

Political Tension Mounts in Argentina

Police Kill 1, Injure 39 In Mob Clash

Crowd Congregates To Demand Dismissal Of President Farrell

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A day of political tension erupted into violence and death last night as saber-swinging mounted police charged a demonstration in San Martin square, throwing thousands of Argentines into panic.

At least one person was reported killed and 29 injured, either from wooden carriages fired by police or by revolver fire from automobiles along the square.

The crowd, estimated at more than 10,000, had congregated in front of the officers' club, the remnants of a huge demonstration which spent Columbus day in the square demanding that the nation's government be handed to the supreme court and the ouster of President Edelmir Farrell.

Confusion clouded the cause of the tumult. A staccato sound, as of machine-gun fire or firecrackers on a string, threw the demonstrators into panic, and without warning 40 policemen sent their mounts against the throng.

Civilians in cars at the side of the square were seen to draw revolvers and fired their guns apparently aimed also against the crowd. An editor of the newspaper La Nacion, Eduardo Mallea, said he recognized members of the "nationalist youth alliance" in the melee.

While apprehension gripped the city, a source close to Rear Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, named yesterday as naval minister, said that Col. Juan Peron, resigned vice-president, had been arrested and placed aboard a gunboat.

Earlier yesterday a group of army-navy officers forced Farrell's cabinet to resign, and a spokesman said they also had the president's own resignation—"to be used at any moment."

Meeting throughout the day in the army officers' club on San Martin square, the group was reported torn by bitter discussion over whether to accept Farrell's resignation and turn the government over to the supreme court.

Resignation at Hand Gen. Orlando Peluffo, one of the leaders of the officers who took upon themselves the task of remodeling the government after the army's big Camp de Mayo garrison two days ago ousted Juan Peron from the vice-presidency and war ministry, disclosed that Farrell's resignation "is in our hands."

Peron himself, storm center of the 28-month-old military regime, was officially reported under arrest. A crowd of 10,000 persons waiting outside the officers' club, meanwhile, gave evidence that it was getting impatient at the delay in settling the country's future government.

When a sign reading "down with the army" was painted on the building, Maj. Argentine Molinero ventured out in civilian clothes to scrape it off. The crowd promptly set upon him. Peluffo, in full uniform, sallied out to the rescue, and also was attacked. The crowd tore the Argentine shield from his cap, and yelled "Nazi" after him as he made his way back into the club.

Technically Constitutionally, Farrell can quit only by sending his resignation to the supreme court, which then would become the nation's government.

Over this, the army-navy group was sharply split, some demanding that the tribunal be allowed to take over and others predicting civil war would result if it did. The latter faction argued that the assembled officers represented only part of the army and navy. The rest, they contended, might object, and resist their decision by force of arms.

A joint army-navy demand served upon Farrell produced the cabinet's resignations, and required him to replace them with civilian notables.

Two cabinet posts were re-filled after the mass resignation—Gen. Eduardo J. Avalos, commander of the big Campo de Mayo garrison which overthrew Peron, was re-appointed minister of war, and Rear Admiral Hector Vernengo Lima was named new minister of marine.

B-29's Rush Food To 150,000 Troops Isolated on Okinawa

TOKYO (AP)—Superfortresses swooped down on a typhoon-torn Okinawa yesterday, rushing 284 tons of food to the island's 150,000 isolated American troops.

The 132-mile wind that left 13 American sailors dead or missing and 100 soldiers injured Tuesday disrupted all but airborne sources of supply.

Evacuate Wounded (Five big four-engine navy Sky-master-transporters from Guam slipped in and out during lulls and evacuated 157 war-wounded even before the storm had ceased, naval air transport service headquarters at Oakland, Calif., reported today.)

Sunk, damaged or beached were 127 naval vessels, and others were unable to unload at port facilities that had become a litter of splintered wreckage.

The typhoon swept on northward, killing at least 69 Japanese on Honshu, flooding 8,000 homes and ripping out 80 bridges before thundering on out to sea.

Bright sunshine warmed Honshu yesterday for the first time in a week, but it brought little cheer to Japanese farmers whose already inadequate rice crops were heavily damaged.

Fifty B-29s began emergency deliveries of food to Okinawa's American garrison yesterday, dropping all other tasks—even their jobs of flying replacements to permit return of the Okinawa veterans to America.

Other superfortresses will carry twice yesterday's tonnage of food and other urgently needed supplies from Guam daily for the next three days, air forces headquarters reported, and additional deliveries were planned from Saipan next week.

British Dock Workers Still Strike; Troops Unload Food Ships

LONDON (AP)—British Troops unloaded food ships yesterday in ports crippled by the walkout of about 50,000 dockers, and union leaders asserted the wildcat strike was being encouraged by political groups including Communists.

Spokesmen for the unauthorized strikes stood firm, despite military intervention and criticism that food supplies were imperiled. The strikers seek a daily wage of $5, from present pay of $3.20 to $4.80.

More than 400 ships were tied up, along with cargoes of 160,000 tons of meat and other food for this import-dependent island.

Officials of the transport and general workers union declared they had "definite evidence" of political encouragement behind the strike which burgeoned from a walkout of 60 Liverpool men 19 days ago.

Tom Pockel, leader of the London dockers, promptly denied the charge declaring: "I have not been influenced by any political party, and neither has any member of the strikers' committee. This strike is entirely non-political."

Strike Cuts Steel Output

Seamen's Dispute Ties Up 350 Vessels In New York Harbor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Production of steel for reconverting industries slumped further yesterday and there was no indication striking miners would return soon to the pits that feed the hungry furnaces.

High spots in the labor situation were:

1. More than 200,000 soft coal miners were off the job as conferees in Washington ended a fruitless week of argument on settlement of the six-state dispute affecting half of the nation's bituminous output.

2. AFL teamsters employed by 3,100 midwestern trucking firms asked the national labor relations board to conduct a strike vote.

3. Dissolution of the war labor board began in Washington.

4. A federal conciliator was named to seek peace in the prolonged Hollywood motion picture strike.

5. Seamen's unions indicated they would support the strike of AFL longshoremen that has tied up the port of New York.

6. Conciliators sought to avert a bus strike that would affect 1,000,000 Massachusetts passengers daily.

7. Strike settlements offset new stoppages in the coal fields and the number away from work over the nation stood at 453,000.

The big steel centers reported the long deadlocked coal strike was compelling the industry to shut down more and more blast furnaces and open hearths.

The Carnegie-Illinois corporation predicted that in another week only four of its 23 Chicago-Gary furnaces would be running and the production rate would be down to the lowest since the depression year of 1933.

The soft-coal dispute is over demands of a foremen's union, a branch of John L. Lewis' United Mine workers, for recognition as collective bargaining agent.

