More than 200 veterans cast their votes in yesterday's election revealing a choice of Ben Ellsworth, Lt. of Ottumwa, as new president of the University Veterans' association.

Says No Abandon Ship Order Issued

Submarine Contacts Made 72 to 105 Miles From Ship's Course

WASHINGTON (AP)—An officer of the Indianapolis testified yesterday that he heard no orders from the bridge to abandon ship after the 10,000-ton cruiser was apparently torpedoed July 30 with the loss of 880 men, one of the greatest disasters in naval history.

United Nations Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate yesterday approved and sent to the house legislation providing for full participation by this country in the United Nations organization.

Before the final vote the senate rejected a proposal to require the president to come to congress for authority each time American troops are furnished to the UNO security council for putting down aggression.

The proposal, sponsored by senators Wheeler (D., Mont.) and Willes (R., Ind.), as an amendment to the UNO bill, was rejected by a 65 to 9 vote.

This left in effect a requirement that the president get congressional approval only on the "numbers and types" of armed forces to be supplied. These then could be used as required by the security council.

Numerous attempts to amend the bill were rejected during several days of debate. As passed it contains all provisions recommended by the senate foreign relations committee.

When the final vote came only one Democrat, Wheeler (D., Mont.) and six Republicans—Langer (R., N. D.), Moore (R., Okla.), Revercomb (R., W. Va.), Taft (R., Ohio) and Wherry (R., Neb.)—answered "No."

Shouting "Yes" were 41 Democrats, 23 Republicans and the lone Progressive Senator La Follette (Wis.).

Unable to Remember Fight With Nurse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sobbing and wringing her hands, socialite Annie Irene Mansfeldt dramatically denied from the witness stand yesterday that she was conscious of events when she fired a bullet into the breast of nurse Vada Martin, whom she suspected of pirating the love of her husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt.

The tearful denial of knowledge of the shooting highlighted the day's testimony in Mrs. Mansfeldt's trial on a first degree murder charge.

"Do you know of your own knowledge if you shot Mrs. Martin?" Hallinan asked.

"I don't know," Mrs. Mansfeldt sobbed.

She said she did not recall telephoning the nurse for an appointment, of going to meet her, of quarreling with her about Mansfeldt or of shooting her.

Under cross examination by Prosecutor Norman Elkington, she continued to deny she remembered anything about the shooting.

Britain Claims Nazis Responsible Under Kellogg-Briand Pact

Attorney General Says Defendants Planned War in Hitler's Name

NUERNBERG (AP)—The 20 Nazi leaders on trial must bear full responsibility for Germany's greatest wrong, the crime against peace, Britain's Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross told the international military tribunal yesterday.

In a masterly five-hour presentation of the British case, Shawcross accused the defendants of piloting Germany into "naked and unashamed" aggression, and declared he was determined to prove that persons who do this "do so with a halter around their necks."

"These men were no mere tools," Shawcross declared. "They are the men whose support had built Hitler up into the position of power he occupied. They are the men whose initiation and planning, perhaps, conceived and certainly made possible the acts of aggression made in Hitler's name."

He emphasized particularly the Kellogg-Briand pact, signed in Paris in 1928, pointing out that this agreement outlawing war as an instrument of national policy was never denounced by the Nazis and hence still stands as accepted international law.

By this line of approach, Shawcross evidently sought to destroy one of the principal defense arguments—that the tribunal must apply retroactive justice to find the defendants guilty.

Shawcross' address, which was concluded only a few minutes before adjournment of yesterday's session, dealt with count two of the indictment—crimes against the peace.

The United States has already presented most of the evidence on count one, that the Nazis engaged in a conspiracy to wage aggressive war. The two remaining counts, charging war crimes and crimes against humanity, are to be prosecuted jointly by Russia and France.

U. S. Extends Loan to France

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has signed an agreement to provide France $550,000,000 in credit, it was announced officially yesterday.

The announcement was made jointly by French Ambassador Henri Bonnet and by the Washington Export-Import bank, which will provide the loan.

Carrying an interest rate of two and a half percent the loan is repayable over a period of 30 years.

The new disorders were disclosed as an Indonesian radio station, calling itself "revolt Bandoeng," broadcast yesterday that British and Indonesian forces in a conference Sunday had reached an agreement for joint responsibility in maintaining order.

Sjahrir, inaugurating a series of regular weekly press conferences, said his government was trying to control what he described as "extremists." He said he already had sent two officials to Bandoeng to urge restraint, and was attempting to halt inflammatory radio appeals by "extremist" groups in eastern Java.

The premier said that, although he still saw a possibility of coming to terms with the Dutch, the Indonesians considered full independence a "minimum requirement" for the restoration of peace in the strife-torn Netherlands East Indies.

He said dominion status would not be considered by his people.

HONOLULU (AP)—Nearly 100 ships are rushing 150,000 veterans back from the Pacific, trying to get them home by Christmas, the Pacific fleet command said yesterday.

All of the ships will reach west coast ports before Dec. 25.

Pearl Harbor Warnings Sent

Miles' Report Brings Call for MacArthur As Inquiry Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Disclosure that President Roosevelt took a personal hand in getting war warnings to the Philippines in 1941 brought a Republican demand last night that Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur be called as a witness in the Pearl Harbor inquiry.

The demand came from Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) who declared it was evident that MacArthur, then commander of army forces in the Philippines, received a great deal more information on the threat of hostilities than did army and navy commanders in Hawaii.

Ferguson, a member of the joint Pearl Harbor investigating committee, told reporters he would ask formally that MacArthur be called as a witness "if he isn't called otherwise."

