Code Cracking Disclosal Hurt U. S. Defense

Officer Testifies Props Knocked From Under National Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—A naval intelligence officer said last night that disclosure of America's code-breaking secrets in the Pearl Harbor investigation has "knocked the props" from a pillar of national security.

Capt. Edwin T. Layton gave that as his opinion in response to a question from Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) at hearings of the senate-house committee investigating Japan's Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

Lucas had asked whether Layton thought the investigation would help or hinder national security.

'On Their Toes'

Layton, who was Pacific fleet intelligence officer prior to and during the war, said the disclosure in the hearings that for years the United States had been "reading" Japan's codes would put all other nations "on their toes."

If another war comes, he said, this country "will not be in the fine shape" it was as a result of the "breaking" of the codes.

And if the codes had not been broken, Layton declared, "the war would still be going on."

Earlier, Layton had told the committee that the Pearl Harbor story would have been "entirely different" if Washington had sent Hawaii copies of its decoded Japanese messages.

Capt. Edwin T. Layton told the senate-house investigating committee he was "outraged and astonished" when he learned nearly two years after the Dec. 7, 1941, attack that "we had been short-changed" on information.

Been Negligent

"Had I been negligent and not informed the fleet of something they should have known," he said, "I would have been court-martialed and probably shot—and deserved it."

Layton explained that he meant if he had been negligent after the war started. He was fleet intelligence officer throughout the war.

Before Layton testified, the committee heard Sen. Thomas C. Hart (R., Conn.) relate that as commander of the Asiatic fleet he dispersed ships for security reasons as the war threat developed.

Hart, a retired admiral, declined to "express a judgment" on the pre-war actions of Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, the Pacific fleet commander whose available battleships were all anchored in Pearl Harbor and were disabled by the Japanese raid.

Two Chicago Trains Collide at Belmont Station; 27 Injured

CHICAGO (AP)—At least 27 persons were injured last night when the Chicago & North Shore's Highwood express and a Howard street elevated line express collided at Belmont station four miles north of the loop.

Twelve of the injured were removed to Illinois Masonic hospital; seven to Columbus hospital; five to Ravenswood hospital, and three to American hospital.

Both trains were northbound and each was scheduled to stop at Belmont station. The two-car North Shore train and the six-car elevated train were filled to capacity. The last car of the Howard street express was lifted from its trucks by the impact; the Highwood train was less damaged.

A witness said one victim was removed on a stretcher covered by a white sheet, which led to a report one person was killed.

Louis Nickels, 42, guard on the Highwood express said his train was moving about 25 miles an hour when the crash occurred.

"I walked toward the doors, preparatory to opening them at the stop," Nickels said. "Suddenly there was a crash and I was hurled to the floor."

Canadians Arrest High Government Official Involved in Transmission of Atomic Secret

OTTAWA (AP)—One of the men arrested in the Canadian government's investigation into the leakage of secret and confidential information held a rank "very close" to deputy minister, it was learned last night.

As the Royal Canadian Mounted Police continued to arrest suspects and detain witnesses, it was learned that none of the suspects held deputy minister rank, the highest rank for a civil servant in the dominion, although one was almost as highly-placed.

The royal commission, conducting the inquiry, which an authoritative source said involved the transmission of atomic secrets to Russia, would not reveal the names of the suspects or their number, although it is known 22 employees or former employees of the government were arrested last Friday.

Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Mounted Police said that "as the commission goes into these matters, there are bound to be new developments and each will be investigated."

The Montreal Star said yesterday six persons were arrested there Friday in counterespionage raids.

Russia Cancels Pact For Canadian Goods; Terms Are 'Too Stiff'

OTTAWA (AP)—Contracts involving the manufacture of $24,000,000 worth of Canadian goods for Russia have been canceled because the Russians thought the terms "too stiff," it was learned yesterday.

Government sources emphasized the cancellation had "nothing whatever" to do with the current government inquiry into alleged Russian espionage activity in Canada and said the matter was a "purely business deal."

Bowles Says Truman's Wage-Price Policy Can Hold Prices Down to Present Levels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chester Bowles assured the nation yesterday that under President Truman's new wage-price policy the prices of the three essentials of life—food, shelter and clothing—can be held at about their present levels.

But he solemnly warned that co-operation of the entire nation is necessary—that the inflation boiler is dangerously near the explosion point, "with our entire economic future at stake."

Eliminate Controls
Zenas L. Potter, adviser to Bowles, told the committee OPA believes "that all controls but rents can be eliminated next year."

"If the OPA act is extended," he said, "we can decontrol ourselves out of existence. Rent control can then appropriately be transferred to other agencies or to the states."

Bowles climbed Capitol Hill to appeal to congress for a continuation of price controls, which are due to expire June 30.

Appearing for the first time in his new role as designated economic stabilizer, Bowles told the house banking committee Mr. Truman's new wage-price policy is "a program that will work" and will turn back the inflation pressures.

CHESTER W. BOWLES

He declared: "There isn't going to be any inflation. We're going to hold the price and rent line as we've held it since May, 1943,—all the speculators, lobbyists and pressure groups to the contrary notwithstanding!"

Also, he gave "notice to speculators" that he intends to use all the power at his command to prevent hoarding.

