U.S. Warns Argentina on Nazi Support

'Blue Book' Charges Plot By Germans

State Department Hits Buenos Aires Policy As Insincere Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States warned last night that Nazism lives on in Argentina—camouflaged now, but strong and awaiting "future opportunity." Economically, politically and culturally, said a sensational state department "Blue Book," the Germans "possess today in Argentina" a base to rebuild their "aggressive power during the period when the homeland is still occupied."

The report charges bluntly that the situation was plotted in advance by the Nazis with the connivance of the present Argentine regime and that the Buenos Aires government is insincere in its protestations that it adheres to the United Nations cause and has moved against fascist agents, organizations and activities.

The voluminous American finds are based on Nazi documents captured in a German salt mine and other data only now studied and verified. Their publication comes less than two weeks before the Argentine presidential elections.

The Blue Book asserts that Nazi schools still function in Argentina, along with "singing societies" and other cultural activities; that Nazi agents still operate there; that Nazi organizations still collect funds there; that Nazi businesses have not been effectively controlled and still are powerful in the Argentine economy.

It declares that the Argentine government itself is totalitarian and cites voluminous data on ruthless police methods, press and radio control and other activities, including a vast military budget which amounted to more than half of the government's total expenditures for 1945 and was four times greater than in 1941.

Secret Agent Warned PH

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional Pearl Harbor investigators heard yesterday that four days before the Japanese strike, authorities in Hawaii got word from a British secret agent that war was imminent.

The testimony came from Lt. Col. Henry C. Clausen who said he based it on affidavits he collected for former Secretary of War Stimson in a supplemental army inquiry into the disaster of Dec. 7, 1941.

Clausen said a message sent by the British from Manila to Hawaii was received during the night of Dec. 3, 1941. It discussed the Japanese movements in the Pacific and said: "It is our considered opinion that Japan envisages early hostilities with Great Britain and the United States."

It is stressed that veterans who do not attend the regular eight weeks summer session will not be permitted to enroll in the four weeks session.

This special session will enable veterans to draw their monthly checks 12 months of the year and benefit those who wish to continue their studies the year round.

Dischargee, Mother Found Dead in Home

BLAIR, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Edna Mae Brown, about 58, widow of a prominent contractor, and her 22-year-old son, Ralph, were found shot to death in her home here yesterday afternoon.

Chief of Police W. E. Gustin said the youth apparently killed his mother and then turned the gun on himself.

The bodies were discovered some 15 hours after the shooting at 11 p. m. Monday night. Time of the shooting was set by Mrs. George P. Dodson, 60, of Topeka, Kan., a bedfast roomer at the Brown home who was unable to summon help when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Brown was employed by the Paxton hotel in Omaha. Her son was recently discharged from the navy after three years service. County Attorney Walter G. Huber said he doubted whether an inquest would be necessary.

Airforces in Japan Handicapped by Lack of Pilots, Mechanics

TOKYO, Wednesday (AP)—Maj. Gen. K. B. Wolfe said today that United States airforces in Japan are a "fair weather" outfit because of a shortage of top pilots and some units are so handicapped by lack of ground crewmen that only one plane in 10 is serviceable.

Four Witnesses Testify in Trial Of Harold Nelson, Eldora Guard

FT. DODGE (AP)—Four witnesses had been called in the trial of Harold Nelson, 48, former guard at the Eldora state training school for boys, when court adjourned yesterday after attorneys earlier had completed selection of a jury of five women and seven men.

Nelson is charged with assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury on James Patrick Galvin, 17, at the school Aug. 28.

The first witness, George Harmon, Newton hotel clerk and former Eldora guard, who said he was in charge of a detail of 20 boys, testified under direct examination by Jens Grothe, special prosecutor, that he saw Nelson hit Galvin at least six times with a pick axe handle while Galvin was working on the coal pile.

On cross examination by E. H. Lundy, defense counsel, he said he couldn't tell whether they were hard or light blows, and that Galvin tried to take the handle from Nelson.

Cornac B. McKinley, former Eldora school tailor, followed Harmon and told on direct examination that Nelson hit Galvin six or seven times with the handle and at least twice on the head.

Later on cross examination by Lundy, the tailor demonstrated how the blows were administered, but said they were not hard blows. He termed the beating as continuing about two or three minutes.