Roosevelt's Role Mr. Roosevelt's role in the war warnings was developed during questioning of Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, pre-Pearl Harbor head of army intelligence. A message which the late president sent Nov. 26, 1941, to the United States commissioner in the Philippines was read into the record. It said in part:

"I consider it possible that this next Japanese aggression might cause an outbreak of hostilities between the U. S. and Japan."

There was also a memorandum from Brig. Gen. L. T. Gerow, then assistant chief of staff, relating that Nov. 27, 1941, Secretary of War Stimson told him "the president wants a warning message sent to the Philippines."

Ferguson, bringing in a MacArthur affidavit of May, 1945, disclosed the Philippine army chief was getting copies of some Japanese secret message decoded by a navy cryptography station on Corregidor. Miles had testified that the war department here did not send any such secret intercepts to Hawaiian commanders.

The MacArthur affidavit contained, too, a statement that "dispatches from the war department gave me ample and complete information and advice for the purpose of altering" the defending forces in the islands.

Sjahrir, British Try To Halt Disorders In Indonesian Strife

BATAVIA, Java (AP)—British reinforcements were sent to troubled Bandoeng by air yesterday and Premier Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian government declared he had sent representatives there to try to halt mounting disorders.

A British press statement said 40 persons, most of them Eurasians, were killed, injured or missing after their homes were set afire in Bandoeng during the last week.

The new disorders were disclosed as an Indonesian radio station, calling itself "revolt Bandoeng," broadcast yesterday that British and Indonesian forces in a conference Sunday had reached an agreement for joint responsibility in maintaining order.

Sjahrir, inaugurating a series of regular weekly press conferences, said his government was trying to control what he described as "extremists." He said he already had sent two officials to Bandoeng to urge restraint, and was attempting to halt inflammatory radio appeals by "extremist" groups in eastern Java.

He said dominion status would not be considered by his people.

Trans-Atlantic Triangle

MRS. JEAN Pauline Carbone, 19-year-old war bride of former Lieut. Harold Carbone of Rochester, N. Y., who left England by air ostensibly to join her husband, was discovered after a nation-wide search at the home of Capt. Darrell Beschen of Dubuque, Iowa.

Mrs. Carbone, after contacting her husband by phone, said she would like a divorce and would marry Capt. Beschen, who, she says, is the father of a child she expects in January.

Claims Human Rights Ignored In Disputes

Makes Outright Attack On Administration In Radio Address

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Philip Murray last night rejected President Truman's proposals for ending strikes, the CIO president charging that the Truman administration has "completely ignored human rights" in industrial disputes.

Murray, in a radio address at Pittsburgh, made an outright attack on the administration, declaring that "its rancor is confined to labor."

The CIO leader spoke after machinery designed to settle the nation's No. 1 labor dispute—the General Motors strike which had crippled the motor car industry—began whirring on several fronts earlier in the day.

Serious Departure Murray declared that the president's proposal marks "a very serious departure from the policies which the people of this country have repeatedly approved within recent years under the leadership of President Roosevelt."

Murray said industry "has refused to engage in collective bargaining," and in the automobile dispute "industry has refused to accept voluntary arbitration." He added:

"Industry has refused to meet with the union in the steel industry though specifically requested by the federal government."

Declaring that American industry had extracted "extortionate profits" during the war period, Murray said the office of war mobilization, in a report stated recently that American industry can raise wages and salaries 24 percent and still earn more than "twice as much take home profits as it did before the war."

Other Developments The day's other major developments were:

1. G. M. officials arranged to resume conferences today with the striking CIO United Workers in the 14 day old dispute that has made 225,000 idle.

2. House leaders in Washington pressed for speedy enactment of legislation to prohibit crucial strikes until the fact-finding procedures can acquaint the public with the facts.

3. H. W. Anderson, G. M. vice-president, expressed the "hope" the General Motors strike could be settled without resorting to a fact-finding body.

4. UAW officials said President Truman's proposal that G. M. strikers return at once and abide by recommendations of a fact finding board would be placed before the union's rank and file Saturday "without recommendations" from international officers.

Troop Carrier Awaits Rescue

NEW YORK (AP)—Aid for the liberty ship Henry Ward Beecher, wallowing propellerless and helpless in the Atlantic with 541 American homeward bound troops aboard, will not arrive before some time Thursday afternoon because rescue craft were given the wrong position, the third naval district said last night.

The Beecher first was reported in distress about 340 miles northeast of Bermuda, but corrected information tonight put her position 510 miles north, northeast of Bermuda, or about 170 miles further away than originally given.

The navy, however, in its announcement tonight said there was no immediate cause for concern about the safety of those aboard—the 302nd military police escort guard company and the 542nd and 544th ordnance heavy maintenance companies—because there were no heavy seas nor any storms reported heading that way.

The Beecher was en route from Marseilles, France, to Norfolk (CQ), Va., when she lost her propeller. The seagoing tug, Restorer, started toward the Beecher from Bermuda after her position was given as 340 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Kent Ends Jail Term For Taking Document From London Embassy

HOBOKEN, N. J. (AP)—Tyler Kent, whose career as a junior American diplomat was halted in 1940 when the British imprisoned him on charges of larceny of an embassy document in London, said yesterday he took several documents because they "contained information which the senate and the people of the United States should know about."

Kent, 34, smartly dressed and smiling, made the remark as he departed from the British steamer Silver Oak, on which he sailed from London 12 days ago.

He said at a news conference that he had planned to get before the United States senate the documents he took from the embassy.

