New Premier Disbands Jap Secret Police

Shidehara Names Foe Of Nip Militarists Foreign Minister

TOKYO (AP)—Aged Baron Ki-juro Shidehara, long-time foe of Japan's machinegun imperialism, became premier of a new government yesterday and forthwith disbanded the dread secret police.

Given a free hand by Emperor Hirohito and the approval of General MacArthur's head quarters, the 73-year-old former ambassador to the United States dug into his task with a vigor that belied his years.

Domei agency said his first act was to reappoint as foreign minister Shigeru Yoshida, a like-minded man whose criticism of the war against the United States once landed him in jail.

His second act, said the newspaper Asahi, was to appoint veteran parliamentarian Yadanji Nakajima to the crucial post of home minister, under whose authority the "thought" police ran their reign of terror.

It was the failure to obey promptly MacArthur's order to dismiss home minister Iwao Yamazaki—who sought to save the secret police—that helped bring down premier Higashi-Kuni's post-surrender government Friday.

Shidehara's emergency from the obscurity into which the militarists thrust him coincided with a revolutionary proposal by the finance ministry to permit the Japanese people to buy state holdings as a means of redeeming war debts.

The plan was advanced by the ministry's policy-making committee, Domei said. It did not specify the holdings to be sold, but the state owns 40 per cent of the forests and operates telephone and telegraph systems, most railroads and has large electric power holdings.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger returned from northern Japan where rice riots have been reported and said that the Japanese people there, at first hostile, now welcomed the American troops.

The head of the U. S. Eighth army of occupation said the people were making plans for entertaining the troops in the hard winter ahead and that a non-fraternization order would be lifted in a day or two.

Teachers Association Provides Legal Assistance to Members

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa State Teachers association will provide legal assistance to any members finding court action necessary to bring about reasonable retirement pensions for public school teachers, Charles F. Martin, president, declared yesterday.

The 43 school superintendents and teachers of the seven Iowa cities which have their own pension systems said following a meeting with Martin they were convinced generally that teachers should be allowed to be covered by a city system as well as the state public employees' retirement law.

Evidence underlying their decision will be presented to the state attorney general's office, which recently ruled a teacher may not be covered by both systems. If necessary, court action will be taken in some school district to bring about a state supreme court interpretation of the law, spokesmen said.

Bomber Goes Down In Pacific; Two Killed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A B-29 bomber from the Marianas crashed into the sea 300 miles off San Francisco yesterday and at a late hour yesterday afternoon the navy announced that three were killed, two were missing and 15 were rescued by coast guard.

The 12th naval district estimated it would take until Monday for the small rescue craft to return to the coast with the survivors and dead.

The search for the missing plane is continuing.

First word of the impending crash came this morning when the pilot radioed that he was ordering the crew and passengers to parachute.

Two of the engines were out, he said.

NAVY TO STAY BIG—MUCH BIGGER THAN BEFORE WAR

A NAVY of 1,079 combat ships, including 116 carriers, has been unanimously recommended by the House Naval Affairs committee. It comprises 116 aircraft carriers, 18 battleships, 82 cruisers, 663 destroyers and escorts and 20 submarines. The present U. S. navy totals 1,038 combat ships as follows: 119 flattops, 24 battleships, 93 cruisers, 809 destroyers and 263 overseas craft. The navy before 1941 consisted of 272 vessels, as follows: 8 carriers, 18 battleships, 46 cruisers, 144 destroyers and 56 submarines.

Japanese Scientist's Five Years Work On 'Death Ray' Fails

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—Japanese scientists tried for five and a half years to develop a "death ray" but by the war's end the best they could do with it was to kill a rabbit at 30 meters in 10 minutes.

Their long work on the "death ray" was disclosed today by General MacArthur's research officers who reported that the Japanese thought enough of the death ray to appropriate 1,000,000 yen for its development in 1945.

The Japanese experimented with the ray for stopping engines by pre-ignition directed against airplanes, but succeeded only against unshielded engines at short ranges.

The American scientific group with MacArthur concluded "a tremendous advance in techniques would have to be made before the death ray could become of any value as a military weapon."

The scientists said the death ray works on a short radio wave focused in high power, causing physiological effects in mammals. The apparatus created by the Japanese included an antenna placed in focus of a reflector. The waves were focused by the reflector on the subject.

Rabbits, ground hogs and monkeys were used in the experiments. The monkeys were not used in the latter stages, the Japanese said, because they were hard to get during the war. Ray effects included hemorrhage of the lungs, and destruction of brain cells.

Asked if humans ever had been used in the experiments, the Japanese told the Americans an experimenter had subjected himself to it briefly, after a few seconds, reported dizziness and fatigue lasting from 12 to 24 hours.

Abolish Shintoism Cult to Lose Support Of Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has decided to abolish Shintoism as a state religion in Japan, it was officially disclosed last night.

This measure, one of the most drastic yet determined upon in remaking Japan into a peaceful nation, will not effect Shintoism "in so far as it is a religion of individual Japanese," the announcement said.

However the cult is to lose its government support, its special taxes, its place in the schools of Japan and its official enforcement of the people.

The policy was announced by John Carter Vincent, chief of far eastern affairs at the state department, who said all those special privileges which Shintoism had as a state religion are "to be done away with." The state religion has been regarded as one of the powerful controls which Japan's militarist leaders exercised over their people.

Vincent was one of three policy forming officials who appeared on a state department broadcast over the NBC network last night. Others were Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring, war department civil affairs director, and Capt. R. L. Denison, navy department member on the government's policy making committee for Japan.

U. S. Moving Away From Roosevelt Policy of Mediation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes is hoping for early Russian acceptance of his compromise plan for writing a European peace, but diplomats are by no means confident he will get it.

Instead, troubled United States relations with Russia are regarded as ripe for more weeks of bickering.

Britain is expected to get in on the row when Foreign Secretary Bevin addresses commons Tuesday.

As diplomatic authorities see it, the United States has almost completely abandoned the position of a mediator which for a long time under President Roosevelt's leadership it sought to maintain with respect to Russia. The point is made, however, that the Russians by their own actions may have forced the reversal.

That position was last defined by Secretary of State Stettinius, Byrnes' predecessor, during the San Francisco United Nations conference.

Stettinius broke the close ties which appeared to have put this country on the side of Britain against Russia, and announced that in relations with the other great powers "we must mediate between them when their interests conflict among themselves."

He called for preserving "the solidarity of the great nations."

Byrnes' report Friday night on the stalemated London conference of foreign ministers disclosed that the solidarity of the three leading powers is shaken to its deepest foundations over fundamental questions. The main issue, he said, is whether world peace should be dictated by the great powers.

Byrnes abandoned the earlier United States idea of avoiding a general peace conference and called instead for a conference of the European victor nations to which the Big Three would report recommendations. He said Foreign Commissar Molotov was taking it up with his home government in Moscow.

Former Seabee Lifts Auto Off Man's Chest; Suffers Injured Spine

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A 140-pound former seabee literally broke his back yesterday to save the life of a neighbor here when he lifted an automobile off the man's chest single-handed.

The seabee, Russell Nylander, 42, lifted the rear of a coupe, which had slipped off a jack and fallen on the chest and face of Edward Watland, 65, enabling Watland, whose life was being slowly crushed out to get his breath and struggle out from under the machine.

Nylander dropped the car and had taken only a few steps when he collapsed in agony. At a hospital, an examination disclosed he had suffered a fractured spine. His condition yesterday was described as serious, but he is expected to recover after at least eight weeks in a cast.

MacArthur's Removal Would Cause Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any move to supplant Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of occupied Japan seemed certain yesterday to arouse a storm of protest in congress.

Russia proposed at the London big five conference the creation of a four-power commission to take over policy-making in Japan. The Russians want a setup somewhat similar to the Berlin commission.

Legislators made it plain yesterday, however, that if any move is made by the state department and President Truman to accept such a proposal there will be an explosion among their ranks.

Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) told a reporter that while he recognizes the Russians should have some say about how Japan is run, he would never agree to taking away MacArthur's powers as supreme commander.