Bowles called upon congress to Church Creates 32 Cardinals

Group Includes Men From Six Continents; Largest in History

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic church yesterday created 32 new cardinals, the largest and most cosmopolitan group ever raised to the purple in 1,900 years of church history.

The new cardinals, representing 19 nations and six continents, were created at a history-making secret consistory, the first to be convened since 1940 and the first to create new princes of the church in the seven-year reign of Pope Pius XII.

Yesterday's Action
Yesterday's action, which the pontiff said he had "meditated for a long time" but had not been able to carry out because of the war, brought the membership of the sacred college to 69—one short of the maximum 70.

The new cardinals included four from the United States, seven from other parts of the western hemisphere, four from Italy, three from Spain, three from France, three from Germany, and one each from Turkish Armenia, Poland, Hungary, China, Portuguese East Africa, England, Australia and the Netherlands.

New Light

The pope told old members of the sacred college, behind guarded doors, that by the creation of the new cardinals "the universality of the church is brought under a new light, since the church does not belong to one race, to one people, to one nation, but to all peoples of the human family."

Although the pontiff's action placed Italians in the sacred college in the minority for the first time since the 14th century, Italy will still have nearly five times as many cardinals as any other nation—27 as against six for France.

Philippine Army Seeks Unrendered Japs

MANILA (AP) An entire Philippine army regiment was dispatched to Lubang Island off the mouth of Manila Bay yesterday to suppress Japanese who were reported terrorizing Filipino villagers.

Brig. Gen. Macario Peralta, Philippine army chief of staff, said that the first Tarlac regiment was landing on the island 70 miles southwest of Manila to comb the jungle for remnants of an unrendered Japanese garrison.

Numerous killings of Filipino farmers and pillaging of villages has been reported, Peralta said.

Thanks to a Memory, Stolen Car Returned

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—Normalee Miles and Shirley Gabrielson listened to the radio and heard a description of a car stolen from A. E. Laswell, of Fort Madison, Ia. Then they went out for a walk.

At the army they saw a car matching the description. The license number tallied with their memories, so they called police.

Police returned the car to Laswell and gave the two girls a reward.

Cab-Driving Vets Stop At Coxe's Hometown En Route to Capital

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—A cavalcade of cab-driving war veterans, en route to Washington, scheduled a "sleeping stop" here last night, in the home town of "General" Jacob S. Coxey.

It was "Coxey's Army" that stirred the country in 1894 by marching from Massillon to the nation's capital to bring the grievances of the unemployed to congress' attention.

The caravan, made up of about 350 war veterans, wives, sweethearts and children, left Chicago yesterday morning but was not expected here until late last night.

Robert Selogy and Fred Maughman, ex-servicemen operating the Vets' Cab company who are making arrangements for housing and feeding the caravan members, said they had a telegram stating the group was in Valparaiso, Ind., at 3 p. m.

Twenty-six-year-old Edgar Sirles, president of the American Cab Drivers Association for Discharged Veterans, said the Chicagoans seek relief from a city ordinance limiting the number of cabs to 3,000, most of them controlled by two companies.

The idea of the descent on Washington, he declared, was to put the case before the department of justice, on the ground that the control by two companies constitutes a monopoly.

Davies Hits British, U. S. Bomb Attitude

HAVANA (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, former United States ambassador to Russia, said yesterday "Russia in self-defense has every moral right to seek atomic bomb secrets through military espionage if excluded from such information by her former fighting allies."

"Such exclusion is by inference hostile," he added in an interview. "For years all major powers have maintained intelligence services whose function it is to acquire military information available in other nations."

He urged an end to what he called the "present chaotic mistrust" among the United States, Britain and Russia, warning the alternative will be a "gigantic race in armament factories and laboratories resulting in totally destructive war."

Verdict Today

FT. DODGE (AP)—The trial of Harold Nelson is expected to be completed here today and should reach the jury late in the afternoon, attorneys said after the defense rested its case yesterday.

Nelson is charged with assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury in connection with an alleged beating of James Patrick Galvin, 17.

Eight Man Committee Formed To Study Improvement Projects

By HARVEY INGHAM III
Daily Iowan City Editor

An eight man committee to list and study improvement projects needed by Iowa City was established last night by unanimous vote of representatives of civic groups and city officials.

At the meeting called by D. C. Nolan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, to find some means of coordinating the actions of different groups, representatives also voted to support the proposed $300,000 bond issue for school improvements which will come before school district voters Mar. 11 at the regular school board election.

Two members each from the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the city council and the school board will comprise the committee which will serve as coordinating board for the various civic organizations in Iowa City.

Each of the groups will list with the committee its most important project, and the committee will coordinate the plans so that each one will have the solid backing of all the civic groups when it is presented to the voters.

In order to determine what projects are most wanted by the people of the community, the Chamber of Commerce recently sent out 273 questionnaires to members of the chamber and other residents of the city.

21 Improvements
The questionnaires listed 21 proposed improvements, which were to be checked in order of their importance.

