Auto Workers Union Accepts GM Proposal

Nationwide Telephone Tieup Still Threatens For March 7 Deadline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The CIO auto workers on strike for 104 days at General Motors yesterday accepted with qualifications — the company's proposal of a secret ballot on the question of ending the strike.

The union's proposal to General Motors said the strikers should vote on returning to work under GM's latest 18 1/2 cent hourly increase offer or returning to work on the basis of the same offer with the proviso all issues be submitted to a president-appointed arbitrator.

Return to Work
"Our proposition," the union declared, "makes possible an immediate return to work as soon as the results are known."

The company said it would take the union's plan under consideration. Earlier General Motors turned down the union's proposal that settlement of the long dispute be left to an arbitrator.

Discuss Wage Issues
A session devoted to discussing wage issues in the telephone dispute broke up early yesterday with a union statement that the company's offer of an approximate 15 cents an hour wage increase, 3 1/2 cents less than the union's demand, "Leaves us with but one alternative, and that is to complete our arrangements for a strike."

Those idle as a result of labor disputes continued at around the $60,000 mark, with these developments: Westinghouse Electric Corporation and the (CIO) United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America renewed negotiations in an effort to end a wage dispute, which has kept 75,000 Westinghouse workers idle since Jan. 15.

Production Workers
Production workers at the J. I. Case plants in Burlington, Iowa, and Rock Island, Ill., returned to work after being on strike since Dec. 26.

The United States labor department announced an 8-day strike of Baltimore longshoremen had been settled when a 25-cent an hour wage increase was agreed upon by the AFL International Longshoremen's association and the Baltimore Steam Ship Trades association.

Will Not Sign
ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi said yesterday at a news conference that he would not sign any peace treaty which ceded Trieste to Yugoslavia.

Canada Exposes Red Spy Ring

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announced yesterday that Canada's espionage inquiry had produced evidence that Soviet and Canadian agents, operating under "direct instructions from Moscow," had formed a "network" to obtain information on American troop movements, and highly confidential wartime scientific data on the atomic bomb and radar.

Moscow sought information "as to the transfer of American troops from Europe to the United States and the Pacific" at the end of the war with Germany, data concerning a score of United States army units and details of electronic shells used by the American navy, King declared.

Col. Nicolai Zabotin, military attache of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, was declared to have been in charge of the operations in Canada, working with other members of the embassy staff and with employees of the Canadian government and a woman in the office of the United Kingdom high commissioner's office, which is Britain's counterpart of an embassy here.

The British woman and three Canadian government employees had been charged with conspiracy and violation of Canada's official secret acts, it was announced.

They were arraigned yesterday, and only one—Mrs. Emma Woikin, employed by the Canadian government—pleaded guilty. The others did not enter a plea. They faced a maximum penalty of seven years' imprisonment.

The investigation of at least nine other persons, some of them highly-placed, is continuing.

The prime minister made public an interim report of the two-man royal commission conducting the espionage inquiry. It was the first detailed announcement of the nature of the espionage activity, disclosure of which on Feb. 15 resulted in Moscow's charging the Canadian government with conducting an "unbridled anti-Soviet campaign."

The royal commission's report made these main points:

1. "The evidence establishes that a network of under-cover agents has been organized and developed for the purpose of obtaining secret and confidential information.

2. "These operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa under direct instructions from Moscow."

3. These agents and others, sometimes operating by "under-cover names," were instructed by someone in Moscow known as "The Director" to obtain the secret data.

'Oust Franco' Spain Urged

U. S. Reveals Captured Documents Exposing Spanish Dictator

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France yesterday asked the Spanish people to oust Generalissimo Franco by peaceful means, abolish his Falange party, and set up a "caretaker" government pledged to hold free elections.

The declaration stopped short of an immediate diplomatic break with the Spanish regime but said the nation faces an international cold shoulder until it gets rid of the dictator.

At the same time, the United States—which proposed the three-power statement on Spain—made public 15 documents captured in Europe, citing chapter and verse of Franco's ties with Hitler and Mussolini, and his fervent hopes that the Axis would win the war.

France's Proposals
In general, the documents revealed that Franco proposed to:

1. Seize Gibraltar, cut off the vital Mediterranean's western mouth from the Allies, insure the control of west-north Africa, and ship vital war materials to Germany and Italy exclusively, if

2. Hitler and Mussolini guaranteed Franco quantities of war supplies, armaments, planes, submarines, fuel, food and manpower.

With these conditions met, a confident Franco told the Axis leaders in 1940 that he would place Spain "in the struggle against the common enemies (the Allies)."

Other Requirements
The declaration said it was "essential" that this change-over be accompanied by:

1. Freedom for political prisoners.
2. Return to exiled Spaniards.
3. Freedom of assembly and political association.
4. Free public elections.

Stern Section of Ship Steams Toward Adak

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—Half a ship—the stern section of the broken tanker Sackett's Harbor—steamed under its own power toward Adak yesterday as the navy prepared to search for the drifting forward section somewhere southwest of Attu.

The navy reported all hands were accounted for. The report said the Sackett's Harbor broke in two during a heavy storm 650 miles from Attu and 300 southwest of Adak. She was 10 days out of Shanghai, bound for Seattle.

Plane Crash Victims Removed

Infants' Bodies Found In Twisted Debris Of American Airliner

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The bodies of two babies, so small that they were not even listed individually as passengers, were the first of 27 victims removed from the mountain-side wreckage of the nation's worst commercial airliner crash.

