UNO Claims Red Protest Can Be Settled

Leaders Optimistic Toward British Policy in Greece, Java

LONDON (AP)—United Nations leaders declared optimistically last night that the newly-born peace agency could settle amicably the Russian protest against British policy in Greece and Java.

They discounted talk that the surprise move by Soviet Russia and the Ukraine might create a crisis at the very outset of the United Nations organization.

The first major test of UNO ability to smooth international friction, brought the comment from UNO president, Paul-Henri Spaak, of Belgium, that there were "no grounds for pessimism" and a warning from him that falling into "the terror of the league of nations" by putting off major problems.

American officials soft-pedaled talk of a crisis and said they were not alarmed. They saw the United States moving into a middleman, pacifier role between the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom.

British Prime Minister Attlee told commons that the British aspired only to "an amicable settlement" between the Dutch and the Nationalists in Java. He did not touch on the Greek question.

Britain's attitude further was understood to be that if the Russians have suspicions, "then this is a first rate opportunity to air them and clear Britain's name."

A top-ranking security council member, who asked anonymity, admitted that the council was moving into an uncharted field, but said it was better to tackle big problems at the outset rather than "let them ferment."

The Russians themselves had nothing to add beyond the letters which Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegate, and Dmitri Manuilsky, delegate of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist republic, filed Monday night with the United Nations secretary.

Meanwhile, the Soviet delegation was reinforced by the belated arrival of Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs Andrei Vishinsky.

Some members of the council predicted that commissions probably would be appointed to carry out "on-the-spot" investigations in Iran, Greece and Indonesia if no means of immediate friendly settlement appeared.

The 11-nation body scheduled an informal, secret session for today to nominate a secretary-general.

Truman Plans Secret Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday laid the foundation for the nation's first peacetime central foreign intelligence system, which he believes will help in shaping future foreign policy.

He established three interdepartmental organizations to coordinate the government's activities in this field and kept a personal hand of control over the policy-making and operating groups.

Thus, he ended months of conferences with state, war and navy officials by deciding against any one of those departments having top charge of the program.

The president established:
1. A national intelligence authority composed of the secretaries of state, war and navy, and a personal representative still to be named by him. It was directed to plan, develop and coordinate foreign intelligence activities bearing on national security.

2. A central intelligence group to be set up by the three department secretaries.

3. An intelligence advisory board comprised of heads of the government's military and civilian intelligence agencies "having functions related to national security."

Big Three to Divide All Operable Units Of German Fleet

LONDON (AP)—An American, Russian and British communique said last night that "operable surface units" of the German fleet, together with 30 submarines, would be divided equally among the Big Three.

A total of 1,789 ships is involved—two cruisers, 30 destroyers and torpedo boats, 30 submarines, 48 depot ships and 1,679 "other units," including minesweepers, harbor patrol craft and similar ships.

Besides the 10 U-boats apiece, each nation gets:

United States—the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, seven destroyers and torpedo boats, 12 depot ships and 560 other units.

Russia—the 6,000-ton cruiser Nuernberg, 10 destroyers and torpedo boats, 15 depot ships and 507 other units.

Britain—13 destroyers and torpedo boats, 21 depot ships and 612 other units.

All of Germany's battleships were sunk during the war and the split-up leaves Germany with no combat navy. Her merchant fleet, a British source said, will be divided later although the Germans will be allowed to retain fishing vessels with which to help feed her population.

The British government, it was disclosed, has offered to transfer a number of warships allotted to the United Kingdom to the French government and negotiations are now underway.

The communique said the decision on the breakup of the German navy was made at the Potsdam conference.

50 Die as Violence Flares in North Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—News dispatches yesterday said 50 persons were killed and 100 wounded in a conflict between "Revolutionaries" and Zulfaghari tribesmen near Yangkand, in Khamsi province of Russian-occupied northern Iran.

The newspaper Ettelaat said the "Revolutionaries" first suffered heavy casualties but after receiving reinforcements, including armored cars and machine guns, they drove the Zulfaghari into their villages, which they sacked.

Meanwhile, a secret session of the Iranian parliament, called for yesterday to elect a new premier, was postponed because of a lack of a quorum. Some deputies said a successor to Ibrahim Hakimi, who resigned Sunday, would not be selected before Saturday or Sunday.

Forum Favors Compulsory Arbitration of Labor Disputes

BY JEANNE STANLEY

"Collective bargaining and the right to strike is a necessity in a democratic society," Stuart Miller, A3 of Davenport, said last night at the University Forum of the air discussion on the current strike wave.

"The conditions calling for strikes must be controlled by law," he added. "Compulsory arbitration is not the answer."

Miller was one of three speakers opening the discussion "What About Strikes?" in Studio E of the Engineering building. Jean Collier, A3 of Freeport, Ill., and Edna Herbst, A4 of Newton, also presented summaries on the labor problem, before commenting on questions asked by the audience.

