Truman Okays Vets' Hospital For Iowa City

Construction Funds To Be Requested From Congress Soon

Location of a veterans' 500-bed medical and surgery hospital in or near Iowa City has been approved by President Truman, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator, announced yesterday.

Funds for construction of the hospital, the only one of its kind authorized for the state, will be requested for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Announcement that the hospital would be built came as a result of three-years' work by the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

No details on where the site of the hospital would be located were given in General Bradley's announcement yesterday.

When the hospital is completed, it will be the largest veterans' hospital in the state. The veterans' hospital now located at Des Moines has a capacity of 340 beds.

In size, the proposed hospital would compare with University general hospital, which has a capacity of 700 beds.

The selection of Iowa City as a location for a veterans' hospital was included in an authorization for 19 such hospitals. The remainder of the 29,100-bed hospital construction program approved by the president Aug. 4 will be deferred until the next fiscal year.

American Occupation Forces Continue Hunt For Jap Treasures

TOKYO (AP)—American occupation troops continued to search the Japanese hinterland yesterday for the remains of Nipponese war fortunes after uncovering nearly $300,000,000 worth of hidden diamonds, gold, silver and platinum.

In a house-to-house raid in Tokyo other American soldiers, working with Japanese police, collected 20 truck loads of hidden arms and ammunition.

An estimated 90 percent of the world's illegal narcotic supply was cut off abruptly by a sweeping American headquarters order which called for the destruction of many acres of opium, hashish, morphine and cocaine.

An American counter intelligence agency patrol led by Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe in an investigation of the emperor's palace grounds discovered that Hirohito's palace had been virtually destroyed during the war.

The latest and most dazzling discovery made by the occupation troops in their "Japanese treasury hunt" was the finding of $30,000,000 worth of diamonds in cheap thermos bottles in a Mitsui trust company deposit box. The fabulous cache of 131,000 karats of diamonds was largely government owned.

In a message to General MacArthur, Japanese Christian leader Toyohiko Kagawa urged the Allied commander-in-chief to divert part of the more than $250,000,000 worth of valuables previously seized to pay for imports of food.

Gen. Marshall Urges Army-Navy Merger

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall urged Congress yesterday to merge the army and navy into a single, potent military force that will "command the respect of the world."

Allies Indict Nazi Leaders as Criminals

Major Party Heads Slated to Face Trial Sometime Next Month

BERLIN (AP)—Humanity's case against the bloody Hitler regime was set forth in a historic indictment yesterday against the major German war criminals who will be tried next month in Nuernberg.

The massive, 24,000 word catalogue of Nazi tortures and persecution that claimed 10,000,000 dead was filed with the international war crimes court in Berlin. It will be presented this morning to the jailed members of the Nazi hierarchy in their cells in Nuernberg.

Specifically the indictment named 24 survivors of the Nazi governmental, industrial and military hierarchy. In addition it asked conviction as "criminals groups" of seven Nazi organizations, including leading members of the German general staff and high command.

Heading the list of 24 is Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the "No. 2 Nazi." Hitler is not charged in the indictment because of some indications that he died in the ruins of the city.

In seeking the death of Goering, Rudolf Hess, foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and the others the Allies hope to emblazon a new principle in a future code of conduct for mankind—that conspiring to wage war is a crime against humanity.

In addition to the general staff and the high command the other organizations named included the Gestapo, the SS (elite guard) troops of the Nazi party, the storm troopers, the SD or secret service sicherheitsdienst, the German cabinet, and the leadership corps of the Nazi party.

A spokesman for the American prosecutor, Justice Robert H. Jackson, and that the general staff and high command would be considered "as one entity, with a choice representative segment specifically indicted."

Those already named in the indictment are Alfred Jodl, colonel-general and chief of the army staff; Wilhelm Keitel, field marshal and chief of the high command; Karl Doenitz, grand admiral and commander-in-chief of the German navy; Erich Raeder, grand admiral and former commander of the navy.

The Berlin ceremony in which the indictment was presented to the court was simple but impressive. It lasted for only an hour, and took place in the ornate chamber of the former Berlin superior court, now the Allied control building.

German reporters representing all the German newspapers in Berlin sat at press tables with Allied correspondents. One artist from the German newspaper Der Morgen sketched the proceedings. Not more than 150 persons were able to find seats in the chamber. Among them was a sprinkling of German civilians.

Jackson declared the German general staff had no fixed membership such as the SS or the Gestapo, and did not constitute an entity any more than did a graduating class of the United States military academy at West Point.

Iowa Police Forum Opens Here

FBI AGENT HERE

A talk on police reporting and record systems by A. Everett Leonard, supervisor in the crime statistics section of the FBI headquarters in Washington, D. C., highlighted the opening session of the police administration forum at the University of Iowa yesterday morning.

Leonard, one of the outstanding authorities in the country on police statistics systems, passed around police forms to illustrate his talk.

An introduction to the course was given in the opening lecture by E. E. Kuhnel, special agent in charge, FBI, Des Moines, and Professor Perkins, director of the forum. Prof. R. L. Holcomb of the bureau of public affairs spoke on selection and evaluation of personnel.

Speakers yesterday afternoon were Oliver A. White, Iowa City chief of police, on budgets; W. Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette, of the police and the press; R. W. Nebergall, chief of the criminal investigation division, Iowa department of public safety, on mutual administrative problems-state and local.

Twenty-nine police chiefs and administrative department heads attended the forum, said Professor Perkins, and there was considerable participation of the audience in the discussions.

Today L. A. Hince, inspector, FBI, Washington, D. C., will speak on training, discipline and rating of personnel in the morning session, and on administrative responsibilities of the police executive in juvenile control this afternoon.

Former SUI Dean Named Illini President To Free School From Religious Controversy

CHICAGO (AP)—The University of Illinois board of trustees declared yesterday that "upon thorough inquiry" it had determined Dr. George D. Stoddard, appointed university president effective July 1946, is "fully committed" to keep the university free of religious controversy and prejudice.

Dr. Stoddard recently was criticized by Bishop James A. Griffin of the Springfield Roman Catholic diocese for views Bishop Griffin said he had expressed in a book, "The Meaning of Intelligence."

Bishop Griffin declared that certain of Stoddard's religious views were "feeble fundings" and called for a "profession of faith."

The board at its meeting made public a telegram from Stoddard addressed to Park Livingston, board president, which said in part:

"My fixed policy will be to uphold our democratic institutions in which is embedded the right to religious freedom.

"Freedom of religion involves respect for the religious beliefs of the citizens of Illinois. While adhering firmly to my own personal convictions I shall administer the university within the limits of academic freedom, and I shall respect and endeavor to make respected the religious beliefs of all students."

Peron Return Causes Strike

Major Work Stoppage Result of Argentine Worker's Celebration

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's economic and industrial life was paralyzed yesterday by a 24-hour nation-wide strike of workers celebrating the return to power of Col. Juan Peron.

The work stoppage appeared to be 95 percent effective all over the country. Thousands of workers marched through Buenos Aires' streets, crying "Viva Peron." Street car, subway, bus and taxi service was stopped, and all but the smallest commercial shops were closed.

The railroad union claimed train traffic was halted throughout the country.

Posters Displayed
In the center of Buenos Aires, posters hailing Peron as "The Next President" appeared on shop windows and subway entrances. At nearby La Plata police did not interfere with roving bands which stoned and raided shops and factories. Peron called the strike "a day of glory for the workers."

The present whereabouts of former Navy Minister Hector Verengo Lima and Gen. Eduardo Avalos, engineers of the Oct. 9 overthrow of Peron, were not clear. Verengo Lima was reported to have obeyed an order by President Farrell to return from a warship on which he was said to have been traveling to meet the bulk of the Argentine fleet at Mar Del Plata, 250 miles south.

Farrell's message threatened "energetic measures" if the admiral did not return. A later rumor said Verengo Lima was at his home.

Another Report
Another report said Avalos, who quit Wednesday as war minister, planned to go to the Campo Del Mayo army garrison, where he had many supporters. He and Peron were said to have "made up their differences" and embraced during a meeting in the military hospital to which Peron was then confined.

No afternoon newspapers published yesterday in Buenos Aires. The pro-democratic La Critica was occupied by police after last night's gun battle which left two dead and 24 wounded, most of whom fell when a mob attacked the paper. A police blockade extended around the building.