The infants—a two-months-old boy and an 18-month-old girl—were found crushed and burned in the twisted debris of the American Airlines passenger plane.

Hurled Away
They were hurled from their mothers' laps to become part of the "mess of flesh and metal"—as one early arrival on the scene expressed it—when the plane hit the fog-hidden peak 45 miles east of here Monday.

The remains of the infants—daughter of Mrs. R. L. McCall of Tampa, Fla., and son of Mrs. Margaret Greener of Forest City, Ark.—were brought to a San Diego mortuary.

Bodies of the mothers and the eight other women and 15 men victims were carried half a mile on litters to navy jeeps which took them two-miles farther along a bulldozed road to waiting ambulances.

Emergency Office
All were to be brought here where American Airlines—owner of the wrecked plane—was setting up an emergency office to aid authorities in investigations and other details.

A check showed that the heaviest toll recorded previously in a commercial transport crash was 25—two less than in yesterday's disaster. The 25 were killed in the crash of a Pennsylvania Central transport near Lovettsville, Va., Aug. 31, 1940.

City to Be Inspected For Fire Prevention

C of C, Insurance Agents to Sponsor Survey March 27, 28

A two-day fire prevention inspection, sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the local insurance agents' association, will be conducted in Iowa City March 27 and 28.

More than 30 firemen from all fire insurance companies operating through an employees' association of the Iowa State Fire Prevention association of Des Moines will arrive here March 26 to establish headquarters for the inspection. The city hall has been suggested as a central office.

Firemen to Help
Iowa City firemen will assist in the inspection, Fire Chief J. J. Clark said last night. Four men will be provided each day to work with the firemen. State deputy first marshals will also be on hand, according to Chief Clark.

The city-wide inspection will begin the morning of the 27th, continue that afternoon and the next morning, and end with a noon luncheon at Hotel Jefferson the 28th.

Richard E. Vernor, manager of the fire prevention department of the Western Actuarial bureau in Chicago, will be guest speaker. More than 200 Iowa City businessmen, insurance agents and firemen are expected to attend the luncheon.

Divided Into Teams
Inspectors, divided into teams of two, and assisted by Boy Scouts, will visit the city schools, churches, business districts and residential areas.

Fire drills will be held in the schools during fieldmen's visits, and a program of speakers has been suggested to inform the children of correct procedure in case of fire in the school or home. Home inspection blanks will be (See FIRE PREVENTION, page 5)

May Introduces Draft Extension Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation extending the draft law six months and making it applicable only to non-fathers under 25 years of age and over 21 was introduced yesterday by Chairman May (D, N. Y.) of the house military committee.

May earlier had told reporters he would propose a six-months extension of the draft applicable only to single men between 21 and 30, both ages inclusive. The present draft law expires May 15.

Briton Speaks On Iran Issue

LONDON (AP)—A conservative member of parliament said last night that Great Britain "cannot take the risk of South Persia and the Persian gulf falling into the hands of any power hostile to this country."

The speaker, Brigadier F. H. R. MacLean, asked whether the labor government would "leave our Soviet allies to carry—perhaps some people would say kidnap—the baby and make the whole of Persia a Soviet sphere of influence."

He asked if the government would "stand up for our own interests and take our full share in maintaining, in friendly cooperation with our allies, order and security in Persia?"
MacLean spoke after Prime Minister Attlee, opening a debate on British defense policy, told commons that Britain hopes to see "a steady reduction of armaments" throughout the world, but declared that for at least a year the country would keep more than 1,000,000 men in the armed forces. Britain has an estimated 4,000,000 men under arms at present.

Mannerheim Resigns As Finnish President

HELSINKI (AP)—Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim resigned as president of Finland last night and it generally was expected that Premier Juho K. Paasikivi would succeed the old soldier who said he was stepping down because of illness.

Until a new president is chosen, probably next week, Paasikivi will continue as acting president, a post he has held since last November.

Mannerheim's letter of resignation was read over the Finnish radio by Paasikivi. In it the 78-year-old soldier said that now that the Finnish war responsibility trial had been completed and Finland had complied with the immediate obligations of the armistice, he felt that he had fulfilled the task he took up when he was chosen president in August, 1944. Mannerheim was to have served until March, 1950.

Front Door Removed; OPA Sues Landlord

CHICAGO (AP)—Mary McGee is mighty sick of the draft whistling through her apartment, and the OPA sued yesterday to make her landlord bring back the front door.

The federal price agency said in its circuit court suit that Florence Smith, the landlady, removed the door from its hinges Feb. 23 after the tenant refused to give her a key to the apartment.
Such an open house, the OPA said, is a form of illegal eviction. Restoration of the door by injunction is sought.

Democrats Fail To Carry Bill; 161-92 Defeat

Wyatt Declares Goal Of 2,700,000 Homes Cannot Be Attained

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house rejected yesterday an administration appeal for $600,000,000 to subsidize larger production of building materials, described by President Truman as the "heart" of his housing program. The vote was 161 to 92.

Wilson W. Wyatt, housing expediter, declared the goal of 2,700,000 houses in two years could not be attained without the subsidy payments.

The president and the national democratic organization failed to hold all the Democrats in line, as some southern Democrats joined with Republicans to defeat the subsidy proposal.

Rep. Wolcott (R., Mich.) leading the opposition, said the proposal would have given Wyatt $600,000,000 to spend "as he pleases" and argued no such grant of funds should be made without some standards set on the manner it is to be expended.

Administration leaders, seeing defeat of the subsidy plan clearly threatened in advance, had sought an adjournment before the vote on this provision was taken. But their adjournment move was defeated.