Senator Shipstead (R., Minn.) said he could see no reason why the Russians should have any hand in deciding the final fate of Japan.

Added Strikes Plague Mines

Lewis Refuses Request To End Walkouts; 550,000 Workers Idle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mine closings and additional strikes continued to plague the nation's soft coal fields yesterday as initial efforts by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach failed to settle a controversy over recognition of the United Mine Workers' supervisory union.

Altogether an estimated 550,000 workers still were idle in walkouts and layoffs across the nation, with this number expected to drop swiftly to less than 400,000 early next week with prospects of settlements in some disputes.

More than 600 mines in six states were out of production, with about 159,000 workers off their jobs.

U.M.W. President John L. Lewis refused an operators' request to end the strikes, saying he had no responsibility for them and that they were started by locals of the U.M.W.-United clerical, technical and supervisory employees union.

Schwellenbach called for the Washington conferences to continue tomorrow at 10 a. m. If no solution is reached, he indicated, he would make a personal plea for ending of the strikes and resumption of bituminous production, estimated by the solid fuels administration to have been cut more than a third of normal.

Coal production was losing 749,000 tons a day, with steel mills feeling the squeeze and reducing production schedules.

Whether all of 43,000 oil workers who struck in 15 states for a 30 percent wage increase would return to their jobs in government seized refineries remained to be determined.

President O. A. Knight of the International Oil Workers union predicted most of the 51 seized refineries would be delivering gasoline and oil this week, but many oil locals declined to say what action they would take pending membership meetings scheduled over the weekend.

In Texas 15 refineries and pipe line systems resumed operations under navy direction at Houston, Ft. Worth, Texas City and Corpus Christi.

Some 3,000 members of the oil workers union voted to return to their jobs in the Hammond, Ind., refinery area starting with the midnight tonight. They are employees of Socony-Vacuum, Sinclair, Cities Service and Shell oil companies and members of Union Local 210. Another 1,000 members of the same local probably would return to work also, a union spokesman predicted.

In Washington, it was learned the navy has agreed to join with the CIO-oil workers in asking war labor board approval of a 15 percent wage increase which some refinery companies agreed to put into effect when a 40-hour week is restored in the industry.

In Detroit, the Ford Motor company recalled some 60,000 laid-off workers on the basis of a CIO announcement that the strike at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, which supplies parts to the Ford company, had been terminated. Ford spokesmen said production would be resumed this week.

Dean Paul C. Packer Returns to University Following Discharge

Served as Special Services Officer In Three War Areas

Paul C. Packer, dean of the University of Iowa college of education, has been discharged from the army and yesterday resumed his duties here.

A lieutenant colonel serving as a special services officer in education, Dean Packer entered the army in January, 1943, on leave of absence from the university. He served in the European, Alaskan and China-Burma-India theaters.

Dean Packer has been head of the college of education since 1923. Prof. E. T. Peterson and Prof. E. T. Lindquist were acting deans in his absence.

Dean Packer was associated with the information and education division of the special information services and acted as theater education officer, in charge of all educational programs.

Iowa's Stand During First Half Throws Scare Into Buckeyes

Ohio Backs, Sarringhaus, Fisher, Break Back of Plucky Hawkeye Resistance

By GUS SCHRADER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Iowa's Hawkeyes hurred an unexpected and mighty scare into Ohio State's Big Ten defending champions for 30 minutes here yesterday afternoon, but ran into an avalanche of Buckeye power after the half to be snowed under, 42-0.

The finest collection of backs in Ohio history ran the legs off the weary Hawks to add six sensational touchdowns to the lonely score they counted in the first half. There was no stemming the relentless Red and White surge as the Bucks delighted a crowd of 49,842 partisans in the conference opener for both schools.

Paul Sarringhaus broke the back of Iowa's plucky resistance in the third quarter when he made what seemed an impossible interception of one of Niles' passes and swept majestically down the east sidelines to score Ohio's second touchdown. From then on, the Hawks never caught their breath between Buckeye blows.

Big Dick Fisher, just returned to the fold after three years in the navy, led Iowa tacklers a merry chase all afternoon and scored the final Buckeye marker with a 27-yard spin down the field.

Niles Passes

With the cool Jerry Niles setting the charges with eight pass completions out of 15 tries during the first half, Iowa fought the highly favored Buckeyes back on their heels until the third quarter. Twice in the first half it looked as though Iowa might kick the dope bucket by scoring, as Niles' frequent passing strikes stacked up first downs, but fumbles ruined the Old Gold chances.

Ohio State didn't really deserve its first score. Sarringhaus set it up with a 34-yard run to the Iowa 32. Officials ruled that Fisher had stepped out of bounds on the next play before he fumbled and the Hawks recovered.

Then the Hawks were fined 15 yards for unnecessary roughness and set back on their one. From there big Ollie Cline plunged over on the first play.

Spirit Unbroken

With their spirit still unbroken, the Iowans again carried the battle to the Bucks with complete dominance of offensive and defensive play. Then, late in the second quarter, the Buckeyes struck quickly with a Sarringhaus to Fisher pass, showing the ball to the Iowa 16. The Ohio State eleven pushed to a first down on the six-yard stripe, but time for the half ran out as the Bucks advanced the ball to the three.

During that period Niles Nelson Smith with a perfect pass on the Ohio 30.

Substitutions

The second half saw Ohio Coach Carroll Widooes substituting freely after his team had gained a three-touchdown edge, but although he used 41 men in earning his second lopsided win of the season, the Buckeyes were never without a powerful bunch of ball-toters behind a merciless line.

Ohio State's second score was the direct result of Iowa's efforts to gain through the air. In the third period Paul Sarringhaus intercepted one of Jerry Niles' tosses and galloped 68 yards to touchdown territory.

The next Buckeye score was the only one to come through the air a 20-yard heave from Fisher to end Tom Watson who crossed from the 16.

In the final period Clyde (Ducky) Marshall intercepted an Iowa pass on the Hawk 48 and scored after three plays from the nine. Harold Daugherty intercepted another Iowa toss a minute later, lateraled to Marshall for a 37-yard run to the Iowa 23, where Daugherty circled right end to score.

Again a pass was intercepted, this time by Matt Brown, and the Bucks went 35 yards in three plays, with Fisher going over from the 27.

Max Schnittker, combination tackle and place kicker, made perfect boots for all six of Ohio State's conversions. None of the kicks varied more than a yard from dead center.

Iowa Lost? Maybe; Student Faith a 'Must'

(An Editorial)

Iowa met its test yesterday, but the issue is still undecided. For more than 30 minutes the Hawkeyes fought one of the mightiest football teams in the nation to a standstill. With the sheer strength of spirit, the Hawkeyes stopped Ohio State's vaunted first team.

But superior numbers, not just superior individuals, began to tell. And the undermanned Hawkeyes were forced to yield.

But did they lose? Not yet, they haven't lost. No man nor no team loses until he quits fighting. If the Hawkeyes return to the football field next Saturday with the fighting spirit they showed yesterday, victory may well be theirs.

And they'll never lose as long as they have the support of the students. It's up to the students to help the team keep fight. They can help tonight by meeting the squad at 9 p. m. at the railroad station.

Truman in Missouri To Visit Legion Fair

Greeted by Thousands Of Spectators Lining Caruthersville Streets

CARUTHERSVILLE, MO. (AP)—President Truman reached Caruthersville last night at 7:40 p. m., after a flight from Washington to make his twelfth annual visit to the American Legion fair.

Riding on the back seat of an open car the smiling president rode down Ward avenue before thousands of spectators after landing at Blytheville, Ark., 29 miles distant, an hour and a half earlier.

Governor Phil Donnelly met the president there, while senator Frank P. Briggs had accompanied him from Washington.

The spectators that lined Ward street and Third avenue cheered and clapped their hands as the president waved his pearl gray hat. The car stopped before the Majestic hotel, an ancient 42 room place where Truman has stopped in all his previous visits, and which will be the presidential headquarters during the current visit.

The hotel has been cleared of all except a few permanent guests to make room for the president's party.