Bonfire to Highlight Prewar Style Pep Rally Tonight at 7

A prewar style Iowa rally bonfire will highlight the pep meeting tonight at 7 o'clock at the band shell south of Iowa Union. All housing units will bring their quota of fuel for the fire, and everyone attending the rally should have something to throw on the flames.

Bob Krause, A4 of Staten Island, N. Y., is master of ceremonies for the half-hour broadcast over WSUI at 7:15 p. m.

Clem Crowe, head football coach of the university, will present the 1945 Iowa Hawkeye team to students and fans at the rally. He will give a talk about the team and introduce each player individually. Gus Schrader, A4 of Osage, sports editor of The Daily Iowan, will speak briefly.

The university band and cheer leaders will lead the students in Iowa songs and yells. The new yells for this fall will be introduced and practiced.

The Hawkeyes will enter the stadium against Indiana tomorrow undefeated this year on their home field. The entire student body at the bonfire tonight will show them that Iowa fans want them to stay that way.

Alert Parrot?
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An 18-year-old parrot escaped from its cage early yesterday morning and flew squawking through an apartment to warn the family that fire had started in the living room. But when Mr. and Mrs. William Flavelle and their two children fled in their night clothing, Polly refused to leave. After firemen extinguished the flame she was found, ruffled but unharmed, in a bedroom.

Mrs. Stevens Freed For Lack of Evidence

Willis Informs

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)—Pretty Imogene Stevens, central figure in a sensational New Canaan shooting, went free yesterday when Prosecutor Lorin W. Willis told the superior court he could not prove that her killing of Albert Kovacs, 19-year-old Norwegian sailor, made her guilty of manslaughter.

"All the evidence," said Willis, "tended to support the contention of the 24-year-old wife of Maj. G. Ralsey Stevens III that she shot the youth in self defense."

Judge Ernest A. Inglis, commending Willis for "performing his duty," entered a nolle (dismissal) to the manslaughter charge on which Mrs. Stevens had been held since June 23.

$15,000 Bail
The attractive defendant was at liberty on $15,000 bail and far from the scene when the case was thus quickly disposed of. Her lawyer said he telegraphed the news to her at Columbus, Ga., where her husband, a paratrooper, is stationed.

Word that the manslaughter charge had been dropped was received joyously yesterday by Mrs. Stevens at Columbus, Ga.

Then she said: "Now I want to see my little girl."

2,000 CIO Workers Strike at Utility Plant

State Troops, Police Stand By as Service To 2 Million Cut Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two thousand CIO workers walked out of a big Michigan Utility company Thursday but, the management said, failed to cut off electric service generally to a territory of 2,000,000 inhabitants.

Muskegon and environs, with a population of 150,000, was darkened for about an hour after strikers pulled switches. State police restored service.

The Consumers Power company, serving nearly all the southern Michigan peninsula except Detroit, said emergency crews of supervisory workers were keeping operations generally at regular levels.

Other important labor developments included:
1. Insubergent AFL longshoremen's leaders reversed their position and ordered followers to resume work in the port of New York, tied up for 18 days by a strike.

2. Soft coal miners began returning to work four days ahead of time set for ending six-state strike that involved 216,000 persons at its peak.

3. The national total of persons on strike or not working because of labor troubles was about 448,000, including the miners and about half of the 35,000 longshoremen originally on strike.

Michigan's governor, Harry F. Kelly, and state labor mediators were pressing for an early peace meeting in the utility strike because of concern over the possibility of maintaining normal current.

Condemn Bills For Control Of Energy

U. S. Inviting World To Atomic Bomb Race, Urey and Curtis Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two scientists who helped harness atomic energy denounced administration bills for its control yesterday as an invitation to the world to get into an atomic bomb race.

This description came from Dr. Harold Urey of Chicago and Dr. H. J. Curtis of Oak Ridge, Tenn., who objected at a news conference to secrecy regulations proposed for an atomic energy commission.

The two scientists got backing from others who worked with them, but their position varied widely from that of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, former California physicist who also worked on the bomb. Oppenheimer told the house military committee he favored the general provisions of the administration bill to set up a government commission which would direct both development and control of nuclear energy. He asked for confidence "in the government of this country."

Protests Rushing
Urey protested strenuously at what he called attempts by the military committee to "rush this thing through." He said the committee originally devoted only five hours to testimony before holding one more day of hearings yesterday.

Curtis said that "the tone of this bill" is such that if he were a foreign scientist he would feel "those fellows in the states are getting ready to bomb us."

Urey summed up three objections to the pending legislation:
1. The administrator of the proposed atomic energy commission would be a "potential dictator not subject to any elected official."

2. The bill provides "no incentive to science or industry to work in this field."

3. It "would serve notice on all foreign governments that we intend to indulge in an armament race."

Lost Moral Position
Recalling America's traditional opposition to the use of poison gas, Urey said "When we used the bomb we lost our moral position completely. The ideal state would be where all countries know what every other one is doing."

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the air forces, told a senate commerce-military subcommittee that it would be possible now to equip the devastating new mechanism with wings and a television head and loose it from a plane more than 300 miles from the target.

The United States, he added, has no anti-aircraft defenses that could stop such missiles.

The general sounded a note of urgency on scientific development in general, arguing that the United States will be the first target of any future aggressor and there will be no time for gradual mobilization.

The fact that this country has been the deciding factor in two wars, Arnold said, is "too plain for the next aggressor to miss."

The senate had been figuring on passage this week of a resolution to set up a nine-man commission to handle domestic atomic energy questions.

Truman to Discuss Wage, Price Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman will take up with his cabinet today the problem of setting the nation's course on wage and price policy.

The president told his news conference yesterday he might make a public statement on the issue after the cabinet discussion.

Apartment Dormitories—Financially, Educationally Practical

(Last in a Series of Articles) Practically all university officials believe that university operated dormitories for married students would meet with as much success as dorms now lived in by unmarried students.

There is no doubt that several hundred apartments could be rented to students now and for the next couple of years. And officials who have looked into the question of whether these dormitories would be filled 10 years from now believe that they would.

Of course there are a lot of "ifs" in any estimates of the future, but even figures which have an "if" in front of them aren't being thrown out too rashly.

Here's how one university official foresees the problem of housing married students:

In the prewar years of 1939-40, there were 256 married men students in the university. This represented about six percent of the men students.

Last year, 13 percent of the men students were married and this semester, about 20 percent of them are married. If postwar enrollment reaches 10,000 students, as some believe it will, and if the ratio of two-thirds men and one-third women returned, there may be from 400 (six percent) to 1,300 (20 percent) married men on the campus.

This official believes that within two years, there may be close to 1,000 married men applying for admittance to the university.

And a reasonable estimate of the number of married men 10 years from now is from 400 to 600.

Thus, 300 or 400 units to relieve the present shortage would not be standing idle 10 years from now. It virtually is assured that if bonds were issued to finance the construction, the bonds could be redeemed.

It also is likely that apartment dormitories would have earning power more months out of the year than dormitories for unmarried students.

Many veterans, especially those who are married, have indicated they will attend the university the year around. Therefore, they would want to remain in the apartment in the summers.

Other married veterans will remain here in the summer because their wives will have permanent jobs which they won't want to give up because of the family finances. Still others won't find it worth while to move their family just for the short summer vacation.

Of course the apartment dormitories may not be fully occupied in the summer, but they won't be totally empty as are dormitories which house unmarried students.

What's more these figures of the probable number of married men students do not include married graduate students or young married professors. Even before the war, many universities were turning their attention to proper housing of these two groups.

The University of Minnesota has built Thatcher hall for young graduates and instructors. Other schools have blueprints for similar dormitories, but Thatcher hall is almost the only plan that has taken stone and steel form.

Of course there will always be some students who won't be able to find a place to live that suits their tastes, even when there are apartment dormitories. But they will be relatively few in number and the university is now helping them by letting men live in Kellogg house until they can find an apartment to bring their wives to.

Besides the financial aspects of housing married students, apartment dormitories would be practical because it is now universally recognized that congenial living conditions provide the best atmosphere for absorbing knowledge.

Students who do not have pleasant surroundings for study can not get all they should from a university. And if their living conditions are annoying, their minds aren't going to be running on the single track toward knowledge.

For that reason, good housing for married students is necessary to give the student all that the university has to offer. University officials recognize this important aspect of the problem. That is why the administration has done what it already has.

