President Truman Urges Ban on Atomic Bomb

'Use Energy For Welfare Of Humanity'

Wants Group to Guide New Atom Knowledge Toward Peaceful Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday called on the world to outlaw the atomic bomb, and urged congress to create a commission with unprecedented power to promote the use of atomic power for the welfare of humanity.

At the same time, he emphasized that he intended to keep the bomb secret while discussing with other powers agreements to use the "revolutionary" new knowledge for "peaceful and humanitarian ends."

In a message to congress, he said that unless arrangements can be made for international collaboration, the world may witness a "desperate armament race which might well end in disaster."

The war department and congress moved swiftly to act on the president's recommendations for the atomic energy commission.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the house military committee and Senator Johnson (D., Col.) of the senate military committee introduced legislation to carry out Mr. Truman's request.

The bill was sent to them by Secretary of War Patterson with a plea for immediate action.

The president said he proposed to initiate discussions with Great Britain and Canada looking to international agreements outlawing the use of atomic bombs.

Other nations, presumably including Soviet Russia, will be brought into the discussions later.

At the same time the president stressed that—temporarily at least—the secret of the bomb would not be disclosed to others outside the Great Britain—Canada—United States group.

Will Keep Secret
"I desire to emphasize that these discussions will not be concerned with disclosures relating to the manufacturing processes leading to the production of the atomic bomb itself," he said.

"They will constitute an effort to work out arrangements covering the terms under which international collaboration and exchange of scientific information might safely proceed."

The president said that in international relations as in domestic affairs, "the release of atomic energy constitutes a new force too revolutionary to consider in the framework of old ideas."

"We can no longer rely on the slow progress of time to develop a program of control among nations. Civilization demands that we shall reach at the earliest possible date a satisfactory arrangement for the control of this discovery in order that it may become a powerful and forceful influence towards the maintenance of world peace instead of an instrument of destruction."

'Widely Known'
The president said that scientific opinion was virtually unanimous that the essential theoretical knowledge upon which the discovery was based "is already widely known" and that "foreign research can come abreast of our present theoretical knowledge in time."

He said discussions could not wait with safety the functioning of the United Nations organization.

At the outset of the message, the president said that it had been almost two months since the first atomic bomb was used against Japan. He said it did not win the war, but shortened it and saved the lives "of untold thousands of American and Allied soldiers."

He recommended that the nation's "enormous investment" in atomic bomb plants in the states of Washington and Tennessee be maintained and that a "strong organization of scientists familiar with atomic energy be continued."

Congress Considers White House Requests On Atomic Energy, St. Lawrence Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress got requests from President Truman yesterday to lend a hand with developing:

1. Atomic energy, for peacetime purposes. (See column 1, this page).

2. The St. Lawrence river, for navigation and power production. The requests came while congress haggled over trimming business taxes, paring down government activities and hiking rail rates on federal freight.

Congress showed no more enthusiasm toward the St. Lawrence seaway plan than it did all during the Roosevelt administration. Maybe this winter it will look into the whole business again.

The president asked congress to okay a fast start on teaming up with Canada to improve the river. The idea is to generate 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity and let ocean ships sail the Great Lakes.

The house ways and means committee talked a lot about cutting corporation taxes. It didn't decide anything. But it looks as if the committee may vote today to end a 95 percent wartime tax on business. The tax was intended to take from corporations most of their extra wartime profits.

The house itself discussed government reorganization.

The big fuss was over how much power the president ought to have to kill off or combine bureaus and commissions.

Republicans made the most noise about adding more agencies to the list the president couldn't touch.

The bill before the house would tell him to lay off all the 10 big departments—war, navy, state, and all the rest—along with the securities, trade and interstate commerce commissions and the general accounting office.

The house may vote on the bill tomorrow or Saturday.

The senate talked about making the government pay the railroads as much as anybody else for hauling freight.

The government has been paying cut rates ever since it gave railroads a lot of land back in the 1870's to help them build westward.

Congressmen whetted up a curiosity about:

Oil—a Standard Oil company official told a senate committee this country has enough to last "many, many years."

Silk—maybe America can produce it. A house subcommittee is going to see about it. A start on production has been made at Mineral Wells, Tex.

In committees: House agriculture approved a bill to require the agriculture department to include labor costs in figuring out parity prices. Parity prices are supposed to give farmers as much buying power as they had in some past, favorable period, such as 1909 to 1914.

Senate foreign relations questioned Spruille Braden, former ambassador to Argentina. It postponed action on his appointment as an undersecretary of state.

In th house Rep. A. L. Miller (R., Neb.) stymied a bill to award a gold medal to Gen. George C. Marshall army chief of staff.

'Globester' in U. S. Ahead of Schedule; Due in Capitol Today
HICKMAN FIELD, Hawaii (AP)—The "Globester" winged its way across the wide Pacific yesterday with excellent indications it would beat the announced time of 151 scheduled hours on the army transport command's first world girdling flight.

There will be a three-hour stop at San Francisco and then into the air again at 7:30 a. m. (CST). The tentative schedule called for the flight to end at Washington, D. C., at 9 p. m., or in 148 hours.

Life Is So Short

CHRISTMAS may come early this year for Lily Mae Smith, 11-year-old Kent, Ohio, youngster who is suffering from an incurable heart ailment. Lily Mae, above, has had a weakened heart ever since she had rheumatic fever four years ago and specialists say the child will not live to see Santa Claus this year. While Lily spends her time fishing, the little girl's mother continues to search for a new heart specialist, hoping against hope that the worst may not come—or that Lily's life may at least be prolonged. Walks 500 Miles Makes 10 Day Hike To World Series
CHICAGO (AP)—Alvin F. Bergman, Pittsburgh's persevering pedestrian, plodded into Chicago yesterday, two days late, because, he said, "rains and head winds" slowed his progress.

The 58 year old Bergman, who has been walking for a hobby since he was 16, made the 500 mile hike in 10 days and arrived at the Loop Congress hotel unwinded. He wound up the trip with a lobe to the Loop, carrying only a stick and with his high topped walking shoes worn through.

Bergman, on a two weeks vacation, walked to Chicago to see the world's series. He admitted he didn't have a ticket yet, but promised, "I'll be there."

Bergman said he first became interested in walking when he read newspaper accounts of the pedestrian's feats of Edward P. Wesson, an old time walking champion. Later, he said, he met Wesson "and we used to go for sociable walks together."

Asked how long a "sociable walk" was, he said: "about 25 miles."

"I wouldn't get dressed up for less than 25 miles," he said.

Fans Urged to Give Grid Team Send-Off

Iowa fans are urged to turn out tomorrow morning at 9:20 to give the Hawkeyes a rousing send-off as they depart for their Big Ten debut against Ohio State. The team will leave Iowa City from the Rock Island station.

The team "needs the support of the students whether it's a case of win or lose," E. G. (Dad) Schroeder said.

Glenn Devine of the Hawkeye coaching staff urged fans to see the team off tomorrow and meet it when it returns. "We'll try our best to bring back the eyes out of the Buckeyes," he promised.

Reds Demand U. S. Set Up Four-Power Rule Over Japan

LONDON (AP)—A Russian demand that Gen. MacArthur's rule in Japan be replaced by a four-power control government was presented to the United States during the last hours of the conference of foreign ministers, the Moscow radio declared yesterday.

