Local Planning Committee Ends Work

Council Hears Final Proposals

Report Recommendations Group to Study Iowa City Problems

By JOE MATHER
Daily Iowan City Editor
After two years of study of civic problems, the Iowa City community postwar planning committee has decided to abandon additional activities incident to the consideration of private and public development associated with the postwar period.

The possibility of a special committee of the city council to study the property tax assessment problem, the parking problem, a new city hall and a municipal court are among matters called to the attention of the city council in a report of the postwar planning committee presented to that group last night by L. C. Crawford.

"The housing situation is still our most pressing problem," Crawford said in presenting the report. Matters which have not had full committee deliberation but which should be emphasized in consideration of the city council and the city zoning and planning commission, according to the report, include:

- "1. The Chamber of Commerce has released the preliminary results of a prospective employment survey in Iowa City.
- "2. The committee has given some consideration to the property tax assessment problem in Iowa City and feels that the council might well consider the appointment of a special council committee to investigate results of studies of this matter and perfected solutions by outside experts in Des Moines, Spencer, Council Bluffs and possibly other municipalities in Iowa.
- "3. It is felt that the council should give further consideration to the parking problem and plans for a new city hall. The city is obviously in need of a new administrative building and machine shop. The solution of the parking problem may finally rest through the procurement of a city parking lot adjacent to the business area.
- "4. The Rock Island district army engineers have the proposed Coralville reservoir flood control project on the Iowa river under active consideration with an estimated cost of some $6 million. The development is contingent on the favorable report of the war department and final congressional approval with an appropriation of funds for the project.
- "5. Some convincing evidence has been presented during the last year for the creation of a municipal court in Iowa City in accordance with Iowa law.
- "6. Congress, under title 5 of the war reversion act of Oct. 3, 1944, made an appropriation of $17,500,000 for actual postwar planning involving funds to be apportioned among the states, $290,000 for Iowa, for advance or loans to states and their political subdivisions without interest and subject to repayment if and when the construction of the public works so planned is undertaken by the local agency."

In conclusion, the executive committee of the postwar planning committee said that it "believes that Iowa City and Johnson county is in a splendid position for planned works of definite value if projects can be timed in an orderly manner and especially in relation to the availability of men and materials at fair and reasonable prices."

The community postwar planning committee was organized by Mayor Wilber J. Teeters in October, 1943, upon a proposal by the Engineers club of the city. Representatives of 70 local civic, social and community organizations comprised the postwar planning committee. Crawford was named chairman and Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon served as secretary.

Crawford explained last night that the committee centered its attention chiefly on public works projects since the community is largely dependent on governmental groups and has no large private industries.

The committee sponsored certain action and encouraged related projects.

Audubon County Passes Bond Quota

Goes 'Over the Top' With 112 Percent In First Day of Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Audubon county, Iowa, was one of 12 counties in the nation to go "over the top" of their quotas in the first day of the $11,000,000 victory loan drive. The treasury department said all 12 counties were listed on an even basis but did not immediately disclose the names of the others.

The following telegram was sent to each of the county chairmen by Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army.

"In behalf of the hundreds of thousands of wounded and disabled veterans of this war who will benefit directly from the victory loan I want to congratulate and commend you for the fine and patriotic record in meeting your quota on the opening day of the drive."

Audubon county was the first county in the five-state midwestern federal reserve district to go "over the top," said Clarence T. Laibly, assistant cashier of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

He made that comment after Holger Lindholm, Audubon county campaign chairman, flew from Des Moines to Chicago with $330,000, or 112 percent of the county's E-bond quota—all raised prior to the official opening of the drive.

Audubon county was first or one of the first counties in Iowa to reach its quota in each of the last several war bond campaigns.

Ration-Free Cars To Go on Sale Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—New automobiles soon to go on sale will not be rationed, the government announced yesterday.

The OPA and the war production board, in a joint statement, said that with nearly 24,000,000 cars now on the road, and new production under way, "there is no longer danger of a general breakdown of the automotive transportation system."

The agencies added that as new production picks up, "newer and better used cars will also become increasingly available."

No automobiles have been rationed since last July when the remainder of the general stockpile of prewar cars was released for general sale.

The decision against rationing means that, except for any sales priority set up voluntarily by dealers, new cars will be sold on a first-come-first-served basis.

United Steelworkers Ask NLRB To Take Strike Vote Nov. 28

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The CIO United steelworkers asked the national labor relations board yesterday to take a strike vote Nov. 28 among 600,000 metal workers in 766 plants.

In requesting the strike ballot under the Smith-Connally act, the union declared there was a dispute with steel, iron ore and aluminum companies over the union's demand for a $2 a day wage increase.

Important labor developments included:

- 1. AFL and CIO unions of 13,000 machinists struck in the San Francisco bay area and halted work at 179 shipyards, machine shops, foundries and manufacturing companies.
- 2. President Truman called R. J. Thomas, CIO United Automobile workers' chief, to a White House conference Friday, presumably regarding the forthcoming labor-management meeting.
- 3. The Hollywood motion picture strikers deferred their return to work from yesterday to tomorrow.
- 4. The national total of persons off the job because of labor trouble remained at the week end level of about 235,000 as strikers involving an aggregate of 33,000 workers ended in Pittsburgh, Akron, Ohio, and Camden, N. J.

Seek Increase
A $2 a day increase also was sought by the CIO Electrical workers. Both General Electric and General Motors had refused the demand and were joined yesterday by the Westinghouse Electric corporation, with 80,000 employees.

Mr. Truman, who will submit his wage-price policy to the nation tonight in a radio address, went over some points of his speech with American Federation of Labor leaders yesterday.

The UAW rejected emphatically the proposal of General Motors corporation for a 45-hour week as a "conspiracy against millions of returning veterans and laid-off war workers."

General Motors has rejected as "unreasonable" the union's demand for a 30 percent wage increase. In an NLRB election GM employees empowered their union to call a strike to enforce the demands. Chrysler corporation workers cast a similar vote and the proposition will be laid before Ford Motor company personnel Nov. 7.

Under an agreement reached between AFL chieftains and motion picture industry leaders in Cincinnati last week, the 7,000 Hollywood strikers were to resume work yesterday. The return was delayed until tomorrow "in an attempt to clarify certain confusing issues," the disputants said.

Walkout Ends
The CIO United Rubber workers voted to end a two-day walkout that shut down all production operations at Akron, Ohio plants of Firestone Tire and Rubber company, employing 15,000.

A stoppage by 2,500 CIO Electrical workers that had kept 11,500 away from work ended at the Westinghouse Air Brake company, Pittsburgh. The walkout started Wednesday over union claims that the management had substituted a laboring pay rate for a higher piece-work rate in one department. Strikers voted to resume work after the union said it had requested a meeting with the company to settle the grievance.

In Camden, N. J., a strike of nearly two weeks duration ended when 6,500 AFL employees of R. M. Hollingshead corporation, resumed work under a new contract. The strikers asked for a 15 cent hourly wage increase and six holidays a year. The company had offered three cents and three holidays.

Government sources admitted the movement of troops was seriously hampered, for with the acute shortage of labor and materials it will take time to get this vital traffic artery functioning again.

Despite temporary loss of the railroad, semi-official dispatches said central government troops were moving northward out of Peiping along the railway to Manchuria's Mukden to take "defensive positions" along the great wall.

Allied Far Eastern Group Meets Today

Advisory Commission Receives No Notice Of Soviet Participation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans were completed yesterday for the first meeting of the Allied far eastern advisory commission today without the hoped-for, last-minute notice that Russia would participate.

The major function of the commission is to advise on future policies for control of Japan.

There was still time for the Soviet Union to declare itself in and designate its Washington charge d'affaires, Nikolai V. Novikov, as Russian representative.

American officials, however, assumed that Moscow was standing on its contention that a four power (United States, Russia, Britain, China) control council, with actual administrative powers, should be established in Tokyo prior to creation of the advisory commission in Washington.

Hence, officials expected representatives of only ten governments to answer the first roll call at the state department today. These are the United States, Britain, China, Australia, Canada, France, New Zealand, the Netherlands, the Philippines and India.

Reports of virtual civil war in China and of fighting between Indonesian and British troops in Java today served to point up the limited scope of the projected advisory commission.

The commission, at least at the start, will be able to discuss neither of those situations. It can concern itself only with recommendations to the ten participating governments on how Japan can best carry out its surrender obligations.

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, who will represent the Philippines commonwealth on the commission, was reported ready to propose that delegates discuss independence plans for French Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies.

United States officials, who declined to be quoted directly, expressed the view that General Romulo probably would be ruled out of order if he made such proposals, however.

Communist Troops In China Cut 100 Miles Of Vital Railway

CHUNGKING (AP)—Communist troops have cut 100 miles of the great Peiping-Hankow railway—life line for government forces hastening toward stormy north China's undeclared civil war zone—official dispatches reported yesterday.

The Communists struck south of Peiping, cutting rails, blowing up bridges, destroying stations and burning railway stock on the railway northward from the Red-held town of Tzehsien.

Government sources admitted the movement of troops was seriously hampered, for with the acute shortage of labor and materials it will take time to get this vital traffic artery functioning again.

Whether Russia would remain aloof or would support the Communists was a riddle to which government quarters said they did not profess to know the answer.