As of last night 122 of the questionnaires had been returned (See COMMITTEE, page 6)

Poll Indicates Workers Want General Strike

Board Recommends 18 Cent Wage Boost For Shipbuilders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A majority of the 50 independent unions comprising the National Federation of Telephone workers are "in favor of a strike," Joseph A. Beirne, NFTW president, said last night after an opinion poll of delegates at a Memphis, Tenn., policy-making conference.

This threat of a general telephone strike, which would involve the federation's claimed membership of 250,000, came as recommendations were made for 18 cent hourly wage increases for 680,000 workers in shipbuilding and farm machinery and as the nation's steel industry, king-pin in reconversion machinery, slowly moved toward full production.

Negotiations Deadlocked
Meanwhile negotiations continued deadlocked in the prolonged General Motors strike of 175,000 production workers.

The 18-cent increases were recommended by the shipbuilding wage stabilization conference for 650,000 shipyard workers and by a federal fact-finding board for 30,000 striking CIO employes at the International Harvester Co.

Previous to Beirne's statement on the telephone strike opinion poll, John A. Moran, president of the Federation of Long Line operators, had asserted that a nationwide strike of long-line operators, which would paralyze long distance telephone service, would be called if a long-line telephone strike in Philadelphia were not settled within 24 hours.

Submit Question
NFTW leaders said the strike question, already approved by the executive board, would be submitted to the organization's assembly for definite action either today or tomorrow. The union asks a $10 weekly wage increase, a 65-cent hourly minimum and a 40-hour week.

A telephone strike was called Jan. 13 by the executive board of the federation but was delayed 30 days for local unions to file strike notices.

At that time a labor department spokesman said legal papers necessary for government seizure of telephone systems already were drafted and Beirne stated that if the government seized the industry the strike would not be held.

In short, this was the picture:
1. G. M. conferences with the CIO United Auto workers adjourned Sunday night in Detroit with federal mediator James F. Dwey reporting little if any progress toward settlement of the 91-day dispute which has made idle 285,000 workers. Further discussion will continue today (1:30 p. m. CST).

2. The shipbuilding conference announced that government and labor representatives had approved the wage increase, which would be retroactive to last Dec. 4, but that management had opposed it. The conference announced that the proposed increase would be submitted to the national wage stabilization board for approval. There has been no strike in the industry recently but CIO and AFL unions had asked an increase of 20 and 18 cents, respectively.

3. Meanwhile, CIO United steelworkers began slowly building up heat in the huge blast furnaces of the nation's steel plants as the steel strike officially ended for 380,000 of the 750,000 strikers.

4. The settlement proposed in the Harvester dispute, which started Jan. 21 and involved 10 plants in Illinois, Indiana and New York, included a flat 10 percent wage increase to be retroactive to Nov. 1. The 18-cent figure would be effective on resumption of operations.

In Columbus, Ohio, bus and street car operators threatened to strike because they said they were not allowed to work long enough hours. A spokesman for the CIO Transport Workers union said its contract called for 104 working hours each half month, but that the company had rearranged schedules, shortening time.

Accomplishments of UNO Assembly Step Toward Peace

The United Nations organization's general assembly, whose members are the brickmasons who will lay the foundation for lasting peace, has adjourned with a sketchy but commendable outline for a new world. Quietly, without the fanfare that has accompanied the security council's deliberations, the general assembly organized, chose its officers and established committees.

they also realize that ending troublesome questions doesn't make a better world. Other questions must be dealt with. The small nations—as well as the large ones—see the committees of the general assembly as the real welders of the peace. It will be the actions of the committees such as economic and financial, social, political and security, and humanitarian and cultural which will remove the basic causes of wars.

It is too bad that the general assembly has been pushed into the background during these early days of UNO. Public understanding of what the general assembly is attempting to do is of great importance.

Fundamentally, it is the general assembly which makes the peace, while the security council is charged with preventing infractions of the peace.

In line with these two broad concepts of functions, the general assembly debated labor representation in UNO, and the small nations outvoted Russia and her adherents on the question. Also Iran was permitted to air her grievances before the security council, precipitating the Greek and Indonesian debates.

Such debates represent a step forward in world peace. And those who criticize UNO for the mistakes they believe were made by the security council are underestimating the value of the assembly.

Distrust Rears Its Ugly Head

Canadian authorities charge that some of the secrets of the atomic bomb have been illegally given to Russia. If these charges are true, the incident can not lightly be passed over. It indicates that the major nations still are unwilling to live together honestly and sincerely.

The danger is not that Russia acquired the information which will enable her to produce a weapon with which she can threaten the whole world. Sooner or later, Russia would have mastered production of the atomic bomb, anyway. That has been conceded by our own nuclear physicists.

But it is disheartening to know that the Soviet so distrusted the United States, Britain and Canada—and the United Nations organization, for that matter—that she employed the same kind of tactics against a friend that she would have used against an enemy.

Espionage is a grave crime among nations. It is a crime so grave that Russia's distrust of her Allies on this question must have gone deeper than is conducive to peace.

It is that kind of distrust that we hope to erase through UNO. Problems just as important as the atomic bomb will be laid before UNO. And trust is vital to successful settlement of them.

War Words

The American's mind has kept a dizzy pace of word absorption these past few years. The accumulation of new terms and new meanings for old designations has indeed been great, and we wonder whether some sort of a record has been set along this line in comparison to any other—say five year period—in our history.