Labor-management cooperation in sharing of company profits was offered as a solution by Miller. "It would be an incentive to laborers to cooperate with the management of the concern and would reap additional dollars to the workers' pocket. This is not socialism, but a fuller realization of the potentialities of the capitalistic structure of our economy," Miller concluded.

"In three ways labor and management have failed to accept their responsibilities," Miss Collier, asserted:

Fundamental Obligation
"First they have failed in their fundamental obligation to keep the economy of the nation running smoothly, with resultant losses of time and money. The production loss due to strikes in 1945 was over two billion dollars.

"Secondly, in their failure to assume self responsibilities they have made both liable to anti-strike legislation. And thirdly, they have failed you—the consumer," she said.

"Even more grave than the present situation is the trend in our economy toward more and more strikes yearly and the consequent devastating result to our future economy," Miss Collier quoted the following figures from the Bureau of Labor statistics for December, 1945: In 1942, a year in which we pledged not to strike, there were 1,300 strikes; in 1943, 3,700 strikes and in 1945, 5,000.

Must Use Force
"Where labor and management refuse to agree the government must be empowered to force, not merely request, a solution," Miss Collier concluded.

"It's about time we gave up trying to prohibit strikes and attempt to remove the causes of those strikes," Miss Herbst said. In discussing the profit sharing plan endorsed by Miller and followed by Eric Johnson in his Spokane, Washington plants, Miss Herbst said, "Historically, profit sharing has not worked too well and organized labor has not liked it. If they don't, certainly we can not expect it to be backed by management."

Wage Agreements
"Wage agreements can never be reached until management understands that, while labor is a commodity, it is a human commodity," she asserted.

Audience reaction favored compulsory arbitration for immediate action to end the strike wave and discussed labor as a tremendous social factor.

Telephone calls from the radio audience challenged the purpose of opening labor and management books to the public and the extent of the control of management by compulsory arbitration.

Mostly Clear and Warmer Here Today
A few clouds are going to invade the skies over Iowa City today but on the whole we'll have good weather. Because it is going to be warmer. No danger of any rain or snow in these clouds. The mercury has got in the habit of moving upward and will keep right on doing that today.

But yesterday morning the mercury woke up to find itself at the minus four reading. Later in the day it was up to 29 and at 12:30 this morning it was still at 28.

Short Blames Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short yesterday accused the war department of withholding vital information from him and then trying to make him the "scapegoat" for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

In a blistering statement read before the joint congressional committee investigating the Dec. 7, 1941 attack, the former Hawaiian army commander said:

1. He would have foreseen the attack and taken steps to meet it had the war department only transmitted to him its "abundance of information."

2. The top army command sought to "pass the buck" to him for "their failure to anticipate the surprise raid."

3. He believed the high command fully realized from his report of action taken after a Nov. 27, 1941, war warning that his command was alerted only against sabotage.

"I am convinced," he said, "that all who read the report thought that my action was correct or I would have received instructions to modify my orders."

With this testimony, Short thus joined Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, the 1941 Pacific fleet commander, in laying on Washington's doorstep the prime responsibility of the surprise element of the assault.

Contending Washington had the information "essential to a correct estimate of the situation" but did not give it to him, Short asserted:

"Had this information been furnished to me I am sure that I would have arrived at the conclusion that Hawaii would be attacked."

Gov. Blue Declines Comment on Proposal For Interstate Road

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Governor Blue declined yesterday to comment on a proposal that highway 6, instead of highway 30, be named the interstate highway in Iowa.

The Pottawattamie county board of supervisors last week adopted and sent to the governor a resolution asking that highway 6 be designated as the main Iowa highway in a proposed interregional system.

The state highway commission has designated highways 30 and 30-A as the state's east-west link in the trans-continental route.

"Things will take care of themselves," he told a luncheon of fourth district county officials, adding that he plans to recommend to the next legislature changes in taxation laws for the benefit of the highways.

Marine Gets Release In Degnan Kidnaping

CHICAGO (AP)—Chief of Detectives Walter Storms said last night a 22-year-old former marine questioned regarding the Degnan kidnap-killing was not being held and declared "this man is completely innocent."

Storms said the young man, who came here voluntarily from Toledo, Ohio, in the midst of his honeymoon, cooperated in answering routine questions, also had passed a lie detector test "with flying colors," and had been permitted to leave.

Slate's Attorney William J. Touhy, who participated in the questioning, said the marine related he was at his residence on the south side, many miles from the north side Degnan home, on the night of January 7, when Suzanne Degnan, 6, was abducted and her body dismembered.

Detectives said the marine, a Chicagoan, was questioned to determine if he could shed any light on ownership of one of two handkerchiefs found in an alley within two blocks of the Degnan home. The marine asserted numerals on the handkerchief were not part of his serial number, Touhy related.