The importance of speedy action, however, remains. Whatever program is followed, it should be embarked upon quickly—sooner than is now planned if possible.

Of course the difficulties of materials and labor and finances are going to be hard to overcome. We believe most students recognize these difficulties, and those who are impatient probably also are unjust.

It's not a problem for the university alone. The state and the federal government also are involved. But the university should be the vigorous proponent of whatever program is followed.

From All Around The State

DES MOINES (AP)—A few "land boom" trouble spots are developing in Iowa, Prof. W. G. Murray, head of the Iowa State college economics department, said yesterday.

Prices have reached $300 an acre in some instances, he reported. Over the rest of the state, however, "there is a good possibility that disastrous consequences of inflation will be avoided," Murray said.

The critical period, he added, is between now and next October when the 1946 crop will be ready for harvest.

News stories predicting that farm prices probably would decline next year have had a healthy sobering effect on land values, the economist said. "Trouble usually is ahead when land prices go above $200 an acre, he explained.

Murray is sending queries to 400 real estate brokers all over Iowa asking their opinions as to land values now compared with a year ago.

DES MOINES (AP)—Two new cases of infantile paralysis from Iowa had been admitted yesterday to Des Moines hospitals and another patient suspected of having the disease was under observation here.

Cases definitely diagnosed are those of Paul Eugene Dieger, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dieger, Goodell; and Arden Zielcke, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zielcke, Ledyard.

The suspected case is that of Betty Jean Crawford, 16, daughter of Mrs. Hala Crawford, Humeston.

DES MOINES (AP)—A resolution calling on the national convention of the Episcopal church to frame a law which would make it illegal for any member to sign a pre-marital agreement not to bring up children in religious instruction other than that of the Episcopal church, was adopted here yesterday.

The resolution was passed by the house of bishops of the sixth province in its annual meeting here. The province includes Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Montana and Wyoming.

OMAHA (AP)—The recent protest of Spencer, Ia., residents over stationing army recruiters there was "due to misunderstanding," the seventh service command headquarters said late yesterday.

The army said a "highly exaggerated report as to the number of army men to be stationed there led to the protest." Spencer city officials have "expressed regret" over the incident and the city is now doing its best to provide housing for the recruiters, the army said.

DES MOINES (AP)—An Iowa organization to help in the fight for federal legislation for poll tax abolition was formed yesterday at a meeting here.

The organization is "Iowans for abolition of the poll tax" and the group attending the meeting named Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, Waterloo, minister, as its chairman. Dr. Cox is social action chairman of the Iowa inter-church council.

Mrs. Albina Brinton, Chicago,

Ill., mid-western field secretary of the national committee for abolition of the poll tax, spoke. She urged that telegrams and letters be sent to senators Bourke B. Hickenlooper and George A. Wilson of Iowa asking their support of a bill to abolish the poll tax.

She asserted that southern senators sometimes are elected in elections in which as low as 5 percent of the voters participate, due to the limited franchise imposed by the poll tax laws of southern states.

DES MOINES (AP)—The office of price administration is receiving requests that rent control be established in Waterloo, Marshalltown, Charles City and Spencer, Walter Kline, state OPA administrator, reported yesterday.

All such communications are forwarded to the regional office in Chicago for decision on whether the situation warrants ordering a survey to see if rent control is needed.

The letters are coming from tenants in both apartments and houses, Kline said. In one Waterloo instance, a factory worker rented a home in 1938 for $27.50 a month. Today he is paying $42 and has been notified that the rent is going up to $47.50 next month.

"The situation has been brought about by the extreme housing shortage in the main," Kline said. "Operating costs have not increased to justify the advances that have been made in many cases."

In another Waterloo case, the owner of some apartments inquired as to whether he could raise his rents from the present $30-a-month level. Others not as desirable are renting for $45 and $50, he said, and he was offered $65 for one vacancy.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill giving to the state of Iowa the agricultural by-products laboratory of Iowa State college was signed yesterday by President Truman.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A secret election among certain maintenance and production employees of the Laplant-Choate Manufacturing company, Cedar Rapids, to determine whether they wish an interruption of production will be held today, the national labor relations board announced yesterday. Objections by the United Farm Equipment and Metal workers local 116 (CIO) to the "company's refusal to a 1945 general wage increase," is the major issue, the board said.

ST. CLOUD (AP)—George E. McCluskey and Wilbur J. Harry, employees of the St. Cloud United States veterans facility who formerly lived at Fort Madison, Ia., were found dead in an automobile yesterday apparently the victims of carbon monoxide. The engine was running and the heater was on when the pair was found.

STORM LAKE (AP)—The Rt. Rev. C. J. Ivis of Sioux City Saturday will succeed the late Monsignor C. P. Conway as pastor of St. Mary's church here, the Most Rev. Edmond Heelan, bishop of the Sioux City Catholic diocese has announced.

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa war finance committee said yesterday sound motion pictures filmed by the army, navy, marine corps and air forces for the victory loan campaign opening Oct. 29 will be shown widely in Iowa.

ANAMOSA (AP)—Four inmates of the state men's reformatory fled from a prison farm last night.

Interpreting The News—

By JAMES D. WHITE Associated Press Staff Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP) In terms of human harm, one of Japan's greatest war crimes is the medical use of narcotics throughout Asia.

The full story remains to be dug up and told, but General MacArthur's directive ordering destruction of this year's opium crop in Japan is a beginning which is likely to lead thousands of miles before the end is reached.

The Chinese for years have charged that the Japanese army used narcotization of subject populations as an instrument of deliberate policy.

In any case, wherever the army went—through Manchuria, Mongolia and North China, at least—the poppy was planted and cheap narcotics became available.

After 1931 in Manchuria the Japanese set up an "opium suppression bureau" which sounded fine because opium was a definite menace to the health of the Chinese population.

But the "suppression bureau," controlled by the Japanese gendarmerie (which at one time was headed by a man named Hideki Tojo) turned out to be a gigantic state monopoly. Chinese claimed poppy planting increased rather than decreased under its regime.

How much actual policy was behind what the Japanese did with narcotics remains to be demonstrated, but there is no doubt about what they did. They flooded occupied areas with narcotics wherever they went.

It is certain that some officers, both in the army and the gendarmerie, not only winked at the manufacture, distribution and sale of narcotics in their areas, but sometimes cashed in on it themselves.

Opium in smokable form is awkward to handle and sell in large, profitable quantities. Whoever was spreading the stuff soon found that its derivative, heroin, was much safer and compact. A good pinch in the end of a cigarette packed a deadlier wallop than a whole evening of dreams with an opium pipe. Heroin also more quickly and permanently enslaved the beginner to its use—and to the man who furnished it to him.

So, with the Japanese army, came the hordes of dope peddlers. From Korea into Manchuria, from Manchuria into North China, and Sideshow DETROIT (AP)—Anthony Volk, 26, accused of stealing a purse, faced his blushing 26-year-old victim in court yesterday.

The young woman testified she was taking a body treatment in a beauty shop, wearing only a towel around her hair. Her purse was on a nearby chair.

When she heard footsteps in the room, she assumed they were those of the masseuse. A few moments later, however, she heard a commotion and noticed her purse was gone. Volk was nabbed before he could flee the shop, police said. He was bound over to circuit court for trial.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Henry Paul, 35-year-old businessman, announced yesterday he planned to give away his collection of 8,000 books to spread the enjoyment they have given himself and his family. "There is no catch to it," Paul said. "We are not taking names or trying to sell anything. It is purely a good will gesture. Any person more than 15 years of age may come and claim any available book."

Our Military Team

(Milwaukee Journal)—General MacArthur says nothing particularly new in support of the need of permanently integrating what he calls "the three dimensions of war—ground, sea, and air"—in America's defense. But he believes that his words will add great impetus to the demand for such integration because of the high esteem in which his military genius is held, and because he, perhaps more than any other area or theater commander, except possibly Admiral Nimitz, demonstrated the effectiveness of such integration in hastening victory.

And General MacArthur's comparison of military teamwork to football teamwork was particularly apt and forceful. "We can not win with only backs and ends," he told his radio audience. "And no line, however strong, can go it alone."

He could have carried the illustration a bit further. Suppose that the team's backs were trained in one field, under one coach; the ends elsewhere, under another coach; the line somewhere else, under another mentor.

Suppose that the players wore different uniforms, used different equipment and were taught somewhat different theories of attack and defense. Then suppose that on the moment of the kick-off they were all suddenly brought together for the first time and told they must function as a unit!

