Short Accuses Gen. Marshall Of About-Face

Uses War Department Documents to Finish Testimony on Story

WASHINGTON (AP)—Major Gen. Walter C. Short told the Pearl Harbor committee yesterday that Gen. George C. Marshall recommended acceptance of Short's retirement request one day after "he had told me to stand pat" and to take no action toward leaving active service.

Short, 1941 army commander at Hawaii and a witness in the senate-house investigation of the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster, previously has contended that the war department singled him out to be the scapegoat.

Used Documents

The 65-year-old retired general, removed from the command shortly after the Japanese attack, used documents he said he got from war department files to round out his story.

1. He read in the morning papers of Jan. 25, 1942, that the Roberts commission appointed by President Roosevelt had found him and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific fleet, guilty of "dereliction of duty."

2. He telephoned General Marshall, 1941 chief of staff and friend of 39 years standing, immediately and Marshall told him to stand pat.

3. The next day, Marshall sent a memorandum to Secretary of War Stimson saying he had told Short "to take no action at the present time, that we had not yet had an opportunity to read the proceedings (of the Roberts commission)" but that "I am now of the opinion that we should accept General Short's application for retirement today and do this quietly without any publicity."

4. There followed correspondence between Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Attorney General Francis Biddle on how to phrase the acceptance of Short's request.

5. Finally it was decided the best way to phrase it without provoking a request for an immediate court martial was "without condemnation of any offense or prejudice to any future disciplinary action."

6. Short's retirement was made effective Feb. 28, 1942.

Short testified that Sept. 20, 1942, he agreed to pass up his rights as to time limitations on a court martial provided that when he was granted one, it be in open court.

7. A resolution adopted by the post and forwarded to Stelle stated the Legion's principles were "to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate 100 percent Americanism" and added that Hearst:

"As an individual, editorial writer and newspaper publisher has, deservedly or undeservedly, acquired the reputation of being one of the greatest rabble-rousers and one of the most intolerant men to gain national prominence in this country. In short, he has become in the minds of many sincere and honest men the apotheosis of that intolerance which is directly contrary to the ideals expressed and implied in the provisions of our constitution."

8. Sir Archibald Kerr will become the British ambassador in Washington May 1, succeeding the Earl of Halifax, the foreign office announced last night. Sir Archibald now is British ambassador to the Soviet Union.

UNO Council Orders Global 'Peace Army'

Discussion of Iran, Greece, Indonesian Issues to Be Monday

LONDON (AP)—The United Nations security council yesterday ordered formation of a global "peace army" and agreed to consider Monday Iranian, Greek and Indonesian military and political issues described as imperiling peace.

Russia which earlier in a note to the council had declared that Iranian charges of Soviet interference in Iran's affairs were "without foundation," reserved the right to oppose anything more than a formal hearing of Iran's case. The note declared that pending questions could best be settled by two-way negotiations, and that the council should not intervene.

Meeting Scheduled Monday

In a 60-minute session, the council scheduled an organization meeting of its military chiefs of staff before Feb. 2, and set next Monday for tackling the issues raised concerning Iran, Greece and Indonesia.

The decision to give quick attention to these matters came on a motion by Edward R. Stettinius Jr. who declared "any country in the United Nations with a complaint has a right to be heard at this table."

Bevin Tired of Charges

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said he was "so tired of these charges by the Soviet Union in private" that he was glad to have the situation aired promptly.

The council adopted an Egyptian proposal that Iran, the Ukraine and Greece, who are not members of the council, be invited to attend the Monday session.

Radar Contact Made—

Life on the Moon?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mankind's success in establishing radar contact with the moon was described last night as an "opening step" toward solving the age-old question whether human life exists elsewhere than on earth.

This is the view of Maj. Gen. Harold McClelland, air communications officer of the air force, when queried as to further possibilities growing out of the army signal corps announcement that it had achieved several radar contacts with the moon since Jan. 10.

McClelland told a reporter: "I see no reason why, eventually, a form of Morse code by radar could not be transmitted to some of the celestial bodies about which conjecture has been made that human life exists.

"If sufficient power could be generated to get signals out through millions of miles of space to reach the planets, intelligence could be simply transmitted by such signals.

"And if intelligent human life exists beyond the earth such signals could be answered. We might find that other planets had developed techniques superior to our own."

H. E. Burton, principal astronomer of the United States naval observatory, pointed out that conjectures have been made that life exists on the planets Mars and Venus. He declared that Mars had a thin enough atmospheric envelope to admit passage of radar signals if sufficient power were generated to span the 35,000,000 miles between the earth and Mars at their closest point of proximity.

The army's claim of being first to span the 240,000 miles between the earth and the moon with a radar signal was indirectly disputed in Los Angeles by W. E. Osborne, a former Australian army major.

Osborne said Australian scientists had broken through to the moon by radar "several times in October and November, 1941."

The army reported that its pulsed signals—traveling at the speed of light, 186,000 miles a second—made the roundtrip in two and a half seconds.

Police Attempt To Halt Riots In Bombay

BOMBAY (AP)—Police hurled tear gas and fired at least four times on mobs yesterday, but failed to halt riots in areas of Bombay blooded by three days of fighting in which 22 persons have been killed and more than 600 wounded.

In an effort to preserve peace during today's celebration of Indian Independence day, the India Congress party directed 250 volunteer police to move into the trouble areas of the city.

Last night there was some evidence of a decrease in the rioting, which began Wednesday with a demonstration on the birthday of Subhas Chandra Bose, former leader of the Japanese-sponsored Indian National army. A curfew was imposed in the affected areas from 9 p. m. to 6 a. m.

Indian Congress officials appealed again to students and others to end the disturbances. Tired police still looked forward to the calling out of military forces if necessary to assist them in rounding up the demonstrators.

Police officials said students were to blame for much of the rioting, but they declared gangs of hoodlums were responsible for the looting of grain shops and postoffices.