Kent served several years of a seven-year sentence after being convicted at a secret trial in Old Bailey court of "violating the official secrets acts."

When asked how he had planned to get the documents to the United States senate, Kent replied: "That is a method I had not worked out."

He dismissed as "pure invention" and "strictly fiction" published reports that 15,000 coded messages were found in his apartment and that while officials were there a telephone call came from the Italian embassy which led to discovery of an outlet by which contents of messages allegedly reached the Germans.

Kent also disclaimed reports that microfilm pictures of messages were found in possession of Anna Wolokoff, 42, daughter of a Russian admiral. She later was sentenced by the British to 10 years' imprisonment.

Today Iowa Citizens Greet an Old Friend

It seems as if that nice weather we talked about is at last here. Today Iowa Citizens will see an old friend whom they have not seen for 10 of these many days—the sun! His radiant face may be from time to time obscured by some passing high clouds but on the whole, he will be permitted to shine as he was accustomed in the days of old.

The temperature today won't be much improved over the high yesterday of 26 and the low of 20.

Says Miller Didn't Blame Klatt—Youth Defends Guard

FORT DODGE (AP)—Raymond Smith, 16, testified yesterday Ronald Miller said during an alleged beating that preceded his death "I don't blame you."

The remark, Smith told a district court jury, was made by Miller to Carl Klatt, 33, on trial for second degree murder in Miller's death, after Klatt allegedly had declared "if you won't take this beating you are going to be one dead kid."

No further mention of Miller's statement was made in clarification or elaboration by Smith, Clarrinda youth and one of seven inmates of the Eldora state training school for boys punished for a purported escape plot which led to Miller's death. Klatt was a guard at the school.

Smith said he believed Miller was given a total of "about 75" blows with a harness tug and an over-sized billy club before the night's punishment was over. Klatt's alleged remark and Miller's answer came during the session as Miller sought to evade punishment, the witness related.

Although Miller, 17, was the third inmate to deny participating in the alleged escape plot, he was the first to be beaten for it, Smith said. The next morning after the alleged beating, Miller and others were ordered to work on the school pile, where Miller collapsed. He died the next day, Aug. 29.

China Troops Raid Airfield In Manchuria

CHUNGKING (AP)—Rumors of a Chinese Communist air force in Northern Manchuria and charges of mass conscription for Nationalist forces kept the threat of renewed civil war alive in China today.

Lieut. Gen. Tu Yu-Ming's Nationalist troops seized 70 former Japanese airplanes in a surprise raid yesterday on a Communist air drome near Chihnssein, 130 miles southwest of Mukden, Associated Press correspondent Olen Clements reported. He said all were in operating condition. Rumors drifting down from Harbin said Communists had more planes and were ready to use them against Tu's forces.

Advance elements of Tu's armies were 30 miles from Mukden, waiting a go ahead signal from Russian forces before moving into the capital.

Chinese press dispatches said Gen. Chang Hsu-Shih had already moved into the city with his independent army and was waiting to welcome Tu.

United States to Raise German Food Ration

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—The United States will import food into Germany to raise the German food ration effective Jan. 1, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay said yesterday in declaring that "hunger and starvation have never been the United States' objective."

The foodstuffs, to be paid for when "Germany is able to pay," would be sufficient to increase the daily average ration of Germans in the United States occupation zone to 1,550 calories, Clay, deputy American military governor for Germany, told a meeting of the German council of state minister plenipotentiaries.

Other developments during the day were:

Publication by the Allied control council in Berlin of new laws outlawing military education and giving the council legal title to the 300 plants and other assets of the I. G. Farben Trust, Germany's greatest war production combine.

Agreement was reported among the four occupying powers on a unified denazification policy designed to blunt growing German attempts to play one of the powers against another.

Brig. Gen. William Draper, chief of the American military government's economic division, told a meeting of German finance officials that the "economic future of Germany must be solved by the Germans themselves."

Transportation still stands out as the main problem, he said in disclosing that from five to six millions tons of coal were above ground in the Ruhr that could not be moved because of rolling stock shortages.

Clay announced that the control of railroads in the American zone, which had been under direct supervision of the army, would be turned over to the military government Jan. 1.

82nd Coming Home

PARIS (AP)—The 82nd airborne division has been ordered to the Le Havre staging area between Dec. 11 and 19, theater service forces headquarters said yesterday. Advance elements will sail for home directly from Le Havre. Others will shuttle to England first.

'Books for Russia' Centers Established For Collection

Collection centers for the "Books for Russia" campaign currently being conducted are any university library, the public library and the office of the city clerk in the city hall. Book boxes have been placed in these authorized centers, and students and townspeople have been urged to take their contributions there.

A specially-designed bookplate, stating that the books are a gift from the American people, will be pasted in each volume sent abroad to help establish a firmer bond of friendship between the peoples of the two countries. If so desired, one may put his own name in the bookplate when contributions are taken to the centers.

The local committee is stressing the types of books needed for the campaign. They are modern Anglo-American works, biography, poetry, fiction, drama and books on the development of the arts and sciences in America.

The Soviets are intensely interested in the English and American classics. According to Margarita Rudomino, director of the Central Library of Foreign Languages in Moscow, readers have to sign up six or eight months in advance to get one of the few available English books left in the library.

Among popular classic writers are Shakespeare, Dickens, Chaucer, Milton, Fielding, Thackeray, Goldsmith, Longfellow, Tennyson, Shelley, Keats, Poe, Franklin, Hawthorne and Whitman.