Meat Industry To Be Taken Over Today

No Promise Received That Packinghouse Workers Will Return

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The government will seize strike-bound meat packing plants, probably today, it was disclosed in Washington last night.

Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson announced the seizure action would be taken to end the meat scarcity and White House sources indicated the order would be issued today.

Although little action was taken in other huge steel, electrical, automotive and farm equipment strikes—and no seizure plans were indicated in any of them—Gibson said government operation of the packing firms would go into effect even though no promise had been received that 193,000 CIO union members would return to their jobs working for the government.

AFL Agrees to Work
Gibson added that AFL meat workers, estimated at 70,000, had agreed to work under federal operation.

"The CIO people have made no commitments," Gibson told reporters after a day long meeting with union leaders in the meat dispute. "They did not say they would refuse to return—they simply did not say whether they would or not."

Gibson said this would not delay the seizure order, adding: "The government is going to seize, that's my understanding."

Later Gibson made the flat statement that the plants would be seized.

Appeals to Vinson
In the steel dispute, CIO President Philip Murray appealed to Secretary of the Treasury Vinson to "take immediate steps to terminate" tax rebate provisions in the present revenue laws. Murray contended these would enable the steel companies to keep all plants closed in 1946 and still benefit financially.

In an effort to break a deadlock in wage discussions for the nation's 650,000 shipyard workers, government procurement agencies yesterday recommended a 15 percent wage increase. This would amount to about 18 cents an hour for standard mechanics in shipyards who now receive $1.20. The proposal was made to the working committee of the shipbuilding wage stabilization conference in Washington by the war and navy departments, the maritime commission and the labor department.

Halt Work at GM
In Detroit, the strike strategy committee of the CIO United Auto workers announced 3,000 tool and die workers in the Detroit area would be called upon to halt all work on General Motors materials next Monday.

The Ford Motor company denied a report published in the Detroit News that Ford soon would offer the CIO-UAW a new wage offer probably paralleling the 18 1/2 cents boost President Truman recommended for the steel industry.

Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach appointed two government mediators in the strike of 200,000 CIO electrical workers. The two went into session with representatives of the General Electric and Westinghouse companies and the striking CIO United Electrical workers.

British Question Girl Who Insists She Is Hitler's Daughter

HERFORD, Germany (AP)—An attractive 18-year-old girl who insists she is the daughter of Adolf Hitler is being held by British military government authorities.

The girl said her mother, now dead, was a Swedish actress and was Hitler's mistress in the late twenties.

Described as a violent Nazi who hates British and Americans, the girl is being held in an internment camp near Paderborn as a security suspect and also for thorough interrogation regarding her story of her relationship to Hitler.

She was picked up in the Magdeburg area for boasting openly that she had shot an American officer for trying to seduce her.

CAR OVERTURNS IN IOWA CITY WRECK

NO ONE WAS INJURED when this 1941 Ford coach ended up on its side against a tree at Dodge and Bowery streets after a collision with a 1938 Plymouth sedan at 2 p. m. yesterday. According to the report filed with police, the Plymouth, driven by Mrs. C. W. Daek, 717 Kirkwood avenue, was headed north on Dodge street and struck the left side of the Ford, driven by R. E. Yoder, route 1, Parnell, as it was traveling west on Bowery street. Damage to the side and top of Yoder's car were estimated as $350, and to the right front of Mrs. Daek's car as $90. A mail box and a stop sign were also demolished.

Editorials:

What Can Government Do to Check Strikes?

With the total of men idle because of labor-management disputes mounting steadily, more and more people are calling for the government to step in and "do something."

Undoubtedly the absence of a suggested program for a stronger government in labor-management matters is due to the fact that there is nothing the government can do.

In the first place, it must be remembered that whatever action the government takes in the field of labor-management relations must come under a power set forth in or implied from the Constitution.

The Wagner act arises out of the commerce clause of the constitution and has been held valid by the supreme court.

Kimmel Proves Nothing

Well, the Pearl Harbor investigating committee, which promised to give the nation the truth about Dec. 7, 1941, has heard from one of the "star" witnesses—and the picture isn't any clearer now than it was.

Admiral Kimmel said he would have been better prepared if he had had more definite information from Washington.

Anyway, now that Kimmel's side of the story has been made public, what good has it done? So far it has only been the springboard for more muck-raking of our wartime leaders.

It hasn't been shown that Kimmel was improperly relieved of his command after the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Actually the responsibility is spread over a large field including officials, congressmen be paid for its services? Leading constitutional authorities say it does not.

Thus, a fact-finding board could not order a wage schedule after investigating the cost of living and General Motors' profits.

What, then, is left for the government to do in the interests of the nation's welfare? The only course open is for the president to call on public opinion to support the recommendations of the fact-finding boards.