The man on the street in daily conversations will make use of words from his vocabulary that he had never been acquainted with until a few years ago. Words he now utilizes with familiarity had no meaning to his mind until recently.

Science brought forth such terms as radar and jet propulsion and atomic energy. Military and naval tactics made familiar to us expressions like amphibious operations, spearheads, task forces, commando raids, paratroopers, blackouts and D-days. Also from the armed forces, as well as G.I. lingo, have come bazookas and buzz-bombs, kamikazes and long Toms, super-forts and PT boats, fraternization and demobilization.

Out of the home front arose words like rationing, swing shifts, victory bonds, defense plants, V-mail, dimouts, jitterbugs and zoot-suiters.

From Brisbane to Berlin to Bombay we Americans learned to use with familiarity literally thousands of formerly unheard of geographical terms. Mothers, for instance, have been heard to say, "My son was at Eniwetok" or "Yes, my boy went through the Ardennes" as though they were nearby suburbs.

Peace Effort

A remark by Henry Ford II that production efficiency in his automotive plants had dropped 34 percent from prewar levels is one more indication of the general public's reaction to the end of the tensions of wartime.

It is increasingly apparent that large numbers of persons are "tired of it all" and want a rapid return to the prewar pattern of life without the exertion of too much effort.

But hand in hand with the slump in effort will go continued shortages, harassing queues and poor housing and clothing. Even though we realize the necessity of replacing our peacetime stocks of goods and materials, we fail to achieve the industrial momentum needed to complete the task quickly and efficiently.

General Hershey has nothing to say to all this but if he is making any definite plans to leave his job or Washington, he hasn't said anything about that either.

At any rate, you would think the big, red-headed, lumbering Hoosier who has been head of selective service since its inception in 1940 would be able to sit back and take things easy in these closing months. Such is far from the case.

General Hershey has been more consistently in hot water than any top flight officer in this war. He's still there.

In spite of the fact that 100,000 boys reach age 18 every month, the inductions are running far short of the army's required 50,000 a month.

About 30,000 of the youngsters enlist in the navy or marine corps before the draft can get at them; about half of the remainder are deferred for physical disabilities or other reasons. The inductions in December dropped to about 30,000.

Regardless of problems ahead or a possible end to the whole business, the freckle-faced general can look back on one of the greatest tasks of the war well done. In spite of criticism, in spite of almost inevitable inequities, the fact remains that General Hershey's selective service raised the armed forces from virtually nothing to more than 12,000,000 men.

A professional soldier since 1911 when he joined the Indiana national guard, Hershey was "father of selective service" in more than name only. A student of the draft from World War I days, he was transferred from Hawaii to Washington in 1936 to head the joint army-navy selective service commission.

In the next three years, he laid out the plan for screening the young men of the country into the greatest military machine on record. When the draft came in 1940, the Hershey plan was ready—perhaps the only division of the armed forces that did have its plans ready for World War II.

Great Britain Sends Her Top Diplomat to United States

By BILL MACKLIN AP Newsfeatures

LONDON—When His Majesty's government has a ticklish diplomatic mission, it has a habit of turning to a Scotsman, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, and saying the British equivalent of "It's your baby."

All in the same week it assigned him to make a trip to Java to untangle difficulties between the Dutch and Indonesians and to succeed Lord Halifax in Washington.

After the Batavia job, which is nothing simple even to a veteran trouble shooter like Clark Kerr, he will become ambassador to the United States at a time when the $4,400,000,000 loan question makes an astute envoy a top necessity.

Simultaneously Sir Archibald was made a baron by King George, a promotion to the peerage that accords him the right to be called "lord" when he selects the rest of the title.

U. S. Now Top Post His appointment as ambassador was Clark Kerr's fourth since he went to Iraq in 1935. He goes to Washington—considered the top diplomatic post—from Moscow. The slim, red-faced Scot went to the U.S.S.R. in 1942 when the Russians were demanding a second front in western Europe. With Churchill, Clark Kerr helped explain the African invasion; alone he scored other diplomatic triumphs.

An amateur gardener, Clark Kerr was assigned a plot for the embassy on a collective farm outside Moscow and frequently went there with the junior staff to plant and weed. When the garden was new, the ambassador and his staff had spaded several hours and were about to depart. A grateful Russian came up and informed the ambassador that he had been spading the wrong plot.

Pipe Smoker—Pipe Player Clark Kerr tangled with vodka in Russia—served proportions just once, to be polite. Since then he has stuck to his native Scotch whisky. He drinks it with half water and, unlike most of his countrymen, likes a large chunk of ice in the glass.

Clark Kerr is an inveterate pipe smoker, which gave him a mutual interest with Stalin, who once gave the ambassador a gift of Russian tobaccos. After his next trip to England, the diplomat brought Stalin several of his favorite British pipes. Clark Kerr keeps four dozen pipes on the mantel of his suite and carries two of them with him.

Clark Kerr, who speaks seven languages, learned Russian well enough to check his interpreter. He makes a great fuss about his heritage. While minister to Sweden from 1931-35, he had three Scots on his staff who played the bagpipes at dinner parties. The ambassador, himself, practiced on the bagpipes in the garden until neighbors complained.