Police, in warning American correspondents to stay out of the riot area, approximately in the center of the city, said "This is an anti-English and anti-authority disturbance, and you're in European clothes and likely to get a concentration of soda water bottles and stones."

Fire Destroys Catholic Church in Burlington

BURLINGTON (AP)—Firemen fought for about two hours in near-zero temperatures last night before bringing under control a fire that virtually destroyed the interior of St. Paul's Catholic church on the north edge of Burlington's business district.

Despite Farnsworth's prompting, Wolfsohn told a reporter, the general land office still doesn't have a moon division. Nor does any of the 5,000 public land laws give the moon a second thought.

But Wolfsohn says he's certain that if and when the need arises, congress and the general land office will not be caught snoozing.

Wolfsohn gave this picture of the moonstruck homesteader: "First he would have to go in person and study a likely piece of land. Then he would have to hustle to his nearest land office (right now a mere 240,000 miles away) and file his claim."

FBI Experts Find Clear Fingerprints On Degnan Note

CHICAGO (AP)—Detective Lt. Timothy O'Connor announced yesterday that FBI experts in Washington had found "two fairly clear, classifiable" fingerprints on a $20,000 ransom note left by the kidnaper who killed and dismembered six-year-old Suzanne Degnan Jan. 7.

O'Connor conferred with law enforcement officials after returning from Washington where he had taken various clues for scientific study at the FBI laboratories.

Thereafter State's Atty. William J. Tuohy directed that the ransom note be "locked away from everyone."

Neither Tuohy nor other officials even hinted as to whether the fingerprints had been traced to any individual.

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—A French prosecution witness told the international military tribunal yesterday that 47 American and Dutch fliers were tortured and stoned to death at Mauthausen murder camp.

The witness, Maurice Lampe, told the court trying 22 Nazi leaders that the American and Dutch fliers arrived at Mauthausen the morning of Sept. 6, 1944. They were barefooted and dressed only in their underwear, he added, continuing:

"The fliers were taken before the SS commandant and told they were condemned to death for trying to escape. The group was led, still barefooted, to the bottom of a stone quarry.

"Each man was then loaded with stones and had to go to the top of the quarry—up all 186 steps," Lampe said.

"That first trip each man carried 25 to 30 kilograms (55 to 65 pounds) of stone. They were beaten all the way. They had to run back down again.

"On the second trip, the loads were heavier still. The blows on them were redoubled and stones were hurled at them. The same process was repeated the whole day.

"That evening the party in which I was working came from the quarry and climbed the steps which were covered with blood.

"Twenty-one bodies were lying there and the 26 others died the following morning."

HERFORD, Germany (AP)—Adolf Hitler suffered bomb shock in the July 20, 1944, attempt on his life that later led to deterioration of his mind and nerves, a statement by his Luftwaffe adjutant, 38-year-old Col. Nicolaus von Below, said yesterday.

Von Below, arrested after disguising himself as a university student, also said that Hitler and Eva Braun were married in the Berlin Reichschancellery last April 28, not April 29 as indicated by other evidence.

Von Below told British questioners that the 1944 bomb explosion knocked him unconscious, and that afterward he saw Hitler come out a doorway of the shattered conference room with his uniform badly torn, but unhurt except for a leg bruise. But later, he said, Hitler showed signs of the effect of the shock, and von Below declared this led to deterioration of the Fuehrer's mind and nerves.

Von Below said he did not attend the marriage ceremony but that he saw Hitler and Eva Braun come out of their rooms after the wedding, and that later he drank a champagne toast with Hitler and his "Bunker Family."

Nine Nations Enter Japanese War Trials

TOKYO (AP)—All of the nine nations to which Japan surrendered—including Russia—will participate in the international trials of Hideki Tojo, his Pearl Harbor cabinet, and other war leaders charged with "crimes against peace and against humanity."

This was assured yesterday when Russia, France and the Netherlands joined the war crimes tribunal.

Announcement of their participation ended weeks of uncertainty during which only the United States, China, and four members of the British Commonwealth had taken part in preparations for the trials scheduled to begin in March.

Only recently Joseph B. Keenan, United States chief prosecutor, said Moscow's continued silence "makes it look pretty certain Russia won't come in."

For the most part it's going to be clear and cold today but not bitter. Some snow is headed this way but it won't get here until tonight or later.

The high temperature yesterday was 37. Yesterday morning the low point was 21 but at 12:30 this morning it was one degree below zero and going down.

Air Corps Pilot Appeals Sentence To President Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was asked yesterday to commute a court martial sentence given a pilot from Missouri for "swiping" an army fighter plane and getting himself captured by the Germans—all without permission.

The request was made by Rep. Ploeser (R., Mo.) in behalf of Second Lt. Martin J. Monti of St. Louis county.

An army court martial in Naples, Italy, Ploeser said, sentenced the 26-year-old air corps officer on Aug. 6, 1945, to dismissal from the army, loss of pay and 15 years at hard labor for "misappropriating" a P-38 and for being absent without official permission.

The congressman said this is what happened:

"After being sent to India, Monti desired to get into action, and returned to Italy where some of his former buddies were stationed. He was accused of taking the P-38 from an airfield without permission of commanding officer and flying to the front lines.

Over the lines, his motor was knocked out by German flak and Monti bailed out. Captured by the Germans he finally managed to escape and attempted to join a United States unit which he contacted.

The unit was unable to accept him but he climbed aboard one of the trucks. When it broke down, he hailed a tank and rode with the crew into Bari, Italy where he was taken into custody some time later by military police.

Violence in New York

Disorders broke out at the main building of the strike-beset Western Union company in New York, resulting in the arrest of six persons.

Union leaders in San Francisco announced more than 30,000 longshoremen in California, Oregon and Washington would vote next week on a recommendation of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's negotiating committee to strike on or before April 1.