That leaves the problem squarely up to the people. In specific incidents, it means that the people ought to oppose a company which walks out on negotiations simply because it disagrees with the president—as the United States Steel corporation did.

President Truman is doing all that he has power to do. To demand that he do more, as one of Chicago's morning newspapers constantly does, is only to confuse the real issue.

The real issue must be recognized as a dispute between labor and industry, each with sincere principles. If the nation desires a speedy settlement, and if it believes that labor's case is the strongest, the people must use their power of public opinion.

and the American public. And the investigating committee hasn't yet made the issue clear to the public.

Rapido Crossing

The survivors of the 36th division, holding a reunion last week, called for a congressional investigation of the costly attempt to send the 36th across the Rapido river in the Italian campaign.

They probably passed this resolution only as a gesture, however, because they realize no doubt that army and navy brass in unassisted for skill and dexterity in the art of passing the buck.

The "West Point Protective association" keeps right on operating, peace or war.

Readers Have More to Say About Courtesies

(Editor's Note: The Daily Iowan invites letters to the editor. They must bear the name and address of the writer, but the writer's name will not be published if so requested.)

'Mud-Slinging'

Isn't it about time we stop this childish mud-slinging in the columns of The Iowan? Where is it getting us?

When Miss Bendt wrote her letter—the first in the "series"—wasn't she trying to get at a principle rather than trying to "put us men in our places"?

Sure, I agree that she did land on us a little hard; and I do agree most sincerely that all the respect in the world is due to our female colleagues; but I don't quite believe, either, in the girls getting the attitude "I'm a woman—carry me around on a satin pillow!" No! Far from it.

This whole thing works two ways—it's all a matter of respect and self-discipline. If a woman is to command respect and attention, she has to show that respect and attention herself.

I think the best example that can be used right here is the true story of the college girl, right here at Iowa, who, whenever she entered a cafe, or any such place, with an escort, glanced casually around once and then spent the rest of her time conversing with her escort—not staring off into some other part of the room to attract attention elsewhere—making him feel he was really commanding the whole of her attention.

You know, girls, there's nothing fellows appreciate more than just that. In fact, I think they really appreciate it more than do you. Don't kid yourselves—men are flattered just as easily as are the women.

So much has been said about looks and dress, but, truthfully, don't you agree that looks mean nothing at all without personality behind them?

What about it? Can't we let this childish squabble rest for now and practice a little more of this sincere courtesy and respect for each other? Just a little while anyway! Ray Huffer.

(Though letters to the editor on this subject have not all been on the highest plane, it can be said that they have not brought results. There have been many indications and many comments recently that both men and women are more conscious of mutual courtesies. So the debate may not have been as "childish" as it sometimes seemed.—Editor.)

Reconversion for Women

It's time the women of America do a little postwar reconversion. Many of the girls in the United States have been badly spoiled by the close proximity of army camps.

Let's face the problem squarely girls. The war has diminished our number somewhat, but, even so, women will still outnumber men in the United States by a sizeable margin—possibly three to one.

It is entirely true that the new men have had contact with women all over the world. They do know every approach and angle, but they will never put the female on a pedestal or pink cloud unless she, herself, chooses to remain on that pedestal completely—unless she chooses to stop competing with the male.

You women have been endeavoring for years now to be put on a basis equal to men. We have been with you in your fight. We agree quickly and frankly that you are equal to us in every respect—in intelligence, talents, abilities, etc., but we cannot see why you want a single standard for as long as it pleases you and then expect us to grant a double standard in the social graces.

We, too, like to be called respectable names but we think the word "chivalry" should only be used in discussing the customs of by gone days. We prefer unbiased equality.

It stands to reason that, with the existing proportions of male to female, many women will live without the so-called benefits of marital bliss. The women who do marry will be the intelligent ones who live moderately in a modern world and not those who insist upon leaping wildly from the present day to the gay nineties.

Take an intelligent stand. Look at the thing fairly, for if your intelligence doesn't change you, nothing will and girls—are you going to be lonely!!

Pvt. Jack R. Pyle Salina, Kan.

(The male-female ratio, for all ages, in the United States is almost exactly one-to-one, according to the latest figures which take into account casualties in this war. The casualties weren't heavy enough to make the ratio three-to-one, as Pvt. Pyle writes.—Editor.)

The weather in 1945, according to the United States Weather bureau, was rather freakish. Now they tell us!

Birds Swallow Swords, Skip Rope, Dance—

Pastor Trains Birds for Circus

If you've ever watched the sword swallowing act at the circus with amazement you'll be even more amazed by a little fellow named "Houdini." Houdini is a blackbird, one of the stars in the Bertelle Bird circus, who downs a sword almost as long as his body without as much as a cheep.