Not an Englishman His boyhood home was at Hamilton, southeast of Glasgow in Larkshire. He maintains a small estate in Scotland—inverchapel on Loch Eck, northwest of Glasgow Argyll county. Being a Scot, it will be as undiplomatic for Americans to refer to him as "Englishman" as it would be to call a Virginian a Yankee.

One subject is never mentioned around a Clark Kerr embassy—his age. Fifth son in the family, he was born in 1882, a date which is left out of his biographical sketch in Who's Who. But at 64, Clark Kerr is in excellent health.

Dead GI's Insurance In Jap Fund

By RALPH WALLIS AP Newsfeatures

DOWNINGTON, Pa.—Life insurance payments of an army private, killed on Luzon, may provide a Lafayette college scholarship for some Japanese student.

Parents of the slain soldier—Pvt. Robert S. Johnstone—have founded a scholarship at the Easton, Pa., institution and specified that a student from Japan be given first consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McC. Johnstone, the parents, explained that in event there is no acceptable Japanese candidate, the scholarship is to go to a Chinese, Korean or other Asiatic, or to any person intending to be a missionary in Asia.

The father said the scholarship is founded upon the $10,000 government insurance his son carried and upon additional gifts.

Private Johnstone had attended Coatesville (Pa.) high school and was a member of Lafayette's class of 1946 when he went into the service. He was killed by the Japanese in the Ipo Dam sector on Luzon last May 14.

"I established this fund because I do not think we are going to have peace by settling the war with hate and hard terms," the father said. "My wife and I are trying to do our small share by helping other people to keep the peace. Only by good will can we win out."

"I mentioned the Japanese in the scholarship terms because my son was killed by the Japanese. It would help, I think, if those people saw the light."

The father said his son was "internationally minded" and believed "the causes of most wars would be removed if better understanding could be achieved."

The Johnstones reside at Downingtown where the father is the owner of an engineering firm. They have two other children—Betty, 22, and Bruce, 16.

Chinese Break Official Silence on Attitude Toward Russia; Rap Concessions in Yalta Pact

When troops begin to move in China, it usually means decisions have been reached, policies laid down.

Troops are moving in China—or are going to, with American help. The Chinese government requested the movement of additional Chinese armies into Manchuria. General Marshall approved.

That approval, apparently, is the backbone of what looks like a firmer Chinese policy toward Russia. Two Chinese armies, the Fifth and Sixth, already are reported in Manchuria. Unofficial reports from Nanking say six more are to be taken there.

Going on the basis of a report that the Sixth is made up of 30,000 troops, this would mean that perhaps as many as 240,000 troops are to be moved in.

Jap Guerrillas That probably would be a minimum to establish order in Manchuria, where things are in such a state that one report says 8,000 Japanese still operate as guerrillas southeast of Mukden.

The reported decision to move more troops into Manchuria came out of the highly important military conference in Nanking,

University Concerts

TO THE EDITOR: Having attended the symphony concert at the Union Wednesday night, we the undersigned arrived at the following conclusions:

The raised portion of the piano-forte was plainly visible. Occasionally the violin bows were visible (on the up-stroke). Also visible were the graceful necks and peg boxes of the basses.

As a summation, we concluded that if one were fortunate enough to possess a seat in row 1 or in the balcony, he might be able to see the orchestra. We think arrangements could be made so that a future audience could see the orchestra while listening.

Clothes Again TO THE EDITOR: Brother Frink:

Do you think that etiquette consists of knowing how to chomp an artichoke—mayhap to walk upon the streetward side—or yet to spread your topcoat in the mud?

And would you say that manners are evoked by length of skirt and altitude of heel? If so, would you to boost our cultural plane concede to go about in kilts or slits?

Could we, perchance, define good manners as the normal conduct of a gentleman? Or are they like a mug of muscatel that gentlemen can take or let alone?

Quite frankly, Frink, you have me much confused. Am I to break my bread in two for slacks and once again for prewar nylon socks? If that be true, what goes for painted hose? E. K.

Emphasizing the extreme need for closer control of diseases in the Iowa City region, Dr. Boulware pointed out that almost 50 percent of the school children in Iowa City are not vaccinated for diphtheria.

Looking forward in the world of medicine, Dr. Boulware said that in the future an immunization for whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus may be administered in one shot. Polio, or infantile paralysis, should also be referred to the future, for until now the disease has defied all previous knowledge of it.

Illini Batter Badgers 72-53

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois basketball team, with Dwight (Dike) Eddleman back in the lineup after three years in the army air corps, last night went on a scoring spree in the last half to defeat Wisconsin, 72-53, in a Big Ten conference game.

It was Fred Green, another returning veteran, who paced the Illini to their easy victory as he scored 19 points, but Eddleman, who entered the game late in the first half, and Jack Smiley, one of the original "whiz" kids, also an ex-serviceman, contributed their share to Illinois' sixth Big Ten win.