Modern popular authors in Russia include Dreiser, Lewis, Sinclair, Hemingway, Steinbeck, Pearl Buck, DeKruif, Galsworthy, Jack London, O. Henry, Shaw, Wells, Mark Twain, Kipling, Conrad and Hardy.

The national objective of the "Books for Russia" campaign is to collect a million books. No specific goal has been set in the local campaign. New as well as used books will be accepted.

'Bon Voyage,' Iowa Seahawks

By GUS SCHRADER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

This is a tribute to a great institution whose tremendous contribution to athletics during three and a half years of world war can never be measured.

It seems only a small thing when so many others did—and gave—so much. But the Iowa pre-flight school and its sister bases helped nurse big-time athletics through one of the most crucial times in sports history. The navy encouraged sports competition during the war years as a part of its training program and preserved for us the sports world—almost as intact as it was in the old days.

All this was merely a by-product of the mighty machine that turned out the world's fittest, fightingest pilots who were to kick the devil out of the axis on the battlefronts of the world.

The navy selected the nation's finest young men, collected thousands of the best athletes and

Irish Take Third Straight, 46-27

Led again by their high-scoring forward, Merle Hoye, St. Patrick's Shamrocks chalked up their third consecutive victory last night, tripping a scrappy Cosgrove quintet, 46-27.

Hoye, who put the Irish on in front early in the first quarter, sparked his team with 20 points. Charlie Belger, guard, dumped in 11, while Maher, playing an outstanding game for the Cardinals, garnered 19 of the enemy's tallies.

The Irish were never pressed by their opponents, leading at the first quarter by an 8-4 margin and at the half, 16-8. Both teams started slowly, but the Shamrocks opened with a crippling offensive display in the second half to drive far ahead of the fighting Cardinals. Bob Brown and Belger matched the rangy Maher, point for point, and the third frame ended, 31-21.

It was all Hoye in the final frame, as St. Patrick's offensive star poured in five quick buckets while the defensive bottled up Maher to hold him to one basket. Cosgrove had bad luck throughout the game on charities and tip-ins, while the Irish missed only five of their free shots.

Mistake: 'Bama 2nd Best Team—Not Navy

NEW YORK (AP)—Alabama, not Navy, finished second to Army in the final Associated Press poll to determine the country's top ten football teams, a re-check of the 115 votes cast showed yesterday.

A tabulator's error on the lone first place vote for Alabama sent the Midshipmen into the runner-up slot with the Crimson Tide in third place.

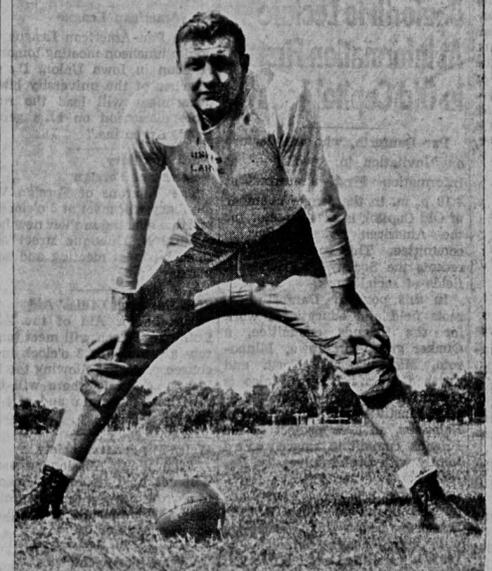

Little Hawks Take Third Victory, 72-38; Freeman Gets 32

Led by Bob Freeman's 32-point attack, the City high's Little Hawks swarmed over the Washington Demons on the local court last night, 72-38.

The Hawkslets, starting with the opening whistle, made it evident that it would be no contest. Hitting the basket with amazing consistency, Freeman, Krall and VanDeusen, only recently returned from the sick list and a standout in his new center position, paced the home team to complete victory over the outclassed Demons.

Breaking away to a 15-4 lead in the first quarter, the Hawkslets stretched it to 33-11 at half time. In less than five minutes of the third period, the scrappy Washington quintet had doubled their first half scoring, but failed to keep up with the Red and White with the score board reading 45-26 at the three quarter mark.

Jim Sangster, Bob Krall and Sonny Dean aided the cause materially with their fine floorwork and setting up of offensive plays. Freeman's amazing point total was backed up by his great floor game and VanDeusen looked good in the pivot post.

VINCE BANONIS, All-American center from Detroit U., was one of the Seahawks greatest stars. He and dozens of other former college and professional athletes attracted nation-wide acclaim for the Iowa pre-flight school during three mighty war-time seasons of football.

21 Iowa Gridders Get Major I's; Hancher Optimistic of Future

"After seeing a gallant band of Iron Men turn back the Golden Gophers of Minnesota on that memorable October afternoon in 1939, an unknown young man was heard to remark 'After that game I can never be truly discouraged.' We might well remember that today," President Hancher said in an address to the Iowa football squad, coaches, and the Quarterback club at the Hotel Jefferson last night.

"No matter what the misfortunes that have beset Iowa football in the past," Hancher continued, "I know that we will return to football heights. We must not forget that every team in the Big Ten has at some time sunk to the bottom of football despair and all have risen."

"The officials of this school know full well the problems that have confronted Iowa coaches the last few years—the lack of a talent-laden navy program from which to draw material for teams," the president continued, "and we have been satisfied with the results."

Turning to the scholastic side of the picture Hancher warned the

Hawks Average Good In First Two Games; Prepare for Denver

Easy wins in which the team made 30 percent of its shots and averaged 89 points to opponents 25.5 sent the title-defending University of Iowa basketball team off to a fast start on the 18-game schedule.