That is the way our armed services, historically, have been trained. It created the dilemma in which they found themselves on Pearl Harbor day, 1941. It is the way, with only minor modifications, in which our armed services will continue to train, under divided authority and control, unless the advice of MacArthur, Eisenhower, Marshall and most of our top army commanders is heeded.

Much as we all may hope that war may be banished, our military team someday may have to fight for the highest stakes in the world. America should take no chance on being again unprepared to put its team on the field, trained as a team, prepared to win as a team.

Science, says a writer, may make atomic energy as tame to handle as coal. That guy evidently never wrestled with a clinker.

Covering The Capital

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON (Subbing For Jack Stinnett)

WASHINGTON—Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) has a chance to make some history just by serving out his nearly four-year term as acting vice-president.

But he told me he was not interested in that angle although he "thoroughly enjoyed this job." McKellar, 76, took over the vice-presidential duties more than six months ago, when President Truman moved to the White House. He already holds one senate record—dean with 28 years service. To set the record for acting vice-president next year, then he is re-elected to the job by the senate.

"I guess I enjoy this because I have always enjoyed work," the senator said. "I have been working since I was seven years old."

Senate veterans say the added responsibilities of vice-president have tempered and mellowed McKellar. Before he became president pro tempore and later acting vice-president, McKellar was a fiery opponent in many rough and tumble debates.

"I have not changed," he said, his eyes glittering. "The senate has changed. It sees my way oftener now."

McKellar has some advantages over vice-presidents. He can turn the chair over to a colleague and take part in debate or other activity. He always votes, and a mere vice-president votes only in case of a tie.

President Truman invited him to attend cabinet meetings. "The cabinet meetings are something new to me," he confided. "I have found them extremely interesting after all the time up here."

McKellar also wields powerful influence in the senate legislative machinery. He has been acting chairman of the powerful appropriations committee for several years. Senator Glass (D., Va.), regular chairman, has been absent because of illness. McKellar also is chairman of the post office and post roads committee.

In this latter role he demonstrated some of his oldtime form when he stepped down from the rostrum and explained legislation that will start a $3,000,000,000 road building program. "It went through unanimously," McKellar recalled as he toyed with his Phi Beta Kappa key.

Only one thing about the vice-presidential spot bothers McKellar. "Some people said I wanted to be president pro tempore so that I could get the extra money as acting vice-president," he said. "That's not true. I did not even know the law provided an increase."

McKellar's salary jumped to $15,000 when he became acting vice-president, a $5,000 raise. He also acquired the two vice-presidential autos, one a long limousine with chauffeur. The vice-presidential offices, just off the senate chamber, also are his. But he seldom uses them, preferring his older quarters in the senate office building.

Information First Speaker Stresses 'Part of Intelligence'

The only road of life is the path of intelligence, the path of enlightened understanding of ourselves and our fellowmen," Rabbi Morris Kertzer of the school of religion stated at Information First yesterday afternoon.

Rabbi Kertzer opened this year's Information First series in the senate chamber of Old Capitol with an analysis of what we have won and how we can make the best of our victory. He was introduced by Edna Herbst, A4 of Newton, president of the University Women's association.

Salvation
"The salvation of civilization lies in these halls and in the halls of hundreds of colleges and universities all over the world," he said.

He urged the students of today to apply the knowledge to understanding the problems of the world and to understanding the people. Claiming that the politicians have had their day, Rabbi Kertzer said the scientists in our laboratories who won the war with their knowledge, the political social scientists who have devoted their lives to understanding the relationships of people to one another should be given a chance to solve the problems of people.

"This is our last chance," he stated. "That realization has come with the atomic bomb. Unless we settle our troubles with intelligence instead of armed conflict, we will be the players on the stage for the final curtain—the last scene of the third act of the human drama. We have had many trial chances and failed; this is our last chance to think through a plan for human living that will work."

Barriers To Goal
Rabbi Kertzer pointed out a number of barriers which stand in the way of achieving our goal. The barrier of language, he said, does not exist because of poor translators, but because the spirit of a people cannot be translated into another language. There is no exact word in our language that will correspond to the feeling that is expressed in the dictionary equivalent of a foreign word.

Historic accident has erected another barrier, he continued. The French do not all understand that we bombed their towns and killed their people because there was no other way to defeat the Nazis.

Emphasizing the barrier of short-sighted policy, Rabbi Kertzer mentioned the movies of Hollywood as an example. Because the poorest pictures are exhibited in other countries, foreigners think the inhabitants of the United States are composed of two types: the cowboys and Indians of the country and the gangsters of the city.

The barrier of different cultural levels will be one of the most difficult to overcome, Rabbi Kertzer remarked. He told of American soldiers in North Africa who often threw out things which they no longer wanted, such as stale crackers. Arabs would scramble to pick them up.

Acts of Charity
In regard to the barrier of charity, Kertzer warned against taking the wrong attitude in performing acts of charity. Many nations and peoples are proud and therefore hurt by the necessity of accepting charity.

Rabbi Kertzer concluded by answering the question: What have we won? "All we have won," he said, "is freedom from the nightmare of slavery and freedom to work out an enlightened pattern of living."

Legal Fraternity Announces Pledging Of Five Freshmen
Delta Theta Phi, professional legal fraternity, announces the pledging Wednesday of five freshmen in the college of law.

Half-Time Color—Lassies March

Iowa's Scottish Highlanders, the world's largest and most completely equipped Scottish bagpipe band, will make their second appearance in Iowa City this year at the Iowa-Indiana game tomorrow afternoon.

For their pre-game routine the Highlanders will march down the south steps of the stadium, make a double marching formation and continue up the field executing fours right and left. Marching south they will form a company front and leave the field after the national anthem is played.

Playing "Will Yea No Come Back Again," the lassies will form a company front and march north during the half. As this company progresses up field, various ranks will stop and the whole group will form an echelon at center field. After a series of marching maneuvers involving fours right and left, they will wheel about and wind up in company front. Marching off the field, they will play "Auld Lang Syne."

The 24 pipers wear the red Royal Stuart kilt and plaid with a blue doublet, and the 30 drummers wear the green Hunting Stuart kilt and plaid with crimson doublet. All sport the Highland feather bonnet busby and white doublet.

Seals Name Officers At Picnic Wednesday

Officers were elected for Seals, women's honorary swimming club, at a picnic near Black Springs Wednesday afternoon.

New officers are: Nancy Scofield, A3 of Morris, Ill., secretary; Mardis Shively, A3 of Marshalltown, treasurer; Mary Jane McKee, A4 of Fairmont, Minn., probate sponsor, and Marilyn Otto, A3 of Denison, assistant probate sponsor.

These women were elected to replace officers who did not return to the campus this fall. Martha Noland, A4 of Iowa City, was elected president of the club this spring.

Plans for the water show to be held the latter part of February or the first of March were also discussed. The next tryouts for membership to Seals will be from Feb. 6 to 13, the first and second weeks of the second semester.

Elks Initiate Thirteen At Meet Wednesday

Thirteen local men were initiated to membership in the Beneficial Order of Elks Wednesday at a regular meeting of the Iowa City lodge.

The new members are: William H. Bartley, Wilfred L. Cole, Lawrence C. Crawford, Harold S. Kendall, Julien C. Monnet, Frank O'Hanlon, Allen A. Rarick, Harley B. Rugg, Donald W. Schmidt, Warren E. Starr, Jay D. Strong, Eugene C. Warren and Robert R. Whetstone.

Dr. R. J. Beamer has resigned his office as Esteemed Leading Knight to move to Ottumwa. His position will be filled at the next regular meeting of the Elks Nov. 7.

Wesley Group to Give Panel for Veterans

Dean Hess, LL, will lead a panel discussion on "What a G. I. Expects" at the Wesley foundation's 5 o'clock hour Sunday. All veterans and their wives, graduate students and young business and professional people are invited to attend the discussion which follows.

Tentative plans for following Sunday evening programs include: a talk on "Freedom in India" by Dr. Sudhindra Bose; "Folk Songs and Folk Dances" by Alma Turucek and "Teaching in a Japanese Relocation Center" by Mary Mark.

