Task Force Code Found In Probe

Investigators Learn Japs Based Attack On Proceedings Here

WASHINGTON, (AP) — A coded message "climb Mt. Niitaka" radiocoded from Tokyo Dec. 5 (Hawaii time), 1941, gave a Japanese task force the signal to launch its sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, congressional investigators were told yesterday.

They also were informed that the Japanese were prepared to call off the attack if diplomatic negotiations in Washington had succeeded.

Inglis Reports
Rear Adm. T. B. Inglis related to the senate-house committee the story of Japanese planning as gleaned from captured documents, questioning of prisoners and, after occupation, the Tokyo archives and questioning of the imperial naval command.

He said information as to the "Mt. Niitaka" message had reached him from American headquarters in Tokyo only Friday night and had forced revision of an earlier conclusion that the Japanese irrevocably cast the die for war on Dec. 1, 1941.

The task force had left Hitokappu bay, in the Southern Kuriles, Nov. 25 Inglis said, under instructions which included this statement:

"Should it appear certain that Japanese-American negotiations will reach an amicable settlement prior to the commencement of hostile action, all the forces of the combined fleet are to be ordered to reassemble and return to their bases."

Message Too Late
As it was, the fateful "climb Mt. Niitaka" message was received when the task force of four carriers and escorts was between 800 and 1,000 miles from Hawaii.

The ships moved on to within 200 miles in the dawn hours of Dec. 7 loosed 361 planes to blast the Hawaiian naval base and the proud ships riding at anchor there.

Inglis related the Japanese story after an angry clash with Senator Brewster (R., Me.) who accused him of making an "unqualifiedly false" statement in Friday's testimony. It concerned the division of American naval strength between the Pacific and the Atlantic.

As the day's session closed, Representative Cooper (D., Tenn.), the vice-chairman, complimented Inglis and Col. Bernard Thielen, an army witness for three days, on the way they had "conducted" themselves. Barkley remarked there should be a testimonial session for them.

Admiral Nimitz Urges Congress to Scuttle Army, Navy Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five-Star Admiral Chester W. Nimitz urged congress yesterday to scuttle its proposal to merge the army and navy, on the ground it would endanger American command of the seas.

"A merger of the two departments means, at best, no more advantages than we have now," the Pacific fleet commander told the senate military affairs committee.

"At worst, it means that the navy, and the command of the seas so vital for our country, will suffer."

Rather than a merger, he endorsed Navy Secretary Forrestal's proposal for creation of a national security council composed of the secretaries of state, war and navy.

"As a means of getting the services together," he said, "this would seem to be more workable and in its way, more far-reaching—since the state department would be included—than an uncertain merging of the two existing military departments or the addition of a third."

"I have come to the conclusion," he said, "that the yardstick by which we should measure any proposal to merge the armed services is: How does it affect our seapower?"

'Beasts of Belsen' Kramer, Irma Grese To Be Hanged

Leaders, 9 of Staff Get Sentence, Others Will Be Imprisoned

LUENEBOURG, Germany (AP) — Josef Kramer and Irma Grese, the monarchs of Belsen, and nine of their staff were sentenced yesterday to be hanged for murders and atrocities at the Belsen and Oswiecim concentration camps.

Three women in all were ordered to the gallows. The trio heard the verdicts quietly, but later the blonde, pistol-toting Grese, 22, broke into sobs and another woman wept quietly.

Dr. Fritz Klein, SS doctor, also was among the 11 sentenced to death.

The high British military court—which Friday convicted 30 of the Nazi torture specialists on war crime charges—sentenced one man to life imprisonment, and five other men and 13 women to prison terms of from one to 15 years, totaling 179 years.

Last night defense counsel was preparing appeal petitions. The notices must be served within 48 hours. All the death sentences are expected to be appealed to Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery.

The court, which could have decreed death before firing squads, decided upon hanging in the traditional manner of dealing with felons.

The courtroom was packed with German civilians and British soldiers witnessing the climax of the nine-week-old trial.

The two other women sentenced to death were Elizabeth Volkenrath, 26-year-old former hair dresser who was chief of SS women, and Juana Borman, 42, a religious fanatic who gave up mission work to join the SS.

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) — The international war crimes tribunal ruled yesterday that the trials of erstwhile kinsmen Nazis would open as scheduled Tuesday without the addition of Alfred Krupp as defendant, but indications last night were that the Russians would request a postponement.

United States prosecutor Robert H. Jackson said he believed the Russians would ask for a delay on the grounds that their chief prosecutor, R. A. Rudenko, was ill in Moscow and would be unable to come here by Tuesday.

The tribunal's action in rejecting an American-French-Russian plea to indict Alfred Krupp as a major war criminal brought quick protests from the French and Russian deputy prosecutors. Jackson declined to comment.

The trial of Alfred's father, the ailing munitions king Gustav Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach, has been postponed indefinitely, and the three powers want a Krupp included in the mass trial of Nazis charged with war conspiracy. The British opposed the motion.

The court earlier yesterday announced that Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing deputy, would be tried in absentia.

The French prosecution staff made a written demand for a public hearing Monday by the court on the question of adding the younger Krupp to the list of defendants.

Matt Kimes Sought In Oklahoma Manhunt

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Matt Kimes, last of the bandit chiefs who terrorized the southwest a score of years ago, was sought tonight in this area's biggest manhunt since the days of Pretty Boy Floyd.

Kimes, the FBI charges, used a leave from the state penitentiary, where he was serving two life terms for slaying officers to engineer the $17,000 robbery of the First State bank of Morton, Tex., last Sept. 5.

As word went out Kimes was wanted, veteran peace officers, many with scores to settle with the fugitive.

All were cautioned by D. A. Bryce, head of the FBI here and nationally known quick-draw artist, to use care if they met up with the onetime leader of an outlaw gang specializing in double and triple bank robberies, told their guns and took up the hunt.

Touchdown Run That Brought Home Iowa's Bacon

51 YARDS for Iowa's third and decisive touchdown goes Nelson Smith (left) after taking a perfectly executed screen pass from Jerry Niles. After Niles had added the placekick that put the Hawks out in front, 20-19, only four and one half minutes remained for desperate Gophers passes and a field goal try that went wide. Included here in the pack that is

Victory Comes to Hawkeyes In Last Four Minutes of Play

Screen Pass Sends Nelson Smith 51 Yards To Goal for Winning Score in 4th Quarter

By GUS SCHRADER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's victory-starved Hawkeyes, long scourged to the famine of Big Ten football despair, glutteted themselves to the utmost yesterday afternoon on a mere one-point victory, their first in 18 conference starts.

But the fact that the 20-19 triumph came at the expense of Minnesota, Iowa's arch-rival of the gridiron, helped appease the long hunger and will provide a feast for many moons to come.

Victory, although it was in the air of Iowa stadium after a heartening Hawkeye drive in the second quarter, did not come until just four minutes before the final gun. Trailing, 13-19, the Hawks pulled a screen pass that sent Nelson Smith snaking 51 yards for the third score. Jerry Niles booted the extra point, but the 13,800 Dad's Day fans still weren't convinced.

They saw Minnesota's once Golden Gophers rebound savagely with a reckless passing and running vengeance that ended when Bob Kispert's attempted field goal went wide just 20 seconds before the end. Then the crowd surged out on the field, realizing at last that the long string of defeats had been broken.

Iowa had lost 14 straight Big Ten games. And not since October 1942, when they bashed Wisconsin, 6-0, had the Hawks won a league game. The 7-7 tie with Indiana in 1943 nearly interrupted the draught of victories.

Bernie Bierman's Gophers, their starting lineup revised drastically after the 49-0 loss to Indiana last week, almost made the folks think it was the same old story that had been told, to the Hawks by lopsided margins six other times this season. They lashed the home team for two touchdowns in the first quarter with drives that came close to approximating the Bierman machines of old.

Not seeming to lack the services of Red Williams, injured Gopher star, they used just seven plays from scrimmage to send Lawrence over from the 10-yard line only four and one half minutes after the 39th meeting of the two rivals got under way.