Chairman George W. Taylor of the war labor board, the wartime stabilizer of industrial relations, cleared his desk to quit the government Monday. The board itself is to be dissolved by the end of the year under orders from President Truman.

In the port of New York where an AFL longshoremen's strike has tied up more than 250 vessels, members of three seamen's unions indicated they would support the walkout by shutting off the steam of any ship which tried to discharge cargo.

Refused Move The union members also refused to move a strike-bound cargo vessel in the harbor to the Brooklyn army base for unloading.

The army and war shipping administration called upon the striking longshoremen to return to work to prevent further delay in the return of veterans from overseas.

The situation in New York harbor has "materially retarded the return of American troops from Europe," they told Ryan.

England Withdraws Ships—Christmas Abroad for GI's

LONDON (AP)—Withdrawal of the Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania from the United States army ferry service threatened today to prevent thousands of American soldiers in Europe from getting home for Christmas as planned.

It was announced in the house of commons that the two huge British vessels, which have carried more than 91,000 troops across the Atlantic since V-E day under lend-lease arrangement will be returned at once to their Cunard line owners for the repatriation of British troops.

The British action, which the United States army indicated was a surprise, came as a jolt to thousands of Americans "sweating it out" for transportation home. It was stated officially that transfer of the two liners would mean a loss of shipping space for at least 125,000 men during the next three months.

An army statement said an unspecified number of American victory ships were to be traded temporarily to the British for continued use of a third liner, the Queen Mary. Presumably, the Mary will be at the disposal of American authorities for the remainder of the redeployment program.

An army statement in Paris said a shipping slow-up, over which the army had no control, from east coast United States ports had postponed the homeward travel of 65,000 Americans from the European theater.

The statement, from the Oise section headquarters, did not specify the cause of the slow-up or in which ports it had occurred. The army transportation corps office in Paris said the delay was not specifically the result of the strike of New York longshoremen.

The troops scheduled to come home on the Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania included 20-point men who fought in Europe. While their departure has been definitely delayed, they will receive the highest priority and the last of them may be enroute early in November. However, there were no guesses as to when 70-point men may get shipping.

"If the shipping allotment for this theater is increased to compensate for the loss of these ships," the army's statement said, "December shipments will be stepped up to meet the target of having only 707,000 men remaining here by January 1."

British Minister of War Transport Alfred Barnes, announcing the liners' transfer, explained that the surrender of Japan had made the reallocation necessary.

Police Hunt Secret Station

TEL AVIV, Palestine (AP)—Palestine authorities yesterday hunted a defiant secret radio station attempting to rally Jewish "resistance" forces, while American troops on leave were hurried out of the tension-gripped Holy Land.

The radio station, believed to be a mobile unit, shortly before last midnight broadcast the announcement: "listen to the voice of Israel! this is not a terrorist station. This is the station of Hebrew resistance."

Clearly and audibly for a fourth time last night, the station asserted.

Radio Threat "Never again will Jews be deported from their homeland. Our patience is over. No power in the world shall break our determination."

"Neither the Arab league, the trans-Jordan frontier force, the police, airborne division, police decree nor white paper shall turn us into slaves."

The station, which condemned the British white paper restricting immigration into Palestine, announced it would return to the air at 2 p. m. today in a different wave length.

Police Check Police in Jerusalem yesterday checked identity cards in two portions of the city, and detained three persons who were released later.

Palestine was placed out of bounds to United States troops as of 3:30 p. m. Thursday by a sudden order from United States headquarters of the Middle East theater.

Manchurian Tumult Soviets Dismantle Jap Factories

PEIPING (AP)—Russian occupation forces in Manchuria are dismantling factories for shipment to the Ukraine and other devastated Soviet areas, travelers arriving from Mukden said Oct. 6.

They gave graphic descriptions of the general anarchy and tumult accompanying the collapse of the puppet state of Manchukuo, with Russian authorities gradually getting the upper hand and restoring order.

The story was told by a group of 14 air passengers, including a former French consular official and his family, who landed at night at the unlighted west airfield here.

Soviets officials, they said, had "invited" them to leave Mukden within 36 hours because their passports lacked Soviet visas.

The former French official, M. Renner, said he had been consular general at Mukden since 1941 after holding a similar post in Hong Kong for 13 years.

(If he took over at Mukden in 1941 he must have been an appointee of the Vichy government, a fact which may have figured in his departure by request from the Russian-occupied city.) The group said Japanese civilian work parties had been drafted for labor in the great Fushun coal fields, near Mukden, and that other work parties were dismantling industrial installations for removal to Russia.

German War Plants Confiscated by Allies After Investigation

BERLIN (AP)—The Allies have confiscated the entire holdings in Germany of the octopus-like I. G. Farbenindustrie, without whose vast industrial output the Nazis would have been unable to wage war.

Lieut. Gen. Lucien D. Clay, administrator of civil affairs in American-occupied Germany, announced last night that a part of the 300 plants owned by the huge trust would be dismantled and taken by the Allies as reparations.

Plants devoted to the output of the implements of war will be destroyed, and only some which turn out non-war products, mostly pharmaceuticals, will be left in operation, he said.

Clay made it clear that the Allied seizure affected only holdings within Germany. He said he did not know what would happen to Farbenindustrie's foreign holdings, which extend over a fair-sized portion of the world.

He estimated that about 75 percent of Farbenindustrie's plants in Germany were intact. Forty of the plants are located in the American zone, with the headquarters and one of the biggest units at Ludwigshafen.

The confiscation included all of Farbenindustrie's currency holdings. Prewar assets of the trust were estimated at 5,000,000,000 reichmarks—$2,000,000,000.

Investigation of Farbenindustrie's holdings have been made by the army men who directed military seizure of the plants, by the federal department of justice, and United States group control experts.

Col Edwin Pillsbury, who directed seizure of the plants in the United States zone of occupation, said investigation showed that the combine controlled virtually all German chemical production, supplied the Nazis with needed foreign exchange, engaged in industrial sabotage, checked on chemical production in every country, and hampered production outside Germany.

Reeducation of Nazis 'Will Take 50 Years,' Eisenhower Believes

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—General Eisenhower expressed belief yesterday it would "take 50 years of hard work" to reeducate Nazi Germany in democratic ideals, and said that as far as he was concerned "the ban on Nazis will be permanent."

"If anyone believes we're going to leave anything to Germany to prosecute another war, he's crazy, that's all," Eisenhower asserted, adding that the denazification orders of the Potsdam conference were "right down my alley."

The American commander expressed irritation with press criticism, "mostly by implication," of United States policies and administration in occupied Germany.

"We got our orders from Potsdam, and they are right down my alley. I say let Germany find out what it means to start a war."

