were not overseas.

Usherettes were Helen Palmer, Kay Gleason, Norma Jane Harned, Genevieve Galloway and Betty Madsen.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of bengaline, fashioned with a basque bodice, and bridal point sleeves. The neckline and waist were trimmed with white floral braid and the skirt extended into a duchess train. She wore a fingertip veil and carried a shower bouquet of Killarney rosebuds and gardenias. The maid of honor selected a powder blue and white silk jersey and marquisette gown and she carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers. The bridesmaids wore aqua and pink net gowns and carried bouquets of spring flowers similar to that of the maid of honor.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ferguson chose a black ensemble with white accessories. Mrs. Todd wore a black ensemble with black accessories. Both wore gardenia corsages.

Reception at Home Following the ceremony, a reception for the wedding guests was held in the home of the bride's parents. Garden flowers and a three-tiered bridal cake flanked by tapers and surrounded by valley lilies were used as decorations. Hostesses were Mrs. A. W. Mullan and Mrs. Howard Kelly.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Feno C. Dewey of Aannawan, Ill., and Louise Brown, of Cincinnati, Ohio, both aunts of the bride, and Fred H. Brown of Elgin, Ill., grandfather of the bride.

Cadet - Irish Clash Rained Out; Double Header Today

Kaiser, Stuka To Pitch

Teams Battle to 0-0 Tie When Rain, Hail Forces Cancellation

Yesterday's clash between the Iowa Seahawks and the Irish of Notre Dame was rained out in the last half of the third inning after the two teams had battled to a scoreless tie.

Henry Kaiser, the starting Cadet hurler was nicked for four blows by the Irish, but superb infield play killed all the Irish scoring threats. Their biggest threat came in the third when pitcher Jack Barret singled after Tracy had fled out. Scieder then slammed a single between Milt McGrath and Lou Rochelli, setting up what looked to be an Irish score. Kaiser fanned Billy Hassett and forced Gilhooley to pop out to Coach Ratliff at first, ending the threat.

Only Two Hits

The Seahawks were able to get only two blows off Barret, both of these coming from the big bat of McGrath. McGrath connected in the first after Schoeberlien and fled out and Soards had fanned. Rochelli, playing in cleanup spot, sent a long fly to deep center, but Gilhooley hauled it down to quell the Cadets' thirst for a run.

McGrath led off the last half of the fourth inning with another booming single into left field. But then the rains came. Rochelli, the next man up, didn't even get a chance to swing at one of Barret's pitches, before the rain and hail drove the players and spectators alike, from the field.

Double Header Today

Pre-flight officials announced that the contest will be replayed tomorrow starting at 2 o'clock as the first game of a doubleheader. Kaiser will probably get the assignment in tomorrow's first game with Steve Stuka scheduled to go against the Irish in the second encounter.

However, if the sky is cloudy tomorrow morning, the condition of the field might force cancellation of the entire series. The field, already soggy from Thursday night's rain was a veritable lake last night, but pre-flight officials thought that with a warm sun and the proper amount of work, it would be ready for action in the afternoon.

Pirates Nudge Phillies, 6 to 5

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Five errors cost the Philadelphia Phillies their fifth straight loss yesterday as the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed them out 6-5 before 1,513 fans.

The Phillies out hit the Pirates 15 to 7. Philadelphia scored first with two runs in the opening inning, but Pittsburgh returned with four in the same inning. The Phillies took the lead in the second with three runs, but two Pirate hits and two Quaker errors in the fourth brought in the winning tallies.

PICTURED ABOVE is Henry Kaiser, starting hurler for the Iowa Seahawks yesterday in their clash with Notre Dame. The game, rained out in the last half of the third, will be replayed today starting at 2 o'clock. Kaiser will again attempt to subdue the Irish. Yesterday, Notre Dame banged him four hits, but superb infield play killed all Notre Dame scoring threats.

Fagerlind to Finish Drills for National in Iowa City

Paul Fagerlind of Iowa, who will throw the javelin in the National Collegiate meet at Milwaukee, Wis. June 9, has been working out at his home in Waterloo.

He will come to Iowa City a few days before the meet to finish his drills. Fagerlind's toss at the Drake Relays of 205 feet 2 1/2 inches is the best mark in the nation by a collegian this season.

Fagerlind did not compete in the Big Ten meet last weekend because the javelin was not listed as an event. He is the former high school champion in the javelin and holds a practice mark of 217 feet.

He's Still Pitching—Charlie Root

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This fellow Charley Root, who is doing some pitching for the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association promises to be quite a flinger when he gets a little older and some more experience.

After all, he's only 46 and he's only been in organized baseball something like 24 years.

Root, a veteran of 16 years' service with the Chicago Cubs, came to Columbus last winter to manage the Redbirds and figured he might do a little relief pitching on the side. Instead, he's become the Association's Ted Lyons.