Not eight minutes later the Gophers did it again, this time with a 59-yard march that ended when a triple lateral shot Lawrence across again from the five. Kispert, who missed the first extra point try, clicked on this placekick and the Gophers led, 13-0. The lead stuck until the end of the first quarter.

Fullback Art Johnson sparked the drive that brought Iowa back into the ball game in the second quarter. The former army air forces captain started it in the first period with a 22-yard blast to the Minnesota 45.

Johnny Hunter, slender Wapello halfback sub for Oborn Simons, joined Johnson's running game by contributing several handy gallops at the appropriate time and Iowa eventually had the ball on Minnesota's 19. Then Johnson cracked tackle, burst into the open, and scored standing up after lopping the last 19 yards. Niles missed his first placekick in six attempts on the conversion try.

An intercepted Iowa pass started Minnesota on the road to their third and last touchdown drive. This time Vic Kulbitski, big Gopher fullback, scored from the three. But Kispert missed the all-important conversion attempt and the Gophers led, 19-6.

Encouraged by their first taste of scoring, Iowa rolled again after Smith carried the kickoff back to the 40. Johnson gained through the line but fumbled and Minnesota's Kulbitski fell on it on the Minnesota 27.

Fitch's punt took an odd bounce and Iowa started its second touchdown drive from the Gopher 26. With Niles sneaking through for short gains and then hitting Loehlein for a 10-yard gain, the Hawks placed the ball on the enemy nine. It was then that Niles flipped a quick one to Johnson in the flat and the big Iowa fullback roared over for his second score. Niles' kick was good this time and the half closed: Minnesota 19; Iowa 13.

The third period was a contest of punters and passers with neither team actually assembling a dangerous threat.

But the last quarter contained all the action the Hawkeye fans had been praying for. Minnesota gave up the ball on downs on Iowa's 40 and Iowa's chance came at last. Hunter swept around end for nine yards and Niles crossed up the defense with a screen pass that sent Smith 51 yards to victory.

He stood on the platform, soundly kissing Mrs. Doud, his mother-in-law, and Mrs. Gordon Moore of San Antonio, Tex., Mrs. Eisenhower's sister, as they and other members of the family pushed through a double line of military police to reach the car.

Nationalists Leaving Changchun

Chinese Fear Red Coup

Communists Ready To Control Capital When Soviets Leave

CHUNGKING (AP) — Chinese nationalists, fearing a Communist coup, were reported quitting Manchuria's capital of Changchun yesterday even as their own troops fought into the province for the first time.

A field dispatch said Nationalist troops—the Communists asserted four United States-equipped divisions were in the vanguard—were pressing beyond the great wall into southern Manchuria but still were 440 miles from Changchun.

Between them and the capital stood Communist forces stoutly dug in. The Chungking press carried reports and well-armed Communist bands had been near Changchun and appeared ready to take over as soon as the Russians withdrew.

Situation Tense
The situation also remained tense around Tientsin, where marines and Chinese Communists traded shots Friday after the latter fired on a train bearing Maj. Gen. Dewitt Peck, commander of the first marine division, north of Chinwangtao, the port east of Tientsin.

Peck, arriving in Tientsin, said he was fired upon Wednesday and Thursday and the bullets were "so close we had to duck." He said quiet prevailed in the trouble zone yesterday.

The World Daily News, a Chungking newspaper, declared the impasse in Manchuria threatened "our national existence" and would affect future relations between China and Russia.

The Chinese press said the crisis over Manchuria had occupied top military and civilian leaders at a conference here.

Quit Changchun
The press, commenting on the inability of the nationalists to land at Communist-held Manchurian ports, said the Nationalist officials had decided to quit Changchun and some already were in Peiping. Among the arrivals was reported to be Chiang Chung-Kuo, son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

American authorities have announced that they will not fly Chinese troops into Manchuria. Even if Russia granted Chungking permission to fly in troops, it has only a few planes available.

Indonesian Extremists Call for 'War to the Death' Against British

Communists Ready To Control Capital When Soviets Leave

BATAVIA, Java (AP) — The first conference of Dutch, Indonesian and British leaders ended late last night without a formula for peace in Java, and the official Dutch news agency Aneta declared Indonesian extremists had called for a war to the death against the British.

Aneta quoted the nationalist-controlled Jogjakarta radio as declaring: "This is the last night of peace. Tomorrow we shall start and either kill the British or drive them from Java."

Thousands of armed Indonesians were reported massed in Jogjakarta, central Java stronghold of youthful extremists.

Fighting continued in the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja, where the British were advancing slowly and cautiously against diminishing Indonesian resistance.

A communique issued just before midnight after the 3½-hour conference of natives, British and Dutch in Batavia said no decisions were reached because "the Indonesian leaders were not at present in a position to accept the responsibility of making definite replies to any of the questions discussed."

"Further meetings may be expected to take place in five days' time," the communique said.

Truck Strike Averted By Official Mediation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Union and company officials announced jointly yesterday that a work stoppage of 20,000 over-the-road truck drivers with headquarters in four states east of the Mississippi had been averted by "effective mediation" a half hour before a strike deadline.

The strike was called for 12:01 a. m. central standard time yesterday in a dispute over a new contract. However, an agreement was reached a half hour before the deadline by the AFL Central States Drivers council and the Central States area employers' association, ending six weeks of negotiations.

Glenn W. Stephens, Madison, Wis., counsel for the employers' group, said the strike would have affected 20,000 truck drivers and 1,000 trucking concerns in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

De Gaulle Raps French Reds

Communists Ready To Control Capital When Soviets Leave

PARIS (AP)—Gen. De Gaulle last night declared he resigned as interim president of France because the Communists had demanded one of three key cabinet posts, and that he had refused the demand because of France's interest in maintaining an "equilibrium" between the world's "two very great political powers."

Taking the dispute directly to the people in a radio broadcast, De Gaulle did not mention the two powers by name, but a spokesman in his office said he meant the United States and Russia.

De Gaulle said one of France's major parties—the Communists—had demanded "as a categorical condition" either the ministry of foreign affairs, war or interior in the cabinet he tried to form.

"I have not been able to accept this condition," he declared, calling these ministries "the diplomacy that expresses" France's foreign policy, "the army that supports it, and the police which enforces it."

To proceed, he said would be to endanger "the French policy of equilibrium between the two very great political powers, a policy which I believe absolutely necessary for the interest of the country and even for that of peace."

De Gaulle said in his letter of resignation, made public earlier, that the demands of one party for specific posts were "incompatible with the conditions of independence, cohesion and authority" essential for the government.

In his broadcast, he declared that he was leaving to the constituent assembly the decision whether he should keep trying to form a government, or turn the task over to someone else.

Reasonably Clear Weather Here Today

Last night visibility was about zero because of a fog that got lost around London and drifted away over here. But the sky over Iowa City today will be reasonably clear, that is except for some high clouds. There is no need to become alarmed because there is no rain or snow coming our way.

Although some persons who were in the stadium yesterday afternoon will doubt this, the mercury sank no lower than to 23 degrees and that was late last night. The high was only 50.

Bulgarians to Ballot Today Despite U. S. Objection to Election

Communists Ready To Control Capital When Soviets Leave

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Bulgarians will ballot today for a single slate of fatherland front candidates in their first national assembly elections since the war, despite a note from the United States government disapproving the elections and a new appeal from the opposition for postponement.

Ignoring the note which was based upon findings by Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher, and a letter in which opposition leaders warned of "heavy consequences" if the elections were held, the government issued an appeal for all supporters of the fatherland to come out and vote for its national assembly slate.

"All rumors or postponement of the elections are coming from suspicious sources," the government statement said. "The elections will be held and the will of the people will be expressed in a full way Nov. 18."

'Ike' Arrives in Iowa—Mrs. Eisenhower III

Communists Ready To Control Capital When Soviets Leave

BOONE (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wife of the general, was taken in an ambulance to Boone county hospital at 9 p. m. last night two hours after arriving here with her husband for a family reunion.