'More War' BAD NAUHEIM, Germany (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton Jr. put on record yesterday his belief that "there will be more wars" and that "unless we are armed and prepared the next war will probably destroy us."

Diet May Streamline Japan's Constitution

Hirohito Concerned About Establishment Of New Monarchy

TOKYO (AP)—Domei agency predicted yesterday the diet in December would overhaul Japan's constitution for the first time in 57 years and gear it to General MacArthur's demands for traditional-smashing social changes.

(An NBC broadcast from Tokyo quoted Prince Fumimaro Konoye as saying that Japan's constitution may be changed to take nearly all powers from the emperor and establish a constitutional monarchy. When asked if that would force Hirohito to abdicate, the former premier said the emperor was "seriously concerned.")

Expert Advises To prepare the ground for drastic government changes, Dr. Soichi Sasaki, an authority on Japan's constitution, took over the task of advising Marquis Koicho Kido, the highest ranking consultant for the emperor.

The new constitution is expected to provide for MacArthur's orders for women's suffrage, labor unionization, abolition of "secret inquisition" police systems, advancement of education and revision of monopolistic industrial control.

While the Japanese government moved to carry out social reforms it also asked American headquarters for help in the mounting fuel and food crisis.

Food Shortage Japan's food shortage was made worse by a damaging typhoon that ravaged rice crops on the main island of Honshu.

Japanese authorities appealed to American headquarters for permission to import 100,000 tons of rice from Indo-China and 120,000 tons of oil from the United States. Japan offered to pay for the oil with 46,000 bales of raw silk.

Domei said the special session of the diet also would investigate Japan's extraordinary military expenditures account which is reported to have paid out approximately $14,700,000 since 1937.

Domei declared the secret account had "aroused public suspicion in connection with reported unauthorized disposal of munitions" by the militarists.

Looks Like a Nice Weekend Ahead

It looks like we are going to have a nice weekend. We would not like to go so far as to say that it will be beautiful because it might be a little cool. There isn't much chance that any precipitation will show up to spoil anybody's weekend plans.

It also looks like the weather in Lafayette, Ind., will be nice. We are hoping that the Hawkeys make it hotter than.

Yesterday the Iowa City mercury rose to 62 from a low of 38 at 8:30 a. m. At 12:30 a. m. today the mercury was back to 38.

Mrs. Truman Attends Tea Despite Protest

Refuses to Boycott DAR for Banning Hazel Scott Concert

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Truman yesterday deplored the exclusion of Negro pianist Hazel Scott from the DAR's Constitution hall, but the first lady turned down a demand that she boycott a DAR tea party.

She told Rep. Adam C. Powell, husband of the pianist, that her late to attend the tea yesterday afternoon was made before the controversy arose and "is not related to the merits of the issue."

In messages to Rep. Powell, Negro Democrat from New York, the President and Mrs. Truman sharply criticized "race discrimination" and "prejudice."

The controversy started when the Daughters of the American Revolution refused to permit use of the hall for a concert by Miss Scott, former night club musician, on the night of Oct. 20. It explained later that its rule limiting the hall to white artists only was "in accordance with the prevailing custom of the District of Columbia regarding schools, auditoriums, theaters, hotels, restaurants, clubs, cantens, playgrounds, etc."

On Oct. 1, Rep. Powell protested to Mr. Truman, asking for "action." He followed this up with a telegram, made public yesterday, urging that the president's wife stay away from the DAR tea.

"I can assure you," he wired, "that no good will be accomplished by attending and much harm will be done. If you believe in 100 percent Americanism you will publicly denounce the DAR's action."

Yesterday the president replied to Powell's original protest, saying in part: "One of the marks of a democracy is its willingness to respect and reward talent without regard to race or origin."

"We have just brought to successful conclusion a war against totalitarian countries which made racial discrimination their state policy."

"I am sure that you will realize, however, the impossibility of any interference by me in the management or policy of a private enterprise such as the one in question."

Mrs. Truman Speaks The White House made public the president's letter, and also a telegram from Mrs. Truman to Powell, both dated yesterday.

"Personally," the president's wife added, "I regret that a conflict has arisen for which I am in no wise responsible. In my opinion my acceptance of the hospitality is not related to the merits of the issue which has since arisen."

"I deplore any action which denies artistic talent an opportunity to express itself because of prejudice against race or origin."

Other Allies to Aid In Occupying Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Russian, British and Chinese troops will join Americans in the occupation of Japan, but there has been no official word from Washington as to the size of the Allied forces or the date of their arrival, an Allied headquarters spokesman said yesterday.

Discussions about the incoming troops have "been in the mill for at least 30 days," said the spokesman for Lieut. Gen. Robert K. Sutherland, chief of staff to General MacArthur.

"We have received official word from Washington that they are coming, but have been waiting for Washington to announce the fact and details of the combined occupation of Japan."

"We rather expect each country will send one division," the spokesman said. "After we know the size of the supreme commander for the Allied powers will designate the respective zones of occupation. We expect to receive further details soon from Washington," he said.

Big Ten Compliments Iowa Student Body

The Student Council program to make visiting athletic teams welcome at the University of Iowa has brought two of the kindest compliments the Iowa student body has ever received.

The Council wrote to the three universities which will play here this fall, and offered its services in transporting, guiding or entertaining the visiting players.

From the University of Indiana came this answer:

"Let me thank you most sincerely for your very fine letter that came to me this morning, extending courtesies and assistance of the sportsmanship committee of the University of Iowa Student Council."

"I assure you that I appreciate this very much, and want you to know that the coaches and all the players feel likewise. It happens that we will be stopping in Cedar Rapids; therefore, will be in Iowa City really only for the game. We will come over at noon on Saturday and leave as soon as the boys are dressed after the game. In view of this, we will be unable to take advantage of the courtesies you have extended, but, nevertheless, we do appreciate what you have written."

"Thanking you most sincerely on behalf of the staff and players, I am, Cordially yours, Z. G. Clevenger, Director of Athletics"

And from the University of Wisconsin came this letter:

"Thank you so much for your kind invitation to look after our boys on our trip to Iowa Nov. 3."

"Our plans are still in the tentative stage, however, and we will stay either at Davenport or Cedar Rapids, arriving just before game time. We will leave immediately after the game for our return home."

"In view of this we won't be able to accept your thoughtful hospitality."

Sincerely yours, Harry Stuhldreher (Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach)

An answer from the University of Minnesota has not yet been received, presumably because the Minnesota-Iowa game here is still more than a month away. But even if the Gophers, too, are unable to accept the Council's hospitality, the Council will not be disappointed.