Smiley scored 13 points and Eddleman, six, in 15 minutes of play. Illinois sprinted into a 14-5 lead after nine minutes of play, but Wisconsin, with Bob Cook and Bob Haarlof doing the scoring, came back to run the count to 25-23 with but four minutes of the period remaining.

Then Illinois began to click and ran the score to 33-26 in favor of the Illini at the half.

In the second half, Illinois completely outclassed the Badgers and steadily piled up the points to take the 19-point victory. The loss was the 10th for Wisconsin in 11 conference games.

For the first time in two years, Coach Doug Mills left Jack Burmaster on the bench at the start of the game, but when he did get into the fray he added six points to the Illinois total.

GASSIN' with GUS

By GUS SCHRADER

IF YOU'RE NOT INTERESTED in history, or if you'd rather forget "The Madison Incident" to keep in line with the Big Ten's new sportsmanship program, don't bother to read this stuff. . . . But if you're going to waste the next few minutes anyhow, it's just what we found scribbled on our program on the way home from the Iowa-Wisconsin game.

I'LL NEVER GROWL again about the poor sportsmanship of Iowa crowds after seeing those bloodthirsty Badger boosters in full cry. . . . Hawkeye fans usually stop with a little booing and program sailing. . . . As you must know by now, there were many among the 14,000 Saturday night that didn't stop there. . . . Worked up by what they thought was a bad referee's decision as the half ended, some rambunctious spectators spit (not spat—that's too polite) on the Iowa team members as they passed under the bleachers to the dressing room. . . .

Then there's that face-slapping incident. . . . Referee Gale Robinson really wasn't slapped, but it wasn't the fault of the irate fan who aimed a hasty backhand at him as the official bent over to confer with the timer in the second half.

NOT THAT the crowd didn't have something to yell about. . . . Saturday night's game suffered from the poorest officiating we've seen in several seasons. . . . Neither side was favored greatly by the refereeing blunders of Robinson and Jewell Young, but the game got out of hand because of several misunderstandings which made the two striped-shirt boys look silly to players and crowd alike. . . . In the first half they looted fouls at anything that even looked like a violation; and in the closing rush they missed flagrant fouls that blindmen shouldn't have overlooked. . . . Once two Badgers tackled Dick Ives, rolled him and the ball around the floor, and Young called a JUMP BALL. . . . But what good the spectators did by booing every move is more than I can see.

FUNNY WISERACKS were a dime a dozen during and after the battle. . . . When the usually calm "Bud" Foster, Wisconsin's coach, took one of his several leaps off the bench to argue with the refs, a disgruntled Badger alum (mindful of Wisconsin's 9-1 record) screamed: "Sit down, Foster—you'll be out shocking corn next season anyway." . . . ADD THIS REASON for disliking the Hawkeyes: "I hate Iowa—IT'S SO DRY!" a Wisconsin coed told Dave Danner after the game. . . . Incidentally, Badger college boys brag that Wisconsin is the only Big Ten school that serves beer in its student union.

THE IOWA TEAM called the game "the roughest in two seasons," but it took little Johnny Kashlak, sub forward, to express things. . . . "I think Wisconsin made a mistake," the Pennsylvania hotshot mused, "because they must have sent their basketball team to compete against Penn State and left their boxing team here to play us." . . . THE SHOULDER which Herb Wilkinson broke in colliding with the Badgers' Strickler was the same one he broke as a prep cager in Salt Lake City. . . . Sunday morning Herb couldn't even brush his teeth, had to use his left hand. . . . EARL SANGSTER and Ollie Bentley, two solid Iowa boosters, took advantage of the trip to the game by stocking up on Wisconsin's famous cheeses enroute home.

OUR QUOTE of the week comes from "Ole" Olsen, coach of Ohio State's second place Buckeyes, via a friend of ours we met in Chicago. . . . "I'd rather have an 8-2 record like we have," the Buckeye mentor said, "than have 8-1 and the rough schedule ahead of Iowa." . . . OKAY, OLE, but look out for Northwestern Saturday night. . . . WISCONSIN HAS pre-game and half-time ceremonies that Iowa would do well to emulate. . . . The Badgers play the national anthem BEFORE the starting lineups come out on the floor and turn off all the lights except the exit signs as the band plays a salute to a spotlight-illuminated flag. . . . Very impressive. . . . THEIR HALFTIME show was even better. . . . Two blame good gymnasts put on a hand balancing exhibition that made Iowa's shows look like small town stuff.

Rambler, Shamrock Tilt Top Prep Game In City This Week

Top cage interest in the city this week will fall on the old City high gym Wednesday night when the Irish of St. Patrick's invade the home court of the Ramblers of St. Mary's in the third meeting of the two schools this year.

The Ramblers, victors over their south side rivals in the previous games, b two and three points, are rated slight favorites on their own court. Frank Sueppel, Marian mentor, cautioned last night that the victory over St. Patrick's if it came, would be an easy one for "they've got a fighting team that doesn't stop trying."

Both teams romped through a scrimmage session last night in the final heavy work in preparation for the third installment of the city's yearly prep high-light. Tonight both coaches outlined a plan of limbering up drills designed to keep their respective teams in the best shape possible.

No lineup changes were contemplated for the battle with Cliff Kritt sending Merle Hoyer and Bob Sullivan to the front court and Bill Seemuth to the center position. Charlie Belger and Tom Hoyer will man the guard posts for the Irish.