Dr. A. B. Deering, Boone physician, said "we fear she is coming down with pneumonia."

Later the doctor said "her present condition is not serious." He said an X-ray would be taken today.

The general's aide, Lt. Col. James Stack, said Mrs. Eisenhower contracted a cold on the train last night between Washington and Chicago and spent most of yesterday in bed. She dressed for the first time shortly before reaching Boone, he said.

General Eisenhower followed the ambulance to the hospital, where two nurses were caring for her.

Mrs. Eisenhower appeared pale and haggard as she left the private railroad car in which she and the general arrived here for a visit at the home of her uncle and

Editorials:

Happy Days Are Here Again—Whoopie!!

Today might be New Year's day. Except that it isn't the start of a new year. It's the start of a new era.

As of yesterday, Iowa's football returned to the heights where it belongs. We're back on the victory trial, and any detours are going to be short-lived.

Sure we defeated a weak opponent. Minnesota had lost three straight games. Everybody on the squad was reported mad at everybody else, and that didn't make things any better for the Gophers.

But Minnesota had respectable strength. The Gophers won their first four games handily—including a victory over Northwestern. And they still have a bunch of veterans who could make any team in the country.

No, we were better than they were yesterday, because the Hawkeyes were playing the kind of football that we knew was in them. We weren't better just because Minnesota had a weak team.

One more game—a game we should win—and then the 1945 football season is a thing of the past. Gone will be the days when we were just a pushover, a breather for other teams.

The year 1946 promises much, and the year 1947 even more.

It isn't just because we finally won a Big Ten game that we know the atmosphere in the stadium they used to call "Gloomy Gulch" will change. Sure a victory is going to mean much for our morale, and it is going to be encouragement for promising young athletes to start trekking back to Iowa again.

But actual work is being done. The people who can help build a football team of the kind we used to have are busy.

Yesterday was the start of what we have every confidence will be a great campaign to sell Iowa to high school students. That's the way we are going to regain our strength.

The "I" Men's association, for instance, already is channelling its renewed enthusiasm along definite routes. Other organizations and individuals are doing the same thing.

The Reconversion Issue

(Chicago Sun) Basically, it is no longer correct to speak of the wage issue as if the country's delay in reconversion depended primarily on a dispute between unions and managements over pay increases. The real dispute is about prices.

Benjamin Fairless of United States Steel has refused to meet with the steelworkers union for further collective bargaining "until" the OPA authorizes steel price increases.

A terrific propaganda campaign is being waged by the automobile dealers against the OPA and house small business committee—a campaign so skillfully organized that OPA Director Bowles, who used to be a highly successful advertising man, paid it a wry tribute: "Truly it can be said that the dealers did not fire until they saw the whites of our eyes, but they fired with perfect coordination."

The argument of the steel industry is that many of its prices are below prewar levels, despite increased production costs, and that many steel products now are sold at a loss. The automobile dealers are revolting against the OPA plan to grant slight increases in prices to manufacturers and require dealers to "absorb" most of the differential.

Mr. Bowles presented facts to the house small business committee which undercut the dealers' demand for higher prices. He showed that at 1942 price levels the dealers could anticipate the "most profitable year in their history."

The significant thing is that industry generally is now not objecting to the principle of wage increases. The loss of weekly earnings suffered by workers cannot be denied, and adjustments apparently are recognized as necessary. The issue, therefore, is prices—not wages.

How firmly the government holds the line will determine whether we come through the postwar period with a stable economy. Mr. Bowles rose to the level of statesmanship when he pointed out that the interest of the automobile dealers themselves in a healthy national economy was greater than "a few extra dollars of inflated profit in 1946."

Shades of Football Days

(Washington Star) The driver who, after a prolonged attempt to cut in ahead on a narrow crowded street, finally relaxes and is content to keep his place, accomplishes three things. He eliminates danger; makes his road companions more cheerful and, by lowering his own blood pressure, may add several days to his own span of life.

Iowa's morale, which has been partially synthetic, now is real. We know we can win, because we did it yesterday.

And we won't have to point any more to the 1939 team. Next year we'll brag about the 1946 team.

Are we being overly optimistic? Perhaps. But then how else can we feel? We've got to be optimistic if the job is to be done and done right.

And there is reason for optimism. The individuals and organizations who build the foundations for football teams are at work. Everywhere this is renewed action.

Part of the credit—we believe most of it—for the 1946 team we are going to have must go to the student body. The student spirit this year convinced everyone who came in contact with it that when we were losing was not the time to quit. The students didn't.

And credit for leading and directing that spirit goes unstintingly to the Student Council. Even those who lack confidence in the Council can only praise it for the work it has done.

The student body's spirit has been so great and the efforts of Gordon Christensen, Mary Osborne, Everett Phillips, Dick Baxter and the rest of the Student Council so fruitful that only this week a memorandum was placed on the desk of "Tag" Wilson, commissioner of the Big Ten, calling them to his attention.

A representative of Wilson's office told him that even with football at its lowest ebb here, student support of the team has been remarkable. He said it was, in a large measure, due to the Council's activities.

That's why we are optimistic. There is evidence everywhere that the support we need is rallying.

Iowa's old fight was back on the football field yesterday. The "I" men are acting. Alumni are moving ahead rapidly. That's our evidence of a better era.

And look out, 'cause here we come!

Covering The Capital

By JAMES J. STREIB (Substituting for Jack Stinnett)

WASHINGTON—It took a war to get the federal government started toward coordination of aviation policy. And then it trod softly and in secret, inching one toe ahead of the other until at last the word was given out—an air coordinating committee (ACC) had been in existence since March 27.

Official disclosure of this long delayed move to bring together the numerous agencies which deal with aviation created an almost imperceptible stir, although there has been much discussion in recent years of the need for it. Several things may have contributed to the calm with which the announcement was accepted:

- 1. The organization is without any power beyond the right to offer recommendations.
2. Its membership includes but five government agencies.
3. Its structure is built on nothing more than the exchange of a memorandum.
4. Its existence was no more of a secret than most activities of its kind.

However, from a long range point of view, the ACC may be an important milestone in the nation's air history. First of all, it is a beginning, and if ACC works out it may develop a full scale body. Just now its substance adds up to that memorandum, a secretary and two stenographers.

The state, war, navy and commerce departments and the civil aeronautics board (CAB) are members of the ACC. The CAB got on the committee at its own suggestion six weeks after the four departments had set up the group for themselves.

Practically every government agency has something to do with aviation, but the five members of the ACC represent the great bulk of interest.

Congress has not been any more active in giving flying special treatment than has the executive branch. Neither the senate nor the house has an aviation committee. A move to establish one in the house a couple of years ago ran into heavy opposition from the air transport industry.

Uncovering the ACC came at a time when there is definite interest in the establishment of something like the Morrow board. That board was appointed by President Coolidge to make an independent study of the nation's air requirements for defense and led to the 1926 air corps and air commerce acts.

Among the seven projects being carried on by subcommittees are studies of foreign air rights needed by United States flag airlines, government policy in dealing with the provisional international civil aviation organization (PICA) and postwar policy respecting air telecommunications.

Ex-German soldiers, we read, are forming football clubs. It must seem strange to them to be kicking a pigskin—and not their neighbors—around.

If the police department adopts use of those autogyro-balanced airplanes, the man at the next desk wonders if they won't become known as "helicopters."

New York Engineer Suggests— Lowering Skyscrapers

NEW YORK — A New York engineer says he's figured out how to save Gotham's towering skyscrapers if, in some future war, atomic bombs began falling on this city.

Just dig a hole under them, install giant elevators and, he suggests when an atomic attack occurs, lower the buildings beneath the ground.

It sounds revolutionary, to say the least, but here's the way Morris Berman, a former engineer with the New York board of transportation demonstrated his plan, using the 102-story Empire State Building as a model.

The replica of the world's tallest structure was lowered to the level of the 86th floor, leaving the remaining floors—commonly termed the tower—"unprotected" to avoid, Berman stated, the expense of added cellar depth.