The Council had expected that visiting football teams would not have free time to see our campus and meet some of our students. The important thing is that our opponents know the welcome mat is out for them.

We have presented tangible evidence that we at Iowa are truly good sportsmen. And, as Mr. Clevenger writes, the visiting coaches and players "appreciate this very much."

What's more, the word of what Iowa is doing will soon be spreading around the Big Ten conference. We can be sure that when athletic directors and coaches get together for meetings in Chicago, they will mention the thoughtfulness of University of Iowa students.

And the directors and coaches will tell our story to their players and the players will tell it to the students. The word that the Iowa student body is not only spirited for its own team but sportsmanlike toward others will soon get around.

There will be justifiable compliments for Iowa because we have taken the lead in promoting greater sportsmanship in inter-collegiate athletics. All we need now is to maintain the pace we have so commendably set.

A Few Fall-Tips—

You have to use your head as well as your hammer if you go about nut-cracking properly.

C. A. Reed, the agriculture department's nut culturist, explains that every nut has a cracking technique all its own.

He says that a rule that applies to all nuts, but particularly to those with hard shells, is to soak them overnight in warm water.

Reed has some recommendations for cracking some of the common varieties. Almonds, for example, "are easy to crack," he says. Instead of cracking them with your teeth, as do nine out of ten almond eaters, he recommends using a hand-grip cracker applied to the thin edges.

Hammers should be applied to English walnuts. Reed suggests you hit the shoulders of the walnuts lightly. (We didn't know that nuts—of the edible kind—had shoulders.)

Pressure-cracking devices should be used for pecans. "To insure adequate cracking, squeeze until two snaps are heard," Mr. Reed says.

Recognition for Austria?

(Christian Science Monitor) Through the usually gloomy London fog the probability of American and British recognition of the Austrian government shines like a small but comforting street lamp. In his report on the statement at London, Secretary of State Byrnes mentioned American recognition of the Renner regime is likely. Now from London come further reports that the British are preparing similar action.

A move in this direction should not be interpreted as an effort to placate Russian feelings. The Austrian government has evidently established a right to recognition. Though it came to power during the Russian occupation of Austria, early reports on this government indicated it was something more than an "imposed" regime.

Then later, under American and British pressure to broaden its base, this government called meetings of representatives of nine Austrian provinces. One result was the addition of a cabinet seat, which was given to a representative of the conservative People's party. Also, police power was taken from the Communist minister of the interior. Before the end of September the Austrian government had struck a pretty fair balance between Communists and Socialists on one hand and conservative elements on the other.

Elections are scheduled for late November, and the commission of five chosen to supervise them is two parts People's party, two parts Social Democrat and only one part Communist.

Recognition of the Austrian government would mark the second notable expression of satisfaction by the western Allies with governments chosen in areas dominated by Russian military power—the other being Finland. This fact does not automatically solve the problems surrounding the Hungarian, Bulgarian and Romanian treaties which have snagged Big Three efforts at cooperation these last hectic weeks. But it at least helps to offset harmful assumptions that the pattern of disagreement between the western democracies and Russia is either universal or inevitable.

Covering The Capital

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The war isn't over yet for the nation's capital. City fathers as well as government officials say all will be unrest, confusion and change for some time to come. The shortage of housing and office space is still acute—may get worse. Manpower is also still scarce.

People still stand in lines a block long for buses, movies, cafeterias. They still crowd the curbs waiting to cross the street when the light changes.

Large numbers of people will be moving out as war agencies cut down. But new ones will be coming in as some agencies expand their services.

The veterans' administration is hiring in large numbers. If bills before congress to extend social security and establish a federal health program go through and if we decide to build a larger army, bigger staffs will be required.

Agencies decentralized outside of Washington may be coming back too.

These include the patent office, moved to Richmond, the fish and wildlife service in Chicago, the war department's office of dependency benefits in Newark, N. J., and the wage and hour division in New York.

Many areas are fighting to keep these agencies, but some—such as the last—want to come back now, as of this minute.

Apart from government, Washington is beginning to follow the growth pattern of other cities. Up until recently most of the capital's wholesale business was carried on in Baltimore. All meat slaughtering was done outside the city. There were few industries. The picture is changing.

Not including military personnel, which ran into many thousands, Washington's paid federal employment totaled 255,454 as of July 31.

During the war nearly one and one-half times the population of the entire United States passed through the city's main gateways—Union station, Washington national airport and two bus terminals.

Between Mondays and Wednesdays daily traffic in and out of Union station alone still totals about 150,000, as compared with 50,000 in normal times. Week end traffic mounts up to approximately 185,000 daily.

Under the law, all temporary wartime housing and office structures must be torn down by five years after the war's end.

When this job is begun depends on completion of a program for building permanent shelter for the hundreds who will then find themselves homeless.

Only a month ago the war housing center said it was able to house but 3,000 of 10,000 applicants and these not adequately. The situation will be the same—maybe worse—in the months to come, it says.

Abner Doubleday, the inventor of baseball, fired the first shot during the war between the states, according to factographs. Bet he was aiming at an umpire.

From All Around The State

DES MOINES (AP)—The farm security administration has made only one farm ownership loan in Iowa this year, because of the high price of land, Life Young, state FSA director, said yesterday. However, since the beginning of the present fiscal year last July 1, FSA has made 160 chattel mortgage loans totaling $447,964.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. Isaac D. White of Des Moines, commander of the famed "hell on wheels" second armored division which aided in the defeat of the Germans, yesterday was awarded the distinguished service medal. The war department said his contribution to the defeat of the Germans was "of outstanding proportions."

TIPTON (AP)—The murder trial of Mrs. Ruth Madsen in connection with the death of her husband, Henry Madsen, West Branch farmer, has been continued from Oct. 15 to Oct. 22, pending an Iowa supreme court ruling. The state has appealed to the court from an order of the Cherokee county district court which released Mrs. Madsen from the Cherokee state hospital.

DES MOINES (AP)—A 54 year old Des Moines mother, Mrs. Anna Lukehart, has offered a reward of $300 for the conviction of the "true murderer" of eight year old Harvey Bold at Carter Lake in 1928. Her son, Clarence, now 38, has served 17 years in the state penitentiary and reformatory for the slaying, of which she declared he was innocent. She said she did not know who killed the boy, but that she was sure her son didn't.

DES MOINES (AP)—A new record for milk production in the month of September was set by Iowa cows last month, the Iowa crop and livestock reporting service said yesterday. The production last month amounted to an estimated 531,000,000 pounds.

DES MOINES (AP)—For accepting a $25 reward for finding a house for a tenant, Oliver W. Angell of Cedar Rapids has been required by the OPA to pay $50 into the United States treasury. Walter D. Kline, Iowa district OPA director, said yesterday. The reward money was not refunded, Kline said, because giving a reward is contrary to OPA regulations.