—just about the hottest Sunday pitcher in the business. A sprained ankle, suffered during spring training, slowed Root up at the start of the season and it was May 9 before he ever went to the mound. He hurled four innings in relief against St. Paul and allowed five hits and one run.

Came Sunday, May 13, and Root got himself in trouble with the grandstand managers when some of his strategy misfired in the first game against Milwaukee and the Redbirds lost. Charley promptly silenced his critics by taking the mound himself in the seven-inning second, holding the Brewers to three hits and winning, 2 to 0.

Yankees Down Indians, 9 to 2 In Easy Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Bevens turned back the Cleveland Indians with five hits yesterday as the New York Yankees stretched their league lead to two games by an easy 9-2 over the tribe.

Bevens struck out eight Indians in coasting to his fourth decision on a 14-blow Yanks attack against starter Al Smith and Hale Kleins.

After each club scored once in the first, the New Yorkers broke out with four in the fourth, one of them on Nick Etten's fourth homer of the year.

Mike Garbarik finally broke his hit famine that has seen him go to the plate 50 times with only one safety when he singled in the fourth following Ed Wheeler's boot of Tucker Stainback's roller.

Mickey Rocco accounted for Cleveland's other tally with a long homer to the right field seats in the fifth.

Cooper Shackles Cubs In Abbreviated Tilt Called in Fifth, 5-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Rain washed out yesterday's series opener between Chicago and Boston, with the Braves leading, 5-1, with one out in the first of the fifth inning.

Mort Cooper, making his second start since he was sold to the Braves by St. Louis, was off to a shaky start in the first inning as he gave up one run on two singles and a wild pitch, but after that he had the Cubs completely under control.

Stan Hack made his first error of the season for Chicago, after handling 139 chances, in the third, letting in two Boston runs. Paul Erickson walked in another.

Hawks Lose Bill Anderson Sportstime Features Father and Son

THE IOWA HAWKEYES will lose a very valuable athlete next Friday when Bill Anderson, regular first baseman on Waddy Davis' baseball squad for the past two seasons, departs for the east. Bill is entering Annapolis for a naval career. From the way Bill guarded first base last season, it appears very probable that he will stand a good chance of breaking into the Middy lineup.

Bill was also a member of Pops Harrison's 1943-44 basketball squad and according to Pops was one of the most outstanding candidates for the 1944-45 squad. However, a football injury suffered in the fall sidetracked him and he was forced to watch the Hawks march to their first undisputed basketball title in history from the sidelines.

Summer Baseball Bill has been playing baseball with Fruehauf's nine in the Industrial league at Cedar Rapids this summer, and according to all reports, will end his baseball playing in Iowa this Sunday—at least for a number of years.

Iowa's loss is the navy's gain. We sincerely mean it, Bill, when we say the best of luck to you—and hurry back! Iowa will miss you!

WSUI will feature an interview on Sportstime Monday night that should be of interest to all local sports enthusiasts. Eric Wilson Sr. and his son, Eric Jr. (better known as Rickey), will be interviewed by Bob Brooks of the WSUI staff. Eric Sr. was an Olympic star when at Iowa and his son Rickey seems to be following in his father's footsteps as far as setting records is concerned.

Score of Records

Rickey smashed a score of records in the 440 this year for U-high and was undefeated until the state finals when he finished second to a fellow by the name of Wright who turned in the amazing time of :50.6. Rickey, by the way, turned in his fastest time for the quarter, too, but it wasn't quite fast enough.

Rickey will be running for the Iowa Hawkeyes in the fall, and we are anxiously looking forward to his activities against big time competition.

Sometime soon, we understand, the coaches and athletic heads of all the Big Ten schools will get together to map out the conference basketball schedule for next season. As yet, it is still undecided just who will do the mapping—the coaches, or the new head of the conference—"Tug" Wilson. Personally, we would rather see our own Pops Harrison handle Iowa's schedule. That way, Iowa would be assured of a schedule that they would be able to do justice to. We don't hold anything against Mr. Wilson. As a matter of fact, we don't even know him. But, we are of the opinion that Iowa would be faced with a very definite tough schedule if Mr. Wilson arranged it. (Tough, by the way, is spelled with a capital "T").

Grange Resigns as Head of U.S. Football League

Martin Discovers—Fans Love to Lose

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—As one sixty-four thousandth of the crowd that sardined its way into Jamaica race track Memorial day, we are pretty well convinced there is practically no limit to the discomfort turf fans will endure for the opportunity to lose his money.

The crowd of 64,000 plus in a setting planned to accommodate less than half that number comfortably really was something, and from the vantage of the press box the sea of bobbing noggins looked like July 4 on a Coney island beach.

Astronomical Figure There is no telling what astronomical figure the betting total would have reached had all the fans who wanted to risk a bob, or tow had been able to get to the mutual windows. As it was, anyone near the outskirts of the crowd and wanting to place a bet might as well have been in the next county as far as bucking the mass of humanity to get to the windows was concerned.