THEY'LL LEAD THE CHEERS

Joe E. Long Speaks On 'Job of Living' Before Service Clubs

"A worthwhile life is composed of memories and hopes of giving pleasure to others," commented Joseph Long, secretary of the Iowa Taxpayers' association, in a talk to members of the Kiwanis, Lions, Masonic and Rotary clubs yesterday afternoon at Hotel Jefferson.

The dinner, sponsored by Rotary, is an event given by each of the four clubs at various times during the year. More than 125 club members attended.

After a few songs led by Iver Obstad, Ted Raeder, Rotary president, introduced each of the other club presidents. Horace Stout, chairman of the inter-relationships committee, introduced Mr. Long and his topic was "This Job of Living."

"There are two fundamental human relations," said Long, "that between you and the other fellow and that between you and yourself."

"The relationship to the other fellow is your community—your schools, churches, clubs and all other organizations. You can't escape that relationship except on a lonely desert isle.

"It is each citizen's obligation to help his community and help build a program forwarding their progress. There are various types of citizens—those who say 'yes' but can't find time, the pessimists and optimists and the know-it-alls. However, the biggest community wrecker is the citizen who won't do what he can because he can't do what he wants to."

Long continued, "A man's life is made up of memories and hopes and, if each of you will think about it, you will realize that those which are the most worthwhile are those which you shared or those which gave pleasure to others. Things are only worth doing for two reasons: to make money so that you may provide for your family and to make memories that you like to live over."

Long concluded his speech urging that each member of the audience realize the fundamentals of living and go forward to build a bigger and better community.

The program ended with the group singing "America."

Orchestra Presents 'Symphonic Sketches' At Concert Oct. 24

"Symphonic Sketches" by George Whitefield Chadwick will be presented by the University Symphony orchestra at a concert in Iowa Union at 8 p. m. Oct. 24.

Comprising this suite are four descriptive sketches: "Jubilee," "Noel," "Hobgoblin" and "A Vagrom Ballad."

Also on the program are the "Prelude to Lohengrin" (Wagner) and Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony."

Root to Give Baconian Talk

Prof. W. T. Root, head of the history department, will speak tonight on global trends in research in history at a Baconian lecture at 7:45 in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Head of the department since 1925, Professor Root will discuss methods used by historians in recording the story of man. He will explain the limitations and defects of past and present histories, and the new fields and methods of research discovered.

Professor Root's personal research has been concerned with early American colonial history, particularly the colonies and relations with England. The lecture will be broadcast by WSUI.

Dr. M. Huggins Speaks To Chemical Society

Dr. Maurice L. Huggins of the Eastman Kodak company gave a talk on "High Polymers" in room 314 in the chemistry building last night at a meeting of the American Chemical society. Guests attended from Mt. Vernon, Clinton, Cedar Rapids and Iowa City.

Preceding the meeting an informal dinner was given in the cafeteria of Iowa Union with approximately 40 present. The lecturer discussed many of the properties of rubber and explained the theoretical reasons for elasticity.

The next meeting of the group will be Nov. 5 when Dr. H. L. Fisher will speak on "The Chemical Nature of Natural and Synthetic Rubber."

Mrs. Egner was graduated from Gruver high school and is a senior in the college of liberal arts at the University of Iowa, where she is affiliated with Tau Gamma sorority. She will receive her B.A. degree in the February convocation.

Mr. Egner was graduated from a Cleveland Heights high school and from Parks college at St. Louis, Mo. He recently was discharged from the navy and is now employed by the Martin Aircraft company in Baltimore, Md., where the couple will reside after Feb. 2.

Lutheran Minister To Speak at Annual Mission Festival

The Rev. Raymond Eissfeldt will be the guest speaker in the morning worship service at 10:30 a. m. in St. Paul's Lutheran chapel Sunday. On this day the church is observing the annual mission festival.

The message for the day directs attention to the work of the church, its gospel ministry to the world. All funds gathered in connection with this festival are devoted to the cause of missions at home and abroad.

"Come and See" will be the subject of the Rev. Mr. Eissfeldt's talk. In an informal service at 2:30 p. m. he will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency." He is one of the executive secretaries of the Lutheran Child Welfare association of the three Illinois districts of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod.

During the noon hour the entire parish will have a fellowship hour with a pot-luck style dinner. Students are invited to be guests or the local parson.

The mission program of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod, calls for an annual expenditure of more than 12 million, which is gathered from the some 5,000 congregations affiliated with this synod.

Capt. Robert Moyers Tells of Greek Action At Men's Meeting

Expressing the greatest admiration for Greek guerrillas and their unceasing efforts against the aggressors in their native land, Capt. Robert Moyers, a graduate of the University of Iowa, spoke at a meeting of all-university men sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. in the river room of Iowa Union last night.

Moyers volunteered for overseas duty when he went into the army. Eighteen days later he was on his way.

"That taught me not to volunteer," he said.

Landing in Sicily in July of '43, he went from there to Cairo and then on to Greece, where he stayed for 18 months. Attached to the dental corps, much of his work consisted of establishing hospitals, dropping supplies, and teaching the use of new drugs to medical men in the back country.

"It has always been characteristic of the country," he remarked, "that whenever danger threatens, the people take to the hills."

This time it was the same. Moyers had the opportunity to see what it meant. Rocky terrain, rising above the sea; trails not wide enough to accommodate a jeep; paths so steep and narrow that there were only upper and lower forks, never right or left. In this country the guerrillas lived and fought.

Moyers described several incidents which he hopes never to have to witness again, among them scenes of wounded without adequate hospital facilities or doctors. He described his feeling of utter helplessness in his lack of preparation for that sort of thing.

"There was a sergeant in my outfit of whom I was really proud," he said. The sergeant located typhus in an isolated mountain village and reported to Captain Moyers. Contact was made immediately with Italy to send out medical supplies to ward off an epidemic. The village was sprayed with DDT and other precautions were taken to prevent any more cases of the dread disease. From that tiny village, the whole of Greece might have been caught in a plague similar to those reported in history. But that sergeant was on the lookout for it and prevented it.

Explaining how well the Americans and the Greeks got along, Moyers told of the incident in which students at an American college in Athens, upon hearing there were Americans in the hills, left their studies and homes to join them. They sacrificed a great deal, jeopardizing their safety and the safety of their families to fight on the side of right as they saw it.

There were humorous incidents along with the serious ones. There was the time in Athens when it was almost impossible to get through. Moyers said the soldiers draped an American flag across the front of a jeep, strung one along the back, and singing the "Star-Spangled Banner" loudly, drove their way through the milling mob.

"Incidentally," Moyers remarked "the 250 operations mentioned in the papers couldn't have been military. They must have been surgical. I couldn't have stood so many."

Capt. Moyers was introduced by Jack Fickel, M2 of Henderson, president of the Y.M.C.A.

4 Sororities Sell Badges

Homecoming badges for the game this year against Wisconsin will be sold by Delta Delta Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Delta Tau sororities, Prof. Louis C. Zopf of the college of pharmacy, chairman of the faculty Homecoming committee, said yesterday.

Each sorority will elect a captain who will be in charge of the sales program.

"The money collected from the sale of badges is used to defray the expenses of the entire Homecoming program," Professor Zopf stated, "and the sororities have always done a good job of the selling."

Metal Homecoming badges were first sold in 1924 to finance the Homecoming celebration. From 1924 to 1942, all sororities participated in the selling. In 1942 it was decided that only four sororities should sell each year.

Representatives of 12 sororities met then to draw for the order

100 Students Attend 'University of Life'

About 100 high school students attended this year's ceremonial opening of the University of Life. Students, with pastors, discussion leaders and sponsors ate supper around two campfires. After supper the group was divided into four tribes.

The leaders of the tribes are Daryl Kobes, Margaret Marsh, Rox Shain, Harriet Woods, William Teeters, Doris Figg, Dick Beck and Betty Vevera.

Each discussion leader was introduced to the group and gave a brief resume of the coming discussions. Mrs. Ruth L. Boyer, director of the University of Life, spoke to the group and the meeting was closed by Dr. L. L. Dunington.

Dr. Andrew H. Woods will be guest speaker Sunday night. He will talk on "Girl and Boy Relationships." Shirley Buxton will be in charge of the worship service. Bob Crum and Maxine Warson will be in charge of the recreation hour.

Howe, U.S.N.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Howe of Muscatine, Sept. 16. The wedding vows were read by the Rev. Emerson Miller.

Mrs. Howe was graduated from Davenport high school and attended Grinnell college at Grinnell for two years. Until recently she was with the Davenport office of the OPA.