Henrik Fauerby, in charge of the Eldora blacksmith shop Aug. 28, said he saw boys working on the coal pile and testified that two or three pick handles, some shovels and rakes were taken from the shop that morning. On cross examination he said he did not see Nelson or Carl Klatt, also a former guard, carrying the handles, but saw them lying on the ground.

Robert Zuetlau, 17, Otho, a former inmate, testified that Galvin was hit 30 to 35 times, five times on the head, with the pick handle wielded by Nelson. He said he saw Galvin fall on the coal pile, and that the beating by Nelson took place after that.

Court will recess from noon until 3:15 today to permit attorneys to attend funeral services for E. E. Cavanaugh, Ft. Dodge attorney and former state senator who was killed in a gun accident Saturday.

UNO Questions Refugee Bans

Restrictions Peril Rights, Freedoms; Suggest Weakness

LONDON (AP)—The United Nations assembly voted unanimously last night for an investigation of the European refugee problem after rejecting three Russian proposals for restricting political activities by individuals in displaced persons camps.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt of the American delegation led the fight against the proposed restrictions which Soviet Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Vishinsky insisted were necessary to prevent Fascist collaborators from issuing a "call to treason" in refugee camps.

Rights and Freedoms

The restrictions, Mrs. Roosevelt said in a loudly-applauded speech, "are restrictive to human rights and human freedoms."

"Are we so weak in the United Nations," she asked, "that we should forbid human beings to say what they see and hear, what they think and believe?"

The assembly was considering a proposal to have the economic and social council look into the establishment of refugee camps in Europe. The proposal provided refugees would not be compelled to return to their countries of origin if they had "valid objections."

Restrictions

Vishinsky proposed to write into the proposal these restrictions: 1—Against any anti-United Nations propaganda in the camps. 2—To control administrative personnel.

3—To return war criminals disguised as refugees to their countries of origin immediately.

Mrs. Roosevelt argued that the proposal before the assembly provided adequately for the return of war criminals which had been supported by Poland and Yugoslavia.

British Delegate Hector McNeil also opposed the Russian amendments, saying his government had always favored tolerance toward political refugees.

Council Plans Chest Drive

Plans for a Campus Chest drive to include the World Student Service Fund, the Red Cross, and the Nile Kinnick Scholarship fund were announced at Student Council meeting last night. Howard Hensleigh, L2 of Iowa City, was named executive director of the drive tentatively scheduled for April 29 through May 3.

Under the sponsorship of the Student Council, the chest will incorporate three funds which would otherwise make individual appeals to students. A goal of $4,500 has been set for the chest and Hensleigh pointed out that a dollar contributed by every student on campus could put the drive "over the top." Solicitation will be made through housing units and committees will be announced later.

Hensleigh, well known on campus before the war, has served with the paratroops in the European theater for the past three years. He is now a proctor at the Law Commons.

Association Names Local Man to Staff

AMES (AP)—R. Alan Williams, Iowa City, yesterday was named field secretary of the Iowa Swine Producers association to succeed R. L. Pemberton, Des Moines, who has accepted a position with the American Hampshire association.

The appointment of Williams was made by the executive council of the Iowa Swine Producers association and announced by William Yungclas, Webster City, association president.

Williams served as a first lieutenant in the army and was discharged Jan. 15. He was graduated from Iowa State college in 1941.

Yungclas was reelected president of the association at the annual meeting here yesterday.

Ronald M. Wilson, Sac City, was elected president of the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers association at the annual meeting yesterday.

Martial Law Imposed In Calcutta by British

CALCUTTA (AP)—The British imposed martial law in Calcutta last night, moving tanks and troops into the city to quell rioting in which 14 persons have been killed and 170 injured, including 18 United States soldiers and 20 policemen, in the last two days.

Engineers Lay Plans For Mecca Week; Ball on March 15

With war-time restrictions lifted and their ranks swelled by the influx of returned veterans, the Associated Students of Engineering met last night in studio E of the engineering building to lay plans for the 36th annual Mecca week.

For their first peace-time festival in four years, the engineering students will climax the affair with the Mecca ball, to be held in the main lounge of the Union. The Mecca queen will be presented at the dance. Tentative date for the dance was set for March 15.