Now the Hawkeyes are preparing for a tougher foe—University of Denver here Saturday—with the hope that the Pioneers, with an all-veteran team, will give them a good testing. Iowa teams now have won 13 straight games at home and 21 of the last 22 on the fieldhouse court.

"The first games showed that we will have much deeper reserve strength than a year ago. Our shooting is very satisfactory, and our defense may develop into a better one than last year's," Coach "Pops" Harrison commented yesterday.

The balanced scoring is one of the early season features, for nine players made between 12 and 27 points in the two games. Leader is Murray Wier, with 27, followed by Noble Jorgensen, 23; and Clayton Wilkinson, 18.

Hawkeyes have made 75 field goals in 245 attempts, for .306, while opponents hit only 16 of 114 for .140. Wier made 10 of 27; Jorgensen, 11 of 28; Clayton Wilkinson, 9 of 27; Dick Ives, 8 of 36, and Herbert Wilkinson, 6 of 22.

Elliot Traded Rumors Say

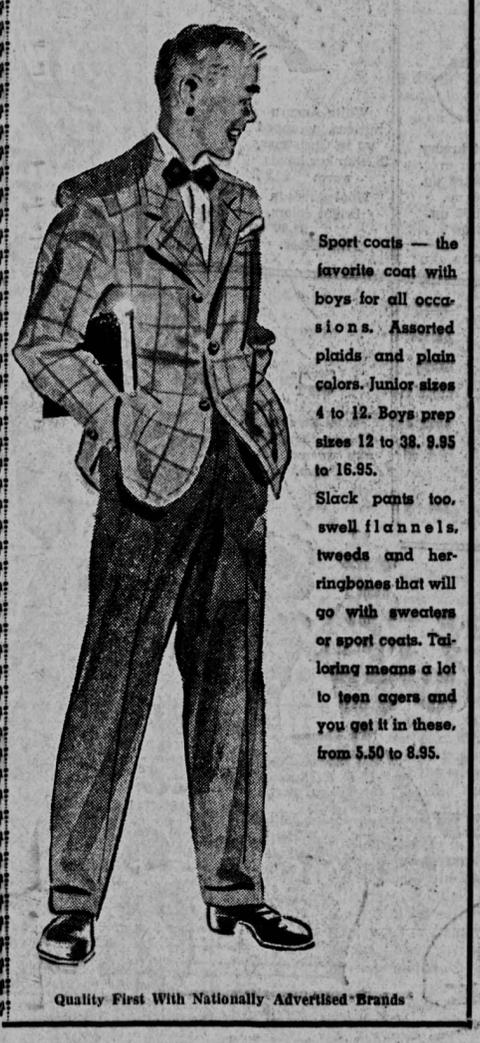

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball's "trader horns" got a bit farther yesterday with a report that the Pittsburgh Pirates might send good-hitting, great-throwing third baseman Bob Elliott to the Phillies, but just about the time the deal grew "hot," the Bucs cooled it off.

A member of the Phils' organization disclosed "we're talking it over, thereby keeping alive the only deal naming names so far reported as hundreds of baseball men gathered here for the official 1945 Minor League meetings today.

About the only member of the diamond's who's who, major or minor, missing yesterday was High Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler. His absence didn't stop the much-talked-of baseball promotion committee from meeting, and the session resulted in talk of a cleavage between some diamond men and the commissioner.

American League President Will Harridge explained that at its last session the committee and the commissioner had agreed to meet here yesterday.

Tolstoy's Idea Basis of Agricultural School

NEW YORK—Count Leo Tolstoy, great Russian novelist, never set foot on American soil, but his idea was responsible for the establishment of one of America's unique institutions—a school devoted exclusively to agriculture. The story is told on the fiftieth anniversary of the National Farm school, located near Doylestown, Pa. In 1894 a young American rabbi, Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia, visited Russia with a plan for the removal of persecuted Jews to unoccupied lands in the interior of Russia, there to be colonized on farms. Czar Alexander III was critically ill at the time and Dr. Krauskopf was unable to present his proposal personally. However, Count Tolstoy, an ardent proponent of the agricultural life, invited Dr. Krauskopf to his home. There, seated under the Poverty Tree where Tolstoy usually received those who brought their woes to him, he heard the young rabbi out. "Your plan to lead your people back to the soil," commented Tolstoy, "back to the occupation which your fathers followed with honor in Palestinian lands, is of some encouragement to me. "It shows that the light is dawning. It is the only solution of the Jewish problem. Persecution, refusal of the right to own or to till the soil, exclusion from the artisan guilds, made traders of the Jew. And the world hates the trader. "Make bread-producers of your people, and the world will honor those who give it bread to eat. "There is little chance at present," Tolstoy continued, "for a Jewish colonization scheme in Russia." But, "If the plan cannot be entered upon in Russia," he asked, "why can it not be made successful in the United States? "Lead your people to the country and to the farm. Start agricultural schools for them. Teach them to exchange the yard-stick for the hoe, the peddler's pack for the seed-bag, and you will solve the problem while it may yet be solved. "You will see the lands tilled by them overflow, as of old, with milk and honey. You will see them give of their plenty to the people of the land, and receive in return a goodly profit and esteem. And once again there will arise from among Jewish husbandmen prophets, lawgivers, inspired bards and teachers to whom the civilized world will do homage. Before Rabbi Krauskopf left, Tolstoy won his promise to found a farm school in America. In 1896, the National Farm School became a reality. The school set up as its primary objective the education of city youth, particularly Jewish boys, in a type of farm training that would enable them to enter practical agricultural pursuits. For 50 years the school has attracted most of its students from large cities. In those 50 years, the school has grown from a one-building, 122-acre farm to an attractive campus and multi-building 1,200-acre plant devoted to all phases of farming and farm management and marketing, as well as floriculture and landscape gardening. The school is non-sectarian. The students (from 17-21 years of age when admitted) live together, work and study together in the fields and classroom, and play together on their athletic fields.