NOW 48 STARS IN PRESIDENTIAL FLAG

THE NEW PRESIDENTIAL FLAG, above, which will be used to represent the president of the United States exclusively, replaces the four stars on the old banner with 48 to represent the states. The change, inaugurated by the late President Roosevelt, was ordered when the five-star rank was created for the Army and Navy. In addition, the new flag shows the eagle facing to the right toward the olive branches of peace, whereas on the former pennant, the eagle faced the arrows.

New Fighting Flares in Java

BATAVIA, Java, (AP)—New fighting was reported to have flared up in Batavia last night after a truce ended a bloody 24-hour battle at the Soerabaja naval base which left at least 40 British Indian soldiers dead and another 40 wounded.

There was no estimate of the number of Indonesian and civilian casualties in the fighting at Soerabaja, where the entire British garrison of 1,600 men had been seriously threatened by the strongest Indonesian forces yet encountered by allied occupation forces.

The Dutch news agency Aneta reported the new outbreak was in progress in the kratamiddistrict of the capital, where the Indonesians were said to have amassed large stores of arms and munitions.

The Indonesians at Soerabaja, well-equipped with armored cars, light tanks, machineguns and mortars and said to number more than 10,000 declared the truce after hearing a personal appeal by President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic." He was flown to Soerabaja by the British.

Soekarno, carrying a white flag of truce, had to brave the fire of his own followers repeatedly before he reached headquarters of the Indonesian forces.

In the late afternoon, he persuaded the young radical leaders to call off the attack.

The fighting started after the British ordered the Indonesians to surrender their arms.

They refused, fearing apparently that Dutch troops were about to enter the city.

Meanwhile, the sudden uprising caused negotiations between the Dutch and the Indonesian nationalists to be postponed indefinitely.

Supreme Court Head Assumes Presidency

Minister of War Returns to Post At Request of Army

RIO DE JANEIRO, Tuesday (AP)—The resignation of Getulio Vargas as president of Brazil was announced early yesterday with Supreme Court Judge Jose Linhares assuming the presidency.

Gen. Pedro Aurelio Goes Monteiro announced the resignation of Vargas. Goes Monteiro resigned late Sunday as minister of war but early yesterday he announced he had reconsidered at the request of army officers and had resumed his post.

Selection of Linhares as successor to Vargas was in line with the provisions of the 1937 constitution which provides that in the event of the president's death or removal he shall be succeeded by the head of the supreme court.

Stoppag
Linhares' appointment generally was regarded by Brazilians as merely a stopgap arrangement.

Opponents of Vargas have suggested that he resign and permit general elections scheduled for December to be held while Linhares served as president.

Vargas who came to power in Brazil in 1930, himself is not a candidate for the presidency.

An official announcement from the office of the chief of police yesterday said Linhares had assumed the presidency stated that Joao Alberto Lins de Barros, who yesterday was ousted as chief of the federal police by Benjamin Vargas, younger brother of Getulio Vargas, was assisting Linhares. The announcement said De Barros had reassumed his federal police post.

Tanks Move In
Shortly after it was first reported Vargas had resigned, army tanks were seen entering the grounds of the presidential residence and Vargas was observed leaving in an automobile.

The minister of war said Vargas had resigned "in order to avoid greater unrest from political motives." The presidential power, he said, passed to the president of the supreme court.

Army troops with full equipment were stationed in front of the ministry of war. Armored cars with machineguns massed near the center of the city.

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP)—Getulio Dornelles Vargas seized power in Brazil in 1930 and became president four years later under a new constitution.

His term as president was the longest in the nation's history. In the years he headed Brazil, he weathered three uprisings, declared a second republic, promulgated two constitutions and established a tight, centrally controlled government.

Short and swarthy, Vargas was born April 19, 1883, in the village of Sao Borja, Rio Grande Do Sul, on the Uruguay river. In 1927, he became state president of Rio Grande do Sul, where he founded a model state bank. Three years later he led the armed uprising which placed him at the head of the hemisphere's largest nation and its estimated 44,000,000 people.

Move to Increase Presidential Powers

Proposal Would Give President Free Hand To Order Soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department laid before senators yesterday a draft of legislation giving the president a free hand to order use of a limited number of American troops to help the world security council keep the peace.

The measure was presented by Undersecretary Dean C. Acheson at a bi-partisan meeting of members of the senate foreign relations committee. Persons familiar with it said it would:

- 1. Designate the American delegate, with the rank of ambassador, as the president's agent on the security council.
- 2. Permit the delegate to vote, at the direction of the president and without further check by congress, for the use of American troops which have been allocated to the council.
- 3. Require the president to report to congress the actions taken by his delegate on the council after the vote has been taken there.
- 4. Provide that congress must approve either by a joint resolution or by treaty the agreement on the size and makeup of United States forces to be assigned to the council.

President Truman has said he will appoint Edward R. Stettinius Jr., former secretary of state, as his delegate on the council. The legislation would give Stettinius a salary of $20,000 yearly.

His confirmation by the senate would be required, as would that of an assistant-alternate, to be paid $12,000 yearly.

The president would be permitted to appoint a different set of five American delegates to the United Nations general assembly for each of its yearly meetings. Their nominations also would have to be confirmed by the senate.

General Marshall said that "just a few months ago the world was completely convinced of the strength and courage of the United States. Now they see us falling back into our familiar peacetime habits. We must somehow get it clear in our thinking that the fulfillment of our responsibilities is not some vague mumbo jumbo. It requires positive active effort and sacrifice, and above all it is a continuing process."

"As late as 1937," the general declared, "we might have convinced the Axis gangsters of the complete futility of their preparations by simply matching our 'cigaret money'—using the term figuratively—with expenditures on our national security. I sincerely believe that if we had given our security its proper attention the Axis would not have started the war."

"If we are to nourish the infant United Nations organization and thus establish some possibility of a future decent world order," Marshall said, "definite measures must be taken immediately to determine at least the basic principles for our postwar military policy. I have never felt so certain of anything in my life."

"For the moment, in a widespread emotional crisis of the American people, demobilization has become, in effect, disintegration not only of the armed forces but apparently of all conception of world responsibility and what it demands of us."

Four Sororities to Compete—18,000 Badge Sales Anticipated

Badges for the 1945 Homecoming will go on sale in Iowa City Thursday morning at 7 o'clock, according to Prof. Louis C. Zopf, chairman of the faculty Homecoming committee.

Similar in size and color to former badges, this year's emblem features the home of President and Mrs. Hancher. The prize-winning photograph was taken by Prof. H. Lee Dean of the botany department.

Sororities sponsoring badge sales are: Delta Delta Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, Sigma Delta Tau and Zeta Tau Alpha. Sales captains within each respective group are: Lois Ann Dunn, A3 of Sioux City; Mary Ann Lawton, A3 of Benton Harbor, Mich.; Esther Klein, A2 of Council Bluffs, and Gloria Barbee, A2 of Centerville.

Eighteen thousand sales are anticipated, including mail orders, which should be addressed to Professor Zopf, in the college of pharmacy. Individuals desiring badges by mail may remit 10c, either stamps or coin, to Professor Zopf in the college of pharmacy. Badges are requested from coast to coast annually, enabling some alumni to keep a complete set.

Iowa City officials have granted the sororities sponsoring the sales permission to sell on city streets during the three-day interval.

Last year was the first time a photograph was used on the Homecoming badge. The idea was successful, and the committee decid to reproduce photographs of university buildings on future badges. Each year, the choice of building will be announced in advance to contestants.

Faculty Homecoming committee members are: Professor Zopf; Prof. George T. Bresnahan, head university track coach; Capt. Richard D. Coughlin of the military department; Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, head of physical education for women; Prof. Frederic Higbee, head of engineering drawing; Prof. T. G. Kaywood of the college of engineering; Prof. Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division; W. W. Mercer, alumnus representative of Iowa City; Prof. Arthur K. Miller of the geology department; Prof. Rollin M. Perkins of the college of law; Prof. Frederick M. Pownall, director of publications, and Theodore M. Rehder, assistant director of Iowa Union.

A member of the faculty committee since 1939, Professor Zopf has been general chairman for the past three years.

Our Indian Summer Weather Is Still Here

Our beautiful Indian summer weather is going to be with us for yet another day. It won't be quite as warm today as it was yesterday—the mercury basked at the 67 degree level yesterday—but it will still be plenty nice. There are some high scattered clouds, known colloquially as mare's tails, scheduled to move in over this area but there is no bad weather or radical changes in sight. The low yesterday was only 35 and it didn't get very cold last night either.

Editorials: The Veterans Need a Stronger Organization

The University of Iowa's returned servicemen, nearly all of them displaying determined zeal in their studies, may be failing to exact their full benefits from the university because they have not been more active in an organization of their own.

To be effective the organization need have only a slate of competent officers and a capable executive council of some kind. These elected officials could do most of the work that is to be done, getting the association's approval at, say, monthly meetings.

The veterans association contemplated by present leaders isn't intended to be a political body with projects that will make wide departures from campus activities as they now exist. In the main, the association's goals could be loosely defined as social and service.

The veterans also want to be of service to the university wherever possible. They believe that they could cut across the usual campus lines if they were called on for aid.

The housing problem is one of the things veterans' leaders would like to see the association take a more active interest in. But as yet the association is too shakily organized to get the best results.

One of the chief benefits of a stronger association would be the aid which veterans could give to each other. Any student who wants to take part in extra-curricular activities has a better chance for success if he has the encouragement and support of an organization—whatever kind of group it may be.

Also the present group of veterans, through their association, will be able to help orient the ex-servicemen who return to Iowa next semester and next year. New veterans will need some of the same kind of guidance freshmen need, and that guidance could be available in a veterans association.