The Empire State, the engineer explained, could descend in exactly 58 seconds, dropping at the rate of 1,000 feet a minute.

Unfortunately, it would take a little longer to get it back up again. In fact, Berman explained, it would require five 2,250 horsepower engines almost 22 hours to lift the mammoth building to its normal height.

This seems somewhat like hoisting an elephant over a transom, but, according to Berman, the structure would move easily up and down on columns consisting of tubular screws telescoping into each other, with each tube braced horizontally.

Berman estimated the excavation work, columns and necessary machinery under the Empire State would cost around $15,000,000, or one-half the value of the building itself. He says, however, that only one-third the cost of most other buildings would be a good average figure for construction of atomic raid shelter elevators.

"It isn't necessary for our future civilization to revert to the cave-dweller age out of fear of extinction by atomic energy," Berman said, "but for the sake of preserving our national existence, if not preserving life on this planet itself, we should act at once."

He said he had applied for a patent on his idea. Berman is the inventor of the stressometer, an instrument which measures stresses in models of structures.

For Relaxation—
Truman Pianist

WASHINGTON — Wherever you see President Truman, there's usually a piano near.

He doesn't consider his playing very good, but others disagree. At the White House, on the Presidential yacht Potomac or at his home in Independence, Mo., Truman likes to sit down for an hour for a rendezvous with the classics or the hymn book.

He plays, he says, for his own relaxation and to help him think over perplexing problems.

He hesitates to play for others, because—he says—he is "a very poor" player.

His favorite selection is Chopin's A-Flat Opus 42, a number seldom the choice of inept players. Sen. Tydings (D., Md.), who likes to tickle the ivories himself, contends that the President plays "very swell piano."

"If I could play like the President," Tydings says, "I'd consider myself a very good player indeed."

The President won the applause of Generalissimo Stalin and former Prime Minister Churchill when he played for them at Potsdam during one of the dinners in connection with the last Big Three meeting.

When he's alone he will play to himself for as long as an hour. For hymns he prefers the evangelical type to the more solemn.

Man and boy, Harry Truman has been playing the piano since the age of 10. He took lessons for five years from Mrs. E. C. White, wife of the high school principal at Independence.

In those days he used to play often in piano recitals, but as he grew older he preferred to play for his own relaxation and pleasure.

But reporters aboard the cruiser Augusta on the trip to and from the Big Three meeting enjoyed the brief occasions when he ran through a number for them.

Vets Group Tells Weaknesses

Holds Out Optimism For UVA's Future

The steering committee of the university veterans association yesterday called attention to the weaknesses of the organization, urged that they be eliminated and held out optimism for the future of U. V. A.

The weaknesses, as listed in a committee report, are inadequate publicity, small group domination, lack of interest and vagueness about the group's goal.

"We make an earnest appeal to all veterans to attend the rally Tuesday, Nov. 27, in room 221A, Schaeffer hall," the reporter stated. "We are making a concentrated effort to solve these problems, and our efforts will reach a climax at this meeting when we learn whether the possibilities of this group will ever be able to materialize."

At a meeting of the university veterans Oct. 23, it was decided that an election of permanent officers would be postponed until the purposes of the organization could be publicized to arouse interest among the students.

A steering committee composed of Learning, Ed Hicklin, A3 of Des Moines, was elected to discharge the routine duties and to supervise the details of an adequate election within a month.

"The veterans' association was founded by a nucleus of 20 people and now it has expanded to a terrific potentiality," the report said. "The members could not visualize at the outset the future and possibilities of the organization."

"We realize the conflicting views of veterans on the campus," the report stated. "In order to provide a background for new veterans, we have listed the problems which the group has faced and which we hope to overcome:

1. Inadequate general membership and a lack of members possessing the incentive and vision to hold office.
2. A possible domination by small groups of varying interests.
3. The system of acquiring operating funds.
4. Housing.
5. Clarification of the organization's goal.
6. Absence of members for meetings due to inadequate publicity, conflicting views and the recent influx of unoriented persons.

The report from the committee admitted that the issue is vital and final. It stated, "We deem that if an organization is to thrive and ascend to its potentialities, now is the time.

"We must satisfy a need. The organization could constitute a strong force to solve problems. The housing shortage is one of these problems.

Functions
Various functions were suggested for the organization in the report.

1. To be a service to the university by serving as a pool of talent, a motivating influence, and an aid to determination of policy, participating in and arranging programs.

2. To be of service to the veterans by way of orientation, housing and friendship.

3. Socially the association could provide a veterans' wives club.

James Allen O'Brien, nephew of Dr. and Mrs. Erling Thoen, 1028 Kirkwood avenue, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. E. A. Fitzgerald read the vows of the single ring ceremony before an altar decorated with roses and lighted tapers.

Proceeding the service, Mrs. Karl Rhomberg sang "Ave Maria" (Gounod) and "Agnus Dei" (Rizet). She was accompanied by Leona Helm, who presented nuptial organ selections.

Mrs. Frank D. Gilloon Jr. of Dubuque attended her sister as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Jacqueline Fitzgerald and Marjorie Trenkle, both of Dubuque; Marie Louise Loupart of Larchmont, N. Wears Ivory Satin
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of ivory satin brocade, designed with a high neckline, bridal point sleeves and a full skirt which extended into a train. She wore a short veil of mantilla lace and carried a brocade-covered prayer book. A briarcliff pink rose formed her bouquet.

The matron of honor wore a floor-length gown of deep wine taffeta, fashioned with a high neckline edged with a Chinese style round collar and elbow-length sleeves. Her short veil was of wine taffeta muffed centered with a white carnation.

Identical Gowns
The bridesmaids were attired in floor-length identical gowns of cerise crepe. They wore cerise velvet bows in their hair and carried cerise crepe muffs and white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fitzgerald selected a grey and brown silk crepe ensemble accented with brown accessories. Mrs. Thoen wore a black silk crepe dress complemented with a black feather hat. Each mother wore a corsage of baby chrysanthemums.

From 3 to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. A wedding cake surrounded with roses and smilax centered the T-shaped table with its mirror background. Guests from Iowa City at the wedding included Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Volland, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Whinery, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mercer, Ann Mercer, Mrs. Clair Hamilton and Dr. and Mrs. George Scanlon.

With Iowa Mountaineers—

University Student Enjoys Outing

By ANNETTE AVERY
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

(Miss Avery, A3 of Chicago, accompanied the Iowa Mountaineers on their outing to Devil's Lake, Wis., last weekend.)

For this city gal, whose knowledge of climbing is limited to department store stairs, a weekend with the Iowa Mountaineers is an exciting but thoroughly exhausting experience.

When time has erased these skinned knees and aching bones I carry with me as reminders, I think my most lasting impression will be of the complete sense of comradeship flavoring the entire outing.

We, 23 members of the Mountaineers and myself, left Friday night.

We reached Devil's Lake state park at 2:45 a. m. Saturday. A roaring fire was built in the fireplace at the park hostel, and within fifteen minutes we had all crept shivering into our sleeping bags.

Flips Flapjacks
Saturday morning breakfast was cooked over an open fire, and Prof. Luther Nolf of the zoology department took over the task of flapjack flipping. It was so cold the syrup hardened before we had time to eat it.

After breakfast the Chicago Mountaineering club joined our group, and we all hiked around the lake to the bluffs where we practiced climbing. Climbers were divided into small groups with an experienced climber as leader, and each choosing a certain section.

Leader of our group was Paul Stettner, Munich born and raised, whose boyhood in the Alps had given him a wonderful background for mountain climbing.

My first lesson was how to "tie myself in", using a bowlin knot. I watched Stettner and two members scale a 25 foot granite peak with apparent ease. Beginning to feel my self-assurance returning, I suddenly found myself standing dumbly and numbly at the bottom, looking up. A sudden tug on my belay rope, however, started me climbing.