Frank Sueppel likewise will place an experienced lineup against his cross town foes with Bill Sueppel and Andy Chukalaks teaming on the forward line with Bart Toohy at center. Jack Shrader and Eddie Rocca will start at the guards for the Ramblers.

Elsewhere in the city, University high's Blue Hawks face West Branch Friday night in the final outing of the year for the Rivermen in what will be the crucial game for them. If they win, they will claim undisputed title in the Eastern Iowa conference for the second consecutive year. If they drop the tilt, however, they will be forced to share the title with Mt. Vernon and West Branch.

City High's rejuvenated Little Hawks wait till Friday night for competition, also, when they travel to Cedar Rapids to meet Wilson high, the current cellar dwellers in the Mississippi Valley conference.

After Friday night only two teams will remain on the schedules of the city's cage teams: St. Patrick's will attempt to avenge a recent defeat at the hands of Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids Sunday afternoon and City high will meet Roosevelt the following Friday night.

Injuries Hinder Both Regular Iowa Guards; Pops Still Optimistic

Battered by Wisconsin's frustrated Badgers, but not budged from their perch atop the Big Ten, Iowa's Hawkeyes learned yesterday that they comprise the nation's No. 2 team, according to Dick Dunkel's New York rating sheet. Only New York university, conqueror of mighty Notre Dame, ranks above them.

The experts ranked the country's leading teams like this: NYU 76.9; Iowa 76.3; Ohio State 76; Northwestern 75.9; Notre Dame 75.5; Purdue 75.4; Bowling Green 75.1; Indiana 74.8; North Carolina 74.5.

But prospects for the final three-game dash toward another conference crown did not appear so bright last night as Coach Pops Harrison took stock of his squad for its vital clash at Illinois. Both of Iowa's regular guards are casualties and their performance Saturday night is listed as "doubtful."

Doctors who took x-rays of Herb Wilkinson's shoulder injury, suffered Saturday night when he collided with the Badgers' Palmer Strickler, said the all-American guard may have received a recurrence of an old break.

However, Herb worked out briefly with the squad last night and reported the injury improved since Sunday.

A Charlie horse that failed to show improvement over the weekend still sidelined reliable Ned Postels. He played only a few minutes in the Wisconsin win and may not see action against the Illini.

But all this bad news failed to dent the spirits of Coach Pops as he whipped his second and third teams through strenuous scrimmages. Far from his usual worrying form on Monday night, Pops looked on the brighter side of prospects for this weekend.

A check of scoring totals showed Dick Ives still in the lead with 160 points in 15 games. He also leads Iowa conference scorers with 92. Trailing are Herb Wilkinson with 68, Danner with 65 and Clayton Wilkinson with 60. The team has made 252 percent of its shots—roughly one field goal in each four attempts. The scoring in all games:

	G	FG	FT	TP
Ives	15	59	42	100
Wier	15	52	32	130
H. Wilkinson	15	49	31	129

Teeloxes Win 81-32; DTD's Rap Byington

The highflying Teeloxes banged the hoop from all angles last night as they completely outclassed West Lambert, 81-32. The Teeloxes, led by Dick Scheden, who scored 22 points, started slowly and at the beginning of the contest it looked as though the losing quintet might make a ball game of it. Wayne Grant was a ball of fire as he racked up 26 markers for West Lambert. Bob Gustafson was second high scorer for the winners with 18.

The Delta Tau Delta cage team had little trouble in subduing the Byington boys, 52-33. Keith Walker led the DTD's attack with 24 points.

The Behemoths staved off a last quarter rally by the Pi Kappa Alpha warriors to win, 37-25. The schedule for the week:
 Tonight—ATO vs. Phi Gam; Beta vs. Phi Ep; Delta Chi vs. Phi Delta.
 Wednesday—AKK vs. Psi Omega; Nu Sig vs. Phi Rho Sigma.
 Thursday—Behemoths vs. Byingtons; DTD vs. Teeloxes; Gables vs. Irregulars; Pi KA vs. W. Lambert.

Formal Spring Grid Practices Start Today

Spring practice for Iowa's Hawkeye gridgers will swing into action at 4 p. m. today when Dr. Eddie Anderson calls his 1946 squad together in the fieldhouse for their first formal drills. Informal practices have been going on for more than a week.

Anderson, who recently returned to Iowa as head football coach after a three year leave of absence while serving as a major in the army medical corps plans daily drills in the fieldhouse until weather permits outside sessions.

For the first few days, drills will be restricted to conditioning and work on fundamentals but Anderson hopes to get in some contact work while sessions are still being held in the fieldhouse.

Main problem in these early drills will be to acquaint the backs with Anderson's new version of the T-formation offense. One of the first mid-western coaches to adopt the "T", Anderson has promised some new variations of the system for next fall.

Approximately 50 candidates are already working out in informal sessions, including John Feistley from Port Dodge, a former all-State high school end; Dick Grenda, an outstanding back at LaPort, Ind.; Dick Laster, all-state center from Roosevelt high of Des Moines; Bob Jensen, who saw action as an end at Iowa State while a naval trainee, and Russ Benda, a back on the 1942 Iowa squad who will be shifted to a guard spot this year.

