General Marshall Retires

Eisenhower Named to Succeed Wartime Military Leader

Admiral Nimitz Will Replace Ernest J. King As Chief of Naval Operations About Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman announced yesterday the immediate retirement of Gen. George C. Marshall and the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to succeed him as chief of staff.

The president also announced to a news conference that he had selected Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to succeed Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King as chief of naval operations. This change will be made effective shortly after Christmas at a date to be agreed upon by Nimitz and King.

The president said General Joseph T. McNarney, one time deputy chief of staff, will succeed Eisenhower immediately as commander of United States forces in Europe, and as American representative on the Allied control commission in Europe.

Mr. Truman said that both King and Marshall long ago expressed a desire to retire after the defeat of Japan.

The president sent Eisenhower's nomination to the senate yesterday and told reporters he would begin to serve at once as acting chief of staff until the senate approved his nomination.

The president told newsmen he was loath to let Marshall retire because he considered him the greatest military man of this or any other country. Marshall will be 65 on Dec. 31.

Legion Hears Views Of Dwight Eisenhower

Chief of Staff Favors Unified Fighting Force Plus Military Training

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the army's new acting chief of staff, told the American Legion last night he favored unified control of the nation's fighting forces and a universal military training program with a minimum of one year's instruction.

The five star general's speech at the national commander's banquet climaxed a day in which Eisenhower practically took over the third day of the 27th annual convention of the Legion.

Earlier the supreme commander of Allied forces in the European theater had received the Legion's distinguished service medal from National Commander Edward Schiebler after a tumultuous welcome in the convention hall that brought tears to the eyes of the recipient.

In accepting the distinguished service medal the general said "I like to think you are using me as a medium to honor 3,000,000 American soldiers who did their best for America in Europe."

At previous sessions of the Legion convention top naval officials, Admiral Ernest King and Admiral Chester Nimitz had voiced opposition to the proposed merger.

David J. MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the CIO-United Steel Workers, addressed the convention in place of Philip Murray, CIO president who was unable to attend.

Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson also addressed the convention.

Weatherman Tells A Sad Story Today

This is a sad story. At about 1:30 a. m. today the wind shifted to the north, picked up velocity and the mercury started slipping down its glass shaft.

Today we can expect light rain and maybe light snow flurries. And it will be colder than and the wind will be blowing stronger than. The sky probably won't clear until Friday.

Moral: WINTER is coming to Iowa City.

De Gaulle Confident Of Cabinet Formation

PARIS (AP)—President De Gaulle, after day-long political consultations, expressed confidence last night that he would form a new cabinet and that it would be announced soon.

One government official said De Gaulle and representatives of France's three major political parties—Communist, Socialist and Popular Republican (MRP)—had agreed yesterday on the division of the cabinet posts. The sole task remaining, the official declared, was the selection and acceptance of the individual De Gaulle desired from each party.

Earlier Felix Gouin, president of the constituent assembly, had predicted that formation of a cabinet by today since "an accord in principle seems to have been realized" during the day.

De Gaulle conferred with Communist spokesman Maurice Thorez, party secretary-general, and Jacques Duclos, party secretary, before leaving the war ministry last night.

Troops Rushed Into Manchuria

Chinese Communists, Government Soldiers Race for Changchun

CHUNGKING (AP)—Chinese Communists and Nationalist forces raced yesterday for strategic positions within Manchuria, said press reports which indicated the Reds were in the lead of the contest with entry into Changchun, capital of the huge territory.

Unofficial reports said Generalissimo Kai-Shek's government and Soviet officials would soon open a new conference in Moscow or Chungking on the critical situation in Manchuria.

Four thousand Chinese Communist troops have entered Changchun, the China Times said. The newspaper made no mention as to whether Russian forces had evacuated the city. Unconfirmed reports earlier had said the Chinese Reds had seized airfields at Changchun and other Manchurian cities.

Drive 23 Miles

Nationalist troops, exploiting last week's break through the great wall at Shanhaiwan, drove 23 miles through faint opposition to occupy Suichung, of the Tientsin-Mukden railroad, 190 miles southwest of Mukden, the China Times reported.

But at Suichung, the Nationalists still were nearly 400 miles from Changchun.

The unconfirmed reports of the pending Nationalist-Russian conference said the Soviet had advanced 20 conditions which Chiang's government must meet before the Russians would permit Nationalist troops to be flown into Manchuria, removing the necessity for an overland drive.

'American Colony'

Supplementing its demands for withdrawal of American army and marine forces in China, the New China Daily News, Communist publication, charged that the United States is converting the country into an "American colony."

A marine pilot and three or four enlisted men were believed in the hands of either Chinese irregulars or Communists in the Peiping-Tientsin area, after a forced landing of their plane 10 days ago, Third marine amphibious corps headquarters at Tientsin announced.

Iran Expects U. S. Backing in Squabble With Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—Little Iran talked tough to Russia yesterday, then expressed confidence of United States backing in its current difficulties with the Soviet Union.

Hussein Ala, first ambassador to Washington from the country most Americans call Persia, made public a 700-word summary of a stiff note of protest delivered by the Iranian government to the Soviet embassy in Teheran last Saturday.

The ambassador then told a news conference that Russian forces in northern Iran had committed "a flagrant violation of the sovereignty and integrity" of his country.

British Thunderbolts Bomb Semarang

BATAVIA, JAVA (AP)—British thunderbolts blasted Indonesian positions at Semarang in central Java with 500-pound bombs yesterday, and renewed fighting in Batavia killed or wounded 20 persons.

The planes pounded at Nationalists who drove a wedge between two British Indian forces in Semarang. British headquarters declared the bombing was successful and that advancing ground forces were meeting "little resistance."