About five feet off the ground, my progress was stopped by a particularly hard maneuver. After I had been clinging gingerly to the face of the rock with my bare hand for about five minutes, Stettner took pity on my inexperience and let me climb thankfully down.

An easier route was discovered, however, and soon I found myself at the top of the formation, immensely proud of myself.

The rest of the day was spent similarly, scrambling over the peaks and pinnacles, scaling the cliffs. Now and then we would meet another group and join them briefly, then go on. It was not until it was getting very dark that the last of the groups came straggling, cold and tired, back to the welcoming fire of the hostel.

Sings 'One Fish-ball'
That night the various talent in the assembly appeared. The Stettner brothers, Paul and Joe, sang several German duets. Another member of the Chicago group, Harold Walton, a native of England, sang an old Welsh hiking song "One Fish-ball", which is suspiciously similar to our supposedly new ballad, "One Meat-ball". Others contributed folk dances as their part of the entertainment, and the evening was ended with folk and square dancing.

Sunday morning our destination was the bluffs above the hostel, where such formations as the Leaning Tower and Devil's Doorway are situated.

The Leaning Tower is a huge slanting rock tower, about 30 feet high, used mostly to practice rappelling. Determined to "do or die" I finally worked my way to the top and watched various members loop a double strand of rope through their legs and shoulders, and disappear over the edge. Crawling curiously to the edge I saw a boy bouncing gaily down the sheer face of the rock, his feet touching only about every five feet during the descent.

Rappelling Process
To rappell, a rope is looped over a rock and the double strand is passed between the legs. By a series of twists that completely escaped me, the rope finally ends up with one length in back and one in front. These are held by the rappeller, and control his descent. I was assured placidly by John Ebert, president of the club, as I stood wrapped up in the rope, looking askance at the distance to the ground.

It seemed a long way down, when I didn't know what was going to happen. Finally in sheer desperation, I started down, and to my complete surprise, it was really fun. I could control the length and pace of my descent quite easily with the ropes which I had been gripping so tightly. For the second time I felt my self-assurance returning. In all fairness, however, I must say there is nothing quite so wonderful as to know that there is someone strong on the other end of the belay rope tied around your waist.

CLIMBING TO THE TOP of the Leaning Tower at Devil's Lake state park, Wis., are members of the Iowa Mountaineers and the Chicago Mountaineering club. The man bracing himself at an angle to the rock is about to make his descent down the face of the rock by rappelling.

The rest of the morning we spent at the rock formation called Devil's Doorway, two pieces of rock facing each other with about 3 to 3 1/2 feet of space between them. This type of formation is called a chimney, and a chimney climb is one of the more difficult climbs. It is done by bracing your feet against one side and your back against the other, gradually inching your way up and down. Since a chimney is usually smooth, there are no finger holds, and most of the support is by means of friction holds.

Love That Man!
All those who attempted it made their way up successfully, but since I had gone up on the other side, using a regulation climb, I decided to go down the chimney. And, you've guessed it, I fell right out. I do love that man on the belay rope!

Wary, but very satisfied, we went back to the hostel for a wonderful meal. Within an hour, we had packed, loaded and said goodbye to the Chicago Mountaineers. Comparative strangers when we left two days before, the perils of mountain climbing had given us something to talk about, and we finished the trip to Iowa City with friendly discussion.

Judge Harold D. Evans May Give Decision On Gasoline Tax Case Within Two Weeks

Constitutionality of Iowa's fourth cent of gasoline tax may be determined—at least as far as the district court is concerned—within the next two weeks.

District Judge Harold D. Evans said yesterday he expected to hand down within two weeks a decision in the case he took under advisement more than two months ago.

Judge Evans, who indicated at the time the case was submitted that he would give a decision "within a few weeks," gave no reason for the length of time required for his opinion except to say he had been "pretty busy" lately.

Both sides in the controversy have indicated any decision would be appealed to the Iowa supreme court.

On the outcome of the litigation hangs the disposition of approximately $5,000,000 annually, State Treasurer J. M. Grimes estimated in Des Moines.

State Gas Tax

The last legislature passed a bill increasing the state gasoline tax from three cents to four cents a gallon. Before the law became effective, however, L. V. Carlton, Iowa City real estate agent, filed suit to permanently enjoin Grimes and the Johnson county board of supervisors from collecting the tax.

He maintained the law was unconstitutional because it contained at least three separate subjects and because the title of the bill was altered after it passed the house and senate.

The gasoline tax increase was tucked on as an amendment to a bill providing a property tax for road funds. Counsel for the state, first assistant Attorney General Ted Yoder and special assistant H. J. Ries of Iowa City, maintained the law came within the constitutional provisions, because both sections dealt with road and highway funds.

They also contended that the changed title was shown properly on the enrolled bill as signed by the speaker of the house, president of the senate and governor.

Carlton was represented by Edward L. O'Connor and D. C. Nolan.

The other three cents of the state gasoline tax is not challenged.

Collect Four Cents

The state, meanwhile, is continuing to collect the fourth cent on the tax and the money, less refunds to non-highway users of gasoline, is being held in trust in two Iowa City banks.

Grimes reported the amount held in trust had grown to $1,362,000 since the law went into effect July 4. This figure represented collections only through part of October, since dealers have until the 20th of the following month to pay the taxes collected.

Just how much of this money will go back to taxpayers should the law ultimately be declared unconstitutional appeared a moot point despite efforts of the state to provide for its return.

The state printed and distributed a million gasoline purchase forms on which motorists could keep a certified record of their purchases so they might eventually file claim for a refund should the new tax be held invalid.

Not Keeping Record

The state treasurer said yesterday, however, he did not believe many private car owners are keeping such a record. Larger users of gasoline, of course, such as trucking companies, are expected to file claims for any possible refund.

Although Grimes estimated the extra one cent tax would bring in about $5,000,000 a year, his figures were based on wartime use of gasoline and the figure probably would be much higher in future years, he said.

Gasoline tax collections showed a gain almost every year up to 1941, when they reached a peak of $18,200,000, of which approximately $2,500,000 was refunded to non-highway users. Last year collections were $15,208,000, but refunds were up to more than 27 percent of the total with less wartime car driving and greater farm mechanization.

Now that gasoline rationing has been lifted and with the end of the rationing of tires and new automobiles just around the corner, collections are expected to resume their upward trend.

Police Judge John Knox suspended the fine but ordered that for the next six months Brown can drive a car only when one of his parents are with him.

Thirteen students were riding in the back of the truck when it collided with a car driven by Mrs. Hazel Schnare on route 3 and overturned.

Brown was charged with "operating a motor vehicle and failing to have same under control and failing to reduce speed while traversing an intersection."

Six other motorists paid fines totaling $85 in police court yesterday.

GASSIN' with GUS

By GUS SCHRADER

HERE'S THE DOPE, official and otherwise, on Iowa's first Big Ten victory since the Hawkeyes crushed Wisconsin's title dream, 6-0, back in 1942—18 conference tragedies ago:

THAT SECOND QUARTER play that sent Art Johnson over for his (and Iowa's) second touchdown wasn't in the books before the game. . . "How'd you like that new one, Coach?" grinned big Art when he emerged from the fray just before the half. . . The players said Art cooked it up in the huddle. . . You see, "Truck" is supposed to block on pass plays and that must have fooled the Gophers long enough to let him surge those last nine yards. . . EXCITEMENT ran so high after Iowa's last touchdown that the Hawks had only 10 men on the field just before the kickoff. . . Then Crowe remembered and sent in Golden to replace Herbie Braun, who had held the ball for the winning kick.

WE LEARNED in the Iowa dressing room after the game that when Harry Loehlein, Iowa's star end, was a navy cadet at North Dakota U., he was approached by Bernie Bierman about coming to Minnesota. . . Lt. Fred Girth, who was stationed there a l s o, Claims credit for dissuading Harry about joining the Gophers and influencing him to come to Iowa after he left the navy. . . LAST WEEK the Minnesota Daily, Gopher student paper, ran an article saying that Iowa ought to be dropped from Big Ten schedules because of its shabby record. . . Now we could turn it around and go the Chicago Tribune, which always calls the Western conference the "Big Nine," one better by naming it the "Big Eight". . .