When the president arrived, 60 members of the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church worked swiftly in the little used hotel kitchen preparing a chicken and cranberry dinner for about 50 members of the president's party.

The route from Blytheville was lined with many persons who had waited most of the afternoon to greet the chief executive who had returned here to pay a sentimental visit to the Legion fair which he attended for the first time when the legion revived it here in 1934, and which he had attended each year since.

The president's plane, the Sacred Cow, landed at the Blytheville army air base at 6:05 p. m., and the president then motored through the city before proceeding on across the nearby Missouri line through Steele, and north to Caruthersville. The weather was perfect, earlier rains having cleared away to present a balmy evening.

Stepping up from the seat at the main table at the invitation of one of the women, the president, consenting to play Paderewski's minuet, smilingly told the audience: "When Stalin heard me play this, he signed the protocol at Potsdam."

Pierre Laval Refuses To Face Prosecutors

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Laval, expelled again from his trial for treason, adamantly refused to return to court yesterday and the trial proceeded without him or his attorneys.

He charged "the court fears the truth" and that a crime was being committed against him.

Weatherman Promises A Nice Day Today

It's going to be a nice day today. Isn't that enough? Do we have to be specific? Isn't it enough to know that it won't rain today, that we will see the sun quite frequently, that the temperature won't be too cold and that we haven't a thing to worry about?

Well, to be specific the clouds in the sky over Iowa City today will be few and rather far apart; the weather observers call it high scattered. Temperatures about the same.

Iowa Peace Officers—Trained to Capture Criminals

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa peace officers are being trained to capture a criminal in his hideout—an experience expected to be of great value in combating the postwar upswing in crime—in the only known school of its kind in the nation.

E. E. Kuhnelt, special agent in charge of the federal bureau of investigation in Iowa, said the schooling consists of a three-hour demonstration and discussion. It has been conducted in Iowa City, Sioux City, Mason City, Spencer, Bloomfield, and Oelwein, and will be conducted at Indianola and Atlantic next week.

"So far as we know, this type of instruction by demonstration has not been conducted before anywhere in the country," Kuhnelt said. "We have been gratified particularly by the presence at the demonstrations of numerous public officials and civic leaders and their interest in them."

The school is being conducted by the FBI in cooperation with the Iowa Sheriff's association and the Iowa Police Chiefs association. Points of stress are cooperation between law enforcement agencies, that such a job might be necessary even in the smallest hamlet, and planning and executing of the trapping of the criminal.

While each of the demonstrations has been different in some of the details, they follow these general lines:

A vacant house is selected as the hideout. A tip comes in to the sheriff that a criminal may be found there. The sheriff calls in other peace officers. The house is outlined on a blackboard, the case is discussed, and weapons are assigned.

Then the officers go to a strategic spot preparatory to a raid. Tear gas is hurled into the house, and the criminal is caught as he attempts to flee. In some cases firearms are used where there is an attempt by the criminal sought to shoot his way out.

Questioning and procedure also is part of the demonstration. In the case of a daylight raid, smoke bombs have been used to screen officers in the raid.

At the Iowa City demonstration, an outlying house was used; at Sioux City the hideout was a cabin in a closed city park; at Oelwein a log cabin was used, and at Mason City an abandoned office building at the edge of the city was the hideout.

IN LOCKER ROOM

The gloom was thick in Iowa's dressing room after the game, but excuses were not offered. The coaching staff seemed a little surprised that the Buckeyes poured

'Delayed' Rushing Would Prevent Many Heartbreaks

(Third in a Series of Articles)

Sorority women themselves have suggested a plan for rushing that would be an improvement over the "preferred" system.

Under "delayed" rushing, a woman student could not be pledged until she had been on the campus a prescribed length of time—some say six weeks or two months, others say a semester.

During that period sororities could conduct informal rushing—similar, largely, to the fraternities' rushing system. Rushees could be invited to dinner, to tea dances or to house parties, and sorority women could "double date" with rushees.

Giving sorority women and rushees several weeks instead of just one week—actually only a few hours—to make the highly important decisions of pledging would be more fair to both.

One of the important benefits is that rushees and sorority women would not see each other only in the dizzy—sometimes artificial—whirl of parties. They would be together in classes, over coles, on dates and on the campus.

Then girls who might not make a penetrating first impression could be evaluated more adequately. There would not be so much chance that a single mistake in conversation or conduct would cross a girl off a sorority's "desired" list, as sometimes happens.

Clothes, money and good looks would mean less, and intelligence, ability and personality would mean more. That would instill greater democracy.

Greater democracy and a wiser choice of companions would be a convincing answer to many critics of sororities.

Most important, under "delayed" rushing there would be fewer heartbreaks. Given time to make attachments to the university, girls who are not invited to join a sorority would not be so disillusioned.

They would have loyalties to friends and principles here which would cushion their disappointment. They would know that activities, social and extra-curricular, don't all hinge around sororities.

Much of the emotional pressure would be removed by letting rushees adjust themselves to the university before attempting to adjust themselves to sororities. Instead of making one big jump and either failing or succeeding in the leap, they could walk more cautiously.

And the often overlooked home town pressure would be off. No one in the home town need know, as they do now, whether a girl was seeking a sorority bid or not. If the girl didn't get a bid, it would not be necessary for her to face embarrassing situations with her friends at home. Under "preferred" rushing all a girl's friends know she wants to join a sorority because she comes to the university a week early.

Many sorority women—acutely conscious that they should make an effort to relieve some of the unhappiness of "preferred" rushing—are aware of the benefits of "delayed" rushing. And some of them are proceeding in a highly commendable manner to correct rushing's defects.

But three questions confront the sororities, and one of them may be difficult to answer. Will delayed rushing hurt sororities financially? Can all freshmen women be housed in university units? Are there any kinks in the mechanical operations?

Aside from the fact that for part of the fall semester sorority houses would not be filled, there will be little financial differences under "delayed" rushing. It is likely that all sororities would continue to get as many pledges as they do now, and if the quota on pledges were continued, the strong houses couldn't monopolize the pledges.

Defects in the mechanical operations probably would arise only if the individual sororities did not regulate, on a voluntary basis, their rushing activities. Since they would have to attend classes and study, they could not devote, all their time to rushing as they did in rush week. Rushing parties would have to be spread out. The fact that fraternities have successfully controlled their rushing operations is an indication that sororities also could be successful.

But the question of where girls who ordinarily would be living in a sorority house would live during the period in which they could not be pledged is difficult to answer.

Rooms that ordinarily would be used as sorority annexes would be available, but there probably wouldn't be enough of them. Eventually, it is hoped, the university will have enough dormitory space.

Dean C. Woody Thompson and Helen Foeltz of the office of student affairs, who are aiding sorority women in their problems, recognize that there are three questions must be satisfactorily answered, and they are assuring sororities they will be.

And many, but not all, sorority women are working earnestly to correct the "messy" situation. They should be highly praised for thinking about the rushees first and themselves second.

But a solution is hard to work out. And unless these women are given more aid—from one powerful house in particular—Iowa's sorority system and Iowa's incoming women students are due for more suffering.

(Tuesday: Are Sororities Worthy at All?)

Rushing at Ames—

(Iowa State Daily Student) Rushing lists were out last night and a little less than half of the women who wished to pledge a sorority at Iowa State were taken into the Greek sisterhoods.

This is a duplication of what has happened at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, at Cornell college, Mount Vernon, and at other colleges and universities. The wealth of many families has increased to comfortable proportions during the war, increased to a point where the prestige of a sorority name and the exclusiveness of sorority life appeal greatly to parents and daughters alike.

The way in which sorority membership is composed at Iowa State is claimed to be more democratic than at other schools. Chief talking point here is that all freshmen pledged are required to live in a dormitory their first year on campus. That means they make friends with the women who do not join sororities.

Acceptable as this point is, it cannot hide the glaring defects of the sorority rushing system. Counselors in freshmen dormitories tell many times the stories of heartbroken, confused young women who base their entire college happiness on "making" a sorority. Although it seems superficial and trivial when the larger values of living are weighed, the disappointment experienced by rushees who do not receive the final bids often looms out of proportion.