Other British Indian troops edged forward in the 11th day of battle at Soerabaya naval base despite Indonesian artillery and mortar fire, and scored an 800-yard advance in one sector.

United Auto Workers Call General Strike

Rumors Set Walkout Of General Motors Employs for Today

DETROIT (AP)—Authoritative sources close to high ranking officers of the United Auto Workers (CIO) said last night that a general strike of 325,000 General Motors corporation employees was to begin at 10 o'clock (CST) this morning.

The strategy of the union, it was learned, presumably would be to make no announcement in advance of the actual walkouts but that an official statement would be issued once the strike was "in effect."

UAW President R. J. Thomas and other top officials of the union consulted into late hours last night formulating the strategy to be used in the nation-wide walkout.

All General Motors units in 24 states, from the biggest auto plants to the smallest feeder units, are to be struck simultaneously, the usually reliable source said.

The strike call was issued late yesterday by R. J. Thomas after a closed meeting of the strike strategy committee of the union.

Thomas' announcement climaxed a succession of rapidly moving events which began earlier yesterday when General Motors said it would reply on or before Friday to a union demand that wage issues be submitted to arbitration.

The UAW had set 3 p. m. (CST) yesterday as a deadline for company reply to the proposal.

The 200 delegates to the GM council of the UAW termed the company reply "a stale pure and simple," and spent little time in voting unanimously in favor of a strike.

Company officials said they had been "advised unofficially" of the UAW's action, but said they would have no comment until official notification from the union.

Yamashita's Defense Proceedings to Start

MANILA (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, on trial for his life as an alleged war criminal, showed great composure and even smiled as the prosecution ended its case against him yesterday and the military court rejected a defense motion for acquittal.

Maj. Gen. Russell B. Reynolds, presiding officer of the court, granted with evident reluctance a delay until today for the opening of Yamashita's defense.

He added that in his opinion too many members of Yamashita's legal staff spent their time in the courtroom, and that some of them might well be used in outside preparatory work likely to expedite the proceedings.

Colonel Harry Clarke, chief defense counsel, declined to say how many defense witnesses he would call. His only estimate of the time the defense might consume was "three days to three weeks."

College, University Heads Give Proposal for Military Training

A telegram proposing an alternative for enactment of universal military training, has been dispatched to Chairman May of the house military affairs committee by President Virgil M. Hancher and 32 other college and university presidents.

The text is: "We, the undersigned college and university presidents, urge the adoption of the following program as an alternative to the proposal for enactment of universal military training to meet immediate issue created by precipitate demobilization of our armed forces and pending definite proof as to whether or not adequate forces can be obtained by voluntary enlistment, we urge as an interim policy:

"(1) Extension of existing selective service on year-to-year basis, with an amendment limiting the period of military service of draftees to 15 months.

"(2) Vigorous promotion of new program of voluntary enlistment, stressing adequate pay, attractive retirement options, and opportunities for vocational and other training.

"(3) Postponement of decision on universal military training, since it is only one element in a long range, comprehensive program of national defense.

"(4) To provide the basis of legislation that will assure a peacetime military establishment competent to defend us against powerful, unprovoked attack as well as commensurate with our international commitments, we urge appointment of a national defense commission, adequately financed and directed to bring forward a comprehensive plan, embracing not only all military establishments as such but also making recommendations for use of available manpower, the dispersal of essential industry, stockpiling of strategic materials, conservation of natural resources, scientific research and related subjects. Members to be selected for their integrity, special knowledge and experience with large affairs, and representing military, diplomatic, legislative, industrial, scientific and educational establishments.

"(5) If, after thorough study, such a commission finds universal military training an indispensable part of our long range national defense program, we would support it."

Signers, in addition to President Hancher, are: James P. Baxter III, Williams college; Victor L. Butterfield, Wesleyan college; Leonard Carmichael, Tufts college; Oliver C. Carmichael, Vanderbilt university; Harry W. Chase, New York university; Ben M. Cherrington, University of Denver; James B. Conant, Harvard university; Carter Davidson, Knox college; Edmund E. ## Hirohito's Imperial Transactions Blocked By MacArthur Order

TOKYO (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's household assets were frozen and all imperial transactions blocked yesterday by order of General MacArthur.

As the occupation command thus extended its control over the imperial fortunes another of the mikedo's erstwhile war lords chose death rather than arrest and trial as an accused war criminal.

He was Baron Gen. Shigeru Honjo, raised to the nobility by Hirohito for his part in the conquest of Manchuria. He carried out the traditional hara-kiri ceremony, slashing his stomach crosswise and then cutting his throat as he faced toward the palace. The baron's secretary found the body, lying in a pool of blood in his office.

Tenth among Hirohito's prominent war leaders to die by his own hand since the empire's disastrous defeat, Honjo left a letter saying "I cannot endure as a soldier of our country to appear before a court of Allied powers."

The order freezing Hirohito's assets—involving imperial holdings worth hundreds of millions of dollars—coincided with a report by MacArthur's national resources section stressing that revival of Japan's once-flourishing export trade must wait until the threat of starvation had been removed at home and the rebuilding of devastated areas commenced.

LIBRARIES CLOSED

The university libraries will be closed Thursday, Nov. 22, in observance of Thanksgiving day. Reserve books may be withdrawn for overnight use beginning at 9 p. m. today and should be returned by 8 a. m. Friday, Nov. 23.

Admiral Tells Committee F. D. R.'s Plan

Richardson Reveals 1940 Plot to Shut Off Japanese Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nov. 20—Adm. J. O. Richardson testified yesterday he heard with amazement in 1940 that President Roosevelt was considering shutting off all Japanese trade with the Americas if Japan moved against the British.