In the end, the veterans association will be an instrument for the absorption of the ex-servicemen back into normal civilian groups. The association could be of aid in solving the individual problems of veterans on the campus. It could work hand in hand with government agencies, and in event of major problems could represent all veterans on the campus.

To meet these aims—loosely defined, but nonetheless important—the association needs only a functional set of officers with the same relationship to the association as a whole as the Student Council has to the student body.

And even though the association isn't going to become involved in campus politics immediately, the necessity for strengthening the present organization as soon as possible is not minimized. Veterans have been all too slow in organizing already.

This hesitancy on the part of the veterans might bring some undesirable results. At the University of Illinois, the American Legion stepped in and organized a campus post, forcing the independent veterans association out of existence.

The American Legion certainly will not be without benefits at Illinois, but nevertheless it is principally not a student organization and it has some political commitments which students at Iowa might not want to share.

Also, there have been reports from Illinois—including published "letters to the editor" of the Illinois paper—that the independent association was ditched in favor of the Legion by about 20 veterans acting in their own selfish interests and not in the interest of the veterans as a whole.

Veterans here probably could spare themselves later grief by reinforcing their organization now—especially by choosing competent officers at the election next month.

A good veterans association holds promise of benefits for veterans themselves and for the entire university. Included among the veterans are some of the most outstanding leaders on the campus. All that is needed now is more support from more veterans.

From All Around The State

DES MOINES, (AP) — Inflation was the subject of informal discussions among delegates gathering yesterday for the 59th annual convention of the Iowa Bankers association opening today.

"Inflation is here—it's going to get worse." That was a prevailing opinion. "Land prices are too high—and they are going to go still higher," said George A. Malcolm, president of the Drovers National Bank of Chicago.

As to how they would go, Malcolm said "your guess is just as good as mine." On possible checks on inflation—he hesitated and thought.

"I can answer that one," said C. B. Upham, deputy comptroller of the currency, Washington, D. C. "The answer," he continued, is to over-subscribe on series E bonds in the current victory loan drive."

Upham, a banking and credit authority, formerly lived at Iowa City, and has been in his present office since 1934.

Speaker at the convention's banquet tonight will be Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky, Democratic majority leader, who will talk on "the united nations charter."

DES MOINES, (AP) — A 45-minute parade of servicemen and women, veterans and civilians marked the opening of the victory loan campaign last night in Des Moines.

Rolling along a two-mile, flared lit course from the capitol building plaza west on Locust street to thirteenth street, the parade was witnessed by an estimated 30,000 persons.

Behind a motorcycle escort of policemen and soldiers rode Gov. Robert D. Blue and Brig. Gen. Charles Grahl, head of selective service in Iowa.

Immediately behind them was Sgt. Ralph G. Nepple of Liddersdale, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, accompanied by his girl, Jean Moore of Liddersdale, and Pvt. Chaunce Durand, Rochester, Minn., a medical attendant.

Sergeant Nepple, smiling happily despite the loss of both legs in a German attack in France, spoke briefly at the parade started.

Parents of several other Iowans who were awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously, also rode near the head of the parade. Units in the parade included a composite training battalion of 601 officers and men from Camp Crowder, Mo., marching and riding in ducks (amphibious vehicles), jeeps, signal corps and medical corps trucks.

ALTOONA, (AP) — James C. Mason, editor and publisher of the Altoona Herald, committed suicide Sunday because, Dr. J. E. Kessell, said yesterday, of despondency resulting from an army induction notice received by his last remaining employe. Dr. Kessell said Mason had seen his employes leave one by one for service and had become increasingly depressed.

DES MOINES, (AP) — After reading about 20 statements from state guardsmen and inmates of the Eldora state training school for boys, Gov. Robert D. Blue said yesterday it was "very apparent" that the fatal wounding of James Porter, 15 year old inmate, was "purely accidental."

Meanwhile, the state bureau of criminal investigation was making ballistic tests of two guns, one of which was believed the one which killed the Council Bluffs boy. The governor said preliminary tests showed one of the guns had a faulty firing mechanism. Pic. Marvin L. Christiansen of Davenport was holding the gun when it discharged last Friday. Porter died the next day.

DES MOINES, (AP) — More than 600 officers and men from Camp Crowder, Mo., were quartered yesterday in barracks at Fort Des Moines which were built to house members of the women's army corps. The men were here to participate in a victory war bond campaign parade.

WATERLOO, (AP) — Dr. Oscar P. Thompson, 91, University of Iowa graduate and pioneer Hampton physician, died here yesterday.

DES MOINES, (AP) — Henry Wichman, secretary of the Iowa surplus war commodities board, said yesterday he had been advised that 9,100 jeeps have been released for sale at prices ranging from $598 to $782 at the point of sale. He so informed county auditors, in case counties or other governmental subdivisions wish to purchase any. School districts and cities interested should contact their county auditors, he said.

Wichman said he believed he would order about 20 for the state, the use to which they would be put to be determined later.

War Crimes Trial of Lt. Gen. Yamashita Opens With Horror Tales, Legal Quibbling

MANILA, (AP) — Anguished recitals of an orgy of bloodlust and horror alternated with courteous legal quibbling at the opening session yesterday of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's trial on war criminal charges.

The bullet-headed defendant, heavily medaled in his dress uniform with polished knee-boots and freshly starched white shirt, listened grimly as witnesses told how Japanese of his Philippine command butchered women and children in a Red Cross station massacre or perpetrated other atrocities against civilians.

He listened with equal attention, watching tensely through horn-rimmed glasses, while defense counsel entered a series of legal objections, sought a two-week postponement of the proceedings or argued that the commission of five American generals had no legal right to try him at all.

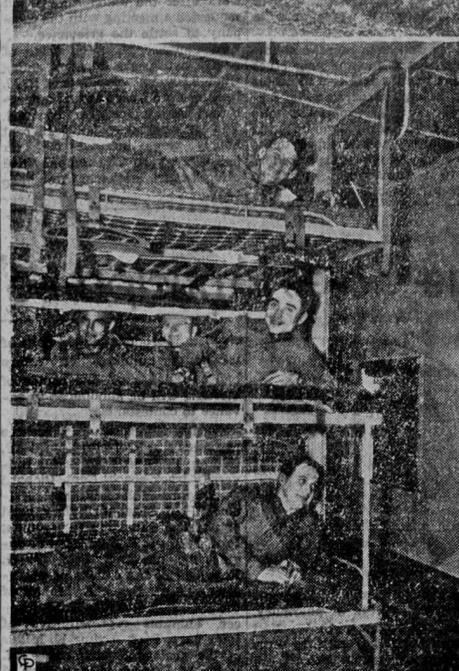

The conqueror of Malaya and one-time absolute lord of life and death in the Japanese-occupied Philippines gave no sign of emotion. As the session ended an 18-year-old Filipino sat on the witness stand tensely clutching a microphone, his face frozen in an expression of terror and dismay after testifying of the savagery he had seen. An American MP finally motioned him off the stand.

Much of the testimony offered yesterday centered around the massacre in a Manila Red Cross station. An attractive 26-year-old Filipino woman told amid tears how four Japanese sailors broke into the Red Cross building where about 100 women and children had taken shelter, slaughtered 50 of them and wounded most of the others.

A preliminary shot fired through the door killed a small girl, the witness said, and then followed an hour-long orgy in which the Japanese ran amuck among the helpless, shooting and bayoneting them without mercy. The witness herself survived nine bayonet stabs and a bullet wound, but her 10-month-old daughter was fatally hurt.

A 47-year-old Filipino who lived next door to the station told of losing 10 members of his family in the slaughter. Defense counsel, headed by Col. Harry E. Clarke of Altoona, Pa., sought dismissal of the charges against Yamashita on the ground that neither President Truman nor other proper authority had delegated power to General MacArthur to order the commission convened.

The chief prosecutor, Maj. Robert M. Kerr, Portland, Ore., said the prosecution would attempt to prove that violations of the laws of war were so widespread and commonplace under Yamashita's command that he must have known of them, or taken "affirmative action not to know" which would make him equally guilty.

MANY VETERANS returning from overseas for furloughs and separation now ride the rails in comfort on the new improved triple-deck Pullman car which has been put into service. The new cars, known as troop sleepers, feature windows and screens that really open, an extra large supply of water and spacious washrooms and lavatories at each end of the car. Top photo above shows a group of vets leaving Camp Shanks, N. Y., on one of the new cars. Lower photo shows some of the soldiers in the new triple-deck car. (International)

Covering The Capital

By HERMAN E. ALLEN (Jack Stinnett Is Ill)

WASHINGTON—The news that Canada is setting up a capital district around the city of Ottawa stirred considerable interest here. It was noted that the Canadian capital district will be a good deal larger than the District of Columbia—900 square miles against D.C.'s approximately 70—and that its government will be modelled somewhat after Washington's.

Right there the bitter comments began, for it was noted further that the citizens of Canada's district will retain all their rights as citizens.

The Canadian proposal had been under consideration for 30 years. One of the chief obstacles was the fear of residents of the district that they would be deprived of their vote, as the citizens of the District of Columbia have been.

Finally it was decided that they should vote and that there would be no "taxation without representation." The plan then breezed through.

The matter of "bringing the district into the union" comes up every year. It is the subject of some discussion in congress (a small part of it actually delivered on the house or senate floor, but most of it simply inserted in the record). It is earnestly championed in hopeful newspaper editorials and resolutions by citizens' associations.