The Bertelle Bird circus is owned and trained by the Rev. and Mrs. Wendell Hansen of Lone Tree, Rev. Hansen, studying for his doctor's degree at the University of Iowa, told this remarkable story about birds that dance, skip rope, turn backward somersaults, walk tight ropes and sing upon request.

The wish to have the canaries sing upon signals, though bird experts regarded it as impossible, began the training, which has resulted in a troupe of 45 feathered artists.

Within one year the Hansens had developed a choir which would accompany vibraphone music by Mrs. Hansen, and had trained a star soloist, Lucifer, Lucifir, who whistled "Yankee Doodle," died of pneumonia following one show.

Special traveling equipment and a truck heated to near living room temperature for transportation prevents tragedies such as these for even the most delicate tropical birds," Rev. Hansen said.

Another veteran performer is a black crow, that will play catch or flap his wings to the rhythm of the vibraphone. A pair of cockatoos dance to the music, with one performing on Rev. Hansen's hand and the other gracefully dancing on a perch.

Providing his own music is a woodpecker who will tap out the rhythm of "The Woodpecker's Song."

A new addition to the troupe is a wood thrush that has been trained to go down an inclined plane on a ball. The wood thrush is an extremely hard bird to make friends with, since he seems to have fear of human beings. This bird is not fully trained yet, but he will do his act grudgingly," Rev. Hansen said.

Then there are Punch and Judy, acrobatic parakeets, who race up and down small ladders and walk the tight rope, and Jimmy, the yellow canary, who is gradually learning to fill the soloist spot, left vacant with Lucifer's death.

Spectacular Act One spectacular act is performed by a yellow canary named Jerry. Jerry flies through a circle of fire. "This was one of the most difficult feats to teach because birds and animals have an instinctive fear of fire," Rev. Hansen said.

"Birds learn very quickly and have far more intelligence than people give them credit for" Rev. Hansen said. "Praise and kindness are important. The birds must like you, to obey when you train them. To get them to like you, you must like birds yourself."

"The training program is gradually handling the birds just a little each day until they know you," he said. "Then you can begin to teach them the tricks which take from six months to a year to learn."

The Rev. Mr. Hansen stressed the fact that it is necessary to have a collector's permit from the government to catch and keep native birds. "Otherwise, children might be influenced to keep wild birds in captivity without understanding the exact care which they must be given."

BOOM-BOOM PLAYS DEAD in a game of war with Fannie, the fan-tail pigeon in one of the featured acts of the Bertelle Bird Circus. Boom-Boom is known as the tumbler clown pigeon. The recent arrival of a third pigeon, Boomerang, resulted in disturbance of the domestic tranquility of Boom-Boom and Fannie.

Stork Behind Time In Beverly Hills

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Just one birth was recorded in 1945 in this city of 35,000 or so, including many movie stars. The stork overtook one wife, in a motor car and her husband de-toured to receiving hospital here.

A city official explained: "It isn't that our citizens don't have children; they just have to go somewhere else to have them. We don't have maternity hospitals in Beverly Hills."

Survey Begins Tomorrow

More than 200 Iowa Citizens, veterans and their wives and university students last night thrashed out the final details of the housing survey to be conducted Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In a meeting at the Elks lodge, presided over by Mrs. Robert Sears of the League of Women Voters, canvassing instructions were given to the solicitors who will question residents of the 6,000 homes in Iowa City for emergency housing for veterans and their families.

Questionnaires have been printed which are designed to find not only immediate living space, but which will also show what long range plans must be made to ease the critical housing shortage.

Mayor Wilbur J. Teeters opened the meeting with an explanation of the aims and purposes of the campaign. Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs and Gene Goodwin, J3 of Nashua, representing the UVA, also spoke briefly.

O. Clyde Southerland of the veterans' guidance center of Iowa City then spoke on general technique and attitude in canvassing. Prof. Norman Meier of the psychology department, an expert on polling, followed with specific instructions on how to conduct the canvass.

Law Students Given Preference for Rooms in Commons Dorm

Announcing further developments in the university housing situation, Dean C. Woody Thompson said late yesterday that law students will be given first consideration for rooms in Law Commons next semester.

Dean Thompson explained that married students could not be accommodated in the dormitory because of the pattern of the building. Any change in this pattern would decrease the accommodations to a fraction of the capacity.

Students now in the college of law should have their applications for rooms in before 5 p. m. Monday. Students entering the college of law next semester may apply for accommodations anytime before noon Feb. 2. Rooms not used by law students will be used to house other men students of a similar age group. The dormitory will provide board.

A board consisting of Fred W. Ambrose, University business manager; Prof. Percy Bordwell, acting dean of the college of law, and Dean Thompson will consider applications for rooms in Law Commons.

Doster's 104 Tops Big Ten Scoring Race

By Jimmy Jordan
CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Doster, Illinois freshman forward isn't having any trouble holding onto the Big Ten conference basketball scoring lead, but when Minnesota really swings into its circuit schedule the picture may change.