Some sorority women have expressed the wish to wait until the end of the first quarter before rushing freshmen. This gives both the new woman student and the sorority a chance for orientation. Perhaps sorority members would be less impressed with glamor and show than at the present time. Surely two or three months of campus life would give sororities a better indication of the desirability of a woman than the week before they even know their way to and from buildings.

Whether Iowa State women, both independents and Greeks, will care to remedy this

Rush Week—

To The Editor:

I have just finished reading your editorial, "Rush Week Ends in Broken Hearts," and wish to commend you for it.

I am a fraternity man, but I feel that the method used in sorority rushing here is most cruel. In fact, I do not think I should care to have another daughter attend a school where this method was used.

Some years ago one of my daughters attended Iowa, and I received my first information as to the rushing methods used. I would have gladly had her withdraw from school before rush week. She was pledged, but there were many who were not, and as you say many disappointments.

It is my conviction that unless better and saner rushing methods can be used fraternities and sororities should be abolished.

While in school sororities mean a lot, but in later life one readily sees that they are most undemocratic.

Interpreting The News—

By JAMES D. WHITE, Associated Press Staff Writer

A Chinese woman has leveled a test-tube at the textile industry around the world.

Producers of cotton, silk, wool, rayon and nylon may well sit up and take notice because Dr. Ruth Feng, of Chungking, has figured out a way to get fine, usable fiber from ramie.

If you are interested in a smooth, silky shirt or a bed sheet that is six times stronger than silk and eight times stronger than cotton, you are entitled to get moderately excited about ramie, too.

It is possibly the strongest fiber known. It grows in giant grass blades from three to nine feet long, and comes up wild on every continent. In this country it grows on Florida swampland. It thrives on cultivation, yields two to four crops a year, and grows from the same set of roots for a decade.

There are Egyptian mummies shrouded in ramie cloth which is still intact after 4,000 years. But that cloth is coarse, because until Dr. Feng came along no one had found an easy way to separate ramie fibers thoroughly without mangling them. Consequently, ramie cloth has been coarse, stiff stuff, but anyway it made a fine cord for tires. It repels water and resists mildew. It has been used for gas mantles, typewriter ribbons, parachutes and "grass linen" cloth which you may have seen in imported table-sets.

This fiber had to be processed by hand, which made it expensive even in a country like China. A plaster statue stands temporarily in the white marble

Looking Ahead

Camouflage Blues

BY WASHINGTON STAFF OF AP

The aircraft industry is in a dither over camouflage plane factories.

The army agreed to pay for removing the decorations but now says it has no money for the job.

Workers are complaining about poor lighting resulting from camouflage in some cases, and certain chambers of commerce are complaining that it is an intolerable eye-sore. Managers say some plants, at least, could be lighted more economically without it.

Apparently the industry is going to have to bear the expense although it says it is in a poor position to do so because of production cutbacks even deeper than had been expected.

ALL AT ONCE—There's a strong possibility that the veterans administration will ask congress to authorize lump sum payments to national service life insurance beneficiaries. They're now made monthly.

SILENT MR. VINSON—Officials of some other agencies privately express concern over the silence that has settled over the treasury department.

Former Secretary Morgenthau held press conferences twice a week. Secretary Vinson is treading so carefully that little is known of his plans for treasury operations during the coming years. Reporters have to search out treasury and tax news from other sources.

JEFFERSON WAITS—It probably will be another two years before visitors will see the proposed 19-foot bronze statue of Thomas Jefferson in the Jefferson memorial.

A plaster statue stands temporarily in the white marble structure. Bronze has not yet been released for the work, and it will take 540 days (nearly a year and a half) to cast the statue after work begins.

FORRESTAL'S FUTURE—Intimates of Navy Secretary Forrestal maintain that if he has any plans for leaving the cabinet he is keeping them to himself.

Persistent rumors say he has been approached as possible democratic candidate for governor of New York or that he is in line for nomination as ambassador to the Court of St. James in London. All such reports must take into consideration that he is wrapped up in his job and wants to see the peacetime navy firmly shaped up before he steps out.

FASTEST FIGHTER—A new navy plane to be disclosed soon probably will be described as the world's fastest conventional fighter (as distinguished from jet planes). It combines a relatively small frame with extremely high power. It already has been placed aboard carriers.

ONE TRAINING PLANE?—Army and navy may agree on a single type of primary training plane. Training could thus be standardized and procurement costs reduced.

WEATHER MAPS—The weather bureau hopes eventually to put out daily national weather maps from about 20 regional stations. They will contain data ranging from dewpoint to cloud height.

Washington weather bureau headquarters now distributes such a map to some 3,000 subscribers (at $3.60 per year), but many get it at least a day late. Under the new plan, regional stations would get data by telegraph. Main obstacle: Money.

Starvation Forced Japanese to Follow Militarists Into Battle

By KENNETH DIXON

MANILA (AP) — If Mr. Aung Than would just tell his own story it would read like an E. Phillips Oppenheim thriller and justify everybody's beliefs about intrigue and espionage in the Orient.

However, since he chooses to remain close-mouthed on most details of his personal doings the past four years, perhaps it would be well to record for what they're worth a few of his impressions about our late enemies, the Japanese, and what made them so bloodthirsty.

Mostly (says Aung Than) militarism got its grip on Japan because of starvation—but before we develop his theory further let us check on Aung.

Spy in Tokyo Throughout the war he was a member of the official Burmese delegation to Tokyo. What the Japanese warlords didn't know was that he also was one of the Burmese resistance movement's most effective leaders.

Before the war he studied in Europe, then returned to Burma to join the army and become a member of student movements beginning to play a strong part in the political life of his country.

Neither he nor any of his serious-thinking youthful friends cared for the Japanese. So they moved into the Burmese underground.

Before he was too definitely identified with the resistance movement, its leaders received word that the Allies badly needed an espionage agent within Tokyo—one who would have the confidence of the Japanese militarists.

They looked at Aung Than. He was comparatively young, intelligent, educated, traveled and acquainted with world affairs, politics and intrigue.

Became Military Attache "The easiest way to get to Japan was to become a military attache," he says simply. He got himself appointed and went to Tokyo, taking his wife and child with him in seeming innocence.

In his role as Burmese military attache he picked up a great deal of vital information around Tokyo. This he says he methodically shipped out to the Allies via his only available outlet—the Soviet embassy.

Details of how he operated and what close calls he had are subjects Aung Than doesn't talk about. For one thing they involve several countries. For another they concern espionage methods and channels, and its personnel possibly still is in operation.

In any case, the American government is sufficiently grateful that the army now is preparing to evacuate the Aung family back to Burma in pretty fair style. Right now they're waiting at the Fifth replacement depot not far from Manila.

While Aung refuses to talk much about his work, he will discuss his observations. He kept his eyes open; he wanted to know why the Japanese people went to war—and he thinks he found out.

Starvation Is Cause "Starvation is the answer," says the Burmese. "The militarists took hold in Japan when fruits of the Manchurian conquest showed up in the market places of the country." Prior to that time, he adds, there was simply a venture of the military class, and did not have the people's support.

"But when Manchurian produce and commodities and varied foodstuffs began to be available, the Japanese people began to be convinced that the military leaders were right. Until then they had been starved for food and lived in an insufficiency almost incredible to the western mind."

Speaking as a man who daily risked both his and his family's lives to fight Japanese, Aung neither excuses nor condones Nippon's people on the basis of his observations. He thinks that the war lords' use of starvation as a weapon to club the people into supporting a war is a point that world peace planners might well take into consideration.

People Thank Soldiers He said that when Manchurian food finally won their loyalty, there was no limit to the faith and trust the Japanese people placed in the military leaders. Civilians coming home from markets would meet a soldier on the street and say: "Thank you, soldier." Songs were written on the same theme.

So great was that faith, born of at least temporarily better-filled stomachs, that even at the war's end, when their cities and industries were in ruins, Aung said the mass of Japanese still believed that the Americans were just being drawn closer and closer in order to be crushed to death by Jap military might.