Dr. Gibson, Chemist; Hageboeck, Publisher Speak to Policemen

Dr. Robert B. Gibson of the university chemistry department and W. T. Hageboeck, publisher of the Iowa City Press Citizen spoke at a meeting last night of the Iowa City policemen in service training school at the city hall.

Dr. Gibson demonstrated the process by which alcohol content is determined in the blood. He commented that when the specimen is taken, often times a doctor may use alcohol to sterilize the part of the arm from which the specimen is taken. This renders the test of the blood inaccurate, he said.

"There are various things we must watch," said the chemist. "The bottle containing the specimen must be absolutely clean and should be sealed to bear any legal question. Most important, however, is to obtain the prisoner's permission before taking the test. It should be explained just what we are trying to do."

"An intoxicated person usually has about 150 milligrams of alcohol in his blood," the doctor went on, "but some people can be intoxicated by just having 50 milligrams, which is equivalent to about two glasses of beer."

"The person who has more than 200 milligrams of alcohol in his blood is very drunk, but the police to watch out for," emphasized Dr. Gibson "are those with a lower content than that who think they're all right but really aren't. They're the ones who are dangerous. A very intoxicated driver is noticeable on the road because he weaves, but those who are partially drunk are reckless and endanger the lives of all."

By means of various chemicals and equipment, Dr. Gibson calculated the actual amount of alcohol in the blood of an intoxicated driver arrested recently. He explained that the intoxicant's weight also had to be used in the calculation.

Explaining that it takes the average body eight hours to rid itself of 150 milligrams of alcohol, Dr. Gibson advised all policemen to take special notice of an individual's eyes, breath, speech, actions and clothing to further prove intoxication besides the blood test.

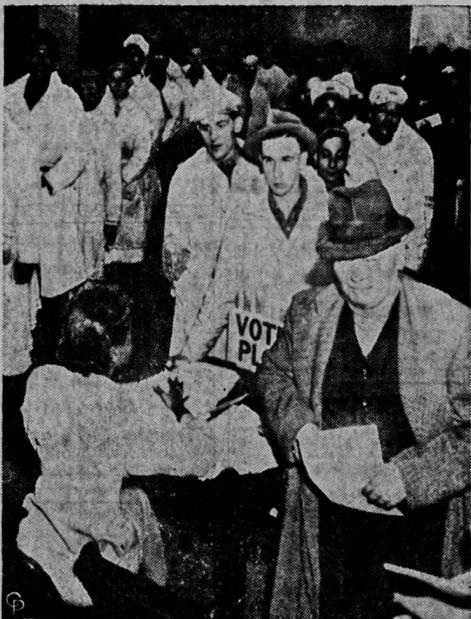

"Public Relations" was the theme of Hageboeck's talk to the police school.

BUTCHERS 'BEEF' BY BALLOT

A LARGE GROUP of packing house workers in the Chicago area are shown casting their ballots in the strike vote held under the supervision of the national labor relations board. About 28,000 workers are asking for a 17-cents-an-hour increase and a 40-hour week.

Martin, Dean Take Camera Club Prizes

Winners in the print competition sponsored by the Campus Camera club in the chemistry building last night were:

For prize prints, A. G. Martin of Davenport, three pictures; H. L. Dean, professor in the botany department, one picture.

Honorable mention went to Martin, Jack I. Young, Iowa City photographer, and Catherine Mechem, 8 E. Bloomington street.

Prints were judged by members of the Campus Camera club. While results were being tabulated, Jim Showers, A2 of Iowa City, president of the club, demonstrated the use of the speed graphic camera, explaining the function of the various devices which enable the photographer to control the pictorial situation more than has heretofore been possible.

The club has decided to take advantage of the bulletin board at the Iowa Union to display prize pictures regularly.

Announcement of plans for the next meeting will be made in the near future.

Iowa City Merchants Attribute Business Boom to Navy Cadets

By HARVEY INGHAM III

"Pre-war Iowa City was never like this!" was the reply of several local businessmen when asked yesterday whether the pre-flight school had brought much trade to their stores. Volume of business was reported in some cases to be as much as four times as great as that during the normal years before the war.

A representative cross-section of Iowa City business concerns were asked yesterday what they thought the cadets had done for the city. Every one felt that they had played a great part in keeping the town going during the war. In most cases, businessmen and women said that their stores had done much more business than if only the normal male student enrollment had been present.

"The pre-flight school took the place of a war plant," said one merchant, "and kept this town off the rocks."

"The cadets saved this town," said another.

"I never expect to see business like it again," said a third.

These were only a few of the sentiments expressed by the merchants and businessmen of the city.

800 Steaks

One restaurant owner said that on one Saturday night he cooked 800 steaks himself. "I never hope to do that kind of business again," he said.

The cadets bought huge quantities of clothes, jewelry, food, movie tickets and almost every other item that local merchants offered for sale.

Most of the things bought were bought as gifts for wives, mothers and sweethearts, said one dealer, which was a great boon for jewelry stores, women's clothing stores and others dealing in non-navy articles.

Stores Played Navy Theme

Most of the clothing stores put in stocks of navy uniforms, insignia and kindred articles. Most of the gift stores had stocks with a navy theme or things that would appeal to navy families.