PAUL GOLDEN, Iowa game captain, came away with the game football and also made the pilgrimage to Minnesota's dressing room to fetch back the bronze statue of "Floyd". . . Dave Danner and Herbie Wilkinson, Hawkeye cagers, helped Paul lug the bacon home. . . BERT McGRANE, Des Moines Register's ace writer, was so deeply impressed by Iowa's victory that it was a full five minutes before he could get a lead going on his typewriter. . . IOWA'S THREE IRON MEN yesterday were Wayne Spurbeck, Jerry Niles and Bill Kay. . . Freshman Spurbeck, filling in for the ill Louis Ginsberg, was given a lot of praise by the Iowa coaches.

LOU LORIA, veteran p. a. man who handles the press box address system, recovered from high excitement in the closing minutes of the game to give out with the crowning touch of the game. . . Just after Minnesota's placekick failed 20 seconds before the gun, Louie announced gravely over the p. a. system: "New coach at Minnesota next year". . . MINNESOTA will begin construction soon to increase seating capacity of their Memorial stadium for 25,000 spectators. . . Looks as though the construction should be laid along lines that will give the folks something to watch when they come to the games.

AFTER REJOICING in the way Iowa fans poured out onto the field after the game to surround the players we suggest a theme song to suit the occasion: "It's Been a Long, Long Time". . . BEST BLOCK of the game—and maybe of the entire Iowa season—must be credited to Danny Sheehan, Iowa end. . . He cut down a Gopher with a terrific smash and it allowed Nelson Smith to leg it to the seven-yard line in the third quarter. . . TO SHOW YOU what a doggone good guy this Bob Gustafson is: when he was left off the starting lineup in favor of Sheehan, he didn't growl like a lot of fellas might. . . "I can't understand how I've gone downhill so fast these last two weeks," Bob said, honestly thinking that it was his fault and wondering how he could improve to get back in the lineup. . . The choice between Bob and Sheehan gets tougher each weekend. . . Both are good ends.

Irish Crumple 'Cats, 34-7

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP)—Notre Dame, overwhelmed by the Army, 48-0, a week ago, bounced back into the victory column yesterday by smothering Northwestern, 34-7, before a standing room crowd of 49,500—largest at Dyche stadium since the late Knute Rockne fielded his last championship Irish team in 1930.

Notre Dame was outplayed by the scrappy Wildcats in the first two periods, and succeeded in throttling four Northwestern touchdown bids. Thereafter, the Wildcats offensive fizzled, but they managed to avert a shutout with a 77 yard touchdown drive late in the final period.

The Irish scored in each of the four periods, crossing the goal line twice in the fourth on aggressive heads up play.

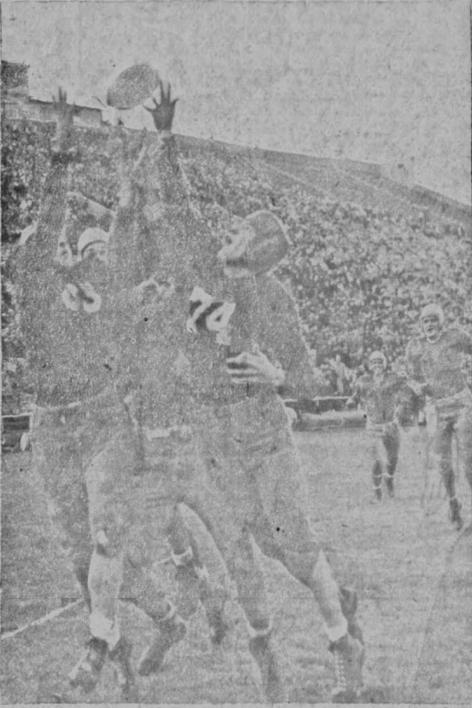

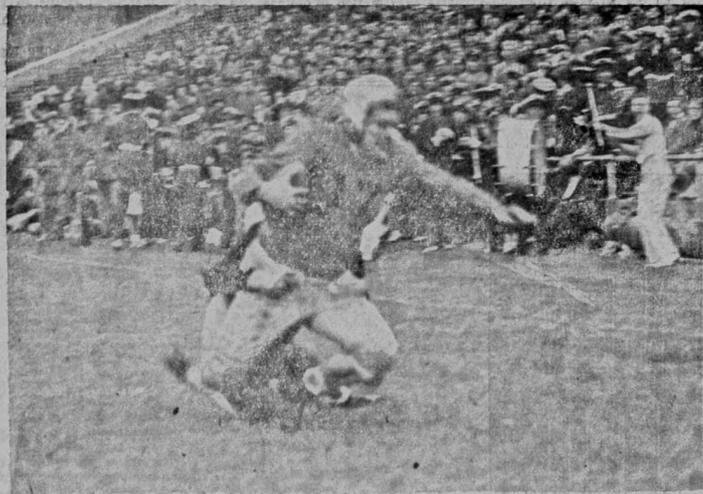

Although the Wildcats controlled the ball most of the first half, they were stopped on the Notre Dame five-inch line and the six yard line. Notre Dame's only real offensive burst in the first half was a touchdown march late in the opening period climaxed by Elmer Angsman's 50 yard run and his smash across from the one foot line. Sub fullback Stan Krivick dropped the first of four extra points.

Indiana Outclasses Pitt Eleven, 19 to 0

PITTSBURGH (AP) The combination of the Pitt Panthers and the weather man couldn't stop Indiana's Hoosiers yesterday, and they rolled to a 19 to 0 victory over the outclassed Pitt team in the deep mud of the Panthers' big football bowl.

Wolverines Eliminate Purdue From Big Ten Race, 27 to 13

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—throwing 40 yards to Nussbaumer who stepped the remaining 10 yards for a score before the game was five minutes old.

After having stopped a Purdue 72-yard drive on the Wolverine one, Michigan marched 64 yards for its second touchdown midway of the second period with Elliott driving through tackle from three feet out.

Purdue's Norman Maloney recovered a fumble by Henry Fonde later on the Wolverine 20 and Cody scored in five jobs at the line. Tom Hughes kicked the point to trim the Michigan lead to 13-7.

Bucks Crush Illinois, 27-2

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio State's fourth period power burst in the face of Illinois' football team yesterday and the Bucks smashed their way to an impressive 27 to 2 victory over the Illini to stay right behind Indiana in the race for the Western conference championship.

Middies Roll Over Badger Gridders, 36-7

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Navy's undefeated and once-tied football team rolled over a highly spirited but overmatched Wisconsin eleven yesterday by a score of 36 to 7 in a game featuring touchdown runs by two previously scoreless Middle ball carriers.

Jim Pettit and Bill Barryon galloped 70 and 54 yards respectively. The Midshipman collected five touchdowns and a safety on a Wisconsin punt blocked by left guard Jim Carrington. Jack Curran added four extra points from placement in five tries.

Wisconsin's touchdown came in the closing minutes of the first half on an 18-yard pass by the Badgers diminutive but mighty Jerry Thompson to quarterback George Fuchs in the end zone. Left tackle Martin Meyer place-kicked for the extra point.

Navy, playing its final game before the annual engagement with Army Dec. 1 in Philadelphia, had to work for victory over the Badgers, who were sparked by Thompson, five feet five inches tall and weighing 158 pounds.

CRITICAL POINTS IN IOWA'S TRIUMPH

Hawks Happy, Make Pig Sty Of Lockerroom

By JACK SCHROEDER

Floyd of Rosedale was given a warm welcome by Hawkeye football players yesterday as he entered the Iowa locker room for the first time since 1939. Floyd, whose absence of five years has marked a decline in Iowa's football prowess over Minnesota's mighty Gophers, was swarmed around by hordes of Iowa players and other enthusiasts and caused near pandemonium in the Old Gold dressing room.