A stag smoker will be held on the Thursday night preceding the ball. A list of candidates from which the queen is to be picked will be presented at the smoker.

Donald Bachman, E3 of Manly, president, announced that all seniors will take part in the traditional hunt of the Blarney stone. The stone was hidden by last year's graduating class.

Donald Hall, E3 of Tama, was named chairman of the dance committee. The ticket and publicity committee will be headed by Duane Nollsch, E3 of Marion. Mecca queen candidates will be selected by the committee headed by Robert Bell, E3 of Council Bluffs. Bachman was named chairman of the smoker committee.

Another meeting has been set for Feb. 20.

Javanese Factions Meet

BATAVIA, Java (AP)—Formal negotiations to settle the dispute over Indonesian demands for independence from Dutch colonial rule opened yesterday between acting Governor-General Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Netherlands East Indies and Premier Sutan Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic.

Chiang Kai-Shek Maintains Pledge in China As Supreme Council Honors Civil Rights

CHUNGKING (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek honored yesterday his pledge for a new birth of freedom in China.

The supreme national defense council, now China's highest ruling authority, approved the repeal or amendment of all regulations restricting freedom of speech and other civil rights.

The generalissimo had pledged the people full civil liberties in his opening address before the recent political consultation (unity) conference Jan. 12.

Fuel Arrival Halts Closure In New York

Union Rejects Offer From General Motors, Walk-Out Continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An agreement to end the Philadelphia transportation tie-up and rescinding of New York's drastic close-down order were announced last night, while General Motors wage negotiations broke up with a difference of one cent.

Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia announced the agreement after a conference with the CIO Transport Workers union and the mayor said he "felt confident that the transportation system will be in operation by morning."

Samuel said the agreement was subject to ratification by the 9,900 CIO employees whose walkout two days ago affected 3,000,000 riders of the city's transit lines. A meeting of employees was called shortly after the mayor's announcement.

Possible Break

This possible break in the Pennsylvania strike followed by several hours revocation of a drastic closure order for New York City business and amusement places after arrival of new fuel supplies.

In Pittsburgh, however, a power strike continued to halt transportation and normal operations of schools, stores and other businesses.

In the oldest current major labor dispute in the nation, the CIO United Auto workers received and rejected yesterday a General Motors offer of an 18 1/2 cent hourly wage increase to settle the 85-day walkout affecting 175,000 CIO Production employees.

Union Vice-President Walter P. Reuther said the strike could last "another two months" if GM does not meet the union demands of 19 1/2 cents, recommended by a presidential fact-finding board, and reinstatement of a union contract which GM terminated in December.

Disrupts Activities

The New York strike of 3,500 AFL Tugboat workers and crucial strikes in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia disrupted normal activities of nearly 15,000 residents of those areas, although a total of only 16,800 workers were directly involved.

In Washington, meanwhile, a high official said a steel price increase had been fixed—reportedly at $5 a ton—but was being delayed by Stabilizer John Collet's insistence that the government assure its legality by first revising the general wage-price policy. The wage-price policy statement, designed to lift the price line to allow wage increases, still was being written last night.

Another meeting of the New York Tugboat operators was called to consider further a proposal to arbitrate the dispute. The striking members of the AFL International Longshoremen's associations United Marine division agreed to arbitrate, but the operators previously failed to reach a decision on the question.

The office of defense transportation, which seized the tugboat properties a week ago, urged the workers to return "individually" for the government.

Chiang Kai-Shek Maintains Pledge in China As Supreme Council Honors Civil Rights

CHUNGKING (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek honored yesterday his pledge for a new birth of freedom in China.

The supreme national defense council, now China's highest ruling authority, approved the repeal or amendment of all regulations restricting freedom of speech and other civil rights.

The generalissimo had pledged the people full civil liberties in his opening address before the recent political consultation (unity) conference Jan. 12.

Chiang had been sharply criticized during the conference for not putting his promises into effect at once.

The strong third party democratic league demanded that Chiang live up to his promises.

A Good Trade—Kuriles for Russia's Aid

The late President Roosevelt, always a shrewd trader, made another good deal when he exchanged the Kurile islands for Russia's entry into the Pacific war.