As it stands now, pending further action by the house, the housing bill provides:

1. Priorities for veterans in the use of scarce building materials for homes. This would continue the government's wartime authority to use priorities and allocations in channeling scarce building materials into homes.

2. Price ceilings for new homes. Administrator to issue directives to other government agencies, including OPA. This would give Wyatt authority to tell OPA what ceilings to put on building materials.

3. Powers for the housing administrator to issue directives to other government agencies, including OPA. This would give Wyatt authority to tell OPA what ceilings to put on building materials.

Republicans are awaiting an opportunity to submit a substitute for the whole administration bill, which would omit any reference to price ceilings or subsidies.

Wyatt later issued a statement in which he said:
"If I were a veteran hunting for a home, I would be rather disheartened tonight—a bit perplexed and not a little angry. The vote against premium payments is a blow at the heart of the veterans' emergency housing program."

Red Cross Campaign For Johnson County Has $30,350 Quota

The 1946 Johnson County Red Cross fund campaign begins today with a quota of $30,350.

At the kick-off meeting last night in the Elks lodge, Lynn DeReu and Elwin Shain, co-chairmen for the drive, outlined the solicitors' duties and gave them campaign supplies.

Marvin Dale, assistant regional director from the Red Cross mid-western area office in St. Louis, Mo., keynoted the drive with the statement that the Red Cross has served, is serving and will continue to serve.

Unquenchable Desire
"There is something about Americans that gives them an unquenchable desire to serve their fellow men," said Dale. "The millions of workers for the Red Cross drive are proof of this statement."

Explaining why the Red Cross needs funds, Dale said that service is being increased to the wounded in hospitals throughout the country. He added that field workers are now being stationed in many of the veterans' hospitals.

"The Red Cross must serve the armed forces in the United States and overseas," he continued. "We must keep morale high by providing recreational activities for the many men still in service and far from their homes."

Need Money
Dale emphasized that money is needed to help veterans and their families. This includes health, welfare and claim settlement service.

"We also need to reinforce our disaster-preparedness and relief committees," declared Dale, "and (See RED CROSS, page 5)

Negro Faces First Degree Murder Charge In Connection With Killing of Man, Woman

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Joseph Luther Woolridge, chunky, 29-year-old Negro handyman in a Bloomington cafe, was charged with first degree murder yesterday in the death of Mrs. Phyllis Coleman, whose body, with that of Russell E. Koontz, was found in an abandoned stone mill last Friday.

The charge was filed by Coroner Ray Borland soon after Sheriff Albert H. Skirvin and state police had made public a confession which they said Woolridge had signed at state police headquarters in Indianapolis. Woolridge said in the confession he killed Koontz a the latter lunged at him.

Complete Details
The statement, as given out by the officers, contained complete details of the double slaying of Koontz, 43-year-old general manager of the Empire stone company of Bloomington, and 32-year-old Mrs. Coleman, chestnut haired old friend of a local creamery. Both were married and both were associated with the choir of the Clear Creek Christian church, where Koontz resigned as Sunday school superintendent recently.

Woolridge related that he stopped in the old mill while groundhog hunting last Friday afternoon and came upon Koontz and Mrs. Coleman in a compromising position.

Woolridge said that as he stood watching the couple, Koontz noticed him and told him to "scram," but he remained.

Stood on Spot
"I stood on the spot for a short time and the man asked me if I knew him," Woolridge's statement read. "I told him that I did. This man then said that I would never tell it."

Woolridge said that as he stood in the doorway, the man lunged at him.

"I ducked and at the same time I picked up a window sash weight and swung at the man and hit the man on the head as he went past me," the statement continued.

Knocked Koontz Out
The Negro's statement said the blow knocked Koontz out and that he left the man on the floor and tied up the woman. He said the woman did not resist.

He returned to Koontz, he said, and found that he was dead.
"At this point I was scared and didn't know what to do," the statement went on. "I finally decided that since the man was dead I would have to also dispose of the woman because she was a witness to the fight."

Chokes Woman
The Negro told of placing a rope around the woman's neck and choking her to death.

He dumped both bodies in a water-filled pit in the center of the mill, attempted to cover them with planks and then went home, the statement said.

Prosecutor Robert McCrea said the statement and other evidence would be submitted to a grand jury to-morrow.

To the University: Bring the Lecturers Closer to the Students

Robert St. John Thursday night said a lot of things that need to be repeated long and loud. For one thing, he pointed a finger at the peace transgressions being committed by the United States and Great Britain, and he asked the logical question: How can we expect the best from Russia when we don't give the best ourselves?

But more important of what St. John said was his encouragement for the American public to THINK for themselves instead of letting newspaper columnists and radio commentators do the thinking.

And his assertion was not an empty one. The average American is NOT doing enough of his own thinking.

St. John, himself, is contributing to the stimulation of thought by directing his remarks, as he said, "to people under 30," to the people who can be most easily influenced.

It would be a commendable act for the University of Iowa administration to take St. John's advice, and do what it can to stimulate more thinking—real, honest-to-goodness logic —on the part of its students. Classroom thinking is being guided, yes, but we aren't doing all we could to prompt earnest consideration of problems in the national and international fields.

One contribution the university could make would be to bring more men like St. John to the campus. Another contribution would be to arrange the time of visiting lecturers so that as much of it as possible can be spent with students.

The student body's contact with a lecturer should not be limited to seeing and listening along with 1,800 other persons in the union lounge. There should be more personal, direct contact.