As game Captain Paul Golden brought the famous pig back to the Hawkeye gridiron camp, it marked but the second time since the beginning of the tradition back in 1935 that Floyd has belonged to the Hawks.

In paying his respects to the nonchalant pig, Iowa players were shouting various remarks such as, "You lovely hog." . . . "This is 1945, Floyd, and just make yourself at home." . . . "Let's add to your collection, Iowa 20, Minnesota 19."

The tradition of Floyd of Rosedale started in 1935 when Iowa's erstwhile Governor Clyde L. Herring made a wager with Minnesota's Governor Olsen that the loser of the 1935 gridiron battle would have to furnish the winning state's governor a good, healthy pig.

The two governors thought it such a good idea that they had Floyd given to the winning team of each successive gridiron battle.

Gleefully shouting compliments at each other, the Hawkeye players were rejoicing to the utmost in the crowded locker room over their first Big Ten victory since 1942.

Probably the happiest individual present was Coach Clem Crowe. The usually solemn looking Iowa coach was beaming after his team's stunning victory over the Gophers, in adding, "We really wanted this one."

Tired but tremendously happy, the Iowans took long to change into their street clothes as there were too many congratulations to accept and too much handshaking to do.

Paul Fagerlind, who got in the habit of making crashing tackles, was exhausted but still generated enough energy to comment, "I'll bet none of those Gophers will be able to walk home alone."

Jerry Niles, who tossed two touchdown passes and kicked the extra point that clinched the victory, rubbed his chin while

Army Sweeps Over Quaker Eleven, 61-0

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Army's incredible team just about clinched its claim to gridiron immortality by overwhelming a supposedly strong University of Pennsylvania eleven, 61 to 0 before an awed crowd of 73,000 at Franklin field yesterday.

That furious pair, Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, each scored three touchdowns before they were withdrawn from the carnage in the third period. What the final score might have been had the cadets' magnificent first team been permitted to go the route was anybody's guess.

In racking up their 17th straight victory the Cadets ran their scoring total for eight games this season to 380 points against the opponents' 33. They served dire warning on the Navy, whom they meet a fortnight hence in this town.

Blanchard and Davis were, as usual, superb. For the third time against a major opponent this year Davis figured in an Army score on the second play from scrimmage when he raced 27 yards around right end for a touchdown after only 2.28 of play. Each of the Cadets' All-America twins had scored 16 touchdowns during the season.

Worcester, Mass. (AP)—A speedy Temple eleven, spearheaded by its sensational running quarterback Jack Burns, knocked favored Holy Cross from the undefeated and untied list, 14-6, yesterday before a 25,000 crowd at Fitton field. Gene Burns and Zawoiski made touchdowns in the second and fourth periods. Wilson place-kicked both points.

IOWA'S TRAINER, 'FLOYD' REUNITED

GRINNING HAPPILY over the double joy of Iowa's thrilling victory and the return of "Floyd of Rosedale," Iowa's trainer, Doyle Allsup, poses with the famous feuding pig in the Iowa dressing room. Doyle first got acquainted with Floyd in 1939 when the Gophers left the bronze porker in his care after losing to Kinnick and the Iron Men, 13-9.

talking to Iowa coaches and remarked, "I guess I'll have to shave now."

Herb Braun, who formerly played for the Gophers, took great delight in whooping it up in the locker room and even offered nourishment to the well-fed looking Floyd.

Prof. Karl Leib, director of the board of athletics, and Rollie Williams, assistant director of athletics, and basketball mentor Popsy Harrison were all giving Crowe their congratulations.

The Iowa coach commented, "We were slow in rounding into shape all season due to the amount of new material reporting for practice each day, but this was the game in which we were clicking. We played a much better defensive game than we have at any time this season. I was especially pleased with the performances of John Hunter and Nelson Smith."

Almost all of the gridgers fathers were present in the dressing room. Among the other visitors were Bud Flanders, former baseball star at Iowa, and Dick Woodard, who was star halfback on the Old Gold eleven in 1944.

We were given the stiff arm in the Gopher locker room and were void of information but fortunately escaped unscathed.

Iowa's injuries were light except for Art Johnson who re-injured his shoulder and received a gash in his forehead. The other injuries consisted of minor bruises.

THIS FELLOW HAD A FRIEND WHEN HE NEEDED ONE

SGT. WALTER F. OSBURN, Detroit, Mich., and his wife are shown here watching friends build their new home. Sergeant Osburn was wounded in Normandy and is paralyzed from the hips down. He has six children and a seventh is to be born soon, so friends and neighbors pitched in to see that the veteran has a roof over his head this winter.

"LET'S GO STEPPING"

What's this about hanging pledge pins? Isn't that something new? Anyway, Shirley Blythe, Chi O pledge, is doing her best to talk Rick Wilson out of his SAE pledge pin. What's the matter Shirley, can't you wait until he gets that big, old badge?

The Phi Delt's, who don't step at triangles, apparently solved a current quadrangle situation Friday night when Don Nelson, star piano playing pledge, escorted Jeanne Bowlin, Gamma Phi, to the Dad's Day dance, Jeanne also has been receiving attention from Dick Baxter and Bob McCoy. That's maintaining house unity, boys.

Clark Kelly, recently discharged, will be coming up Io-way this week to spend Thanksgiving with Jean Newland, Currier.

THE DRUG SHOP has the answer to a maiden's prayer. Yes, an excellent all purpose cream such as Edward S. Rose, pharmacist, prepares cannot be surpassed for fine ingredients, effectiveness, and economy. For only 55c an 8 oz. jar is yours to use freely after a drying shower. The outstanding feature or this cream is the Lanolin content which replenishes the oil hard water deprives your skin of. The pleasant, clean odor of this Facial cream adds the last requirement for a perfect formula. Call at the DRUG SHOP where Mr. Rose will be glad to show you this special cream designed for your needs.

This little squib is to stop a rumor that's been going around about Elaine Williams, Kappa. It isn't true that she was at the Beta party, so how could she have been the life of the party? She was in Des Moines reading a book in the sanctuary of her home.

Eating out is quite a problem . . . unless you've discovered the really excellent meals at the PRINCESS CAFE. Let us give you three very good reasons why. First, and we're mighty proud of this, our food is prepared by master chefs, with an eye toward meal balancing, too. Secondly, quick service at the PRINCESS gives you more time for other things. The third reason, as most any of our customers can tell you, is menu variety that gives you your favorites day in and day out. Now the fourth is up to you . . . come to the PRINCESS!!!

Is it the lovely, white teeth of the Chi O's that attracts the Psi O's? We imagine it's a little more than that . . . but at any rate, the Chi O. house has practically become the Psi O. annex.

Thanksgiving is a very special day . . . which means we do special things such as eat foods from BRENNAMAN'S FRUIT MARKET. Cider, cranberries, and apples are necessities for a well rounded dinner and to add the extra special touch . . . fruit cake, nuts and nut meats are important.

Dates and figs are a tasty delicacy which the family will thoroughly enjoy and will make the day one to long remember. BRENNAMAN'S are anxious that each of you have a very happy Thanksgiving and would like you to look over their fine selection of foods to help make your day everything it should be.

If you are one of those lucky people who gets to go home for Thanksgiving, here's a tip on how to show Mom and Dad how thoughtful you are. Call the CURTIS FLOWER SHOP and order one of those beautiful bouquets of fall mums to take home with you. Colorful mums lend a warm atmosphere of fall beauty to a room and would be just the thing to supply the finishing touches to a perfect holiday setting. For Thanksgiving, or any occasion, dial 6566 for flowers that are sure to please. Remember that's the CURTIS FLOWER SHOP!

Once upon a Friday a little girl went down to Don's with her only piece of jewelry, a Tri-Delt pin; but low and behold sometime during the evening an ATO pin mysteriously fastened itself on her sweater. How did it get there, Flo . . . you claim you don't know and we haven't seen it since.

Attention girls! It's a bird, it's a plane, no, it's Dick Senty. If you are interested, (and we just know you are), the line is forming behind Sally Zuercher, D. G. This new addition of the Beta's has tumbled into Iowa City from the tumbling tumbleweed state of Colorado. And, contrary to reliable sources, he is supposedly sweeping the campus women off their feet.