Some army men who have talked to Aung think his political observations perhaps are even more important than his espionage activities—that a full belly may be the world's best weapon against future war.

Dance Climaxes Homecoming for City High

Mary Jane Baldwin Crowned as 1945 Homecoming Queen

HOME COMING QUEEN CROWNED

MARY JANE BALDWIN (above) was crowned Homecoming Queen at City High school's annual Homecoming dance in the school gymnasium last night. After the ceremony everyone joined in a grand march led by Coach Wally Schwank and Gil Wilson to celebrate Friday's football victory over Dubuque.

Iowa City High school students celebrated Friday's Homecoming gridiron victory at a dance in the school gymnasium last night. Soft music, colored lights and original red and white decorations combined to make a lovely setting for the annual coronation of the Homecoming Queen. The coronation took place on a raised platform covered by a canopy of red and white streamers. The backdrop, which carried out the color scheme, read "Homecoming 1945" and was painted in traditional Old English lettering.

Votes were cast Friday and Saturday night. Lenard Strasburg, Master of Ceremonies, broke the seal on the envelope containing the name of City high's Homecoming Queen for 1945 Mary Jane Baldwin.

The candidates and their escorts who marched down the white carpeted aisle to take their places on the coronation platform were Audrey Ellis and Bob Freeman; Jackie Kelly and Bob Krall; Maggie Goodenow and Bill Roth; Di Horrabin and Dale Stark; Joyce Johnson and Don Fryauf; Joan Paulus and Eldon Moss. Mary Jane Baldwin was escorted by Bob Devine.

The jeweled crown worn by the Queen was carried on a white satin pillow by Little Jan Schwonk. It was of excellent original design by Miss Martha Kool, art director.

Those who attended the dance cheered and applauded their queen and her attendants. After the ceremony everyone joined in a grand march led by Coaches Wally Schwank and Gil Wilson. The dance brought to a close the school's seventh Homecoming Festivities.

City Observes Fire Prevention Week

Clark Gives Statistics On Fire Damage To Lives, Property

Today is the first day of national Fire Prevention week.

In commenting on this annual week, observed at this time each year because the great Chicago fire started on Oct. 9, Fire Chief J. J. Clark yesterday gave these statistics, compiled by the National Fire Protection association, on fire damage to lives and property:

650,000 fires last year caused approximately 10,000 deaths and destroyed property valued at $450,000,000.

1,000 homes are attacked by fire every day, or at the rate of one every 90 seconds.

Once every 50 minutes someone is burned to death.

Daily, there are 1,000 home fires, 130 store fires, 100 factory fires, 7 church fires, 7 school fires and 3 hospital fires.

200,000 forest fires each year lay waste to 30,000 acres of valuable forest land.

In the last decade six million fires have ravaged property valued at $3 billion.

Yet, according to Fire Chief Clark, 90 percent of all fires are caused by sheer carelessness.

He specified the principal breeders of fire, all of which can be wiped out, as:

1. Negligence in handling matches.
2. Careless smoking habits.
3. Sparks falling on inflammable wood roofs.
4. Defective heating plants and chimneys.
5. Accumulation of rubbish in closets, attics and basements.

"Most of these fires are unnecessary," Fire Chief Clark said, "and the twin objectives of Fire Prevention week are to rid our homes and community of the hazards which account for the great majority of fires and to focus attention on the careless habits which take such a high toll of life and property."

"The fire department is, as always, ready to respond to a call of fire, but with all of our equipment and skill, we cannot totally save or in any way replace a building attacked by flames. We can put out the fire but we can do little to prevent fires from starting."

"That is the individual responsibility of each and every citizen and with fires taking a toll of 10,000 lives every year, in addition to hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property, it is not a responsibility to be taken lightly."

"Some fires will occur despite all precautions," the chief said, "so I urge everyone to be sure their fire extinguishers are fully charged in case of need and to delegate at least one member of the family to learn how to turn in an alarm accurately and without delay."

"The week of Oct. 7 to 13 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week. This is because this is the time of year when the furnace room should be cleaned of the summer accumulation of rubbish and a careful check made of furnace pipes and chimneys. The fire department makes periodical checks of all fraternities and sorority houses, business places and apartments to see that fire hazards are reduced to a minimum.

Statistics seem to prove that flat irons, defective light cords and cigarettes are the sources of a large number of unnecessary fires. Iowa City has been extremely fortunate in that no very destructive fire has occurred for years. We believe that our fire department is efficient but we do not want you or your group to put it to a test.

"Will you not cooperate and use care and be 'fire conscious' not for Fire Prevention Week only but for the entire year."

The fighting war is over . . . but we CANNOT turn our backs on the millions of men still in service . . . our troops of occupation and those on guard throughout the world. It is up to those of us who never got into the fighting and killing part of the war to continue our loyalty and faith grounded on gratitude for what our men have done.

Nor can we turn away from the desolation and hunger of our many small allies whose countries and homes have been reduced to rubble. Now in the first steps of peace we simply cannot let these people suffer longer. We must help them to the limit of our strength in this, the last of the War Relief campaigns. Let's unite in making it our biggest and best campaign.

DANGER ON THE PRODUCTION FRONT

How Much Will You Have to Pay for Your New Car? How Long Will You Have to Wait to Get It?

RECONVERSION BOGGING DOWN

Strikes are threatening the entire automobile industry. General Motors is being specifically singled out for attack to enforce unreasonable demands. Some of our plants have already been closed and shipment of materials from the plants of many of our suppliers has already been stopped by strikes.

The interests of all Americans should be considered. This is not only a General Motors problem. It is a national one as well. If our plants are closed by strikes the strikes will be against the interests of all the people of our country as much as they will be against General Motors.

AFTERMATH OF WAR

While the war is over, the aftermath of war presents big problems. War is terribly wasteful in blood and treasure. This one was especially so. It was not prosperity even though to some it may have seemed to be. And the immediate aftermath of such a war cannot be prosperity either. The clean-up, the mopping-up, the reconversion still require hard work, patience, understanding, and some sacrifice on the part of all of us.

INDUSTRY ON THE JOB

Our fighting men crushed our enemies with the huge quantity of weapons produced by American industry. But that is behind us. We would like to have been better prepared for peace, but the terrific demands of the war for men and materials did not make this possible. Now we have planned a second all-out effort and stand ready and anxious to do an equally impressive job.

PROBLEMS OF RECONVERSION

American industry has proved its ability to perform. It has the know-how, the resources, the courage to push ahead. But even with these fine assets it cannot do the job alone. It must have the goodwill and backing of the people of our country.

Our second all-out effort to meet a critical situation will bog down unless the real facts are recognized and sound measures promptly taken to solve the problems. Temporarily, while we are liquidating the war, there should be a sound national wage-price policy to stabilize and expand the economy.

DANGER OF INFLATION

The most serious threat we face is that of runaway inflation. The danger comes from three sources: first, the wartime and current tremendous deficit spending of our government; second, the pent-up demands for goods and services to the point where some are willing to pay excess prices even in black markets to satisfy their impatient and selfish desires; third, the desires of equally selfish unions to take advantage of the situation and force unreasonable wage increases.

Inflation is the worst of all economic diseases. It reduces the value of money in terms of what money will buy. It reduces the value of the savings of the people. It undermines security. It underwrites depression. It destroys confidence. It creates unemployment. Inflation must be avoided.

REAL PRICES

In a free market and in the absence of subsidies and speculation, the cost of human effort, be it in the form of wages, salaries or other forms of compensation, quickly determines the price we pay for goods.

Higher wages without a corresponding increase in productivity are inflationary. Nothing is gained unless higher wages mean more goods and services, more customers and more good jobs. This requires individual application to the job in hand and technological progress all along the line—better ways of doing all the things that must be done to produce and deliver products to customers at reasonable prices. This takes time.

A minority, by monopoly or by pressure group action, may temporarily profit at the expense of others. But the idea of wage increases all along the line without a corresponding increase in productivity is a delusion. All the people cannot lift themselves by their bootstraps.