It is hard to say how many lives of American soldiers the Russians saved. But it is not illogical to assume that the war with Japan would have been prolonged at least one more day if the Russians had not been attacking in Manchuria.

And that one extra day of peace undoubtedly meant hundreds of lives that would have been lost were not.

The Kuriles would have been worthless to the United States, or to anyone else, except the Russians who can effectively use them for security.

The islands are very sparsely settled and are covered by volcanic mountains. They separate the Okhotsk sea from the Pacific ocean.

The Russians intend to develop trade lanes through the Okhotsk sea to give them an eastern outlet, so the Kuriles will be of some use on that score.

Those who fear Russia as a possible threat to United States' security need not be apprehensive about Russia's ownership of the islands. The islands are much farther from any United States territory than Siberia.

And it is doubtful whether the United States could ever have successfully used the islands for defense bases. They are more than 1,000 miles from Alaska, and any military force we would have maintained in the Kuriles could have been overwhelmed before help could have been sent to it.

To the south is Japan, to the north Manchuria and to the east, across the Okhotsk sea is Russia. The islands are almost completely surrounded.

The Russians, on the other hand, can build the islands into an effective barrier between Japan and Manchuria and northern Siberia. At the same time, fortification of the islands will not be as great a threat to the United States as fortification of some areas of Siberia.

All in all, Roosevelt's dealings seem to have been beneficial. The United States, nor any other nation, would have wanted the Kuriles. They can best be taken care of by the Russians, and will be little real threat to any nation's security—except to Japan.

FEPC's Death

It is a good thing to see the FEPC filibuster ended. The senate has a lot of important legislation to act on, legislation that is vital to our reconversion. But it is disheartening to see the FEPC bill die at the hands of a willful few.

Why the supporters of FEPC took no more effective action than they did to defeat the opposition is difficult to understand. There may have been logical reasons why cloture didn't succeed, but there is another trick to end filibuster which wasn't even tried this time.

Usually, during a filibuster, the other side forces the filibusterers to keep going 24 hours a day. The senate never adjourns. And the senators fighting the filibuster force the filibusterers to remain on their feet until they yield from exhaustion.

But in the FEPC fight, the senate observed its usual eight-hour day. No attempt was made to wear out the southerners who were filibustering the bill.

We can only hope that the FEPC bill is brought back—as most certainly it will be—and passed next time. The FEPC would put an end to many racial injustices which are abhorrent to our way of life.

Truman Errs on Pauley

It is difficult to understand why President Truman insists on supporting Edwin W. Pauley for undersecretary of navy. Mr. Truman must be aware that in so doing he is weakening his more important domestic program.

The president has made questionable appointments—based on political debts and personal friendship rather than qualifications—but none of them have bordered on a scandal. The Pauley nomination does, and for that reason Truman's leadership in other areas will be doubted even more.

Why Mr. Truman would want to back a man who is an almost certain loser is known only to the president. Democratic sources say there is no hope of Pauley's confirmation since the disclosures, real or fancied, by Secretary Ickes.

It would be much better for President Truman to withdraw Pauley's nomination. He should be using his influence and power to get favorable action out of congress on his domestic program—not to try to force the confirmation of a questionable appointment.

Franco and UNO

General Francisco Franco, self-styled "supreme chief, responsible only before God and history," has everything to gain in his attempt to get into the United Nations organization. Spain's acceptance into UNO would improve Franco's international position and would offset some of the dissatisfaction that is arising within Spain.

Franco's position in international dealings will always be precarious as long as he is remembered as an Axis sympathizer. He will be at a trade disadvantage, especially with countries like the United States, unless he can get into UNO.

Internally, Spain is becoming increasingly restless. There is no reason, however, for optimism about a possible revolution; the restlessness probably will never come to any open resistance. Chief criticism of Franco is aimed at his failure to settle the problem of absentee ownership of large tracts of land in northern Spain.

Realizing that Spain will never be accepted into UNO as long as he is dictator, Franco has recently talked of resigning in favor of the son of exiled King Alfonso XIII. But it is unlikely that a democratic-monarchy would be established.

Franco has never shown any love for democracy, and there is no reason to believe that he acquired any during the war. If he stepped aside in favor of a king, he undoubtedly would first make certain his henchmen were firmly entrenched. True democracy in Spain could come only through a popular uprising, or through UNO intervention.