"I was amazed and I stated that the fleet was not prepared to put the proposal into effect or for the war that would result," the former commander-in-chief of the fleet told the joint senate-house committee investigating Pearl Harbor.

Richardson said the Roosevelt plan, as described to him by the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, called for the establishment of patrol lines in the Pacific to bar Japanese ships from the Americas.

As the admiral was testifying, a new fight over the investigation exploded on the senate floor.

Apologists for Japan (D., Del.) asserted that Republicans on the inquiry committee were "apologists for Japan." He described them as "kimono boys" and contended they were trying "to smirch the memory" of Mr. Roosevelt.

Earlier in the day Richardson declared that on a 1940 "visit to Washington he got the impression that the Japanese and that a state department diplomat, Stanley Hornbeck, "was exercising a greater influence over the disposition of the fleet than I was."

He said he received this impression when he came to the capital for conferences with the president, Secretary of State Hull and others to find out more fully why the fleet was kept in Hawaii against his recommendations. Richardson wanted the fleet removed to the west coast of the United States to prepare it for an emergency.

No Navy Increase

Richardson also told the investigating committee:

1. President Roosevelt "was rather loath to increase the number of men (in the navy) because he felt, as he expressed it to me, that men in mechanical trade in civilian life could be quickly inducted and made into adequate seafarers if their services became necessary."

2. That had not Admiral Stark, then chief of naval operations, "been influenced by other considerations, he would have agreed with me" that from the standpoint of preparedness, it was better to bring the fleet from Hawaii to the Pacific coast and there prepare it for any eventuality.

3. That Secretary of State Hull "felt that we should take a very strong position, and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude."

End of Plan

After telling of the reported Roosevelt plan to establish patrol lines in the Pacific to bar Japanese ships from the Americas, Richardson added that the plan never was carried out and "I never heard any more about it."

Into the committee record went a letter Richardson wrote Stark Jan. 26, 1940. The correspondence contained a statement by Richardson that in case of war, the United States was to have the use of the British base at Singapore and in return this nation would have an obligation to protect "about two and half continents." Richardson smilingly called that a slight exaggeration.

Time for Decision Now of Veterans Association

The report of the university veterans association steering committee pointed directly at the basic causes of the U. V. A.'s chief ills—inadequate leaders and inadequate membership.

There haven't been enough capable leaders—the men who guide the policies and do most of the work—and membership hasn't been broad enough to make what organization has existed a truly representative organization.

As a result, these weaknesses appear in U. V. A.:

- (1) Possible domination by small groups of varying vested interests.
(2) Lack of system of acquiring operating funds.
(3) Too little cooperation with the university in trying to solve the housing problem.
(4) Fogginess of organizational goals.
(5) Weaknesses in the constitution and the association's rules.

The reasons advanced for why veterans stayed away from meetings were the recent influx of unoriented people, inadequate publicity, general lethargy and conflicting, if any, aims.

The steering committee went on to outline these goals:

- Service—(1) To the university by serving as a pool of talent, a motivating influence, an aid to determination of policy, participating in and arranging appropriate programs, and (2) to the veterans by way of orientation, housing and friendship.
Social—(1) Formation of a club for veterans' wives, and (2) dances, smokers and intramural athletics.

As the steering committee also pointed out, correction of these weaknesses is vital—vital if University of Iowa veterans want a strong, active organization. And these problems must be solved immediately. Next semester might be too late, because the arrival of more un-oriented veterans would only serve to further confuse the situation.

"We are of the opinion that there is sufficient justification for the expenditure of effort involved in strengthening and revising position of campus influence," the steering committee report said. "We believe that the errors and weaknesses of the past can be rectified with the interest and intelligent support and participation of all veterans, and that many problems can be circumvented by utilizing this past year of experience and infamy."

Achieving the aims that the steering committee has wisely set out won't be easy. There will be enough general agreement, probably, that a veterans group should be firmly established to pursue those goals, but much of what is said will not be turned into action. It will be only lip service.

Finding qualified veterans willing to be leaders will not be easy. And once leaders are selected, it will not be an easy task to obtain all the support from the general membership that may be needed from time to time. Besides assuming a heavy burden of endeavor, the men who lead the veterans association will find themselves subjected to a flow of criticism, some of which will be warranted but much of which will not.

In next Tuesday's election, the electors will have to keep in mind that the leaders they select must be men not easily discouraged, as well as men with vision and enthusiasm.

And the electors must realize that the only way their leaders can be successful is by giving them the support they will need in all of the projects the U. V. A. embarks upon.

The fate of the veterans association will be decided next Tuesday. We hope that the veterans decide that they want a vigorous organization, and that they want it bad enough to be willing to do anything to make it a success.

But even more important is the necessity that every veteran attend that meeting, so that whatever action is taken is truly representative. Majority action is the only solid foundation.

Covering The Capital

By GEORGE A. SCOTT (Substituting for Jack Stinnett)

WASHINGTON—Postage stamp sales are booming these days—but the stamps aren't being used to mail letters.

They are collectors' items, such as a block of four United States airmail stamps that changed hands for $27,000 and a pair of 1851 Canadian "twelve-penny blacks" that brought $7,500 in auctions this year.

Less spectacular but equally significant are dealers' reports of increased sales over the counter to stamp collectors. Typical is a dealer who reports a $10,000 increase in his business in the past year.

Even the postoffice department is sharing in the boom. Receipts for the fiscal year ending last June 30 at its philatelic agency broke all records with a total of $2,489,406.50. Few of the stamps sold by the philatelic agency ever are used on letters—they go right into collectors' albums.