UNION DEMANDS

Today, unions in our plants are demanding 52 hours' pay for 40 hours' work. Their demands if granted would result in over 67 hours' pay at present base rates for 48 hours of work where plants are working on such a schedule.

Equivalent or greater demands have been made on our suppliers—the parts manufacturers—the electrical industry—the steel industry—the rubber industry—the oil and gasoline industry—the railroads—in fact, on practically every industry involved in the production of automobiles.

WAGES AND PRICES

General Motors wages are now at an all-time high and are importantly higher than the average wages paid throughout the country for similar work.

The present government stabilization policy permits wage increases without government approval only if such increases will not result in a request to increase prices. The formula the OPA has proposed for pricing our new products does not recognize or allow all the actual increases in our costs that have been incurred since 1942.

Neither is there any provision in the present OPA formula for increasing prices to compensate for the additional costs that would be incurred if wages and salaries were increased at this time.

A sound and equitable solution must be found in the interests of not only our 400,000 employees, but our 426,000 stockholders, our 15,214 automobile dealers, who have had no new cars for over three years, our 10,000 subcontractors and suppliers and their employees, and the more than 10,000,000 potential customers who are anxiously waiting for new cars and our other products they need so badly.

WARTIME PROFITS

General Motors did not make big profits during the war. Although sales and employment doubled, the average yearly net profit in dollars earned during the war was less than the average prewar net profit. Dividends paid to stockholders averaged less than those paid before the war.

The war profit limitation policy voluntarily adopted by General Motors immediately after Pearl Harbor was so reasonable that the resulting profits were accepted in renegotiation without change by our government for the years 1942, 1943 and 1944.

During the war, Victory Was Our Business.

EXCESS WAGES REFUSED

Demands are being made for higher wages without any corresponding increase in production, on the assumption that the additional costs can be absorbed from profits previously earned or from uncertain future profits.

General Motors cannot use money saved up for many years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants and providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed. The money cannot be spent twice.

Neither can excess wages be currently paid from presumed future excess profits when a realistic forecast of costs shows there will be no such excess profits.

Nor can we pay from current income the increased wages demanded when the present OPA policy holds prices to substantially 1942 levels—especially in view of the fact that there have been important increases in wages and operating costs since 1942.

Runaway inflation must be avoided. If an adjustment in price levels must be made at this time, the interests of all the people must be fairly considered.

If wage and salary increases are made, it must be recognized that they increase costs and such costs must be adequately reflected in the prices of products produced.

Internal strife and unemployment must be avoided. Only productive work and more good jobs will increase our standard of living and satisfy the desires of the American people.

Boilermaker's Aerial Attack Conquers Wisconsin, 13 to 7

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A sharp passing young halfback, Bob De Moss, pitched Purdue to an early 13 to 0 lead over Wisconsin yesterday and Boilermakers fought off a determined Badger counter-attack to win the opening Big Ten game for both schools, 13 to 7.

De Moss got off passes for consistent gains in the first two periods to place his team deep in Wisconsin territory from where it smashed through for scores. In the final half, however, the Badgers dominated the play and in the closing minutes they went deep into Purdue territory only to be checked on the three-yard line with less than two minutes to play.

The Badgers drove 87 yards for a touchdown in the third period on line smashes by Ben Bendrick and Jerry Thompson and scored on a 52 yard pass from Thompson to end Jack Mead.

Purdue went 65 yards and 52 yards on two marches in the first half to run up its lead, cleverly mixing passes by De Moss and straight line shots by Ed Cody, George Mihal and Bill Canfield.

In the first period De Moss got off two tosses of 21 yards, to Canfield and Cody to move to Wisconsin's 10. From that spot Cody went to the four, Canfield to the one and Mihal crashed over.

In the second quarter De Moss got off a long pass to Canfield that he took out of the hands of two Badger backs to give Purdue a first down on the Wisconsin 21. Cody then ripped through center to the seven from where Canfield went over left tackle for a touchdown. Tom Hughes, a tackle, kicked the extra point to make it 13 to 0.

Michigan Tops Wildcats, 20-7

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Michigan's high geared scoring machine overwhelmed Northwestern yesterday, 20 to 7.

The Wolverines, blending running and passing plays in a dazzling and deceptive attack, took complete charge of the game after the Wildcat lightning struck them down briefly before the game was in progress two minutes.

Thereafter, Michigan's hard-charging line and swift moving backs functioned efficiently to score in each of the first three quarters.

Dick Conners, Northwestern's scotching ball carrying ace, shoved the Wolverines back on their heels as the clock registered one minute and 33 seconds of the opening period. Conners slanted off his left tackle and sprinted 66 yards for a touchdown. Jim Farrar place-kicked.

Michigan came back quickly with power and punch. Taking the ball on the Northwestern 48 after a punt, the Wolverines moved to the 36. Joe Ponsetto passed to Art Renner for 18 yards. Walter Tengling took a lateral and galloped to the Wildcat four. Jim Foltz whizzed around his left end to score the goal line, Ponsetto failed to make the additional point.

Ponsetto started another drive by returning a punt to the Northwestern 23. A pass, a lateral and three thrusts into the line carried to the one yard stripe. Pete Elliott bucked over to put his mates ahead. Ponsetto added another point from placement.

Trojans Trip St. Mary's

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's Trojans chalked up their third straight victory of the season by defeating the St. Mary's Pre-Flight Air Devils, 26 to 14, yesterday, in four quick scoring thrusts set up by an alert, hard driving line.

Two blocked punts, within a space of minutes, by Capt. Jim Callanan, end, and tackle John Pehar, were quickly converted into third period touchdowns to sew up the game for the Trojans.

Niles Leads Hawkeye Attack

Ohio State Power Display Impresses Coach Clem Crowe

on so much power in the second half.

"I guess it's just the same old story of a lot of big good guys outclassing some good little guys," one of the coaches said wryly, and they praised their players' spirit in defeat.

The coaches had high praise for Jerry Niles' passing and defensive work while in the game. Wendell Weller, who took over the tossing after Niles was injured slightly in the third quarter, also was credited with an outstanding performance.

Only "Oz" Simons was bruised and battered after the game, but did a remarkable job of filling in for Nelson Smith, who saw only part time service at right half.

"We played in the pro league today," admitted line coach Bud Boeriger after the battle. Jerry Niles' comment was "These boys could have beaten the Green Bay Packers the way they ran the last half."

Coach Clem Crowe expressed respect for the Ohio boys, saying that some of Coach Widdoes' third stringers would look good on some other schools' varsities this season.

Some of the Iowa backers present were a little bitter at Ohio State for trying to "run up the score" by putting Dick Fisher back into the game in the last period. Others contended that Ohio State should never have scored in the first half, because Sarringhaus wasn't really out of bounds before he fumbled. Everyone agreed, however, that Ohio State's steamroller will have little trouble, aside from the Minnesota classic three weeks hence, in defending their Big Ten title this year.

Iowa State Cyclones Tie Kansas, 13-13

LAWRENCE (AP)—Kansas' Jayhawks gentled the Iowa State Cyclones here yesterday, coming from behind with a stunning touchdown drive in the fourth quarter that gave them a 13-13 tie with the Big Six conference's No. 2 football favorites.

Kansas scored first in the third quarter on a 44-yard forward pass from Frank Pattee to Norman Pumphrey but had seen its lead vanish as the Cyclones struck back viciously for two touchdowns in the same period.

Navy, Army Triumph

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Navy furthered its national championship aspirations yesterday by beating out-manned Duke, 21-0, in what the middies considered their "toughest game before Army."

Clyde Scott, the fleet Arkansas kid; R. P. "Hunchy" Hoernschemeyer, former Indiana university star, and Bob Jenkins, Talladega, Ala., contribution to navy's great backfield, roared over Navy's scores.

Jenkins and Hoernschemeyer sent the Middies away to a 14-0 lead in the first period as Navy struck quickly and then held to its advantage until Scott broke away for a sensational 82-yard run in the final period.