And until a truly democratic government, rid of the Franco influence, is established in Spain, the odds are heavily against that nation getting into UNO.

Guessing President's Advisers: Strange Game of Politics

WASHINGTON—Politics is a strange game. As members of the 79th congress reassembled for the second session, their interest in President Truman's year-of-decision speech and other recent utterances was not so much in the texts as in who has been advising him and in what the president may be trying to do in the coming November elections and those of 1948.

To an unbiased observer the efforts to put the finger on President Truman's advisers are a little amusing. The boys who cover the White House day in and out and follow every pulse-beat from the executive offices tell me Mr. Truman has more "advisors" than any president they have ever known.

This may well be true. Look at the president's calling list for days on end and you will find that no chief executive, perhaps, has ever listened to more people.

The question-asking members of congress apparently have overlooked the fact that more of their own colleagues have been White House visitors than probably in any other equal time.

Five members of the cabinet, which is almost a record, are men who have had previous experience in congress. Eight of them, right or left, are solid Democrats. Four of the cabinet members are from the south, if you include Missouri's Bob Hannegan as being a southerner.

From an advisory standpoint, there isn't any reason why President Truman shouldn't have a Democratic congress strictly on his side. Geographically, there hasn't been a president closer to the "Solid South" since Tennessee's Andrew Johnson.

Add to this the fact that it was supposed to have been the southern Democrats' acceptance of Truman that won him the vice-presidential nomination at Chicago in 1944.

The total is that on the surface it's almost impossible to figure why the president has not had smoother sailing with the legislative branch than any of his predecessors. Not only is he a graduate of a Democratic congress, but he has drawn more of his cabinet staff from congress than only one or two before him have done.

Why then, after less than a year in office, is he running into such difficulties? Why are some of his own party members tossing sharper barbs (at least off-the-record) than some leading members of the opposition? Why does he feel called upon to give his former congressional colleagues a verbal going-over and appeal to the public to prod them into action on the administration's legislative program?

There are a number of answers to all three of these questions. But they all boil down to one of three things: (1) The president has his own ideas, formed with what advice he selects; (2) congress has its own ideas, based on a couple of up-coming elections; (3) the voters this summer and fall and in 1948 will have their own ideas.

That's the strange game of politics.

The Carolina parakeet is now almost extinct. It once was abundant in states from Virginia to Colorado.

A Co-ed Speaks

TO THE EDITOR:

Bob Frink, speaking for a great many of the veterans on campus (we heard their applause) gave us a good fatherly talking-to in Tuesday's Iowan. He very justifiably says that men "have difficulty in practicing their best manners on a group of women dressed as high-school girls."

A good thought, Robert, and righteously expressed. Some of us are going to cry a good deal about it. You may get snuffed at. You will certainly be written at in the Readers Forum. There will be indignant reports that you ex-servicemen have yourselves agreed that we American college girls are the most attractive in the world, and therefore you ought to be darn glad to see us in any attire.

But some of us understand your view. We applaud your motives, because little things like your letter serve to keep us on our toes. When there is over-tolerance of casual dress, it becomes too easy for us to live in our rolled-up jeans and shapeless saddle shoes. Then, when upon rare occasions we must appear trimly dressed and on heels, we find ourselves maneuvering about like crippled cranes. A little well-placed jeering is helpful.

But let us offer a qualification. We co-eds are here (and perhaps we're kidding ourselves) to study. The high-heel and silk hose attire takes a great deal of maintenance, believe us. There is also an assumption that on some days we are more engrossed in a sociology exam than a tea dance. In this connection we will fight to the last breath for our casual clothing.

However, we mean to come to an agreement with you. Your criticism of our appearance is an answer to our demands for more chivalrous treatment. Our answer is this: You must accept our right to appear in jeans and sweatshirts. But if you wince, if you shudder and can not bring yourselves to open doors for us, so be it. When we do appear in heels and hose, when we act and dress like feminine creatures, we will expect (and no doubt receive) our full quota of gallantry and politeness.

Defends Students

TO THE EDITOR:

Robert Brashares calls us "lounge lizards." I guess he hopes that by using names like that one he will stir us into some kind of action about something.