AMES (AP)—Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, war department director of the atomic bomb project, presented the army-navy "E" award to Iowa State college yesterday for its part in development of the bomb. He said the only way of stopping the bomb from its destruction is "to prevent the vehicle carrying it from reaching its destination." But, he emphasized, "It is vitally important that the people of the United States understand that we have no defense against this bomb."

DES MOINES (AP)—Addison M. Parker, Des Moines attorney and former Republican state senator from Polk county, died yesterday. He had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage several weeks ago. Surviving are the widow; a daughter, Mrs. H. Telfer Mook, and two sons, Paul and Addison Jr., both naval lieutenants.

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa development commission yesterday authorized the employment of Howard Benedict, 44, Sioux City, as its publicity director, Rodney Q. Selby, commission director, announced. Selby said Benedict had been employed in a publicity capacity at Sioux City by the office of price administration.

His salary will be $3,600 a year. No date was set for the beginning of his employment.

DES MOINES (AP)—Two new definite cases and one suspected case of infantile paralysis among Des Moines school children were admitted to hospitals Thursday night and yesterday. In addition, two known from other Iowa cities were admitted to hospitals here Thursday night.

This was the first increase in the number of active infantile paralysis cases here since last Monday. New cases among Des Moines children were Mary Neuwöhner, 14, and Nancy Longshore, 9. Under observation as a suspected case was Betty Freestrom, 13.

Those admitted from outside Des Moines were Peter Miles, 11, Clear Lake, and Pauline Steinblock, Lake View.

Meanwhile, at Conrad, funeral services will be held Sunday for Leroy Weatherly, 32, trucker, Grundy county's first polo victim. He died Wednesday at Iowa City. His widow and three children survive.

It is impossible to say how much salt should be taken with this account, but here is the gist of it, throwing possible light on what has gone on in one of the most important areas in Asia since Japan surrendered.

First, Japan's puppet Chinese troops revolted the same day it was announced Manchuria would revert to China. That was August 17.

A puppet governor general formed a provisional government and sent a message of loyalty to Chungking two days later. That night Soviet troops arrived.

Somebody—one suspects the Japanese because they have done it elsewhere—threw open Japanese army warehouses to the public, which started a wave of looting which spread to civilian homes.

August 20, General Marionovsky of the Russian Red army accepted Japanese surrender, but Chinese laborers continued looting and raping.

The situation got worse, with shooting going on all around by anyone who could find a gun.

Enter now what called itself the Chinese communist eighth route army, swarming in from the hills of Jehol and Liaoning where the Japanese had never been able to subdue either communists, bandits or Manchurian guerrillas.

Two groups, one headed by a General Chung Chiu-Ling, and another by a General Li Lung-Chang, both claiming to be Chinese red leaders.

They competed in recruiting former puppet soldiers to whom they gave Japanese arms. It is impossible to tell which force, if either, is genuine. But it may be significant that General Chung's name was on a poster which was put up demanding the release of the former Manchurian war lord, the young marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang.

Oct. 2, the Chinese communist troops—real or phoney—to pull out of Mukden and disband. They stopped railway traffic, apparently to prevent large scale movements of these idle forces.

That's M. Renner's story, and he adds that the Russians now are ripping out Japanese machinery and sending it to the Ukraine via the Transiberian railway.

If true, this would be a serious charge, and one which could strain the recent series of treaties between China and Russia.

Doctor Urges Civilian Interest In Meaning of Psycho-Neurosis

"We are not dealing with the readjustment problems of returning veterans, but rather with civilians in regard to veterans," Prof. Wilbur R. Miller, director of the psychopathic hospital, told members and guests of the Masonic service club at their weekly luncheon yesterday noon in the Masonic temple.

Addressing his remarks primarily to business men who will employ returning servicemen, Professor Miller turned the theme of his speech to the employers' attitude toward hiring men whose discharges were due to psycho-neurosis rather than physical injury.

"Every civilian should be taught about the real meaning and effect of psycho-neurosis," he said, "for, unfortunately, employers object to hiring people with this diagnosis on their discharge papers."

"If the employer didn't know the reason for a man's discharge, he wouldn't worry about his condition and ability," Professor Miller said. "Men employing veterans should not be concerned about psycho-neurosis, but should look into past work records as a basis for their judgments. These records are better clues to working ability than any medical record."

"Too Much Emphasis on Psychiatric" Professor Miller said that too much emphasis is being placed on psychiatric aspects in regard to veterans, and that there is a dangerous tendency among civilians to relate neurotic conditions to all returning servicemen.

"It would seem that the general population needs study, rather than just army personnel," he said. "Forty to sixty percent of all civilians, if examined, would be found to have emotional difficulties and personality problems. These are the factors leading to maladjustment and a psycho-neurotic condition."

Professor Miller pointed out that in war, many of the best-adjusted men break down under severe circumstances, citing the Guadalcanal troops as an example. After long and disheartening combat, about eighty percent of the troops there showed symptoms, he said.

Soldiers Know Psycho-neurosis "Soldiers recognize what the term psycho-neurosis means and accept it," he said, "but they are naturally sensitive to the cautious attitude with which civilians regard them."

"Most of the men coming out of this war have a broader outlook on life, good sound ideas and superior judgment about business. Furthermore, these veterans see many maladjustments in civilians, for civilian disorders are just as bad as those caused by combat."

Employers and the general public must bear in mind that many competent workers employed before induction would have been found to have difficulties then, but these difficulties did not hinder their work, and thus would not be an objection to hiring them now, he emphasized.

'Employment Neurosis' "We must look upon a neurotic condition among returnees as 'employment neurosis'—that is, a change of job from civilian to rigid army life where readjustment could not be made," he said.

"Often, the same maladjustment would be found if a man had to stay in the same job in civilian life, adding the rigors of army service," he illustrated. "When a normal individual was inducted, he was subjected to a rigid environment and many demands with which he was not familiar. Naturally, his emotional status and personality experienced great changes.

"Even so, the number of mental disorders among army men hasn't risen in this war, and is at just the same figure as if veterans had stayed at home," Miller commented. "Thus, army experience doesn't affect a man who didn't have emotional difficulties as a civilian."

Remarks to Employers Professor Miller concluded his address with some remarks which were directed to employers and others dealing with returning veterans.

"I hope we have learned a lesson from the last war, that we mustn't pay a man who is sick to stay that way. That is one of the surest methods of making a neurotic condition incurable.

"We can avoid this by spending money allotted to veterans' care for treatment and for adjustment in communities. Our aim should be the promotion of centers where good information is available to those who have problems.