Ensign Howe was graduated from Muscatine high school, Muscatine junior college, and the University of Iowa. He attended midshipman's school at Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., where he received his commission in March, 1944. He is now stationed in Washington, D. C., with the naval intelligence department.

The couple will reside in Arlington, Va.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, hot flashes, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Mr. Peters was a member of the Des Moines Masonic and Moose lodges.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mayme Davis of San Francisco, and three sisters and one brother all from the west coast.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Hohenschuh's and have not been completed.

Presbyterians Begin Financial Canvass

The annual financial canvass of the Westminster fellowship will begin next Sunday, and opportunity for Presbyterian students to make their pledges will be given at the morning service.

This annual budget is conducted each fall for the purpose of financing student work in the Iowa City church. Included in the budget are operating funds for fellowship activities, support of the local church and Westminster foundation and benevolent purposes. Benevolent purposes are the church benevolences and the World Student Service fund.

THE QUARTER HITS THE LINE-1903

In that year, for the first time in college annals, the quarter could run with the ball snapped direct from center. Brains and speed succeeded crude mass play, and the modern game began. It was a popular innovation. Like Railway Express round-trip service for college laundry and baggage, the new method once tried out became nation-wide standard practice. Make a standard practice, too, of packing and wrapping securely, addressing clearly and starting early whatever you have to express. It will help all concerned.

8 Sororities Sell Badges

Homecoming badges for the game this year against Wisconsin will be sold by Delta Delta Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Delta Tau sororities, Prof. Louis C. Zopf of the college of pharmacy, chairman of the faculty Homecoming committee, said yesterday.

Each sorority will elect a captain who will be in charge of the sales program.

"The money collected from the sale of badges is used to defray the expenses of the entire Homecoming program," Professor Zopf stated, "and the sororities have always done a good job of the selling."

Metal Homecoming badges were first sold in 1924 to finance the Homecoming celebration. From 1924 to 1942, all sororities participated in the selling. In 1942 it was decided that only four sororities should sell each year.

Representatives of 12 sororities met then to draw for the order

Talbot-Hobart

In a ceremony at Barin field, near Pensacola, Fla., Patricia Talbot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Talbot of Brooklyn, Iowa, became the bride of Ens. Oscar F. Hobart, son of Mrs. O. F. Hobart of Centerville, Sept. 30.

The bride is a graduate of Brooklyn high school and attended Centerville junior college and the University of Iowa. Ensign Hobart attended Brooklyn high school and Centerville junior college, before entering the service. He is an instructor at the aerial gunnery school at Barin Field, Ala.

Lockwood-Moore

In a candlelight ceremony, Eleanor Ruth Lockwood, daughter of Mrs. R. W. Lockwood of Cedar Rapids, became the bride of Lt. Leland A. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Moore of Terril, Aug. 26 in Trinity Methodist church at Spirit Lake. The vows of the double ring ceremony were read by the Rev. J. E. DeLong.

Mrs. Moore was graduated in June from the University of Iowa, where she was enrolled in the five-year school of nursing course. Lieutenant Moore was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1941. He entered the army air force the same year and was with the twelfth air force in North Africa. He has been an instructor at Brooks Field and also at Pampa, Tex.

Burrell-Forbes

In a ceremony at the First Baptist church in Sioux City, Lelia Maud Burrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Burrell of Sioux City, became the bride of Lt. Edmund D. Forbes, son of Mrs. Agnes Forbes of Kingsley, Sept. 11. The vows were read by the Rev. S. D. Huff.

Mr. Forbes is a graduate of Central high school in Sioux City and is affiliated with Beta Sigma Phi and Delta Sigma sororities. Lieutenant Forbes attended the University of Iowa and was graduated from Morningside college at Sioux City. He recently returned from the European theater of operations, where he served as artillery observer with an infantry division. Lieutenant Forbes has reported to Ft. Sill, Okla., and Mrs. Forbes is temporarily residing with her parents in Sioux City.

Spaan-McMahon

In a candlelight ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Marjorie Spaan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spaan of Paulina, became the bride of Eugene McMahon, United States Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McMahon of Kingsley, Sept. 27 at 8 p. m. The vows were read by the Rev. F. E. Conaway, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Paulina.

Mrs. McMahon was graduated from Paulina high school and received her B.A. degree from the University of Iowa, where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega social sorority. For the past three years, she has been a supervisor in the office of business statistical service at the University of Iowa.

The bridegroom was graduated from Kingsley high school and received his degree in pharmacy from the University of Iowa. He has just returned from two years' service in the European theater of operations where he was with the army medical corps.

100 Students Attend 'University of Life'

About 100 high school students attended this year's ceremonial opening of the University of Life. Students, with pastors, discussion leaders and sponsors ate supper around two campfires. After supper the group was divided into four tribes.

The leaders of the tribes are Daryl Kobes, Margaret Marsh, Rox Shain, Harriet Woods, William Teeters, Doris Figg, Dick Beck and Betty Vevera.

Each discussion leader was introduced to the group and gave a brief resume of the coming discussions. Mrs. Ruth L. Boyer, director of the University of Life, spoke to the group and the meeting was closed by Dr. L. L. Dunington.

Dr. Andrew H. Woods will be guest speaker Sunday night. He will talk on "Girl and Boy Relationships." Shirley Buxton will be in charge of the worship service. Bob Crum and Maxine Warson will be in charge of the recreation hour.

Howe, U.S.N.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Howe of Muscatine, Sept. 16. The wedding vows were read by the Rev. Emerson Miller.

Mrs. Howe was graduated from Davenport high school and attended Grinnell college at Grinnell for two years. Until recently she was with the Davenport office of the OPA.

Ensign Howe was graduated from Muscatine high school, Muscatine junior college, and the University of Iowa. He attended midshipman's school at Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill., where he received his commission in March, 1944. He is now stationed in Washington, D. C., with the naval intelligence department.

The couple will reside in Arlington, Va.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, hot flashes, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Kappa Phi Sorority To Entertain Tonight

Kappa Phi, Methodist women's sorority, announces a rushing party to be held tonight in Fellowship hall in the basement of the Methodist church at 8 o'clock.

The theme of the evening will be "School Daze" and all girls who are interested in rushing are invited to attend. Shirley Sanders is general chairman of the party. Betty Jacobson and Anna May Fell are in charge of refreshments, and Marian Townsley and Celia Glendening will supervise games and entertainment.

An open meeting of Kappa Phi for all members and rushees will be held Monday at 8 p. m. at Fellowship hall. Betty Synhorst is chairman for the meeting.

16 SUI Freshmen Given Air Corps Coordination Tests

Sixteen university freshmen will be subjects today for army air corps motor-coordination tests given by the psychology department under the sponsorship of the Student Council.

The tests, first of a series, are 40 minutes in length, and will be given in room E224, East hall.

For and About WOMEN

By Marni Clayton

Definite Lines Mould Theme of Smart Dress

Sleeves, Skirt Form Distinguishing Mode; Details Are Personal

The theme of a good composition—be it musical or literary—is established as closely as possible at the beginning. Successive pages develop and highlight this recognizable mood that finally is concluded as a harmonious whole.

Peculiar as it may seem at first, a dress is of the same nature. General, distinguishing lines set the stage for the type of gown it will be and the neckline, belt, waist treatment, tucking, trimming all add their part to secure the impression.

Definitely stylizing this season are particular lines—eye-catchers, at that—doing a smart job of achieving effects. Sleeves take wings! (You know that from our discussion of new fall suits two weeks ago.) Deep cut armholes excite a heavenly, winged look and add comfort and style to both casual and more formal wear.

Going down the line, the other important theme moulding feature this season is in the skirt. Straight or gathered, there is a smartness about them that accompanies the fullness in the sleeve. Draping seems to have lost its place in the swing of skirts and if there has been any advance change, it has been toward increased fullness—a "pouf" below the nipped-in waist. To tie in with the trend toward ballet slippers for dress, skirts are long, completely covering the knee and sometimes extending almost to the calf.

The woman who selects a smart theme for her costume will wear it safely if it is black, and she will wear it dramatically, prettily and with conviction as well.

But a realistic mirror may picture her more perfectly in technical color—in new subtle browns and greys or vibrant reds, blues and greens.

Fashion will work for you when the themes in styles are moulded to the color and accessory most flattering to you alone. It is this personal application that makes a costume vary from mediocrity to brilliance.