That's because of Big Jim McIntyre, the Gophers' freshman center sensation.

Doster, in seven games, has scored 104 points, an average of 14.9 per game, official conference statistics revealed last night. McIntyre, who held DePaul's big George Mikan to six points recently, has scored 45 points in three games for an average of 15 per game.

Doster's 104 points tops his nearest rival, Center Bob Miller of Purdue, by 25. Miller in six games has scored 79 for a 13.2 average. Glen Selbo, Michigan center, also has scored 79 points, but was ranked third because he has played in seven games — an average of 11.3 per game.

Minnesota, meanwhile, only undefeated team in the league, continued to pace its rivals offensively, with an average of 58.1/3 points per game for three conference contests.

Oddly, Illinois, with but three wins in seven starts, has the best defensive record of any team. The sixth-place Illini have allowed an average of but 39 6/7 points to be scored against them this season. And despite the fact they've lost more games than they've won, the Illini have scored 42 points more than their opponents—321 to 179.

The scoring leaders:

Advancement Sought For Negro Players By League Officials

CHICAGO (AP)—The Negro American Baseball league yesterday challenged an assertion attributed to Commissioner A. B. Chandler that Negro leagues favored keeping their players "in their own class" under a broadened system of organized baseball.

Dr. J. B. Martin, league president, declared in a prepared statement that in a recent conference with Chandler at his Cincinnati office "there was no mention of Negro leagues wanting to hold their players if they had a chance to advance."

Sellout for Minnesota Game Monday

Shamrocks, Ramblers Quicken Intra-City Feud Preparations

With but two days left to prepare for the all important intra-city parochial tilt, activity mounted last night in the rival camps.

On the south side Cliff Kritta, coach of the Irish, prescribed a menu of heavy work and lots of it for the Shamrock cagers.

The Irish mentor indicated that he would keep Bob Sullivan in his starting role at the forward post because of the fine performance Sullivan turned in in the last Irish outing against St. Ambrose.

Hoye, Sullivan Forwards
The remainder of the starting lineup will remain the same as it has been most of the year. Merle Hoye, the city's leading scorer, will pair with Sullivan at the forward posts.

Bill Seemuth will get the nod at center and Charlie Belger and Tom Hoye will share the backcourt duties.

No predictions as to the outcome of the game were forthcoming from the Shamrock coach other than "it'll be a tough ball game, and the fans won't be disappointed."

On the north side Frank Suplee began to taper off the Rambler drill for fear that the continued heavy workouts would take the sharp edge off the team.

Rambler Drills Light
Scrimmage has been at a minimum during Rambler practice sessions with the heaviest drill of the week scheduled tonight as the final tuneup for the Irish tilt.

Suplee indicated that he would continue to use the same group of starters that have opened recent Rambler tilts.

ATO's Win 73-8; Phi
Delts, Phi Gams Win

By Bruce Hamman
The field house was the center of things in the intramural basketball world last night.

Phi Gamma Delta outpointed Delta Upsilon, 32-20, in the first game. The Phi Gams won merely because they missed fewer of their shots. Larson was the lucky man with 10 points for the winners while Lacinia scored seven for the losers.

Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Chi were next on the three game card. The score was, 73-8, in favor of the ATO's. The game was a complete farce, a slaughter and should not have been played.

Meade, Schnepf and Krueger batted back nearly every shot the Delta Chi's attempted. Meade scored 22 points, thereby edging out Schnepf who tossed in 20. Wills scored half of the loser's eight points.

Phi Epsilon Pi were nosed out by Phi Delta Theta, 29-26. Although it was not a high scoring game, it was an interesting one because the lead changed hands five times in the last quarter.

A blond demon by the name of Don Nelson caused the most trouble to the losers by scoring 12 points, and it seemed that he checked the Phi Eps' rallies nearly every time by coming through with a timely two. Strick and Ginsberg were outstanding for the Phi Eps; Strick by scoring eight points and Ginsberg by his passing and defensive play.

Lambert Quits as Purdue Cage Coach

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Ward L. (Piggy) Lambert resigned yesterday as head basketball coach at Purdue university after 28 years of service, during which his teams won or shared in Big Ten titles 11 times.

Lambert will continue on the Purdue faculty as a professor of physical education and as head baseball coach.

President Frederick L. Hovde and Athletic Director Guy Mackey said in a statement that Lambert had been desirous of giving up the basketball coaching job for some time.

Lambert made this statement: "I deeply regret giving up my long association with Purdue basketball, but after extended service in a strenuous game I am anxious to be relieved of the nervous strain and mental punishment that accompanies a head coachship."

Taube Named Successor
Lambert's resignation is effective immediately. Mackey said Mel Taube, who has been Lambert's assistant, will take over the coaching job for the remainder of the season and will be assisted by Emmett Lowery, long associated with Purdue coaching and only recently back after serving in the navy.