Tuesday night was a big night at the Alpha Xi house. That was the eve that Donese Waterman told the girls about her lovely diamond . . . and she even showed it to them. The lucky guy is Ens. Duncan Putnam . . . and we all agree with Donese that it would be great if he could stay around longer than two weeks.

Have you seen Rip Van Winkle around this weekend . . . or did she skip home to Cedar Rapids? Could be that she heard that Bill Becker, Phi Psi of last year, was to be here this weekend. And, somewhere along the line, it seems that Rip forgot to tell Beck that she is engaged to Ken Lindsay, Psi U. from Brown.

Department of "Worse luck" . . . one of the cute pledges on this campus is already somewhat out of circulation. Yep, Marilyn Miller, of the Chi Omega group, is sporting a good looking Navy ring . . . the original owner being Glen Davidson. Rumor has it that sometime in the future there will be more developments. So, just look in this column and we'll tell you all.

If you see a huge smile tearing around between classes, look behind it and you'll see Dorothy Parker, Delta Gamma. And look a little harder and you're bound to see Don Sokol, Beta. He hasn't been back on campus long, but Parker has the Beta badge pinned firmly on her sweater.

So your budget is limited . . . then BREMERS should be your shopping headquarters, where high quality gifts are reasonably priced. Two items you should notice are clothes brushes with polished wooden handles for only $1.50 and hand-made neckties in popular colors for $1.00. Also for fine leather goods BREMERS can't be surpassed. We're sure you'll agree when you see those smart shaving kits, belts and gloves as well as countless other "perfect gift" items. A BREMERS gift is one you'll be proud to give and happy to receive. Get your shopping done early!

It took an S.U.I. coed to be chosen "D.U. Dream Girl of 1945" at Ames last weekend. Susie Gregg, Zeta, visited Paul Dahlen, Delta Upsilon pledge, and stole the honor from the Ames coeds. Good work, Susie!

Let's suppose that you've been hitting the books all evening for an exam or two tomorrow. Now all at once you feel a terrifically hungry pang, and you're wishing you could relax for awhile. So what are you going to do about it? Sure, why not—Doc 'n Betty'll be glad to see you and you'll be glad to have a tasty snack at the TWO-MILE INN. Besides, the whole crowd will be there for their favorite food. TWO MILE INN is tops! See you there.

At your service! Just dial 3177—it's as simple as that, and in a few seconds a comfortable VARSITY-HAWKEYE CAB will whisk you off to your destination. Of course you'll be showing Dad the campus this weekend and what better way than in a VARSITY-HAWKEYE CAB? He too will be pleased with that prompt, courteous service. See you in one of the cabs with the green lights!

Big return engagement this weekend!! Last week Ens. C. H. Brooks dropped in to see P. K. Bentley, Alpha Xi . . . and enjoyed it all so much that he's here again this weekend.

Where to Go . . .

Fed Hedges launches into one of his usual long narratives to the amusement of Chuck Updegraff, Phi Psi, Elaine Williams, Kappa, Nancy Green, Kappa, and Don Nelson, Phi Delt. The setting is SMITH'S CAFE, an established campus hangout of pre-war days, newly re-opened with a super deluxe fountain service and just the right atmosphere for mid-afternoon fun and relaxation. Mike and Sally Wolf are the new proprietors and they're anxious to make SMITH'S a place you'll like to take the gang. Drop in after class for a coke or malt with the crowd—Sally's a charming hostess and we're sure you'll feel at home at SMITH'S.

Do you know Jo Montgomery, cute little D. G. pledge? Well, if you're any good at the "Mr. Anthony" or "Dorothy Dix" stuff, you might give Jo a lift. It seems that this fall Jo has been seeing a lot of Pat McPartland, Phi. Psi. But all of a sudden out of her not too distant past a young man named Sud Dows has popped up. Just to make things a little worse for Miss Montgomery, Pat and Sud are old pals from high school days in Cedar Rapids.

Campus Consultant

It was a quiet afternoon . . . not much going on . . . just a few coolers and a little popcorn at Don's . . . result she has his pin. Yes, Barb Manbeck (who always has enjoyed the company of Nu Sig's) accepted George Ruggiv's Sigma Chi pin. Oh, it's all right, George is a Nu Sig, too. Look for them . . . really a good looking couple.

Two months ago I was madly in love with him . . . and now I can't bear him anymore. It's incredible how quickly a man can change.

The Iowa Campus has two newcomers we'd like you to meet, and most of all, they'd like to meet you. They're Mike and Sally Wolf at SMITH'S CAFE. Their fountain service is at your disposal all day from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Mike and Sally Wolf of SMITH'S take a personal interest in college students and would enjoy seeing you at their fountain . . . it's a swell place to meet for a coke, sandwich or malted milk. Bring the crowd in . . . we know you'll feel at home.

Book crackin' gets to be an old old story. Sometimes it really pays to toss off that academic gloom and drop in for a few short ones at the AIRLINER. Seen at the Dad's day dance Friday night with Ralph Clave, AKK, was Bettye Neal, Alpha Chi, who hasn't had Navy plebe Bill Anderson's SAE pin since he left for Annapolis.

We don't see Bernadine Mackorsky, Alpha Chi, going around lamenting a death of men on campus. It just happens that dancing to Eddy Howard with her father Friday night was her special way of making sure Dad's day weekend got off to a good start.

Campus Consultant

A big number of party people turned out for the large doins at Solon Friday night. The Fiddle-dee-fee's threw a party truly reminiscent of prewar days and a fine preview of postwar university life.

Friday and Saturday nights have been pretty quiet these past two weeks for Teddy Davis. Yes, those four walls over at Hillcrest are beginning to look pretty barren. It all happened a couple of weeks ago when Teddy didn't quite make it in on time . . . and whom . . . campused for four weekend nights. Come now, all of that for being late just a few minutes?

Want that spic and span look? Well, DAVIS CLEANERS have the answer to all your problems, with their air filtered cleaning process and quick service. You've been calling your DAVIS-CLEANERS at 3033 — please note that the number has been changed—from now on dial 4447 to have your clothes cleaned the DAVIS way.

Cliff Gibson, Phi Psi on campus last year, has returned to his stamping grounds this weekend. Everyone including Central Tap, is very happy to see Gibb; but we'll wager no one is happier than Claire Ferguson, Kappa.

At last! Those versatile fabrics that are the joy of homemakers have blossomed out again in marvelous Glo-Sheen and rare quilted chintzes. McNAMARA'S is the place to find these materials for which you've been searching the last few years. Think of the clever tricks possible with these quaint, patterned fabrics—drapes, slip-covers, closet fittings . . . you can add inside glamour to closets with garment bags, shoe and laundry bags and hat and storage boxes which you make yourself. Incidentally, these would be original and much appreciated Christmas gifts.

McNAMARA'S have another surprise for you—hard-to-get marquisette curtains are here. They come in dotted white marquisette and in ivory panels to use as glass curtains with drapes or alone, as you prefer. You'll appreciate the length—two and one half yards—and love the graceful way they hang.

Perhaps you're interested in matching bathroom draperies and shower curtain sets. You'll find them in a variety of colors and patterns, all of practical, waterproof taffeta.

Let McNAMARA'S help you choose fabrics and curtains which will give your home that bright-magic effect, so popular today. Their wide selection is combined with moderate prices to make home-decoration fun

DON'T SUFFER FROM CHAPPED HANDS . . . stop at GIBB'S DRUG STORE tomorrow for a supply of their special protective and healing cream made after their own formula. Those who use this cream have made it a habit to keep a jar handy in bath and kitchen the year 'round, and they testify it is the finest sort of preventive for rough, sore, reddened hands. It's inexpensive, too . . . only 38c for the three-ounce jar; 79c for the eight-ounce; and $1.25 for the 16-ounce. Depend on GIBB'S hand cream this winter.