Jenkins, aided by Scott and Bob Kelly, formerly of Notre Dame, bulled his way for 15 yards, going over from the 1-yard line and Hoernschemeyer galloped 26 yards for the second Navy touchdown a few minutes later. He faked a pass, waited for excellent down-field blocking and raced over.

Nelson Smith

Bob Gustafson

Jerry Niles

LAST WEEK'S BACKFIELD combination of Niles and Smith began to click again in the first half of yesterday's battle with the unbeaten Big Ten champion Buckeyes, and right end Bob Gustafson did more than his share to help stem the enemy's fierce ground attack. Niles' aerials time after time hit their mark as Smith scampered toward paydirt, but the Hawks' superior air attack failed before Buck running power.

Irish Smother Early Georgia Tech Lead; Win in Splurge, 40-7

ATLANTA (AP)—A powerful Notre Dame eleven warded off an early Georgia Tech flurry and then unleashed a versatile attack to outclass the Jackets, 40-7 yesterday. A capacity crowd of 32,000 attended.

Tech got away to a flying start, driving 52 yards to score in the first six minutes, only to have the Irish tie the count before the quarter ended.

The visitors spread the glory among half a dozen backs and five of them scored touchdowns, two by halfback Elmer Angman, who was used sparingly.

Notre Dame scored twice on long passes, twice on sizeable runs, and added two more on short plunges.

Tech tallied first when Jack Peek returned Francis Daneewicz's punt 23 yards to the Tech 48 and George Mathews plowed to a first down on the Irish 40. John McIntosh passed 17 yards to Ed Holsinger, Mathews slipped around end for 16 and on a fake handoff, Holsinger ran around the weak side to score. Dan Ryker's placement made it 7-0.

The Irish took charge then and completely dominated the playing.

Daneewicz passed 39 yards to Phil Colella near the goal to start the scoring and Stan Krivik, a much decorated ex-air force pilot, came in to tie the score with the first of four drop kicks.

In the second period, Notre Dame drove 54 yards, mostly on short thrusts by Colella and Frank Ruggerio, capped off by a 19-yard scoring jaunt by Angman. Just before the half, Joe Gasparella unleashed a 48-yard scoring pass to Bill Zehler who dragged two tacklers over with him.

Coming back in the third, Terry Brennan spiked a Tech threat by intercepting a pass at his seven and lugging it back 61 yards to set up another score. Angman topped over the ground offensive with a 3-yard lunge and Ryker's kick made it 28-7.

Indiana Hits Illinois Hopes By Passes, 6-0

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois University's early threat as a Western Conference title contender was all but wiped out yesterday when a pass-conscious Indiana Hoosier eleven roared down the field early in the final period to hand the Illini a 6-0 defeat.

Indiana used running plays during the three scoreless periods, and although consistently outplaying Illinois through sheer speed, found itself butting its head against a stone wall whenever the Illinois goal line loomed ahead.

In the last quarter, quarterback Ben Raimondi climaxed a 53-yard drive when, with the ball on the 10-yard line, he faded back to the 25 and fired that touchdown pass to Ted Kluszewski, standing in the end zone in front of the goal posts.

Illinois threatened seriously but once, in the final period after, Indiana had scored. Stan Stasica discharged serviceman from Rockford, Ill., who entered school but a few days ago, took Indiana's kickoff on the 10-yard line, and returned it nine yards, and then sparked a drive that carried to the Hoosier nine and a first down.

There the Hoosier defense bolstered, pushed Illinois back to the 19, and after the Illini had been penalized to the 24, Indiana's alert secondary blocked a desperate passing attack to take the ball.

Indiana first threatened in the second period going to the Illini 16 before losing the ball after scoring a touchdown that actually was nullified by a dog.

Gophers Take 16th Straight; Overwhelm Cornhuskers, 61 to 7

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Minnesota's merciless Gophers had their production line in full swing yesterday and turned out nine touchdowns to swamp a game but outclassed Nebraska Cornhusker eleven, 61-7.

Winning their 16th straight victory for Coach Bernie Bierman, the Gophers poured over six placekicks for a total of 20 points. A powerful Minnesota line held Nebraska to a minus 17 yards on rushing plays, while Gopher backs rolled up 504 yards on the ground good for 24 first downs. All of Nebraska's first downs came on passes or penalties.

It was the most one-sided game in the 28-game series between the two teams, bettering Minnesota's 54-0 victory in 1943 and the sixth straight over Nebraska for the Gophers.

The Gophers warmed up with a single touchdown in the opening quarter. Mealey crashing center from eight yards out and Merlin Kispert adding the point. Then they stepped up their output to 14 points in the second, 20 in the third and 20 in the fourth.

The Gophers stuck to straight power football, but their touchdowns covered just about everything in the books—short, steady stabs between the tackles, an end sweep runback of an intercepted pass, and a blocked punt.

Nebraska showed a fancy second-quarter passing attack to sandwich in a touchdown between Minnesota scores. Halfback Mack Robinson completed five of six tosses in a 51-yard march, pitching the last five yards to 17-year-old freshman Don Sailors. Bill Sloan converted from placement to end Nebraska scoring.

Navy Vet Scores

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—With navy veteran Patsy Rega scoring both touchdowns, Cornell college yesterday defeated a stubborn Macomb, Ill., State Teachers football team, 13 to 7.

The Cornell touchdowns followed almost identical end runs from Macomb's 20-yard line.

Macomb's only score came in the fourth quarter when a Cornell player dropped a punt and the Teachers recovered on Cornell's 15-yard line.

CHICAGO (AP)—Detroit's unpredictable Tigers came roaring back again yesterday behind the brilliant five-hit pitching of Paul "Dizzy" Trout to wallop the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, at Wrigley field and square the World Series at two victories apiece.

In one big inning, the fourth, the Bengals broke their appalling batting famine to drive southpaw Ray Prim from the mound and score all their runs on four hits and a pair of walks. With that to work on Trout was never threatened, and the only run scored off his scorching fast ball and curves was unearned.

One was out when the Tigers suddenly burst their bounds and jumped back into the fight. Eddie Mayo opened it with a walk, the first Bengal to reach first. Roger Cramer and Hank Greenberg followed with clean singles, Mayo scoring on the second blow, as Cramer advanced to second.

When Roy Cullenbine came through with his first hit of the series, scoring Cramer and sending Greenberg to third, Prim was yanked and was replaced by Paul Derringer.

York was purposely passed, filling the bases. Outlaw forced Rudy at second, Greenberg scoring on the play, and catcher Paul Richards then drove Cullenbine across with the fourth run on a clean single to center.

Phil Cavaretta and Bill Nicholson, the Cubs' two top sluggers, each struck out twice. In the fourth inning, when the first two Chicago players, Don Johnson and Peanuts Lowrey, led off with singles, Trout struck out Cavaretta, forced Eddie Pakko to roll out and then whiffed Nicholson to slam the door.

Steve O'Neill Confident

CHICAGO (AP)—Steve O'Neill manager of the Detroit Tigers, exploded the tense, sullen atmosphere that has been hanging over the Tiger dressing room, by bluntly announcing yesterday that his players now hold a definite edge over the Cubs in the deadlocked world series. The Tigers had just beaten the Cubs, 4-1, and the series was tied at two apiece.

The graying, batter-nosed O'Neill based his opinion on the fact that he has Hal Newhouser and Virgil (Fire) Trucks ready to throw at the Cubs in the next two games.

"They are the best two pitchers I know of," O'Neill declared.

Newhouser, with a record of 25-9 this season, was battered off the mound in the opening game at Detroit, but O'Neill is confident that Hal will make a startling comeback. Trucks hurled Detroit's first win over the Cubs Thursday with a dazzling display of speed.

Newhouser broke the tension that has prevailed in the Detroit dressing room by cutting loose with a piercing yell the moment he stuck his foot in the clubhouse door.

"We certainly double-cross those guys today," he screamed. "Boy, and how!"

O'Neill said his confidence in Paul (Dizzy) Trout never wavered once, and he never entertained the thought of relieving him. Trout said facetiously that he was throwing an "atom ball" at the Cubs all afternoon—"I stood up there an throw it at 'em."