Lambert, during his coaching career, developed teams that won 228 Big Ten games against a loss of 105, and in all games his teams won 371 and lost 152.

This statement was issued by President Hovde and Mackey after a conference with Lambert this afternoon:

"Following nearly 29 years of distinguished service at Purdue university Prof. Ward Lambert has asked to be relieved of his duties as head coach of varsity basketball. The administration has reluctantly agreed with his request to retire from an active and strenuous coaching duty, for his record at Purdue stands second to none. It was only at his insistence that his resignation as varsity basketball coach was finally accepted.

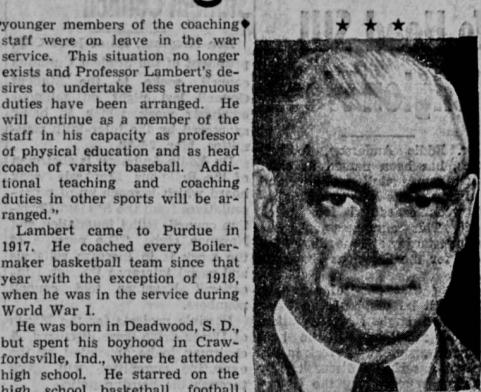

Carried on During War
"During the war years Prof. Lambert carried on at the university's request because many of the younger members of the coaching staff were on leave in the war service. This situation no longer exists and Professor Lambert's desires to undertake less strenuous duties have been arranged. He will continue as a member of the staff in his capacity as professor of physical education and as head coach of varsity baseball. Additional teaching and coaching duties in other sports will be arranged."

Lambert came to Purdue in 1917. He coached every Boiler-maker basketball team since that year with the exception of 1918, when he was in the service during World War I.

He was born in Deadwood, S. D., but spent his boyhood in Crawfordsville, Ind., where he attended high school. He starred on the high school basketball, football and baseball teams.

Lambert entered Wabash college and continued his athletic career there in the three major sports.

Look Out, Army! Returning Hamilton Issues Warning

By Gail Fowler
SEATTLE (AP)—Capt. Thomas J. Hamilton won't have any Felix Blanchards or Glenn Davises in his pocket when he returns to Annapolis to take over the academy football coaching job again, but he still warns the army to "look to its defenses this year."

The sturdy, 205-pound navy flier, interviewed on his arrival from California yesterday, said he was at once glad to return to the academy, where he coached in 1934-35-36, and "sorry to see Commander Oscar E. Hagberg leave. He's an excellent coach who did a fine job and he leaves some large shoes to fill."

He said he was also fortunate in having Line Coach Rip Miller, Plebe Coach Johnny Wilson and B Squad Coach Frank Foster returning.

Hamilton would make no definite commitments on "who will play where until I see what the men can do." Nor would he speculate too closely on what type of football he would stress.

Regarding his warning to Army, Hamilton said he was referring to a "neat publicity trick" indulged by his old friend Red Blaik, Army coach, before last year's Army-Navy game.

"Blaik said he hoped Navy wouldn't use any trick defenses, as it would be an indication the Navy regarded itself as inferior. It was a fine bit of 'psychological warfare.' But you can tell Blaik he'll have to WORRY ABOUT HIS OWN DEFENSES THIS YEAR."

"We used to play a short punt formation with a jump shift. There was some 'T' formation last year. I'll just have to tailor the system to fit the material."

Team Spirited Anew by Two Wins on Road

With hope anew after their triumphant two-game weekend on the rocky road of Big Ten basketball, Iowa's Hawkeyes returned to the practice court last night and turned eager eyes toward their Monday night meeting with league-leading Minnesota.

The Hawks can be assured of one thing, even if midwestern cage dopesters are already handing the conference crown to the Gophers:

Fourteen thousand, four hundred fans—or all that possibly can squeeze into the fieldhouse—will watch them test the unbeaten Gophers. This sellout of all reserved seats and general admission tickets was announced yesterday by Charles Galther, Iowa business manager of athletics.

This is the second home game to be labeled a complete sellout. A week ago all remaining duets were gone for the Purdue game Feb. 9.

Coach Pops Harrison said nothing in the way of a "special" offense was being built for the Gophers and that he "couldn't be sure about a starting lineup until later in the week." It is doubtful if he will change the one which started against both Purdue and Chicago: Ives, Danner, Postels and the Wilkinson brothers.

A check of scoring records reveals that Dick Ives has spurred far out in front with 120 points, helped by his two 14-point performances last weekend. Murray Wier has 107 in the 11 games. Clayton Wilkinson still holds the lead in five Big Ten games with 52 and Ives trails with 50.

Notre Dame Wins, 69-67

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's basketball team won its 11th straight victory last night by outlasting a Marquette quintet that lost three regulars on personal fouls, 69-67.