He wonders why we students are not parading and demonstrating and demonstrating like students in other nations. But parades and demonstrations are political techniques used in other countries but seldom found in the United States. We achieve our ends by different means.

Everybody's happy... Have a Coca-Cola

...the pause that refreshes brightens the trip

The pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola followed them when they went overseas. Have a Coke was a welcome greeting heard behind nearly every fighting front. Now they are headed back to the folks, the old home town and the gang. In far away lands, ice-cold Coke brought them a touch of home, and comradeship to brighten many a drab moment... just as it goes on brightening happy moments at home.

County Labor Surplus To Last Until Local Building Increases

The general surplus of labor which has existed in Johnson county for the last three months will probably continue until local construction companies are able to increase operations, according to E. E. Kline, manager of the Iowa City office of the United States employment service.

Kline revealed that there is a definite surplus in the clerical field, in some lines of construction work, and in truck driving. Only in the more skilled fields, such as auto mechanics, is there no surplus. He urged employers to list the jobs which they have open with the office.

Four hundred and fifty office calls for information and placement, 322 of them from veterans of World War II, were received during the month of January.

Of the 157 referrals to prospective employers issued, 60 resulted in job placement for the applicant. Veterans received 102 of the referrals, and 32 obtained employment.

Thirty-eight women were referred to jobs by the office and 15 were hired. Two of the nine disabled World War II veterans who were referred to employers succeeded in obtaining work.

Blue Hawks Trample West Liberty, 30-18; Title Tie Assured

By JOE SHOQUIST

WEST LIBERTY (Special)—University high's Rivermen traveled to West Liberty last night and defeated an outclassed Comet quintet, 30-18, to assure themselves of at least a tie for first place in the Eastern Iowa basketball conference.

West Branch, the only other team in the conference that could possibly share first place honors with U-high, has lost two conference games while the Rivermen have won all of theirs. Even if U-high should lose their remaining two conference games they would still be tied with West Branch for first place honors.

With the exception of the second quarter, in which the Comets hit a hot streak and scored 10 of their 18 points, the game was all U-high's.

The Rivermen displayed a smooth-working team, both on offensive and defensive play. In the second half they hit full stride and held a determined Comet team to only six points while scoring 17 themselves.

Steve Nusser and Gus Helm were tied for high honors with 10 points each. Nick Anderson followed closely with eight.

The Comets' scoring was balanced quite evenly between Janney, James and Wilson, six foot, two inch center.

U-high's reserve team also put down the Comets' second stringers, 28-23, in a game played as a preliminary to the conference tilt. The Comets rallied in the fourth quarter, but were unable to get ahead of the large margin built up by the Rivermen in the first three periods.

U-high travels to Mt. Vernon next Friday night to play one of their two remaining conference games.

Hawlets Make Fifth Place Bid Friday

City High's Little Hawks can move into a fifth place tie with Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids this weekend if the Hawlets top the Rough Riders in their battle in the Coe fieldhouse Friday night. The Little Hawks will have a record of four wins against six losses if they win.

Bob Freeman, the Hawlets' pivot man, continued to chase the league leading River Kings of Clinton star forward Dean Burridge in the individual scoring parade. He lost ground last week to both Burridge and his teammate Pete Peterson but remained firmly entrenched in his number two position.

Bob Krahl, the Hawlets' speedy little forward, moved into 11th place in the loop scoring race.

Iowa City's second team, idle last week, continued to rest in seventh place in the sophomore standings despite the efforts of Gene Hettrick who leads the youngsters in the scoring column with 118 points.

Practice has begun in earnest for the Iowa track team as they prepare for the dual meet with Chicago, in the field house, next Saturday at 1 o'clock.

This is the first opportunity for the Hawks to run full distances at top speed. Time trials were held last night and are being held again tonight.

More names have been added to the roster. They are Gerald Bloomquist, a half-miler, Paul Fagerland, weight man, who won the javelin throw at the Drake relays last year, Richard Story, pole vaulter, and Clyde Ridgeway, pole vaulter and high jumper, and Frank Tucker, hurdler.

Hawkeye Highlights

Iowa teams now have won 19 and lost 10 contests since September. For conference contests, the record is 10 wins and 8 losses. There are 11 dual contests with conference teams remaining on the winter sports schedule.