And nothing ever comes of it. One of the main reasons is that very few members of congress really care what happens to the district. Care enough, that is, to do anything about it in the face of strong opposition. When the presiding officer of house or senate announces "district day," there is a rush to get out of there and get busy on something that will produce a few votes back home.

Several nations, including Mexico, have some sort of a capital district. The only one where residents do not have a vote is the District of Columbia. (Incidentally, since Georgetown was joined to Washington in 1895, the District is the same area as Washington.)

As you may know, congress passes all the laws for the district and appoints three commissioners to run it. Two commissioners must be district residents and the third must be an officer of the army engineers.

Legislation is now pending to give the district representation in congress. It is known as the Summers-Capper amendment.

To Junior the good old days were when we had each year two Thanksgiving days and he got four turkey drumsticks.

Life of the Party

Now that the men who can sit down at a piano and proceed to charm a parlor full of guests are back, the university's return to a normal social life is almost completed.

The lack of enough good piano players was one of the things that most hurt wartime parties and informal gathering of men and their dates. There were so few really top performers that parties all too often were without the traditional "life of the party" man.

But those fellows are coming back, and they're putting spice into the whirl again. One of the best, if not THE best, party piano players on the campus now is Lee Higgins out at the Alpha Kappa Kappa house.

The other night Lee mixed up a little classical, boogie-woogie, jazz and a few of the smooth popular numbers and out came a "dish" that was reminiscent of old times.

Lee's a master at tickling those ivories. And besides being an accomplished pianist, he has that little knack of showmanship that puts added punch into his tunes. He stops his foot, and now and then rocks his shoulders a bit. His beat is terrific.

In an army uniform as a medical student, Lee has been studying the piano for a good many years. He has Iturbi's technique on "Holiday for Strings," and that Basin street jump to "Melancholy Baby."

He's even filled in with some of those hot little combos that hold forth in Chicago. And you've got to be a "solid Mac" to get their attention.

Fellows like Lee can provide the perfect climax to a wonderful party or can put the right kick into a little gathering. We're certainly glad to see them back.

From now on there will be more of those rollicking sessions around the piano, with everybody blended into perfect harmony except the joker next to you. And there'll be somebody trying to imitate Frank Sinatra—and making the gals scream, but not for the same reason they scream for Frankie.

Late November Set For Graduate Exams

Dean Carl E. Seashore of the graduate college has announced that the national standard qualifying examination for graduate work will be given at the university late in November.

Since the plan was started by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, the university has been one of the graduate or professional schools to administer the examination. This will be the ninth year of participation in the project.

The examination is used as a means of self-analysis and self-guidance and as an aid to the faculty in guidance. Two parts are included, one a specific examination chosen by the student from any one of a selected number of areas, and the other a general test covering eight areas.

"Scores represent an inventory of knowledge," Dean Seashore said. "They permit a student to know his relative strength or weakness in basic fields of knowledge. They also present a comparison of his performance with that of thousands of other students."

Don Emery Elected President of Forum

When Winter Rules—Colorful Ski Sweaters—Adorn Collegians

MODELING SKI SWEATERS to be worn during the reign of King Winter are Miriam Vieth, A4 of Oakland, right, and Joan Koerner, A1 of Dubuque. Figures of a dancing Swiss boy and girl in white are the unique models on the sky blue sweater worn by Joan. Slender lines forming white hearts alternate with the Swiss couples to cover the sweater. A white wool skirt completes her outfit. Miriam has selected a loose fitting white sweater designed with red reindeer and a star centered on the front and back. Red and blue trim borders the decorative panel. It is worn with a red wool skirt, with two kick pleats in front and back.

A preview of winter weather in the cool snap of autumn evenings has caused coeds and college men alike to don ski sweaters and bundle up in scarves and mittens. The hand knit design on the white ski sweater of Joan Royal, A2 of Des Moines, forms a novel effect. Tiny red dachshunds complimented by black and red lines around the shoulders are the only decorative trim. Worn with a plain skirt, the outfit is distinctive for its simplicity.

Monte Ecarius, A2 of Sioux Falls, S. D., wears a light-weight ski sweater with sleeves pushed to three-quarter. Red reindeer and green stars with red centers are woven onto a grey background. Accenting the grey of the sweater is a grey kick pleat skirt.

A two-tone green is the favorite of Patricia Betsworth, A2 of Sioux City. A center panel of lime green is decorated with a forest green reindeer and small crosses, with a similar effect on side panels of forest green. She wears with it a turf tan skirt and moccasins of contrasting shades of brown.

Don Dodge, A3 of Mason City, wears a wine and white knit. A white star is centered in front and back, with the white reindeer completing the design. Crossed lines form a diamond pattern of color.

A deep purple angora sweater is worn by Jack Schroeder, J4 of West Point. A lighter shade of purple sets off the V-neckline. Threads of white and red knit together form the background panel for two red reindeer on the stunning sweater worn by Lois McIntosh, A2 of Villisca. A narrow row of black symbols make an edge for the panel. Dots in black cover the sleeves and white area, leaving only a white waistband and sleeve bands of pure white.

Bonnie McFarland, A2 of Evanston, Ill., has chosen a white sweater knit with three navy blue reindeer. Navy triangles complete the design. It is worn with a navy blue skirt, pleated all around.

Skiers, silhouetted in white, cover the maroon ski sweater of Brownie Otopalik, D2 of Ames. Ideal for football weather is the navy and white sweater of

For Wiring Information Consult Your Electrical Contractor

THIS fancy labeling system may help in some respects—but it certainly won't solve the wiring problem. Regardless of the indexing arrangement, overloaded circuits and crowded outlets cannot give adequate, convenient electrical service. Lights fade when certain appliances are turned on. Fuses blow out frequently. Appliances operate inefficiently.

The fact is there's only one real solution: Adequate wiring—with plenty of circuits, outlets, switches and wire of the proper size. Whether planning to build a new home or modernize your present one, be sure to insist upon adequate wiring.

Problem in Bavaria— Homeless Persons

MUNICH (AP)—Life in many Bavarian cities would be relatively simple for military government officers if it weren't for displaced persons.

No member of the military government fails to recognize that displaced persons are entitled to sympathy, compassion and every possible aid, also that those who have a real reason to fear political persecution at home should not be forced to depart at present. But behind these bonafide displaced persons apparently hide many lawless elements.

Military Government Sympathizes
As Capt. Carl A. Rein, Cincinnati, Ohio, military governor of Landsberg (where Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf"), says, "We have every sympathy in the world for displaced persons and believe they should be given every possible break. But when some walk about town in striped concentration camp clothes to awaken sympathy and we find on inspection they have eight or nine suits, when some slaughter stolen sheep right in their billets, when we find one fellow with 20 sewing machines and 30 radio sets, it is time to make a public complaint."

While de-Nazification is going on vigorously in Bavaria's industry and business and is virtually completed in public offices, there's one thing sadly lacking, namely something to fill German minds other than Nazism.

Newspapers Licensed
Licensing of newspapers, magazines, publishing houses, concert managers, musical conductors, etc., is in the hands of a military unit known as the district information services control council. Its commanding officer, B. B. McMahon, Indianapolis, Ind., explained why things don't move faster. "Our officers are in the strength of a regiment, yet we're expected to do the job of a whole army."

Arthur F. Gerecke, chief of the press control section, district information services control council, and a former business executive of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, said that neither the American people generally nor the tactical troops stationed in Germany appreciate that there's something more to be done than de-Nazifying. "That's a negative process," he says, "a process of elimination." "Meanwhile, however, a positive task, the eradication of Nazism as a philosophy, as a mode of life, from German minds goes unattended. Here we are—400 men to eradicate Nazism! It's ridiculous."

PRODUCE MORE AND HAVE MORE A PROPOSAL TO THE NATION

"To its Lawmakers, its Economists, its Farmers, its Industrial Workers and its Business Men"

Every thinking American must realize that this country now faces a situation without parallel either during the war or before it.

Before the war we were busy at production of all the things required by a peacetime economy. We maintained a high standard of living, supported the government with our taxes, exported to foreign countries and enjoyed imports from them.

Then came the war. Production was stepped up to unprecedented levels and devoted almost entirely to military needs. Production of civilian goods was reduced to the barest necessities.

Now the war is over. We turn again to supplying civilian needs. But today these needs, unfilled for four long years, are at the highest peak of all time. Our government's tax requirements are no longer the staggering needs of war, but they are still the enormous needs of war's aftermath—many times greater than before the war. There is also immediate, urgent need for all kinds of goods to aid the recovery and rehabilitation of a war-torn world.

The simple fact is that we have a big job ahead of us. We can't get it done on the pre-war basis of work.

We must produce far more now than ever before!

Recognizing these problems, we have made the following proposal:

October 27, 1945.

International Union, UAW-CIO.
411 West Milwaukee Avenue,
Detroit 2, Michigan.

Gentlemen:
General Motors proposes that the UAW-CIO join with it in petitioning the congress to change the wages and hours to act to make the standard work week 45 hours in place of 40 hours during the postwar reconstruction period. This proposal is made recognizing that the country has a big load to carry in cleaning up the aftermath of the war. And that under these conditions we can all have more only if we produce more.

The reason for this proposal to change the law is that the present law putting the penalty of overtime pay of 50% on the extra hours over 40 discourages employers and business generally from planning such extra hours of production, thereby tending to reduce the country to a 40-hour week when the country and the world are demanding more production at lower prices.