Dealers and other stamp experts attribute the heavy demand and sales to several factors. They include:

- 1. Increased purchasing power. Even the most modest collector has had a few extra dollars to spend on his hobby.
2. Importation to this country by European refugees of many outstanding collections of stamp rarities which have been sold at auction by their owners to recoup lost fortunes.
3. The shutting off, during the war, of normal foreign sources of stamps so that the demand exceeded the supply. This factor is becoming less significant as trade channels reopen.

Also stimulating the market has been the disposal at auction of numerous well-known American collections. The most famous of these is the collection of the late Col. E. H. R. Green, son of the fabulous Hetty Green. It already has returned over $1,000,000 in auction sales, with a considerable portion still to be sold.

A three-day auction sale of part of the Green stamp collection in September realized $92,771, with one stamp—a United States airmail—bringing $3,000.

The airmail stamps are among the rarities of postage issues. All five are from a sheet of the 24-cent denomination of the 1918 issue that through an error was printed with the airplane upside down. The $27,000 paid for the block of four, incidentally, set a record for the price paid for United States stamps.

(Cincinnati Enquirer) Times change. The other day a man here was rushed to the hospital with a lump of meat stuck in his throat. Couple of months back they'd have taken him to headquarters to make him tell where he got it.

DAVENPORT (AP)—Harvey E. Daines, superintendent of the Iowa soldiers' orphans' home here said yesterday afternoon that the home has about 90 cases of influenza among 450 children, with the hospital crowded.

Daines said the "flu" was not in a severe form, and that while the cases were acute, they were of short duration. A half dozen employees also are ill, he said.

Dr. Paul B. Jacobson, superintendent of schools said that student absenteeism had reached 18 percent—three times the normal. One school, he said, showed some improvement, and he looked for a marked decrease in absenteeism after the Thanksgiving holiday period. He said the situation is not alarming.

Harrison's fifth romance was stopped when Waterloo police discovered he had charged about $100 worth of goods to his fiancée's account in a Waterloo department store.

In the navy for a few months, Harrison was still wearing his sailor blues, three years after his discharge when nabbed in Waterloo Saturday, Cedar Rapids police said.

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the department of history will present a special Thanksgiving program over WSUI this evening at 7:30. Professor Thornton will treat Thanksgiving in its historical development in the Old World and pick up the American scene with the Pilgrims. Two key Thanksgiving proclamations will be read by Professor Thornton—George Washington's first proclamation, and Abraham Lincoln's famous proclamation which finally put Thanksgiving on the present basis.

Previous to Lincoln's time, some presidents refused to give proclamations on constitutional grounds. Professor Thornton will discuss this and the fact that every president since that time has issued an official Thanksgiving proclamation. Lincoln made his proclamation in the midst of the Civil war in 1863. Professor Thornton will also consider Thanksgiving of 1945 against the background of a very troubled world.

Professor Thornton's broadcast is one well-worth everyone's listening time. The man who sifts through the careers of 20,000 people annually to select the 100 personalities pictured in the "Interesting People" section of the American magazine, James Stewart Gordon, finds the tables turned when "Songs by Morton Downey" takes to the air over Mutual this morning at 11:15. He appears as Morton's chosen "Personality of the Week."

Scenery for Sale

(New York Times) There is little doubt that in the next few years we shall see a tremendous amount of interstate tourist travel. In the decade before the war many families were adopting the vacation plan of climbing into the family car and touring a section or a state.

We were learning how to travel leisurely and learning to stop in mid-afternoon at a good hotel, an attractive tourists' home or a cabin colony. We were beginning to savor places rather than merely enjoy speed.

We were even finding out that trips could be planned that could enable us to perceive not only the beauty and variety of our country but also the geographic routes by which the nation has expanded—the natural obstacles that hampered the flow of migration, the easy channels that could be used as alternative ways.

And we found that half an hour of rest now and then upon a coign of vantage could be more rewarding than adding more mileage for the speedometer record.

There is scenery for sale in many states. Public officials, civic groups and interested laymen are bestirring themselves to see that the landscape's beauty is not spoiled. The billboard problem is under scrutiny in many locations. Vermont is putting on a definite drive to curb the huge signs that so frequently mar scenic panoramas.

Horace Brown, chairman of the Vermont Association of Billboard Restrictions, recently announced that if the town meetings of 1946 are so successful as were those of 1945, big commercial signs in the countryside will be a thing of the past. To date, he said, 26 towns and two cities in the five southern counties have voted to limit the size of board to 40 square feet.

In 1938 there were more than 650 large billboards in the state. In 1944 there were fewer than half that number.

Restrictions do not apply to business signs on property which pertain exclusively to the property itself. Vermont is making a successful effort to keep its "scenic highways" an appealing attraction to visitors.

There is another side to the problem that needs official and lay attention. Throughout the northeast there are many eyesores at the edge of otherwise charming villages and towns. There are bare dumps, "graveyards" of old cars and piles of miscellaneous debris

23 Schools in SUI Speech Conference

Y. W. C. A. PRESENTS ALL-UNIVERSITY THANKSGIVING SERVICE

To Discuss Peace Issues

Twenty-three colleges and universities have enrolled in the University of Iowa conference on problems of the peace to be held here Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

The program is sponsored by the speech department under Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of debate. Robert Ray, G of Davenport, is tournament manager and Marilyn Nesper, G of Toledo, Ohio, is in charge of discussion.

The conference will include contests and debate, discussion, extempore speaking, after dinner speaking and a contest in "Speaking for Peace."

A dinner is planned for Dec. 1 at Hotel Jefferson. Jean Collier, A3 of Freeport, Ill., is in charge of the dinner program.