The demand, it said, was made in a letter handed to United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes Tuesday as the foreign ministers of the five leading Allied powers, deadlocked over procedure, ended unsuccessfully their first attempt to write a European peace.

The disclosure came in the midst of these developments:

1. Russian Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Byrnes separately expressed confidence that the ultimate agreement would be reached on peace treaties for Europe.

2. Byrnes and Molotov brought into the open a disagreement over whether the big three had agreed at Potsdam that all five principal powers could participate in discussions of European peace treaties. That was the issue which deadlocked the conference.

3. Byrnes announced the deputies of the council would continue work in London on some aspects of the European peace which were not involved in the procedural dispute.

While the military phase of the war and the disarmament of Japan continued, a Moscow radio broadcast said, there was reason for concentrating control in the Allied commander-in-chief, Gen. MacArthur. Now the allies are faced with problems of a political, economic and financial character which call for joint control, it added.

'Bad Neighbor' Policy Of Argentina Attacked By U. S. Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States led the western hemisphere yesterday in delivering a new diplomatic slap at the military clique which is governing Argentina.

In tough language, this government told its good neighbors to the south that the present Argentine regime was a bad neighbor, and recommended:

Three Recommendations
1. That the Inter-American conference scheduled to open Oct. 20 at Rio de Janeiro—with Argentina participating—be postponed.

2. That the other American republics proceed without Argentina to draft a hemisphere defense treaty—the object of the Rio conference—and to sign it at the Brazilian capital "at the earliest possible moment."

3. That the other American republics carry on consultations "in respect to the Argentine situation."

Reaction from south of the border was immediate. A dispatch from Brazil said the conference had been postponed. It was also learned there that President Getulio Vargas had abruptly postponed a scheduled visit Oct. 12 with Gen. Edelmir Farrell, president of the Argentine regime.

Expect Agreement
There was little doubt that the other American republics would quickly agree to the postponement of the Rio conference and the other U. S. proposals. Three Latin American ambassadors in Washington had suggested delaying the conference Tuesday.

Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson asserted that the United States believed Argentina not only had failed to fulfill its hemisphere commitments, but had completely repudiated them.

Police Lift Cordon Around Universities In Argentine Rife
BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Police began withdrawing last night from positions around Buenos Aires universities, where hundreds of students and professors had barricaded themselves in a protest against reimposition of a national state of seige by Argentina's military regime.

Some 30,000 students in the nation's six major universities joined the protest. Those barricaded here had remained firm despite suspension of water and light services to the buildings at noon yesterday.

Japs Rebuked
General MacArthur reminded the Japanese government a gain that Allied occupation forces were the supreme authority in Korea. His reminder came in a sharp notice that the government's promotion of certain Nipponese officials being held over temporarily in southern Korea "are ineffective."

MacArthur's headquarters announced that Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who once swaggered under the nickname of "the tiger of Malaya" and who surrendered the last Japanese forces fighting in the Philippines, would be tried in Manila "for brutal atrocities and other high crimes" against the Allies.

More Coal Trouble
New soft coal mine closings carried above 100,000 the number of workers in that industry off the job because of a strike of super-visory employees. The strikers seek collective bargaining recognition of their union, a branch of the United Mine Workers.

The strike is confined to four states, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, and the solid fuels administration has put an embargo on shipments via rail or water from producers in the affected areas.

A new strike closed the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft plant in Fort Worth, Tex. About 700 members of the AFL Machinists union established a picket line and cessation of operations kept 8,000 workers off the job. The union struck for a contract calling for a 30 percent wage rate increase and other benefits.

Conciliation Fails, Confiscation Orders to Be Issued Today

Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach recommended the step last night when he emerged from the final session of the conferences to report that conditions placed by the majority of companies on an alternative proposal had been tantamount to rejection. The CIO Oil Workers union announced its acceptance.

The White House announcement made shortly afterward, by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, said the "necessary orders" for seizure of oil refineries in 15 states were now being drawn, although the exact hour of takeover was not specified. He said President Truman would have a statement on the subject today.

Schwollenbach said objections of 10 of the 11 companies in the conference to his plan "made it utterly impossible to proceed with the arbitration." Sinclair, the one company, agreeing to the terms said it would withdraw if the other firms did not agree.

New Developments
Other labor developments of the day were:

1. New strikes, continuing disputes, and expansion of the soft coal and oil walkouts boosted the national total of workers on the production sidelines to more than 450,000.

2. General Motors corporation rejected as "unreasonable" the CIO United Automobile workers demand for a 30 percent wage rate increase.

3. William Green, AFL president, said the nation needed machinery to settle strikes before they start.

4. The spreading coal strike accounted for more than 100,000 mine workers away from their pits.

5. A port-wide strike of 60,000 workers, including 46,000 longshoremen, crippled shipping in New York harbor.

As oil company representatives entered a conference with Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach in Washington, the Shell company issued a statement saying it was rejecting the union demand for a 38-cent hourly increase.

Government Proposal
The government settlement proposal calls for a temporary 15 percent increase and arbitration of the additional 15 percent in the union's demand for a 30 percent hike. Shell said the union had been informed the company's offer of a 15 percent boost "remains open."

Many communities are in a tight gasoline situation as a result of refinery closings. The strike shut off the flow of crude oil through pipelines from Houston to Corpus Christi, Tex., at dawn yesterday. Toledo's gasoline rationing program collapsed and the mayor of Detroit appealed to President Truman and Schwollenbach for a quick settlement of the oil dispute because of short gasoline supplies in the motor capital.

Some 80,000 automobile industry workers in Detroit are not working because of labor troubles. The UAW will vote Oct. 24 on whether to call a strike among General Motors' 325,000 employees and Oct. 25 on one among Chrysler corporation's thousands of workers. The UAW also is petitioning for a strike vote at the Ford Motor company.

Recommends U. S. As Permanent Seat Of World League
LONDON (AP)—The United States should be the permanent seat of the new international security organization, the United Nations preparatory executive committee recommended last night.

Only Great Britain, France and the Netherlands opposed having the headquarters in America. Russia voted for the United States and against Europe.

The recommendation first will be offered to the preparatory commission itself, which is expected to meet soon. If the commission approves, the recommendation then will be put before the entire assembly for final action.

Cheering, Singing Crowd Enjoys Pep Rally

PRESIDENT HANCHER ADDRESSES FANS AT RALLY

Hawks Given Rousing Support by Students

Young and old alike sang and stomped and cheered until the Ionic pillars of Macbride auditorium rang with the high spirits of the students at the "Kick-Off" football rally last night.

The audience filled every seat in the auditorium and late comers were standing all around the sides—girls, young boys in plaid shirts, returned vets, some with their wives like Bill Boswell who was busy teaching his wife the words to "On Iowa."

One of the oldest rooters was policeman J. F. Phipps, who has been doorman for pep rallies for 25 years. He has seen so many crowds, he said, he was lonesome at first. But as the meeting got underway he began joining in on some of the cheers and burst into a wide smile when the Highlanders in full regalia tottered and beat their colorful way through the auditorium.

Students participated noisily in learning new yells and songs. President Hancher opened the Senior Hours—Boon or Bane?

Liberalization of closing hours for senior women, announced Tuesday by the University Women's association, is another answer to the question: "How great is the University's responsibility in seeing that students, one way or another, acquire an education?"