(Tomorrow included among the contents of your Iowan will be a fashion feature on what university women will be wearing to the Fall Flurry Saturday night. Incorporated in it will be actual examples to cement this idea of dressing with an eye to style, but with a mind focused on you yourself.)

Baked Beans Progress

Beans have come to us by way of tropical middle America—and with all due acknowledgement of the specialty we've made of them in Boston, the middle American people are still ahead of us in proper appreciation of these most nourishing and versatile of legumes.

It's true that in New England the Saturday bean baking has become almost as sacred a ritual as the Monday wash; but in middle America beans are on the table every day of the seven, not just one, and what's even more important, the middle American people had at least a thousand years' start on us where recipes are concerned.

They now form the basis for little bits of magic in the kitchen. Instead of a rabbit out of a hat, it's mock sausage, loafs, casseroles, salads and soups out of ordinary beans.

Try these baked beans middle American style:

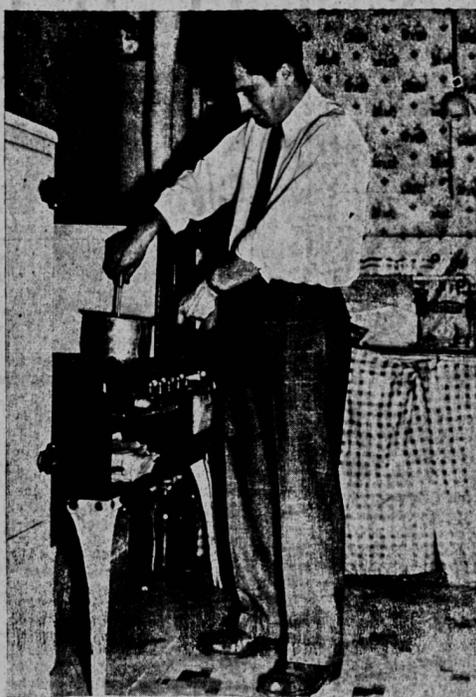

Soak 1 1/2 cups dried white beans overnight, then cover with boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain. Fry 1/2 pound hamburger until nicely browned, separating with a fork. Add 2 cups canned tomatoes or 4 fresh ones and 3/4 t. salt, 1/4 t. pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Mix this thoroughly with the beans. Pour into a greased baking dish. Slice two onions paper thin and arrange them on top of the beans. Brush with 2 T. melted bacon fat and sprinkle with 2 T. brown sugar. Bake 45 minutes at 374 F., or until the onions are cooked and nicely browned. Serves 4-6.

New Red Color Adds Life to Fall Outfit

For adding a lift to your spirits and multiplying the effects of your fall and winter wardrobe, there's nothing like a splash of color, clear and vibrant and in the mood of nature herself.

Nature is the most versatile artist of us all and this year her autumnal colors lead the fashion parade. Predominant in the hues with which nature paints the landscape for fall is a bright and vivid red which has been captured by clear sparkling "Clarion Red," a new make-up color.

"Clarion Red" has also inspired several well-known dress and accessory designers to match or complement the brightness of your face and lips and there is nothing more exciting than a make-up color to match or accent the color.

Photographer, Student Cooks—

Seasoning Stressed

A masculine appreciation of good food as one of the finer things of life has kindled the cooking enthusiasm of George Binc Bawden, co-owner of the Christie-Bawden photography studio. Binc is a freshman in the university law school.

Binc believes that when a person reaches maturity, he appreciates quality, such as good food. He likes to associate with these things that please him; and what he appreciates, he cultivates.

In connection with the hobby end of food, Binc is particularly interested in an appraisal of wine with the meal. He likes to analyze the type of wine needed for certain courses, foods and kinds of meat.

Americans Neglect Seasonings

The English extraction in American people is probably the reason American food is not properly seasoned; Binc states. German and Spanish dishes are extreme contrasts in the technique of seasoning.

"Good cooking and therefore good seasoning should take advantage of taste" is a theory in his culinary philosophy. Binc is a disciple of the tasting method, rather than of strict recipe-following. One of this cooking hobbyist's specialties is a vague but interesting recipe for barbecued beef ribs: Beef ribs are braised until almost done. They are salted little because of high seasoning in the accompanying sauce which is the trick of the dish.

Sauce is Basis The basis of the sauce is chile and ketchup. Tomato soup thickening may be added if desired. Shredded garlic is added or may be merely rubbed on the bowl, but if it is in the sauce itself it penetrates into the meat to give a richer flavor.

Serving for four requires one to one and one-half quarts of sauce. To each quart add 2 T. tabasco sauce, finely cut small green Mexican peppers and onion. Blend in a dash of vinegar to taste, keeping in mind that this is a sweet-sour sauce. Add celery seed, salt and pepper.

This barbecued ribs recipe depends purely on the tasting of the cook. Although it might seem difficult to follow, Binc operates on the theory typical of all good and professional cooks—a dash of this and a dab of that—just to taste.

Prewar Tea Dances In Union to Resume

Pre-war Wednesday afternoon tea dances in the Iowa Union will be resumed in the near future, the Union Board headed by Richard Nazette, L4 of Iowa City, decided at a meeting last night. The dances will be open only to couples and will be held from 3 to 5:30 p. m. every Wednesday.

A committee to take charge will be appointed.

Since Mackerel has so much fat of its own, little or none needs to be added in cooking.

Marni's Memos

SUI women are flocking to the shoe departments in search of the new, actually pretty footwear—ballet slippers—but it seems in vain at present. Firms who were manufacturing the real thing in satin and soft kid are still faced with short, if not exhausted, stocks since the war. Versions of the ballet shoe, however, are being produced by regular shoe concerns in a charming adaptation of leather, softened by pleating over the toe and with a slight heel and hard sole. After the summer deluge of colored fabric ballet shoes, you can be expecting to see more of these on campus in this more dressy style.

This summer I was talking to a young girl who was being married in another month. Of course, the conversation turned to trousseaus—homemaking and budgets—and, on her serviceman-husband's salary, she was particularly interested in just how she could save money, especially on groceries. At the time the problem baffled both of us, but since our conversation, I've thought of innumerable ways that young housewife could be beating the budget. For instance, cutting down food costs just by keeping food fresh! Manufacturers of many food products have made it easy for us to keep foods as appetizing and nutritious as the day they were packed. This saves by decreasing wastes! They have put waxed paper linings in the packages and, if you always take care to turn down the top of the inside wrap, the waxed paper will keep that food just as fresh as the day it left the factory.

It just takes a few seconds after breakfast to carefully re-close the cereal in its waxed lining . . . and there are hundreds of other items packed that way too—bread, potato chips, marshmallows, crackers, bakery goods—to mention a few. You know, you can save dollars every month just by utilizing waxed paper . . . and even though the war is over . . . most of us still have to conserve.

Saw a clever coat on campus before this warm weather returned . . . it was three-quarter length white fleece with all its picturesque quaintness due to multi-colored embroidery. You've seen the alpine versions with applique down the front binding. Well, this had flowery embroidery like that; but it was across the back of the shoulders and around the bottom as well. Novel and interesting, don't you think?

Leave it to Iowa women—it may not be new, but it's different! I'm referring to the latest fad seen between Schaeffer and Macbride—jeans and tailored white shirt with a bow tie. There's not much that man has left to call his own once coeds swamp the business world, wear pants, even smoke a pipe—now they've got the poor fellows' ties.

After-the-game food treats demand popularity and here's a sandwich suggestion oyster enthusiasts will welcome. It's called Cape Cod oyster sandwich and rates high among October favorites. For each person, arrange on a buttered slice of toast, three half slices broiled bacon topped with a thin slice of jellied cranberry sauce. Broil three or four oysters and season well with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Place on top of cranberry sauce. Cover with second slice of hot toast. Filled toothpicks will keep sandwich together.

Symbol of the modern young woman—as experienced when listening to Dr. Bach's radio broadcast yesterday from his little known religious' class. The instructor was acknowledging mail while his students took an exam. The first one completing the test joined Dr. Bach in the broadcasting studio to review the questions and answers. Ann Waterman was the individual and she tossed the correct answers back to Dr. Bach with amazing alacrity. Ann was wearing jeans and a sloppy shirt—the outfit might be sloppish, but not the mind.