With this change in the work week, we propose that all wage rates be increased approximately 6%, so that men working 45 hours at the new straight-time rates will make as much money as they do now for 45 hours of work. This proposal would increase the earnings of those working less than 45 hours and would also increase the extra compensation for any hours worked over 45, since such hours would be paid for at time-and-a-half based on the new rates.

Your first impression of this proposal probably will be that it is a reactionary idea, and not in the interest of labor. It is not reactionary any more than working longer hours in the war emergency was. We are sure that it is in the best interests of all the people of our country, and particularly in the best interests of all workmen.

If the 40-hour week was sound pre-war and the 48-hour week during the war, the 45-hour week is sound for the immediate period following such a world catastrophe as we have been through. All Americans are expecting an even higher standard of living postwar than we had pre-war. This can be accomplished at this time only by producing more, as we now must carry the huge additional tax burden and other expenses growing out of the war. The simple fact is that we have a big job ahead of us. We cannot get it done on the pre-war basis of work. We must produce far more than we did in the past.

The workmen of other nations will work far more than 45 hours. In many cases they will have only a bare subsistence living while they are doing it, because of the lack of good tools and machinery like those supplied by employers in our country.

This proposal has much to recommend it.

1. It avoids a substantial reduction in weekly earnings.
2. It prevents inflation and preserves the purchasing power of war bonds, insurance, social security and other savings.
3. It does not upset the balance between agricultural workers, salaried workers and industrial workers.
4. It will produce more goods and services, and the people of our country will have more.
5. It will create more good jobs and the employment of more people. Just as many men and women will be employed in our plants on a 45-hour week as on a 40-hour week. And it will allow the use of our plants for the extra five hours when they would otherwise be idle.
6. It will stimulate business activity and create more jobs, and result in the employment of many more people in all related businesses.
7. If our plants could be scheduled to work on this basis, we would produce nine cars where we otherwise have produced only eight. It will mean that one man out of nine will have a car who would otherwise go without.

We believe that a 45-hour week is necessary and desirable during the period of post-war reconstruction, for the following reasons:

1. During this period our country will be shipping food, materials and machinery to other countries all over the world to help them rehabilitate themselves and avoid starvation.
2. We still have the extra expense of bringing our fighting men back home and fitting them into civilian work.
3. We still have high taxes, which necessarily are a charge against industry and all producers.
4. To develop and apply technological improvements and to reorganize industry takes time—years, not months.

It is hoped that at the end of this postwar reconstruction period:

1. Our relations with other countries will be on the basis of a two-way street, where we shall get back goods and services for those we supply.
2. The fighting men will be back at peacetime work, and the aftermath of the war will be over.
3. Government expense and the number of government employees will be reduced and not be such an excessive burden on all producers.
4. Technological improvements—the better ways of doing all the things that are necessary to deliver products to customers—will have become effective.

We can then have a 40-hour week with more leisure time and more goods and services, and can continue to improve the standards of living of all Americans.

Yours very truly,
C. E. WILSON,
President.

WHY WE BELIEVE EVERYONE SHOULD FAVOR THIS PROPOSAL

- It would help America to produce more and have more—
- It would provide for higher wages without the certain necessity of higher prices—
- It would help to strengthen buying power, sustain the tax requirements and maintain the value of war bonds, savings and insurance—
- It would be good for the working man, good for the employer, good for the farmer, good for the professional man, good for the housewife—
- Good for America.

County Nears Drive Quota

Reaching a total of $40,937 yesterday the combined War Relief Fund-Community Chest fund and the Johnson County War Relief Fund neared their goal of $45,950.

D. C. Nolan, general chairman, urged the solicitors that every effort be made to finish the job within the next few days. "If this is done," he said, "Johnson county will be placed in the position of being one of the first Iowa counties of larger population in the 'over the top bracket.'"

Many reports by the solicitors have not been turned over to the headquarters of the fund drive. No one major section of the campaign has finished its work and only a few divisions have not turned in their reports to finish their job.

It's a Dog's Life 'True Confessions Of a Dachshund'

"July 21, 1943—my nose first sniffed fresh air and, a potential 39 inches later, I made my first public appearance." So begins the first chapter of "True Confessions of a Dachshund," written especially for The Daily Iowan by Victoria Belle.

Now Victoria Belle is no ordinary dachshund. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. (Doc) Mighell belong to her. She eagerly returns their affection through the canine medium of a wet pink tongue and oscillating tail. "Doc" and Betty shell her peanuts, exterminate bothersome fleas, pick up paper she has torn to shreds (a favorite Victoria-Belle pastime), pedicure her gleaming black toenails, and shampoo her sleek auburn hair. "Human beings certainly are handy to have around . . ."

With sincere feminine delight, Victoria prides herself on her slender figure. She avoids sweets entirely and eats many bananas, raw carrots, and some grapefruit. Although it is not common knowledge, this literary light in the canine world may be in training for the Metropolitan Dogopera. The Belle, granddaughter of Madam Schumann-Heink's "White Boy," has a staccato voice some call soprano. (Sundry neighbors employ various synonyms.)

The clothing situation for dachshunds in Iowa City is not ideal. . . . which seems to be a gross understatement on Vicky's part. Her sweaters are imported from Milwaukee, but even Milwaukee can't keep up with the Belle's figure or current Iowa City fashion. The last sweater was only 16 inches long, which will never do in a college town where sweaters must come at least below the waist.

Predestined fittingly describes Victoria's future. No dark, swagging swain will win her heart. . . . no gambling pups will bark "Mama" at her approach. . . . there isn't even a dog show scheduled to break every-day routine.

Each night she curls up in an unused love seat to dream bark-provoking dreams. To the casual observer, she is just a dainty red dachshund, nestled among the cushions, fast asleep. Few stop to think, she's all alone.

All Available Tickets for Annual Homecoming Dance Sold

All of the 600 available tickets for the annual informal Homecoming dance Friday night from 9 to 12 m, featuring Jack Teagarden and his orchestra, have been sold, according to Union desk reports.

The backdrop for the dance in Iowa Union lounge which is under the sponsorship of the Union board, is being made by Joan and Joyce Womelsdorf, A2 of Freeport, Ill. It features an Iowa football player attired in black and gold punting a football over a goal post to a receiving player, dressed in Wisconsin colors.

Party Programs
Programs for the party have been designed by Dale Ballantyne, A3 of Lamoni. The design, against a gold background, features a group of football players huddled around the edge of the leather finished program.

During intermission, a tea will be given in the adjoining lounge rooms for faculty guests and committee members. Robert McDonald, E3 of Jefferson, is in charge of the tea.

Invitations to the dance for faculty members and guests is under the direction of Walter Peterson, C3 of Burlington, and LaVerne Grams, M3 of Iowa City. Guests will include Dean and Mrs. Earl McGrath, Prof. and Mrs. Louis Zopf, Prof. and Mrs. Joseph Howe and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Rahder.

Jack Teagarden and his orchestra features Sally Lang, songstress. Frank Horrington, drummer, will also be highlighted with the orchestra, which is rated as one of the nation's most popular dance organizations in the country.

Theme Song
"I've Got A Right To Sing The Blues" is Teagarden's theme song. Famous for his blues singing when he played trombone for Paul Whiteman, "Mister T," as he is often tagged, has included almost every one of the great blues tunes in the orchestra's repertoire.

Contrary to popular opinion, blues are still being written today. Equally fallacious, according to Teagarden, is the theory that all blues are sorrowful songs "Lots of folks think that blues are sad, and of course some of them are, but there are also happy blues, and there are fast blues. The number one blues of all time, as far as I'm concerned is both fast and happy, "Wolverine Blues", the maestro explains. Jack Teagarden plays all the blues, but he plays more than that. He plays sweet tunes—often in the blues idiom! Even though the more sentimental tunes are closest to Jack's heart, he sprinkles in a variety of jump tunes too.

Committee members in charge of the dance include Bette Jo Phelan, A3 of Mason City; Mary-

Patience, Please! You Still Can't Have A New House

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—You won't get a new home as soon as you hoped, and the town industry will have to wait at least a month to expand.

Because, out here in the deep woods which produce shingles, siding, and a hundred other lumber items for which reconversion is waiting, lumbermen and one of the two powerful unions ran into loggerheads over a revolutionary proposal.

The proposal, long a dream of union men, is a uniform minimum wage for every woodsman, sawmill hand and box factory gal in the lumber-rich northwest.

Wages in the industry vary by geography and by job. Minimum in coastal Douglas fir is 90 cents an hour; in southern Idaho pine, 82%. Within the same town a common laborer in a sawmill may get 90 cents, in a late-unionized box factory, 80.

Hourly pay in western lumber—according to the United States bureau of labor statistics—ranged from a low of 45 cents to a high of $2, with two-thirds of the workers receiving between 90 cents and $1.20.

September 24 the AFL lumber and sawmill workers northwestern council, which claims 61,000 members in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and northern California, struck in demand of an industry-wide wage settlement.

"Industry-wide" doesn't sound like much. But its results have halted nearly half the northwest's lumber production—and the northwest produces more than a third of the nation's annual cut.

The AFL asked a $1.10 hourly minimum for common labor; corresponding costs—generally about 20 cents—for skilled workmen. But nobody even got around to talking money. Arbitration blew up on the industry-wide question.

The AFL is not now demanding, though operators say it did at first, industry-wide negotiations. Within the first month of the strike it allowed 36 mills which met the $1.10 minimum to reopen, and asked for offers from any other comers.