In any case, the university is de-emphasizing compulsion and is laying the stress on the individual's responsibility to HERSELF.

This is a particularly healthy trend, for Iowa senior women students will now be given an opportunity to make a practical application of the mature discretion it is hoped they have gained in three years at this university.

And the very act of making such decisions is going to be the groundwork for decisions that will have to be made after they have been graduated—when they probably will not have anyone to guide them or to say that they are stepping across the line which marks the boundary of their own welfare.

Just as nothing succeeds like success, that part of character called responsibility cannot be developed unless responsibility is placed in the proper places. That is being done now.

Pep Rally—

Despite the facts students had to cheer for a football team that could not be present, last night's pep rally gave indications of what the student body can do to whip up spirit if it wants to.

At a football game, where there is something to stir even more excitement, the students should send up an uproar that will be heard all over town.

The pep rally was a flying start. Let's go higher!

Big Three for Five?

(Christian Science Monitor) Russia's demand that the Balkan treaty question be settled by the Big Three instead of the Big Five has given rise to speculations as to whether the Russians are going to force a change in the entire concept of peacemaking as represented in the council of foreign ministers and even at San Francisco.

That is where the dispute has to be solved, either with the other two of the Big Five looking on, or in private as the Russians would prefer. But there have been reports that the French and Chinese delegations, though without voting power on this question, have been siding in discussion with the American and British delegations.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON—A naval carrier fighter pilot who fought in the Pacific from the beginning—and a little before—returned home appalled at the intensity of the people and issues he found after long absence. What this country needs, he says, is some fun. His comrades, he reported, had the same idea.

Not many smiles can be found around here, and more expletives than anecdotes are available in official sanctums. Yet the precise condition behind most of the glumness and high nerves noticeable in the news actually falls considerably short of justifying or inducing morbidity.

To tell it to you straight, with a primary instance, there has been less excitement over the London conference in congress or the state department than you could expect. State Secretary Byrnes had almost free rein from Mr. Truman to make his own decisions, passed little inside information to Washington. And what he did pass rather suggested the conference table talk was really worse than publicly conceded.

Russia has no air force. She used ours during the war, herself developing only one plane, the Stormovik—and she has no navy. No one can see any possibility of her getting either in the visible future, and the atomic bomb does not yet enter this picture.

But Russia is intense, not only by Slavic nature but by political preference. Even her army thinks politically on all occasions, with the dominating interest of a nation now with great new-found power, but again with mainly political power attained by a victorious position, as distinct from a world martial power or even a superior industrial power.

I think it is entirely accurate to report the official position here as fearing Russia politically, not otherwise. Indeed, "the only common criticism heard of Byrnes is that he gave ground on some points. How could it be otherwise when the British labor party (Attlee and Bevin particularly) won their recent election victory on the claim they could deal with Russia in a more friendly way than Churchill, and therefore better. Their proved no better than any other way.

This is a world condition now. If anyone is going to keep tense about it, his diet will be off for a long time, as it will be a continuing condition.

Then there was the fuss over General MacArthur's administration of Japan. As I glean it, Acting State Secretary Acheson did actually speak for Mr. Truman (also incidentally Moscow) when he flung a few voluble words across the Pacific to Tokyo. He was at the White House the day before. But a day or so later, he entered a press conference, asking: "How does everyone feel now that the storm is over?"

Actually there is now no dissatisfaction with MacArthur's administration in official quarters, and I believe the general sentiment is he is doing a superior job. I am sure the war and navy departments think he will do a complete job, if left alone.

The trouble on this score, we suspect, was also somewhat political (leftist and communist) although not intense. The most important statement MacArthur has made as far as Washington is concerned, was the one tersely mentioned in dispatches, that he considers his position his last assignment. That was what many an administration authority most wanted to hear.

For many a year the suspicion has absorbed some Democratic quarters that MacArthur might want to run for a higher office next. His several denials, and the belief of his friends that he is without political ambitions, has failed to extirpate this suspicion.

The domestic strike intensity, of course, concerns the economic future of the country, and as in the case of Russia, will be a continuing proposition. We are in what we call "a controlled inflation."

The administration wants it. It is working for a high-wage and high price economy. The only question is whether the inflation is to be controlled by the government or the unions. If wages are to go up 30 percent this year under one or two year contracts, the same pressure for shoving everything 20 or 30 notches higher again will exist in a year or two. If the government succeeds in limiting the advance to 10 or 15 percent now it cuts its problem that much. Most authorities seem now to think this intention will be carried through.

So while it is impossible to find behind the news much glee for my flying friends from the Pacific,

Local Boy Makes Good—

Tito's Success

By WILLIAM B. KING

KUMROVEC, Yugoslavia — The peasants of this little Croatian village are proud of two things. One is that during all the war not a single man of the village joined the Ustachi, the army of the Quisling premier Ante Pavlic; and the other is that one of its sons has made good in a big way—Tito, or Josipbroz, president of Democratic Federated Yugoslavia.

The peasant cottage where Tito was born in 1892, typical of the several dozen in the village, is a small stucco building, painted a light blue, with a red slate roof. Although it has taken on some of the aspects of a shrine it is still what it has always been—the home of a peasant farmer.

The present occupant is a nephew of the marshal—a son of his elder brother—who came in from his fields to show me the room where Tito was born. The nephew himself was typical of the villagers, simple, barefooted and browned.

The villagers told us with great satisfaction of a visit Tito paid to the village in June, his first trip to his old home since 1937. Many of the villagers did not clearly remember him. One marveled peasant said: "We didn't hear much about him after he left and we wondered what he was doing. When we found out we knew he had been busy all right."

No good biography of Tito has been published. It is known that he learned the metalworking trade after leaving his village for nearby Zagreb, and developed an early interest in labor problems and politics. The first World War planted the seeds which grew and shaped the course of his life.

He was conscripted into the army of Austro-Hungary, which then ruled Croatia, but his natural Croat hatred of Austro-Hungarian domination of his homeland caused him to desert. He went over to the Russians in the Galician campaign of 1915.

Sympathetic with the revolutionary fever spreading through the Russian army, after the Czar was deposed Tito remained in Russia fighting the civil war with the Red army. Here he learned the partisan warfare that was to prove so valuable to the Allied cause two decades later.

Back in Yugoslavia he became a labor leader of the metal workers, in constant trouble with the reactionary police and finally receiving a five-year prison term. In these days the name "Tito" first was heard. He began to use the name Tito, a common nickname in his native part of Croatia.

A politically independent newspaper of 1928, reporting Tito's trial for Communist activity, described Broz as having a steely cold stare and fearlessly holding his own in sharp exchanges with the president of the court. An artist's sketch of Broz showed a serious, bespectacled young intellectual, on fire with the agitator's intensity. Today Tito is quiet and readily shows a sense of humor.

Tito is not a big man, he is rather under medium height. A bulging waistline indicates a vigorous appetite. His marshal's uniform is always neatly pressed. This quality of neatness, his associates say, never lapses in the most difficult days of the partisan fighting.

Tito, whose formal education was only rudimentary, speaks fluent Russian and German, reads English and French, and is well read in all four languages.

On his release from prison in 1934 he resumed his political activity, becoming leader of the underground labor movement. During the Spanish civil war he set up headquarters in Paris and smuggled to the government army Balkan volunteers who were later to become his most valuable lieutenants in the partisan army.