It was a battle of individual snipers. Forward Leo Klier hit nine field goals and four free throws for 22 of the Irish points and his teammate, center Vince Boryla, collected only one point less. Kenneth Wiesner, Marquette center, scored 20 points for the Hilltoppers. Howard Kallenberger, Marquette forward, tallied 19.

Rivermen Protect Clean Mark

A West Liberty team that has won one and lost four in the Eastern Iowa conference this year will provide the opposition for the University high Blue Hawks Friday night. The Rivermen will be after their fourth straight conference win.

Although the Iowa City team needs a win this week to stay in first place, the Rivermen cannot gain a clear title to the top spot, since West Branch, which has also won three and lost none, will play non-league foes this week. The Bears played Marion last night and this weekend will play in the Cedar county meet.

The Rivermen, who have averaged 36 points a game while allowing but 27, will have to put in a lot of work this week, for while the Comets from West Liberty have not won many games, they are strong defensively. And, too, in a league game anything can happen, as is so often pointed out by Coach Don Barnhart.

The league standings to date follow:

| Team | W. | L. | Pct. |
|-----------------|----|----|-------|
| University high | 3 | 0 | 1.000 |
| West Branch | 3 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Mt. Vernon | 3 | 1 | .750 |
| Monticello | 1 | 2 | .333 |
| West Liberty | 1 | 4 | .200 |
| Tipton | 1 | 5 | .167 |

ceived the most votes, but once again he failed to make the grade by a slim margin.

Leaving the ABC studios after a broadcast, a producer asked Orson Welles if he were going to do anything besides his Sunday quarter hour talks, and Welles said: "I'm not sure—you see I retired from acting once when I was 18." And that's true. Welles left Ireland at 16, and went to Spain for a year and from there to Africa where he worked two days a month and wrote two pulp stories which brought him $74. "You could live like a king on that in Africa then," he reports.

Kiwanis Hear Talk On Gas Turbines By Prof. H. O. Croft

"In the future, jet propelled planes will be used in the air above 45,000 feet and with speeds of over 600 miles per hour," Prof. H. O. Croft of the university mechanical engineering department told Kiwanians at their noon meeting yesterday at Hotel Jefferson.

Professor Croft discussed the mechanisms of gas turbines and jet propelled engines.

"People naturally wonder why engines cannot be built which have more efficiency," said Croft, "and the fact is that engineers do know how to design and construct higher efficiency engines, but the cost and maintenance of such machines would not be proportional to the energy saved. Diesel engines are expensive and limited to almost 15,000 horsepower in size."

Discussing the history of the gas turbine, Croft said that the turbine was probably invented before history was recorded. Early man may have rigged up a fan in the chimney of his dwelling to turn the spit on which an animal was being barbecued. The hot air from the fire turned the fan and consequently turned the spit. This was actually a primitive type of gas turbine.

"Today, the United States has the most efficient gas turbine in the world," said Croft. "It is a 2,500 horsepower unit and has an efficiency of 31 percent."

Croft described the turbine as a series of windmill-like wheels mounted on a rotating shaft. Air is blown from the compressor to the combustion chamber where fuel is burned under pressure and then goes to the turbine. The elementary parts of the turbine include the fuel chamber, the turbine and the compressor.

Jet propulsion was described as an outgrowth of the gas turbine. The first successful jet propelled plane was patented in 1938 by an Italian and the first plane was flown at Rome in 1940.

"For long distance flights," concluded Croft, "the conventional gas turbine geared unit with a propeller will probably prove the most economical means of flight, but for high and fast air travel, the jet propelled plane is most valuable."

Trygve K. Aageson was the luncheon guest of A. O. Leff, Kenneth M. Dunlop was the guest of William R. Hart, and Otis Walker was the guest of Wayne Enderby.

Pi Kappa Alpha Plans To Reorganize Here

Bartley is chairman of the reorganization committee. Other members are Hickerson and Herb Wilkinson, D2 of Salt Lake City, Utah.

C. Penningroth Named To Judiciary Board

Charlotte Penningroth, A3 of Cedar Rapids, was elected as the Pan Hellenic representative for the judiciary board at a meeting yesterday in Old Capitol. Her duties as a board member will start at the beginning of next semester.

The board is made up of a representative from the dormitories, one from town houses, and a senior delegate in addition to the Pan Hellenic member.

First Flight Covers To Be Available Soon For Stamp Collectors

First-flight covers available to stamp collectors throughout the country will be carried on the first airmail flight from New York and Burlington, Vt. to Ottawa, Canada by Colonial Airlines, Inc. postoffice officials said yesterday. The flight will take place Feb. 1 or shortly thereafter.

A special cachet will be applied to all covers which are sent to the New York or Burlington postoffices with the required postage and a request. An eight cent airmail stamp must be affixed to the cover.