Clark's statement in the meat industry dispute accused President Truman of engaging in "a strike-breaking action" in directing seizure of the plants "the sole effect of which can be to play into the hands of the packers."

CIO Members Refuse to Go Back to Work

Railroad Trainmen Begin Mailing Strike Ballots to Workers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The federal government took over the nation's strike-beset meat packing industry today but the move gave no promise of an adequate meat supply.

Some 193,000 striking members of the CIO Packinghouse Workers union—three fourths of the nation's meat workers—remained on the sidelines as the government began seizing 134 plants of 19 packing companies across the land at 12:01 local time today.

The action, marking the first time in a major labor dispute that striking employees have refused to work in government-seized properties, raised a big question mark over government efforts to bring a normal meat supply to American dinner tables.

Pledged to Return

Officers of the 55,000 striking AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher workmen, have pledged their men will be back on the job.

The CIO decision, based on a union criticism that the seizure order gave no assurance of wage increases, apparently caught the government by surprise.

Within a few hours, however, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson telegraphed the union he would seek to put into effect any wage increases recommended by the meat fact-finding board.

The other developments along the labor front included:

1—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen began mailing strike ballots to its 215,000 members in a dispute over wages and working conditions and will know their answer in three weeks. A BRT strike would tie up all railroads, union spokesmen said.

Wilson Testifies

C. E. Wilson, president of the strike-bound General Motors corporation, testified before senate labor committee that labor and management could get together on their problems if the government "clarifies its position on wages, prices and strikes." Wilson avoided a direct answer when Senator Morse (R., Ore.) proposed the GM strike be submitted to an arbitrator named by President Truman.

3—A fact-finding board's study of a strike of 30,000 CIO International Harvester company employees stalled in Chicago on the question of maintenance of company properties. The board went into a closed session between management and the United Farm Equipment union.

4—Negotiations between the Ford Motor company and the CIO United Auto workers—2 cents an hour apart on their wage issue—were adjourned in Detroit until next Tuesday.

5—The ship building wage stabilization conference in Washington recessed until Tuesday without breaking its stalemate on wage increases in the ship building industry.

Editorials:

Strikes Are Battle of Principles

New facts make it more clear that the present fight between industry and labor is a struggle with tremendous social significance. It is becoming increasingly evident that a handful of industrialists is determined to crush labor, while labor is equally determined to force great concessions from industry.

Manufacturers made a hedging refutation. With all this money pouring in from the government, the steel industry doesn't need to fear strikes. It will go right on making a profit whether it turns out steel or not.

The steel industry can collect money from the government under the defense plant amortization law and the excess profits carry back law.

Thus, if a steel company had any unamortized plants on hand when President Truman ended the emergency amortization period, it can charge the balance off as a loss, thus theoretically going into the "red." The company still has the property, of course, even if it isn't amortized.

Under the excess profits carry back law, any corporation which doesn't make a "normal" profit during the war emergency period (which hasn't officially ended) can draw as much in tax refunds as could be made in profits. Thus, if a company which made $1,000,000 in prewar years didn't operate this year because of strikes and hence didn't make a profit, it could get $1,000,000 in tax refunds.

Thus the steel industry, to continue the example, isn't much worried about the profits it is losing because of strikes. The government will reimburse the industry. Knowing this, Benjamin F. Fairless of United States Steel can, and did, precipitate a strike.

On the other hand, the 1,650,000 striking workers are losing an estimated $13,000,000 a day. Considering that they are representing not only their own interests, but also the interests of over 50,000,000 working men and women in the country, their losses are considerable.

Yet despite these losses, the strikers have stuck steadfastly to their cause. They have refused to take wage boosts which would necessitate price increases and the resultant higher cost of living for all. And they have not agreed to raises based on longer work weeks because the result would be an increase in unemployment.

The public must understand the principles behind labor's fight. And they must understand industry's principles. Then we must move ahead to as speedy a decision as possible.

Thanks to Iowa City

A vote of grateful thanks is due Iowa City homeowners. Their cooperation in the housing survey was even more encouraging than had been hoped.

"Iowa City residents seem to be cooperating 100 percent with the housing survey," Mrs. Lyman C. White of the League of Women Voters said. This is a tribute to the city's civic pride.

It is to be hoped now that out of the results of the survey will come enough housing space to provide for the hundreds of new students who are expected on the campus for next semester.

With cooperation such as city residents have given, the solution of the problem will be considerably easier. The picture certainly is much brighter than it was a month ago.

Congress' Reputation

(From San Francisco Chronicle) Has Senator Wiley of Wisconsin adequately considered the matter when he charges the administration with "sabotaging the public's respect for congress?" If the senator will ponder a bit he should see that such an act is beyond the power of the administration.

Congress stands on its own feet. It is, if it wishes to be, completely independent of the administration. In the last analysis there is nothing the administration can compel it to do or to refrain from doing. The makers of the constitution planned it that way and arranged that only the supreme court, in addition to the people, can tell congress where to head in.

Hence, if congress lacks the respect of the people, it must be for one of two reasons—either this low public regard is due to poor information on the part of the people, who may think their representatives worse than they actually are, or congress itself sabotages its own reputation.

Now that he has quit as sun god that well known poet, Hirohito, should have lots of time to devote to the divine muse.

Otto the Great, having united the crowns of Germany and Italy in 950, received from the Pope the title of Emperor of Rome and King of Italy thus founding the Holy Roman Empire of the German nation.

William Porter's Writing Career— From Pulp to Post

William E. Porter

From Pulp to Post—that, in agents always stay out of sight and never advertise. After the introduction of the writer and agent exchange notes and come to an agreement.

Back in 1937 there appeared a story on World War I aviation in "Daredevil Aces," blood and thunder pulp magazine, by a chap called Porter. The publishers didn't know the author was 17 years old and a freshman in college, but their judgment in accepting the story proved correct, for today the name William E. Porter is well-known to magazine readers.