When the Germans entered Zagreb in 1941 Tito remained for several weeks under assumed identity. In his capacity of secretary-general of the Yugoslav Communist party, he called about 20 people to a secret meeting, which was held in a milk shop. This meeting decided on resistance and made immediate plans for collecting and hiding arms. Their plans well laid, the partisans synchronized their uprising with the Nazi attack on Russia.

The result of that heroic fight is now history.

Interpreting the News

By JAMES D. WHITE

Associated Press Staff Writer — The possibly major part which Russian interests in the Pacific played at the foreign ministers council in London is just now coming fully to light.

Until the last, reports from London indicated that the meeting was deadlocked largely over a question of whether China and France were to be dealt in on peace terms to Axis countries in the Balkans.

The United States and Britain said yes, China and France were Big Five powers and ought to sit in. Russia said no, because neither China nor France had declared war on the Balkan countries concerned, nor had signed armistice terms with them.

The meeting actually ended with publication of a Russian demand that a four-power control council be set up, now, to rule Japan. This would go far beyond the consultative commission to direct Allied long-range policy toward Japan which Secretary of State Byrnes had proposed on Sept. 29.

Moscow now reveals that the Soviets had proposed as early as Sept. 24 that Russia be dealt in, now, on a four-power council to control Japan's current affairs, presumably like the one for Germany that functions in Berlin.

Still working our way back, it will be remembered that when the London meeting opened it developed that the Russians wanted to talk about Pacific problems but that Secretary Byrnes wasn't prepared to deal with the Pacific and had to send home for experts and documents.

Aside from the developments at London, these things have happened in the Far East itself which may bear on Russia's case: Moscow signed a series of treaties with China which gave her half interest in the Manchurian railway, one of the more important rail systems in the world from both an economic and political standpoint. She has the free port of Dairen and a naval base at Port Arthur, Russia occupied all of Sakhalin, the Kuriles, and half of Korea.

Nothing is happening to disturb the prospect of more intimate relations between China and Russia in the future, and the Russians have announced that they will withdraw all their occupation troops from Manchuria by the end of November.

BRITAIN'S MIDGET SUBMARINES, with an enviable European war record, also played a part in the war against the Japs in the Pacific. Here is one of the Royal navy's tiny subs, which varied in length from 30 to 50 feet and carried crews of three to four men, shown at an Australian base. The subs were unable to travel more than 10 to 12 feet below the surface. Midget subs like this one struck and crippled the German battleship Tirpitz in a Norway hideout. (International) strong enough to shoulder the responsibility they are undertaking.

Secretary of State Byrnes has offered a compromise under which the Balkan treaties would be discussed in a subcommittee of three (Big Three) and thus meet Russian demands for directness while keeping the Big Five approach to peacemaking intact. But even this offer, because coupled with a proviso that the treaties be finally approved by a general peace conference, has not proved acceptable.

The present Russian demands stem, after all, from the Potsdam agreement, which was conducted at the highest level. As at San Francisco, now at London the Russians are showing that they expect such meetings as Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, where the heads of state have reached agreement, to set the pattern for subsequent broader discussion.

Covering The Capital

By FRANK CAREY (Jack Stinnett Is III)

WASHINGTON—The army medical department has been attempting to produce an antivenin for possible use against the rare habu snake, which has bitten about a dozen soldiers on Okinawa.

The habu's bite is considered quite dangerous. The snake is found only on Okinawa, but has cousins in other parts of the Orient.

It's of a family entirely different from the rattlesnake's, but army doctors on Okinawa have been using a rattlesnake serum against the habu's bite. This is apparently effective, but the army wants a specific habu antivenin.

To make an antivenin, poison is extracted from the snake and injected into a horse. Dosages increased gradually over a period of weeks make the horse so immune he can safely withstand amounts several hundred times as great as he could have withstood originally.

Eventually the horse is bled, and a snakebite serum extracted that contains antibodies built up by the chemistry of the horse's own blood.

In this way scientists in this country have developed a kind of all-purpose antivenin for use against the bites of all native poisonous snakes except the coral, which rarely bites. This all-around serum is made by using a mixture of venoms in immunizing horses.

In Brazil, where the death rate from snake bite once was about 3,000 persons a year, the Instituto Butantan developed a scheme which has lowered the death rate to about 100 a year. The South American institute had planters and farmers bring in snakes so that antivenins could be prepared, and in exchange gave away serums for the snakes.

An authority on antivenin is Miss Doris Cochran of the Smithsonian institution, an expert on dangerous reptiles who writes in a Smithsonian report: "In general it may be said that an antivenin is satisfactorily effective only against bites from snakes of the same type that supplied the venom used in its preparation."

Activity Meeting for Women Today

Groups to Depict Phases of SUI Life For New Students

To introduce activities on the University of Iowa campus to freshmen and transfer women, an activities meeting will be presented at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Macbride auditorium.

Ellen Larson, A3 of Dayton, Ohio, is directing the U. W. A. program. Eight "life pictures" will represent "code for coeds," student and faculty teas, hospital co-eds, Recognition day, orientation, "charm school," vocational guidance and information first.

Dean Earl McGrath To Be Guest Speaker At Meeting of AAUW

Dean Earl J. McGrath, new head of the college of liberal arts, will be guest speaker of the October general meeting of the American Association of University Women. The first fall meeting will be held in the University club rooms of the Iowa Union, Oct. 13, at 12:15 p. m.

The purpose of the American Association of University Women is to unite the alumnae of colleges and university women with the effort in view of raising the status of graduate and undergraduate women. A fourfold program is now operating to carry on work and to publicize it in international relations, the fine arts, education, and in social studies. The most stress has been placed on the promotion of democratic ideals and principles.

Membership is nationally limited to colleges which fulfill certain requirements since locally and nationally the A. A. U. W. is seeking to raise the economic and social conditions for undergraduate and graduate women. The local chapter urges all local alumnae residing in Iowa City or the vicinity and all graduate women on the campus to affiliate with the chapter. Eligibility may be checked by calling Prof. Beth Wellman, Ext. 8443 or 4818, or Mrs. Homer Dill, 5187.

Officers for this year are Professor Wellman, president; Mrs. Dill, vice president and chairman of the membership committee; Catherine Mullin, historian; Elgin Kreul, secretary, and Mrs. Eurnice Beardsley, treasurer.

The local chapter will arrange eight noon luncheons throughout the year with guest speakers for each occasion. Senior women will be guests at one meeting. Work is being planned for several study groups, all of which are open to the entire membership. These include social studies, education, drama, and international relations.

Mission in Africa Dr. L. Jaggard Tells Of Experiences

Stories of Africa, its natives, its exports, and its elephants were related by Dr. Louis Jaggard in telling of his experiences as a missionary at a meeting of the Lions club yesterday noon.

Dr. Jaggard, who operated a mission hospital in the Belgian Congo in central Africa, listed gum copal, rubber, and palm oil as the three main exports of that section.

The natives, Dr. Jaggard said, collected rubber for the Allies during World War II although previous to the war during the Rubber Atrocity period under King Leopold, plantation overseers cut the right hands off children and old men to force the able-bodied workers to gather more rubber.

Elephant hunting is expensive for a white man using a rifle, Dr. Jaggard explained. The fee for a license to kill two elephants during a period of one year varies from $250 to $300. The natives, however, may trap and spear as many as they can.