But they still don't get together. Meanwhile, home-hungry America is losing enough lumber to build perhaps 2,000 houses a day.

Victims of Crash Out of Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Al J. Murphy, South Riverside drive, were released from Mercy hospital Sunday where they were taken after their car crashed into the railing on the north side of the Burlington street bridge over the Iowa river Saturday night. Murphy reported to police yesterday that he suffered a slight concussion and cuts and bruises, and that his wife was not injured.

A tire blew out on their car, according to Murphy, causing it to swerve into the heavy concrete railing. A 14 foot section of the railing was torn loose and fell into the river. The front end of the car was badly damaged and the steering wheel bent by the impact of the driver against it at the time of the crash.

The section of the railing pushed out by the crash is estimated to weigh about 1,600 pounds.

John Bowman Fined For Hit-Run Driving

John Bowman of Tiffin was fined $27.50 for hit-and-run driving by Police Judge John Knox yesterday.

Lumir Felter of Cedar Rapids and Allen W. Schmidt of Davenport paid fines of $20 and $16.50, both for speeding.

E. M. Myers of Gulfport, Miss., was fined $1 for blocking a driveway.

To Ring at 1945 Homecoming—Bell To Toll Scores

Iowa's century-old bell will ring again for the first time in 40 years at Saturday's Homecoming football game with Wisconsin. The bell will ring once for every point the Hawkeyes score. If Iowa is victorious, the bell will toll out the total number of points when the game is over.

Thereafter, the bell will ring for every point scored in any Iowa athletic event. Members of the Student Council, who developed the idea of using the bell, hope that it eventually may become an Iowa tradition.

A new yell, "Ring that bell," instead of the familiar "Let's go south," will be worked out by the cheerleading squad. The bell, which will be mounted on a plat-

Ronald Lippard, 14, of near Sigourney, was struck in the left shoulder Sunday when a shotgun which was believed to be unloaded discharged accidentally in the front seat of an automobile. The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lippard, was brought to University hospital immediately after the accident which occurred near Sumner.

The boy said that another man whom he did not know received a part of the blast of shot in the chest. When the shotgun went off, the charge ripped through the seat of the automobile and pierced the two jackets and a sweater that the boy was wearing. About 30 shot were imbedded in his arm and shoulder.

The youth believed that he would have lost his arm if it had not been for the springs and steel in the front seat which splattered the charge before it hit him.

GASSIN' with GUS

By GUS SCHRADER

I GUESS YOU won't be surprised if this column is about Iowa football after the way the Hawks lost their fourth straight by a colossal margin . . . That 56-0 defeat by the Irish did more than snap the 25-year-old tradition that Notre Dame-cain't-whup-Iowa . . . It was the worst butchery in 29 years—ever since Minnesota drew and quartered the Hawks, 67-0, back in 1916 . . . Everybody is together now in agreeing that something should be done about it . . . Do you mind if I come up with a prescription? . . . It's one that isn't going to help the Hawks this year, but at least it may help us from taking the same medicine next season . . . What we don't want is what was suggested to us today in two letters received from readers . . . Here's what one disheartened fan suggested:

Sports Editor
Daily Iowan
Iowa City, Iowa
Oct. 27, 1945

Dear Sir:
After listening to three Iowa university football games I have come to the unhappy conclusion that the boys down there should follow the Chicago Maroons and abandon football. It is positively the sloppiest football playing I've heard in years. One is even ashamed to admit he is from Iowa.

Sincerely,
/s/ Arthur George Emerson
Minister,
First Baptist Church
Waterloo, South Dakota

Well, what do you think of that? . . . And the other goes even farther in saying "a school that doesn't care any more about winning football games than Iowa shouldn't participate in any conference athletics. Even intramural games seem a little high class for the Hawks . . ."

IT DOESN'T TAKE a show of hands to prove that abandoning football is just about the last thing anybody wants around here . . . But the choice is getting down so it's either that or keep on losing face every time the Old Gold files atop some stadium on Saturday afternoon—UNLESS WE DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT. . . . And I'm happy to tell you that something is being done about it . . . Before we tee off on any one we did a little investigating . . . You see, the handwriting is being pretty plain all along . . . In a column six weeks ago I said "don't expect Iowa to win many games this year—the schedule is too tough."

Then, after watching Ohio State and Purdue kick the devil out of us, we knew that it wouldn't be a question of winning again this season, but merely a question of establishing par on the Iowa course each week . . . Right now the par for other Big Ten teams to shoot at is 47½ points per game . . . Who gets the blame? . . . The players? . . . Well, I'll admit that "Iowa Fights" was a little piece Saturday when the first half ended, 41-0 . . . Maybe you'd slow up too under the circumstances, especially if it were the fourth Saturday in a row . . . The Hawks had plenty of fight up to that point in the season; they were very simply outclassed by terrific players from a school that's known nothing but sweet victory in almost every year since somebody invented the game.

THE COACHES? . . . You must have heard the report that Iowa was told at halftime just what three plays the Irish would use the rest of the game, that they would kick on third down and play the fourth and fifth stringers all the time . . . Is it the coaches' fault that they work hard all week and teach the boys the best football they know and then go into the stadium Saturdays and see Iowa look like a fair freshman team against powerful opposition? . . . I don't think so . . . I've got lots of admiration for the ability of all three of Iowa's coaches.

THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT at Iowa? . . . Well, now we're getting somewhere . . . But don't think we're going to pin the blame on "Dad" Schroeder and the athletic board . . . It just can't be put there . . . Okay, so some of you are these wise guys who say "to heck with the rules; let's pay big money and get the best players to come to Iowa" . . . That's not smart . . . We could hire a pro team and play the Bears, too, but you've got better sense than that . . . We're going to revive winning football at Iowa and still remain within the rules of the game—or at least as much to the letter as any of our Big Ten rivals . . . Right now I happen to know that the Iowa athletic department is working on a program that will pay off in football victories next fall . . . And it won't get us kicked out of the Big Ten again because there's absolutely nothing below board about it at all.

I GUESS EVERYONE knows that Eddie Anderson will coach Iowa football next fall . . . I don't know if he's a better coach than Clem Crowe and I doubt if anyone has a yardstick that measures such ability . . . But I do know that when Eddie resumes coaching here at spring practice, he'll have better prospects for material than Crowe had this fall . . . "Dad" Schroeder told me this himself . . . "I'm just as sick and tired of losing football games as you or anyone else at Iowa," he said . . . "We can't do anything about it this year because the war has hurt us too much in comparison to other Big Ten schools . . . But I can guarantee that we will win football games at Iowa next fall."

THAT IOWA should give up football at this stage of the game is ridiculous . . . Why should we abandon football now when we've retained it two years ago when the prospects for the future were really bleak? . . . Look at Stanford on the west coast—or at Iowa Teachers it will take them three or four years to get back on their feet . . . If you think the Iowa athletic board didn't know there'd be Saturday afternoons like the one at South Bend, guess again . . . They deserve praise for not taking the easy way out and tossing in the sponge.

TO GIVE UP football would be to abandon all our athletics here because the gridiron sport provides the major support for all the other teams . . . No, we're not going to drop football—not while a lot of us have a dyne of energy left to fight it . . . A successful football team is the fountainhead of all school pride and the thing the entire state looks to as an index to the worth of a state institution . . . And by gosh, we're going to have a winning team—next year . . . 1945 will go down in history as the last year of the football depression at Iowa . . . Here's the key: we've got to get our alumni association, our "I" club, our quarterback clubs and any other group that has a resemblance of organization into line for the campaign that is already underway . . .

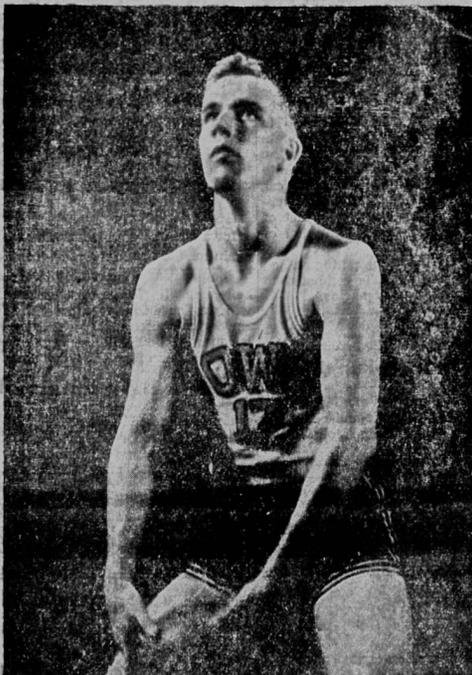

ILL BE AWFULLY ASHAMED when and if I become an alumnus of this university if I do as little as most Iowa alumnus have done to induce outstanding football players to come here . . . We've got several quarterback clubs in the state, but year after year they stand by and watch well organized alumni groups from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State and Minnesota steal the best material RIGHT OUT OF THEIR HOME TOWN HIGH SCHOOLS . . . This is both inside the state and in the bigger cities outside . . . We've got a few really great alumni who work their heads off and the rest don't give enough of a country darn to talk their own nephews into coming here . . . But yet these same alums who watch the neighbor kids run off to Bierman, Devore, Crisler, or Isbell are the ones to start the wolver's cry "Get a new coach—one who can win us games" . . . They should know that it takes good men—lots of 'em—to build good football teams.