There's no moral . . . it's just that an outsider would think the modern college miss messy and unconscientious if he judged her on classroom appearance, but the

Arrange to Rest For Charm, Beauty

Go to bed and relax! That's the No. 1 prescription for tired nerves. Next to sound sleep, there's nothing more refreshing than just lazing in a good bed, with all the necessary conveniences within easy reach. An extra hour or so in bed, before shut-eye time or on Sunday mornings, is a luxury that is within grasp of anyone. With the stage set you can rest and daydream, listen to your favorite symphony, have a snack, write yourself memos, or read—whatever makes you relax most successfully.

One of the secrets of charm—and a first aid to beauty—is to be relaxed and alert. Rest and slumber does much for the skin, eyes, hair, facial expression and carriage. Cosmetics are important for surface attractiveness, but they cannot cover up the defects which come from insufficient rest.

incident is further proof that a giddy fad is deceiving and incongruous to the individual herself.

Friday is WSUI day—at 12:45 it's the "Football Roundtable" with "Yokes", Brooks Shroeder, Krause and Luce giving out with predictions on this weekend's games. "Alumni and SU", a program designed for and about alumni of the university, will make its initial appearance today. Dr. Bruce E. Mahan, executive secretary of the association, and Edna Herbst will discuss the groundwork of the organization. This is aired at 3 p. m. We hope you'll be present at the pep rally tonight, but if you can't possibly make it, tune in around 7:15.

A lot of requests have come in asking me to indulge in a little platter chatter—so here goes. There's another re-issue out of the Tommy Dorsey discing of Pine Top Smith's "Immortal" "Boogie Woogie". It's the third for this classic rendition and still the stipply can't meet the demand. It's coupled with a lovely new ballad, "There You Go", featuring lush violins and the romantic voice of Stuart Foster. T. D.'s new orchestral version of "Hong Kong Blues" also a natural for spell-binding listening. Jess Stacy and his new band, who are currently appearing at Chicago's "Bandbox" with coast-to-coast mighty broadcasts, debuted recently with "Daybreak Serenade" and "It's Only a Paper Moon". You can always rely on Duke Ellington for a slow blues tune with a haunting melody like "Every Hour on the Hour" which is keeping the airways buzzing lately.

Philippine Loyalty Proved During War, Rev. L. McAfee Says

"During the war, the loyalty and friendship of the Philippines was proved absolutely," said the Rev. Leo McAfee, missionary in the Philippines for 22 years. He spoke on "The Philippines under the Japanese," last night in the Senate chamber of the Old Capitol.

He stated that the Philippines now need our help in many things; mainly, rebuilding missionaries and rehabilitating the islands.

McAfee first landed in Manila 24 years ago. He spent most of his time, however, working quite far from there with the Tirurei tribe of Mindanao.

The Tirureis were neither head-hunters nor cannibals but a very timid and peaceful tribe who were encouraged to educate their children.

When the war began there were 3500 who had been baptized and 1500 who had been confirmed. Many were good Christians and high school graduates.

After three months of hiding out and being cared for by the natives, McAfee surrendered himself to the Japanese and was placed in an internment camp.

"I do not believe the Japanese were Christians," said McAfee. There was a well-educated religious group in the Japanese army that furthered missions and the uniting of all Christian churches in the Philippines.

Unlike the military camps, the Japs were not brutal to the civilians in the internment camps, but they did let them starve, McAfee stated.

When 250 paratroopers with the help of 600 guerillas finally liberated them, the people were on the verge of death. They had all lost so much weight it was painful for them to breathe. "Among the 2200 Americans being liberated, however, there was no hysterics in spite of their famished conditions."

St. Luke's hospital in Manila was saved by the request of a Japanese doctor. The cathedrals and other buildings were destroyed by Americans when they were being used as Japanese fortresses.

"The country," he said, "didn't seem to have anything green left in it; but the Filipinos were very cheerful in what little they could do to rebuild. They were happy to be liberated."

The Tirureis were eager for Christianity because they had been exploited so much by other tribes that they had lost faith in their myths; the Jesuits had worked there 10 or 15 years earlier; the Christians were strong and they were looking for consolation and friendship.

Employment Service Workers Needed

"There is an urgent need for interviewers in United States Employment Service offices," E. E. Kline, director of the employment service in the Johnson county area, said yesterday.

Positions of this type are available in various cities in Iowa and all persons interested are asked to apply at the local employment office.

The requirement for interviewers is one year of experience during the past seven years in business, professions, skilled trades or clerical fields. Those with two years of experience in these occupations may apply for the position of advanced interviewer. One year of college training may be substituted for six months of actual experience.

Kline also commented that electricians, linemen, poultry house and sawmill workers are needed in the Iowa City area.

Sues Rudy Vallee

SARA BERNER, actress mimic who got her start on one of Maj. Edward Bowes' amateur radio programs, has filed suit against Rudy Vallee for $19,500. Miss Berner, now in Hollywood, charges that the singer made an oral agreement to hire her for his weekly radio program at $500 a week for 39 weeks and then backed down and refused. (International)

Nine Towns Top County Drive Quotas

Five townships and four towns have completed their campaigns in the Johnson county War Relief Fund-Community Chest drive and the total amount of contributions now stands at $25,743.70, more than 50 percent of the $45,950 quota, D. C. Nolan, general chairman, said yesterday.

"The 1945 campaign is progressing satisfactorily and is running ahead of last year's," Nolan said. "We expect to complete the drive soon, probably by Nov. 1."

The new total is an increase of $4,119.70 over Tuesday's figure.

Oxford is the fourth town in the county to reach its goal. Hills, Swisher and Tiffin previously completed their campaigns and exceeded their quotas.

Of 21 townships, Clear Creek, Graham, Jefferson, Newport and West Lucas have finished their drives. Newport and Jefferson exceeded their quotas last week. Graham and Clear Creek ended their drives Wednesday.

Schick, Mayo Hospital Veterans to Attend SUI Football Games

One hundred men from Schick General hospital in Clinton and 40 men from Mayo General hospital in Galesburg, Ill., will be guests here at Iowa's three remaining home football games.

These men, veterans of World War II, are all ambulatory cases and will travel to and from the games by bus. Different men will be chosen as guests for each game. Tickets to the games will be provided by the army as a part of its recreational program.

Women of the First Presbyterian church will serve the men lunch and dinner this Saturday.

A Methodist church group will take care of food for the veterans on Nov. 17, the Minnesota game, and a Tiffin Methodist church group will be host to the men for the Homecoming weekend.

This project of providing meals for the veterans is sponsored by the Red Cross camp and hospital council under the direction of Hazel Swim.

Interim Committee Meets With Hancher; Inspects University

The state legislature interim committee met here yesterday with President Virgil M. Hancher to consider seven recommendations submitted to the group Sept. 28 by Gov. Robert D. Blue for improving conditions in Iowa institutions. They also made a general inspection of the university.

The recommendations of Governor Blue were submitted to the committee after a long series of mass escapes at the Eldora training school.

Members of the legislative interim committee are: Irving D. Long, chairman, of Manchester; George Faul of Des Moines; J. T. Dykhouse of Rock Rapids; Leroy S. Mercer of Iowa City, and Robert C. Reilly of Dubuque.

Representatives on the committee are: G. T. Kuester, chairman, of Griswold; Carroll Lane of Carroll; George Farmer of Cedar Rapids; Frank Less of Cascade; E. E. Poston of Corydon, and State Comptroller C. Fred Porter of Des Moines.

At 9:30 yesterday morning the committee conferred on the recommendations in the board room of Old Capitol with President Hancher, members of the state board of education and representatives of Iowa State college.

The recommendations included employment of a director of penal and corrective institutions in the

Girl Scouts Observe National Week Soon

National Girl Scout week will be observed in Iowa City by 510 members, Oct. 28 to Nov. 3.

Each day of the week will be dedicated to a specific topic: Sunday, Oct. 28, will be church day; Monday, homemaking; Tuesday, citizenship; Wednesday, health and safety; Thursday, international friendship; Friday, arts and crafts; Saturday, out of doors. Troops will stress these topics in individual meetings.

Girl Scout week honors the birthday, Oct. 31, of the founder, Juliette Low. Miss Low organized the first troop March 12, 1912. In 1944 approximately 1,600,000 girls participated in the 10 field program, which includes besides the week's sports and games, nature, community life, literature and dramatics and music and dancing.

For baking you can use molasses and cane, maple and sorghum syrups as a substitute for white sugar.