Schools entered in this conference include Wisconsin State Teachers college, University of Nebraska, University of Missouri, Illinois State Normal university, Knox college, Iowa State college, Iowa State Teachers college, Augustana college, Indiana university, Wheaton college, Northwestern university, Coe college, Simpson college, Indiana State Teachers college, Cornell college, Central college, University of Kansas, University of Minnesota, University of South Dakota, Drake university, Michigan State college, Doane college and the University of Iowa.

The topic for the four-round debate will be: "Resolved: That the foreign policy of the United States should be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world."

Extempore speaking contests will be on topics of national and international current interest. The discussion groups will consider "What program shall the United States follow to achieve national security?"

Four rounds of discussion among small groups is scheduled after which there will be a final parliamentary session in Old Capitol.

SINGING A "Hymn of Thanksgiving" at the all-university Thanksgiving service yesterday afternoon is the Y.W.C.A. quintet. From left to right are Beverly Taylor, A2 of Iowa City; Beth Wilson, F1 of Iowa City; Betty Stern, A2 of Kansas City, Mo.; Dorothy Armbruster, A2 of Iowa City, and Marilyn Jens, A1 of Appleton, Wis. The service was under the direction of the Worship Workshop group of "Y."

MURIEL ABRAMS, A4 of Lynbrook, N. Y., one of four students who spoke at the "Y" Thanksgiving service, tells why we should be thankful for "The World We Live In." Virginia Rosenberr, A2 of Burlington, who spoke on "The Visions We Have" is seated at the speaker's left. Candelabra and a cornucopia decorated the platform. Willie Walsh, A3 of Ames, was chairman of the service.

Service Worker Stresses Need For Imaginative Leadership

"The idea of volunteer service is an educational experience for yourself," said Betty Mansfield of the American Friends service committee. "What you teach you learn better yourself."

Miss Mansfield, who is on campus under the auspices of the Wesley foundation and the Y. W. C. A., is interviewing students interested in service projects.

Stressing the need for imaginative leadership, Miss Mansfield pointed out these service projects as a way to get a workable world organization.

Miss Mansfield is in charge of student work in the national office in Philadelphia. "The American Friends service committee presents the religious society of Friends in efforts to relieve human suffering and to promote international good will through a ministry of reconciliation," she explained. "Motivated by a desire to serve suffering humanity, the committee makes no distinctions of race, creed, religious or political affiliation."

"My job in the national office is one of coordinating student projects and college work with the whole program of service committees and making plans for summer projects," said Miss Mansfield.

Peace Caravans Among the summer projects for which she is particularly responsible is that of the peace caravans which carry on education on international relations. Student groups composed of four or five persons go to a community where a sponsoring committee has requested their services. They lead discussion groups, organize plays, debates, radio programs — everything to interest the people in current problems of international relations.

Students train at an institute of international relations, a 10-day program under guidance of leaders who are authorities in their fields, before joining a caravan group. The training institute nearest here is held at Drake university, Des Moines.

Another project is the work camps which are concentrating now on working for better race relations. There is a summer project camp at Nashville, Tenn., and a year-round camp at Flanner House, Indianapolis, Ind.

Student workers in industry projects and the program of women's service in mental hospitals are paid. Students gain actual experience in problems of labor organization and management in the former project. Mental hospital service developed in the last three

"I'M SORRY, SIR, BUT I'LL HAVE TO CHARGE YOU MORE IF YOU HAVE MORE!"

How much can you pay?

What would you think if the clerk at your favorite store asked to see what you had in your wallet before he decided what to charge you for a shirt?—

Or if, just because you happened to have some money saved up, you were asked to pay more than other people for a haircut, a movie ticket, or even such important items as rent, food and clothing.

That's exactly the kind of reasoning UAW-CIO leaders are using in their wage demands on General Motors—

They point to funds we have saved up over the years to expand and improve our plants and provide more jobs and more production. They say, "Give us that in higher wages."

General Motors does not go along with that kind of reasoning. People should not have to pay more just because they have a savings account—

For many years we have used our savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values.

And we intend to keep on doing just that. We are, at present, embarked on a very important reconversion and postwar expansion program. Our objective, now as always—to produce more and better things for more people.

Army-Navy Tilt in China Bowl

SHANGHAI (AP) — It may startle football connoisseurs to learn that the Army and Navy will meet in a bowl game (oriental style) here Dec. 1 with a ricksha race in lieu of the usual trappings of cheer leaders, bands, goats, etc. The Army and Navy teams that will meet in the "China Bowl" are not to be confused with those two gridiron giants now running amuck stateside, who tangle Dec. 1.

The Navy team under the tutelage of Lt. Comdr. A. J. (Swede) Oberlander, former Ohio State line coach, will include such familiar football characters as: Lt. Frank Ruggeri, former Purdue guard and Big Ten wrestling champion; Ensign John Hzelett, Illinois end, and Ensign Joseph Keenan, Wisconsin center.

Army Coach Lt. Alex Atty has rounded up such adepts in football as Sgt. George Stortz, a former Minnesota fullback; Lt. Truman Spain, Michigan State back and others.

Illness, Husker Power Worries Crowe

Smith, Two Reserves Still Ill; Davis Says Nebraska Improved

Still minus three flu victims, Iowa's happy Hawkeyes returned to the practice field yesterday and laid plans for stretching their current one-game winning streak when they tear into Nebraska Saturday for the swan song of the 1945 season.

Coach Glen Crowe worried, as most coaches do, about a couple of things. The primary cause of the coach's brow wrinkling was the sickness of his first string right halfback and No. 2 ground gaining asset, Nelson Smith.