If your imagination tells you that magazine writers hide out in a mountain retreat trying to "get away from it all" or live in a crowded New York apartment with a paper-strewn floor, tearing their hair to write something printable, think again. The writing environment of Porter is very matter-of-fact—a university town.

Porter uses the adage of "practice what you preach" in his teaching methods in the university. His course, magazine article writing, is centered about writing and selling stories to magazines. The fact that many of his stories have appeared in popular magazines gives him a thorough background for teaching the course.

Commenting upon his early writing, Porter said "Strangely enough, I had my first story printed. I was interested in airplanes and used to build models. I happened to write a story about aviation and sent it to a pulp magazine. I was discouraged when I didn't hear from the publisher, but nine months later I received an apologetic reply from William Fay, one of the editors of Popular Publications, saying that, in cleaning his desk, he found my story and he liked it."

"At that time he didn't know my age," continued Porter, "but later he found out. From that time on we were good friends, and he tried to help me in every way. In fact, 'Daredevil Aces' and Bill Fay put me through the University of Kansas."

Porter continued, "I didn't have anything accepted for quite awhile, but I kept writing pulp stuff. As a graduation present from college, Fay introduced me to a good agent."

Porter explained that a good agent is difficult to find. "A mutual friend has to tell the agent about you and 'fix you up.' Good last year during the terrible crime wave. I thought how easy it would be to hide-out in a small town after a robbery, for the police always search the town where the crime is committed. I wrote the idea into a story and submitted it to my agent. The Post didn't like the idea of gangsters with long, black sedans, so I decided to change the idea. I made the principle character a jewel thief who escaped to a small town called Hilltop, Iowa, after the robbery. Many people in town have called me and asked if Hilltop is really Iowa City, but it isn't. It's too much trouble patterning one thing after another."

I made the principle character a jewel thief who escaped to a small town called Hilltop, Iowa, after the robbery. Many people in town have called me and asked if Hilltop is really Iowa City, but it isn't. It's too much trouble patterning one thing after another."

Porter continued, "I didn't have anything accepted for quite awhile, but I kept writing pulp stuff. As a graduation present from college, Fay introduced me to a good agent."

Porter explained that a good agent is difficult to find. "A mutual friend has to tell the agent about you and 'fix you up.' Good last year during the terrible crime wave. I thought how easy it would be to hide-out in a small town after a robbery, for the police always search the town where the crime is committed. I wrote the idea into a story and submitted it to my agent. The Post didn't like the idea of gangsters with long, black sedans, so I decided to change the idea. I made the principle character a jewel thief who escaped to a small town called Hilltop, Iowa, after the robbery. Many people in town have called me and asked if Hilltop is really Iowa City, but it isn't. It's too much trouble patterning one thing after another."

From All Around The State

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Leslie D. Doty, 26, recently discharged from the navy, died in a Council Bluffs hospital yesterday a few hours after being struck by a falling tree.

The accident occurred south of Woodbine, where he was cutting timber along the Boyer river. Fellow employees of Neilson Brothers, contractors, said that when the tree had been cut it fell on another tree, then rolled to the ground. The end of the trunk bounced eight feet in the air and struck Doty as it came down.

Coroner H. M. Hennessey said an inquest probably would be held.

DES MOINES (AP)—Clair A. Williams, Danville, asked the secretary of state yesterday for nomination papers for United States representative in the first district.

Williams, a Democrat, is the first opponent to appear against Rep. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City Republican.

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa birth rate in 1945 remained about average, the bureau of vital statistics reported yesterday.

The bureau listed 25,545 deaths compared with 26,165 in 1944, while there were 45,163 babies born last year compared to 46,914 the previous year.

DES MOINES (AP)—Confronted with the enrollment next week of an unprecedented number of new freshman students, Drake officials announced last night that the university would operate on a virtual day and night schedule next semester.

The spring semester will begin Wednesday, Jan. 30. The university had on file yesterday approximately 735 applications of new students. Of this number, 614 were returned service personnel who will attend Drake under provisions of the GI bill of rights. At present Drake has 264 former servicemen and women enrolled.

Freshman students who can not be accommodated in day-time classes will be enrolled in the new community college which holds classes in the late afternoon and evening.

DES MOINES (AP)—Jake More, Democratic state chairman, said yesterday that the war department has rejected terms under which the state fair grounds would be turned back to the state of Iowa.

The state fair board reportedly has asked the government for a settlement exceeding $500,000. "I have been informed by Washington that the general accounting office of the war department has turned down the proposed settlement," More said.

DES MOINES (AP)—A story of a navy cadet who was an old navy man. From him I got my idea for a story of a PBY airplane called "Clancy and the Old Maid" which appeared in the Post in the summer of '43."

"That fall Porter returned to Iowa City to resume work on his degree. He did a great amount of writing which appeared in Collier's, Country Gentleman and the Post. In the fall of 1944 the author joined the university faculty to teach magazine writing to students. His success in teaching the course is shown by many articles that the students have had published in various magazines."

"My last story, 'Hide-Out', took four months to write, which is much longer than usual. I got my idea when I visited Cicero, Ill., last year during the terrible crime wave. I thought how easy it would be to hide-out in a small town after a robbery, for the police always search the town where the crime is committed. I wrote the idea into a story and submitted it to my agent. The Post didn't like the idea of gangsters with long, black sedans, so I decided to change the idea. I made the principle character a jewel thief who escaped to a small town called Hilltop, Iowa, after the robbery. Many people in town have called me and asked if Hilltop is really Iowa City, but it isn't. It's too much trouble patterning one thing after another."

For would-be writers, Porter advises, "Get a background of everything possible. Take as many different courses as possible and get as many different ideas from as many different instructors as possible. In that way, you'll have a background—and that's what magazine publishers want—someone who knows what he's talking about."