The number of students who could talk privately, or in small groups, with a lecturer is not large. But the benefits would be immeasurably greater than they are now, despite the small number.

We urge the university to bring its fine lecturers closer to the students so that the greatest amount of good can be achieved.

Humanitarian Atoms

The first important humanitarian use of atomic energy research has been brought to light. In the midst of the world scramble for control of the atomic bomb nuclear physicists at the University of California's Crocker radiation laboratory have shown that radioactive elements can play an important role in the cure of cancer, leukemia and several other "incurable" diseases.

These scientists were actually pioneers in the building of cyclotrons and other early atomic fission work. Though their work dates from 1937, it has been curbed since 1939 by intensive research on the atomic bomb.

The new medical treatment works on the principle that radio-active elements retain their identity during bodily processes and thus may be observed and measured in previously inaccessible places. The fact that these man-made materials lose their ray-emitting strength in a known number of days permits doctors to administer them with much less danger to the patient than the use of radium, and in some cases, X-rays.

Though only the threshold has been crossed in this field, the medical use of radio-active material offers new clues in the search for the source of life.

With the welfare of mankind in mind, we ask the army and navy if they have done anything to further this sort of work. The military men control atomic energy now and are bent on retaining that power. It is of interest to them only as a weapon of destruction. If for no other reason than that it must be taken from them and put in the hands of responsible scientists.

Exactly 25 years before this latter test, in July, 1921, Brig. Gen. William Mitchell and a handful of his flying Jennies proved to the world that a battleship could be sunk by bombs from the air.

It will be well for the people of this country to evaluate the Bikini atomic bomb tests in the light of those conducted a quarter of a century ago, when a 42-year-old "flying fool" tried to make the world understand that the warfare of tomorrow would be something else again.

"Billy" Mitchell is now vindicated by acts of a congress that once brushed him off; is now honored by military men who sit in the same chairs of those generals, admirals, and cabinet members who contributed to his court martial and disgrace.

Perhaps unfortunately for the nation, there is no one individual screaming at the top of leather-lined lungs about the consequences of the Bikini atomic bomb tests as Mitchell yelled for a unified department of defense, with army, navy and air branches; for aircraft carriers; for airfields in the Aleutians.

When Bill Mitchell made his tests in 1921, he was operating under orders designed to make success of the experiment virtually impossible. Those orders were that he was not to use anything heavier than a 600-pound bomb and that the bombing planes must fly at 10,000 feet or higher when they dropped their bombs.

Mitchell violated both orders when he and his infant air force sank the German battleship Ostfriesland off the Virginia Capes. His planes carried one-ton bombs and although one of them got to the height of 11,000 feet on the previous test, most flew at a height of a mile or slightly over. Considering the antiquated planes, the lack of adequate bombsights, the fact that they had to fly their loads 60 miles off shore and dump them without the aid of modern mechanisms, the miracle is that they hit anything at all.

But the Ostfriesland went down in from four to 20 minutes. (Official reports vary that much).

Air Commodore Francis Charlton of the British navy, who was one of the observers, messaged Mitchell: "This shot will ring around the world. I am leaving for England convinced that you have shaken naval tactics to their foundation. May Lord Nelson rise from his tomb and smite me if I'm wrong." (Tomorrow: Japan, Germany and Mitchell)

Covering The Capital

By Jack Stinnett
May We Pay More Heed to Atom Tests Than We Did to Mitchell

WASHINGTON—In May, on the lonely little atoll of Bikini, halfway between the Philippines and Hawaii, an atomic bomb will be exploded over 92 ships of war.

Two months later, according to present plans of "operation crossroads," as the joint chiefs of staff have dubbed this experiment, a barge will drift into the lagoon to explode another atomic bomb among war ships at surface level.

Powers of the Security Council in the Franco Dispute

The French decision to bring their dispute with the Franco government of Spain before the security council at its next meeting raises the question of the kind of action that could be taken by the council in the matter.

Although the Spanish dispute would be handled in essentially the same manner that the council handled the disputes brought to its attention in the last session, there is evidence that the Spanish dispute may go further than any of those on record.

As in all disputes taken under consideration by the council, the French delegate will have to present his request to the secretary-general—in this case, Trygve Lie—in order to have the case listed on the council's agenda.

Important to the Spanish case is the provision of the San Francisco charter which says that parties in a dispute "shall, first of all," seek a solution by negotiation. Negotiation evidently has not been tried in this particular instance, but the council, if it takes up the problem, could direct France and Spain to negotiate. It was by directing negotiation that all of the other disputes were dismissed.

If it so desired, the council could invite Spain to sit in on the discussion of her case, despite the fact that Spain is not a member of the United Nations organization. In order to be represented, however, Spain must be invited, and if the council wanted to, it could prevent Spain from appearing.

Should the council decide that the situation was one which "is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security," the courses of action are varied. The council could instruct the nations to employ direct negotiations, or it could recommend a solution to the problem.

The council has the power to call on the members of the United Nations to sever, partially or completely, all diplomatic, economic and other relations with the Franco government, or with any nation which presents a threat to international peace. In connection with this point, the charter states: "The members of the United Nations agree to accept and carry out the decisions of the council in accordance with the provisions of the charter."

Thus, the council has the authority to literally isolate Spain from the rest of the world. In order to prevent an aggravation of the situation, the council may also call upon the members of the United Nations to employ armed force against Spain, and here, too, the nations are bound to comply. Of course, this last method would be put into operation by the international police force or army when it is established.