The natives use elephant meat as food, and, Dr. Jaggard concluded, "I consider elephant trunk a great delicacy."

Guests at the luncheon were W. E. Kemp of Des Moines, and H. B. Eversole of Iowa City.

Graduate Returns After 3 Years Overseas

"I think the biggest thrill of my life was coming into New York on the 'Argentina,'" said Lt. Col. Clarence J. Lang, 27, a University of Iowa graduate and a resident of Iowa City, recently returned from 38 months of overseas duty. Colonel Lang had turned down a ride home in a plane to come across on a boat because as he said, "When I left the States, the last thing I saw was the Statue of Liberty and I wanted to come in the same way I went out."

"The day before we were to dock was clear and calm. Excitement was running high among all on board. We were coming home at last and we knew that when we saw the Statue of Liberty that we would really be home. The next morning broke cloudy and we were running in a heavy fog. With all hope lost of seeing the Statue, we suddenly broke out in the clear and there before us was the sun shining on the background of the New York skyline with the Statue of Liberty directly in front of us! It was as if the curtain were going up on a play.

"A real homecoming was given to us as we proceeded up the Hudson river to the docks. On a ferry that steamed along beside us was an army band and real American girls dancing, calling and waving their greetings to us across the water. It was noon in N. Y. and the paper and confetti that people were throwing littered the water. All of the tug boats, as well as the other boats, gave us a three-blast welcome and then tied their whistles down. We had our field glasses out and could see American girls and American cars. We were home!

"As we docked, American Red Cross girls met us with all the milk we could drink. I'd always said that the first thing I'd do when I got back to the States would be to drink two quarts of milk. However, I only drank one and one-half quarts. It really tasted good, though."

In ROTC at Iowa

Colonel Lang reported to the army in June of 1940, six days after he had graduated from the University of Iowa in commerce. He was immediately commissioned as a lieutenant in the quartermaster corps after receiving infantry ROTC training here at the university.

In 1942 he shipped to Ireland as an officer in the first colored regiment ever to set foot on that land. "I know now why they call it the Emerald Isle," said Lang. "It rained, rained and then rained some more the entire time we were there."

Upon leaving Ireland, he went to England and then was shipped to Africa where he landed at Oran. There he and his men spent 22 months unloading ships, and hauling rations, clothing and ammunition to the men at the front.

Met Ernie Pyle

"One of the biggest kicks I've had since I arrived home was seeing Ernie Pyle's 'Story of G. I. Joe' the other night. Ernie's favorite group was Company C, 18th Infantry." Lang and his men were the ones that hauled that company up to the front that Christmas Eve of 1942. His unit received a letter of commendation for that and it's one of the mementos Colonel Lang is preserving. He added: "It was wonderful to see that part of the picture and to know that I had a part in it."

Marseille Is Best

With the invasion of southern France, Colonel Lang and his men were assigned to Marseille, France where he remained for 12 months until he was sent home.

"The climate and the food were the best I found in my entire period of overseas service," said Colonel Lang. "Of all the places I'd been Marseille was the best."

When asked about the football game last Saturday between the University of Iowa and Bergstrom Field, Lang replied, "It was a great thrill to see the game. It's things like that you think about overseas—like going to the game with a date and then going out with the gang afterward. Football has always been my favorite game. That was the first college game I've seen since the fall of 1941 when I was able to make it to two games here from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. I saw a couple of games overseas but nothing like that."

"It's good to be back in the States but I'm anxious to get back to the army. I'd like to stay in and am reporting to Ft. Sheridan, Ill., on Oct. 15 for reassignment."

Colonel Lang made the statement that "I'd like to go back in about five years to see what the places I've been look like in peace time. I was told that Oran, Algiers and Marseille are very pretty then, but I certainly didn't see anything to arouse a tourist's appreciation while I was there."

"It's hard to say what it was that I missed the most while I was over there," said Colonel Lang. "If it was cold, a nice roaring fire would have felt mighty good and if I was hot, I would have liked to sit down to a nice cool milkshake. The things you miss most usually vary with your location."

The son of Mrs. John J. Lang, 711 E. Bloomington, the colonel wears the pre-Pearl Harbor and the European theater ribbons. He and his unit have received four battle participation stars for their work in supplying the II Corps and the Seventh army.

600 SUI Students Attend 'Y' Program

A crowd of approximately 600 students attended the opening of the general membership drive for the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4 p. m. yesterday. Registration will continue during the year.

Cabinet members enacted a skit in which the theme, "Going 'Y' Ways," explained numerous "Y" projects and activities.

After the skit, students were given a chance to sign up for "Y" membership. They also checked activities in which they will participate.

Discussion groups in which students enrolled were U. S. and You, Major in Marriage and Worship workshop.

Listed under activities were art work, musical talent, publicity, the "Y" newspaper, the radio section—"Y" glimpses, office hostesses and typists, grouped under "Y" works at home, and the social committee.

Hospital Service Unlimited which is for the Children's hospital was divided into groups, and students could enroll in several. This project includes evening entertainment, Saturday fun, special parties, Sunday school, crafts, and children's recreation.

In addition to Hospital Service Unlimited, a similar program is carried on in the convalescent home.

GASSIN' with GUS

By GUS SCHRADER

AN INTERESTING TALK yesterday with E. G. (Dad) Schroeder, Iowa's genial athletic czar, fetched forth some enlightening answers to questions that have been batting around Iowa sports circles. . . . Just back from attending a banquet honoring Commodore R. M. Emmett, skipper of the Great Lakes NTS, on his retirement from the navy, Dad even admitted that officials here would be more than glad to hire Chuck Jaskwich as Iowa backfield coach. . . . "But we don't know that he's in any position to accept an offer," he added. . . . If the former Seahawk officer, now being discharged at Great Lakes, decides against going back to Mississippi I'll bet Dad pokes an Iowa contract at him two minutes later.

NEXT WE JUMPED to the possibility of big Bus Mertes getting loose from the Navy and finishing the football season for Iowa. . . . Bus had two years of halfback stardom for Iowa in '40 and '41. . . . In '42, '43 and '44 he galloped for the Seahawks under Bierman, Faurot and Meagher, respectively. . . . Dad says it isn't likely that Bus will ever play for Iowa again, not that he wouldn't like to have him. . . . You see, Buster is the chief breadwinner for his family, and though he loves Iowa and amateur headlines, the need for dough-re-mi is a little too strong.

RIGHT NOW I hear that Bus is working out with the Chicago Cardinals and that he'll go to work for them for 350 skins a game after being released from the navy about the middle of this month. . . . That amounts to something over one G during a season and is bait enough even if Bus didn't need the money. . . . However, Dad says that he does plan to finish work on his bachelor's degree here later.

E. G. (DAD) SCHROEDER Solves Athletic Riddles

ANOTHER HAWKEYE varsity coach who was more than happily received here yesterday is Otto Vogel, baseball tactician until he went to the navy in 1942. . . . "We sure are glad to see Oit back," Dad enthused. . . . "And you can bet that he's going right back to his old job." . . . Oit went to Davenport after stopping here to see his father, who has been seriously ill, but plans to return today. . . .