A training school for officers of the 15 4-H clubs in Johnson county will take place in the C.S.A. hall in Iowa City, tonight. Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director, said yesterday. The school will begin at 7:00 p. m. following a pot luck supper at 5:30.

Mrs. Orville Hora and Harlan Stubbs of Iowa City, county club officers, and the Boys and Girls county club officers who attended the district 4-H officers training school in Cedar Rapids, will be in charge of the meeting.

All 4-H club leaders, officers and committee members are urged to attend.

Covering The Capital

WASHINGTON — The four years after Pearl Harbor saw more new faces in Washington than any similar period in the capital's history. Many of them are gone. A lot of them departed in a sometimes deserved, often undeserved hail of political or personal brickbats.

One man who saw it through without ever having his ears batted back (and that's a Washington wartime record in itself) was Uncle Sam's highest powered, lowest paid salesman—the man who sold 85,000,000 persons $157,000,000,000 worth of war and victory bonds.

A little less than four years ago, Ted R. Gamble (the first and middle names are Theodore Roosevelt, but he never uses them) slipped into Washington without the one blast on the publicity trumpets for a blind date with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

The secretary, scanning reports of the sagging bond sales, noted that Oregon was first and quickly over the top of its quota.

"Get this fellow Gamble down here," Morgenthau said. "If he can do that in Oregon, maybe he can do it in the nation."

Gamble came and did. He went back to Oregon the other day. He left behind a couple of truckloads of verbal bouquets from the men who really know a job well done. Gamble protested they didn't belong to him. He also left behind, several lush offers from the movie industry. He took along the four $1 annual checks which were his salary.

Not in all the heterogeneous mass of wartime Washington humanity was there another government official like Ted Gamble. The 39-year-old owner of a chain of Oregon movies was about the quietest, most unpretentious, pleasant salesman I ever talked to.

To hear him tell it, war bonds just sold themselves, or if they didn't then the credit was all due to the war advertising council, or the movie stars, or the radio hawkers, or the thousand-and-one agencies that did gratis over-the-counter business in bonds and stamps.

It never seemed to occur to him at all that the director of the war finance division which he was, had a thing to do with it.

There wasn't anybody who knew more about the complex bond campaign than Gamble did, because he listened to everybody who had even the slightest contribution to make to the job he had been assigned.

Ted had gone home to his theaters, his family and his friends. The real reason he turned down those Hollywood offers is that he has five brothers getting out of the service and he wants to see them started again in civilian life on the right foot.

There has been much inside stringing talk that he may be offered the job of undersecretary. Friends think that if he were urged by Secretary Vinson or the president he would take it. If he's even half willing, it would be a shame to let a public servant like Ted Gamble escape into private industry.

The American origin of the word lynch is traced to Charles Lynch, a Virginia planter who took the law into his own hands in punishing colonist-neighbors who sympathized with George III. The origin of the word is also ascribed to England and Ireland.

500 Freshmen Expected Here By Monday

Freshman week will open Monday at 8 a. m. when first semester university students assemble in Macbride auditorium. More than 500 students are expected, according to Robert Ebel of the university examinations service. Individual schedules for testing will be distributed during the meeting.

The freshman schedule for the week includes a series of examinations, several evening programs of orientation and entertainment, and registration in Iowa Union Friday, Feb. 1, and Saturday, Feb. 2.

Examination Topics
Reading, writing, speaking, mathematics, physical development and use of libraries are topics covered in the freshman examinations. They are designed to determine general educational development and to detect both strong and weak points in each student's knowledge. The results will be used as a basis for advising students regarding future educational plans, for excusing some educationally advanced students from basic course requirements and for fitting classroom instruction to individual student needs.

Orientation activities will begin Tuesday when an assembly for entering freshmen is presented in Macbride auditorium. Student leaders will be introduced to the freshmen by Gordon Christensen, L3 of Iowa City, president of the Student Council.

Dean C. Woody Thompson of the office of student affairs will preside over an assembly Wednesday in Macbride auditorium. He will introduce President Virgil M. Hancher to the new students. Leo Cortimiglia, C4 of Iowa City, will entertain with several musical selections on his accordion.

Variety Show
A variety show, under the direction of Sally Birdsall, A4 of Waterloo, and with Stuart Miller, A3 of Davenport, acting as master of ceremonies, is scheduled for Friday, also in Macbride auditorium.

Throughout the city all churches will welcome new students at worship services Sunday, Feb. 3, as well as at student group meetings in the afternoon and evening.

ICE SKATING Melrose Lake Evenings 7 to 10 Weather Permitting Dial 2448

Former Student Co-Authors Book On Photography

Written by Thomas H. Miller, university alumnus, and Wyatt Brummitt, "This Is Photography" provides fascinating reading for anyone who has ever been inquisitive about the "whys" and "wherefores" of photography.

Miller, who received his B.A. degree from the university in 1936, is now supervisor of employ photographic training with the Eastman Kodak company. Brummitt is writer and editor for the same company. In their book they have succeeded in giving to beginning photographers a cheerful account of how pictures are made.

Miller, who studied photography under Prof. Edward F. Mason of the school of journalism, was a member of the Campus Camera club and assistant business manager of the 1936 Hawkeye, giving special attention to the pictures used.

In "This Is Photography," familiar scenes taken while Miller attended the university are included. A corner of the physics building illustrates how photographic distortion can be avoided and corrected in printing. A series of pictures on the west side of Old Capitol shows the effect of development at different temperatures for different lengths of time.

That favorite spot for pictures, the sundial west of Iowa Union, is used to illustrate the importance of cropping and composition. Pictures of Iowa athletes in action appear from time to time, evidence of Miller's work with a camera while in Iowa City.

From black-and-white prints through color photography, Miller and Brummitt, in a breezy, unpretentious manner, have anticipated questions and experiments with all types of cameras. There is advice on choosing a camera, materials and equipment. Also featured are step-by-step accounts on developing, enlarging, contact-printing and retouching.