EDDIE ANDERSON did it in 1939 with a handful of Iron Men, Nile Kinnick and lots of prayer . . . But usually it takes a 50- or 60-man squad to produce a well-conditioned, rough, tough, brainy, spirited football machine . . . Back in the Irl Tubbs era it used to be a standard joke for Iowa newspapers to yell early in the fall "This is Iowa's year," and then sweat blood before each disastrous season closed . . . But I'm going to get one better by yelling right now "1946 is Iowa's year" . . . But how the devil I'm going to keep finding something to yell about this year beats me.

Lind Named Cage Aid

POPSY'S NEW ASSISTANT

TOM LIND
As New Coach Looked in Iowa Uniform

Former Hawk Star Returns After 6 Years

By BOB FAWCETT

One of Iowa's former kings of the hardwood, Tom Lind, is back this year to help "Pops" Harrison mould a championship cage squad for the Old Gold. E. G. (Dad) Schroeder announced yesterday that Lind's capacity would be as "assistant in basketball."

A spectator at one of the practices might think Tom is out for the team, for it wasn't too long ago that he rallied many points for the Hawks. He's seen a lot of basketball here at Iowa, playing for three years from 1937 through 1940, and his smooth style of play at forward spot brought many a cheer from basketball fans. In 1940, Tom captained the Hawk cage squad and slipped the ball through the hoop for 136 points during the season.

But Tom, no doubt, now 27, feels that it's been quite a while since he donned the black and gold for a 40 minute hoop session. A few things have happened since those days at the "U."

After graduating in the spring of '41, the blonde cager was appointed to the coaching staff of Clear Lakes high school. After almost two years in coaching all types of athletics, Tom joined the

Army Veteran

In February of '42, the Burlington lad donned the army and said goodbye, for a time, to his love of coaching. It wasn't too long before those same hands that did wonders with a basketball were being trained to do technical work in the signal corps. After short stays at Camp Crowder and Fort Dix, Tom walked up the gangplank from the USA and down the gangplank into Scotland.

The love of the hardwood stayed with Tom, however, and he managed to retain his ability whenever he could acquire a basketball.

"T.L.", as he is often called, then was sent to England and from there to a long stay in Africa. He was transferred there into an air force headquarters and his assumption that he'd be there a long time was correct, for it was two years before he bid goodbye to the deserts and went to Italy, where, a short time later, he ended his overseas career.

Marries Former Student

Back to the states again and it was June, 1944. There was a girl back home that figured in the biography, too, so "T.L." didn't waste any time getting back to Burlington. He married Barbara Jean Schupp, a student here in '40, in July, 1944.

After serving as an athletic instructor at Miami Beach for a few months, Tom received his release and, along with it, the tidings of his appointment as assistant in basketball this year at his old alma mater. Excitement also ran high this March when Mrs. Lind gave birth to not one but two little Linds—Tommy and Timmy.

Commenting on the team's outlook for this year, "T.L." said, "They can go to Madison Square—if they want to."

That's the way Tom feels about the team this year and if you care to find out for yourself, go over to the fieldhouse any night and look for a blonde fellow in a sweat suit who's working just as hard as any of the players to help "Pops" produce another champ cage squad for the Big Ten.

Irish Prep for Navy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame began preparations for the "suicide" end of its football schedule with a light kicking and passing drill yesterday.

The Irish came out of last Saturday's romp over Iowa in good physical condition and likely will face Navy this week in that shape.

Gophers Still Lead Big Ten in Yardage; Iowa Tops in Passing

CHICAGO (AP)—Although Minnesota was spilled by Ohio State last weekend, the potent Gophers still reign as the statistical king-pins in the Western conference football race.

Official Big Ten figures released yesterday show Coach Bernie Bierman's rugged eleven has gained an average of 371 yards in two conference starts, while fleet Tommy Cates, Gopher halfback, moved in front as the individual ground-gaining leader with 7.5 yards per crack.

Cates has amassed 277 yards in 36 attempts, displacing Dick Conners of Northwestern as the league's top ball-carrier. In four games, Conners has carried the ball 50 times for 367 yards and a 7.2 average.

Minnesota's offensive aggregate includes an average of 256 yards by rushing—tops in that department—and 115 yards by passing, second to Iowa's 117-yard average.

Hapless Iowa has tossed an average of 24.3 passes per game, almost double the number thrown by any other team, but Purdue is far ahead in average of completions with 5.60.

Suffer Only Minor Injuries; Hard Week of Drills Lie Ahead

Iowa's battered grid squad, nursing minor injuries from their 56-0 shelling at the hands of Notre Dame's thoroughly competent Irish, were excused from practice yesterday before beginning a week of arduous drills in preparation for Saturday's homecoming game with Wisconsin.

With the possible exception of injuries in practice, the Hawks will be at full strength for the Badger battle. The Iowa squad will concentrate on fundamentals with running and passing drills sandwiched in this week.

The Hawks' last victory over Wisconsin came in the Old Gold Homecoming game of 1942, when a fighting band of Iowans knocked off a highly favored Badger eleven, 6-0. The Hawks dropped their contest to Wisconsin in 1943, 26-7.

Although Wisconsin has beaten only Marquette and tied Great Lakes and Illinois, this year, they have dropped two close contests to Purdue and Ohio State. The Boiler-makers, tipped over the Badgers 13-7 and the Buckeyes squeezed out a 12-0 victory over the Wisconsin eleven.

By the same token of comparison the Hawkeyes have been decisively beaten by Ohio State 42-0 and Purdue 40-0. In both these contests the Hawkeyes were a badly beaten ball club while the Badgers fared much better against the two Big Ten powerhouses.

Saturday's battle will be the 23rd meeting of Iowa and Wisconsin on the gridiron and will be the 34th homecoming for the Hawks.

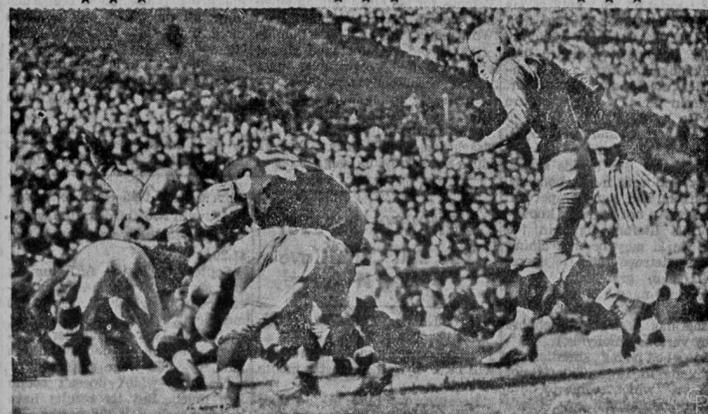

The Badgers hold the series edge, 15 games to 7.

Iowa's two leading ground gainers, Nelson Smith and Walter Thorpe, didn't get their feet wet in Saturday's tremendous pounding by Notre Dame. That's probably why they are still at the top of the Hawkeye statistics list this week after the mathematicians finished figuring the bad news.

Both sidelined with injuries, Smith and Thorpe hold rushing averages of 5.1 and five yards respectively while the rest of the Hawkeye ball toters slipped considerably against the rough Irish tacklers Saturday.

Ozzie Simons, left halfback, made the best performance of the Hawkeye ball toters against the Ramblers by returning three kickoffs for a total of 75 yards.

Iowa's usually effective passing attack didn't fare so well against the Irish as did any other Hawkeye offensive weapon. But their passing game still remains their most potent weapon. Niles has connected on 34 out of 96 trials for a total of 491 yards.

ALTHOUGH IT got to be a pretty monotonous Notre Dame habit before the afternoon was over, this Irish touchdown by Frankie Ruggiero drew thunderous applause from 52,800 fans gathered in the South Bend (Ind.) stadium last Saturday. After recovering Iowa's fumble on the 20, the Irish set up the play that sent Ruggiero blasting over from the seven.

Old Professor Hears Monday Morning Blues of Grid Coaches

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The old professor knocked over an ink well and in his haste to clean up the mess he spilled a glass of water and overturned a wastebasket. He was muttering in exasperation when he turned to address his Monday morning class of football coaches.

Old professor—upsets, upsets, nothing but upsets. All day Saturday, upsets. Now today starts with more. I'm all upset about it Mr. Welch, please explain how you happened to beat USC.

Ralph "Pest" Welch, Washington—frankly, professor, I didn't think we'd do it. I'm sure glad those Trojans are behind us. They're a great ball club, and I'm proud of our kids. They were great.

Jeff Cravath, USC.—Washington isn't the greatest team in the business and I'm sure Ralph knows it, but he's instilled great spirit into his youngsters and they really played ball against us. That right guard, Al Hemstad, is a whale of a lineman.

Old professor—not meaning he's just a big fish, I take it. Anyway, a whale is a mammal, I'm told. Mr. Bierman, I'm surprised.

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota—well, professor, Ohio State just had too much. They were steady, we were jittery. They had too much manpower, too, and were stronger than last year, with lots of backs. Amling and Daugherty looked awfully zood.

Carroll Widdees, Ohio State—My kids were great. In fact, just a shade better than a week ago against Purdue. Minnesota's Judd Ringer was a lulu, and Cates was good. Amling and Daugherty looked okay.

Old professor—Mr. McMillen, I understand your game with Tulsa was one of the toughest tackling and blocking exhibitions ever seen on your field.

Bo McMillen, Indiana—We found Tulsa a rugged football team, with nice tackling and blocking. We were fortunate to win, as any team is in a game that goes for five points. Our boys also did some nice tackling and stopped their great fullback cold.