OTTO VOGEL

Back to Baseball Chores

JUST LIKE OLD MAN RIVER, Rollie Williams keeps rolling right along as the athletic department's snappiest dressed member. . . . The "Silver Fox" had three and a half bad years in those relatively drab navy duds, but again he has that fresh-from-Esquire look. . . . THAT'S NOT SO about Hambone Snider being free from the army's clutches yet. . . . I couldn't find Ham last night so I phoned his mother. . . . "No, he has to report back the 17th," she said, but added that he expected discharge immediately thereafter. . . . "Has he said at home whether or not he's going to play football," I asked. . . . "No, I don't tell him what to do about that," she laughed, "he's a big enough boy to decide for himself."

IOWA CITY isn't represented on the football team of the naval academy anymore, according to Earl Sangster, local cab company owner. . . . Earl's son Bill, bright light of City high athletic teams from '38 to '42, was advised by doctors not to risk his trick shoulder by going out again this fall. . . . Bob Roth, another Little Hawk great and a teammate of Bill, quit the squad just two weeks ago—said he was too light and not fast enough to keep company with the fancy assortment of middle backs. . . . Bob got in a couple of games last season. . . . Earl claims that his son Jimmy is even better than Bill was. . . . And judging from the way the younger Sangster engineered that 12-7 win over Davenport Saturday night, maybe the old man knows best. . . . Dads often do.

Ex-Seahawk Helps Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Bill Kolens, discharged navy bomber pilot who played on the 1943 Iowa Seahawk's football team, alternated at right tackle with captain Ralph Serpico yesterday as the University of Illinois squad drilled against Indiana offensive plays. Stan Stasica of Rockford, Ill., who joined the Illini squad Tuesday after his discharge from the army, worked out in the backfield against yesterday.

AT PURDUE
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Guard Bill Horvath and halfback Bill Canfield underwent a lengthy punting drill today as Coach Cecil Isbell of Purdue strove to improve the kicking for Saturday's meeting with Wisconsin.

AT WISCONSIN
MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Rex John, veteran tackle, indicated yesterday he apparently was the answer to Coach Harry Stuhldreher's prayer for a long distance punter for his Wisconsin eleven.

Out of football since 1939 while in service, John has rounded into shape rapidly and appears a certain starter against Purdue.

AT OHIO STATE
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Coach Carroll Widdoes tosses nearly every backfield and line combination in his book at Ohio State university gridmen yesterday in blocking assignments to be used against the University of Iowa here Saturday.

Dick Fisher, who joined the squad last Monday after discharge from the navy, ran plays from both the right and left halfback posts. Widdoes stated Fisher might play either position against the Hawkeys.

AT INDIANA
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—George Tallafiero, freshman ball-carrying sensation in Indiana's first two games, rested an injured side yesterday and Coach Bo McMillin said he may not be ready for full duty against Illinois Saturday.

AT NOTRE DAME
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame completed heavy preparation for its meeting with Georgia Tech by dashing through a long pass defense drill yesterday. The squad will entrain for Atlanta today.

Roger Cadieux, sophomore quarterback, suffered a broken collar bone in a scrimmage between the third and fourth teams.

Cub's 9-0 Win Shifts Series Odds

By GAYLE TALBOT

DETROIT (AP)—The Chicago Cubs whaled the living daylight out of Hal Newhouse at the very outset of the World Series yesterday and defeated the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 0, behind the smooth six-hit pitching of Hank Borowy as 54,637 chilled American league fans died by degrees in Briggs stadium.

A stroke of lightning out of the clear, sun-filled sky scarcely could have shocked them more than the ease with which the Cubs tore into Newhouse, greatest hurler of the American league, for eight hits and seven runs in the first three innings to drive him out.

It was never a ball game, the opener. The National league champs, underdogs in the pre-series betting, looked far superior, hammering the ball almost at will, piling up 13 hits, including a homerun by Phil

Cavarretta, a triple and two doubles, while only one Detroit player reached third base.

Borowy had his former American league rivals handuffed. All the six hits the Tigers got off his sharp curving were singles.

Tiger Sotile
Newhouse, the Tigers' 25-game winning beauty, who figured to be the outstanding pitcher of the series, proved, on the other hand, to be the softest sort of a touch for Manager Charlie Grimm's National leaguers. The second Cub to bat belted him cleanly, and from there on until he was relieved by Al Benton in the third inning the Bruins clouted him almost at will. He gave up the game's first seven runs, and the Cubs got two more off flutterballer Jim Tobin.

Newhouse got the first Cub batter, Stan Hack, out on an infield roller, and then the house fell in on his noggin. What had shaped up as possibly a great pitchers' duel quickly became a shambles.

Don Johnson beat out a hit through the box and stole second. Phil Cavarretta, the season's greatest hitter, then beat out a roller to second. Andy Pafko was passed, filling the bases.

Bill Nicholson then weighed in with a terrific triple to right field that cleaned the sacks, and he scored a moment later on Mickey Livingston's single. The attack on him finally ended only because Livingston tried to steal second and was thrown out by Paul Richards' rifle-arm.

Reverts for Inning
It looked like the Detroit southpaw star might simply have had a bad inning when he came back to strike out three Cubs in a row in the second inning. He whiffed Roy Hughes, Borowy and Hack as fast as he could serve up his southpaw shoots.

But it didn't last. Johnson led off the third with a terrific double to center that veteran Roger Cramer reached but couldn't hold. Peanuts Lowrey sacrificed him to third, and he raced in on Cavarretta's single. Pafko's double and Livingston's single brought in two more before the fire was put out, again because Livingston thought he could outrun a Richards' peg to second.

By this time Manager Steve O'Neill had decided Newhouse had enough, and Al Benton was on the hill.

Tobin took over in the fifth after a pinchhitter had tried fruitfully to solve Borowy's slants, and the former National leaguer held the Cubs in check for a couple of innings. But they got to him, too, in the seventh, when Cavarretta bounced his homerun off a rightfield stanchion, with none aboard, and Pafko and Nicholson followed with singles which, mixed in with a sacrifice and a passed ball, produced two more scores.

The Cubs, all things considered, looked like a hitting ball club, whereas the Tigers still were amazingly puny against pitching of the sort served up by stars like Borowy. Cavarretta whaled his homerun and two singles; Pafko had a double and two singles and walked once. Johnson, Nicholson and Livingston each clouted two clean hits. Hack got the other Cub hit, a single.

Eddie Mayo, Tiger second baseman, was the only man to solve Borowy twice, and he never looked like scoring. He had nobody to drive him in. The Bengals' only scoring chance came in the fifth, when Mayo led off with a clout to left and Greenberg followed him an out later with a bruising single to center. Mayo, however, made the mistake of trying to reach third on the sock, and Pafko cut him down at third.

Outside of that, the Tigers made two blows off Borowy in only one inning, the first. But nothing came of it, principally because the Cubs infield tightened up and produced a fast double play where it counted.

The fielding gem of the contest, which produced several and was not blemished by an error, probably was the stop by Cavarretta of a smash by Webb down the first base line in the third inning. The Cubs' star—and he convinced a lot of American leaguers yesterday that he is a very fine player indeed—dove into the dirt about 10 feet back of first and came up with the ball in time to toss to Borowy for the putout.

Manager Grimm of the victorious National leaguers announced in the dressing room he would throw Hank Wyse, who won 22 and lost 10 in regular season, against the Tigers today. Steve O'Neill chose Virgil Trucks, the right-handed fast-baller who was just released from the navy, to pitch his club back into the championship.