Louis Ginsberg returned to practice last night, but Crowe's short of linemen was just as acute with the continued absence of Ralph Katz, second string tackle, and Bob Wischmeier, reserve end. Physicians were doubtful when the three missing members would return but the Iowa coaches were praying they would be ready when the Hawkeye caravan gets under way for Lincoln Thursday afternoon.

And the coaches found plenty of disturbing thoughts resulting from the scouting report fetched back from Nebraska's bashing of poor South Dakota. "Waddy" Davis and Maury Kent found the single and double wingback the "Potsy" Clark's Huskers a thing to think about if the Hawks want to win their fourth in a row over Nebraska.

"They're tough through the line and around the ends," Waddy warned the Hawks last night, "and they've been improving with every game this season after losing the first five."

The squad will get only two nights of intensive drills this week because Thursday the boys will take off for Des Moines, spend the night there, arrive in Lincoln in time for a workout and a Friday night's rest there and finish the trip into Lincoln Saturday morning.

But last night's workout was far from a rugged one. The team spent most of the two hours running offensive plays and looking at Cornhusker formations.

Paul Golden filled in for Smith at right half and it appeared that Johnny Hunter had cinched a starting post at left half. Art Johnson worked at fullback despite his shoulder injury and Niles was a quarter.

SUI May Get State Tourney

One of Three Likely Sites; Tank Meet Set For Feb. 23 Here

The University of Iowa's chances of landing next spring's state high school basketball tournament are very bright, according to Iowa's athletic director, E. G. (Dad) Schroeder. This week the State High School Athletic Association announced in Des Moines that the annual meet would be March 21, 22 and 23 at the Drake fieldhouse in Des Moines, in Waterloo or in the Iowa fieldhouse.

"Of course, we're anxious to have the state association give the tournament to Iowa," Dad said yesterday, "and as soon as we receive an official request from Lyle Quinn (the association's chairman), the Iowa athletic board will grant its permission, I'm sure."

He said that no official request had been tendered yet, but indicated Quinn was aware of the university's desire to hold the meet here.

Dad also pointed out the advantages of the fieldhouse as a tournament site. The enlarged seating arrangement has increased audience capacity, making room for 14,400 spectators. Dressing room facilities and automobile parking space are also superior to both those of Des Moines and Waterloo.

This season the high school tournament set up will be changed again. Sixteen teams—eight of them class B and eight class A—will come to the state finals after the field has been narrowed down in sectional, district and sub-state elimination meets. Sectional play will commence Feb. 26, district play March 7, sub-state March 14 with the finals March 21, 22 and 23.

The state high school finals were staged in Iowa City in 1940 after an 11-year absence. That year Mason City earned the state crown and in 1944 Waverly edged out Ames in the finals here.

The Iowa athletic department also announced that Iowa City will be the site of the state high school swimming championship, to be held in the university pool Feb. 23. Swimming Coach Dave Armbruster said it will be the first state meet in the local pool since the late 20's.

Roosevelt high of Des Moines is the defending state team swimming champion this year.

Sigma Nu Swamps SAE, 26-3; To Enter Finals With AKK

Sigma Nu last night halted several determined Sigma Alpha Epsilon bids, came out on top of a 26 to 3 count, and emerged as finalists in the intramural touch football league.

With Frank Tucker leading the way, the section 1 winners had little difficulty with the SAE's. It was Tucker's fine 27 yard dash early in the first period which put the winners ahead, and after that, their lead was never endangered. Minutes later, George Cebuhar, Sigma Nu right end, scored on a 12 yard pass from Chuck Uknes.

The "never-say-die" SAE's stopped a Sigma Nu scoring thrust early in the third period, but did not have enough punch to score on their own. It was then that a 40 yard throw, Uknes to Tucker, set up the winner's third score. Tucker carried it over on a wide end sweep from the 2 yard mark.

Six foot-six inch Bob Marshall reached above the SAE's defense to pull down another pass from Uknes to complete the scoring for the victorious Dubuque street six.

The losers averted a shutout by catching Marshall behind his own goal line with only seconds remaining.

A passing duel between Uknes and Bill Martin, AKK throwing star, is expected in Monday night's final fray. Martin, former Notre Dame candidate, passed Pi Kappa Alpha dizzily in their semifinal contest last week, while Uknes has quite a reputation of his own, both in leading the Sigma Nu's to an undefeated season and as a star for Eddie Anderson's Old Gold squad of several years ago.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The Nebraska football team moved indoors yesterday as Coach George (Potsy) Clark sought to ward off a threat of influenza to his players. The only varsity man affected so far is quarterback Chick Story, but Clark was taking no chances as he prepared for the closing game against Iowa. Yesterday's drill included plans for stopping Art Johnson, Jerry Niles and Nelson Smith, the Iowa threesome who upset Minnesota.

Cadet, Aggie Yardages Top Past Records

DALLAS (AP)—Army and Oklahoma A. and M.—the nation's two top offensive teams—are grinding out yardage in greater abundance than any previous college gridiron elevens in modern times.

The mighty Cadet powerhouse, with 488.2 yards average per game, led past the half-way mark—through contests of Nov. 3—according to statistics announced yesterday by Homer F. Cooke Jr., director of the national collegiate athletic bureau.

The army eleven rolled up 2,295 yards rushing and 633 passing in 30 offensive plays. The Aggies, in five games, showed 1,663 rushing and 645 passing in 321 plays—an average of 461.6 per game.

In rushing it's Army with an average of 382.7 per game, while the Aggies are second with 332.6. Louisiana state is just 1.3 yards behind Oklahoma A. and M. with its 331.3 average in six contests.

St. Mary's tops the passing teams with an average of 169.8 per game. Ranking second is Cornell with 138 passes attempted with 68 connections for an average of 156.2 in six engagements.