"They've got a helluva good ball club, with plenty of power, but they ain't as good as the old New York Yankees," he continued. "We just got four runs and we beat 'em. Yep, this is my second appearance in a world series and I'm glad I won."

It took a lead-off triple by Johnson and an error by York to give the Cubs their only score in the sixth inning. When Lowrey, who followed Johnson, rapped a grounder down to Jimmy Outlaw at third base, Johnson was caught cold and would have been an easy out if Outlaw had chosen to run him down.

But for some unfathomable reason Outlaw merely glanced at the base runner and whipped the pellet over to York to make the put-out of Lowrey at first. Johnson went scrambling back toward third, and York, trying to nail him, threw high over the bag and against the stands. The Tiger runner scored before the ball could be recovered.

The Tigers proved again they could win behind good pitching, and they had their lefthanded ace, Hal Newhouser, to throw back at the Bruins in today's fifth game against Hank Borowy.

Substitute Fullback Hudson Mealey went into the game shortly after the opening kickoff when Vic Kulbitski was injured. He turned in a three-touchdown performance and made good two placekicks for a total of 20 points. A powerful Minnesota line held Nebraska to a minus 17 yards on rushing plays, while Gopher backs rolled up 504 yards on the ground good for 24 first downs. All of Nebraska's first downs came on passes or penalties.

It was the most one-sided game in the 28-game series between the two teams, bettering Minnesota's 54-0 victory in 1943 and the sixth straight over Nebraska for the Gophers.

The Gophers warmed up with a single touchdown in the opening quarter. Mealey crashing center from eight yards out and Merlin Kispert adding the point. Then they stepped up their output to 14 points in the second, 20 in the third and 20 in the fourth.

The Gophers stuck to straight power football, but their touchdowns covered just about everything in the books—short, steady stabs between the tackles, an end sweep runback of an intercepted pass, and a blocked punt.

Nebraska showed a fancy second-quarter passing attack to sandwich in a touchdown between Minnesota scores. Halfback Mack Robinson completed five of six tosses in a 51-yard march, pitching the last five yards to 17-year-old freshman Don Sailors. Bill Sloan converted from placement to end Nebraska scoring.

Gridiron Upsets Major Order Of Weekend's Football Classics

NEW YORK (AP)—If a centipede crawled across a map of the United States, every one of its hundred legs would touch a spot where a football upset happened yesterday.

Holy Cross, which couldn't get out of its own way a week ago, bounced Yale, 21 to 0. Stan Koslowski engineered all three touchdowns for the winners, giving the Elis their first defeat since 1943 and shutting them out for the first time in 26 games.

Missouri, walloped twice on successive weekends, defeated Southern Methodist on a field goal by tackle Jim Kekerries in the last period for a 10 to 7 victory.

California got 13 points in the final period to defeat Washington, 27 to 14.

Three Oklahoma fumbles gave Texas A & M a 19 to 14 edge over the Big Six Sooners and Joe Tepic, a marine back from Guadalcanal, downed the hero's robes as Penn State's homecomers sat in on a 27 to 7 defeat of Colgate.

In addition to those legitimate upsets there were such eyebrow lifters as Penn's narrow 12 to 0 verdict over Dartmouth, the Quakers getting seven first downs to 13 for the losers; Minnesota's 61 to 7 massacre of Nebraska; Lafayette crawling into a 7 to 7 rain-swept tie with Princeton and Purdue's tight squeeze with Wisconsin, 13 to 6.

Southern California, gradually climbing in national prestige, knocked off St. Mary's Pre-Flight, 26 to 14. Iowa State gambled with a pass from its own six in the final minutes and Kansas intercepted it to set up the touchdown that enabled the Jayhawks to tie the favored Iowans, 13 to 13.

Easterners sat in on Tufts' 7 to 6 decision over Harvard; Brown's complete reversal of form in downing Boston College, 51 to 6; and watched Rensselaer explode for a 71-yard scoring pass play late in the fray to defeat Rochester, 25 to 14. Columbia had little difficulty

Fl. Benning Downs Great Lakes, 21-12

GREAT LAKES (AP)—Dick Weber, formerly of St. Louis University, threw three touchdown passes yesterday to give the Fort Benning (GA) Doughboys a 21-12 triumph over Great Lakes Blue-jackets.

Weber replaced Jeff Burkett at half back in the second quarter and immediately started to prove troublesome. His first touchdown heave—a 19-yard toss—went to end Monk Edwards, formerly of the New York Giants, with 90 seconds remaining in the first half.

After Great Lakes came roaring back with two markers in the first five minutes of the third quarter to take the lead, Weber started pitching again. With a minute to go in the period, he tossed a 50-yard pass to Craft, who grabbed the ball on the 10 and scampered over.

Weber's third scoring pass came with 35 seconds left in the game. It was a 20-yard aerial to end Bill Spoor. George Hecht converted three times.

Writer's Cramp Proves That—Fans Mob Greenberg

By WHITNEY MARTIN
CHICAGO (AP)—The rain fell with quiet perseverance and the Detroit Tigers sat impatiently on their bench as if—if they were going to win or lose this fourth game of the world series with the Chicago Cubs—they wanted to do it right now.

Hank Greenberg sat in a corner and wiggled the fingers of his right hand to get the kinks out of them, as he had a light case of writer's cramp from signing too many autographs.

"Tell you what," he said, "I'll make a prediction. If Dizzy Trout gets by the first three innings, we'll win." He gazed out over the big shower bath which was Wrigley field and added: "Looks like it might clear. I hope we can play."

Hank seemed a little weary. Everywhere he goes it is "there's Greenberg" or "hiya Hank" or sign this or sign that, and the big guy has practically no time to ease up and be himself. He said he's going to take a good vacation when the series is over as he went right out of the army into the Tiger lineup, and it was a tough pennant race.

"Hank is a little sensitive about the frequent intimations he is shy on speed afoot."

"I know I look slow," he said. "That's because I'm so big. Do you know, I can move as fast as anyone on our club. I know they say when some outfielder misses a ball 'so-and-so would have got that.' You can't tell about those things. I might have got that ball Peanuts Lowrey hit against the screen Friday if I'd had time to turn around, but it was a well-hit ball and more on a line and didn't give me much time."

Hank, like the other Tigers, had nothing but praise for Claude Passeau and his one-hit masterpiece of Friday. He said the Cub pitcher gave him a couple of good balls to hit, right down the middle, but they were first pitches and he took them. After that Passeau worked on him and gave him only tough ones to bite at.

"When I'm traded or sold to a weaker club I'll retire," he said. "I'll know I'm on the downgrade and I won't want to stick around. He doesn't want to return to first base, either, although he insists he wasn't as bad a first baseman as a lot of critics said he was."

Drivers' Unit Tests Students

Students of City high school will have an opportunity tomorrow to demonstrate their abilities as drivers when a complete driver testing unit of the state department of public safety will be at the school.

The unit, housed in a large trailer, contains devices for testing reactions and other abilities necessary for safe driving.

"It's a general examination for drivers and prospective drivers," Ollie A. White, chief of police, explained yesterday.

Quizzes on the state traffic laws and the safest driving practices can be given the students. The unit also contains color charts for testing color blindness and standards for setting up a driver training lane which presents driving problems that occur on the streets or highways and measures the student's reaction to those situations.

Police Chief White said that, although arrangements have not been completed, he believed that the testing unit would be at City high all day tomorrow.

Dan Steele of the division of safety education of the state department of public safety is in charge of the training unit.

said that one of the Jehovah's Witnesses called at her home, put his foot in the door and insisted that she listen to a recording.

Mayor Teeters and other city officials looked into the city ordinances to find if this sort of conduct was prohibited under any of the nuisance ordinances or one of those relating to peddlars.

There seemed to be nothing in the city code which prevented the Jehovah's Witnesses from calling on persons and being insistent.

The only way that such persons could be prosecuted would be for the householder to sign an information charging disturbance of the peace.