SERIES DOPE

DETROIT (AP)—As a result of their first game win, the Chicago Cubs were switched last night from underdogs to 5 to 8 favorites to win the 1945 world series, as the bookmakers, who realize quicker than a bank teller when they are wrong, went all the way in reverse.

Grimm Grins After Victory

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

DETROIT (AP)—The happiest man in Detroit last night was Charles John Grimm, the inspiring 48-year-old leader of the triumphant Chicago Cubs.

The leather-faced Grimm was grinning from ear-to-ear and whistling with boyish enthusiasm as he led his chilled and shivering players into their steam-heated dressing room.

Grimm dropped wearily onto a stool in front of his locker to think over what had happened.

"It's a nice, cold day to get nine runs, isn't it?" he beamed. Then he launched into a complimentary speech on Hal Newhouse, the Detroit hurler.

"Newhouse had good stuff, but we just waded into him," Grimm explained. "Don't take it away from him, boys, he's a helluva pitcher."

Grimm said the turning point of the game came in the first inning when Phil Cavarretta, Cub first baseman, beat out a roller to second baseman Eddie Mayo with two out.

"If Cavarretta is called out, that makes it rough for us," Charley declared.

Borowy, weary after taming the Tigers, quietly accepted the congratulations of his mates, grinning with appreciation for their sharp and brilliant fielding.

"I'm dead tired," was the ex-Yankee's only comment.

Hawk Backs Face More Shifting

Crowe Drills Squad Hard For 4 Hours

Twilight faded into darkness on the Hawkeye practice field last night and the lights were turned on before Iowa's determined football squad called a halt to a four-hour practice session. Coach Clem Crowe tossed everything in the book at the hard-working Hawks to trim the edges for Saturday's clash with heavily favored Ohio State.

More backfield experiments were concocted by the Iowa coaching staff in an experiment speed and better timing for the uphill battle against the Bucks. Crowe seemed settled on Obern Simons, 170-pound freshman seat back, for a starting role at left half.

Johnny Hunter also tried a hand at the left half slot during the evening's drills. Jack Kelso, relegated to the second string Tuesday night, returned to the varsity backfield for punting practice, but it seemed likely that his chronic ankle injury would keep him from starting Saturday.

Paul Fagerlind will captain the Hawks in their conference opener at Columbus, Coach Crowe announced yesterday. He is one of the three men on the squad who played in the Buckeye stadium last year.

Paul Golden, former Seahawk fullback who joined the Hawk squad this week, occupied a part-time right half slot last night. He did the kicking as Crowe drilled the Hawks hard on punting drills. Last week Bergstrom scored a touchdown after blocking an Iowa punt and recovering it on the goal line.

The exact position of Lawrence Gernuska and Harold Allerdee, former Seahawk ends now with the Iowa squad, has not been determined yet, although both have alternated with varsity wingman. While the backfield attempted to smooth out rough spots in their pass offense and defense, Line Coach Bud Boeringer sent his varsity line against rugged scrimmage play in stopping Ohio State plays run by a third string.

Blue Hawk Gridders Hold Last Hard Drill For Friday's Game

A long dummy scrimmage against the second team was followed yesterday by an extended pass defense drill as the University high Blue Hawks went through their final hard practice before the first Eastern Iowa conference contest Friday afternoon with West Liberty.

"We're working hard, and I expect the team to be in top shape by Friday. The team is out to win this one," said Coach Don Barnhart. He also commented that a long signal practice today will close the week's practice sessions. The game tomorrow will be held on the practice field just south of the University of Iowa football stadium, starting at 3:15 p. m.

During the light scrimmage session, the Rivermen worked with the idea of smoothing out the rough spots in blocking for the various running plays. Coach Barnhart stated that he didn't want to hold an actual contact session for fear that some of the men might be hurt. The later part of the afternoon session was devoted to pass defense, with Nick Anderson, center,

ANY SIMILARITY to any former Iowa Negro football star is purely coincidental, folks, even if he does pronounce his last name the same way. Its Obern Simons, 170-pound freshman from Chicago,land, but he's already been handed the moniker "Ozzie" after the famous Hawkeye of a decade ago. Coach Clem Crowe has indicated this week that the shifty little halfback may see considerable service against Ohio State Saturday.

Hawkeys Play Host to Dubuque In Homecoming Tilt Tomorrow

Coach Wally Schwank whipped his City High Little Hawks into high gear last night, giving the whole squad plenty of work in an attempt to ready his gridders for Friday night's homecoming battle with the Dubuque Rams. Emphasis was placed on reserve strength as the second and third teams went through the hardest scrimmage of the year. The regular squad worked on signal drills most of the evening.

The same Little Hawk team which started in last week's victory over Davenport is slated for beginning action against the Rams. Suffering no injuries last week, the Hawklets will be at full strength Friday evening.

Dubuque can hardly be rated a setup, as they will field a tough, experienced team. Sellers, the left half for the Rams, does most of the ball toting weighing 190 pounds with advance reports giving him plenty of credit.

Well coached, the Rams use a "T" formation depending largely on power plays through the line. Although losing both their games so far this season, the Dubuque boys looked good in a 7-0 defeat at the hands of Rock Island, and played good football the first half in a 27-6 loss to East Waterloo.

The teams are evenly matched on experience, both having eight letterman back and averaging 170 pounds per man. Last year the and the four backs—Bill Greene, Gus Helm, Steve Nusser and Craig Harper playing behind the second team line on defense. Several weaknesses were detected and soon put right by the Blue Hawk mentor.

Hank Borowy's Sale Causes 'No Regrets' Says Boss MacPhail

DETROIT (AP)—Larry MacPhail, fiery boss of the New York Yankees spilling the "inside story" of his sale of pitcher Hank Borowy to the Chicago Cubs, last night said he had no regrets over the deal that won the Chicago Cubs World Series opener with the Detroit Tigers.

"Borowy had his chance with us and he failed," declared MacPhail at the series press head quarters. "The Cubs made a good deal, it would appear now, but don't forget that after Borowy left us, the Yankees climbed from seven and a half to only a game and a half behind in the American league race without him."

He did not say, however, where the fourth-place Yankees would have finished with Borowy.

O'Connor Becomes Manager of Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Leslie M. O'Connor, the man behind the man behind baseball for 24 years, will leave his post Dec. 15 as special assistant to the baseball commissioner to be general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Announcement of O'Connor's appointment was made yesterday by Mrs. Grace Comiskey, president of the White Sox club. O'Connor succeeds Harry Grabiner who resigned last week as vice-president and general manager. O'Connor, now 58, came to baseball as secretary to commissioner K. M. Landis in 1921. He served as secretary and treasurer to Landis until the white-thatched "Squire" died last November, then was named chairman of the advisory council which administered the commissioner's duties until Sen. A. B. "Happy" Chandler was named baseball's head man April 24, 1945.

Hanklet's Play Host to Dubuque

Hawkeys lost 13-0 to Dubuque and 7-6 to the same team in the 1943 homecoming game. This gives the City high boys plenty to work for, and Coach Schwank believes if they play the brand of football they did a week ago they will whip the Rams.

Bob Krall, the triple threat man for the Little Hawks, along with Chug Wilson and Jim Sangster will give Dubuque plenty of ball carrying. Sangster's passes are up against good competition in Steffen, the Northeasterners right end.