In punting Miami (Fla.) university, with its great kicker, Harry Graul, is in front with an average of 40.17 on 48 boots. St. Mary's comes along second with an average of 39.57 on 21 kicks.

Brandy Boiler-makers
LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(Special)—Bill Canfield, Purdue's shifty left halfback, and Gordon Logan, lightweight scrappy guard, are both officially rated as "distinguished students" among the Boiler-maker footballers.

'Cats Alert for Illini
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern yesterday sought to dispel a tendency on the part of some of his Wildcats to underestimate the power of Illinois, and he emphasized his remarks with a long defensive workout. The Illini have displayed offensive weakness most of the season, because of loss through injuries of key backs. With the exception of reserve backs John Barron and Bill Hunt, Waldorf expects all his injured players to be in shape for the season's finale against the Illini.

Hawk Coach Cautious—But Fools No One

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of feature articles about Iowa basketball players and coaches.)

By BOB FAWCETT
If you've got an appetite for good basketball, your eyes soon will get a feast when they gaze upon this season's Hawkeye cage squad, served up according to the usual Harrison recipe.

For those of you who witnessed the thrills of the hardcourt sessions at the fieldhouse last winter, this year's hoopmen will not be entirely new. But be prepared to see not only last season's Big Ten title team take the floor—but also returning Hawkeye cagers who are elevating Iowa basketball fans' thoughts to hopes of playing in Madison Square garden.

There's a man behind every team, and there's a special one behind this one. "Pops" Harrison has been around Iowa for quite a spell, and he's seen plenty of basketball—enough to keep every coach of an opposing team guessing what these Harrison-tutored players will do next.

Anyone that has attended a 40 minute session at the fieldhouse knows "Pops", but, for those who don't, watch for a short, partially bald-headed man with a voice that barks out spirited criticisms and deserved compliments that inspire his men to play real basketball for him.

Graduated in '28
"Pops" graduated from the university of Iowa in 1928. In his years as a student here he made a name for himself among basketball fans. For three years, '26, '27 and '28, he wore the Old Gold and continued even after his graduation in sharing his ability with Iowa teams. Immediately after his graduation "Pops" became assistant basketball coach under Sam Barry.

Adding to his brilliant successes in basketball, he left Iowa in 1930 and coached the Westminster college cagers, Wilmington, Pa. to a rating of the outstanding eastern team. The team won 30 of their 31 games and capped their tri-state conference championship.

The next year "Pops" returned to the University of Iowa as assistant coach in basketball and baseball. He's been here ever since.

Very few coaches are optimistic about their team's chances and Iowa's coach is no exception. When asked about the outlook, he replied, "Whatever you tell the fans, they'll be optimistic. But few people seem to realize that we lost some good men last year. Jack Spencer isn't here this year and he was the play-maker; the balance-wheel of last year's team.

Good Guards Lacking
"Bob Schultz is also gone. He's in the armed services. Bob was one of our best guards when the season ended—and that's what we're plenty short of this year—good guards. We've been switching some of the forwards up to the guard slot, but it hasn't worked out too well yet.

"Two of our men aren't in shape," "Pops" continued. "Clayton Wilkinson and Ned Postels both had major operations during the summer and it's difficult to say when they'll be ready. Ned recently sprained his ankle and, though the ankle might heal quickly, it takes a player a long time to get back in shape after he's missed one or two practice sessions.

We won the championship last year in a close squeak and, besides that, we aren't the only team that has a good carry-over in the Big Ten. Many schools are taking advantage of the ruling that a man may have four years of competition. They're bringing back a lot of players on this ruling to bolster their teams—and it doesn't matter if they're undergraduates, post-graduates—or what have you.

Plenty of Spirit
"Don't get the wrong idea, though," "Pops" added. He walked away barking instructions to squad members who promptly took heed—eager to play on a Harrison coached team.

Army Denies Big Name Stars Being Given Discharges First

By BUS HAM
WASHINGTON (AP)—The war department said yesterday it doubted if "preferential treatment" is being accorded big name athletes for demobilization in the Pacific, but it added that the matter will be "run down."

The army newspaper Stars and Stripes Monday said editorially that demobilization of baseball, football and other athletic stars with low point scores is undermining morale of service men.

"These men unquestionably are qualified for getting out under the proper procedure and no exceptions are being made, I feel sure," an officer in the personnel section told a reporter.

"Even athletes can have good reasons for getting out, and it is unfortunate that persons of prominence are seized upon as receiving preferential treatment.

"We have tried very hard to avoid preferential handling of cases, and such criticism as arises usually is based on incomplete information.

"The principal trouble is that so few persons understand the various ways that a man can qualify for discharge."

The Stars and Stripes said that since the close of the football season in Honolulu, "instead of taking their place in the demobilization parade in routine fashion according to point totals, 54 players are scheduled to fly home to the states, some for reassignment and some for discharge." The AAF Hawaiian fliers won the championship.

The majority of these were not eligible for return home under current regulations, the paper said. It also asserted that early in November 37 army airforce baseball players were flown home after playing exhibitions in the central Pacific.

'Cats Alert for Illini
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern yesterday sought to dispel a tendency on the part of some of his Wildcats to underestimate the power of Illinois, and he emphasized his remarks with a long defensive workout. The Illini have displayed offensive weakness most of the season, because of loss through injuries of key backs. With the exception of reserve backs John Barron and Bill Hunt, Waldorf expects all his injured players to be in shape for the season's finale against the Illini.

Victory No. 2 will be the target for tonight in the bombfight of St. Mary's speedy Ramblers when they entertain St. Mathias of Muscatine in a game beginning at 8 o'clock in the old City high gym.