The movie houses and other places of amusement did an excellent business, and in conjunction with this, the taxi and bus companies also had all the passengers they could handle, especially on Saturday nights.

The housing situation was the only department in Iowa City for which the school did no good. Of course the hotels did a rushing business, which is fine, but for returning servicemen, trying to find a place to live, it was pretty tough. The officers, of course, all lived in town, and when they were housed, there wasn't much room left.

Hotels Filled

Families and friends of the cadets kept the hotels filled, and many cadet wives, who stayed the three months that their husbands were at the school, taxed the housing facilities of the town.

Flower shops reported that the cadets bought their dates a gratifying amount of flowers, and candy and popcorn stores also reported a good cadet business.

One local merchant seemed to sum up the entire situation when he said, "Iowa City should be glad that the navy located here. It more than likely saved the town from the fate of many other cities that had no war industries or service camps."

Flag Raising Ceremony

The cameraman angles down on the impressive flag raising ceremony which took place at the Iowa pre-flight school base July 4, 1943. Cadets stand at attention while Old Glory is slowly raised skyward, realizing the stern duty that awaits them in the global war; knowing that each phase of their training must go a step further in preparing them to do their part when the coveted commission and gold wings are awarded.

Naval Air Training Played Key Role in Pacific War Victory

Immediately after the Japs struck Pearl Harbor, it became apparent to our leaders that the war in Pacific would be fought on the water—or in the air above it or the deeps below it. They realized that our naval air arm would have to be the biggest and deadliest in the world to crush Japan and complete our global strategy of winning the war.

Tough, Strong Men

They needed tough, strong, efficient men with nerves of steel and inexhaustible stamina to withstand the rigors of combat flying. Early in 1942, under the direction of Comdr. Tom Hamilton, the navy started a program of selecting the best men available and making them ready for war over the Pacific.

The program called for long physical and mental training. Pre-flight schools to accomplish this were commissioned. The one in Iowa City was the first of these.

Now, that school will close this week and approximately 800 cadets, its officer personnel, and its activities will be transferred to the naval air station at Ottumwa Dec. 7.

Since the date of its organization, approximately 17,000 cadets have undergone this phase of their training here. The first contingent came on May 28, 1942.

Two Housing Units

The cadets were housed in the Quadrangle and Hillcrest, university dormitories, until this fall when Hillcrest was converted to a dormitory for women students. In their location they had ready access to the athletic facilities of the university including the field house and its athletic fields.

At the university the cadets received no flight training. Each class underwent three months of intensive physical conditioning, indoctrination in naval history and customs, military drill and seamanship training in communications and other specialties. At the conclusion of the three months of training the cadets were sent on to the next base for primary flight training. An instructional staff and the curriculum were provided by the U. S. navy.

Four Skippers

After the death of Capt. David Hanrahan, Capt. Edward D. Washburn, USN (Ret.) took over and served in the capacity of skipper until Mar. 1, 1945, when he returned to sea duty. Comdr. George D. Fitzhugh, USNR, who had been executive officer of the Del Monte pre-flight school and the school here, became skipper succeeding Capt. Washburn and held this position until October, 1945, when he returned to civilian life. His successor is the present commanding officer Lt. Comdr. William H. Stewart Jr.

The pre-flight school here has come into contact with the public mainly through contests on the athletic field. Led by big names of pre-war athletes, the Iowa pre-flight school has given the university and the nation reason to be proud of its record.

The pre-flight school at Ottumwa will be under the direction of Capt. Thomas P. Jeter, USN, and executive officer with him will be Comdr. Joseph H. Kuhl, USN. The school will be under the direct command of Rear Admiral Frank D. Wagner.

Curtain Time

"Now in 1945, curtain time has come for the pre-flight here and the work will be carried on in Ottumwa," says "Spindrift," pre-flight magazine, but its history of three years can never be told in a brief resume. For only time to come will tell the great story that this school has helped write. Its real story, its real value has been written in Pacific skies, its worth has been shouted with bombs on Tokyo, and its valor has been proved by its boys who are up there somewhere beyond that "wild blue yonder." With justifiable pride with humility dignity, and with knowledge of a job well done, Iowa pre-flight makes a farewell bow to Iowa City."

Baptist Hiking Club To Meet for Outing

The Red Bandana Hiking club will meet at the Roger Williams house at 5 p. m. Thursday for a hike. New members will be initiated that afternoon.

This hiking club, formed from the Roger Williams fellowship, goes hiking every Thursday in the woods around Iowa City. It takes its name from the requirement that members must bring their lunches tied up in red bandanas.

DON'T LET SOAP SHORTAGES GET WORSE You can help!

Keep saving used fats to help prevent further cuts in your soap supply

As long as our country's supply of industrial fats is so low, the government must determine how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Any let-down in your saving of used kitchen fats will make our fat supply even less...and the amount allowed for soap manufacture may have to be cut accordingly. The end of rationing of food fats doesn't change the picture. Industrial fats are still very short. So keep turning in your used fats, won't you?...and speed the return of more soaps to your dealer's shelves.

Where there's fat, there's soap

Let's Look at the Wage Record

Leaders of the UAW-CIO have never accused General Motors of paying low wages.

They have not because they could not. GM hourly wage rates are substantially higher than the average for industry in general.

Under these circumstances the wage demands of UAW leaders appear fantastic.

Without offering anything in return, they demand a wage jump that would add 30% to the pay of workers already among the highest paid in the country.

In 1941, the last peacetime year, the average GM factory worker received a wage that put his income among the top one-third of all incomes in the United States—not just labor incomes but all incomes.