There is no reason to believe, at the present, that the action taken by the council will lead to armed conflict with Spain. The problem probably will be settled by other means. But the citizens of every nation should realize the power the security council has at its disposal so that those powers can be used most judiciously in the settlement of international disputes.

Our Attitude Toward Wrong Doers—

'Forgiveness for Our Enemies'

—The Christian Principle in Peace

"Taking for granted that the world is full of sinful men, what shall be the attitude of Christian people toward the wrong doer?"

In his sermon Sunday morning at the First Methodist church, Dr. L. L. Dunnington, pastor, spoke on the problem of Christian forgiveness. Only by following Christ's example of forgiving enemies as well as friends, he said, can we solve the problems of injustice, hatred and selfishness in human relations.

"God's attitude is all-forgiving; is ours? We sin over and over again," he pointed out, "yet we always come to God for forgiveness. Surely those who have the Father's loving and forgiving spirit within them can act the way God would."

Dr. Dunnington told the old parable of the Prodigal Son, who, after squandering his inheritance and reputation in a far country, decided to return home, in hopes that his father would forgive him. His father did forgive him, just as God forgives us and we must forgive others.

"When we truly understand and forgive," said Dr. Dunnington, "we start an ennobling influence sweeping down the corridors of time whose outcome only God can foresee."

"Look at Stephen. When Stephen was being tortured by the crowd, Saul of Tarsus, later to become Paul, the great missionary, was standing near and heard Stephen pray to God, 'Lay not this sin to their charge.' Soon after that Saul was converted to Christianity—and who would dare estimate the wealth of Paul's work as a missionary of Christ?"

Dr. Dunnington reminded the congregation of how the people of the United States hated the Japanese after Pearl Harbor and how shabbily the Japanese-Americans were treated in this country.

"Yet the 100th battalion—the Japanese-American G. I.'s—made the best record in the war. Despite the anti-Japanese treatment these American citizens received from Americans, those boys forgave us and became the most decorated unit in the history of the United States army."

Quoting Jesus' prayer, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," Dr. Dunnington said, "The true forgiving spirit cannot be a halfway matter. It must be all-out."

Christ didn't mean that we should condone wrong doers, Dr. Dunnington explained, but we should forgive them and give them another chance.

In closing, Dr. Dunnington told the story of "The Ballad of Judas Iscariot," in which the soul of Judas must roam the earth, as even Hell will not admit him. At last he comes upon Christ and His disciples in a cabin. When Jesus hears Judas moving outside, he goes to the door and "beckoned, smiling sweet . . ." said, "I have waited long for thee . . ."

"If Jesus could forgive Judas," ended Dr. Dunnington, "where is there a single enemy so vile that he must remain outside the pale of our forgiveness?"

Paul Mallon's News Behind the News...

WASHINGTON—The degeneration of the superior American efficiency in business into something like Europe before the dictators—where trains did not run on time, telephone service was whimsical and telegraph messages and airmail might be expected to arrive two or three days late—was observed painfully by me in my trip down through the southeastern states.

The railroads are not yet a monopoly in this country. Perhaps the people are getting from them as good service as the deficiency of materials and men will permit—or a reasonable approximation in general thereof.

Telephone Monopoly However, telephone service is a monopoly. If the citizen cannot get service on one line, he cannot walk across the street and try another. The company has a monopoly of the business; the workers have a monopoly of the work of their union.

I am not now considering the strike threat issue. I have not investigated merits or demerits of the opposing contentions. Yet your house may burn to the ground causing you great and needless loss, if fire calls are not handled promptly because of strike, negligence, inefficiency or any other reason. Deaths may be caused by delays of a few moments in ambulances, operations or blood transfusions. Robbers may make good escapes.

Communications Important All the property as well as the very life of the citizen rest heavily upon the efficiency of this single means of swift communications between people. No company and no group of workers have the right to cause damage and death among the people as a whole for any reason whether just or unjust.

To do so is a violation of every natural law of man and common decency. With the right of monopoly in business and/or work (closed shop) goes a public responsibility which cannot be ignored or avoided for any human purpose.

I was forced to muse upon these serious considerations of vital (inalienable) rights, by my minor experiences of trying to handle my comparatively unimportant business through telephone, telegraph and airmail while away from my office for a few weeks. I found the telephone and airmail wholly undependable.

Airmail Service Bad The airmail, of course, is a government monopoly and inefficiency is to be expected from past experience. But I found that airmail special delivery letters, mailed at the same time each day at the same point of origin, would arrive at their destination on schedule only one time out of three.

The other two times, the mail would be from one to two days late. I understood then why so many newspapers were complaining about late arrival of mail copy. The post office has plainly failed to recover yet from the war.

Telephoning became an idle but interesting amusement. Each occasion furnished something novel. Out of ten calls to Washington, I eventually got three through. One was prompt.

The other resulted from an hour of effort to get a supervisor, who put it through for me, after my original call and the operator's promise to "call you back in twenty minutes" both had become lost so deeply that no one around the exchange had heard of it.

Telephone Difficulties The third call in the afternoon was completed the following morning. The others never got through for reasons which are not reportable authoritatively by me, but I was told a variety of things: "There will be a delay of 30 or 40 minutes," or "your line is busy," and then a few seconds later: "It does not answer." I could never find out why it could be busy and then in a few seconds did not answer.

The only way you could get a supervisor was to work through a friendly operator on a private switchboard who could make just as loud noises as the telephone monopoly.

The sending of a telegram I found to be less of an adventure, and could be done in less than a day. In fact, I have only one complaint against the telegraph monopoly (they apparently gave my telegram to the wrong party on the phone).