Eliminate Red Tape "We must eliminate the red tape which hinders efforts to help veterans. Timely assistance is essential to their well-being.

"Furthermore, let us not be overwhelmed by statements about the tremendous rise of mental diseases in the army. When a man returns to civilian life, he will very likely adjust to it easily, if we help him.

"A psycho-neurosis diagnosis on paper shouldn't have anything to do with the employer's evaluation of a man's ability. His preinduction work record is the best clue to his workmanship.

"Finally, we must eliminate the mistakes that were made after the last war in treatment of patients. The new veterans' administration is giving its attention to these matters and we feel that we are actually accomplishing our aims.

"It is up to employers and to all civilians to see that we succeed in our purposes."

Iowa Mountaineers To Spend Weekend At State Park

Twenty members of the Iowa Mountaineers, campus outing organization, left last night for the Mississippi Palisades state park, Savannah, Ill., where they will spend the weekend camping and practicing climbing.

Members of the Iowa Mountaineers will be joined at the Palisades by 15 members of the Chicago Mountaineering club, and the entire group will practice their climbing technique on the many rock towers and pinnacles, offering climbs varying from 15 to 100 feet.

Tonight members will be entertained at the traditional campfire program when colored slides and movies taken during the 1945 summer outing to Grand Teton Range, Wyo., will be shown for the first time.

Last Year's Record Proves— Army Eleven Tops

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK (AP)—The Tuesday afternoon sewing circle doesn't talk all the time about sewing...

Was, and is, the army eleven as great as they had been led to believe?

Well, we can't answer the "is" part as we haven't seen the cadets play this year.

But as far as last year's team is concerned, we could answer truthfully that Army was the greatest college football team we ever saw.

Hawkeyes Encounter Purdue Today

With Steve Nusser and Bill Greene scoring two touchdowns apiece and Craig Harper contributing another...

It was evident from the very start that the Rivermen were much too strong for the Montis. Greene, besides doing a fine job of ball carrying...

After the opening kickoff by Donovan, the Montis ran one play, and fumbled. Donovan recovered the ball on the Monticello 33-yard line.

The next time the Montis kept the ball for three plays and then punted to Nusser, who came back to the Monticello 47, from where Green, Helm and Nusser brought the ball to the 2-yard line for a first down.

The first period ended four plays later as the spunky Helm intercepted a pass by Jim Seehusen, but this time the Blue Hawk attack failed on the 12-yard line.

Again the Rivermen showed alertness as John Carson, tackle, stole the ball from the ball carrier on the Monticello 10.

The Blue Hawks received the third quarter kickoff and marched 74 yards in six plays as Bill Greene drove through a big hole to run 31 yards and cross the pay-off stripe standing up.

On the next kickoff, Monticello started a passing game, featured by the throwing of Seehusen. He completed one to Ronny Benson, who ran to his own 38 before being stopped.

Again they went the distance in seven plays. Nusser, Helm and Green made successive first downs, and then, with the ball on the 13-yard line, Green lateraled to Nusser, who shook off a tackler to make it to the end zone, ending the scoring at 32 to 0.

Bears Top Colonels, 10-2, in Fourth Tilt Of Little World Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Scoring seven runs in the eighth inning, the Newark Bears last night defeated the Louisville Colonels, 10 to 2, in the fourth game of the little world series.

Before a half-frozen record crowd of 14,586, the teams played on even terms for the first seven innings as the lead sawsawed only temporarily.

On the strength of only two hits, but with the aid of three walks, four errors and two wild pitches the Bears scored seven runs off four Colonels pitchers in the eighth.

The Newark victory was their first of the series, Louisville having taken three straight games at Newark.

RETURNS TO IOWA

MAJOR EDDIE ANDERSON

Former Coach Hopes To Lay Groundwork For 1946 Grid Team

Maj. Eddie Anderson, Iowa's football coach on leave of absence, announced yesterday he did not expect to take an active part in coaching this season but was anxious to get started in laying the groundwork for the 1946 grid team.

Anderson, who served 32 months in the medical corps, returned to Iowa City Thursday night and for all practical purposes has been released from the service. His football contract with the athletic board does not expire for three years.

The Iowa coach asserted that he would be happy to do anything he can to help out this fall. Anderson entered the medical corps in February, 1943, and was sent overseas in March, 1944.

Cyclones, Missouri Big Six Foes Today

AMES (AP)—Iowa State's aerial-minded football team will go against the heavy Missouri Tigers today in the second Big Six game for the Cyclones.

Iowa State, tied last week by Kansas, is expected to rely heavily upon passes to gain ground against the Tigers who will be making their first conference start.

Bill Dellastatious, Missouri half-back who injured an ankle early in the season, will play in his first game tomorrow.

Coach Mike Michalske announced one change in his Iowa State lineup. Jim Pusch, injured in the Cyclone's first game with Northwestern, will start at left tackle, replacing Jim Foy.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Three sparkplugs of Coach Bo McMillin's undefeated Indiana grid machine will rest the bruises of three successive Western conference engagements today as the Hoosiers take on sub-par Nebraska before a homecoming crowd anticipated at 15,000.

McMillin has indicated that fullback Pete Pihos, end Ted Klusowski and hard running George Tzafierro, Negro halfback, will not start. None are seriously hurt but all could use a rest after the rigorous Hoosier opening.

Potsy Clark's Cornhuskers, losers to Minnesota, 61 to 7, last week, will rely on the passing of freshman Mack Robinson and the running of Jerry Moore and Jim Weiss.

Wartburg Outplays Dubuque, 13 to 6; Paul Green Stars

DUBUQUE (AP)—Dubuque university's string of consecutive gridiron victories was snapped at 16 yesterday when Wartburg college completely outplayed the Spartans to win an Iowa conference victory, 13-6.

The scrappy Wartburg eleven, led by Paul Green, a hard-driving back, dominated the play, rolling up 18 first downs to Dubuque's five, and 347 total yards gained to 182 for Dubuque.

Little Hawks to Play Cedar Rapids Today

Injury Keeps Star Halfback Bob Krall From Facing Bears

The Iowa City Little Hawks invade Cedar Rapids this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hill park, after their third conference win of the season. They make the trip without Bob Krall, whose fine work has been a lethal weapon in the first four games this season.

Coach Wally Schwank is not yet sure of his starting lineup, but some changes are in order. Bob Devine, who will serve as captain for the Bear contest is slated to take back the center duties from Virgil Troyer.

Little is known about McKinley since the Hawks and the Bears have not yet met any of the same teams. Scouting reports show a fast club in the Bears, and their Brookner is a dangerous man.

Drills this week have been on defense since McKinley looked much stronger on offense to the scouts, and are a scoring ball club as the record shows.