The average GM factory worker can buy much more food, clothing and other necessities—as well as more of the comforts of life—than the average industrial worker can.

General Motors has always paid high wages to its employees. It always expects to.

GOODBYE NAVY

You Have Become A Part of

We are sorry to hear you are leaving and even greater fliers will be in Iowa City. We've seen seventeen thousand men who later became America's greatest carrier fleets in all the oceans of the world in Navy, friends who we hope to see again in the land they defended. Wherever you are, we will be with you... and our hearts are with you again now that this great war is over.

Pre-Flight Built Great Teams

Picked as the service team of the nation in 1944 the Iowa Seahawks played great football in their 3 seasons of life. Coached by such masters of the game as Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, Lt. Don Furot and Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher, the Seahawks won 26 games dropping only 5 fustles on the gridiron.

In the other sports the Seahawks were equally impressive, and in the 3 year period they amassed a total of 82 wins, 19 losses and 3 ties in football, baseball, basketball, track, wrestling and boxing.

NAVY PRE-FLIGHT

Iowa, Iowa City Will Miss You

As you are leaving but memories of great achievements will soon be forgotten by the people of Iowa. Thousands of cadets go through your great school, your officers, Navy fliers who served with the great fleet of the world. We've made many staunch friends to whom we will again, many of whom will return now to the service. As you go Navy, our thoughts will be with you. Our sincere hope that we will meet again when the great war is over.

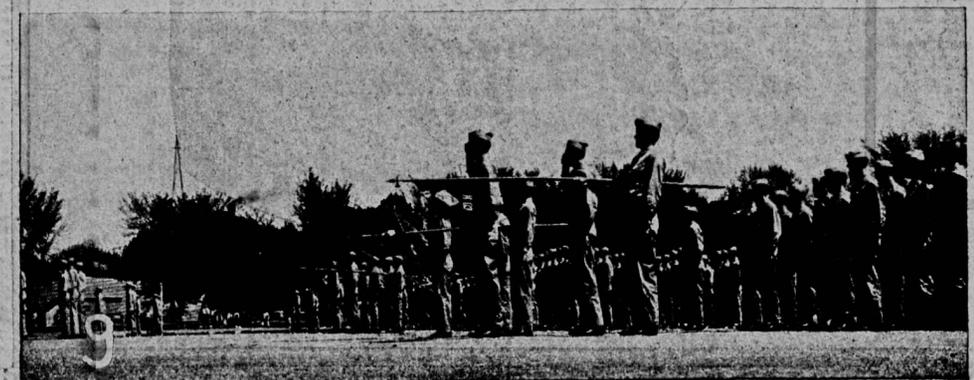

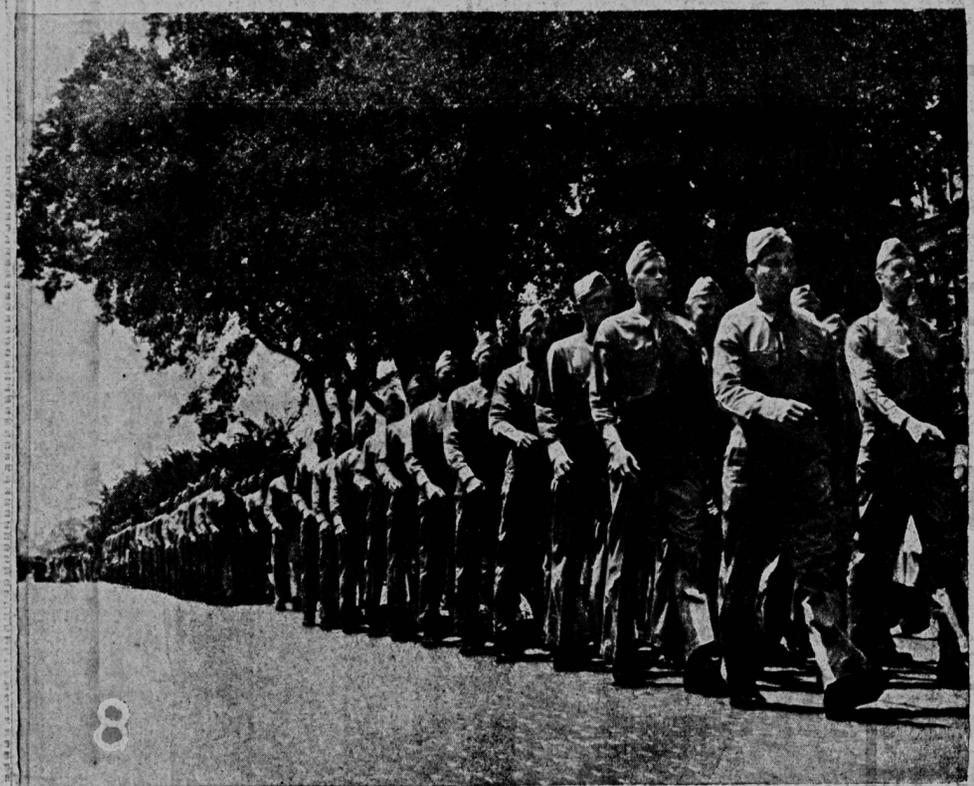

The Navy's Waves

We will miss too the many women in blue, the hundreds of our nation's finest womanhood who joined the colors with their men and served with such courage and distinction through the long years after Pearl Harbor. Your jobs were not always glamorous and exciting, yours was not always the glory but you served your country well. Iowa City will long remember its Pre-Flight and the noble women who served with it. We wish you the best of luck, Waves.