Leading Scorers

Leading scorers of Iowa athletic teams for the winter season, with track yet to open its card: basketball—Dick Ives, 151 points in 14 games; swimming—Kenny Marsh, 20 points in three meets; wrestling—Romelo Macias and Capt. Lynn Gray, 8 points in two matches.

Plan Track Trials

Tryouts in the next two days will determine the personnel of the Iowa track team for the season's opener with Chicago here Saturday afternoon. Hawkeyes now have the use of the regular eight-lap track following the removal of the basketball bleachers. Chicago, which has entered a 17-man squad, will have the advantage of experience gained in three meets. Coach George Bresnahan is working with a squad of 48 men, largest in several years.

Ramblers to Attempt Repeat Win Tonight From Greyhounds

Immaculate Conception's Greyhounds of Cedar Rapids furnish the opposition for St. Mary's Ramblers tonight in the old City high gym.

Running through practice the past two evenings, the Ramblers have been showing steady improvement. With a game tonight and another Friday, the Ramblers will probably be given a day of rest Thursday.

The Greyhounds have a team which can upset the St. Mary's Ramblers if they show the same qualities as they presented in the last meeting. However, the Greyhounds need a couple of cagers that can score often to enable them to turn close defeats into victories. In holding their opponents down to a minimum, the Greyhounds have lost or won most of their battles by small margins.

"We were all very excited and thrilled during the game and very happy with the outcome," she said. "After coming so far we would have hated to have seen them lose."

"We came now because we thought that the Purdue game would be a good one," Mrs. Wilkinson said, "and it certainly turned out that way. We just hope the team can go on and finish the rest of the season by winning their remaining games."

Racing Group Puts Ban on 8

BALTIMORE (AP)—In the severest action in its 26-year history, the Maryland racing commission ruled off for life yesterday seven jockeys and one trainer, and barred a jockey agent for one year on charges of participation in "fixing" a steeplechase race at Pimlico last Nov. 30.

All were charged with violating the commission's rule 145, dealing with corrupt practices, and had been under temporary suspension.

Chairman George P. Mahoney said the men would be barred by agreements with other racing bodies from participating in racing anywhere in the United States, Mexico and Great Britain. They will not be permitted at the tracks.

Loras Wins, 68-59

Hawkeye Track Men Drill for Saturday's Meet With Chicago

Practice has begun in earnest for the Iowa track team as they prepare for the dual meet with Chicago, in the field house, next Saturday at 1 o'clock.

This is the first opportunity for the Hawks to run full distances at top speed. Time trials were held last night and are being held again tonight.

Badger Court Jinx to Hawkeyes

Beating Wisconsin at Madison in basketball has been a rare occurrence for Iowa teams in the past. That's why the 1946 team is wary of the meeting with the ninth-place Badgers there Saturday.

Hawkeye teams lost twelve straight at Madison before breaking the string with a tremendous 68-38 triumph there in mid-February last year—the worst basketball defeat ever given to a Wisconsin team at home.

By winning the Indiana game Feb. 25, the University of Iowa can attain its 23rd straight home court basketball victory and end its second successive home season with a perfect record.

Not since March 4, 1944, when Northwestern won, 42-41, to cheat the Hawks out of a title share, has Iowa been beaten in the field house. And before that date was a string of ten triumphs in succession, so Iowa has won 32 of the last 33 games there.

Of the 22 wins, it's evenly divided between conference and non-conference games and the 32 wins in 33 games include 16 victories over Big Ten teams.

Those Hawkeyes have rolled in 2,631 points to opponents' 1,240, an average of 61.5 to 37.5. Some of the Big Ten games, however, have been close, such as 2-point wins over Illinois, Minnesota and Purdue this season and one point over Wisconsin in 1945.

Before the defeat by Northwestern in the last game of the 1944 season, the previous loss was to Ohio State March 1, 1943 in the final contest of that campaign. No non-conference team has beaten Iowa at home since the 53-51 victory of Kansas Jan. 29, 1942.

The conference victims in succession include Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin and Purdue, two each; and Michigan, Chicago and Indiana.

Helpful Badger

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Max Morris, Northwestern university's one-man game yesterday was in hot pursuit of the Big Ten basketball scoring title with a nine-game total of 147 points.