Someone should think about these matters somewhere in authority. If the rights of monopolies to work these for their own interests, are to continue, the right of the public will have to be asserted and maintained above both, to assure the kind of service the public demands in its superior interests.

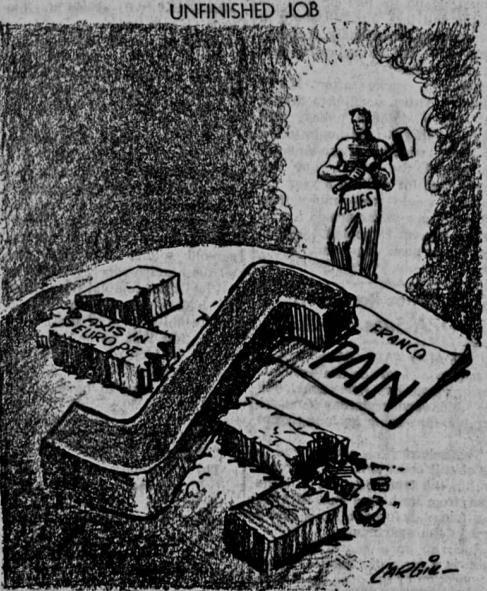

Behind the Mikes...

McGrath to Edit New Journal of Education

Scholars, Teachers To Be Contributors For New Publication

Establishment of a new publication, the Journal of General Education, was announced yesterday by President Virgil M. Hancher. The university-sponsored journal will be edited by Dean Earl McGrath of the college of liberal arts.

The publication is designed to provide a means of communication among scholars, teachers and administrators concerned with the development of general education programs for American youth.

"The widespread consideration now being given to the subject of general education and the numerous programs recently launched by educational institutions clearly indicate the need for a journal which will make the experience of one faculty group available to others generally throughout the United States," President Hancher said.

First issue of the publication, which will provide a medium for analysis, criticism and constructive planning in the field of general education, will be published in October. Succeeding numbers will be issued quarterly.

"This publication will address itself to all aspects of the subject of general education at the college, university and high school levels, as well as the relations between general education on the one hand and professional and technical education on the other," President Hancher explained.

Before Basketball Fades Into History—

THE HUGE CROWD of 14,843 fans was milling out of the Minnesota fieldhouse after Iowa's 58-47 loss Saturday night. . . In the press row a couple dozen feverish writers sweated over typewriters and box-scores. . . As a line of spectators filed to the exits past the press tables, two Minneapolis small fry noted the "Daily Iowan" and "Des Moines Register" signs which were beside our typewriter and that of Sec Taylor. . . "Darned old Iowa," the bolder brat taunted as he moved out of retaliation range, "thought you were gonna win the championship again, didn'tcha?" . . . "Yeah," the other heckler chimed in, "guess the Gophers really fixed your gang of pansies."

WE WERE too busy and too dispirited to pay much attention just then. . . The kids were partly right, though. . . We did think the Hawkeyes were going to win another title this season. . . Fact is, we said that we thought so after the 63-61 victory over the up-and-down Gophers Jan. 23. . . No one should have expected that much of a team, not even a team as great as Iowa's was last year and this. . . You just can't realize the pressure put on a ball club by being both defending champion and current league leader. . . That strain and its visible "tightening up" effect was on the Hawks up to and including the Indiana game. . . It came off with that loss, Iowa's first at home in two years, and the result was an obvious let-down in the anti-climactic game Saturday night.

BUT THEY can't call Iowa's team a bunch of pansies and be honest, not even when they're playing as listless as it was Saturday night. . . That's a great ball club, and most of its members will be back next season. . . Here's why the team looked as cold as it did in the season's finale: the campaign was over for them after the Indiana loss; before the game, the players were as much concerned about catching the train back to Iowa as they were about winning; they met a Minnesota team that was fired up for revenge and very hot for the evening.

TONY JAROS

"Remember the Record, Tony"

THE GOPHERS simply made a careless Iowa squad look bad by comparison. . . They outgassed the Hawks for rebounds, outran them with their reckless fast-passing offense, outfaked them under the basket, and made Iowa look a little foolish at times with teamwork and shooting that was downright fancy. . . They were just too blame aggressive for us. . . Don't let anyone tell you this lad Tony Jaros isn't a wonderful basketball player. . . He is. . . I'd say it's a toss-up between him and Purdue's Paul Hoffman as to which was the best opponent to play Iowa this season. . . Until five fouls (two of them somewhat questionable) forced him out at halftime, he was tremendous in his playing. . . Jaros is burly, fast and aggressive, and has one of the sweetest fakes from a pivot slot we've ever seen. . . Don't leave him off your all-Big Ten team.

HERE'RE SOME other odds and ends Gopherland: WE THOUGHT the performance of Noble Jorgensen was disgraceful Saturday night. . . Not his playing—but when he was sitting on the bench in the final minutes of the game, the officials called a technical foul against Iowa because Jorgy cursed a decision too loudly. . . A MINNESOTA heckler was riding Tony Jaros during the first half. . . "Give it to Tony," the fan screamed, "he's got 32 points to go." . . And again when Jaros got the ball: "Shoot Tony, remember the record!" . . . But Tony didn't hog the ball, and I for one was sorry that he didn't get more.