The arrival in Lafayette today will be "homecoming" for Coach Clem Crowe as well as for Boiler-maker partisans.

Outside of the serious loss of Fagerlind, the Hawks appeared in good condition for the game this afternoon. Crowe said that the remainder of the lineup would remain intact.

Paul Fagerlind Unable to Play; Spurbeck Starts at Guard Slot

By GUS SCHRADER Daily Iowan Sports Editor

CHICAGO, Ill.—Iowa was sent to enter its second Big Ten battle without its star right guard, Rocky Paul Fagerlind, today as a 34-man traveling squad headed for Lafayette determined to spoil Purdue's annual homecoming fiesta for an expected crowd of 20,000.

The veteran Fagerlind became ill on the train coming into Chicago from Iowa City yesterday afternoon. The team physician said that he had a "strep" throat and fever and would be sent back to Iowa City this morning.

Last night Coach Clem Crowe said he intended to start Wayne Spurbeck, freshman guard who looked good in a light signal drill held just before the team left Iowa City, in Fagerlind's place.

Pre-game talk in Chicago last night favored Purdue by a three-touchdown margin. Dopesters figure the powerful running of fullback Ed Cody and 500 passing average of Bob DeMoss, freshman quarterback, will be too much for the Hawks.

The Iowans arrived at LaSalle street station at 9:15 last night and hiked to Morrison hotel where they spent the night. Everybody went to movies "must" pictures of the Purdue-Iowa Seahawk game of last fall.

The Hawkkeys were enthused last night about the spectacular sendoff that was given the squad at Iowa City. Tom Hand, just back to Iowa after 2 years in the marines, said it beat anything he had seen in 1939, '40, '41, and '42—days when rabid fan celebrations were common.

"Gosh," said crew-clipped Herb Braun, reserve fullback, "We can't let those kids down when they give us a sendoff like that when we just got beat 42-0."

The arrival in Lafayette today will be "homecoming" for Coach Clem Crowe as well as for Boiler-maker partisans.

Outside of the serious loss of Fagerlind, the Hawks appeared in good condition for the game this afternoon. Crowe said that the remainder of the lineup would remain intact.

The Hawkkeys are due to leave Lafayette after game at 6:30 and

Trippi Discharged; To Enroll at Georgia

TAMPA, Fla., (AP)—Staff Sergeant Charlie Trippi, the former University of Georgia Rose Bowl star, was released from the army last night on 41 points.

The backfield ace, whose release brought protests from Tampa's newspapers and charges that Georgia politicians had brought pressure on the war department, left Drew Field without any statement as to his immediate intentions.

It was reported at the field however, that he would report once to the University of Georgia as a student. That would make him eligible for the Georgia football team.

No matter where you turn that dial today, you will be able to hear the Iowa-Purdue game. WSUI will carry it through the courtesy of KRNT where John Hackett will bring you the play by play description of the game you won't want to miss. The time for that is 1:45. WMT will also carry the game with Bert Wilson on the mike. Wilson was with WIND this summer and was the spotter for all home and away games of the Chicago Cubs. This fall, besides doing all the Iowa games, Wilson is also sportscasting the games played by the Chicago Bears. Let's stick with the Hawks through every minute today! Ray Block, bandleader on the Paul Baker "Take it or Leave it" programs over CBS Sunday nights, has just finished recording the final portions of the Al Smith Memorial Album consisting of eight sides.

Ted Malone, whose human interest reports are aired over the American chain, can easily lay claim to some of the most avid listening fans in radio. Several write him daily commentaries on his broadcast topics. And one of this group hit a new high in adoration the other day when she wrote from her ranch in California: "You blew out a tube Thursday. Getting another today. Bless you!"

The plaintive love ballad, "Things That Might Have Been," and the inspiring hymn, "The Heart That Was Broken for Me," are Roy Acuff's solos on the "Grand Ole Opry" show tonight over NBC.

First in a series of four programs entitled "Iowa Mornings" presented by WSUI this morning at 8:15 will consider the first recorded conversation in Iowa between a white man and the Indians. Rosa Lee Shay, A4 of Marj, will tell about Father Marquette's journey down the Mississippi. Jean Horak, A4 of Cedar Rapids will read Longfellow's version of the conversation. This is a project of the class in Iowa culture taught by Prof. Luella M. Wright.

Civil Service Aids Handicapped Persons

A brighter future in employment has been predicted for the disabled veteran and non-veteran. More than 65,000 physically handicapped persons, including 10,000 veterans, have been employed by the federal civil service since Oct. 1, 1942.

The manpower shortage brought on by the war resulted in a great wave of research and study in utilizing disabled persons in industry. Nearly a thousand handicapped veterans are being employed each month in the federal civil service and that figure is expected to increase with the rate of discharge.

In conjunction with the National Employment Week for the Physically Handicapped, Oct. 7-13, proclaimed by President Truman, Rena B. Smith, federal civil service regional director at St. Paul, Minn., has announced that more than 1,500 physically handicapped persons in this region were employed in the last 27 months. Of this number 334 were veterans.

Prof. G. H. Coleman Discusses Chemical Research Trends

Interesting highlights of the research in various fields of chemistry that has been carried out by the scientists of the world in the past, and that which will take place in the immediate future were discussed by Prof. George H. Coleman of the chemistry department in a Baconian lecture last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

In his lecture, which was broadcast over WSUI, Professor Coleman stated that he would not attempt to cover all chemical research but would include enough typical selections to give an indication of the main trends in global research in chemistry.

Professor Coleman explained recent research in the bio-chemical field in the uses of the so-called essential amino acids. These acids are a possible food substitute, he said. A synthetic polymer which included some of these acids was used in Germany during the war as a substitute for blood plasma in treatment of shock.

A study that was greatly accelerated by the war, according to Professor Coleman, was the research for antimalarial drugs. Quinine and atabrine are the common drugs that have been used in the past, but these are primarily suppressants rather than cures.

An entirely different trend, continued Professor Coleman, is the search for another source of liquid fuels than petroleum. Natural gas and oil shale are possibilities, he said, but since our coal reserves will last for thousands of years at the present rate of usage, gasoline from coal is the ultimate goal.

One of the most significant trends in the organic research in chemistry, the speaker stated, deals with the production of organic chemicals from petroleum and natural gas. If this production comes up to expectations of scientists, the next 20 years may well be known as the petroleum age.

Many scientists, chemists as well as physicists and engineers, were involved in one way or another in the production and utilization of atomic energy, Professor Coleman continued. In part of the atomic bomb research, ordinary carbon was used as a "moderator" of fast moving neutrons. In the process radio active carbon 14 is formed and should be available in relatively large quantities. This radio active carbon can be used for therapeutic purposes and as a tracer element.