Morris, who grabbed the 1946 title with a 12-game bag of 156 points, last week amassed 49 markers in two games, including a season's single-game high of 30 against Minnesota, to pass Bob Doster of Illinois in the point-making scramble.

Official league statistics yesterday showed Morris, one of the nation's best football ends last fall, held a nine-point lead over Doster, brilliant Illinois freshman who set the scoring pace virtually from the season's start. Doster had 138 points, also in nine games.

Morris, who almost single-handedly has shoved Northwestern into the team championship picture and was responsible for the Wildcats' recent resounding upset of Notre Dame, popped in 56 field goals and 35 free throws for a six-point average of 16.3 points in his nine league games.

Aided by Morris' deadly sharp-shooting, Northwestern has averaged 63 points in its last three games, hoisting the Wildcat season average to 53.9 points, a shade behind the top average of 54.3 shared by Minnesota and seventh-place Michigan.

Illinois, out of the title race but ranked a real "spoiler," holds the defensive lead with a tight average yield of only 38.6 points.

Iowa's first-place Hawkeyes, once beaten in eight starts, are far out of the running in individual scoring. Top Hawk scorer is forward Dick Ives with only 83 points for 18th place.

Betas Tip Phi Deltas, 33-17, to Take First

Beta Theta Pi swung into third place last night pushing Phi Delta Theta into fourth with a 33-17 win in Section A of the basketball intramurals. Bill Martin shoved in 12 for the Beta's with Jack Muhrhoff and Don Weagly hitting six apiece. Bob McCoy, Neil Adamson and Bob Bentley each chalked up three points to help the Phi Delt's on their way.

Alpha Tau Omega tipped the scales to a 45-16 final score over Phi Epsilon Pi. High point men for the ATO's were Don Schnepf with 16 and Ed Eckhart with 11. Shel Strick hit eight for the Phi Eps.

In a fast game that started out to be an upset, Delta Upsilon overcame the hard fighting Delta Chi five to the tune of 42-31. At the halftime mark, the Delta Chi's were leading the DU's, 21-20. High scorer for the evening was Delta Chi Bill Hook who chalked up 17.

His teammate, Bill Robinson, sank four field goals for a total of eight markers. Larry Cole, former all-state basketball player, led the DU's with 12 with help from "Boggy" Lacina and George Keister who pushed in eight apiece.

Max Morris Takes Big Ten Scoring Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Max Morris, Northwestern university's one-man game yesterday was in hot pursuit of the Big Ten basketball scoring title with a nine-game total of 147 points.

Morris, who grabbed the 1946 title with a 12-game bag of 156 points, last week amassed 49 markers in two games, including a season's single-game high of 30 against Minnesota, to pass Bob Doster of Illinois in the point-making scramble.

Official league statistics yesterday showed Morris, one of the nation's best football ends last fall, held a nine-point lead over Doster, brilliant Illinois freshman who set the scoring pace virtually from the season's start. Doster had 138 points, also in nine games.

Morris, who almost single-handedly has shoved Northwestern into the team championship picture and was responsible for the Wildcats' recent resounding upset of Notre Dame, popped in 56 field goals and 35 free throws for a six-point average of 16.3 points in his nine league games.

Aided by Morris' deadly sharp-shooting, Northwestern has averaged 63 points in its last three games, hoisting the Wildcat season average to 53.9 points, a shade behind the top average of 54.3 shared by Minnesota and seventh-place Michigan.

Illinois, out of the title race but ranked a real "spoiler," holds the defensive lead with a tight average yield of only 38.6 points.

Iowa's first-place Hawkeyes, once beaten in eight starts, are far out of the running in individual scoring. Top Hawk scorer is forward Dick Ives with only 83 points for 18th place.

By request, here are the names of some of the latest recordings you have been hearing on your favorite transcribed programs. Hottest item this winter is the new Ellington album, "Black, Brown and Beige." The Duke really outdoes himself on this one. It's a moody, intricate work with deep social significance, highlighted by typical Ellington blues and beautifully played by his band boys.

The singing baton-wielder, Vaughn Monroe, has added still another pair of sides to his lengthy parade of hits, "You May Not Love Me" and "Just My Luck." Another highly danceable selection with a strong, romantic tug is Charlie Spivak's "Oh! What It