Given impetus by their opening 53-31 trouncing of St. Peter's of Keokuk, Coach Sueppel's fast breaking quintet is being given the favorite role tonight over a St. Mathias gang that will be playing its first game. Monday Sueppel announced that Andy Chuchkalas, Rambler star of last season who has been ineligible so far this year, has become eligible and will play against Muscatine.

Chuchkalas is not expected to start tonight. But if Sueppel changes his lineup and starts hot-shot Andy at forward, Rocco and game Captain Schrader will man the guard posts and Billy Sueppel will pair with Chuchkalas in the front court. Bart Toohy will get the nod at center in either case.

St. Mary's capped two victories from the Muscatine school last season. This year's St. Mathias team has lost three lettermen by graduation, but Sueppel warned his men last night that all of the visitors' starting five had plenty of experience last year and will be aching for revenge.

Excerpts From Eva Braun's Diary Reveal Intimate Details of 'Hitler, the Lover'

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—greetings or a kind word I would have been so happy but he never thinks of anything like that," the diary said.

British intelligence reports have indicated that the dictator and Eva finally were married last spring in the chancellery beneath the ruins of Berlin and that both committed suicide the following day.

"He is only using me for very definite purposes," she wrote. "When he loves me he takes it about as seriously as his promises which he never keeps. Why does he torture me so much instead of just putting an end to the whole thing?"

"The weather is gorgeous and I, mistress of Germany's and the world's greatest man, have to sit at home and look at it through a window," said an entry dated May 10.

Upon learning of "the fat-legged" Walkure, whom a friend had told her was a substitute for her, Eva wrote that "it is mean of him not to tell me."

Jealously, she wrote "her name is Walkure and she looks it, including her legs. But these things are shapes that appeal to him. If that is true he will have her till she gets slim, unless she has Charlie's talent for thriving on worries."

Neither Walkure nor Charlie, nor another woman in Hitler's life names only as "Ondra," were identified further.

On May 28, when Eva, a sleeping pill addict, had not seen Hitler for three months, she sent an ultimatum "that is decisive for me. If I don't get an answer by 10 tonight I'll take my 25 pills and lie down peacefully."

"I'm afraid I won't get an answer today. If only someone would help me—everything is hopeless. Maybe my letter reached him at an inopportune time, or maybe I shouldn't have written at all."

Eva made several references to an apparent love nest Hitler had promised, saying once that "the house is ready but I can't go to visit him. Love does not seem to be on his program at present." The occasions when he silently gave her money peevish her.

"If only he had at least added

Armstrong Stresses Need for Continued Red Cross Activity

Emphasis on the need for continued Red Cross activity with the end of the war was the keynote of a talk by Arthur Armstrong, Junior Red Cross representative from St. Louis, last night before the board of directors of the Johnson county chapter.

"The Red Cross cannot stop now can it slip back to the old ladies' knitting club as it was often thought of before the war," Armstrong declared. He pointed out that now that some of the chapters had dropped many of their services, their only backbone is the home service. He gave five points which are necessary to educational programs in the schools, not as extra-curricular activities but as part of the required curriculum. They are:

1. First aid
2. Water safety
3. Accident prevention
4. Home nursing
5. Nutrition

As an example of the necessity of the water safety program he stated that at one time, 62 percent of the naval pre-flight cadets here at Iowa City could not swim 50 yards and a great majority of them were top flight athletes.

He declared that with a health education program made up of these five points, a missing link in the education of youth would be found. "There is a definite need for an active Junior Red Cross chapter in Iowa City; one in which all youth up through university students will participate," he said. In conclusion he explained the Junior Red Cross has a five point program and one of the points is health education. "Through this program, youth can promote good will throughout the world while doing definite service for others as well as themselves," he said. "Chapters at Iowa State college at Ames, Des Moines, Sioux City, Clinton and Council Bluffs are all very active and have found that they are needed in peace as well as in war."

During the regular business session of the meeting it was brought out that there is a need for a proper juvenile home in Iowa City to take care of juvenile transients. There have been a few cases in the past months where the Red Cross has had to care for some transients working in connection with the police department. "These cases are not the responsibility of the Red Cross but the question is, to whom does the responsibility fall?" members asked. Members of the local chapter said that there is nothing they are able to do for veterans who are unable to find housing accommodations for their families.

B-29 Sets Record With 8,198 Mile Flight From Guam

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States army airforce took a seven-year old record from Britain yesterday when a B-29 landed here after an 8,198 mile nonstop flight from Guam.

The superfortress, stripped of armament and some battle instruments, flew the long haul in 35 hours and five minutes. It passed through seven storm areas and one of its four engines was intentionally stopped to conserve fuel on the run across the United States.

The British record of 7,158 miles had remained intact since two English planes flew from Egypt to Australia non-stop in 1938. The flight ending yesterday, third non-stop trip by superfortresses from far Pacific areas, had two purposes, said the AAF: To demonstrate the range and capabilities of American military aircraft; to "show the vulnerability of our country to enemy attack from vast distances."

Despite head winds in the hours immediately after take-off and the seven weather fronts that built up high-piling clouds with turbulence and ice, the superfortress had 300 gallons of fuel left when it landed. That would have been enough to have kept it in the air for another hour and a half with the same favoring tail winds which sped the last hours of the flight.

The crew husbanded their 11,110 gallons of gasoline from the moment of take-off. The big bomber never climbed above 50 feet for the first five hours in order to conserve the fuel required to lift the 141,000 pounds of plane and gasoline to higher altitudes. Although the flight plan had contemplated altitudes above 15,000 feet, the B-29 never went above 12,000 even coming across the Rocky mountains.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, AAF commander, was at the national airport to congratulate the crewmen and to pin on each the Distinguished Flying Cross.