Pass the Mac—

DAVE MACMILLAN is rumored on his way out as Gopher coach. . . They either win or else at Minnesota and the alumni wolves were yelling for his scalp before he went into service in 1942. . . Now they're berating him because he has the material (allegedly) and not a title team. . . LOOKED LIKE peacetime again with Doc Stein back as Gopher athletic trainer. . . The Minnesota medicine man was head rub-man for the Seahawk team from 1942-45. . . THE IOWA game almost was an anti-climax Saturday night. . . Edison high beat DeLaSalle, 39-38, in a second sudden death overtime before the main event. . . As a result, the Hawks were delayed long enough so they almost missed their sleeper to Des Moines.

THE CROWD of 14,843 was an all-time record in the Minnesota fieldhouse. . . Actually, 14,700 is a full house there. . . THE HAWKS didn't play their usual "sliding" man-to-man defense against Minnesota, but used a straight man-to-man that was intended to keep the Gophers from shaking men loose under the bucket. . . Neither worked well. . . THE BIGGEST Iowa delegation of the season attended the game. . . Ticket men at Minnesota said 1,700 ducats were mailed to Hawkeye fans. . . DID YOU realize that Saturday night's ball game was the first in the ten best conference contests that Iowa has not had to worry about the BIG TEN title? . . . The Hawks lost out in the final game of the 1943-44 season when Northwestern's one-point victory dropped them to second place.

U High Opens District Drive At C. R. Tonight

Iowa City basketball interest will be centered on Cedar Rapids this week as three local quintets go to the post in district tournament competition at the Parlor City. Although Roosevelt high's Roughriders will act as tournament hosts, the games will be played in the spacious Coe college gym.

University high will be the first Iowa City team to see action, tangling with Monticello in a Class A game tonight, while St. Mary's riding the crest of a 14 game winning string, meets Cent-Point tomorrow night and City high goes against Wilson of Cedar Rapids on the same evening.

All remaining title contenders will be on the firing line this week, as 32 double A fives, held out of sectional play, will be turned loose with the 224 quintets that survived sectional eliminations.

Defending champion Ames, beaten only once this year, will get its first test in the quest of a second straight crown Wednesday night at Des Moines when they meet Dowling, number four team in the southwest.

Tonight's headliner will match the highly rated Harlan quintet against a threatening Perry five in a Class A game at Atlantic. At other sites, three members of last year's finalists start action when Storm Lake plays Pocahontas; Muscatine, runner-up last season, opposes Wapello, and Waverly meets West Waterloo.

Semi-finalists in the districts will move into the four sub state tournaments and the elimination process will be repeated there until 16 teams, eight in each classification, come to the Iowa fieldhouse Mar. 20 for the final round of play.

Hawks Feted By 'On Iowa'

Iowa's basketball squad enjoyed its first banquet of the season's "potatoes and gravy" circuit last night when the On Iowa club feted the players, coaches and sports-writers in Iowa City Moose club rooms.

Coach Pops Harrison and Prof. Karl Leib were the featured speakers. Several of the state's sportswriters were called upon for short speeches.

"I do not need to make alibis for this team," Coach Harrison declared, "because this season they consistently have shown the courage, ability and guts it takes to make a great basketball team."

Gene Chapman, president of the On Iowa club, was master of ceremonies. Committee men for the banquet included: Wayne Putnam, Earl Sangster, Claude Reed, Wilbur Cannon, Roland Smith, Harry Deah, Jack Liechty and Pat Beals.

Robinson, Wright Negro Stars Report

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Baseball broke a precedent of long standing yesterday when shortstop Jackie Robinson and pitcher John Wright, two Negro athletes, reported for spring training with the Montreal Royals, Brooklyn's farm club in the International league.

Before an uninterested gathering of seven spectators, Robinson and Wright went through the routine practice motions in a drill that failed to create as much excitement as a daily battle between the "Blues" and the "Greens" at Ricker university.

The two athletes reported to Bob Finch, assistant to President Branch Rickey, Robinson greeting Finch with a smile as he said, "Well, this is it."

Iowa Cagers Broke 3 Records

Iowa's 1945-46 basketball season is all over but the statistics. After the curtain fell Saturday night it was revealed that the Iowa team, although it didn't win another Big Ten crown, had smashed three records:

1) More folks watched the Hawkeyes this season than ever before. The home crowds topped 123,600 for 12 games, topping the mark of 91,200 set last year.

2) The Hawks scored 1,034 points in 18 games. This slipped the old mark by four points. The 1944-45 team scored 1,030 points.

3) The free throw record of 214, set by last season's team, also was smashed. This season's third place quintet scored 254 free throws in 18 games.

Loss of the last three games relegated the Hawks to a tie for third place with Northwestern in the final Big Ten standings. But the 8-4 record in conference play brought the three-season mark to 28 victories and eight defeats.

In non-conference action over the same period, Iowa teams won 45 of 54 games.

Dick Ives topped the individual scoring with 187 points for a 10.3 average. Others over the 100-mark were Murray Wier 153; Herb Wilkinson 151; Dave Danner 118; Noble Jorgensen 113, and Clayton Wilkinson 110. In conference games, Ives had 119; Herb 90; Danner 81; Jorgensen 78; Clayton 71, and Wier 70.

The Hawkeyes compiled their team total on 390 field goals and 254 free throws; opponents had 270 field goals and 259 free throws.

DTD's, Behemoths, PiKA's Take Games

Delta Tau Delta, Behemoths, Pi Kappa Alpha and West Lambert were the victors in three torrid battles waged last night in the intramurals held in the fieldhouse. West Lambert won their game by a forfeit from Kellogg.