Through it all, "This Is Photography" emphasizes the fact that the most important part of the camera is the photographer.

Matinee Dance SUI Students Urged To Attend

"The Currier Musicoeds should be congratulated upon making last Sunday afternoon's matinee dance the most successful to date," Marybeth Hartman, P4 of Vinton, chairman, declared. "I think everyone enjoyed their music and had a good time. I hope there will be as many students down in the River room tomorrow afternoon."

The matinee dance committee plans to offer special entertainment, such as the Musicoeds, and decorations in keeping with holiday themes from time to time.

Committee members act as hosts and hostesses every Sunday afternoon to see that everything runs smoothly and to enforce regulations. It is stipulated that women should not dance together, slacks may not be worn, and smoking is prohibited on the dance floor.

"Civilian attendance has begun to pick up since the departure of the pre-flight school," according to Miss Hartman. "Last week there were more fellows than girls. We'd like to see both more girls and fellows, however."

How much is Enough Lighting for Shaving?

How much is Enough Lighting for Shaving?

For exacting tasks like shaving, you need the best light you can get. The best we know of is natural daylight—as much as 1000 footcandles in the shade.

Daylight for your shaving mirror isn't always possible. But you'll find that the new improvements in artificial lighting are a long step ahead.

For instance, these new bathroom mirror brackets give far more light, and, because of their length, are almost shadowless, no matter how tall or short the user.

It's time to start making your plans to enjoy the convenience and vision-protection of new better lighting in your home.

Cards Happy: Slaughter's Back

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Three of the best men in the business have returned from the armed forces to handle the outfield chores of the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1946 pennant race.

The Red Birds received notice yesterday that Enos (Country) Slaughter had been discharged by the army airforces. He will rejoin his old teammates, Terry Moore and Harry Walker, at the special training camp for veterans, starting Feb. 18 at St. Petersburg, Fla.

ENOS SLAUGHTER Completes Cards' Outfield

An outfield of Slaughter, Moore and Walker could match any similar aggregation seen in the National league in recent years with the possible exception of Slaughter, Moore and Stan Musial. And Musial might be out of the navy in time for part of the season.

Rapid baseball fans still talk about one play of Slaughter's in the second game of the 1942 world series against the New York Yankees.

With the Cardinals leading, 4-3, Bill Dickey opened the Yankees' ninth inning with a single. Speedy Tuck Stainback was rushed in as a pinch runner. Buddy Hassett slashed a long single to right field and Stainback tore out for third.

Slaughter fielded that hit perfectly, then raced back and rifled a strike to Whitey Kurowski at third who tagged out the bewildered Stainback. The side was later retired and the Cards won the game, first of four in a row.

The throw was so good that Whitey could have handled it from a rocking chair.

MacMitchell Wins Philadelphia Mile

By Bob Cavagnaro

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Leslie MacMitchell, former New York university track star, marked his first return to mile competition in almost four years by winning the featured mile race in the Philadelphia Inquirer Invitation Indoor track and field meet last night.

Rating himself well the former I. C. 4-A and N. C. A. A., mile titleholder, covered the 12 lap mile in four minutes 14.1 seconds to win by 20 yards over Tom Quinn of the New York Athletic club, National Cross Country champion.

Wildcat Swimmers Whip Gophers, 53-31; Craig Beters Record

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern university's swimming team last night defeated the University of Minnesota, 53 to 31, and the Wildcat's put in a claim for bettering the intercollegiate freshman 200-yard breast stroke record.

At Craig, Wildcat freshman, took the event in Patton pool, going the

U High Finds West Liberty Tough, But Manages 24-21 Win

By Jerry Bloom

West Liberty threw a big scare into University high on the local floor last night, but the Rivermen managed to stall out the final minute of the game to win, 24-21. It was the Blue Hawks' fourth straight Eastern Iowa conference win.

Steve Nusser of the Rivermen and Don Wilson of the Comets bagged nine points apiece to lead the scoring parade. Outstanding in defensive and floor games for the Blue Hawks were Anderson, who had the difficult job of guarding Wilson, and Bill Greene.

In the first quarter it looked as if U. high might have an easy time of it as Donovan opened with a fielder and Nusser followed with a one-handed pivot shot. Brooke of the Comets scored a field goal and Wilson a free throw. Nusser followed with four free throws, and at the quarter, the count was 12-6.

Anderson opened the second frame with a field goal, and then Wilson with two goals and Janney with one brought the count to 14-12. The half-time count, after John Miller had dropped in a charity toss, was 15-12.

The Rivermen remained in the lead all the way, but the Comets continued to press hard, and at one point in the third quarter the count was 15-14, then 17-16. Greene, Helm and Anderson combined to make the score 25-18 in the final frame, but Wilson and Janney scored before the final two minutes began to make the count 24-21. Then the Blue Hawks began to stall and managed to control the ball until the final gun went off.

University high's reserves also won in the opener, 23 to 15, with Bob Ojemann scoring 11 markers.

Sullivan's Basket Try Futile

TYPICAL of the fast action of last night's St. Mary's-St. Patrick's feud is this first quarter business under the basket. Forward Bob Sullivan has just poked up a shot that failed to go in. Others in the picture are Merle Hoyer (left) of the Irish and Eddie Rocca of St. Mary's Ramblers.

Imp Spurt Tips Hawklets, 40-35

By Pat McParland

The Davenport Blue Devils put on a second half rally to whip Iowa City's Little Hawks, 40-35, here last night. The locals put up a valiant fight, and led the Imps for more than a half, but cooled their basket shooting and fell behind shortly after the half.

The visitors, after showing signs of falling apart in the first half, settled down to reorganize their defense to stop the locals, and pull ahead of them within two minutes of the third period. The Hawklets got away to a 10-8 lead at the first quarter, after the Blue Devils had forged ahead twice in the opening minutes.