As one who makes no pretense of being a racing expert we went over the form charts until quite dizzy, trying to blend past performances, weights, quality of competition and the other information into some kind of order, but it was a case of the more you

Says Pro Ball Will Suffer

By Jerry Liska
CHICAGO (AP)—Red Grange, Illinois' immortal "Galloping Ghost," disclosed yesterday he had resigned as president of the proposed United States football league and declared postwar pro-football would throw promoters for a financial loss.

The circuit organized last fall and planned to enter teams in Akron, Baltimore, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, New York and Chicago with an eighth franchise undetermined. Whether Grange's action will leave the postwar field open to just the long-established National league and the embryonic all-America conference was conjectural.

Haven't Quit Yet It was reported the United States league refunded franchise deposits, but some representatives indicated they haven't thrown in the sponge.

Grange insisted he resigned because "the office requires a big promotional job and my insurance business prevents me from giving it the necessary time."

He added, however, that "I wouldn't advise anybody to start in pro football now. Players are holding out for between $400 and $600 a game when they used to get $150."

Grange said he had received no salary as president, declaring he didn't take the job "to make a lot of money." He said he had forwarded his resignation to league officials two weeks ago.

Red Sox Walk To 6 to 4 Win Over Tigers

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox won the game on walks yesterday, sewing up a 6 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers with two bases on balls in the fifth inning with the sacks filled.

In the fifth, after Bob Johnson and Johnny Lazor singled and were sacrificed along by Eddie Lake, Wilson gave an intentional walk to Jack Tobin, filling the bases.

Dave Ferris, pinch hitting for Emmett O'Neill, walked, forcing Johnson home and Wilson was replaced by little 18-year-old Bill Pierce, who walked George Metkovich to force in the second run.

After walking Metkovich, however, Pierce settled down, allowing but one hit and striking out four men during the rest of the game.

CHANDLER STILL SENATOR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler has decided to retain his seat in the senate at least several more months. He told a reporter today that he "wants to be in" the results of the San Francisco world organization conference. Indications are that congress may take a two-months vacation starting in July. During that time, Chandler could devote much of his time to baseball. Chandler explained that he has not yet signed his contract as commissioner but expects to do so soon after baseball clubowners have affixed their signatures. He said baseball men suggested that he accept the commissioner's salary of $50,000 a year, effective May 1, but he declined until he leaves the senate. Meanwhile, he receives reimbursement of expenses incurred in baseball work.

INDIANA WHIPS OHIO

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana university matched Ohio State's three-run rally in the eighth inning of a Big Ten baseball game yesterday and won, 6 to 4. The Hoosiers scored twice in the first and once in the sixth. Ohio scored only once until its eighth inning spurge. Mike Modak of Indiana struck out one batter and gave up five hits. His relief, Don Leaky, yielded one hit. Don Grate, Ohio pitcher allowed seven hits and struck out five. Grate and Modak each walked one but Grate's walk forced in a run in the sixth. Ed Cohen Indiana catcher, lost credit for a homer when he failed to touch third in the fourth inning. The teams will meet again today.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

At Evanston, Ill., Minnesota at Northwestern, postponed, rain. (Doubleheader Saturday).

Other League Officers

Other league officers include Arthur H. Ehlers, president of the Interstate baseball league, vice-president; sports editor Howard (Peg) Parsons of the Erie (Pa.) Daily Times, secretary and Charles A. Burns of Akron, treasurer. Grange, who made football history at the University of Illinois in 1923-24-25, had a decade of professional playing experience. After a brief debut with the Chicago Bears in 1925, he joined the New York Yankees, then returned to the Bears in 1929 and played with them through 1935. He was a Bear coaching aide from 1936 through 1938.

Dale Lounsbury, former Iowa swimmer and one-time freshman swimming coach, now is an ensign on an LST with the Seventh fleet. He reported from New Guinea that he was preparing for action.

Why the Biggest Job in town carries no pay!

WHAT is the biggest job in your town—in anybody's town, between May 14th and June 30th?

It's that of the man or woman who will ask you to buy extra War Bonds in the 7th War Loan.

It carries no pay because the people who are doing this work are good Americans. In addition to buying extra Bonds themselves, they're willing to give their time to a job that's as important as anything outside the battle lines.

It's important—and it's big. Making our quotas in the 7th War Loan is a man-sized job for everybody.

Uncle Sam needs 7 billion dollars from individual Americans in the 7th! That's a bigger quota than ever before. It's bigger because this is really 2 loans in 1—last year, by this time, we had bought Bonds in 2 loans instead of one.

And it's bigger because the need is bigger. We're building up a whole new air force, with new jet-propelled planes and even huger bombers. We're building more tanks, mortars, and everything for the increasingly bitter struggle with Japan. And we're paying the mounting cost of victory—taking care of wounded men who are arriving in this country by thousands every month.

So—be ready when one of these War Bond workers comes to you. Open your door, your heart, your purse—for the 7th War Loan.

Help America to make its quota—by making yours!