It looked like it might be a toss-up at the half, for the Delt's and the Gables with the score nearly tied, 13-11 in the Delt's favor. Pouring on the heat in the second half, the DTD's forged ahead to a 41-26 win at the final gun, Keith Walker leading the charge with 16 points, Bob Berens with 12 and Bob Gaffron hitting for eight. Derrill Kilnman was high man for the losers with 12.

The irregulars nearly upset the unbeaten Behemoths but they were unable to hold their own, losing, 48-42. Creight Bryan was 'way out ahead for the winners chalking up 17 markers while Glen Oatman, Dale Fox and Bud Taylor each hit for eight. Mike Bales tried to pull the irregulars through, ringing up 11 points.

In what threatened to end in an overtime, PIKA pushed ahead by Byington to win in the last moments of the game, 18-17. Wes Demo made the crucial basket in the last minute, giving the PIKA's the one point lead which they held until the final gun. Scores at the end of the first quarter and Halftime read 3-3 and 8-8 with Byington leading at the beginning of the fourth quarter, 16-14. O. J. Lawhorn was the highest scorer for the winners, making four points, while Dave Vatt and Bob

Mermen Eye Big Ten Meet

With a highly successful dual meet season over, the Hawkeye swimmers are looking forward this week to the conference championships in Minneapolis Friday and Saturday. The Iowans won five and lost one in dual meet competition, their lone defeat coming in the season opener against Northwestern.

Four of the victories came in Big Ten meets to give the Hawkeyes a tie with Michigan for second in mythical conference standings. The fifth win was a smashing 63-21 defeat of Nebraska. The Old Gold swimmers won over Wisconsin, 53-31; Purdue, 45-39; Minnesota 43-41, and Illinois, 50-34.

Several of the Iowa swimmers have been hampered by colds during the past week but are expected to be in shape for the conference meet this weekend. Chester Cole, who has been having ear trouble the past week, and Malory Mitchell, suffering from a strained back, are other Hawkeye tankmen on the sick list.

Ohio State is rated the team to beat in the conference meet. The powerful Buckeye squad has a fairly good strength distribution with better than average times in almost every event. Michigan and Iowa rate as the strongest contenders. The Wolverines have power in the distance events and relays. Iowa is strong in the backstroke and sprints and better than average in the distance events and medley relay.

Both Michigan and Iowa have the power to pull a mild upset and slip into first place in the meet. Northwestern, Purdue and Minnesota are other teams capable of taking first places in some of the events and may nose out one of the top teams for a position among the leaders.

Herb Named Most Valuable By Hawkeyes

Herb Wilkinson, Salt Lake City, Utah, native who helped pace the University of Iowa to its first undisputed Big Ten conference basketball title last year, has been named most valuable player of the 1946 Hawkeye quintet.

Wilkinson was given the honor in a vote by his teammates and is in line for the silver basketball awarded annually by the Chicago Tribune to the most valuable player of the conference, who will be determined by a vote of coaches after each club announced its individual choice. Wilkinson, accorded all-American honors for the third straight year by Truth magazine was the number two scorer in Big Ten competition for the Hawks this year and the third ranking scorer over the 18 game route.

Herb was noted for his defensive work and as a play maker. He was given high scoring opposition forwards for defensive assignment and was responsible for the starting of the Iowa offense.

SUI President Says Quadrangle Petition Will Be Considered

A joint committee composed of four members of the University Veterans' association and three representatives of Quadrangle dormitory met with Pres. Virgil M. Hancher late yesterday to appeal for lower food prices in the Quadrangle cafeteria.

Humanities Society Hears Art Professor

Prof. George R. Kernodle of the dramatic art department discussed 16th century art before the Humanities society last night in Old Capitol senate chamber.

Developing his theme that the 16th century was the last time great art had great audiences, the speaker said that now only a relatively few people were interested in art or poetry.

"Our main hope in restoring great interest in art," he said, "is to gradually—by means of radio, recordings and art galleries—bring the arts back to the people."

Next meeting of the group will be March 25.

Here are the things you want in a GOOD JOB

If you sat down and made a list of all the advantages you'd like to find in a job, you'd wind up with something very close to what the Regular Army offers you right now. If you've never thought of an Army job that way, check over these points:

1. GOOD PAY

Most of your Army pay is clear savings. Food, shelter, clothes, medical and dental care are all provided. Insurance, amusements and other incidentals cost far less. You're way ahead of the average civilian.

2. TRAINING

It takes first-class technical training to handle the Army's modern equipment. That's why you get thorough instruction in one or more of 200 skills. The best trade schools in the world fit you for a future career.

3. TRAVEL

If you join for 3 years you can choose not only the overseas theater to which you wish to go, but also your arm or branch of service.

4. STEADY WORK

There's no uncertainty about your Army job. No lay-offs. You work eleven months a year and get twelve months' pay, with a 30-day paid vacation every year.

5. ADVANCEMENT

The new Army needs a high percentage of technical experts. If you have the ability, you can earn quick promotion to higher grades, with more pay. And there's always an opportunity for qualified men to become candidates for officers' training.

6. CARE OF DEPENDENTS

The Army pays liberal family allowances for dependents. Army service need not interfere with a happy married life.

7. THE FUTURE

Every young man who joins the Army before October 6, 1946, is entitled, under the GI Bill of Rights, to further education after discharge. After a 3-year enlistment, for example, you can have a full course in college, trade or business school, with tuition up to $500 per ordinary school year paid by the Government, as well as $65 a month for living expenses — $90 a month if you are married.

10. Family allowances for the term of enlistment for dependents of men who enlist before July 1, 1946.