"Just what far reaching developments may eventually come from the atomic bomb work, it is impossible to say," Professor Coleman concluded. "Two new elements, number 93 and 94 were formed. One can imagine that in the future atomic energy may become available as a common source of energy with all of the scientific and economic changes which it would entail."

Betty Janssen Named Queen

University high school students last night crowned Betty Janssen their first Homecoming queen during the intermission of the "Spheroid Swagger," Homecoming dance.

Don Follett, master of ceremonies, introduced the queen and Margaret Ladd was crownbearer. The attendants to the queen and their escorts were: Joy Schnoebelen and Bill Greene; Phillis Snyder and Nick Anderson; Gerri Kupka and Yaro Schnoebelen; Norma Thornton and Craig Harper; Barbara Lewis and Bob Rasley and Gloria Braley and Dick Larew. The queen was escorted by Bill Hittler.

The school gymnasium was decorated with blue and white streamers and the coronation took place in front of a large white football backdrop across which "Spheroid Swagger" was printed in black letters.

C'est Chivalry! Currier Desk Girl Acts as Doorman

The age of chivalry, manners and polite gestures may be reviving! It was a balmy fall day not too long ago and the doors of Currier hall were open wide for any and all to enter or depart. Girls were leaving in groups for class—or wherever girls go in the afternoon on a warm day. Fellows were calling for their dates and a feeling of informality prevailed.

But two young blades were different. They stood gingerly outside on the wide stone steps and gazed longingly inside. At last one of them shoved up his courage and pushed the door bell. Great was the amazement of the visitors when the desk girl calmly opened the door wide and beckoned them to come in. Gee, so this is college!

Helping to speed American prisoners of war back to the States has been the job of Lt. Robert Holloway, formerly of the University of Iowa, now serving in Tokyo with the army. "It is our job to go in and help process these prisoners," he said in a letter to Grace Wormer, assistant director of the university libraries.
He added that he had his own jeep and was hoping to see a bit of the country while he was there.
Francis E. Stinocher, gunner's mate, third class, Route 1, aboard the USS Salt Lake City, was one of the men who helped in the surrender of the Ominato naval base in northern Japan. This base was the Japanese navy headquarters for northern Honshu, Hokkaido, Fare Futo and the Kurile islands.
Lt. James R. Kessler, son of Mrs. Laura B. Kessler, 709 Oakland avenue, has been awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster to his Bronze Star medal in the European theater of operations. The award was given to him for heroism in action during a raid on the enemy April 17th.
Wilfred C. Hanrahan, electrician's mate, third class, U. S. N. R., whose parents live at 511 Third avenue, was one of the men who took part in the initial occupation of northern Japan. Serving on the USS Concord, a veteran light cruiser of the north Pacific force, they dropped anchor off Ominato in Mutsu bay, an important northern base of the Japanese navy.
After serving three years in the United States Navy, Robert R. Kennedy, a former student at the university, has received his discharge. He spent 19 months overseas in the ETO.
He was accompanied to Iowa City by his wife, the former Mary Louise Sheets and their son, James Robert. They are residing with Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sheets, 1711 Muscatine avenue. Mr. Kennedy has resumed his studies at the university where he is enrolled in the college of commerce.
Amos W. Kelson, whose wife and parents live at 919 Roosevelt street, has received an honorable discharge from the army airforce. He entered the service in April, 1943, and has spent 20 months in England. He wore the ETO ribbon bag of peanuts. Seeing the fun these monks have swinging about in a comic fashion will perhaps make you regret that men have become so darn civilized.

Signs such as "Keep on Your Side of the Fence" keep you constantly reminded that you must act properly. This eliminates confusion as to whether or not you are a sightseer or a part of the zoo.
One peacock, 10 deer, 42 wild ducks, 35 rabbits (maybe more by now), 7 wild turkeys, 7 seagulls, 3 pheasant and an assorted number and variety of chickens complete the zoo's menagerie of animals.
Take time to see these animals. They'll enjoy it and so will you.

Animal Antics Zoo Boasts Rare Caged Creatures
Grab a bag of peanuts one of these gay autumn days and follow your nose north to the zoo in City park. Such a trip would be most entertaining for you as well as for the animals. Those caged creatures get tired of looking at each other!
For a first hand view of how a red fox fur coat looks on a red fox, you'll find three sly-looking creatures behind one of the wire fences which, from their facial expressions, seem to be of the opinion that foxes' red coats should belong only to foxes.
Boarding next to these vulpes fulva (the dictionary says) are three chubby racoon, also sporting fur coats. Now these racoon, like the foxes, are smart fellows. They wear their coats during the entire year and save the cost of summer storage.
Master of the next cage, is a black bear who is generally stretched out like a fireside rug. He holds the record as the zoo's oldest resident with almost 29 years to his credit. Living in a combination outdoor and indoor suite complete with bathtub and room service, this shaggy animal devours 10 pounds of meat daily as well as three loaves of bread.
W. N. Dickens, park custodian, says he hasn't given the oldtimer a name but adds, "When bear strikes at me I call him plenty of names!"
The zoo also boasts of its two monkeys, Joe and Susie, who gladly accept donations from your

Signs such as "Keep on Your Side of the Fence" keep you constantly reminded that you must act properly. This eliminates confusion as to whether or not you are a sightseer or a part of the zoo.
One peacock, 10 deer, 42 wild ducks, 35 rabbits (maybe more by now), 7 wild turkeys, 7 seagulls, 3 pheasant and an assorted number and variety of chickens complete the zoo's menagerie of animals.

Animal Antics Zoo Boasts Rare Caged Creatures
Grab a bag of peanuts one of these gay autumn days and follow your nose north to the zoo in City park. Such a trip would be most entertaining for you as well as for the animals. Those caged creatures get tired of looking at each other!
For a first hand view of how a red fox fur coat looks on a red fox, you'll find three sly-looking creatures behind one of the wire fences which, from their facial expressions, seem to be of the opinion that foxes' red coats should belong only to foxes.
Boarding next to these vulpes fulva (the dictionary says) are three chubby racoon, also sporting fur coats. Now these racoon, like the foxes, are smart fellows. They wear their coats during the entire year and save the cost of summer storage.
Master of the next cage, is a black bear who is generally stretched out like a fireside rug. He holds the record as the zoo's oldest resident with almost 29 years to his credit. Living in a combination outdoor and indoor suite complete with bathtub and room service, this shaggy animal devours 10 pounds of meat daily as well as three loaves of bread.
W. N. Dickens, park custodian, says he hasn't given the oldtimer a name but adds, "When bear strikes at me I call him plenty of names!"
The zoo also boasts of its two monkeys, Joe and Susie, who gladly accept donations from your