Iowa City held a 19-16 margin at half time, with fiery Bob Krall and Bob Freeman hitting the hoop regularly. In the first half, Jim Weldon almost single handedly kept the invading quintet in the game with his one-handed push shots. His mates at times looked as though they were nervous, but managed to hold the Little Hawks to a three point margin at the half.

With four minutes remaining in the game, the Hawklets came within four points of overtaking the visitors, but again Weldon came to the rescue, aided by Paulsen and Lusk, and the score was settled. A last minute bucket by Freeman still left the local boys on the short end of a 40-35 score.

The Iowa City sophomores lost a thriller to the Davenport Juniors, 39-29. The game was close until the final period when the Imp youngsters forged ahead.

New Prospects Aid Hawk Tank Squad In Second Semester

Coach Armbruster's expectations of added strength and balance on the Hawkeye swimming squad have been boosted recently by the appearance of several new swimmers who will be enrolled for the coming semester.

Ernie Stranglen, an I winner, whose education at Iowa was interrupted by the war, will return to school. He was Nebraska state 100-yard breast stroke champion when he swam for Omaha Tech high school. Stranglen won several Big Ten races in dual meets for the Hawks in the short time he was here previously.

One of the best swimming prospects to enter the University of Iowa in many years is Dick Maine. The Des Moines swimmer comes to the Hawks with one of the best high school records in the country. For the past two years he has been national high school champion in the breast stroke. He has been state champion in fancy diving and breast stroke for the same period.

Maine was breast stroker on the Roosevelt high 180 and 300 yard relay teams which broke the national prep records. The versatile young man (he is 17) is also good in the back stroke.

Two former Cedar Rapids high school swimmers will also enter school this semester. The two men, both of whom swam for Franklin high, are Frank Howland and L. P. Lyman. Howland swims the back stroke. Lyman, who was captain of the Western Military academy swimming team for two years, does the middle distance free style events.

Wickhorst, Former Iowa Line Coach, May Coach at Cal

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The Post-Enquirer said yesterday that Frank Wickhorst has been offered the job of head football coach at the University of California.

Wickhorst was varsity line coach from 1931 to 1941. He is a graduate of Annapolis. He would succeed Lawrence T. (Buck) Shaw.

A navy commander in the pre-flight program during the war, Wickhorst is a former line coach at the University of Iowa. "Buck" Shaw is a native Iowan.

Undeclared Irish Meet Strong Kentucky Five

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky and Notre Dame, two of the best manned basketball teams in the country, will meet here tonight, and the winners will have some talking points in any future national title discussions.

A scrap is promised on the basis of past performances, but the emphasis will be on the current cage scramble. Notre Dame is undefeated in 11 games. Kentucky has lost one in 14.

Williams Signs

BOSTON (AP)—Outfielder Ted Williams, the American league's leading hitter in 1942, has signed with the Boston Red Sox for the 1946 season after three years in the marine corps.

GASSIN' with GUS

By GUS SCHRADER

IN SPITE of the fact that his Minnesota basketball team hasn't been stopped in the Big Ten yet this season, Coach Dave Mac Millan is doing plenty of worrying about Monday night's battle with Iowa in the fieldhouse. . . . Fact is, he should. . . . This talk that the Gophers haven't hit anybody tough in the conference so far is justified if you regard their recent victory over Indiana as a mere twist of the dope sheet. . . . Their other two wins were over Chicago and Wisconsin. . . .

DAVE MAC MILLAN

"Take a Lot to Nudge Us Out"

"The Hawks are really set for this one because a victory will give them at least a share of second place and maybe a slice of first place if Michigan or Northwestern cooperate by tipping Ohio State.

BUT DON'T take this Gopher bunch lightly. . . . They're no gang of kids. . . . Why, except for Freshman Jim McIntyre, the whole darn first seven or eight men are lettermen. . . . Most of them are returned servicemen, too. . . . On the first five, Don (Swede) Carlson, star forward from 1939-42, has returned from the army to spark the team's attack; Tony Jaros, letterman in 1941-42, is back with added experience on army cage teams; Ed Kernan, guard, just became eligible Dec. 20 after discharge from the air corps, and Warren Ajax, star on the 1941-42 team and also a discharged vet. . . . The list of returning servicemen doesn't stop there. . . . In fact, competition for the varsity is so hot that Don Mattson, a regular two years ago, can't even make the team this season.

PASS THE HASH

FAMILIAR FACE on the campus yesterday was that of Del Dickerhoof, Hawkeye guard of two years ago who is back from the army for the second semester. . . . Del's signed to a Cleveland Brown contract. . . . TRACK COACH George Bresnahan is a happy man these days, not so much because he's planning to have a conference championship squad either. . . . "But it certainly is great to be able to work with a bunch of fellows who constantly are trying to get in good shape and want to compete," grins George as he surveys a good-sized track squad in comparison to the lean seasons the war handed him.

"RUMMY" MACIAS is busy these days tootin' a horn for a mighty 175-pound grappler he's bringing up from Davenport for the second semester. . . . The boy's name is Fred Dexter, Rummy sez he's the best in midwest, and already a battle is looming between him and Bob Johnson for the light heavy slot on Mike Howard's wrestling team which opens a week from Monday night against Wisconsin here. . . . PEERING BEHIND THE SCENES at Big Ten basketball reveals one of the good reasons why Ohio State's Buckeyes are still up there among 'em. . . . The Bucks have potted 30 percent of their field goal attempts and 53 percent of their charity tosses. . . . JIM KEANE, former Iowa and Great Lakes navy end star, is expected to be released from the navy late this spring and probably will return for the 1946 season here. . . . Right now he's helping a blame good Ottumwa Seahawk football team protect an unbeaten mark.

Kansas Tips Iowa State

AMES (AP)—Kansas racked up its fifth straight Big Six conference basketball victory last night by edging out Iowa State, the defending champion, 50 to 47, in an overtime battle before a capacity crowd of approximately 3,500.