HANK'S NEW WIFE

Date of the marriage was not given. Miss Gimbel is the former wife of Edward Lasker. (AP WIREPHOTO)

State Tank Meel Saturday

Iowa Citizens will have an opportunity to see the best prep swimmers in the state in action Saturday when the state high school swimming meet takes place in the fieldhouse pool. Preliminaries are scheduled for 10 a. m. and the finals for 3 p. m.

Roosevelt high of Des Moines, the defending champion, is expected to have a rough time in their attempt to repeat, having lost three of their mainstays, Dick Maine, now at Iowa; Larrimore swimming for Yale, and Chrispin, in the navy. Their star this year is Jim Huddleston.

Other strong teams in the meet are North of Des Moines and Clinton, either of which may dethrone Roosevelt.

Student identification cards are not acceptable for the event and students wishing to see the meet will have to purchase tickets. The price of the tickets for the morning session will be 25 cents for children and half a dollar for adults. For the finals in the afternoon the tickets will cost 30 cents for children and 60 cents for adults.

Kadera's Take City Basketball Loop Title

The Kadera five wound up an undefeated season to win the trophy in the City basketball league by topping Frank's Service, 39-35, in a hard fought game last night at the Recreation center. In the other game of the evening Moose wallopped Esquire, 33-18. The first of the three scheduled games was forfeited by Westside to Press-Citizen.

Kadera's hopped off to an early lead in the initial period and the scrappy Tiffin boys closed the gap in every quarter, but failed to overtake the league leaders. Lemons was high scorer with 13 points. Lehman led the Moose to victory over Esquire, scoring 20 points while Ike Johnson led Esquire with 18 points.

Rumor Hearden at Marquette

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A member of the athletic board at Marquette university said yesterday that Lt. Cmdr. Tom Hearden, former coach at the Iowa City pre-flight school, had been interviewed as a possible successor to head football Coach Tom Stidham and that the whole thing "may be settled tomorrow" when the board meets.

"Stidham still is working for Marquette," the source said, "and I do not know that he will not be retained."

Stidham's term expires March 1. Hearden, a native of Green Bay, Wis., is stationed at the Ottumwa naval base awaiting discharge. A high school coach with a record of 51 victories, three losses and two ties during 13 seasons at Wisconsin schools. He recently signed a one-year contract as athletic director at St. Norbert's college, De Pere, Wis. However, St. Norbert's officials said they knew of the Marquette interview and would be willing to release Hearden from his contract.

Hearden was a member of Notre Dame's Rose Bowl team of 1925, later played two seasons with the Green Bay Packers and another with the Chicago Bears.

At Ottumwa, Hearden said he was "pleased and surprised" he was being considered.

'Outward Bound'— Well Balanced Play

By THE REV. FRED W. PUTNAM

In Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound," the audience at the University Theater last night found a well-balanced production of a thought-provoking play that kept them interested from the opening curtain to the last dramatic scene. The action and timing of the play was exceedingly well done in the eyes of this reviewer, which is a tribute to the direction of Prof. Vance Morton and Mr. Don Tornquist.

The last scene of the play between the two lovers who have attempted suicide dragged a bit, but its monotony must be laid at the feet of the author rather than those of Ellen Larson and Lawson Schmidt, the two who carried the parts of Ann and Henry very well.

Most of the actors had to play roles that might be called "types" and thus had to overemphasize the

COMMITTEE—

and the results tabulated as follows:

A new city hall led the list with 99 approvals. This suggestion included the sale of the present city hall for a business site, and the use of the money from the sale together with the necessary tax levy to build a new city hall with police and fire departments included.

Second on the list with 98 votes was the regular flushing and cleaning of the streets and sidewalks in the business district of Iowa City under the supervision of the city.

Returned questionnaires showed 95 votes for an immediate survey by Fire Insurance Underwriters of the city's fire fighting equipment and water supply with a public report made.

Jack Kelley, president of the school board, stated that if the school bond issue had been on the list, it might have been number one.

A petition signed by 152 school district voters was submitted to the board asking that $300,000 in bonds be sold to finance the construction of a stadium, swimming pool and women's gymnasium, and acoustical treatment at City high; and gymnasium-auditorium additions to Horace Mann, Henry Sabin and Longfellow grade schools.

H. S. Ivie, head of the city recreation committee, pointed out that the city already has funds for a municipal swimming pool, and that he believed that a new city hall would be of more benefit to the people of the city than the proposed additions to the schools.

Due to the increased cost of labor and materials, Ivie said, another bond issue may be necessary before the pool can be constructed and the voters may not want to support two pools.

Mayor Wilber J. Teeters stated that in the 50 years he has known Iowa City, the town has never kept pace with the university.

"We do not want the most beautiful city hall in the country," he said, "but we should have one that is a credit to Iowa City." The fire department must be improved and expanded, and although the police force is doing excellent work, it should be better housed.

The fire department is developer to the limit of the funds available said Mayor Teeters, and other that the addition of two new men nothing can be done without a bond issue. A survey will be made next month to show what the department needs, he said.