U High Preps For Final Tilt

There's one big game—with Tipton Friday afternoon here—left before the University high Blue Hawks can call the football season a real success. Coach Don Barnhart, Tipton mentor last year who has moved to U high this season, is busy preparing his men for what will probably be the closest game of the season.

The Tipton team, which will be easily the heaviest yet met by the Rivermen, is strong on power plays and passes, but the exceptional speed and deception of the Blue Hawks is expected to give them the victory.

Well pleased with the decisive 38-7 triumph over the Rivermen's arch-enemy, West Branch, last Friday night, Barnhart expressed the feeling of the U high men ready for the big one with Tipton.

A long workout on signals and fundamentals yesterday was topped off with a long wind sprint to keep the men in top physical condition. Except for a few bruises and cuts, the U high footballers seem to be in good condition for the Tipton encounter.

This week's opponents, whose record thus far is not too impressive, will be hot this week in anticipation of the club tutored by their former coach. Tipton has lost contests to West Branch and West Liberty, both fairly easy victims of the Rivermen.

Eight Intramural Tilts Scheduled for Today

Slated for today are eight games in the intramural touch football league, with all teams in sections 1, 2 and 3 scheduled to see action. All squads have improved since last week's opening contests, and competition is expected to be at a peak.

In section 1, co-favorite Phi Epsilon Pi should have an easy time with twice defeated Alpha Tau Omega, despite injuries suffered by several members of the west side sextet. Powerful Sigma Nu, on the other hand, can expect a little more trouble from Sigma Chi, a vastly improved squad since its last Tuesday's narrow defeat by the Phi Eps. Sigma Phi Epsilon battles Delta Chi in the remaining game of section 1.

League leading Phi Gamma Delta is pitted against Theta Xi in one of the section 2 contests. Other contests include Beta Theta Pi versus a weak Delta Upsilon team, and the Phi Delta Theta-Pi Kappa Psi melee.

Small dormitory games include Gables versus Delta Tau Delta and West Lampert against twice defeated Byington.

Chandler Quits Senate Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler (D, Ky.) said goodbye to the senate yesterday to take on full time the job of baseball commissioner which club owners voted him last April 24.

But the moist-eyed Kentuckian told the colleagues with whom he has served since 1939 that he isn't foreclosing the possibility that he someday may be one of them again.

"At least for the present," he declared, "this is my last day in the senate." He hastened to add, however, that he thought no man of 47 ought to say that he never intends to return to public office.

As for baseball, Chandler hung up this slogan:
"My highest obligation to baseball is to keep it honest, clean and fair and that is what I propose to do."

Chandler told reporters later he was mailing his resignation yesterday to Gov. Simeon S. Willis of Kentucky. He declined to say what day it would become effective, but everyone expected the vacancy to become official Thursday.

Two Badger Fullbacks Return for Iowa Tilt

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin's prospects for a victory over Iowa Saturday when the grid teams meet at Iowa City looked up yesterday when Ben Bendrick and Dave Nettlesheim, first and second string fullbacks, reported for drills.

Bendrick was over the effects of a severe cold that required hospitalization and Nettlesheim said he had no more ill effects from a recent injury.

Just a reminder that this is President Truman night—he will outline wage and price policies of the administration in his speech that will air over a national hook-up at 9 p. m. for Iowans. The presidential speech will replace part of the broadcasts at that time.

Katherine Smith, G of Kansas City, Mo., formerly a WAVE and now a graduate student at the University of Iowa, will be interviewed at 12:45 p. m. over WSUI on its "GI's Come Marching Home" airing. Gen. Stlemmons McLaughlin will conduct the interview. Another highlight of WSUI's schedule today is the "Treasury Salute" program which will feature a dramatic history of the war, presenting hit tunes written during 1941-45 to date the important events with personal appearances by the Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson and National War Finance Director Ted R. Gamble. That's at 9:30 a. m.

Iowa City Council Considers Traffic Problems

Talks of New Stop Light On Burlington

Traffic problems were one of the chief matters to come before the city council last night. The possibility of a stop light at Clinton and Burlington streets, suggested by the Chamber of Commerce and Police Chief Ollie A. White, was discussed and a petition from the Iowa City high school Parent-Teachers association was heard.

The council voted to send a letter to the state highway commission asking that the stop light be installed at state and federal expense since two state and two federal highways are located on the streets.

The school group declared in its petition that the crowding of students on buses going to and away from the high school is a serious menace to the safety of the students.

The councilmen suggested that a committee of the council composed of Aldermen-at-Large M. Dean Jones and I. J. Barron and Alderman James M. Callahan, first ward, should meet with committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the school board and bus company officials to discuss the matter.

Over the strong protest of Mayor Wilber J. Teeters, the council voted unanimously to grant a class B beer permit to Everett Hull at 840 S. Dubuque street. The council and the mayor as a committee had investigated Hull's petition.

"I have no objection to Mr. Hull," the mayor declared, "but I have the very definite conviction that no permit should be issued to anyone for a beer tavern just across the street from the Benton street playground."

The city recreation commission, according to a letter from H. S. Ivie, chairman, has no objections to Hull's being granted a permit if he operates a clean, respectable place.

Mayor Teeters cited the great number of children using the playground as well as the large number of adults who come to see softball games in asserting that Hull's location was "no place for a beer tavern."

A further indication that the navy pre-flight school will be leaving Iowa City soon was given in a letter in which navy officials asked that their lease of the city armory be terminated Dec. 31.

Two enterprising students, L. R. Myser and Carl R. Gross, have set themselves up in business as the Campus Cab company. Last night the city council gave them permission to operate two cabs and maintain a cab stand in front of Kadera's poolroom on Clinton street.

Myser told the councilmen that their company would employ only part time student drivers and would appeal to student trade. He said that they would not charge rates of 25 cents a person.

POSTWAR PLANS—

Total	$4,212,655

In conclusion, the committee's report states:

"Thus, more than $4 million of public improvements have been provided for as men and materials become available in this locality. This backlog of planned construction represents approximately $120 per capita for Johnson county. Since no large private industries are in Iowa City, the emphasis has been placed on public works with all planning possible at the local level. A considerable amount of deferred residential building and business - property improvement has accumulated in the past five years. The Chamber of Commerce has reported the tentative results of an employment survey showing the need of 625 new employes for business firms in Iowa City. With anticipated increased student enrollment at the university, housing problems are of vital concern to the university and Iowa City."

A project in which the committee was concerned but which was not included in its report is the proposed 500-bed veterans hospital which has been authorized for in or near the city.

Brig. Gen. MacNider Returns From Tokyo After Serving 4 Years

DES MOINES (AP)—Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider of Mason City came home yesterday from another war. A first world war veteran, he has had four years of hard fighting from the south Pacific to Tokyo in this war.

"I don't know just what the future is," he said. "But I'm home on leave now. I have resigned and I expect it will go through while I'm here. I plan on taking up just where I left off in Mason City."

Everything is fine in Tokyo except the housing situation, he said, adding that the bombs didn't leave many rooms for rent.

BRAVE MEN DIE COURAGEOUSLY

BACK IN THE DAYS when the Nazis ruled Poland, men who opposed the Hitler regime died in front of a firing squad. This photograph, only recently uncovered, was made at that time. It shows three Polish patriots facing a firing squad as did other of their comrades sprawled in death in the gutter beside them. Partners in death, these three men face the terrible moment before bullets rip through their bodies, with different attitudes. The youth at left seems bewildered and frightened while the man in center braces himself for the death shot. At right, the third doomed man uses his last moments to jeer at his ruthless executioners. Photo made in Warsaw. (International)

Prof. Goldwin Smith Defines Conservatism At Humanities Meet

Prof. Goldwin Smith of the history department made an illustrative study of one word—conservatism—in a speech before the Humanities club last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

In contrast to revolutionists who are dissatisfied with the existing regime, conservatists stick to it although they or their forefathers may have been revolutionists to bring that regime to power, according to Professor Smith.

A conservatist often contradicts himself and his code of conduct because when a change is made, the speaker continued, he may be as radical as any who oppose him. This raises the question of what really is a conservatist.

"His conservatism may so overwhelm him, make him so reactionary that he becomes radical or

Prof. C. H. McCloy Advocates Emphasis On Physical Education

Greater emphasis on physical education in schools and communities was advocated by Prof. C. H. McCloy of the men's physical education department in a talk last night at City High school.

Professor McCloy stressed the importance of physical education in the school systems and expressed the hope that new physical education programs would be adopted to meet the needs of our changing environment.

It is his belief that schools should teach facilities that will exist after students are out of high school. He blamed poor physical conditions of many of the men in our armed forces on limitations of heredity, malnutrition, lack of exercise and lack of rest and relaxation.

For individuals to reach their maximum peak in physical development he stressed the importance of proper training in the years between pre-school and junior high school.

Professor McCloy pointed out that far too many people are not educated in spectacular sports and recommended that everyone be encouraged to keep physically fit regardless of age. He advocated more character building sports in our schools and developing games that men and women can play on an almost equal basis.

He hopes that the physical education departments of all of the schools will cooperate in advancing the program throughout the school system and in the homes.

Professor McCloy will make a similar address at Fairfield tonight. This meeting will culminate his itinerary of the state, sponsored by the state department of public instruction, in which he made addresses at Oelwein, Charles City, Humbolt, Spencer, Ida Grove, Red Oak, Des Moines and Chariton concerning the new physical education for Iowa.