Bouquets and stuff to everyone who participated in last night's pep rally. Thanks also to the WSUI sports staff who made it possible.

When the clock strikes 7:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight, the 1945 radio season will be in full operation with the lone exception of the answer to the question, "Crosby or no Crosby." Bing is taking in a well-earned vacation but skeptics are under the impression that he won't return to the old Kraft Music hall at all unless he is allowed to transcribe the program before.

In keeping with the "Let's get started" theme, Bob Burns of the mighty bazooka returns to the air ways tonight at 8:30 p. m. over WHO. The NBC show will also present Shirley Ross on the vocals, Leo Grocey and Gordon Jenkins orchestra.

It seems as though Artie Shaw's got nothing but Union troubles. Shaw who just recently reorganized his band was scheduled to appear on the "Bandwagon" last Sunday but those "in the know" gossamer have it that Artie received a message from James C. "Papa" Petrillo that put the stoppers on the show. Consequently, we didn't hear Shaw and are beginning to wonder just what it is all about.

Elizabeth Penningroth, school teacher, will be the guest speaker on WSUI's Morning Chapel at 8 a. m. today. Subject of the Iowa State Medical society program at 9:30 a. m. will be "Pneumonia." Symptoms, treatment and types of pneumonia will be discussed. The first in the series of Spanish programs to be presented by the Spanish department will begin today over WSUI at 9 a. m. Another evening program will be broadcast at 7 p. m. Richard W. Tyler, instructor in the Spanish department, will present both programs.

RALLY—

first pep meeting of the season which was broadcast over WSUI.

E. G. (Dad) Schroeder expressed pleasure at seeing so many pretty girls in the audience. "I'm tired of seeing men all the time," he said. "The team works every night until about 7:30 under lights when it gets dark. They work because they like it. And they need the support of the students whether it's a case of win or lose. At this very minute the team is in the stadium going over Ohio plays in preparation for Saturday's game."

Glenn Devine of the Hawkeye coaching staff urged the students to see the team off Friday at 9 a. m. and to meet the train when they come home. "We'll try our best to bring back the eyes out of the Buckeyes," he promised.

Three members of the football team, Art Johnson, a veteran, Al McCord, a member of last year's team, and Bruce Hammond, freshman, spoke as representatives of the Hawkeye squad.

Student enthusiasm roaring along at a joyous pitch broke into a new high when Ed Phillips announced that a possible student trip to the Illinois game Nov. 11 was being arranged.

Eric Wilson, editor of Iowa News service, said that "This year our team of veterans will not be awed by Ohio's impressive stadium, as last year's team was. They had a good chance of winning if they kept up their fighting spirit."

Two little red-headed boys about 3 and 5 sat solemn-faced through the whole proceedings with their soldier father and pretty mother. As the rally ended and students poured through the auditorium doors, one of the little fellows watched in awe a lanky freshman youth shouting to the tune of "Farmer in the Dell—OH, there ain't no flies on me; there ain't no flies on me; there may be flies on some of you guys; but there ain't no flies on me." He turned seriously to his little brother and said, "I'm gonna come back again."

Site Chosen for St. Thomas More Chapel

The building site for the new St. Thomas More Chapel has been purchased, the Catholic student center announced yesterday. The property is in the 400 block on Riverside drive, just north of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house.

Last spring a committee was appointed by the Rev. Leonard J. Brugman, director of the Catholic student center, to select a suitable building site for the chapel. This committee, made up of local alumni, worked with the architect, Barry Byrne, in selecting a practical location for the Catholic student chapel.

Upon receiving the report of the committee appointed by Father Brugman, the Most Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, bishop of the Davenport diocese, authorized Father Brugman to take the necessary steps for the purchase of the property.

The site finally purchased is adjacent to the present center and is located high on the west bluffs of the Iowa river. Announcement of the university's postwar building program puts the new chapel in the midst of the new housing unit. The chapel will be within five and one half blocks of all present and planned university housing units.

Medical Society Hears Speech—Alcoholics Group

"Alcoholics Anonymous owes its success not to scolding, threats or finger-shaking, but to an honest desire on the part of its members to help the other fellow, the habitual drinker, overcome the disease of alcoholism," an attorney from Des Moines who is a member of A. A. told the Johnson County Medical society at a meeting in the Hotel Jefferson last night.

The society had as its guests 15 members of Alcoholics Anonymous. Two of the representatives, the Des Moines attorney and a judge from Dubuque, addressed the gathering.

"Before we can help a man," the attorney said, "he must honestly want to overcome the hold which alcohol has over him. He must be willing to admit to himself that he is an alcoholic and needs help. Finally, he must be willing to ask for help and to accept it when it is given to him."

The speaker pointed out the fact that A. A. is not a religious group, although they urge alcoholics to renew their belief in God and to realize that there is need for guidance that can be found only in Him.

He stressed the point that "once an alcoholic, always an alcoholic." The condition can be overcome, but never cured, he said.

"I have been dry for over two years now," the attorney said of himself. "It has given me the ability to hold my chin in the air and has returned to me my self-respect and the respect of my family and friends for the first time since I became an alcoholic.

"The struggle involved pays off in true happiness and peace of mind."

When an alcoholic is approached by a member of A. A., according to the speaker, he says to himself: "Here is a man who has gone through the same struggle which I am going through now."

"Good fellowship is the keynote of the method employed by Alcoholics Anonymous," the speaker stated. "The drunk from the flophouse and the drunk from the penthouse enjoy that fellowship together."

The judge from Dubuque emphasized the fact that Alcoholics Anonymous has nothing against those who make and sell alcoholic beverages or against those who are able to drink like gentlemen. "Alcoholics Anonymous was not organized with any thought of retaliation," he said.

Following the address, Dr. Wilbur Miller opened a discussion and question period concerning the alcoholics' organization and the part played by the medical profession in aiding alcoholics.

Dr. M. L. Floyd of Iowa City, president of the Johnson County Medical society, presided over the meeting.

A Captain Mey was the first director sent out by the West India Company to govern its North River trading post (New York).

3. We're planning a year of travel, now the flags of war are furled, Each Bond we keep is another leap in our trip around the world!

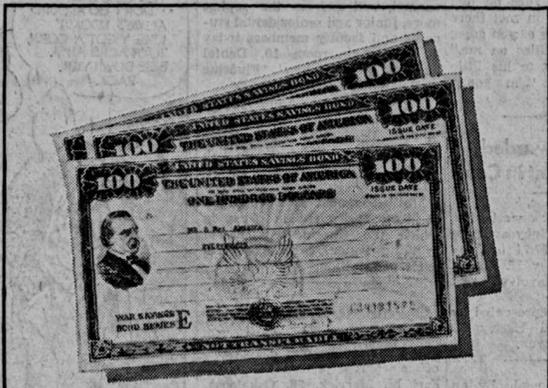

2. I've got my eye on a business I can purchase clear and free, I'm saving my pay for the lucky day when I start to work for me!

4. Some day I want to retire, I'm saving my cash for then, With Bonds around I won't be found in a home for broke old men!

...and his plans can come true!

5. Whatever your plans for the future you'd better buy Bonds by the score, Your dollars won't shirk, they'll pitch in and work... Each three bucks will bring you back four! So buy 'em and buy 'em and buy 'em, and keep every Bond till it's due, The more Bonds you buy will be more you've put by For the day when your plans can come true!