Gophers Risk Lead

CARRYING a big share of the basket-hanging chores for Minnesota's loop leading Gophers is Warren Ajax, star guard who starred on the 1941-42 team before going to the army. He and his veteran mates risk their lead against Purdue in Minneapolis tonight and come to Iowa City Monday for their battle with the Hawkeyes. The game is a complete sellout, assuring a capacity crowd of 14,400.

Purdue's Test Of Minnesota Tops Cage Bill

By Jerry Liska

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota's front-running Gophers, preparing for a showdown with defending champion Iowa, are on the spot in the Big Ten basketball race this weekend.

The Gophers (3-0) must entertain always-dangerous Purdue (2-4) on tonight's four-game conference card and then travel to Iowa City to face the Hawkeyes (4-1) Monday night.

Saturday night's action also takes Ohio State (5-1) to Michigan (3-4); Chicago (0-5) to Indiana (5-2); and Wisconsin (0-4) to the Chicago Stadium against Northwestern (2-2). The Hawkeyes are idle.

Should the Boiler-makers, minus Coach Ward (Piggy) Lambert for the first time in almost 30 years, triumph at Minneapolis and the Buckeyes hurdle Michigan, the Gophers would tumble from first to third place.

In that event, Ohio State would move to the top with 6-1, followed by the once-beaten Hawkeyes.

On their own court, however, the burly Gophers figure to spoil the coaching debut of Mel Taube, who succeeded Lambert when the tiny firebrand mentor resigned last Tuesday.

But if the Boiler-makers play their typical fire-wagon basketball, Coach Dave Mac Millan may lead a tired Gopher squad to Iowa

City for the important clash with the Hawks.

Ohio State may be challenged by an erratic Michigan team that scored victories over Northwestern and Illinois, Indiana, still very much in the title picture, should win easily from hapless Chicago.

The Wisconsin-Northwestern battle, opening a stadium double-header, rates a toss-up, mainly because Max Morris, 1945 conference scoring champion, has been unable to find the range in recent Wildcat starts.

Meat Survey Local Markets Suffer During Strike

A survey of seven local meat markets made yesterday by The Daily Iowan showed that as a result of the meat packers' strike, meat counters are bare of pork, hams, veal and bacon.

Iowa Citizens will still have meat on their menus, however, for the meat markets have a fairly good supply of beef. A shortage of beef is not likely, because the butchers have already bought up large supplies and are also receiving beef from small nearby packers.

Although the Iowa City butcher supply comes chiefly from local creameries and is not affected by the packing strike, there is a serious shortage of butter in the city. Grocery stores and meat markets are receiving only a limited supply of butter, which usually lasts only until early in the afternoon.

Pork, hams and bacon will continue to be conspicuously absent from meat counters until the striking workers return to the packing plants. Then, if the plants have any meat ready to send out, it will be on the market in Iowa City in a few days. If not, there will be a further shortage for a week to ten days until the meat can be processed.

The gift for answering the crackpot question included at the present time a 1946 Mercury, a two-year supply of nylons, a Bendix home washing unit and a bagful more—all of which goes to the person who can identify the "voice."

Again, my apologies, Mr. Shuffman, for all due credit should go to the author of such a cleverly-written production.

U. S. Postmasters Receive Complaints Of Damaged Packages

For many months postmasters in the United States have been receiving complaints from foreign postoffices and army and navy personnel overseas concerning the damaged condition and ruined contents of packages sent from this country.

Servicemen complain that articles in the boxes arrive spoiled or damaged, and that often the boxes have been broken open and the merchandise lost.

Foreign postoffices daily receive packages which are broken, badly soiled or which have no addresses. Often articles drop out of these and become mixed with other mail.

Despite the careful handling which all overseas packages receive, many dollars' worth of merchandise will be lost or damaged if Americans continue to ignore the wrapping, addressing and tying regulations set up by post-offices.

Postal officials say that the packages arrive in damaged conditions because senders use too light and brittle shipping containers, thin cord and wrapping paper in insufficient amounts; fail to properly pack breakable articles such as shaving lotion and jars of preserves; pack articles with sharp edges and corners so loosely that cutting the box results, and send perishable matter which is prohibited by postal regulations.

To reduce future damage to packages, the postoffice has made the following mailing suggestions:

- (1) Articles should be packed in metal, wood, solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard containers which test to at least 200 pounds.
- (2) Heavy wrapping paper and strong cord should be used. In tying, four separate pieces of cord, two lengthwise and two crosswise, and knotted at the crossings are advised.
- (3) A cushioning material is needed to pack loose articles securely.
- (4) Each package should be addressed clearly, the outer address placed directly on the wrapper instead of a gummed label. Several slips of paper with the address should be placed inside.
- (5) Under no conditions should matches or perishable foodstuffs be mailed.

City Survey Nears End

The main part of Iowa City's house-to-house search for emergency housing for veterans and their families who are planning to enroll in the university the second semester is nearly complete, according to Mrs. Robert Sears, publicity chairman for the survey.

Some districts have not been completely covered, and callbacks must be made, she said, but the drive is coming along very well.

Although the results of the long range planning survey will take some time to tabulate and analyze, Mrs. Sears said, rooms which are available immediately or in the near future will be listed Monday with the office of student affairs at the university.

Who pays the wages?

Men and women who work for wages get their pay checks from the company. Where does the company get its money?

Obviously, from the sale of its products. In other words, from other men and women who buy what workers make.

Most of what the customer pays goes for wages, directly and indirectly.

If workers ask too much for their services, the prices of the products they make get too high. Fewer customers are able to buy.

The result is fewer sales and fewer jobs.

For the sake of employees, just as much as for the sake of investors, management must keep in mind the fact that the customer pays the wages.

Thus, in the long run sales and jobs grow from a proper balance between wages and prices.
